Mrs. Mason was widely known and greatly esteemed and beloved, and her demise will be greatly regretted

A NOVEL CATARRH REMEDY CURES WITHOUT DRUGS

THE HEALING VAPOR OF CATARRHOZONE LOOSENS THE COUGH, STOPS ALL DISCHARGES, PREVENTS SNEEZING.

The real danger of Catarrh lies in putting off treatment. You may have Catarrh yourself, but you may not know it. Before the disease spreads from your nose to the stomach, lungs or bronchial tubes, root it out—cure it with "Catarrhozone." Look over the following symptoms—then examine yourself:

Bad Breath	Stuffy Nostrils
Frequent Sneezing	Ears Buzzing
Watery Eyes	Hacking Cough
Bad Taste	Droppings
Raising Phlegm	Difficult Breathing

Don't continue to burden your system for another day when the germs of Catarrh are breeding disease so rapidly. Catarrhozone is an enemy to Catarrh. Get Catarrhozone to-day—inhale its soothing vapor, fill your breathing organs with its balsamic essences, and all trace of Catarrh will forever depart. Read what Elwood S. Lee, of Sydenham, Ont., says of his cure with Catarrhozone:

"I was a chronic sufferer from continuous colds in the throat and nose, and for many years have constantly had Catarrh. I was recommended to try Catarrhozone, and find that by using the Inhaler on the first touch of a cold or la grippe I am able to stay it in a few hours. I have been able to breathe through my nose freely since using Catarrhozone; in fact, I am completely cured.

"(Signed) ELWOOD S. LEE."

Once you try Catarrhozone you'll realize how indispensable it is—the large dollar size contains an indestructible hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication to last two months. Beware of the substitutor and imitators of Catarrhozone—use the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Another Children's Shelter.

Lindsay has evidently recognized the splendid work done by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society. That town has noted that our local shelter has been the means of saving thousands of little ones whose future would otherwise have been a negative proposition. Contrary, we believe, to Peterborough's practice, the Lindsay Shelter will not necessarily be under the control of the Children's Aid Society, but controlled by a committee of public spirited citizens. The Shelter would, of course, be closely associated with the work of the Society. There is no charitable work in the town which has a more important bearing upon the life of the community than the work of the Children's Aid. Should the Lindsay Shelter get as enthusiastic officers as that of the Peterborough Institution, its future is assured.

Local Holders of Stock.

The annual report for 1911 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has just arrived in Peterborough. Among those of our local citizens fortunate enough to own stock in this bank are the following: The subjoined report shows the respective number of shares held by these mentioned:—John E. Belcher, trustee, 26; Caroline M. J. Brownscombe, 12; Felix Brownscombe, 42; Mary F. Clementi, 15; W. Harold Cluxton, 36; J. D. Collins, 66; Hon. Geo. A. Cox, 4524; Annette Dover, 24; Samuel Edwards, 13; Estate late Thos. Bradburn, 68; Estate of late Thos. Dumble, Jr., 38; Estate late Hon. Robt. Hamilton, 151; Annie S. Hamilton, 18; F. D. Kerr 6; J. J. Lundy, 60; Margaret A. May, 38; John McIntyre, 14; Bishop of Peterborough for Episcopal Corporation, 109; Geo. Peters, 15; Helen S. Rogers, 13; Helen E. Smith 6; Mary Stevenson, 33; Mary G. Wood, 266.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth Wright.

There passed away at the Nicholls Hospital a well known and highly esteemed resident of Springville, in the person of Elizabeth Wright, wife of Mr. Archibald Reynolds, storekeeper of that place. The deceased who was 58 years of age, had long been a resident of this district, and her many good qualities have earned for her a host of friends who will deeply regret her death.

She is survived by her husband and a family of seven children, four sons, Joseph, 479 Bolivar street, George, 510 College street, Peterborough, Roland, of Scott., and Albert, Springville, and three daughters residing at home.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, lot 23, con. 11, Springville, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to the Fraserville cemetery.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Reputable physicians will tell you Big G is the recognized standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes—discharges from the vagina, chronic and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To appreciate it's prompt relief, Big G, one of the few safe, reliable remedies, should be used in the beginning of any case of the above troubles. Why not cure yourself? Don't be experimented on by substitutors. Big G is sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, and even then if it fails to cure, return empty bottle and the money will be refunded

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an... Bdg. made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of young inquiring people usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some (a?) at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require best sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 33 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR MONTHLY SESSION

MR. F. BARTLETT THE BOARD'S ARCHITECT FOR NEW SCHOOLS.

The Board of Education met last night. There were present Chairman John Crane, Trustees Fair, B. F. Ackerman, V. Eastwood, W. H. Hill Dr. Morrison, T. H. Adams and Dr. Burnham.

A number of accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From H. R. H. Kenner, saying that Librarian F. M. Dela Foase had donated to the Collegiate Library an Illustrated History of England in two volumes.—Received with thanks appropriately expressed.

Captain E. Clarke, of Kingston, wrote, enquiring the number of physical instructors required for the training of public school teachers for the coming year. The department propose to conduct classes, commencing after April 15th.—Referred to the Supervision Committee to report.

From the Deputy Minister of Education, giving a detailed report of the condition of our public schools.

From A. H. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, stating that the inspector had carefully investigated conditions affecting the Collegiate Institute and the gymnasium, and upon his report the question will be gone into.

In connection with the foregoing the inspectors' report on conditions at the Collegiate Institute was on the whole highly satisfactory. But he drew the Minister of Education's attention to the absence of a gymnasium under the Institute's own roof, the pupils taking their physical culture in the armouries. Dr. Pyne has written the Board of Education insisting upon being advised of a definite date by which a gymnasium will be provided for the Collegiate Institute within or actually connected with the building itself.

The Board, however, is not prepared to go to this expense for a year or two in view of past heavy expenditures on school buildings and the money required with which to erect new schools in East and West City this year. Dr. Pine had been previously advised to this effect, and the Board feel that he can be persuaded not to press for early provision for an exclusive gymnasium for the Collegiate Institute, the pupils of which are now well served in the armouries.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. F. H. Adams submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Finance Committee beg to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:

1.—Davis Thompson	$20.00
2.—The Peterboro Review	3.37
3.—P. Connal & Son	3.46
4. Trebilcock Bros.	.54
5.—Alex. Reid	4.25
6.—E. L. Payne	16.75
7. Dennistoun, Peck & Kerr	51.60
8.—Mann Lumber Co.	20.03
9.—Estate of A. McDonald	4.00
10.—Peterboro L. & P. Co.	20.25
11.—D. Belleghem	381.74
12.—C. A. J. Duranceau	10.65
13.—Peterboro Mach. Co.	3.00
14.—Peterboro Water Com.	59.06
15.—G. H. Duncan	3.15
16.—R. Fair & Co.	151.37
17.—P. Harris Co., Ltd.	31.67

The report was adopted as read.

REPORT OF SPECIAL BUILDING COMMITTEE FOR EAST AND WEST WARDS.

Dr. M. A. Morrison presented the following:

Gentlemen,—Your committee beg to report and recommend that the Agreement between the Board and Mr. Frederick Bartlett appended hereto, be adopted, and that the Chairman and Secretary be authorized to sign the same.

Your committee also recommend that Mr. T. F. Matthews be appointed Arbitrator in connection with the expropriation of a portion of the Armour Estate Property for a site for the East Ward school.

This report was adopted as read.

THE AD. CLUB BEGINS WORK

Toronto Men to Visit Peterboro on Tuesday Next

BANQUET AT HOOPER'S

Business Men of Peterborough Invited to Be Present—A Local Club Will Develop—Let There be a Large Attendance of Merchants and Others.

THE question is being asked, "What can an Ad. Club do in this here town?" It is deserving of an answer. Our local merchants and others in Peterboro' spend annually for advertising sums of money—good hard cash—varying from a few dollars up to hundreds and thousandt of dollars.

It is one thing to spend this money to purchase white space in the local newspapers. It is quite another thing to make this expenditure as profitable as it can be made. It is easier for an advertiser to purchase the space than to collect and arrange the proper matter to be in this space so that it will be seen by the people and cause the people to come and spend their money and afterwards be satisfied with their purchases, think favorably of that advertiser and come back to his store again and again, in which case, and only in this case, can the largest profit result ultimately to the advertiser.

ADVERTISERS ARE BUSY MEN.

Most of the purchasers of advertising space are exceedingly busy men. They often have not time, or think they have not time to afford the proper attention to preparing their advertising copy. These men often do not know what constitutes a good advertisement. They do not know how to put one together. Few, of course, care to admit these facts, in so far as they themselves are concerned. They go ahead. They buy their space. Then if results are not satisfactory they place a ban on advertising, [illegible] best goods within our reach at a reasonable price.

EXPENDITURES FOR ADVERTISING.

It is estimated that six hundred millions of dollars were expended last year alone in advertising. The merchants of Peterboro' probably spent a sum varying from $20,000 to $30,000, or more.

With these facts before one it is easy to understand why buyers of advertising space are anxious to learn more about the science and practice of advertising, that they may get the most profitable results from their advertising. This is why it is that such a deep interest has developed in the Ad. Club movement, which has spread throughout the cities in the United States, and now is making remarkable advances here in Ontario.

GOING IDEAS OF VALUE.

Any man of progressive ideas and business ability will reach out and accept ideas worth good hard cash to him. Many such ideas are going in the properly conducted Ad. Club. Therefore, it is anticipated that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in organizing a going Ad. Club next Tuesday night, when the local men interested in advertising and in writing advertisements will meet in Hooper's Palm Parlors, at 6.15 p.m., to partake of dinner, and to benefit from ideas that will be going, as thrown out by the prominent member of the Toronto Ad. Club, who will be present, and others, local men, who will take part in the discussions.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and about the same temperature.

WILL DEEPEN WELLAND CANAL

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—"We have decided to go ahead with the deepening of the Welland Canal, but have not decided on the route or policy," said Hon. Frank Cochrane this morning. "The Superintendent of the canal, Mr. Weller, has been relieved of his duties, and will be placed in charge of the work of mapping out the route, etc. He will be in charge until this is decided upon."

"Will there be a sum in the estimates for the deepening?"

"I could not make any statement at the present time. You want too much information."

THE CANADA LIFE MAKES NEW RECORDS

Surplus Earned and Business Accepted Largest in Company's History.

It has almost become a habit with the Canada Life to announce each year in its report that previous records have been broken. The present statement is no exception to the rule, for in several important respects the Canada Life established new records.

In the earning of surplus, that important test of successful management, the Canada Life again for the fourth year in succession earned over $1,000,000, the full amount being $1,203,597. This is greater by over $60,000 than the earnings of 1910, the hitherto banner year in this respect.

The new business accepted too, of $13,798,467 surpassed nearly half a million dollars the previous high mark. The General Manager, Mr. E. W. Cox, in his address alluded to the gratifying fact that "these increases are due almost entirely to the activities of the Canadian representatives"—the Canadian applications for $9,352,000 showing an increase as compared with 1906, the previous best on record, of $2,270,000." The General Manager announced it to be the policy of the company to encourage a steady extension of the Canadian business.

Other important features of the report indicate that the Canada Life is not only in a splendid position, but that it is steadily advancing in [illegible] strength. The rate of interest earned has improved steadily since 1899, and this is important, for of the splendid surplus earned in 1911, no less than $922,000, was due to interest earnings.

At the same time the expense ratio has been low and the mortality experienced very favorable. These are the important elements in the earning of surplus.

Since transferring its headquarters to Toronto in 1899, the Canada Life has had a notable record. Its assets at that time were $31,[illegible]000. They are now $44,257,000 an increase of $22,893,000. Adding to this the amount paid in cash to policyholders and their beneficiaries in the same period, $27,064,000 we have in round figures $50,000,000 paid or credited to policyholders in the twelve years. Such a record is one of which the management may well be proud and the importance of these payments at the very time and place where they were most needed, can hardly be over-estimated.

CATHOLIC CHURCH RAZED TO GROUND

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Sacred vessels of solid gold and rich ornaments, valued at ten thousand dollars, were destroyed when the handsome Roman Catholic church at Iberville was razed to the ground in the early hours to-day. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. The big church was valued at about $75,000, and the entire insurance amounting to $50,000, will not by any means cover the loss.

MANY MIXED MARRIAGES ON

Surprising Statistics for the Past Year in Ontario

SOME CURIOUS MATCHES

Marriages That Were Made on Earth But May Not Have Been Registered in Heaven—More to Follow, in Spite of all That Priest and Preacher Can do to Prevent Them.

WHAT mixed marriages are on the increase would appear from statistics furnished by the government Ontario, notwithstanding the efforts of the churches to prevent them. During the past year Methodists married Roman Catholics, Jews married Gentiles, and Church of England adherents allied themselves in matrimony with persons of Salvation Army persuasion.

In Peterborough Too.

In Peterborough there were an unusually large percentage of mixed marriages—that is between Protestants and Roman Catholics. In the whole Province during the year 7,351 Roman Catholics married in Ontario. Of these 1,509 married out of their own denomination. Of these, again, 665 Roman Catholic grooms married Protestant brides, and 844 Catholic women became wives of non-Catholic men. The greater number of these marriages were between Roman Catholics and members of the Anglican Church. The next denominations with which most Roman Catholic persons allied themselves were the Presbyterians, the Baptists and the Lutherans, in the order named. It is remarkable to observe that there were no marriages between Roman Catholics and members of the Salvation Army, while on the other hand two Roman Catholic grooms took unto themselves Hebrew brides and five Roman Catholic girls threw in their lot with Jewish young men.

Other Peculiar Marriages.

Two Jews married Anglicans; two [illegible] Congregationalist, [illegible] described as having no particular religious convictions. Hebrew women, apparently, had a tendency to fall in love with Anglicans, for of the seven Jewesses married out of their faith five went to Anglican and two to Roman Catholics.

Upon further investigation of the blue books it appears that 633 Presbyterian women married Anglicans, 641 married Methodists, 120 married Roman Catholics, 41 married Congregationalists, 55 married Lutherans, and 74 married persons whose religious beliefs were not set down.

Of the Methodist brides 678 took Anglican husbands, 910 took Presbyterians, 290 favored Baptists, 57 fell to Congregationalists, 83 picked Lutherans, six consented to cook for Salvation Army members, and 98 took husbands whose faith was not classified. Of these, it is said, 25 had no religion. Among the Baptist women 200 chose mates from the Anglican Church, 219 from the Presbyterians, 362 from the Methodists, 68 from Roman Catholics, 21 Congregationalists, 26 from the Lutherans, 28 from untabulated worshippers and 6 from the denominationally unattached. Fifty-seven Lutherans secured Anglican husbands, 71 Presbyterians, 78 Methodists, 85 Roman Catholics, one a Hebrew and one a Salvationist. Of the Salvation Army lassies 87

Continued on Page 8.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

HE HAD PLANNED TO MEET JUST SUCH A GLORIOUS END

"IF EVER IN ACCIDENT WITH A GIRL I WILL NEVER COME HOME ALONE."

Mr. Eldridge Stanton Kept Promise Made to His Brother—Entire Falls District in Mourning.

HE PLAYED THE GAME.

"My brother had fifty minutes in which to turn the coward. I was told," said Mr. Stanton, his voice quivering and fingers twitching. "He could have left his wife and leaped for safety, but he played the game."

"He once told me that if ever he was in an accident with a girl he would never come home without her, and he has kept his word. He got this spirit from his father."

Toronto, Feb. 6.—"I could not force myself to stay longer as the Falls than I did," said Mr. O. B. Stanton, brother of Mr. Eldridge Stanton, one of the victims of the ice bridge catastrophe, with reference to his flying journey to Niagara Falls yesterday. "I could do little and was very much averse to staying around the scene of the accident.

"The whole community over there has been affected by the tragedy," he went on, "and I believe it will take some time before they can get over the terrible feeling."

Himself quite unnerved by the accident, Mr. Stanton could not forbear expressing his appreciation of the kind manner in which he had been treated by the people at the Falls. They all seemed to take the matter keenly.

VERY SYMPATHETIC.

"The people could not do enough for me," continued Mr. Stanton. "Some were still watching the river for the bodies, while others promised to perform any duties which might be found necessary. I gave instructions to Magistrate Fraser of Niagara Falls, who is a personal friend of mine, and who saw the whole accident, to act as my representative in case of need.

"Mr. Fraser was much affected by the accident. A man in his position often sees distressing cases, but when he was talking with me about the accident, his throat swelled on several occasions and tears came into his eyes.

"Too much credit cannot be given to young Hecock, who really did not try to save himself on account of Mrs. Stanton. That boy was a real hero. The world would be better off with more of his kind.

"Imagine a lad of sixteen years standing on a cake of ice with death staring him in the face. Standing there immovable until he came within reach of a rope.

THEIR LAST HOPE GONE.

"It must have been awful for my brother and his wife, who did not reach the bridge until a few minutes later, to see this lad grasp desperately at the rope and be hauled up a short distance, only to fall back into the river again. This instance must have blasted their last hope."

"I am sorry that I could not meet the father of this boy, who arrived from Cleveland almost the same time as we got there from Toronto. I want to pay attribute to the memory of that lad. He deserves all commendation. I think I shall make a special trip to Cleveland in order to shake that father by the hand.

"Several times his companion Roth implored him to jump, but he hung back and thus lost his life. When I think of him, the Scriptural verse which reads, 'Greater love had no man than this, that he gave up his life for his friends,' comes up in my mind.

"My brother's wife must have looked like a slip of a girl as she stood down there in the river on a cake of ice beside her husband. She only weighed about 90 pounds and was not very tall."

TORONTO BIGAMIST IS GIVEN A 3-YEAR TERM

EDWARD TERRY, WHO DESERTED FIRST WIFE IN TORONTO, WAS SENTENCED AT ST. CATHARINES.

Nine Months for Another—Daniel Sayers, 65 Years Old, Separated From His First Wife, Married Housekeeper.

St. Catharines, Feb. 6.—Police Magistrate Campbell this morning disposed of two self-confessed bigamists, Edward Terry and Daniel Sayers, the former going to the penitentiary for three years, and the latter to the Central Prison for nine months.

Terry deserted his wife and family in Toronto last summer and came to this city, where he married Minnie Freeman last November. His son traced him there, and while he was in the lockup, wife number two brought him his breakfast and revealed the fact that she was married to him. That saved Terry from a trip back to Toronto on a charge of wife desertion, but it secured him his three year term in Kingston.

Sayers is a man of 65 years of age. He and his wife separated in Welland the latter going to Sault Ste Marie. Sayers then engaged a housekeeper, and some time ago he brought her to this city where they were married by Rev. Dr. Smith.

WIFE AND MOTHER WILL GO TO BELFAST WITH WIN. CHURCHILL

Mrs Cornwallis-West and Mrs. Churchill Will Be On Hand For the Big Meeting

London, Feb. 6.—First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, who will go to Belfast to-morrow for the Home Rule meeting, will be accompanied by his wife and mother, Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill.

The latest reports indicate a decided calming down of Orange feeling, and predictions are now made that Thursday's meeting will pass without untoward incidents.

CANCEL BOTH MEETINGS.

Belfast, Feb. 6.—Another danger zone has been successfully eliminated with the official announcement this afternoon that the engagement of Ulster Hall by both the Unionists and the Liberal Associations has been cancelled at the request of the heirs.

The corporation of Belfast has given an undertaking that no meeting of any sort will be permitted in Ulster Hall on February 7 or 8. This practically disposes of all active incitement to political trouble on the occasion of the Home Rule meeting at which Winston Churchill, is to speak on February 8th.

SOLDIERS ENTER SITY.

The authorities as a precautionary measure marched into the city this morning a large body of soldiers, to each of whom fifty rounds of ball cartridges have been served out.

CONSTABLE KILLED

Brockville, Feb. 6—Jeremiah Hourigan, aged about 60 years, fell from the roof of a residence on Victoria avenue this morning while shovelling snow and striking the pavement head first received injuries which resulted in death shortly afterwards. Hourigan was a well known County Constable.

MESSAGE TO HIS MAJESTY

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The following cablegram was sent to His Majesty King George last night, by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, on the occasion of His Majesty's safe return to the Imperial Capital from India:

"The Government and people of Canada humbly desire to offer their heartfelt congratulations upon Your Majesties' home-coming, and they rejoice in believing that the series of stately and splendid ungeants which have marked your Majesties' progress through India testify that the spirit of affectionate loyalty which animates the people of Canada, is shared in equal measure by our fellow subjects in those far-off lands from which, through the blessing of God, your Majesties have safely returned.

"ARTHUR."

HOCKEY

Trenton 2, Peterborough 1

In a very close and exciting game last night, the Trenton hockey team defeated Peterborough by the score of 2—1, all goals being tallied in the first half.

Although the Pets were trimmed last night, they are still winners of the round by 13 goals to 7.

If you have young children you have perhaps noticed that disorders of the stomach are their most common ailment. To correct this you will find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets excellent. They are easy and pleasant to take and mild and gentle in effect. For sale by all dealers.

ENJOY THE FRESH AIR.

If the mountain won't come to Mahomet, why don't Mahomet go to the Mountain? (Apropos of the Sunday Tobogganing question in Toronto)—From The Toronto News.

DOG FOUND ALIVE IN SHACK ON NIAGARA ICE FLOE

FLOE HAD BECOME STRANDED—STANTONS SAFE IF THEY HAD STAYED ON SECTION.

Dozen Venturesome Men Walked Over Ice Yesterday and Were Surprised to Find Famished and Shivering Dog Inside Shack.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 6.—A large collie dog was yesterday afternoon rescued off a floe on which the Stantons and young Heocok, of Cleveland, were for a time, after the ill-fated ice-bridge moved out Sunday, carrying three people to their death. The victims would probably have been rescued had they remained on this floe, which anchored off the plant of the aluminium company and remained intact throughout the period that elapsed from the time the bridge moved out.

A dozen venturesome employees of the plant ventured out on the ice yesterday in the hope of finding the victims of the tragedy. They were surprised when they opened the door of the shack to have the dog almost famished with hunger and shivering with cold, jump out and lick their hands.

Superintendent Harris, of the State Reservation, and Superintendent Jackson, of Queen Victoria Park, after a long conference yesterday afternoon, said they would shortly issue orders which hereafter would prevent anyone venturing on the ice bridge

CAT STARTED FATAL FIRE IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 6.—A cat overturned a small oil stove in an apartment house on 35th street early today, igniting its fur, and then ran wildly about the house all in flames, setting fire in half a dozen rooms. The fire cost the life of the cat's mistress Mrs. Mary McDonald, 78 years old. Another aged woman, Mrs Rose Murphy, was so severely burned that she will die. The property loss from the fire was small.

SURVIVED FIRE AND FALL

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Two women fell from a window of an old wooden building last night when the upsetting of a stove started a blaze in the attic. They fell into a snowbank in a narrow passage way and when the fire was extinguished, the firemen had to pull them up into the little attic again to get them out to the street.

One of the women, Mrs. B. Smith, was slightly burned on the hands and face, while other Mrs. M. Finn, had one side of her face scratched.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents

A MEAN ATTACK.

Editor Morning Times,

Sir,—I notice a writer in The Examiner who signs himself "Equal Rights", has seen fit to attack Col. Miller because of the fact that he was asked to accept 500 copies of Hansard and deliver them to certain people. There is nothing improper in this. The statement that these papers were left in the Division Court office, of which Col. Miller is the clerk, is not, I believe, true. They were delivered at the shoe store of which Mr. Miller's son is proprietor, and it is therefore nobody's business but Mr. Miller's.

The fact is, the party who wrote the letter does not like to have the public read what really took place when the Lancaster Bill was before the House, and is therefore, showing his displeasure by making statements which are totally untrue. I fear "Equal Rights" is a wolf in disguise.

—Honesty.

A DOG SUGGESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I hope you will not think I am trying to crowd too much about the dog question into your valuable paper. I have seen a good many letters on this subject and would like to add one more. Mr. Editor, this is a most serious question. If the dogs of this city are not thinned out we are morally and practically certain to have an epidemic of that awful disease hydrophobia. With all the

Continued on Page 8.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

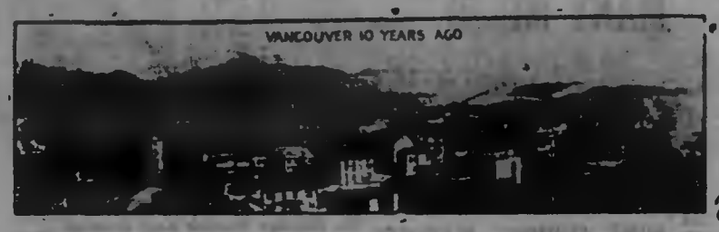
Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security



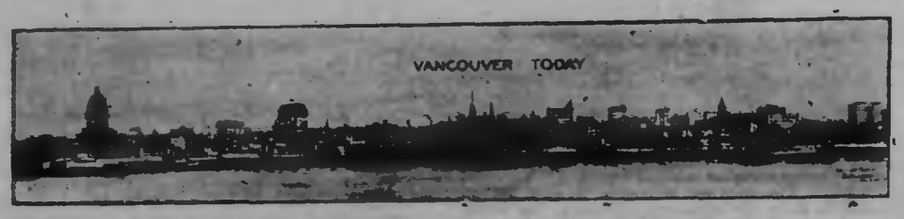
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organised recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON, Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard," of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Torrens Title 1-5 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Part Subdivision
313 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

"BROWNIE'S" PRINCESS

By Shell Barry

The clock in the outer office had just struck nine when "Brownie" tripped into the chief's room with the keys. The great man looked up at him with a genial expression softening the usually severe lines of his face. Observant and far-seeing, almost to the point of genius, he knew — none better — that in the person of Philip Dodson the firm of Gates Bros., wholesale hardware merchants, Wingate Street, S.E., possessed a jewel of a cashier.

He was also well liked, for laughter was no stranger to the shining brown eyes, and the little, dun-coloured hands were quick to do a kindly service.

"One moment, Dodson! You will re-commence your duties on Monday next, at an increase of salary amounting to five shillings per week! and I should like to add what, I think, you will not be displeased to hear, that your services up to the present have given us the fullest satisfaction."

"Thank you, sir."

The cashier's voice was not quite steady. The chief nodded kindly, and pushed a small white package — one of many at his elbow — towards him.

"A trifle you will no doubt be able to make use of," he observed genially. "Something pretty for the wife, eh? and — or, I beg your pardon!"

A quick flush had dyed the thin cheeks of the little cashier, and his head moved negatively several times.

"I'm sorry," supplemented the chief apologetically. "But I was certainly under the impression that you were a married man, Dodson."

"No, sir, not yet — at least ——"

"Ah! I understand. Selected, but not yet acquired, eh? Well — hum! I wish you luck, Dodson, a happy Christmas, and — good-night!"

"Good-night, sir; and the same to you."

At the corner of the street, "Brownie" overtook a fellow-clerk—a big, bulking man, with heavy features and a sullen expression.

"Going down by this train, Bob?" he queried briskly.

The big man nodded, and the pair walked on, side by side.

"Not half a bad sort — the boss," he said warmly. "What do you think? He's raised me five bob!"

"Humph!" commented the big man, "Besides the usual half-quid for a Christmas Box," went on the other cheerfully; "I call it liberal!"

"Do you?" Mr. Robert Dredge was emphatic. "A mere flea-bite!"

The little cashier rushed breathlessly on to the station-platform just as Dredge was in the act of entering an empty third-class compartment, and scrambled in behind him.

"Look!" invited the little man, twisting the paper wrapping off a gaudily-coloured china vase, in the shape of a Neapolitan shepherdess, and holding it aloft. "That's rather pretty, don't you think?"

"Bob, old fellow," he communicated shyly, "there's something I've got to tell you. I—I've found my woman!"

"Well, I suppose that's better than finding somebody else's!" he vouchsafed grimly.

"I pulled her out from under a cab-horse's feet," went on "Brownie" quietly. "Of course I walked with her as far as the corner of the street, and there I left her. The following evening, I met her again at almost exactly the same spot. We walked the length of two streets this time, and the next night it was three. Then for two nights I missed her; but she came the next, and I got her to promise she'd meet me at the station this evening."

"And that's all, I think, except that I've named her 'the Princess,' and that I feel sure we were meant for each other from the beginning of things. She's very sweet and small, Bob, old man — and good. Oh, I know she's good! But scarcely so happy as she might be, I fancy."

"Chuck it, 'Brownie'!" he said with a short laugh, "you don't know anything about women, and that's a fact. You think they're first cousins to the angels. Wait till you've lived with one."

"By-the-by, Bob, you've been spliced a little over a year, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"And I've never met your wife!"

"Your fault," retorted the other, "I'm under the impression that I wrote, inviting you to the wedding."

"Right; and I stayed away. Shall I tell you why? You remember that girl from Snelgrove's that we used to travel down with every night in the train — the one we — or — quarrelled about? And that other one later on we met at Yarmouth during the holidays. Somehow or other we have always seemed to want the same things, haven't we? And I was awfully afraid to fall in love with the same woman, so—— Don't you understand?"

A minute later the pair stood side by side on the crowded platform.

Presently Dredge, whose weight had carried him on ahead, halted suddenly in front of a woman, conspicuously pretty and becomingly dressed, who was scanning the stream of passengers moving towards the exit with eager eyes.

"Why, Mary!"

The big man did not seem altogether pleased, and the woman — a small, frail creature — took a step backwards, her eyes dilating as if with fear.

"At last, Bob, old man! What a terrible crush! Oh, for a burly form and muscles of—— Why, what—oh!..."

The words died on the little cashier's tongue, as his eyes suddenly encountered those of the woman. Dredge stepped forward hastily.

"Allow me," he said, "to introduce you to my wife!"

The Neapolitan shepherdess crashed on the stone paving.

"Your—wife——"

"Brownie" had met his "Princess" according to appointment.

"I can't tell her she is the first girl I ever loved. She knows I've been engaged before."

"Well, tell her your're glad you discovered your mistake in time."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

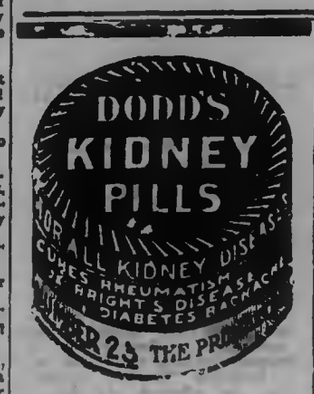
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

143 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:

1. The construction of one set of Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ered at Sorel.

2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivto be delivered at Sorel.

3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.

4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered ot Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contractwith the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers insertiug this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at house, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department

PAMPERED CRIMINALS.

The new prison-hotel system which is being adopted in Europe for habitual offenders will do much to remove the charge that such members of society have been neglected. Under the new regime these prison-hotels are built in carefully selected and well wooded spots, which have also some advantages from a scenic point of view.

The habitual criminal gets the hospitality of the place for an indefinite period, which may not exceed ten years. Every facility is given for that social intercourse which does so much to make life endurable. The prisoners have meals together in an association hall. There will be a canteen, at which those who have not misbehaved themselves will be allowed to purchase what little luxuries are not provided on the ordinary menu of the establishment, and the long winter evenings will be beguiled with various recreations in the association hall. As for the bedroom accommodation, all has been done that the most solicitous care for the well-being of the inhabitants could dictate. It is well known that hotel patrons do not like to lodge in fourth or fifth storey rooms, so the prison blocks are handsome buildings of two storeys each. The cells are well lighted and carefully ventilated. Their internal arrangement is comfortable, and their decoration adequate, without being gaudy. The depressing square hole through which the ordinary prison cell receives its light is replaced by a charming cottage window frame, which the prisoners can open or close at their will. A steel grid is placed on the other side of each window in order that the seclusion of the convicts may not be destroyed by the envious honest outside trying to force their way into the prison. A large staff of servants, including a librarian, will be employed. In order that the prisoners may be able to obtain that reasonable amount of outdoor physical exercise that is necessary for health, a large area of the forest land will be cleared, and teachers will be provided from whom they may obtain knowledge of agriculture, horticulture and various skilled trades.

Thus, this new enterprise on the part of humane government provides for the happiest possible solution of the anxious problem: "What shall we do with our boys?" No calling offers such glorious prospects as the various branches of the criminal profession, in which failure, involving accommodation for an indefinite term in a prison-hotel, is only a trifle less desirable than success.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

What was your hesitation? Is it because he's a circus man? He was educated to be an officer and a gentleman; and though he has gone down in the world, and had to drop the officer, I don't think you would find that he has dropped the gentleman too. I don't think you were a snob, Elsa."

Steady, steady, young man! She deserves it perhaps, but your defence of your class is making you brutal. And remember she is the girl you love and would marry!

"Shall we talk of something else?" said the girl quietly. And a minute later they passed in through the turnstiles of the circus building.

Val B. Montague's American Circus Combination was advertised as a constellation of stars; but the brilliance of the individual stars was not very dazzling. Scarborough and Elsa sat through a conventional exhibition of flying trapeze work, which was not quite so daring as it looked; the wit of the Neapolitan clown who mocked verbal [illegible] a heavy-faced, sullen-looking ringmaster (who answered [illegible] Scarborough knew Spanish, or Anglo-American French imparting), was under the circumstances somewhat unin[illegible] Japanese juggler was clever, but rather belied his professional cognomen of the Marquis Qui-Quis by swearing in unmistakeable Cockney at a clumsy assistant who spoiled one of his best tricks; and the performing mule, for this occasion, refused to perform anything—possibly to prove, beyond all chance of doubt, that he really was a mule. On the whole, therefore, Scarborough voted the show a dull one, and wondered whether Elsa was enjoying it.

It seemed that she was. For she was leaning forward with her hands grasping the rail in front of her; her eyes followed each movement with a strained attention, and she did not hear Scarborough when he spoke to her.

Val B. Montague, a typical Yankee, in the frock coat and top hat of piccadilly, came into the ring and made a speech—employing for the purpose a wonderful language, whose basis was South American Spanish, with Portuguese inflections grafted on to it to suit the local requirements. But he was understood, and the gist of his announcement was that Mademoiselle Mona de la Mar—"the most talented, beautiful, daring, etc., etc.," would now have the honor of appearing before this most distinguished audience.

Val B. Montague retired, and Mademoiselle Mona cantered into the ring.

She was a pretty brunette, in an English hunting habit, and she rode as though she did it for pleasure. It was not circus trick-riding; there was [illegible] platform, strapped on to the back of a steady [illegible] she sat quietly on her saddle, and made a big, bad-tempered hunter do what he didn't want to do. It was a straightforward exhibition of plucky riding by a daring horsewoman; and, except that for the last jump she took off the saddle and rode bare-backed, it might all have been done over a hunting country at home.

"Where," said Scarborough, "I expect she has done it. She rides magnificently; but she didn't learn in a circus-school."

"Do you think she is English, then?" asked Elsa.

"Certain. That was English riding, by an English girl, who has hunted English country. Looks like a lady, too."

Elsa nodded. She too thought that Mona de la Mar was a lady—and more than that, she thought that her face seemed curiously familiar, though she could not remember where it was that she had seen that determined mouth, and those quick, rather roguish eyes before. For the next half hour she struggled in vain to find the missing link of memory; and then the last turn was announced—Pampas Joe, the English Cowboy and Revolver King.

"By Jove! It is old Phil!" exclaimed Scarborough, as a short, somewhat thick-set young Englishman strolled into the centre and began to shoot.

Elsa lay back in her seat, and fanned herself with her programme. She, too, recognized that good-humored, ugly face; and at the same moment she remembered where it was that she had seen Mona de la Mar before. She touched Scarborough on the arm.

"I am going now," she said. "But you want to speak to your friend."

Scarborough rose at once.

"I will see you home first," he said. "I'm not on duty to-night, so I'll ride back to see him this evening. Unless," he added, questioningly, "you have changed your mind, and will stay now till I bring him to be introduced to you?"

Elsa shook her head.

"No," she said, but you must stay. I shall easily get home before dark, and I would rather go alone."

He protested, but she insisted. And, as usual, she had her way.

She rode off alone, and ten minutes later Scarborough was shaking hands with his old chum, Phil Varney, alias Pampas Joe, in the circus green-room.

"Who'd have thought of meeting you here, old man?" said the Revolver King. "I saw you from the ring, and I saw who you were with. That was another surprise."

"You know Miss Page?" asked Scarborough, with astonishment.

"No. But I know the girl who was with you."

"Yes, Miss Page."

"She calls herself that, does she?" said Phil Varney with a grin. "I knew her as Elsa Carrington, the daughter of the man who ruined my poor old governor.

CHAPTER V.

Val B. Montague's Right Hand Man

"Steady, Phil!" said Scarborough, incredulously. "Don't fling accusations about in that reckless way. It's not, you know."

"I can prove it," said Varney.

"That Miss Page is the daughter of the man who ruined your father? Oh, come! you don't know her, or you would see that it's nonsense. Hurry up and get into ordinary clothes, and we'll have dinner somewhere. I want to hear what you've been doing for the last two years."

Miss Page the daughter of Richmond Carrington, the notorious financier manipulator, whose name was cursed in thousands of the poorer homes of England—the idea was absurd! Scarborough was not even angry at the suggestion; it was too ridiculous for that. He went with Varney to his dressing-room, and waited for him to change.

The English Cowboy divested himself of the leathern jacket and fringed trousers, in which custom decreed that the character which he represented should be dressed, and was donning in its place the mufti of plain blue serge, when there was a sharp bang on the door, and the manager entered.

"Mr. Varney, sir!" said Val B. Montague, as he held out his hand to Scarborough, without waiting for the formality of an introduction—"this show is going to the devil!"

"Oh? More so than usual? asked Phil Varney carelessly. "Horace, this is our proprietor, Mr. Val B. Montague—Montague, Mr. Horace Scarborough; old friend of mine."

"Proud to meet you, sir. More so than usual, d'ye ask, Mr. Varney? Well, may be no; but things are approaching a crisis."

"Anything fresh? Or the same row continued?"

"The same row coming to a head, sir! The canker in the rosebud is working its way to the outer leaves, and is beginning to be visible to the public; the malignant boil is becoming acute, and developing a head, which will have to burst; the hidden rottenness is refusing to remain hidden any longer, and the fair flower of our corporate amity is withering, sir, withering! Before we leave this place I expect to witness the premature decay and death of an organism which I have nursed like a father—yes, sir, like a father—for two long years. Val B. Montague's American Circus Combination is breaking up, sir! Excuse my metaphors," he added, without a pause, turning to Scarborough. "When I am excited the sanguineness of my temperament invariably clothes my utterances in poetic imagery, as Mr. Varney will be good enough to tell you. And, by heaven, sir, I am excited now!"

He sat down on the edge of the packing-case and chewed a straw reflectively. He did not look excited, and there was a humorous twinkle in his eyes which suggested that he was not so angry as he pretended. Varney laughed, and continued the process of settling the angles of his tie before a fragment of mirror.

"And the worst of it is, sir," continued the self-styled master of metaphor to Scarborough, "that I have been hugging a serpent to my bosom. Your friend there—Pampas Joe, the English Revolver King—is no longer loyal to his salt."

"What have you been doing, Phil?" asked Scarborough, smiling.

"What has he been doing?" thundered Val B. Montague, in the same voice of excitement, and with the same placid manner and twinkling eye, belying the vehemence of his words. "He has been fomenting rebellion! He has bitten the hand that fed him! He has—well, in short, you had better get him to tell you what he has been doing. I am busy, and must go."

He got down from the packing-case and opened the door. As he was going out, he turned, and said in quite a different tone—a tone in which there was a note of real worry.

"By the way, Varney, I've settled to fire out the ringmaster. It was that I came to tell you."

Varney nodded. "I think you're right," he said gravely. "It's one or the other."

"It is so, sir, unless we want murder to be done. The clown is really the worse, but I can't replace him, so the ringmaster must go. Unless," he added, turning suddenly to Scarborough, "by some lucky chance I could find another clown. Can you clown, sir?"

"Not sufficiently well to be of use to you," said Scarborough, laughing.

"No, it's harder than it looks. That's why good clowns are scarce—and dear, very dear, let me tell you. Good-day to you sir. Honored by meeting you."

And this time he went out finally.

Varney turned with a comically twisted face to his friend, and Scarborough, as soon as he judged that Val B. Montague was out of earshot, burst into a roar of laughter.

"You asked me just now how I have spent the last two years," said Varney. "Now that you've met the man, you have a faint idea of what it means when I say—in the company and service of Val B. Montague! But he's a good sort, mind you."

"Is he always like this?"

"More or less, yes. The degree of absurdity varies, but he's never ordinary. During the first six months we quarrelled. I daresay I was a bit touchy, and I didn't like his bootoring; then I got to understand him; and for the last year and a half I've been his right hand man. We had a row royal this morning, and you see how little he bears malice.

"He said you were a serpent he and been hugging to his bosom," said Scarborough, laughing.

"Yes, that's his way. When he abused you in metaphor, you know that you are forgiven and you start afresh on the old footing. It's his notion of making an apology. Mona de la Mar was the cause of our dust-up this morning. She said she wasn't going to perform to-night, that she wanted a holiday, and had private business to attend to. I didn't in the least know what her reason was, but Montague began to bluster, so I backed her up, and said I wouldn't perform either. I make a point of standing up to him whenever he starts in to play the bully. I fancy that's partly why we're such good friends."

"A bit inconsiderate of the lady, wasn't it?" said Scarborough.

"Oh, very," agreed Varney, "but the point was that Montague couldn't be allowed to bluster to a lady. We have to treat him on a system, you see. We allow him to wag a free tongue as a rule, but this was outside the limits. See?"

"I see," said Scarborough, "that you are an interesting crew, and I want to hear more."

"Then lead the way to your restaurant! And if you're in funds, let it be fizz!"

"Fizz it shall be. Come along."

Over dinner Varney told his tale, picking up the thread where he and Scarborough had been pupils together of an army crammer's near Bromley. Both had been working—with no great earnestness, they admitted mutually now—for the entrance exam. at Sandhurst; and now one was a telegraph man and the other was a circus performer. There were things in this which called for explanation, for neither knew wholly the reasons why the other had given up his earlier ambition.

(To be Continued)

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

TALKING BY SUN RAYS

Heliograph, It Is Claimed, Was Operated in a Rude Way by the Red Man Ages Ago.

A recent writer on the subject of talking by sun rays concludes that the civilized world is probably indebted to the North American Indian for the idea of making use of sun rays, reflected from a looking glass, as a means of transmitting messages or signals.

Science has taken the idea, modified and improved upon it, and the now almost perfect means used by all prominent nations to transmit messages by means of a mirror and sun rays are but the outgrowth of the idea of the "untutored savage," who many, many years ago conceited the idea of making the flashes of sun rays from a small piece of glass held in the hand the medium of conveying signals and messages from point to point. Some authorities maintain that the idea came from a period as far back as the time of Alexander, as some histories record the fact that he piloted his fleets by signals made by the rays of the sun reflected from some bright surface.

The Indian with his small piece of shining material could send signal flashes a distance of over twenty-five miles. Today the civilized world with the idea improved upon, and with fine instruments made for the purpose, is able to transmit long messages over seven times as far. The instrument used is called a heliograph.

SENATOR CASGRAIN,
Surveyor and Engineer, Montreal

The heliograph may be described as an instrument by which rays of light are reflected from a highly polished mirror, mounted on a tripod so as to show the resulting flash on any desired point within the field of vision. The signals are produced by causing the reflected rays to appear and disappear or be obscured, the intervals of appearance and obscuration being varied in length so as to produce the combinations of long and short flashes.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY ON TRAINS.

A phase of human activity which has occupied the attention of many inventors is the devising of a simple system for maintaining wireless telegraphic and telephonic communication with moving trains. Numerous experiments have been made in the United States, Belgium, and Germany, as well as in Britain; but the success hitherto achieved has not been sufficiently convincing to warrant commercial exploitation. An inventor in the Midlands, however, appears to have solved the difficulty, judging from the eminently satisfactory results of tests made. In this invention the method is adopted of travelling a railway carriage with two frames of wires for sending and receiving messages. Along the side of the track is carried a continuous wire, similar to that used for telegraphing purposes, which may be buried or carried on low posts, and which links up with stations and signal-boxes, as well as with the trunk telephone and telegraph systems of the country. In the carriage an ordinary telephonic instrument is installed, and the electric oscillations are transmitted or received by either of the above-mentioned wire frames carried beneath the coach. The system is described as wireless inductive, so that the pulsations produced in the sending wire frame are reproduced by induction in the wire running parallel with the track, and vice versa for inward messages.

Boat in a Suit-Case.

A Parisian inventor has devised a craft for getting over the water, which is still so light and compact that it can be folded up and packed into a box no bigger than an ordinary suit case. The case part unfolds and joins together to form the main framework or hull of the boat, which is of the catamaran order. The two cigar-shaped floats are made of waterproof canvas. When packed up they occupy little space, and when in use they are blown up with a bicycle pump. The framework is fastened between them by means of rifle and straps, and when you have fixed a three-jointed, double-bladed paddle together and put a folding seat in place you are all ready to set out on your marine travels.

Overcrowded Ant-Hills

A marvel of scientific research has been accomplished by Professor Yeng, who has been investigating the interior condition of anthills. By dint of patient observation, Professor Yeng discovered that an anthill two feet in height was inhabited by 32,700 ants. Other anthills of almost the same size were found to contain 67,500, 43,000 and 48,000 ants respectively. These observations and the counting of the tiny insects occupied two years.

Mr. Wm. Hastie, of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company staff, is leaving the city to accept a position in Toronto.

A handful in a box

WHEN YOU SWEEP

absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial.
Yours for health,
DUSTBANE.
ALL GROCERS

Packed in Bible, 1 Bible, 2 Bible. For use in stores, offices and public Halls. For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25
—THE—
FAMOUS BALED
HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere
TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.
MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS
LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TO WINNIPEG
AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO
Three trains daily.
Excellent service.
Making connection at Detroit for
FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—
W. McILROY : : : Agent

Grand Trunk Railway System
Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.
B. A. Ross, City Agent.
F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures
$2.00 Wholesale to All
OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00
261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.
PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,
16-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand
Clothing. Boots, Rubbers
Furniture, Stoves, Etc.
JAY'S STORE
360 Aylmer St. Phone 623

ASK FOR THE
ALES AND PORTER
OF
The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited
They are the finest and purest in the market
The WHITE LA[illegible] a specialty

CHEW
KING GEORGE'S
NAVY PLUG TOBACCO
KING QUALITY
MAJESTIC SIZE
VICTORIOUS PRICE
POPULAR EVERYWHERE
The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd
QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION
LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS
PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL
Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Canada Feb. 3; Mar. 9
Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation Prepaid Tickets.

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

SummerSailings—Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.
Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY
Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.
St. John—Halifax—
GRAMPIAN,
Friday, Feb. 2. Saturday, Feb. 3.
CORSICAN,
Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.
HESPERIAN,
Saturday, Feb. 24.
TUNISIAN,
Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

RATES OF PASSAGE.
First Class, $72.50 and upwards.
Second Class, $39.89, $42.50 and upwards.
Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.
"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.
Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.
Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.
Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.
Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.
Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.
Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.
Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.
Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.
"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.
For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY,
C.P.A. Can. Pas. Ry.
R. A. ROSS,
C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO'
PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,560,549.41

Savings Department

3 1 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on 2 Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.
Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.
All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.
Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.
These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:
437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO'
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director.

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

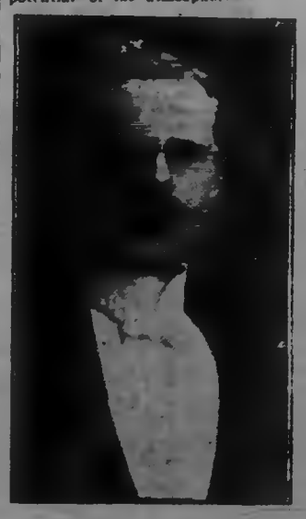
Phone 166, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

RECORDING EARTHQUAKES

Recently Introduced Instruments Can Record Earth Motions However Distant May Be the Earthquake.

In the new Magnetic Observatory at Eskdalemuir, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, there has recently been fitted up an instrument to record the motion of the earth produced by an earthquake, however distant the earthquake may be from the observatory. The inventor of the instrument, Prince Galitzin, the Russian scientist, [illegible] horizontal pendulum suspended by wires, so that when the framework, which is attached to the earth by a pier, is moved the pendulum is forthwith set in motion. In the absence of friction however, such a pendulum would vibrate too long, and this fault has been corrected in the Galitzin pendulum in an ingenious manner by allowing a copper plate attached to the pendulum to move between the poles of a strong magnet. The introduction of friction has one disadvantage: it reduces the sensitiveness of the apparatus, but by a second clever application of electro-magnetic theory, Prince Galitzin has overcome this trouble. Mr. G. W. Walker, the superintendent of the observatory, has invented an electrometer for the measurement of electrical forces. He has also devised an original construction for ascertaining the 'electric potential' of the atmosphere.



SIR GEORGE GARNEAU, Quebec.

AN INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE LANGUAGE.

The tendency towards a common tongue whereby people of various nationalities might be able to correspond and converse intelligibly with one another has been revived by Professor Donnan in a strong plea for an international language of science. He has collected and translated a series of essays written by the most celebrated luminaries of Europe upon this perplexing question, for in the development of science the need of a common comprehensive tongue is more essential than in any other ramification of human endeavour. Up to a few years ago, comparatively speaking, science was well supplied in this respect, for Latin was the vehicle for spoken and written communications in science; but the development of the latter brought about the abandonment of this practice. Efforts to the same end have been made by the creation of universal languages such as Esperanto and Volapuk, but these have now gone the way of all others, and are as dead as Greek. The failure of Esperanto and Volapuk is attributed by Professor Lorenz to 'want of rational development' and the fact that they retain too much arbitrariness.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Back Full of Aches Headaches and Depression

MUCH OF WOMEN'S SUFFERIN IS NEEDLESS AND CAN BE PREVENTED BY THE USE OF DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

That Stab-like Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me.

Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver bladder and kidney trouble. Refuse substitutes for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Samuel McWilliams and sister, Mrs. Hinchey, of Moose Jaw, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, 530 Bolivar street. Their uncle Mr. George McWilliams, of Toronto, accompanied them to Peterborough.

THE MORNING TIMES

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1912.

TRUE TO ITS PLEDGE.

The people of Canada did more last September than pass upon a fiscal policy. They commissioned the government of Premier Borden to set about governmental house-cleaning.

The Borden government promptly set about on a policy of economical administration of public business. It has lopped off official incompetence. Now it is setting about to investigate the departments. The scandals of the printing bureau are too well known to require recital here. A whitewashing committee under the late government completed the work of exoneration where it was found impossible to suppress an investigation altogether.

Instead of baulking a rigid investigation the supporters of the old government would, if they were convinced that there were no foundation for the charges against the management of governmental departments, assist in making the inquiry as thorough, and as fearless as possible. In no circumstance would any innocent man suffer from such a course.

The Borden government is simply performing a public duty in investigating the affairs of the departments under Liberal management for more than sixteen years and against which charges of malfeasance or worse have been preferred.

Vibrator-Proof Incandescent Lamp

One of the [illegible] to the metallic filament [illegible] tric lamp is the extreme fragility of the [illegible] The lamp [illegible] submitted to a jar or vibration [illegible] manufactory, where machinery is running is apt to break down. This disadvantage counteracts the many attractive features which the lamp possesses. A recent invention seeks to obviate this defect. In this case the strands of the filament, instead of being looped over hooks, as is the usual practice, are passed through small rings which are carried on the hooks, but in such a manner as to have a little free-play. By this arrangement the filaments are not held so rigidly, and the effect of vibration is not so forcibly conveyed thereto. It may be pointed out that a lamp which suddenly gives out can often be given a little longer life by turning on the switch and giving the bulb a few taps to cause the broken ends to come together or fall across another strand, when, immediately lighting up and becoming incandescent, they fuse together.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

BRITAIN'S COAL SUPPLY

Prophesied Exhaustion of Fuel Will Hurry the Advance of Improved Engines and Machinery.

Scientific calculation goes to show that the available quantity of coal in the proved British coal fields is in the neighborhood of 100,000 million tons, and that if the rate of working increases as it is doing this will be completely exhausted in 175 years. And in the life of a nation 175 years is a span. It is far from certain, indeed, whether the period named is not an extreme one, for the ever-expanding mechanical activity of the world indicates an acceleration of the rate of output on which the calculation is based, and so it is not beyond the range of possibility that the children of those now living may, before they become octogenarians, witness the contraction of industry, the beginnings of the at first slow but afterwards rapid transformation of Britain's great career.

It is pointed out however that this summing up of our learned men does bolt the door against a more hopeful prospect. At present the greater part of the energy potential in the coal mined is wasted. There can be economy in many ways, it is pointed out, by the substitution of turbine engines for reciprocating engines, thereby reducing the coal required per horse-power from 4lb. or 5lb. to 1½lb. or 2lb.; by the further replacement of turbines by gas engines, raising the economy to 30 per cent of the total energy available in the coal, and thus lowering the coal consumption per horse-power to 1lb. or 1½lb., by creating the power at the pitmouth and distributing it electrically, as is already done in the north of England. There are other methods by which economy can be effected, but none of them perhaps so obvious as that of checking waste in the domestic grate as well as the factory chimney.

Very Appropriate

They sat at the edge of the wood gazing dreamily at the reapers toiling in the sunny fields, at the scarlet poppies that glanced amid the golden grain, and at each other.

"Darling," he cried, "I swear by this great tree, whose spreading branches shade us from the heat, that I have never loved before."

The girl smiled faintly. "You always say such appropriate things, Bertie," she murmured, "This is a chestnut tree."

Buy it by the Box
of any dealer
It costs LITTLE by the package, but LESS by the box. You HAVE it when you WANT it and you save some cash besides.
It stays in good condition until used. It is a handy, healthful, refreshing pastime. It carries without crushing or becoming sticky.
WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT PEPSIN GUM
The flavor lasts
WILL IT UNDER YOUR TONGUE TASTE THE REAL MINT LEAF FLAVOR
FLAVORED WITH THE JUICE OF THE PRESSED MINT LEAVES
WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT PEPSIN GUM LASTS
The Flavor Lasts
Look for the Spear
The breath purifying, teeth preserving, appetite stimulating and digestion aiding mint leaf juice is a friendly aid to everyone. Everyone LIKES it and children LOVE it.
Isn't it the confection you prefer for your little ones?
Made in Canada
Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Ltd.
7 Scott Street, Toronto, Ont.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

Wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR VALUE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulas and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1885, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation. Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1871 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 80c lb.	$3,080.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

THE HEART CHANGES.

(By Tom Jones).

Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd

Mildred leaned thoughtfully against the railing and looked down the long walk, weed and grass choked, leading to the dusty white gate [illegible] gave the dust cloth that [illegible] not "it" shake an angry clap. A man turned up the driveway from the main road. Mildred watched [illegible] listlessly, nevertheless not unaware that he was well worth looking at. He was tall and sunburned with startling gray eyes and heavy eyebrows. "But his clothes!" [illegible] commented Mildred, with a yearning to see Billy Dunleasie up to the minute smartness, or Bob Allardyce blonde curls and lavender tie. She recovered herself with a slight shake.

"Mrs. Bacon?" the man was asking in a voice that even Mildred's discontented spirit could not take exception to.

"Miss Bacon," she corrected him. "Will you sit down? I'll call mother;" her voice was courteously indifferent. "Homesick," thought Graham Forbes, indulgently, as he sank into the comfortable willow chair. "She looks just as Kitty Mason did when her folks moved here from the city; only there's more to this one than there was to Kitty. She'll like Mortonville yet."

Mildred would have given vent to shrieks of hysterical laughter if she could have heard the prophecy.

She was confessing frankly to Graham Forbes, sitting on the moonlit steps one night. They had grown rapidly into friendly intimacy. "If you knew," she was telling him, making it stronger because she knew it was agonizing to him, "how I long for a look at Billy's gray shirt and the irreproachable part in Bob's hair, or a pair of Jacky's loud tan shoes!"

Graham looked up at her with tormented eyes. "Oh, I don't care about any of them, silly," she laughed down at him, "only I simply yearn to see something civilized."

The day after her confession in the moonlight he met Mildred at the tiny post office, the rendezvous of the entire village. She waved a sheath of letters at him gayly. "They're coming," she informed him, excitedly; "Billy, and Bob, and Jack, every one of them. They're coming up for their two weeks' vacation, and if they like it they're coming up for every week end."

"I'm sure they will like it," he said, gravely, and lifting his hat, hurried past her down the street. Mildred looked after him with hurt, puzzled eyes, not wholly guiltless of tears.

"Silly little goose," she scolded herself, "I don't see why you should care what he thinks, horrid old dog in the manger!"

Billy and Bob and Jack duly appeared and carried the heart of feminine Mortonville by storm.

But with the coming of September the resorters grew restless. The hotel porches were deserted and the orchestra played wearily to an ever diminishing crowd of dancers. Forbes dreaded seeing Mildred; dreaded to see the unhappy look he was sure would be in her eye and the homesick droop in her lips. He had been making a practice of coming late for his mail as the easiest way of avoiding her, but meetings are inevitable in a small town, and Forbes soon came face to face with Mildred on the main street. He stopped short in astonishment. Mildred's eyes were as happy, Mildred's smile was as bright as if it were the middle of July instead of nearly October.

"Still happy?" he asked in astonishment.

"Still happy," affirmed Mildred. "Why?"

"I don't know," Graham considered, slowly. "I have been afraid to meet you. I was also sure you would be lonely and homesick now that they are all gone."

"So you were making matters better by staying away?" Mildred teased gayly. "I've missed you all summer. Aren't you ever coming up again?"

Mildred carried home a vision of Graham's relieved, radiant face. It was an exceedingly illuminating vision and served to bring to Mildred's consciousness several things she had not realized.

"So that's why I am so happy, is it?" she smiled to herself that evening while she was waiting for Graham. "And that's the reason I had to manufacture that smile and put it on every morning when I was supposed to be having such a good time." So the smile was very real and happy, though rather tremulous as Forbes came up the steps.

"Are you going back to the city?" he asked, as he was standing up to leave. Mildred shook her head.

"I can't understand it," he said, wonderingly. "You seem so happy. Aren't you really going back?"

"Jack's sister has asked me up to spend December with her, but that's all," she told him demurely.

"Are you going?" he asked quickly.

"I don't know. I may," Mildred said with a little smile to herself, he was so transparent. "Mother wants so many things in the city. Only for a week, though."

"Don't you want to go?" he asked, eagerly. Mildred looked out across the moonlit lawn and shook her head.

"I hate to go," she confessed. "I love all this so now. The green, green grass and the blue, blue sky, and even the farm houses and the funny old post office, and——" she paused and drew her breath.

Forbes caught her hand in his. "Really? Do you mean it? Mildred, will you stay here always?"

"I won't stay anywhere else," Mildred assured him humorously, but he swept that impatiently aside. "Always? With me?"

"—— the funny old post office, and you," finished Mildred close in his arms."

New White Metal Alloy.

Metallurgical investigation has resulted in the perfection of a new white metal alloy. 'Atherium' it is called, and it is stated to be lighter than aluminium. The metal is said to be superior to the pure metal, to make good, sound castings, and to work well in rolling and turning. It can also be soldered, welded, and forged; it does not tarnish, and is impervious to corrosion and the action of seawater. It should prove an excellent substitute for German silver under these conditions, and be effective for a great variety of purposes for which aluminium would be used were it stronger, and lightness combined with strength is the superlative consideration. Owing to its electrical conductivity, the metal should be extremely useful in a wide range of applications in this phase of industry.

To Locate Underground Water.

A French inventor has contrived an application of the microphone to the discovery of underground water. One end of a tube is inserted in the ground the upper end being attached to the microphone. The sounds of flowing or dropping water are conveyed to the ear from great depths. In the Marne valley two springs were discovered with this apparatus at a depth of about 50 feet below the surface of the ground. It is believed that the apparatus will be of great service in mining operations both for indicating the location of concealed springs and for communicating with imprisoned miners.

"Sunkist" Oranges

Their Small Cost

The price of "Sunkist" Oranges—the finest fruit grown—is no higher than that which you have paid for oranges of much less quality. Madam, merely ask for "Sunkist" and insist that each orange you buy is wrapped in a tissue paper, marked "Sunkist." For every wrapper is valuable. They identify the best oranges in the world. By saving these wrappers you receive beautiful "Sunkist" silver premiums at but a trifling additional expense.

Many wide-awake women are furnishing their dining tables by this means. Read carefully particulars below.

Seedless, Tree-Ripened Navels

The choicest crop of 5,000 California groves. They are oranges with no seeds. They are solid, ripened on the trees and picked by gloved hands. Juicy and delightfully sweet. The most healthful of all fruit. You will get genuine "Sunkist" Oranges with the valuable wrappers by insisting on them. Your family deserves this most healthful and economical fruit.

Get This Splendid Rogers' Orange Spoon

Save 12 "Sunkist" orange wrappers, or trade-marks cut from wrappers, and send them to us, with 12c to help pay charges, packing, etc., and we will send you this genuine Rogers' silver orange spoon. For each additional spoon send 12 wrappers or trademarks and 12c.

Fruit Knife for 24 Wrappers and 20c. Excellent quality—genuine Rogers.

In remitting, please send cash when amount is less than 25c; on amounts above 25c we prefer postal note, money order, express order or bank draft.

14 "Sunkist" Premiums

Send for full description, number of wrappers and amount of cash necessary to secure each article:

Table Knife	Child's Knife	Oyster Fork	Fruit Knife
Table Fork	Berry Spoon	Child's Fork	Teaspoon
Dessert Spoon	Coffee Spoon	Orange Spoon	Tablespoon
	Salad Fork	Butter Spreader

Trademark Registered

"SUNKIST" ORANGES

California Fruit Growers' Exchange

105 King Street, East, Corner Church Street

TORONTO, ONT. (13)

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

ESTABLISHED 1874.

Deposits Nov. 30, 1905	$17,999,287
Deposits Nov. 30, 1910	$32,418,445
Increase in Five Years	$14,419,178

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT

is an incentive to save. $1.00 or upward opens an Account, interest compounded half-yearly.

Peterborough Branch, George Street

G. C. WAINWRIGHT, Manager.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal for you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.	0.8505
Light Oil 94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Sole Agents for
Galloway & Garman OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

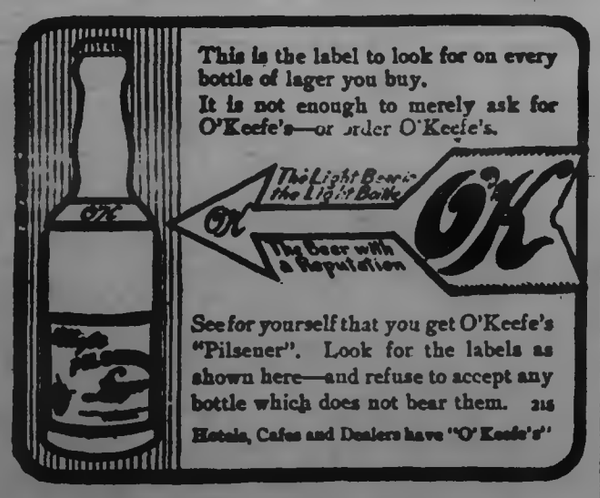
MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....



This is the label to look for on every bottle of lager you buy.
It is not enough to merely ask for O'Keefe's—or order O'Keefe's.

See for yourself that you get O'Keefe's "Pilsener". Look for the labels as shown here—and refuse to accept any bottle which does not bear them. 218

Hotels, Cafes and Dealers have "O'Keefe's"

J. M. BROOKS & CO., Distributors

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath, Newly furnished throughout, American and European plan.

RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel J. Thompson, Proprietor

Name Changed to Browntown.

In accordance with the request of Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., Mr. J. H. Burnham has had the name of the postoffice at Byerwille, changed to Browntown, in honor of the family in Monaghan of that name.

THE OLD HOME.

(By Jeffery Hume).

Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

Mrs Chatham had made one trousseau, working at it with painstaking care — hemstitching, embroidering, with weary hands working often when her tired eyes rebelled. She had sewed hope and fear, love and faith in every stitch she set. The finished trousseau had been a thing of beauty. Now, she thought to herself with a sigh, it looked as if another one would have to be begun before summer. There was no mistaking the meaning of two, three, sometimes four, visits a week. There could be no objection and Gertrude was one and twenty.

"Quite old enough," the mother mused. "I had been married three years when I was her age. But I wish she didn't want to leave me so soon. I've lost all my boys. Now the girls are going. Pretty soon there'll be no one left but baby. Thank heaven, no one can take her for years."

Yet it was far from a cloudless time to her. One by one her three boys had married, settling so far away that visiting was out of the question. Then had come the wrench of parting with her oldest girl. She felt it to be hard, even while she acknowledged it to be natural. Now there came to her a premonition of the desolation which would descend on the old house when Gertrude was gone. The poor old house. Once the capacity of its rambling space had been sorely taxed. Soon it would be all too large. She knew how lonely it would be when only herself were left, and baby, away at school most of the time. She did not look ahead to the time when baby, a baby no longer, would leave the old home, too. If the thought ever occurred to her it was banished by the comforting one. "Maybe I'll die before then."

As well prepared as she had been, as carefully as she had schooled herself, when the expected happened it came as a blow. The boyish lover rambled no more than she. But she gave her consent graciously enough and began to thrust busy fingers into the intricacies of a second trousseau.

Daily she waited for the announcement of the future place of residence. That it would be far away she did not doubt—in the home town of the bridegroom to be. There seemed a fatality about it. Other girls married and lived near home; other boys did the same. But her boys had taken their wives' homes for their own; her girl had followed in the beaten path her husband had trod before her.

"Gertrude'll do the same," she thought. "I wish she could have fancied someone who lived near. Then I could have been content to give her up. Now she'll go away like the others, and I'll seldom see her—perhaps never. I'm getting old. But there's no one to care. Children are different from what they used to be. There used to be home gatherings in my day. They'd come home from the ends of the earth. But the boys have never come not even for Thanksgiving. I've never seen my own grandchildren. I doubt if they've ever heard my name. I suppose I'm selfish, but—"

Tears fell fast on the dainty work she held. They often fell as the days went on almost always when she sewed alone. She choked them back when Gertrude worked beside her. And Gertrude never guessed that the eyes bent down so persistently, even when she talked, were too dim to bear inspection.

One night her sweetheart nearly blundered out the secret, if secret it were. He had been talking of his home, of his father's second marriage.

"I never could get on with my stepmother," he said, "though she's a good woman in a way. I wouldn't live near her for anything. She'd find a black spot in a bank of snow. I'm glad we're going to live—"

Until shortly afterward the speaker had exercised himself and left them to talk without restraint. She went up to her room and lay quietly on the bed. The room seemed very peaceful and still. From downstairs came the jarring notes from Baby's practising fingers. But they fell like balm on the woman's heart. She still had Baby—her own for years and years. She banished the thought to her heart. Presently there came a soft tap at the door. She did not speak, but it opened.

"Are you asleep, mother?" said Gertrude's voice.

She waited a moment, intending to feign sleep. She had never failed in all her life, even when they were tiny, troublesome things, to answer when they called. Even in her dreams she had heard their voices; she had never been too tired or sleepy to respond. She would not begin now. "No," she answered, "no, Gertrude."

Gertrude sat down on the bed beside her. "Alfred made me come up," she said. "He wouldn't wait, though it just spoils everything. But, mother, he had an idea you were hurt. Isn't it ridiculous, and just like a man? But, anyway, he insisted that I should tell you where we're going to live."

The mother's hasty voice interrupted. "You musn't tell. I don't want to know. I will not force your confidence."

"You aren't," Gertrude observed, complacently. "Not a bit. It's Alfred, and he vows you shall know. It spoils the nicest surprise. Alfred is going to go into business—guess where. And we're going to live—guess where!"

She paused. The mother did not speak.

"Here, here, here. Right in the old house with you. I thought you'd be kind of lonely. I thought you'd like it, Mother. I wouldn't ever get married if I had to go away. I couldn't bear it. You'll let us stay home, won't you?"

Scientific Bottle Breaking.

The method of breaking small bottles or vessels at the neck consists with a kerosene-soaked string is well known, but this method does not work so well with the large vessels. Following is a method given by a writer, by which any sized glass vessels can be broken — as, for example, a glass tub to be made out of a carboy: Fill the vessel with cold water up to the place at which it is to be broken. Pour enough boiling oil over the water to make a good coating on the surface, and before the oil has time to cool dash cold water on the outside of the vessel. A clean break at the contact-point of oil and water will be the result.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

GROWING BUTCHER MEAT

Latest Scientific Discovery Is that Flesh and Fowl Can Be Grown by Chemical Process.

Dr. Warren H. Lewis, associate professor of anatomy in John Hopkins' University, and his wife, Margaret Reed Lewis, also a physician, claim to have discovered a method of inducing the indefinite growth of cellular substances by chemical processes. What Dr. Lewis and his wife claim to have actually accomplished is this: They have taken pieces of chicken, placed them in a saline solution and grown chicken meat. They have discovered that it is possible to cut off some of this chicken meat without hindering further growth, and the process can be repeated indefinitely. They also claim that the process can be applied to any sort of flesh. Dealing with the question of his discoveries, Dr. Lewis says: "The value of all these experiments which my wife and I have conducted has several different phases. For instance, it may some day have a great commercial value. There is nothing to prevent our operations from being conducted on a much larger scale. Suppose that you had a number of vats filled with saline solutions, and that in these solutions you put the muscles or other organs of various animals, not only while in the embryo, but even when they had reached the adult stage. There would be large growths, and these would be edible. In other words, the salt solutions could be turned into incubators, sure to hatch, and from which pieces of embryo chicks could be taken every day without hindering the increase of the supply."

The possibilities conjured up by this statement are so great as to almost verge on the grotesque. The idea of actually growing meat appears to offend the laws of Nature, and yet Science has done stranger things.

Pigments from Odd Sources.

The ingenuity of the manufacturers of pigments for the use of artists has been so severely taxed within recent years that they have been obliged to employ for the purpose all manner of animal, vegetable and mineral substances. Even Egyptian mummies have been utilised in this way by the manufacturers. It appears that the corpse of the old Egyptian was preserved in the finest bitumen, and that the remains thus treated in the centuries gone present, on being unwrapped to-day, an appearance quite like that of light-coloured leather. Now it has been discovered that, when the bitumen and the leather-like remains are ground down by machinery, there is obtained therefrom a beautiful brown pigment, especially prized by painters of portraits, who claim that this pigment is particularly effective in depicting certain shades of brown hair. Among the other colours obtained from strange sources may be mentioned Prussian blue. This is made by fusing the hoofs of horses with impure potassium carbonate. Sepia is the dark fluid discharged by the cuttlefish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked by its enemies. The cochineal insect furnishes crimson and purple dyes. Ultramarine, while formerly procured from the precious metal known as lapis lazuli, is now obtained from a natural earth from Sienna, and, when burnt, becomes burnt Sienna. Gamboge is the yellow sap of a tree that grows in Siam.

Fireless Cooking-Stoves.

A system of cooking comestibles, or keeping in a heated condition those which have already been prepared, has been devised, and has aroused considerable attention, especially in regard to its application to railway trains. The stove, which has neither fire nor gas, is based upon the ingenious utilisation of a non-conductor of heat. The outer vessel is wrought in aluminium, and the vessels employed for culinary purposes are of the same metal with aluminium locking covers. The necessary heat is supplied by radiation from several hot plates, which are inserted in the cooker, and the arrangement is such that several dishes can be cooked simultaneously. It is stated that not only is this system, so far as it applies to railway travel, free from all danger, but that it represents a saving of 70 to 90 per cent. in the fuel-bill, while one charge of the plates is sufficient to keep the contents hot, or to cook them, during a journey of several hundred miles.

Artificial Snails.

It is astonishing how often it is that one hears of strange and secret processes through what is virtually the vagaries of that blind goddess, Chance. An instance of this occurred in France a week or so ago, when a workman brought an action against his employer to recover damages for a finger that had been mutilated in one of the machines. Then in the examination that followed the fact came out that the factory in question was engaged in the manufacture of artificial snails. It appears that the shells are bought by the firm in question from the dustmen and rag-pickers, and, after being cleaned, are filled with "lights" or cats' meat, the soft flesh being cut into corkscrew form to fit the shell by a skilfully-designed machine. The top is then sealed with liquid fat, and the escargot is ready for the consumer. The artificial snails have a ready sale in Paris and other French towns, and are presumably sold as the genuine article. One wonders what the opinion of many epicures of this delicacy is now that they have discovered the method by which their favourite dish is sometimes manufactured.

"Take my advice! I have proved Zam-Buk best for eczema and skin disease."

As a mother you owe it to your family to give it a trial! It ends pain and it heals!

50c box all Druggists & Stores.

PECULIAR HOUSES

Some Weird Erections That Make Architects Pause and Wonder How the Next Curiosity is to be Built.

A wealthy American of the name of Stokes is building a new house in Connecticut. Most of it is built from the old British battleship Wellington. The ninth wing is to be composed of an old Tudor manor-house from Suffolk, which between now and the spring will have been transported in instalments across the Atlantic.

One of the most famous of all freak houses exists on an estate on the edge of the forest of Fontainebleau, near Paris. It is a mansion built in the branches of two mighty oaks. The owner, a retired silk merchant, uses it as his country house for six months every year during the leafy period. There is nothing flimsy about it, though it is all of wood.

A tall staircase leads to the main door. The house has gables, windows, and chimneys, just like any building on solid ground. A balcony ten feet wide runs round the whole.

With such ingenuity did the architect work that practically no cutting away was found necessary. In several places the giant trees are bound together by green-painted iron chains in order to afford a solid platform.

A SUBMARINE VILLA

An equally enviable and equally original man is the owner of what is practically a submarine villa. It is situated at Lakeside, a fashionable suburb of Chicago. The owner, a pork-packer, works all the year round taking no holiday.

[illegible] submarine cottage whose roof lies ten feet below the surface of Lake Michigan, which skirts his gardens. The house under the lake is small, but it contains a billiard-room and a study, as well as bed-rooms and kitchen. Only one servant accompanies the enterprising packer of pork to his cool summer home.

At the other end of the scale of expense, but equally novel, was the disused boiler that a tramp some years ago took possession of near Peterborough, England. The fascinations of his boiler-home had reclaimed him from a wandering life. It was the pride that made him daub his name all over the outside with paint that betrayed him.

The great American newspaper proprietor, Pulitzer, who died recently, had a morbid hatred of noise. Before taking permanently to life on an ocean-going yacht, he had at one time a small, ring-shaped house near New York. In the middle of the circular court stood his own block — a bedroom, a bath-room, and a music-room. Windowless on the inside of the ring, the house was a house of [illegible] to the blind newspaper-owner the middle, the courtyard being paved with rubber.

SPOILING THE JOKE.

Of all freak houses, perhaps the queerest would have been one in Sussex, England. An American, who was trying to settle down to English ways, had a small country house there, holding a commanding situation on a hilltop. An injudicious wager touched his American pride, and he started showing his defiance for all things British by ordering a squad of local painters to paint the four sides of his house in the glorious gleefully, but a would district council soon stepped in and spoiled the joke.

She Was at Sea.

It was her first sea voyage. She was continually troubling the officers about whales. A dozen times a day she besought one or other of the crew to call her if a whale was in sight. At last, the captain getting somewhat impatient, said to her, "But, madam, why do you concern yourself so much about whales?" "Captain," she answered, "I want to see a whale blubber. It must be very impressive to see such a large sea monster crying."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERMIT IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

E. L. P. MITCHELL H. A. MIDDLETON
George St. Agent
PETERBORO LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF IT'S PRINTING YOU WANT THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100. EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards in Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 189 Simcoe Street
Next Niagara Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

Elizabeth Wright.

There passed away at the Nicholls Hospital a well known and highly esteemed resident of Springville, in the person of Elizabeth Wright, wife of Mr. Archibald Reynolds, storekeeper of that place. The deceased who was 58 years of age, had long been a resident of this district, and her many good qualities have earned for her a host of friends who will deeply regret her death.

She is survived by her husband and a family of seven children, four sons, Joseph, 479 Bolivar street, George, 510 College street, Peterborough, Roland, of Scott., and Albert, Springville, and three daughters residing at home.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, lot 23, con. 11, Springville, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to the Fraserville cemetery.

THE DOG NUISANCE.

Montreal Threatened With Outbreak of Rabies as Result of Too Much Dog.

Great interest, or possibly great displeasure is being felt here over the multiplicity of dogs in Peterborough. Rightly so. An esteemed subscriber in Montreal sends us this extract from a paper of the Canadian Metro- The extract says in part: "Four school children, two boys and two girls, were badly bitten by a mad dog to-day as they were on their way home from St. Ann's school. Attracted by their screams, a passerby managed to strangle the dog. He had one of the little girls on the ground and worrying her like a rat. The wounds of the children, all of whom were badly bitten, have been cauterized. The dog is being kept under observation at the Young street police station. In the opinion of Dr. Vipond, the animal exhibits the symptoms of rabies."

A prominent gentleman, to whom the article was shown, sympathetically remarked "Peterborough should wake up before we have an epidemic of rabies."

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, E. A. Peck, R. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, Successors to Stratton & Hall. Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce.
R. R. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND.
LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSpital, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—543 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1361.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the
HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL
PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

THE YOUNG ARTIST.

The Romance of a Canadian Painting Exhibition.

(Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

This story must be told in stages. The first must picture the hero, a boy of fourteen, by name George Davidson, just arrived in Montreal from Ontario, where, since he had left his home in Russia, he had lived with his aunt. He was homeless and fatherless; but, filled with a determination to make his way in the world, he had come to the great Canadian metropolis. After several days' vain tramping of the streets to seek employment, Davidson was engaged by a crayon artist. And this must mark the second stage in his story.

His main duty in these early days was to sweep the floor of the studio, and to prepare the easels and other implements of the artist, ready for his master to begin work each morning.

But if the work seemed mean and profitless for the future, it was effecting a great change in the boy's mind. As he busied himself in the studio his eyes would constantly roam to the easel at which his master was working. How simply and wonderfully he supplied a delightful background to the portraits which were sent to him by a firm of photographers.

Ambition was gradually growing in young Davidson's mind. One day he would be a painter.

A year or so went by. In that time a change had come over the boy's life. He no longer spent the day in menial work in the studio. Instead, he was fast becoming as proficient as his master. At night he went to the National Academy of Design, and there, under competent masters, worked diligently at oil-painting.

Three years past. Young Davidson sat before his easel. He was just putting the finishing strokes to a small landscape scene.

The little landscape was sent to the exhibition, bearing beneath it the words "Evening Shadows."

The exhibition was filled with an excited crowd. It was the first day of the opening. A group of critics had gathered round a large canvas. This was the work of John Le Farge. They could tell it at a glance. It was magnificent! But whose was the little sunset scene, that held a place of such high honour beside it?

"George Davidson—Davidson, who was Davidson, whose picture had received such commendation?" A few days later everyone in Canada could have told how, with indomitable courage, the once penniless boy had in a few years proved himself to be one of the rising artists of the great Dominion.

HIS BRIDE.

The Romance of a Convent.

When Pastukhin, captain in a Russian cavalry regiment, heard that Irma Mazienkoff had been placed in the Convent of the Passion at Simbirski, he vowed to effect her release. That he, her lover, should be debarred from entering the convent drove the captain nearly to distraction. However, he found consolation in the thought that Irma was ever thinking of him, and knew that sooner or later he would devise a plan for her escape.

One morning a buzz of excitement ran through the convent. From nun to nun and student to student it was whispered that the good Sister Superior had received an important letter from the Holy Synod at St. Petersburg. On the morrow, it announced, Father Soloviff would be pleased to pay the convent an official visit of inspection.

Many eyes peered at the good father as he drove up in a carriage drawn by three splendid horses. But if the good father was pompous in coming, he was charming in manner, and delighted the heart of the Sister Superior by his praise of the order and discipline that marked her regime.

In the afternoon Father Soloviff announced that he must examine all the students of the convent, so that he should be able to carry a thorough report of the convent to St. Petersburg, both as to its conduct condition, and learning. Naturally such an unlooked-for request created a flutter of excitement among the students. But everyone agreed, from the humblest nun to the Sister Superior herself, that there could not possibly be a nicer priest in the world than Father Soloviff; and, besides, there was no reason to fear that he would find the students lacking in learning.

So one by one the students entered the examination room and there were examined in their studies by the good father. And one by one each emerged full of the praise that he had bestowed on them. He was the most charming father who had ever inspected the monastery! After the examinations Father Soloviff

Blood Stain Discoveries.

It does not appear from the reports in the daily press and the scanty statistics available, that the crime of murder is diminishing, notwithstanding the great social efforts that have been made, all the world over, to improve the race. However, what education and sanitation have failed to accomplish, the chemist and the physicist may yet effect, by rendering the detection of crime easier and the "game" less worth the candle than ever. Thus we have seen how criminals may be tracked by finger-print methods, and better still, of late the very blood of the victim is able to tell its tale, whereas previously this was a comparatively silent clue. In a recent murder case, however, great progress was shown in the utility of the biological serum test. Mr. Justice Darling, Eng., remarked on the value of a discovery which not only enabled the scientist to distinguish between human and other mammalian blood, but likewise could indicate the condition of the blood. The blood proved to be that of an anaemic person, and the murdered girl had been known to have been treated for anaemia by a doctor.

A Close Call.

While passing down Water street yesterday, Mr. J. Evans was struck on the shoulder by an avalanche of ice which fell from the roof. Had it struck him on the head, it would doubtless have killed him. Mr. Evans is now nursing a wounded shoulder.

HIS WATERLOO

Kind Lady:—"Poor fellow, and how did you lose your fortune?"

Tramp:—"I opened a livery stable in Venice."

NOT THE BABY'S FAULT

"How much the baby looks like its father," said the visitor, who meant to be agreeable.

"It's only the warm weather," replied Mrs. Rasper; "the child is usually quite cheerful and handsome."

TRY HYPNOTISM

"Yes," the young medico sighed, "the healing profession is full of difficulties. The other day, for instance, I had a patient who ought to have gone to a warmer climate. Couldn't afford it. I decided to try hypnotism. I painted a large sun on the ceiling, and by suggestion induced him to think it was the sun."

"And how did it work?" inquired the listener.

The doctor passed a hand wearily over his brow. "He's down with sunstroke," he said sadly.

THOUGHTFUL WIFIE

"Jinks would have spent his fortune on himself in a year if it hadn't been for his wife."

"How did she stop him?"

"Spent it on herself."

A MISUNDERSTANDING

"John, did you run round and ask how old Mrs. Jones was this morning, as I asked you?"

"Yes sir, and she said it was like your impudence, but she had no objection to letting you know that she was seventy-eight."

NO NEED TO HURRY

A countryman who had been hen-pecked all his life was about to die. His wife felt it her duty to offer him such consolation as she might, and said:

"John, you are about to go, but I will follow you."

"I suppose so, Manda," said the old man, weakly; "but so far as I am concerned you don't need to be in a hurry about it."

Quiet Church Wedding.

At St. John's church Saturday evening, Rev. J. C. Davidson officiated at the marriage of Mr. Arthur Henry Rew, and Miss Minnie Laura Greenwood. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Thomas Greenwood, and the groom the son of Mr. Henry G. Rew, Crescent street. They will reside in the city.

Mr. Samuel McWilliams and sister, Mrs. Hinchey, of Moose Jaw, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Carter, 530 Bolivar street. Their uncle Mr. George McWilliams, of Toronto, accompanied them to Peterborough.

STRICTLY CORRECT

Reporter (to self-made man):—"Is it true, sir, that you started life as a farm-boy?"

Self-made Man:—"No, sir! I started life as a small, red-faced, yelling baby! Good day."

SCARING THE WOLF

Bertie and Alice were sitting alone together in the moonlight uttering tender nonsense.

"And," said the girl, bravely, "if poverty comes, we will face it together."

"Ah, dearest," he replied, "the mere sight of your face would scare the wolf away!"

And ever since he has been wondering why she returned his ring.

THOUGHTFUL WIFIE

RANGER, THE WOLVERENE

By Stanley Waterloo

Author of the Story of "Ab, the Night Hawk", etc.

How few there are who know the wolverene! It is a wild animal apart, defiant, wisest among the crafty and, above all, proudest among the proud. Read but the curious story of one of the storm rees. This particular wolverene, as befitted his high lineage was born in a castle. The castle was the dead, leaning stub of a buttonwood tree, at least four feet across and had in it a great hollow some ten feet from the ground. There was an entrance to this hollow and at its bottom was a soft bed of all sorts of leaves which had blown in throughout the autumns.

It was warm and rudely homelike in the castle of the wolverenes. In this excellent retreat was born the cub who, for the sake of individuality, may be called Ranger, for a ranger of importance he certainly became.

And the cub flourished and became a brawny though agile creature and, then the law of the woods exerted itself. He was forced from the protecting hollow and taught by his resolute parents all the secrets of the chase and ways of his daring, guileful kind. Next came the parting.

Had the mother been a human being she would doubtless have advised her son thus on this occasion:

"Remember, always, who you are! Our blood is bluer than that of all the Howards or the Hapsburgs or of any other living animal.

But who can foretell any sort of future! The Ranger, though strong and brave, was young. Within a month he had invaded a clearing, where he was assailed by two huge dogs, driven in self defense to shelter in the log barn and there finally overcome when beaten into insensibility by the settler and his hired man. A brass dog's collar studded with nails — placed there "to make the beast look civilized," the laughing settler said — was about his neck when he fully recovered consciousness and he found himself in a stout pen of logs.

The settler's buxom wife, always bearing a laughing baby in her arms, fed the prisoner regularly and, strangely enough the child seemed to attract him.

The fondness of the wolverene for the child was a puzzle to them for many weeks, and then they thought no longer! Tearing his way through a rotten log one night, the Ranger made his escape.

He was a gentleman adventurer at large again. He rioted among the rabbits. He found an admirable mate and lived altogether a gallant and daring life. It was months later when he was somehow, attracted to the clearing again. Could the memory of the child have drawn him?

It was late in the afternoon when the Ranger and his mate glided silently across the clearing and by the house and reached the sheltering bushes between the house and barn. Then, by one of the strangest of strange happenings, they came upon [illegible] thicket at the edge of the [illegible] — the child, a little older, of the Ranger's memory was toddling happily, but that alone was not what had brought the wolverene to such sudden halt.

Crouched in the [illegible] was a great Canada lynx, and its [illegible] upon the approaching little one. The child came nearer; the lynx gathered itself for the spring, and then the Ranger did not himself know why the wolverene launched himself forward in leap after leap and [illegible] on the savage beast [illegible] fierce as he.

There was a bloody struggle. The lynx seeking the Ranger's throat, the collar and steel spikes [illegible] it and the Ranger found his throat in turn. There was a rending of skin and flesh, a jugular vein torn open and the great lynx weakened suddenly and sank downward, the wolverene attempting to strike from underneath.

Summoned by the [illegible] snarls and growls the settler and his wife came rushing from the house, the man grasping his rifle. He remained in an instant and fell upon the gasping wolverene, while the woman, who had seized the child baby in her arms, cried out in [illegible] wonderment:

"Don't shoot, John! It's our wolverene — and he has saved the baby!"

Suddenly revived, the Ranger [illegible] away, rejoining his [illegible] who has fled to the nearest [illegible] He could not understand nor [illegible] at all to himself the [illegible] of [illegible] but he knew that he had [illegible] fight quite worthy of his mettle. [illegible] and far he went with his [illegible] panion.

Such is the story of the Ranger of the Canadian [illegible]. He had [illegible] of his gap. What better description could be given of the wolverene than that which a great authority has applied: "The animal is noted for its voracity, ferocity and sagacity." Could any one pay to a splendid race a greater compliment than that!

A New Use for Old Pianos

A Labrador tribe, it is said, made the barrels stolen from a wrecked whaler serve as chimney-tops. The West Indians utilized Timothy Dexter's warming pans for sugar ladles; and the Shans find no worse use for English beer-bottles than to stick them up as household gods to keep away evil spirits. But says a writer the drollest instance of converted usage occurred when that adventurous Frenchman, De Tounaut, while in Patagonia, gave an old chief a worn out grand piano which he had bought for eighty francs. A few days after making this generous present, De Tounaut went one morning to pay an early visit to the Patagonian. He found him sleeping peacefully with his wife inside the piano, from which he had carefully removed sounding board, strings, etc., and which, thus transformed, constituted a [illegible] comfortable bed.

The Age of Fish.

Until within [illegible] years there had been ascertained no trustworthy way of finding out the age of fish. It has been shown that [illegible] do not indicate the age. Reibisch, Heincke, and others have discovered that [illegible] of the bones, scales, and otoliths of fishes have annual markings, resembling those in tree trunks, and by means of these Professor Wallace and others have now determined the rate of growth of plaice, showing that some specimens attain the age of 25, or even as much as 29 years. They can now be correlated with size and weight, although it appears that the sexes have a different rate of growth.

DOLLS—TRAINS—HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a Specialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10.00 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

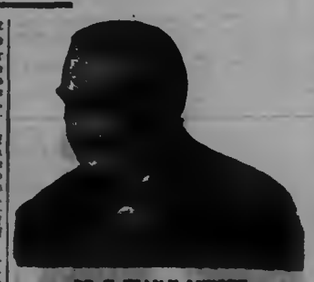
I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out. I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a fair case for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, and when you have, then write me about it as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 357 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my own cost. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of the medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that. I say no further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure, not one that will irritate. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.



DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

Owing to the large number of requests I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

OUR NEW STORY.

The Times has secured the right to publish the thrilling romance, entitled "The Cableman", the opening chapter of which will begin on Saturday next, Feb. 3rd. This splendid story is written by Weatherby Chesney, which is sufficient to mark it as first-class. Do not miss it.

A Bad Pair.

County Constable Cochrane, after driving many miles in search of a man named Wm. J. Shaw and a girl named Elsie Parks, was at last successful in locating the pair at or near Beckhorn. Constable Moore was detailed to bring them to the city, which he did, arriving here on Saturday afternoon, and they appeared before Magistrate Edmonson at the County Police court yesterday. Shaw told a degrading story under which he and the Parks girl had been living since October last. They travelled through the county as man and wife, begging their food and shelter as they passed along. They were remanded for a week and in the meantime, further evidence will be secured pertaining to the case.

THE FIDDLE

by Joseph Jones

You will go away from me, Constantia Morrow Vincent, and stay away when you get away, if that long legged lawyer pauper comes around here any more."

I—I quite understand, Aunt Constantia, that I had married another woman. Connie, with her little basket half filled with the long-stemmed violets, a little way out from the town, suddenly come upon Sidney Olmstead, examining a high stone wall over which a suit was pending in court.

"Nothing will move her," she told him in answer to his eager question. "I—I've got to give you up, Siddie! If she knew I was speaking to you now she'd send me away forever. And—and—two miniature cataracts ran down her flushed cheeks—"I haven't any other home. I haven't anybody but Aunt Constantia!"

The young man's hazel eyes flushed. The map he was drawing fell in the grass as his arms went out and gathered up the white dress.

"You've got me," he asserted, "and I—just as soon as I get a little more work at the office I'll have a home for you, my sweet."

"I know," she sobbed again, "but you're forgetting your sister's three boys at college, Sid. They must come first, and it'll be a long time before—"Oh, Sid, if you were only Heath Bannister, she'd let us live with her."

In spite of herself Connie laughed at the idea. Heath brings her accounts of buried treasure and old pictures and rare old violins and things that have made fortunes for those who found them. She really believes she's going to make a fortune in a 'find' some day. You couldn't make her believe otherwise. And Heath brings his best car too and takes Nugget, her Mexican dog, out riding."

Sidney ran his hand through his black hair. "And I—I have no poodle waggon! Never mind, Chickie, I'll keep out of her sight for a few weeks, and maybe something'll turn up."

But Connie turned her head. When she was out of sight Sidney's gay smile left him and he threw himself moodily down in the grass beside the stone wall.

"Those young spooners gone?" he heard an icy voice on the other side the stone wall. "Sure," another voice—a harsher one—answered. "Now while we're a restin' pard, put them educated wits of yours to work and think out somethin' to put two mighty handyoroke fellows on their feet again. Be careful how you kick them tin pipes out, in this ground ivy, too. While you're thinkin', or you'd best my fiddle. Tain't much, but I guess we can get $3 for it to live on until somethin' else turns up after this five's gone. Think of somethin' not quite so risky as that game we played in the last town we stopped in. They done beastly nigh nabbin' us back there, Doc. Good thing we shot out when we did."

The younger man, who was well dressed in a light gray suit, lay in silence for a few moments. "I've got it, Bill Seed!" Olmstead heard him say, finally, and the young lawyer listened to the details of an odd plan. Then he finally slipped away there was a look little short of elation in his face.

The next morning Mrs. Morrow was interrupted in her study of a book of valuable coins that Heath Bannister had brought her by a strange caller named Addison Dockray, a young man, handsome, bland and with a tongue sweeter than honey. He explained that he was an agent of Mayer & Allen, the great music house. He had heard she was a collector of violins. Perhaps she could put him on the track of the coveted instrument.

Mrs. Morrow could not, but, when the agent was gone, her interest in the coins vanished and she lay awake half the night planning to make a personal search for the violin. Early next morning Heath Bannister stopped to call her attention to a paragraph in the morning paper, stating that a stone mason named William Seed, in a town in the next county, owned a fine violin, for which he had refused enormous sums.

At 9 o'clock a big framed elderly lady, with a suppressed air of excitement, appeared at the depot. A tall young man boarded the same train for Lombard that the lady did. Before noon that day the cashier of the Whiting Bank received a telegram.

"Do not cash Mr. C. Morrow's cheque to William Seed. Fraud. Explanations.

"SIDNEY OLMSTEAD."

In less than an hour from the receipt of the telegram Sidney Olmstead stepped from an automobile in front of the bank. About 2 o'clock a plain heavy-set man brought a cheque for $3,000, signed by Mrs Morrow. The signature was genuine, but on a charge of swindling being brought against the man by Sidney Olmstead the cheque was laid aside and William Seed was remanded to the town [illegible].

That evening Mrs. Morrow, with eyes swollen from excessive weeping, burst into the parlor when Connie, her eyes shining, sat on a sofa beside a very bad and apparently happy young man.

"It's gone!" she moaned, "the three thousand I had in the bank is gone. She needed and would have fallen had not Sidney's arms caught her.

"Oh, auntie," cried the girl, "the money's all safe. Tell her, Sid, tell her."

Mrs Morrow listened to the young man's story of the overheard plot, and his subsequent proceedings.

"Why didn't you come to me first and warn me?" Mrs. Morrow reproached him.

"Would you have listened or believed me?" he asked.

I might not," she confessed, wiping her eyes. "I—I hate to own it, but I'm an old fool, Sidney. I want somebody to look after me. Won't you come and live with Connie and me?"

"Of course," answered Sidney, with a boyish hug, and a kiss that brought a blush to the withered cheek.

That kisses in public are as unsuitable as pyjamas and carpet slippers at a dance.

Choir Concert.

Don't forget the concert on Friday evening, February 9th, under the auspices of St. Luke's Choir, who will be assisted by Mr. Frank Whitehouse, violinist, and Mrs. R. Allen, elocutionist. An excellent programme

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

ESTABLISHED 1874.

Deposits Nov. 30, 1905	:	:	$17,000,967
Deposits Nov. 30, 1910	:	:	$32,418,446
Increase in Five Years	:	:	$14,558,178

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT

is an incentive to save. $1.00 or upward opens an Account, interest compounded half-yearly.

Peterborough Branch, George Street

G. C. WAINWRIGHT, Manager.

A GRAFTED BOY.

(Belle V. Chisholm)

(Copyright by Publishers Press)

It was David's first visit to the farm and he had come all the way from Kansas alone. The doctor had ordered mamma to California, in the hope that the change would cure her, but he vetoed that boy' accompanying her when he learned her intentions of having David as one of her travelling companions.

"Might as well stay at home and take that perpetual motion machine along," he grumbled. "What you want, madam, is rest—perfect rest and everybody knows that with a boy of eight tagging at your heels you would get less rest away from home than in your own house."

"But what will poor David do without his mother, doctor?" the sick woman asked. "He has never been away from me for a single night."

"Better do without you for a few months than forever," said the doctor, significantly. "Ship him east for a visit to his grandfather's, can't you?"

The doctor's suggestion was followed, and a few days later David was tagged and expressed to "Spring Dale, Ohio." Upon his arrival grandpa receipted for him at the station, and took him out to the farm, where he did his share to help grandma and the two young aunties tried to make him forget his loneliness and homesickness.

It was David's first visit to the beautiful country, and he had a jolly time running races with old Gip, riding the horses to water, and having lots of good things to eat.

But bright and cheery a little chap as David proved, he was a bit too selfish for his own good or other people's happiness, and often made trouble for those who loved him best. He did not like to work, and when asked to bring a bucket of water or an armful of wood into the kitchen, or to do any little thing to save older people steps, he pouted and grumbled so much that the folks about the house hated to ask any little favor of him.

One day in October he followed grandpa into the orchard, where he was grafting some fruit trees. He had never heard of such a thing before, and after watching awhile in silence, asked, "What do you mean by grafting, grandpa?"

"I want a better kind of apples to grow on this side of the tree, and so I cut off the big limbs and put new sets in their places," explained grandpa. "You see that I fasten these little cuts in place with wax."

"And will they stick and grow big like the ones you cut off?" asked David, much interested.

"Yes, indeed," answered grandpa; "Here, taste this apple, and this," he added, plucking two apples from opposite sides of the tree. The first was small and knotty from the old tree; the second large and mellow, from a graft of a few years before.

"O-o-h Sour and bitter," exclaimed David, with a wry face, flinging the little apple away. "But this big one is sweet and juicy," he added, smacking his lips contentedly over the second sample. "The grafting helped it, I guess."

"I've been wondering if grafting might not make some folks pleasanter to live with," said grandpa, soberly. "I know some little boys sadly in need of kinder tongues and more accommodating hands and feet."

"You couldn't cut boys up like trees," argued David, opening his eyes very wide.

"I don't see why," replied grandpa. "If it helps trees, it ought to help people too. I think it would be worth trying," he went on, looking at David as if about to try the experiment on him.

The boy shied off, and a little later went to the house and lay down in the hammock swinging across the porch. He was tired and kept very still, certain that grandfather was only funnin'.

Directly he saw a big man bending over him, with a grafting knife like grandpa's in his hand. "I'm a surgeon," he said, "and have brought new arms and legs to graft into you, instead of these lazy ones you have now," and when David began to cry, he took a new tongue out of his case, saying, "This tongue is to go into your mouth [illegible]

[illegible] one is making everyone about the house wretched, and must be cut out at once."

He reached for his knife, and then David began to scream, bringing grandma and Aunt Patty in great fright to see what was wrong.

"A man was trying to cut my tongue out," cried David, trembling like a leaf.

"You've been dreaming, dearie," comforted grandma, rubbing David's cold fingers until they tingled with warmth.

"Maybe I have," said David, "but I didn't know I was asleep."

That evening David filled the woodbox and water buckets without a hint from anybody, and when grandma told him how happy his thoughtfulness made her, he smiled back, saying, "Aren't there some errands you want done? You see I'm a grafted boy now, and I want to find out how fast my new feet can run."

"What do you mean by a grafted boy," inquired grandma, looking puzzled.

"Ask grandpa," answered David. "He knows," he added, as he started on an errand for Aunt Patty, "and he can tell."

An Interesting Watch.

An interesting horological, sidereal novelty has been perfected by the Rev. Daniel B. Marsh, D.Sc., F.R.A.S. The watch contains many ingenious features, and is conceded to be a striking example of timekeeping mechanism. It is adjusted to five positions, fully jewelled with twenty-one rubies, compensated for temperature, and owing to the special construction of the face-mechanism there is no lost motion in the hands. The watch has been acquired already by the leading observatories of Canada, and is being manufactured in Switzerland, the watch-makers of that country alone having proved equal to the delicate nature of the task imposed, so as to bring it within the reach of all.

Safety Window Cleaner.

The invention consists of a wire frame made to clip the window cloth. To the frame is attached a long band of webbing, which passes over trolleys running along the top and bottom of the window-frame and continues right down the inside of the window. There is obviously no danger in cleaning the outside of a window with this invention, as, of course, the pad is moved to and fro, up, down, or sideways, entirely by the manipulation of the webbing strap on the inside of the room. The necessary pressure upon the surface of the window is obtained by springs, and in obstinate cases the busy maid can of course revert to that well-known domestic lodge of adding a little methylated spirit to the water.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on disease of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
26 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	6.25 a.m.
North Bay, Sturgeon Falls and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.45 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	6.30 a.m.
	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto,	12.30 p.m.
London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	6.25 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	6.25 a.m.
Lindsay Local	19.15 p.m.	5.45 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	9.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
	8.10 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
	8.55 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.30 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa. Montreal, Kingston.	11.35 a.m.
Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed.	7.07 p.m.
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa. Montreal	12.10 a.m. 1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto: Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago.	5.26 a.m. 5.51 a.m.
Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago.	7.07 a.m.
Winnipeg, Northwest Points	4.26 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

Stoves For Sale.

A small Happy Thought kitchen range and also a gas range, for sale at a bargain. Stoves may be seen at 313 Maitland avenue.

To Learn Bookbinding.

We have a vacancy in our bindery department for a bright young fellow to learn the trade of bookbinding. It is a rare chance to acquire one of the best of trades. Apply at [illegible]

NOTICE.

Mr. Schwerdt, 58 Victoria Avenue, wants it understood that he will pay no debt contracted by his son Frank, in any store in Peterborough.

Local Brakesman Injured.

A G.T.R. brakesman by the name of Succee, who is well known in this city had the misfortune a few days ago to sustain a severe injury to his head, from falling on the ice whilst skating on the Lindsay rink. He was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital and is now considered in a favorable condition.

Engineer Grant is Home.

Mr. A. Grant, local chief engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, has returned from a trip to Panama where he naturally took great interest in inspecting the big ditch being dug by Uncle Sam. He reports that the Panama engineers expect to have a 30-foot head within the next two months, which in the course of a year will be brought to to the specified height of 85 feet above sea level.

Plaintiff Gets Judgment.

His Honor Judge Huycke has given $15 in the action for damages which was brought against a Peterborough manufacturing concern by an ex-employee. In this case Mr G. N. Gordon acted for the plaintiff, who was formerly a traveller for the company and who brought in a claim for $40 against the concern for wrongful dismissal. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defendants.

Mr. Linton Off for England.

A great many of our citizens hope that his contemplated trip to England will benefit the health of Mr. George Linton, of the Peterborough Lumber Co. This well known local citizen leaves to-morrow for St. Johns, N.B., where he will take ship aboard the steamer Empress of England. Mr. Linton will spend about six weeks in the old country mostly at his home in St. Reata, Huntshire.

Statement of City Taxes.

Following our report in yesterday's paper of the City Council's meeting, the following statement of the city's taxes will be of interest:

Statement of rolls for the year ending 31st Jan., 1912:

Total amount on roll ...	$223,218.01
Total amount deposited	207,299.04
Balance	$15,918.97
Less 2 per cent. dis. on 1st payment	3,343.87
Balance	$12,575.10
Amount collected on January and deposited.	$792.42.

Our Local Debt is Large.

Judging by the report of the Peterborough City Trust, this city is nearly one and one-half million dollars on the wrong side of the financial ledger. It is time a halt be called on some of our civic expenditures or this city will become so expensive to the taxpayers to live in that the ordinary citizen will have to fold up his tent, and like the proverbial Arab, "steal away" to other climes or places where civic taxation does not eat up nearly every cent that said citizen can earn.

Local Man Saw Disaster.

Whilst nearly every resident of the city has read with regret reports of the recent disaster at Niagara Falls when three people went to watery graves, one local citizen was a spectator of the sad scene. Mr. S. Hampton, 84 Hunter street, saw the unfortunate occurence and was deeply impressed by the awful spectacle. He has, to his friends graphically described how with an unusually cold wave and a boisterous wind, the spray from the falls froze as it fell. He described how he himself was quickly covered with a coating of frozen spray. When the alarm was sounded, and everybody rushed for the shore and safety, he happened to be the last to reach terra firma on the American side of the river. Mr. Hampton thinks that the winter headwear of those who perished prevented them from hearing the cries of those on shore. It seems that Mr. Hampton, shortly before the fatality, was engaged in taking photographs of the ice-bridge.

Bring the Crowds Here.

Lindsay will next week hold a big winter carnival, and judging by the reports heard by The Times, the event will be a great success. Mr. Wm. Smith of the Toronto Construction Co., together with engineers Von Sydow and Patten, informed Mr. P. J. Breen and Mr. Gillies that they would help on the good work by putting on something special for one of the three days. What this will be has not been fully decided, but there is no doubt but it will be something good. "What is the matter with Peterborough getting up some such event?" was a question asked of The Times yesterday by a subscriber. This latter gentleman remarked later "It seems to me that about the only thing Peterborough takes any interest in, is some entertainment happening at a distance." He went on to say that, "in years gone by Peterborough used to bring money into town, now the money all goes out."

5 YEARS' THROAT TROUBLE AND INFLUENZA CURED

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

This Case Does Prove That When Catarrhozone is Breathed Every Trace of Catarrh Disappears.

Milford Haven, Da., Jan. 19—Every one in this neighborhood knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. Cowley, and how she has entirely cured herself. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and endured the manifold tortures of influenza for five years. My life was despaired of. Catarrh was undermining my strength very fast. I used treatments from eminent doctors, but all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever being well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrhozone. Immediately I sent for Catarrhozone, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. To-day I am cured. We would not be without Catarrhozone in our home—it's so sure in colds, coughs, bronchial and throat trouble. I feel it is my duty to publicly recommend Catarrhozone."

Get the large dollar size of Catarrhozone; it contains a beautiful hard rubber inhaler, and medicine that lasts two months. Smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c. each. Beware of imitations—accept only Catarrhozone, sold by all reliable dealers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N. Y.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. John J. Rusy leaves to-day for her home in Gainsboro, Sask.

Congratulations Mr. Henry on your acquisition of the assessorship.

The Misses Winnifred and Hildah Dobbin will be present at the opening of the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Geo. Evans left yesterday for Buffalo to attend the Custom Cutters Association of America.

The Misses Kingan, Brock street, will receive for the last time this afternoon.

Mrs. J. Stewart McCann, Kingston is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Rollins, St. Andrew's Manse.

Mrs. W. A. Richardson, 317 Boswell avenue, will receive this afternoon from four to six.

Miss Caroline Clementi, 451 Water street, is visiting friends in Lakefield.

Lindsay Warder: Mrs. Thos. Sarginson, of Peterborough, returned home this morning after visiting her brother, Mr. S. B. Laidlaw.

Mr. George McCuish, of Winnipeg, is in the city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Macfarlane, Homewood avenue.

Miss McGiverin, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Norman, of Picton, is in Toronto to witness the opening of Parliament.

Mrs. Wm. Eyers and family wish to thank their many friends and the Quarterly official Board of the George street Methouist church for sympathy in their bereavement.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, formerly of this city, but now one of Lindsay's well known citizens has, with his daughters, and a party of friends gone to Winnipeg to attend the bonspiel there.

Lindsay Post: The many friends of Mr. "Pete" Spratt, who was injured in the hockey game, will regret to learn that he is not improving very rapidly. He is still confined to his room, the injured limb being badly swollen.

Enquiries made of Mrs. Francis Mason, 232 McDonnel street, by the Times last night elicited the fact that Mrs. Mason is still "in statu quo," that is to say that this lady who has been ill for some months, we regret to say, shows no marked signs of progress to recovery.

Mr. James Pammett, Lakefield, was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the re-opening of his fine summer resort known as "Glenwood" (Breezes' Island). Mr. Pammett assured a Times representative that Glenwood, during the coming summer will compete favorably with any or all of the similar resorts of Canada.

Mr. S. N. Dancy, editor of the New Empire, Vernon, B.C., is the guest of Mrs. Thos. Lytle, 344 Charlotte street. Mr. Dancy has been cammissioned by the British Columbia Government to promote a general publicity campaign in the interests of the Pacific Province throughout England.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Very general interest seems to have been aroused by Ald. Gordon's milk by-law.

St. George's Choral Society met last night in St. Andrew's school room.

When the "average man" yesterday morning saw another downfall of "The Beautiful" he grabbed his snow shovel and let loose his language.

At a late hour last night, the local police station reported "nothing doing—no arrests." What do you think of that for a manufacturing city of over 18,000 people?

Rev. F. J. Sawyers' lecture on John Greenleaf Whittier, the American poet, at the Y.W.C.A. last night was of great interest. A more comprehensive report in this issue.

The State of Mississippi fines now anyone who accepts a "tip." Give our reporters a "tip" as to latest local news and you will incur no fine.

Hookey fans are looking forward eagerly to to-morrow's game, under auspices of the Trent Valley League, between All Saints and the Campbellford bunch. Things will be doing to-morrow night.

Bobcaygeon Methodists a day or two ago passed the Church Union movement by a vote of 7 to 2. The Presbyterians of that village have yet to record their views on this great subject.

The Inland Revenue office of Lindsay, last month took in $109.08—That classic Scugog River must furnish enough drinking water to cut out the demand for fermented beverages.

The Hague Tribunal is to discuss abolition of airships. Judging by one of our local contemporaries' editorials, why not have a tribunal to abolish or lessen the use of "hot air."

CHURCH DOINGS

St. Luke's Church.

To-morrow, 2.30—Woman's Auxiliary followed by [illegible] Executive Committee.

Friday, 4.15—Junior Auxiliary; 6, choir concert, East City town hall.

Sunday, 8.30 a.m.—Corporate Communion of the young men.

Knox Church.

To-morrow, 3 p.m.—Ladies' Aid Society will meet in the Ladies' Parlours.

Friday evening—Boys' Club Rally; address by Mr. Roy Smyth. Choir practice at 8 p.m.

Sunday morning, 11th—Church Union.

St. John's Church.

To-morrow, 5 p.m.—Choir practice, boys, at 7.30.

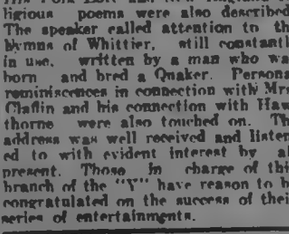
Sunday, Sexagesima—8.30—Holy Communion; Corporate Communion. Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Junior Auxiliary sale and concert, Thursday, Feb, 15th, from 4 to 6.

J. W. Copeland, Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

WHITTIER'S HISTORY

That the Y.M.C.A. as a live and literary body was fully demonstrated last night when the "green" room was comfortably filled by those who enjoy a literary treat. As far as the musical end of the evening was concerned, Miss Scott was advertised to sing, this tells that part of the story. The "Piece de Resistance" however, as the Broadway restaurants say, was the high class address given by Rev. F. J. Sawyers, rector of St. Luke's church. The Rev. gentleman took as his subject, "John Greenleaf Whittier," the immortal bard of the U.S. In the beginning of his lecture Mr. Sawyers mentioned a few excerpts from Francis Parkman, the historian; Oliver Johnston, Chas. Kingsley, the novelist; John Bright, England's great politician. Mr. Sawyers gave a short sketch of the life of Whittier. He showed how Whittier collaborated with W. Lloyd Garrison. Next the author's Indian poems were touched on, including, and emphasized was Mogge Mc Gone. His Folk Lore and New England religious poems were also described. The speaker called attention to the hymns of Whittier, still constantly in use, written by a man who was born and bred a Quaker. Personal reminiscences in connection with Mrs. Claflin and his connection with Hawthorne were also touched on. The address was well received and listened to with evident interest by all present. Those in charge of this branch of the "Y" have reason to be congratulated on the success of their series of entertainments.



A FEW OUTSTANDING FACTS
-FROM THE
-SIXTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE CANADA LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY

A Splendid Year.	The business of the year 1911 was, in all its material factors, the most important in the Company's long history of sixty-five years.
Greatest Surplus Earnings.	THE SURPLUS EARNED by the Canada Life in 1911 was $1,293,597.00, the greatest on record. A new "high mark" for surplus earnings was reached four years ago, and in each year since then a new record has been established.
Interest Rate Increasing	THE INCOME, both from premiums and interest, $6,543,201.00, shows a substantial increase over previous years. The rate of interest earned each year by the Canada Life has steadily been growing since 1899, and a further increase is expected for 1912. This is an important factor in making surplus.
Assets Doubled in Twelve Years.	THE ASSETS were increased by $2,436,484.00, the largest growth in any year. The TOTAL ASSETS now stand at $44,257,341.00, having more than doubled in the past twelve years.
A New Record.	THE NEW PAID-FOR POLICIES amounted to $12,507,063.00, exceeding the best previous years. The TOTAL ASSURANCES now in force are over $135,615,253.00.
Large Benefits to Policyholders.	THE PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS in 1911 totalled $2,295,073.00. In the past twelve years the Canada Life has paid or credited to its Policyholders or their beneficiaries nearly $50,000,000.00.
Only High-class Investments.	THE INVESTMENTS of the Canada Life are carefully selected and distributed over a wide field of suitable securities, thus ensuring safety and good interest returns. In Western Canada the Company has invested $8,200,000.00 in mortgage loans, upon which no loss has ever yet occurred. The total mortgage investments of the Company are over $14,152,700.00.
Strength and Security.	THE CANADA LIFE [illegible] of its business on a 3½% interest basis, and the remainder at 3½%, which means that it holds Reserves much stronger than are required by any Government Insurance Department on the North American Continent.

A copy of the Financial Statement and Report of Directors, together with the proceedings at the Annual General Meeting held 1st February, 1912, at the Head Office, Toronto, will be mailed on request.

E. W. COX, General Manager.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Many Mixed Marriages on

Continued from Page 1.

found affinities in the "Army"; three married Anglicans; one, a Presbyterian; seven, Methodists; five, Baptists, and one an unclassified.

Average Age.

It is of interest to observe that so far as Ontario is concerned, men do not to any great extent marry later than women, although it is popularly thought otherwise. Last year 8,168 grooms, or about one-third of the total number (24,036) married between the ages of twenty and twenty four. Forty-seven per cent. of the brides were between those ages. In the case of both sexes the next greatest number married between the ages of twenty-five and twenty-nine, and after that the large classifications are between thirty and thirty-four for grooms and between fifteen and nineteen for brides.

Just 453 men were married under the age of twenty. One of these took a 32-year-old bride; another took a 38-year-old; two men between twenty and twenty-four married brides of between forty and forty-four; one married a lady of the discreet age of 70, while two grooms of forty and forty-four married women of the same ages. Fifteen women between the ages of fifteen and nineteen married men between forty and forty-four; two married men between forty five and forty nine; one took a man over 55, and one a man over 60. Three women between twenty and twenty-four married men over 55, two married men over sixty, and one a man over 70. One woman of twenty-seven married a man of 70.

Many June Brides.

June is still the month for brides. There were 3,566 out of the 24,036 marriages celebrated in June. September and December followed with 2,653 and 2,304 marriages respectively.

PUBLIC OPINION

Continued from Page 1.

vaunted Pasteur destruction of microbes or bacteria, let one or two citizens be bitten by an infected dog and our people will wake up suffering from nervous prostration.

In this connection I might say I yesterday had a letter from a friend in St. Thomas, Ont., stating that the police there were destroying every dog seen on the streets. In human affairs, it is better for a dozen sinners to escape than one just man to wrongfully suffer, but with dogs, and the dreaded rabies, it is better for ten hundred dozen clean dogs to be destroyed, if among them, one microbe of hydrophobia should exist. Coming past the post office last night a huge brute with all the marks of curdom and none of the characteristics of breeding rushed round the corner like a whirlwind. I jumped quickly and avoided the brute by six inches. It is, of course, generally this non de script dog that goes mad and it is the same class of dog that is in the majority here.

—Homer.

AFTER THE BATTLE

Cat:—"I'll get you yet, Mr. Parrot." Parrot:—"You had better tackle the canary bird first and get a reputation."

COMING

PROF. DORENWEND
OF TORONTO
Will be at the
ORIENTAL HOTEL
PETERBORO
FRIDAY, FEB'Y. 9th
with a stock of the newest EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN FASHIONS IN HAIR GOODS

SWITCHES
TRANSFORMATIONS
POMPADOURS
WAVES-FRONTS
COILS

Our Transformation for the lady who has thin hair, cannot be equaled. ALL OUR GOODS are noted for their superior workmanship, exclusive styles, and fine quality of hair.

ANY STYLE WILL BE GLADLY DEMONSTRATED FREE

OF INTEREST TO THE BALD MAN.

You are invited to call on us or a FREE DEMONSTRATION of our famous

"DORENWEND SANITARY PATENT TOUPEE"

The only Sanitary and perfectly constructed toupee made. Indetectable, light in weight, strong, perfectly ventilated. Worn and endorsed by physicians and medical men. They are made in any styles, shapes or shades.

Do not fail to call and see them

THE DORENWEND CO., of Toronto Limited.
The House of Quality Hair Goods.
103-105 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.

Will be in Lindsay, Benson House, Saturday, Feb., 10th,

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for
Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Recommend physicians will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, discharging from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To appreciate it, to recognize Big G, read carefully the directions, and you will find it the most satisfactory remedy you ever used. Big G is not a secret remedy, for its composition is printed on every label. Big G is sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, by us, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, or 6 bottles, $5.00. Big G is a powder to be dissolved in water when wanted. Big G is sold by druggists, or sent on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books; any ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some didn't see at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require best sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 34 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

SPECIAL BULLETINS FROM BELFAST TO WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—Great interest in the situation at Belfast has been aroused in Winnipeg and other sections of the West. The Knights of Columbus, the Ulstermen and the Orange Lodges have arranged for special bulletins to-morrow night from the scene of the disturbance. The Orange lodges of Manitoba have sent $5,000 to Ulster to fight Home Rule.

WON'T BE ANY TROUBLE.

Belfast, Feb. 7. With the Home Rule speech of Winston Churchill scheduled for to-morrow, the situation, so far as fear of rioting was concerned, was considerably brighter to-day. Two thousand of the leading Orangemen of the city called on the chief of police to-day and personally pledged themselves as favoring peace. They said they would endeavor to keep all their followers away from the Nationalist meeting, and were positive there would be no trouble.

The Lord Mayor issued a statement in which he explained that there was no intention of using the troops now in the city unless they were absolutely needed to stop rioting. They will not be detailed for guard duty or sent to the vicinity of the meeting place.

THE EMPEROR OPENS THIRTEENTH REICHSTAG

Strengthen the Forces Both on Land and Sea---A Fixed Policy

Berlin, Feg. 7.—Emperor William in person opened at noon to-day the thirteenth Reichstag which has assembled since the foundation of the German Empire. As is customary, instead of going to the Imperial Parliament the Emperor called the members to the palace where he made his speech from the throne in the Great White Hall. The Deputies present, were for the most part in uniform or court dress and the scene was a brilliant one.

After greeting the members of the Imperial Parliament in the name of the Governments of the confederated States of the Empire, Emperor William affirmed his desire to augment the welfare of all classes of the people of Germany and maintain the strength and prestige of the nation.

AUGMENT WAR FORCES.

Referring to the international situation and to the expected increase in the army and navy, he said: "For the success of our work of peace at home and overseas the Empire must at all times its national honor and its possessions as well as its just interests in the world. It is therefore, my constant duty and care to maintain and strengthen both on land and on sea the defensive power of the German people which does not lack young men capable of bearing arms. Measures with this end in view are in preparation and will be submitted to you together with proposals for covering the additional cost.

CULTIVATE FRIENDLY RELATIONS.

"In concluding our agreement with France we have given new proof of our readiness to settle international difficulties amicably whenever such a course is consonant with the dignity and the interests of Germany.

"Side by side with the maintenance of our alliance with Austria-Hungary and Italy my policy has been steadily directed towards the cultivation of friendly relations with all the powers on the basis of mutual respect and

From the Liveliest City in the State of Missouri to the Best City of its Size in North America

JAMES F. GALLAGHER AND HIS DAUGHTER, HELEN FOSTER GALLAGHER.

Mr. Gallagher has recently moved his family from Joplin, Mo., the metropolitan city in the mining district of the southwest, to Toronto. Mr. Gallagher is very emphatic in his statement that Toronto is the best city of its size on the North American continent and he says he is much better qualified to make this statement than Elbert Hubbard was in writing a testimonials for the proprietor of the Hollenden House Barber Shop of Cleveland, Ohio, to the effect that his is the best Barber Shop in the world.

Mr. Gallagher is the senior member of the firm of James F. Gallagher & Co., Brokers, with offices in Toronto, Kansas City and Joplin, Mo. He comes to Toronto with one of his partners, David McEwin Bell, a native of Paris, Ont. but for many years a resident of the States and a very able Broker. They are bringing a very able staff of assistants all of whom will make their home in Toronto.

Many of our men in financial circles will remember Mr. Gallagher as an able financial writer, he having written for the highest class of financial papers in the United States, his special articles published in such papers as the Wall St. Journal, the New York Commercial and the Boston News Bureau and the United States Investor commanding important space, while his daily market letters published in the two leading papers in Joplin, Mo., were placed beside the Associated Press letters and although far distant from the fountain head of financial information, his articles were equally as important and interesting.

Mr. Gallagher filled the position of Sec. and Manager of the Kansas Oil Exchange of Kansas City, Mo., and The Joplin Stock Exchange of Joplin, Mo., with credit and resigned the latter position to become President of The Joplin Trust Co., one of the leading Banks of Joplin, Mo.

His knowledge of financial affairs has been acquired by years of study and close application to business and although Mrs. Gallagher and he are well qualified to grace any society, they prefer a quiet home life, yet Mrs. Gallagher manages to keep in close touch with financial affairs and [illegible] Southern girl, she is much at home here, but she says that is because her Father is an English gentleman of the old school.

We predict a bright future for them in Toronto and a prosperous business for the firm of James F. Gallagher & Co. Mr. Gallagher was asked if his firm intended to become members of either of the Stock Exchanges in Toronto. He said: "While I think the Exchange Brokers here are a splendid body of men I do not think we will make application to become members unless your three Exchanges are consolidated into one strong Exchange, with rules and regulations to protect the investors and speculators and members of the Exchange."

We are advised that on Monday last Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher assisted in increasing the population of Toronto by the birth of a new Canadian daughter, Frances Virginia Gallagher.—From Toronto Illustrated World.

IS IT ROME OR LONDON?

Rev. Dr. Mavety Asks Which is the Higher Power

THE NE TEMERE DECREE

Strong Language From One of Ottawa's Leading Ministers—Spain, Italy and France Have Put the Church in Its Place—It is Now Canada's Turn to Do Likewise.

WHEN from almost every Protestant pulpit in Canada comes fierce denunciation of the arrogant assumption of the Romish Church, it is time for those in authority to realize where they are at. Rev. Dr. Mavety, pastor of Bell St. Methodist Church, Ottawa, in a sermon said:

"The Roman Catholic Church in a British province has declared herself superior to the law. Which is the higher power, Rome or London?

"In matters concerning herself the church has a right to make her own laws, but she has no right to interfere with the law of the land. When in Montreal I married several persons, one a Roman Catholic and one a Protestant in each case. I married them by the authority of the province, and who is he that dare say that those marriages are not legal. But of what effect is marriage if a number of years afterwards the church declares that these people were never married and that their children are illegitimate."

"We are promised by men of honor that no time will be lost in preparing the verdict by the privy council, and I expect they will keep their word and hasten but if they do not citizens of this country will make them hasten. The Ne Temere decree has been in vogue for centuries, and it is now a question whether the law of the church is to be the greater power. Spain, Italy, and France have put the church in its place, and [illegible] Canadian citizen is a law unto himself. Any clergyman opposed the law in any respect he is liable to fine or imprisonment. If Canada breaks away from this bondage, she will win a greater freedom than even the emancipation of slavery."

WILLIAMS SAYS THAT HE COULD HAVE SAVED THEM

"I CAN SECURE MYSELF WITH A ROPE TIED TO THE LADDER."

His Feasible Proposition Was Ignored by the Firemen, Who Said it Was Too Risky.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 7.—That the three victims of Sunday's ice bridge tragedy might have been saved at the Grand Trunk bridge had the firemen of the Niagara avenue company, this city, heeded the advice of Oscar Williams, one of the most daring men of the city, is the assertion of several who were on the Grand Trunk bridge at the time the youth and the couple passed under the structure to their death.

Williams is the man who made the slide across the Niagara Gorge during Niagara's Carnival last summer under the name of the Great Houdin. He is a steeplejack and is accustomed to taking all kinds of risks. The firemen reached the bridge more than half an hour before the helpless people drifted through the basin to the Swift Drift. Williams reached the bridge a few minutes behind the fire truck, which was equipped with hundreds of feet of rope and a number of ladders.

Williams suggested that the firemen secure a rope to either end of a ladder held in a horizontal position to the water's edge, and he would secure the youth and couple as they floated down. If by chance the people were any distance from Williams when they reached the ladder Williams said they could grasp the ladder and would have been able to hold on until he reached them. The firemen listened to Williams and several who were standing nearby expressed fear that Williams was taking too much of a risk.

"I can secure myself with a rope tied to the ladder," was Williams' reply.

"Why, you're crazy, man," was the retort from the firemen and they turned a deaf ear.

When seen after the people had gone to their death Williams made the declaration that it was a useless sacrifice of three lives and that they might have been saved if the firemen had adopted his suggestion. There are many others who now declare that the plan was absolutely feasible.

So far as the firemen are concerned they declare that they did all they could to save the people by lowering the ropes which many who saw them declare didn't even have a loop in the ends through which the helpless souls on the floes could pass an arm or leg to strengthen their grip.

KING OF DENMARK IS NOW SUFFERING FROM BAD COLD

Copenhagen, Feb. 7.—An official bulletin was issued this morning by the physicians in attendance on King Frederick, who was, last evening, while out walking, seized with a sudden illness. It says:

"The King passed a satisfactory night. He slept well, but has a little fever, arising from a slight inflammation of the lungs."

IN A SERIOUS STATE.

London, Feb. 7.—Private advices received here this afternoon from Copenhagen stated that King Frederick was in a precarious condition. It was said that the monarch was suffering from pneumonia despite official statements to the contrary.

FATHER VAUGHAN CONVERTS PRES. TAFT'S SISTER-IN-LAW

SHE HAS BEEN MEMBER OF A HIGH CHURCH THAT IS UNDER A BAN.

Mrs. H. W. Taft Enters the Roman Catholic Church—President and His Brothers are Unitarians.

New York, Feb. 7.—The most noted convert to Roman Catholicism the Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan, the famous English Jesuit preacher, has secured during his tour of the United States is Mrs. Henry W. Taft, sister-in-law of the President. It was announced to-day that she had been received into the Catholic Church last week by Father Vaughan at St. Ignatius Loyola's Church, Park avenue and 85th street. Mrs. Taft had previously been a high church Episcopalian, and for several years, it was said, had been closely studying the doctrinal differences between the Episcopal and Catholic churches. She finally met Father Vaughan and after a course of instruction at his hands, decided to change her faith.

The late Bishop Potter openly opposed this church, and from 1898 until his death refused to visit it because of its advanced ritual. Since his death, Bishop Greer has maintained the same attitude, as he is opposed to ultraritualism.

Mr. H. W. Taft and his brother, President Taft, are Unitarians, as were their ancestors for some generations.

FOR SANITARY INSPECTOR

Applications addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "For Sanitary Inspector" will be received up to 4 o'clock p.m., on Thursday next, February 8th, for the position of Sanitary Inspector for the City of Peterborough.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

THE COAL COMBINE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—New collieries have been opened in Nova Scotia lately, and still all the local coal dealers, by a strange coincidence, not only keep the price of Peterborough coal up to the top notch, but, strange to say, always advance prices on the same day. If the public, your readers, suspect the exact and actual truth of this latter statement, they can easily turn up the back files of our local papers and ascertain the absolute truth of the allegation. I would not for a moment accuse such estimable gentlemen as the local coal dealers of any collusion, but is it not a queer coincidence that they all simultaneously advance, and even at rare intervals, lower prices on the very same day?

—Sufferer.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—As a man in the milk business I have naturally followed with interest some letters on the subject of milk prices in a Peterborough paper. In these letters the writer accuses the milkmen of Peterborough of charging excessive prices. As far as I know of the milk business, the average dealer in Peterborough handles about (100) one hundred quarts daily. This costs the dealer wholesale four cents a quart and retails at seven cents, leaving the vendor $3.00 a day profit. Out of this he has to pay first of all his own wages, then the keep of one or two horses. In this connection kindly consider the present prices of hay, oats, and other commodities necessary to the business. You, or any intelligent man can quickly see that the milk vendors of Peterborough at 7c per quart have hard work to make both ends meet at the end of the week.

—Wm. Bullied, Otonabee.

THE SANITARY INSPECTORSHIP.

Sir,—It is rumored around town that advertising for someone to fill the position of Sanitary Inspector is only a bluff—that the man has already been selected. The party who is "slated" for the position is said to be a member of the police force. I would also like to know, Mr. Editor, if it is true that a certain alderman was approached by a local news paper man and informed that he must support the party referred to, although his better judgment led him to believe that he was not a fit and proper person for the job. The alderman, by the way, is a Liberal, and for political reasons, he is likely to obey the request, which is said to be equivalent to an order. I hope

Continued on Page 8.

EXPRESS TRAIN HELD UP

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 7.—Rock Island Express train, No. 43, containing special mail and express cars was held up to-day by five masked men, near Hulburt, Ark. They completely ransacked the train, but the amount of plunder they secured is not yet definitely known.

ANNUAL REPORT.

St. Mary's Hospital Has Been Run Economically and to Good Advantage.

St. Mary's has been run economically and to good advantage. It seems that patients are attending the Queen Mary hospital who can, but so not pay their bills. Our readers will remember that some time ago the people of Peterborough had to decide as to which patients with contagious diseases should be requestrated or not. At the first anniversary of the opening of this hospital, Dr. McPherson stated that very few people suffering from such diseases are being treated in their respective homes. No city patients are being treated in the hospital, and only a few from outside. One point for serious consideration is that a considerable number get treatment without paying therefor. The following report from the Medical Superintendent, Dr. A. W. McPherson, was received:

"The hospital was opened on March 13th, 1911. At first we had about eight cases, but when all the patients were gathering in from all parts of the town, this number was swelled to fifteen, eight of them being from two families. Our working staff consisted of three graduate nurses, and one probationer, a caretaker and his wife, a laundress and a maid. Since that time the number of nurses has not been more than two graduates and a nurse-in training. This includes Miss Mowry, the superintendent. During this time the hospital has treated 43 patients, thirty-seven being for scarlet fever and six for diphtheria. Thirty-nine of these were from the city and four from outside municipalities. There was one death. This patient was brought in for an operation.

The cost of the maintenance of an isolation hospital is light. The first year it is naturally higher than it will be expected to be in the future. The following will give a definite idea of the cost of 1911:

No. of patients treated—43.
Average number of days—28.63.
Total number of days—1231.
Total cost—$3,477.25.

TO GET RID OF YOUR PROTESTANT WIFE

There is one case, and only one, in which the church allows the recision of a full valid marriage. If a married person is converted to the (Roman) Church, and the unconverted party refuses to live at peace with her in the new religion, the convert is allowed to break off all connection and even to marry a Christian (that is Roman Catholic) partner. The principle underlying it is that the former marriage was a natural marriage, whereas baptism elevates marriage into a sacrament, and the chasms between the two orders possess a certain potentiality to dissolve the contract. What do Protestants think of the doctrine?

THE WEATHER.

Not much change in temperature.

DISCRIMINATING THIEF CLEANED POCKETS OF CHURCH CHOIR

A Montreal Man Had a True Appreciation of the Value of Things---Took Nothing That Would be Recognized

Montreal, Feb. 7. Whoever the thief was who went through the pockets of the Choir of Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday evening, he evidently had a keen sense of value as well as of the advisability of avoiding anything tending to recognition. Yesterday an unknown man called at the house of W. Lynwood Farnam, organist of the cathedral, and returned a Pullman berth ticket to Toronto and a ticket for the Mendelssohn Choir concert there, which Mr. Farnam intended going to. These he said he had found in a garbage barrel. Mr. Farnam also lost $20.

HOCKEY

COBOURG 8. Peterborough 6.

The Intermediates of Peterborough journeyed to Cobourg last night and were defeated by a score of 8—6. It took 20 minutes of overtime to break the tie which at full time stood 5—5. It sure must have been some game by the indication of the score. By this win, Cobourg has a lead of two goals, but Peterborough will likely overcome that lead and win the round on home ice.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A FINE FAMILY RELIC

Miss Caroline Clementi Finds and Purchases a Piano Made by the Late Muzio Clementi, Father of the Pianoforte.

Miss Caroline Clementi, who is at present visiting friends in Lakefield, a few days ago happened to find a "Clementi" piano in the house of one of the villagers. This instrument, the creation of the late Muzio Clementi, whose tombstone in Westminster Abbey describes him as "Father of the Pianoforte," is, possibly unique in Canada. Miss Clementi promptly purchased the instrument. This old fashioned piano, probably one hundred years old was not bought so much as a musical instrument but as a tie between present and bygone conditions. The piano little resembles the big instruments now put on the market, whilst probably considered at the time of its manufacture, a work of art. This old instrument is what is usually called a "spinnet." It is only five feet long, by possibly 3 feet wide, and stands on four straight mahogany legs. The keys of solid ivory testify to the age by king time colored a deep yellow. The piano will be preserved as a relic of the family by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clementi at their home, 451 Water street.

The faithful friend of the best cooks

Cleveland's SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Made from a Superior grade of pure Grape Cream of Tartar.

Makes Light, Flaky PURITY-STRENGTH-PERFECTION Biscuits, Cake and Pastry

The Latest "Eternal Question."—From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

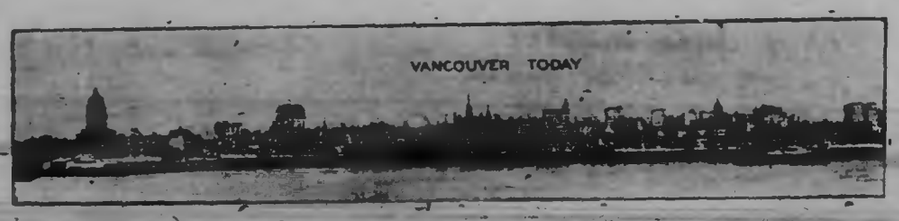
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organised recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,090,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jt L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms Tith 1-5 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
518 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

ELECTRICITY AND PLANT-LIFE

An Electrician Has Built a Machine by Which Two Crops Can Be Secured.

The study of economic biology is gaining a good deal of attention at the present time, and those engaged in research work have been able to secure results which suggest that there are enormous possibilities in the application of electricity to agriculture and horticulture. The investigators claim that the growth of almost all cereals, fruit, and vegetables can be increased and stimulated by the application of electricity, and, what is equally important, that the products can be gathered earlier. Their statistics go to show that the increase in quantity in certain cases is very high — strawberries 36 per cent., tomatoes 20 per cent., beets 30 per cent., cucumbers 17 per cent., wheat 29 per cent., and barley 9 per cent. more grain and 12 per cent. more straw. In the case of barley, the germinating process which is used by brewers occupies about 27 days; but this period is reduced to 13 days with the assistance of electricity, while it is also claimed that the percentage of germination is greater. These results have been obtained as the result of most carefully conducted experiments, and the question naturally arises as to the possibility of a general cooperation between science and agriculture on these lines. In other words, is it possible to secure apparatus in such a simple form, and at such a reasonable figure, that ordinary nurserymen and farmers will feel tempted to call the great power to their aid? That is a question to which a Bristol electrician, Mr. Thomas Clark, claims to have an affirmative answer. He has built and patented, a machine which is really an influence machine, and by the application of high-tension electricity a continuous current from insulated overhead wires can be discharged. The machine which Mr. Clark has just built, is shortly to be put to a practical test in one of the largest nurseries in the South. The purchasers have evidently realised that there is a chance of obtaining early crops, and in order to secure the best results they have erected a greenhouse on the lines desired by the patentee.

How to Stain Wood in Your Growing Trees

An interesting experiment of staining wood in a growing tree has successfully carried out by making a fine groove around the trunk deep enough to expose the wood just inside the bark.

A string having a diameter slightly greater than the groove is wound around the trunk completely filling the groove and thus protecting the wood from the action of the air. If now the ends of the string dip into a solution of coloring matter, the latter is absorbed by the tree. The solution is renewed until the wood is dyed to the desired intensity. Observations are made from time to time by boring small holes into the tree.

The length of time necessary to dye the wood depends upon the species of tree, the temperature and the season of the year. The best results are obtained just before the leaves fall in the Autumn. The absorption of the coloring matter is selective; that is to say, all coloring matter is not absorbed by every tree, and in general decided preference is shown for the colored extracts of other trees.

The wood is not stained uniformly, and the mottled effects are very beautiful. The color in the heart of the tree is not perceptibly changed.

Strength of Human Bone.

Fortunately the human skull, although composed of bones is elastic — much more so than one would think. The average male adult skull, in fact, is so elastic that it may be compressed laterally in diameter by a blow or by pressure, applied at the center of area, at right angles to the surface at that point, by 1⅛ centimeter or about six-tenths of an inch; recovering its original diameter and form, without breakage. The material of which our bones are made is so highly resistant that a cylindrical piece thereof only one square millimeter or 0.00155 square inch in area (i. e. only 1,128 millimeter or 0.044 inch in diameter) has a tensile strength of 16 kilograms or 32 pounds avoirdupois, figuring out at about 21,300 pounds per square inch. A similar sample of hard wood tested in the same manner held only 10 kilograms — that is, bone has 50 per cent more tensile strength than wood.

Electrified Pupils the Cutest

Electrified and osonised houses are likely to be an improvement of the near future. On the recommendation of Prof. Svante Arrhenius, 25 children in a Stockholm school are placed in a class room that is kept charged with electricity, and 25 other children of the same health, height, weight, etc., are placed in another room of identical size and conditions. Although complete results have not yet been reached, it has been already affirmed that physical and mental development have been greater among the electrified pupils than among the others.

A Narcotic Cartridge

Karl Burgsmuller, of Kreienasen, Germany, has devised a means for temporarily narcotising animals, i.e., rendering them insensible. He fills a cartridge with a mixture composed of substances containing capsicine in an immediately gasifiable form, and of easily inflammable substances to accelerate the gasification. This is combined with a small quantity of an explosive agent between the mixture and an explosive cap with which the cartridge is provided. Possibly this is the explosive of the pistols sold for rendering burglars insensible.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

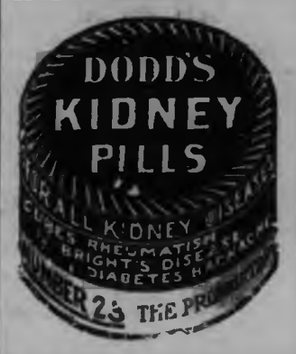
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope, either "Tender for Steel Dredge", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.

2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.

3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.

4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompany for unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to S. the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq., District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

PAMPERED CRIMINALS.

The new prison-hotel system which is being adopted in Europe for habitual offenders will do much to remove the charge that such members of society have been neglected. Under the new regime these prison-hotels are built in carefully selected and well wooded spots, which have also some advantages from a scenic point of view.

The habitual criminal gets the hospitality of the place for an indefinite period, which may not exceed ten years. Every facility is given for that social intercourse which does so much to make life endurable. The prisoners have meals together in an association hall. There will be a canteen, at which those who have not misbehaved themselves will be allowed to purchase what little luxuries are not provided on the ordinary menu of the establishment, and the long winter evenings will be beguiled with various recreations in the association hall. As for the bedroom accommodation, all has been done that the most solicitous care for the well-being of the inhabitants could dictate. It is well known that hotel patrons do not like to lodge in fourth or fifth storey rooms, so the prison blocks are handsome buildings of two storeys each. The cells are well lighted and carefully ventilated. Their internal arrangement is comfortable, and their decoration adequate, without being gaudy. The depressing square hole through which the ordinary prison cell receives its light is replaced by a charming cottage window frame, which the prisoners can open or close at their will. A steel grid is placed on the other side of each window in order that the seclusion of the convicts may not be destroyed by the envious honest outside trying to force their way into the prison. A large staff of servants, including a librarian, will be employed. In order that the prisoners may be able to obtain that reasonable amount of outdoor physical exercise that is necessary for health, a large area of the forest land will be cleared, and teachers will be provided from whom they may obtain knowledge of agriculture, horticulture and various skilled trades.

Thus, this new enterprise on the part of humane government provides for the happiest possible solution of the anxious problem: "What shall we do with our boys?" No calling offers such glorious prospects as the various branches of the criminal profession, in which failure, involving accommodation for an indefinite term in a prison-hotel, is only a trifle less desirable than success.

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal for you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and act accordingly. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman

Sole Agents for
OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

O'Keefe's
Stout is Extra Mild
There who prefer English Porter to Ale, will find O'Keefe's Stout unobjectionably delicious.
It has the rich flavor of the finest imported porter—but, being extra mild, will not make you bilious.
All bottles sealed with Crown stoppers to prevent cork and tinfoil getting in your glass. Sold everywhere.
"The Stout That is Always O.K."
THE O'KEEFE'S BREWERY CO. Limited, TORONTO.
230
SPECIAL

J. M. BROOKS & CO., Distributors

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the
Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.
250 rooms, 100 with private bath,
Newly furnished throughout,
American and European plan.
RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards; American plan, $2.50 per day and upward
Samuel Thompson, Proprietor

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, formerly of this city, but now one of Lindsay's well known citizens has, with his daughters, and a party of friends gone to Winnipeg to attend the bonspiel there.

Experiments in Wireless Telephony

Successful experiments have been made lately in wireless telephony, which may have far-reaching developments in aviation, particularly in war service. Conversation was freely carried on with an aviator while he was flying 750 feet in the air at a speed estimated to be 55 miles an hour. The aviator was B. C. Huck, of Leeds, who was using a Blackburn monoplane. He wore on his head an ordinary telephone receiving helmet, and on his chest the ordinary mouthpiece. Strapped on the machine was the "Aerophone" apparatus invented by H. Grindell Matthews, the youngest man ever elected a member of the Royal Institution. This was the first time wireless telephony has been tried on an aeroplane. Huck's voice was clear and distinct.

Method of Finding an Aeronaut's Position.

When terrestrial objects are invisible, an aeronaut is compelled to employ indirect methods of finding his position. Several such methods have been invented during recent years. Berlingmaier and Marcuse have employed magnetic measurements for this purpose and successful methods of informing an aeronaut of his position by means of wireless telegraphy have been devised. Finally, astronomical methods have been proposed, in which the tedious reduction of the observations is effected by means of special apparatus.

Persistence of Instinct.

Memory handed down through thirty generations is one of the perplexing facts of science. The beaver flourished along the French rivers until killed off for its fur, but is now known only in about a dozen of the villages of the Rhone near Avignon. For three centuries these villages have had no trees to cut down for dams. The animals were compelled to adopt a new mode of life, and have burrowed in the banks, shaping mud with their tails as usual. Recently some of them were taken by a Spanish count to forests on his estate. Very strangely, they resumed the habits formed three centuries before the species built at once beaver-like dams and building dens.

LEARNING TO USE LIGHT

The color of the light plays an important part in tiring people out. Fatigue occurs far more quickly with orange and yellow rays at high intensities than from green and bluish green light like that from the mercury vapor lamp. Nothing equals the bluish white of diffused daylight. Shadows also have an important part to play. In fact, one of the principal aids in distinguishing objects is the difference in brightness. If there were no shadows but only a perfectly diffused illumination of high intensity it would be hard to see clearly. In order to have shadows there must be directed light from one or a number of sources and not merely diffused light coming from all directions. There must be enough directed light to mark edges of objects by shadows and also enough diffused light to enable one to see clearly in the shadows. To light the home with comfort and economy requires a combination of concentrated illumination of fairly high intensity at the dining or reading table with a general illumination of low intensity. The lighter the wall and ceiling are the more light they reflect to give the required diffused general illumination and so less direct light will be needed. As artificial light is deficient in blue and green rays, walls and ceilings of a bluish or greenish shade give them greater reflecting power for daylight than for artificial light, which is generally desirable.

Natural Soap.

There is a natural soap well in Dakota. The soap is skimmed from a boiling spring, and hardens by exposure to the air. It is like soft clay, and can be gathered with a shovel. It is supposed to be a mixture of salt, borax, and the lubricating oil found in many parts of Wyoming. A sample has been tested by a prominent soap manufacturer, and he says that this natural soap is worth its full weight of the manufactured article. It has been used as axle grease by adding a little of the oil recovered near the spring, and it is announced the finest material ever used for that purpose. The soap will lather in the hardest of water, and leave the hands much softer than the factory article will. The supply is limited to be sure.

Edison's First Invention.

The story of Mr. Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.

How to Sleep.

Dr. Fischer, a physician practising in Paris, after a series of experiments has come to the conclusion that the orthodox way of sleeping is wrong and advocates a complete reversal of the existing order of things. You must have your head on a level with, or lower than, your feet. If pillows are to be used they must be under the feet instead of the head. The result, he claims, will be amazing, being a sure cure for insomnia, as well as a preventive for the nightmare. To prevent any inconvenience by too sudden a change, it is suggested that the pillows should be gradually reduced and finally placed under the feet.

Protecting from Electrolysis

Albert B. Herrick describes a method of preventing an earth conductor adjacent a grounded return by alternately connecting the earth conductor to the grounded return and to a source of negative electromotive force.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

DISTANCE GAS-LIGHTING

A Useful Appliance by Which Gas Jets May be Lit Up All Over a Warehouse by Merely Moving a Switch.

Users of gas for lighting purposes will be interested in the very useful appliance for lighting gas at a distance by means of an electric spark. The whole apparatus is compact and inexpensive, and may be used with existing fittings and be applied to any number of lights, and when once installed costs practically nothing for upkeep, as there is no permanent bypass-jet used. The apparatus consists of a small dry battery which generates a current of four to six volts, and measures about twelve by six by three inches, and is capable of serving any number of lights up to five hundred. To each burner is affixed a patent valve-tap which can be opened or shut as desired by means of a switch, and this can be fixed at any convenient place in the room, its connection with the battery and the valve-tap being made with ordinary bell-wire. The switch has two buttons, the first of which, on being pressed, opens the gas-way, and at the same time makes a very hot spark at the point of the burner which sets it alight; the second button when pressed shuts off the gas. To obviate the trouble and expense of using insulated wire in the wiring, the current from the battery is altered by means of a trembler, and is transformed to high tension by passing it through a transformer which is fixed to each valve-tap. The transformer is made of a core of laminated soft iron surrounded by a short coil of thick wire and a long coil of thin wire; the spark-leads are of stout sparking wires with steatite insulators, and the spark emitted is of the same strength as is used for firing explosive mixtures for internal combustion, and cannot miss fire. The whole apparatus is neat and compact; the valve and transformer, being quite small, do not show any apparent indication of their presence on the fittings.

The Utilisation of 'Air-Gas.'

During the past few years the utilisation of air-gas for lighting, heating, and other domestic purposes has advanced considerably. Air-gas, it may be explained, is an inflammable mixture formed by the addition in very small proportions of the vapour of a highly volatile spirit such as petrol with the air. Several disadvantages of the system have developed in its use, the most noteworthy being the condensation of moisture in the pipes, which impedes the flow of the gas and produces a disconcerting flicker in the light. This drawback, however, has now been overcome by previously passing the air to be associated with the volatilised spirit over a moisture-absorbing medium such as calcium chloride. That the system is the main is reliable and efficient is proved by the great number of small installations for the lighting of the houses in small communities from a central point. Worked on such a principle, it enables the smallest and most remote village to secure the same illuminating and other conveniences as are possible to large towns with an elaborate coal-gas generating station, and at a much smaller proportionate expenditure.

The Cry of the "Devil-Bird."

Of all the awe-inspiring sounds emited by wild creatures none is to be compared to that of the "devil-bird" of Ceylon, whose cry has been likened to the scream of a human being undergoing the most frightful torture. Naturalists have identified this bird with the brown wood-owl found in Hindustan. The "devil-bird," or ulama, as the Cingalese call it, is an elusive creature. The natives of Ceylon regard the cry of this bird with superstitious horror, for, it is claimed, its scream heard at night presages the most dire misfortunes. An official of the Ceylon civil service has given some study to this curious bird. Its ordinary note, he states, is a magnificent clear shout like that of a human being, heard at a great distance, and producing a fine effect in the silence of the night. But the sounds that have earned for the bird its bad name, and which this officer reports he heard to perfection but once, are said to be well-nigh indescribable, the most appalling that can be imagined, and scarcely to be heard without a shudder. It has been compared to the cries of a boy in torture, whose screams are being stopped by strangulation.

Stronger than Dynamite

The recent death of the inventor of the Japanese explosive, shimose powder, which played such an important part in the Russian war, adds interest to the announcement made by B. F. B. Wright, a former professor of chemistry at Harvard, that he has discovered a new explosive that is almost safe to handle and three times as powerful as dynamite. Of course the ingredients are being kept a secret. It is said that the new explosive will not damage anything unless fired in an airtight chamber. A bag of it has been dropped from a six-story window of the sidewalk, grains of it have been pounded on an anvil, and a rapid-fire gun has been shot into a mass of it, all with no explosion following. Mr. Wright claims that it will stand 275 degrees of heat without igniting and so the danger of spontaneous combustion is obviated. It will not freeze, and it can be used 15 minutes after being compounded. Dynamite must be stored 90 days before it can be used.

Doctor Advised Her to Take Them

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. BELLIVEAU'S BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Now She Can Do Any Kind of Work —Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Are so Popular.

Pre Den Haut, Westmoreland Co., N.B., Feb. 7.—(Special)—It is becoming a proverb in New Brunswick that no place is too small to furnish at least one person who owes his or her good health to Dodd's Kidney Pills. And this place is no exception to the rule. Mrs. Dominique J. Belliveau, a well known and highly respected resident says in an interview:

"I took Dodd's Kidney Pills on the advice of my doctor for Bright's Disease, and I am glad to say three boxes cured me completely. I can do all kinds of work now. I always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house in case we might need them."

Sometimes you wonder why people cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills are so enthusiastic in their praises of them. The reason is that they strike right at the root of ill-health. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidneys. That means that all impurities are strained out of the blood. It means pure blood, and pure blood means good health all over the body. Good health means good spirits; hence the enthusiasm.

A NOTED SCIENTIST

It is eighty years since the British Association first met. One of its avowed objects was the "removal of any disadvantages of a public kind which impede the progress of science." Science is able now to return the compliment. At last the voice of Science, in the person of Sir William Ramsay, the President, has a practical message that will bring the country to a knowledge of the limitation of its national resources, and of the nature of national economy. Sir William Ramsay is a Scot. He was born at Glasgow on the second of October, 1852. Like so many other famous Scots, he passed through the Edinburgh Academy and the University. That was in the days when German learning dazzled thinking Britain; so Tubingen marked his next step. In 1874 he became Tutorial Assistant of Chemistry at Glasgow University, and at the age of twenty-eight obtained his first Professorship at University College, Bristol, a "chair" which he held for seven years, at the end of which time he became Principal of the College. So far as the general public is concerned the two outstanding features of Sir William's life are his knighthood, which was conferred in 1902, and his research into the properties of radium. His paper on argon, written in conjunction with Lord Rayleigh leads us into the purely scientific domain, wherein the properties of helium, radium, and the products of disintegration are to be investigated by the layman. Scientific research has reached a point at which the discovery of new practical qualities in minerals and new arrangements of heat or force-producing matter may at any time be made. To Sir William Ramsay in Britain and to Madame Curie in France the man of to-day is looking for developments.

Cheap Aerophones

Anyone will be able to buy a complete outfit for aerophoning for $100 in a little while. Sir Wm. Bull, the chairman of the Grindell-Matthews Wireless Telephone Syndicate, told an interviewer that this would probably be the price of the two necessary small boxes, and it is expected that before long the aerophone will be in everyday use. "One of the largest firms of financiers in England," said Sir William, "have taken a great interest in the invention. They allowed us to use their strong-room for experiments. The room is built of chilled steel, and is air-tight, so that our operator could only remain in it for 10 minutes. In that time he got connected with another operator on the roof of the building. Experiments have also been successfully carried out and I, myself, have in the early stages of the invention spoken 'through' the walls of a suite of rooms." The two boxes which complete the outfit are about nine cubic inches each, and are made of mahogany.

Science for Its Own Sake.

Sir James Dewar recently pointed out that the whole cost of a century's research of experiments at the British Royal Institution has been only about £120,000. What an insignificant sum to pay for the benefits mankind had received from the splendid investigations of Young, Davy, Faraday, Tyndall, Dewar himself, and others. Yet most of the labours of these men were carried out honoris causa, and not for immediate material benefit.

What Radium Will Do.

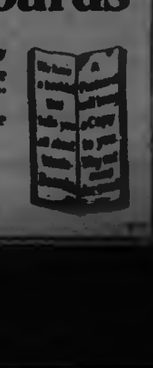
Sir William Ramsay pointed out at the recent Parliament of Science in Portsmouth, England, that if radium could be turned to mechanical use a ton of the marvellous substance would suffice to propel a ship of 15,000 tons, with engines of 15,000 horse-power, at the rate of fifteen knots for thirty years. He added by comparison that such a ship would require 1,500,000 tons of coal to get the same results. The Mauretania and the Lusitania consume about 7,000 tons of coal each for every voyage of five and one-half days.

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY FOREMOST IN GETTING EDDY'S



Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

DOLLS—TRAINS—HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a Specialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10 00 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

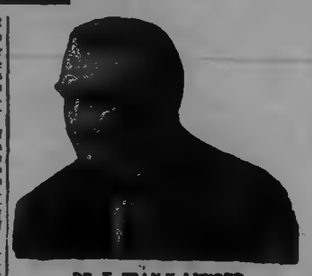
I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 827 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who send you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.



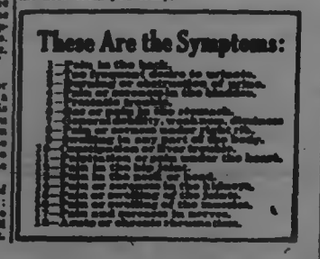
DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

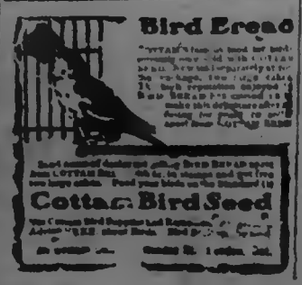
If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:



OUR NEW STORY.

The Times has secured the right to publish the thrilling romance, entitled "The Cable-man", the opening chapter of which will begin on Saturday next, Feb. 3rd. This splendid story is written by Weatherby Chesney, which is sufficient to mark it as first-class. Do not miss it.



TWO NEW LAKES

A spectacular feature attending the building of the barge canal, in New York State, is a change in the map of the state that will add to its lakes two bodies of water of considerable size.

A profile of the canal across the state shows a continuous descent from Lake Erie to the confluence of Seneca and Oneida rivers, then a rise to the comparatively low divide in the vicinity of Rome, followed by another continuous descent, to the Hudson. From this it will be seen that there are two critical points in furnishing a water supply for the canal. The problem at the western end is readily solved by the abundance to Lake Erie, but throughout the history of the state canals, the question of supplying the Rome summit level has always presented more difficulties, and has led to the building of a chain of reservoirs among the hills to the south and within the Adirondacks on the north. For the enlarged canal these existing sources are retained, and the two large reservoirs are added.

The work of building the dam and clearing the site at Delta, for impounding the waters of the upper Mohawk, about five miles north of Rome is now about three-quarters done. Across the greater part of the river gorge, 600 feet wide at its base, the dam has reached its full height of 100 feet above the lofties tfoundation. When the gaps left for the river and an existing canal are closed, and the top of the dam is extended to its 1,000 feet of length, there will be formed a reservoir some four miles long and two miles wide at the base of its triangular shape, having an average depth of twenty-three feet and a capacity of about 20,750,000,000 gallons.

The Mystery of Glass

A correspondent recently reported what he described as the 'curious freak' of a backbird flying against a parlor window many times at the some spot continuously. Such an incident is not uncommon. Birds have been known to fight for hours at a time, day after day, with their own image reflected in a pane of glass, pecking and fluttering against the pane and quite exhausting themselves in their fury to demolish the supposed rival. It is another instance of how the arts of our civilization corrupt and confuse the birds. It is the same with fishes. Darwin tells a story of a pike in an aquarium separated by plate glass from fish which were its proper food. In trying to get at the fish the pike would often dash with such violence against the glass as to be completely stunned. It did this for more than three months before it learned caution. Then when the glass was removed the pike would not attack those particular fish, but would devour others freshly introduced. It did not at all understand the situation, but associated the punishment it had received, not with the glass, but with a particular kind of fish. Darwin's American monkeys proved themselves more 'knowing.'

A New Cave Wonder

"Cathedral Cave" is the name that has been given to a vast cavity in the earth near Prescott, Arizona, in which are found some of the most awe-inspiring works of nature, in the form of stalactites and stalagmites, that the eye of man ever beheld; also there are evidences that the place was used both as a burial ground and as a dwelling by some prehistoric race. The discovery was made accidentally only a few weeks ago, when a picnic party was going through a large cave that has been known for years. One of the party stumbled on a dark and narrow crevice giving access to the glorious "Cathedral." From the floor were picked up human bones and articles, which indicated that the cave had been used as a burial ground by the mysterious people who inhabited the south-west of what is now the United States before the Aztecs. Implements and domestic pottery were strewn about in profusion.

WHAT THE ALCHEMISTS SOUGHT

A gramme of radium dispenses energy chiefly in the form of heat at a rate which is about one hundred and twenty gramme-calories per hour; or, to draw a comparison, a given weight of radium radiates the same amount of heat-energy in sixty-five hours as would be given off by the complete combustion of an equal weight of good coal; and, while the latter would be entirely consumed, the capacity of the radium for continued radiation would not be materially lessened, for its exhaustion would be incomplete after a period of from seventeen hundred to two thousand years. Thus a minute quantity of radium distributed throughout the earth would cause a rise in temperature of the surrounding rock, and a scientist has expressed his surprise that, from an investigation of the outer layers of the earth's crust, the internal heat is not even greater than it is from this cause.

The experiments of Professor Soddy have that radium is not entirely formed from uranium, but that there is probably an intermediate substance formed in the uranium-radium series with a long period of life which may be ten thousand years. The radium therefore only one stage of a series of transformations which we have been able to isolate, and it is hard to resist the conclusion that in this series we find to some extent what the alchemists of old were in search of, the transmutation of one element into another, though all of them bear a resemblance sufficiently close to justify their common relationship to a distinct group.

Pure Air and Horses.

The 'oldest inhabitant' never remembers a time when the street odour has been less unpleasant than was the case in towns during the recent heat. In the pre-motor days the smell of horse manure was at times quite unbearable, and we therefore have to thank the motor with all its faults, for this improvement. Without it the intense heat we have lately experienced would have been much more terrible. Possibly also there is more oxygen available for human use now that the equine ranks have been so greatly thinned. During the 24 hours a man will vitiate about 375n cubic feet of air to the extent of 1 per cent. A horse (as, of course, a motor) will do much more than this, so perhaps it is just as well he is gone or going — so far as the streets are concerned.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Storage Flats.

Some more expeditious means of handling goods in warehouses, whether they be crates, boxes, bales, or what not, has long been necessary to supplant the slow, antiquated methods of doing things by manual labor, especially in regard to transit between building and street. This has now been found in a new type of simple conveyor that has recently been devised and which is now in successful operation. It comprises a number of frames supporting a continuous series of wheels or rollers, carried on two rails like a light, narrow-gauge railway. The wheels are employed when boxes have to be handled, and the rollers for bales and crates. The system works entirely by gravitation, a fall of about thirty inches in one hundred feet being advocated. Demonstrations with this simple appliance have sufficed to prove that goods can be expeditiously and safely transported by this means, and that sharp curves can be negotiated successfully. In a lofty building where goods have to be discharged from different levels the same system is adopted spirally, the gradient being so arranged that the descending goods do not acquire an unnecessary downward impetus. The conveyer has been adopted on one of the wharves of Thames-side, and another larger installation is in operation at a Belfast factory, this latter plant handling packages weighing up to five hundredweight. The system is stated to be far cheaper and more efficient than the ordinary belt conveyer, the cost of installation being very low.

THE GLOW-WORM'S LIGHT

Learned Men Differ in Opinoin as to the Source and Nature of the Light.

French entomologists have been just lately devoting much attention to the study of the glow-worm, particularly with reference to the source and nature of its light. It is found that both male and female are luminous, although in the former the light is much feebler. Even the eggs and larvae are faintly luminous. The light is produced on the last three segments of the abdomen. It may perhaps be worth pointing out that the glow-worm is not a worm, but an insect belonging to the great order of beetles the Coleoptera. Luminosity among insects indeed is chiefly found in the beetle order. The Mexican fireflies Pyrophorus, for example, are beetles. Some of them give out sufficient light to read by. Waterton sometimes used them in this way to write up his diary when wandering in the South American forests.

In adult life the glow-worm is a vegetarian, feeding on tender leaves of plants, but while a grub it is carnivorous, feeding on snails and slugs. The light of the glow-worm and fireflies has been called phosphorescent and attributed to phosphorus. Dubois and Pellesme has stated his conviction that it is phosphoretted hydrogen gas stored up in the cellular tissues and in communication with the nervous system.

Dubois finds that phosphorus does not enter into the composition of the luminous substance of the glow-worm, but he suggests it is used to be part of white matter covering the [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] worms.

TESTING SUBMARINES

A New Invention by an Italian. Said to Solve the Problem of Testing Submersibles.

Through the inventive genius of an Italian marine engineer, a long forward stride seems to have been made recently in the construction of submarine boats. He has made it possible to do away with a large part of the hazard incident to the submergence of these underwater war vessels, hitherto one of the greatest stumbling blocks to submarine constructors. This inventor is Hugo Laurenti, formerly of the Royal Navy, and designer of the famous Laurenti submersibles. His latest invention is a type of testing dock for submarine craft which will overcome most of the perils and vexations attendant upon the dangerous submersible trials necessary for all such craft. Maj. Laurenti's testing dock is a modified floating device of iron which can be practically sealed [illegible] submarine is entered it at one end. The dock is brought to the [illegible] and the [illegible] of the way [illegible] submarine under trial placed within. In the proper way. The [illegible] is closed, and the entire apparatus sinks deep and around the vessel floats.

Telephone Communication.

Before this [illegible] however, the examining officers peer the submarine and remain until the test is completed and the proper observations taken. By means of a telephonic arrangement [illegible] kept in constant communication with the operator in charge of the dock. Gauges are placed at fixed points [illegible] of the craft which record pressures and the slightest change of [illegible] external stresses. [illegible] is ready to enter in the [illegible] dock is sealed and its press [illegible] until the [illegible] force acting upon the hull of the submarine at every external point is exactly equal to the pressure of the water in the testing dock. [illegible] does not have to be taken off shore to be tested and [illegible] have to expend [illegible] favourable weather conditions. There is no risk involved, and those inside the craft can observe the conditions at every stage of [illegible] the exact counterpart of [illegible] in the open sea.

Watching the Pressure

By being in vocal communication [illegible] in charge of the pressure gauges of the dock, the inspectors [illegible] the submarine can work with certainty and security. They can also detect leaks, and trace them to their exact sources, while, incidentally, [illegible] the gauges marking the [illegible] yielding of the hull structure, [illegible] may take place, and the degree thereof. Up to the present the strength of these boats had been calculated by mathematical formulae, which are largely theoretical. The Laurenti testing-dock will show how far these formulae may be correct, and will, undoubtedly, indicate directions in which structural changes can be made to advantage.

Mechanical Equivalent of Heat.

The mechanical theory of heat regards heat as a mode of motion, and investigation has shown that there are two forms of energy, which is [illegible] mechanical equivalent heat, or Joule's equivalent. That is, in the experiments of Joule, a certain known amount of mechanical energy be expended, as, for [illegible] by the falling of a weight to [illegible] paddles in a vessel of water, [illegible] increase in temperature of the [illegible] due to agitation by the paddles [illegible] was be found proportional to [illegible] work done. This relation or proportion is expressed by the amount [illegible] necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water at [illegible] degrees Fahrenheit through one [illegible] atmospheric pressure, or, [illegible] words, [illegible] one British thermal Unit to the water. The heat necessary to raise the temperature one pound of water from 62 degrees [illegible] temperature was found [illegible] to be able to perform work [illegible] to the raising of 772 pounds one [illegible] in height. The latest experimental determination of Rowland [illegible] that the exact value is somewhat higher than 772, and 778 is the [illegible] now usually accepted as the [illegible] equivalent.

The Manchurian Bean.

The "Japan Herald" has drawn attention to the fact that Manchurian beans were formerly used only to make tofu, miso, and soy. About fifty years ago Chinese near Tientsing and Taiyuan first produced oil from them by a process similar to that employed for sesame and linseed. This oil was used for fuel and for cooking, and the residual for [illegible] and fodder. In the winter of 1908 it began to be exported into Europe, where it was found to be better than cotton-seed for fuel, soap-making, and [illegible] cattle. This success has marvellously increased the area devoted to the growing of the beans, and has caused the farmers in the north of Manchuria to give up wheat-raising. The Shantung farmers discovered that oil-cake was a first-rate fertiliser, and after the war with China this oil-cake was largely exported to Japan. The oil is used in Manchuria for lighting, lubricating, and cooking, and in south China in making waterproof cloth, paper umbrellas, and lanterns, and is often mixed with lacquer for making varnish and printing-ink. The Chinese hit upon the principle of rotation of leguminous with cereal crops quite accidentally, without knowing anything of the scientific explanation.

Very general interest seems to have been aroused by Ald. Gordon's milk by-law.

Bobcaygeon Methodists a day or two ago passed the Church Union movement by a vote of 7 to 2. The Presbyterians of that village have yet to record their views on this great subject.

The Inland Revenue office of Lindsay, last month took in $100.00—That classic Scugog River must furnish enough drinking water to cut out the demand for fermented beverages.

The Hague Tribunal is to discuss abolition of airships. Judging by one of our local contemporaries' editorials, why not have a tribunal to abolish or lessen the use of "hot air."

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

In Scarborough's case the explanation was easy and ordinary. He had failed in the examination, and the uncle who was paying for his education refused to allow him to try again.

"I don't think he was really sorry," said Scarborough. "He had the notion that I had brains, if I cared to use them, and he didn't think the army was a good field for their exercise. He is a self-made man; you see, and has a prejudice against what he calls a butterfly life. That was before the war. He's a bit more ready to admit that a soldier may be a man now. He wanted me to go into the city."

"You struck at that?"

"Yes."

"And then?"

"Well, then, as I didn't take what he offered, he told me to do the best I could without him. The only thing he stipulated for was that it should be something in which I could earn a definite salary, and he promised to add three sovereigns to every one that I saved at the end of a year."

"Not a bad arrangement, either," exclaimed Varney.

"No, a very good one for me. I'm decidedly a [illegible] goods, but I've contrived to preach the gospel of Mammon to [illegible] that makes converts. He'd be pleasantly surprised, though, if anyone pointed that out to him. Now how about you, Phil."

"Wait a bit," said Varney. "What made you choose the cable service?"

"For one thing the exam. was easy; for another, I'm rather keen on electricity and electrical machines; for a third, it seemed a good way of seeing a little bit of the world. Curiously enough the service is rather crowded with men who originally intended to be something else. Somebody has dubbed us 'the legion of the ploughed'; but on the whole, I think we're rather good sorts. I'm quite satisfied with my life and with my colleagues."

The other man's explanation of his position was equally simple. Scarborough was what he was because he had failed in an examination. Varney had never sat for the examination, because the misfortune or crime of others had thrown him suddenly on his own resources, and had changed his destiny from that of spending an allowance to that of earning a living. These two causes between them account for many a curious choice of profession.

"You remember the smash?" he asked.

"Yes," said Scarborough. "Carrington and Varney, stockbrokers—everybody knew about it; but I never understood it."

"[illegible] governor's [illegible] Carrington in everything, and Carrington used him as a tool. The man was a thorough paced blackguard."

"So I understand. Why wasn't he brought to book?"

"Too clever. Slipped through the lawyers' fingers on a technicality, and left his partner as the scapegoat. The poor old governor's only crime was over-trust in a scoundrel—even the prosecuting counsel accused him of nothing more heinous than an easy-going incompetency—but the disgrace killed him. When things had got as straight as they ever would get, I went out to ranch in Brazil; found that the family luck stuck to me in that it yoked me to another scoundrel, the man I was ranching with; cut him after a month; fell in with Val B. Montague at Rio; joined him, and because I found that he was honest, stuck to him. I had been with him a year when the news of the governor's death reached me; but I didn't go back. There was nothing to go back for, and—well, that's about all."

"What became of Carrington?"

For a moment Varney did not answer. Then he said slowly:

"Till to-day I knew nothing about him. To-day two things have happened that make me suspect that he is in this island of San Miguel. Shall I tell you what they are?"

Scarborough was crumbling a piece of bread with nervous fingers. He knew what his friend was going to say, and he could not feel the same certainty as he had felt an hour ago that the suggestion was absurd. Elsa had told him that she felt a rush of shame when she heard the name of Page on his lips. Might this, after all, be the reason?

"Yes," he said quietly.

"One is that Elsa Carrington was with you to-day," said Varney.

"Can you prove that to me?"

"I can tell you that I am sure. Three years ago I met her often at her father's house. She wore her hair in a pigtail then, and her frocks were short, but otherwise she has not altered much. Also, I can describe Carrington to you, and you can judge for yourself if he is the man you know as Page. He is about five feet seven, rather fat, and his skin hangs loosely over his cheek bones, as though he had once been much fatter. There is some thing wrong with one of his fingers, but I forget which."

Scarborough drew in his breath quickly, and looked hard at the crumbs he was making. He remembered that when Mr. Page played chess he always made the moves with his left hand. The last joint of the middle finger of the right hand was missing, and Elsa had once explained that her father had lost it from the bite of a horse when he was a boy.

"And the other thing?" he asked huskily.

"The other thing is that Mona de la Mar refused to perform to-night," said Varney.

"Why, how does she come into it?"

When he had heard his friend's explanation of his reasons for thinking that Mona de la Mar did come into the story, Scarborough rose suddenly and said:

"Can you get a bicycle and ride back with me to-night? I'd like to talk things over with you."

"Then stay and talk here—or better still—let me show you over our schooner. It's a funny place."

"No," said Scarborough. "I must get back. I want to be within reach of the Chinelas if I'm needed. Will you come?"

"Yes," said Varney.

He hired a bicycle in the town, and rode back with Scarborough. They had their talk out, and by that time it was late, and Phil Varney stayed the night at the cable station. Next morning, while they were at breakfast, a [illegible] to Scarborough. He opened it and read:

"Father is dead. I think he has been murdered. Come to me. Elsa."

That was all. Scarborough thought again of the cablegram. Was this the danger which the coming of the circus had brought? And the danger might not be over yet, though one victim had fallen. Elsa herself might be in peril.

He got his bicycle, and started at once for the Chinelas. As he rode off, a sudden thought struck him, and he called out to Varney:

"Find out what Mona de la Mar was doing last night, and what the business was which made her refuse to perform in the circus."

CHAPTER VI.

Waiting for the Doctor

When Scarborough jumped off his bicycle at the door of the Chinelas, Elsa was standing on the steps waiting for him. He went to her, and took her hands in his. It was characteristic of the pair that he neither offered, nor did she expect, condolences.

"Father is lying upstairs," she said. "I have sent for a doctor."

"Then he is not dead!" said Scarborough. "I thought—"

"He is dead."

She spoke quietly. The blow had been a cruel one, but it had not unnerved her. If there was work to do, she would do it, and the tears would come afterwards. Scarborough, watching her face, saw no signs that the tears had come yet; but he noticed a line of hardness about her mouth that had not been there yesterday.

"Why have you sent for a doctor?" he asked.

"Because I want to know what was the cause of death. I think that my father has been murdered."

He made her put on her hat and walk with him down the road, away from the house where her sorrow lay. Presently he pointed to a fern-covered bank, and when they were sitting side by side, he took her hand in his again and said gently: "Tell me about it."

For a little while she said nothing. Then with a quick movement she drew her hand away.

"First," she said, "I have a confession to make."

"To me?"

"Yes. We have been known here as Page. I have allowed you to believe that it is our real name. It is not."

"I know," said Scarborough.

She glanced at him quickly.

"How long have you known?" she asked.

"Only for a few hours."

"You heard yesterday—at the circus—Phil Varney told you?"

"Yes."

"I told you yesterday that I did not know Phil Varney—you have found out from him that I did. How do you interpret that as part of the scheme of deceit? You mean to yourself that was only another [illegible] a spoken lie this time, to support the acted lie? Tell me, did you think that?" she demanded.

"No," said Scarborough.

"Then you made excuses for me! What were they?"

"I made none," he stammered. "I thought that you had some reason for refusing to know him now, though in the past you had known him; and although he is my friend, I believed that your reasons must be good ones. Besides, I remembered that you had asked me not to call you Miss Page, and that you had said that you felt a rush of shame when you heard that name on my lips. Whatever deceit there has been, whoever it be that has lied, you have not lied to me, Elsa."

"Thank you, Horace," she said in a low voice, and then added vehemently: "Oh, I hated it! I hated having to act that lie! It was all that I could do sometimes, when you called me Miss Page, to keep myself from crying out to you that it was not my name! And you are right about the other thing—I had a very good reason for refusing to know Philip Varney—the best reason in the world! He is the son of the man who brought my father to ruin."

Scarborough started. Yesterday Phil Varney had said to him: "Miss Carrington is the daughter of the man who ruined my poor old governor." Here was the charge flung back, and almost in the same words.

Which of the two was the false accusation? He found himself wishing that he could have a real doubt upon the point, for the sake of the girl at his side. But he had seen Phil Varney had given his chapter and verse.

"My father had enemies," Elsa went on. "He had a warning the other day, and he sent me to Ponta Delgada to see which of his enemies it was who came to San Miguel with the circus company."

"I know," said Scarborough.

"You know that, too?" cried Miss. "How?"

"The cable message," he answered: "Danger—circus."

"Who told you of that? I did not."

"I was in the instrument room when the message came through. I knew of it when I came to see you two nights ago, and you told me that nothing had happened, and that you were not in trouble. I knew that you were, but I couldn't tell you why I knew."

"Why not?" she demanded. "You might have helped me."

"Because it is one of the conditions under which we take service with the Cable Company that all messages that pass through our hands are to be treated as secrets. I would not have spoken of that message now, if you had not just told me that you had had a warning that danger was coming from the circus company. Perhaps, even as it is, I ought to have said nothing."

"I see," she said, almost with resentment, "your hands are tied. Are they tied so firmly that you can't help me now?"

"No; glad if they were, I think I should cut the bonds. How can I help you, Elsa?"

"You can help me to find, and punish, my father's murderer."

She jumped to her feet, and faced him excitedly. She had spoken the words as though they were a command, a challenge, and she was waiting for his answer.

He rose and answered quietly:

"If he has been murdered, I will. But you don't know yet that it is so."

"No, but the doctor will be able to tell, and he will be here soon. I have

TEBELDI TREES

How Inhabitants of Soudan Provide Themselves with Water.

A writer gives an interesting account of one of the means by which the inhabitants of Kordofan provide themselves with a copious water supply in that arid springless region. It is nothing more nor less than the "adansonia digitata," called by the natives "homr," but commonly known as "Tebeldi." These tebeldi-trees are from 1 ft. to 35 ft. in diameter; they grow to a considerable height with trunks about 2 ft. to 3 ft., and fine branches giving a vast amount of shade.

Strange to say, the trunks are naturally hollow, and are thus used as cisterns for the storage of water. Should the cavities not be large enough, the natives scoop them further out. An opening is made either in the side of the trunk near the top or right at the top, where the branches start. In the former case the tree is filled with buckets from pools, which are dug at the foot of the tree to collect the rain-water during the rainy season. In the latter case the tree is filled by nature when the rain falls, the branches acting as sort of gutters.

At times the trees crack — but this occurs very rarely — and the trunks are no longer of any use as reservoirs. However, lately the resourceful native has adopted cement as a means of stopping up the cracks, and a large number of tebeldies have been repaired in this manner. Curiously enough, the presence of such a large quantity of water in the trunk in nowise impedes its growth, and it is certainly one of the most ingenious devices of Nature for circumventing a natural difficulty.

Every cultivator has his tebeldi-tree, which is indispensable to his work. These trees are looked upon as personal property, and on the death of a landowner his "tebeldis" pass as heirlooms to his sons.

WATCH RAIN

Rain Drops on the Car Window

On a rainy day the observing traveller will doubtless be surprised to find that every rain drop on the car window by his side becomes a miniature whirling vortex as long as the car is in motion at speeds above ten or fifteen miles per hour. The effect is most easily noticed when the rain drops have collected enough fine particles of soot to make their motion apparent. While the larger drops show the greatest movement no rotation can be detected even in droplets down to one-eighth inch in diameter when the train is running at high speed. The direction of rotation for each individual drop is the same as that of the car-wheels, the cause of the motion doubtless being due to wind friction against the lower rounded side of the water drop. The pear-shape form of the drops, especially the larger ones, where the attraction of gravity for the mass get the better of the surface tension which tends to hold the spherical form, results in a greater rotational movement of the rounded portion [illegible] produces movement in the same direction as the car wheels below.

MYSTERIOUS HUMAN RAYS

Some recent announcement from Paris that a Major Darget has discovered that the human body emits rays which he has named "N"-rays, a reminder that confirmation has not been obtained of the mysterious rays which eight years ago M. Blondlot claimed to have seen. These rays, said M. Blondlot, were not only emitted by certain sources of light and heat, but also by the human body, and by animals such as cats. They varied in their nature so much that a very thin sheet of aluminum was opaque to them when sent out from the brain or nervous system, but when originating in the muscles, the diaphragm, or the heart they easily passed through otherwise opaque screens. M. Blondlot named the rays the "N"-rays, after the town of Nancy, in the University of which he was a professor, but up to the present other investigators have utterly failed to discover their existence.

Tenth of a Second

It is not common to find a person who can correctly estimate the lapse of a single second, says a well known Scientist. But in these days of speeding motor-cars the exact time when each of two colliding vehicles must have occupied particular spots may be a matter of great importance. In a recent experiment a car took nearly two seconds to stop after brakes were applied, and in that time it moved 19 ft. So even fractions of a second are important. One can train himself to estimate even tenths of a second. Try it with a watch, and it will be found that it is just possible to count 10 in the lapse of a single second. But one must count very fast to do it.

A Fountain Pen for Draughtsmen

A detachable container for drawing ink which can be slipped into place on the handle of a draughtsman's pen has been devised by a Los Angeles inventor, and by its use the constant dipping into the ink bottle is obviated. The danger of dropping ink upon the paper is avoided likewise. Another advantage is that a number of these containers may be carried in a pocket case, each of them holding a different colored drawing ink, for use in draughting maps, etc. Thus it is possible to dispense with a tray of ink bottles on the table. For filling this device, an ordinary "dropper" is used. As the photograph shows, the ink flows from the reservoir through a narrow tube to the pen point, where it supplies an even flow.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Sacred vessels of solid gold and rich ornaments, valued at ten thousand dollars, were destroyed when the handsome Roman Catholic church at Iberville was razed to the ground in the early hours to-day. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. The big church was valued at about $75,000, and the entire insurance amounting to $50,000, will not by any means cover the loss.

Name Changed to Brewntown.

In accordance with the request of Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., Mr. J. H. Burnham has had the name of the postoffice at Byersville, changed to Brewntown, in honor of the family in Monaghan of that name.

DUSTBANE THE DUST-KILLER

A handful in a litre

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in 5 lbs., 2½ lbs., 1 lb. For use in stores, offices and public halls. For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO
Three trains daily.
Excellent service.
Making connection at Detroit for
FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—
W. McILROY : : : Agent

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.
B. A. Ross, City Agent.
F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all the principal cities throughout the world

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures

$2.00 Wholesale to All $8.00

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.
PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,
14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

380 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO. Limited

The WHITE LABEL ALE is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd.

QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS IN CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Canada Feb. 3; Mar. 9
Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY
Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—
GRAMPIAN,
Friday, Feb. 2. Saturday, Feb. 3.
CORSICAN,
Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.
HESPERIAN,
Saturday, Feb. 24.
TUNISIAN,
Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.
Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.
Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.
Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.
Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.
Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.
Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.
Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.
Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY,
C.P.A. Can. Pass. Ry.

B. A. ROSS,
C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO'
PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 2,500,549.41

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:
437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO'
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director.

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

Phone 101, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

COMICAL WAYS OF CRABS

Peculiarities of the Crab Before Reaching the Tinned Stage Awaken Curiosity of the Naturalists.

The peculiar fascination of crustacea consists largely in the extraordinary variety of bizarre forms which they have assumed under the pressure (so to speak) of their environment, infinite variations on much the same theme of joints and legs. Furnished with a curious suit of armour (which they are compelled to discard and reproduce from time to time to allow for growth), evolution has had to play some queer pranks with them to equip them for the very varied situations in life in which we find them — exaggerating or diminishing out of all sense of proportion (according to our ideas of congruity) a limb here, a joint or series of joints there, tucking one part of the body under another; flattening into a plate in one case, drawing out into a mere thread in another; and thus and in other ways giving rise to the quaintest series of forms to be met with in the animal kingdom. Then their curiously intelligent habits are no less fascinating to watch — their habit, for instance, of carefully testing their environment with their feelers; their alternately retiring and pugnacious disposition; their inimitable gait and comical ways of walking off sideways and of "backing." All these features combine to awaken our curiosity and strike our sense of humour. Added to this lack of dull monotony in the group is the additional advantage to the student that crustacea, where they occur (and they occur practically everywhere), are comparatively easy to capture and to keep in activity. They do not require shooting or a laborious hauling of nets, or even digging up to any extent. A dipping or a towing net or a simple trap is generally all that is necessary to ensnare them. No wonder, therefore, that the crustacea are a favourite group with naturalists, both professional and amateur.

A LIGHTNING PHENOMENON

Reports of the occurrence of globular or ball lightning during recent severe thunderstorms in Europe have again drawn attention to this rare and singular electrical manifestation. Half a century ago the reality of this phenomenon was much doubted, but the gradual accumulation of trustworthy evidence has now thoroughly demonstrated its actual existence. The records agree in describing the appearance as that of a luminous ball, generally of a bluish colour, and varying in diameter from a few inches to as much as three feet. The sphere has a sluggish motion, either falling slowly from the clouds or drifting over the surface of the ground, the movement always being such as to give the impression that the thunderbolt is of material heavier than air. It remains visible for several seconds or even minutes, and as a rule finally explodes with great violence. The disappearance is generally followed by a strong smell of ozone in the locality. During the period of visibility the ball often behaves in an extremely peculiar manner. Sometimes it seems propelled along horizontally by a feeble air current or by electric forces. Frequently it has been seen to follow the course of a conductor, such as a water main, and it almost always explodes on coming into contact with a sheet of water such as a pond or stream. The immense store of energy which the ball undoubtedly contains is evidently not held in the shape of a surface electric charge, as it is not destroyed by contact with ordinary conductors. Thus the ball may touch earth, pass down a chimney, traverse a room, and so on, without being dissipated, although it has thus had abundant opportunity of giving up any surface charge of electricity. It is indeed this very tenacity of existence which has in the past caused certain physicists to be rather sceptical of the phenomenon, while so far at least all attempts to produce analogous appearances experimentally have been entirely unsuccessful.

A Mother's Cares Destructive to Health

ANAEMIA, BAD BLOOD, HEADACHES, AND LASSITUDE VERY COMMON.

Mrs. Wilkinson's Letter Gives Advice That Every Mother Can Well Follow.

From her home in Newton where she resides with her large family, Mrs. Wilkinson writes: "For years I was pale, anaemic and lacking in vitality. I was a constant sufferer from indigestion, and the distress and pain it caused me, coupled with ever-increasing anaemia, made me weaker day by day. Constant headaches, specks before the eyes and attacks of dizziness made me feel as if life were not worth living. My constitution was completely undermined and the constant pallor and dullness in my eyes showed what a sick woman I was. I began to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the improvement, although slow, was sure.

"I gradually got back my strength and my appetite grew much stronger, and I enjoyed my meals thoroughly. I felt happier and more contented and the sickly pallor of my face was replaced by a bright, rosy color, which proved that a strong medicine was at work. In a few months Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought me from a condition of deathly pallor to robust health."

You can obtain the same results by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the substitutor that offers you anything except Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE MORNING TIMES

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8TH.

LEAVING THE LAND.

The French nation, like all other countries, is tending citywards. The drift of recent years has been steady, although the actual numbers have only been fixed since last year's census returns.

In 1906 the total population was 39,252,245; in 1911 it was 39,601,509 the increase of 349,264 being a characteristically unsatisfactory rate of growth. In thirty-five years the actual increase from all sources has been only 2,605,721, or almost precisely 7 per cent. In the same period the population of Germany has increased nearly 47 per cent.

The circumstance of present interest is, however, that in the last five years the increase of France's urban population has been considerably greater than that of the whole country. Thus in the department of the Seine, which is practically all urban, the increase was 305,424, or about 87 per cent. of the whole national increase. In twenty-three departments, being those containing the large cities and towns, there was an increase, while in the remaining sixty-four there was a decrease. In a large number of departments, moreover, there was a loss either as a whole or at any rate in the rural part, while there was a gain in the chief town. Thus in Ille et Vilaine the population of the whole department decreased by 3,707, while that of its capital town of Rennes increased by 3,732.

This movement cannot be considered salutary. It does not mean an influx of foreigners to the industrial centres, because the number of foreigners domiciled in the republic is steadily decreasing, but it unmistakably means that the French themselves are drifting from country to city. There is a strange irony, too, in the circumstance that young Frenchmen should be forsaking the land, when it was for their sake that the land system was adopted which has largely induced the slow increase of population.

The back-to-the-land cry has apparently fallen on deaf ears as it has in other countries.

APSLEY.

The Wisdom Club.

A special meeting of the Wisdom Club was called by the President Wednesday night to initiate the three candidates from Peterborough, who arrived that evening by lightning express, via Buckhorn. The telephone was immediately put into commission and by eight o'clock nearly twenty members were assembled at the hall, each bringing his quota of wood as ordered at previous meeting. The night, fortunately, proved warm and with a good fire everyone was comfortable, and after Bass Tom and the little Secretary got quieted (they are always arguing politics) the President, Anvil Jim, called the members to order, and stated the object of the meeting. Reading of minutes of previous meeting dispensed with. Director Spike was then instructed to proceed to the ante-room, read the obligation to the candidates, collect the usual fee, and report. While doing so the committee prepared the hall, the janitor rubbed down the goat and gave him an extra dose of ginger. Spike returned and reported favorably and handed the fees to the treasurer. Committeemen B. F. and Si were then ordered to bring in the first candidate. Hustler John, blindfolded, was run in, placed on the goat, and after an exciting ride, Mr. Goat took matters in his own hands and landed John in the coal bin from which he was with difficulty rescued. His eyes were then uncovered and he was led up to the front. The President then instructed him in the signs, passwords, and grips, invested him with the regalia of the order—three stars and a horseshoe in gold on white ground—and was then led to a seat at the right hand of the President, while the Glee Club sang "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." The next candidate, Tailor Newman was brought in and he also proved a worthy candidate, taking the several degrees without flinching, though the goat did some extra stunts in bucking. After the instructions in grips, passwords, &c., he was offered a seat but declined with thanks, saying he preferred standing, "for a while at least." Dad was the third and last candidate for honors and in consideration of his rheumatism it was thought best to dispense with the goat; but Dad was game and said "Just let me get one leg over him, and I'll ride him to a finish," and it was the wildest ride on record. Several of the members were knocked down and when Dad pulled up in front of the President's chair after the third lap it was a disgusted looking goat that was led away very quietly to his quarters. The candidate was then instructed as usual and seated at the President's left hand, while all the members joined in singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Hustler John was then called on to address the meeting which he did in a neat speech, saying he was more than pleased in becoming a member of the renowned Wisdom Club, and if not presuming too much on this, his first night as a member, would, in behalf of himself and Peterborough brethren, request that in future the regular meetings be held every fourth Wednesday from this date so [illegible] might combine pleasure with [illegible] on their regular trip and [illegible]n. A motion to that effect [illegible] to the meeting and carri[illegible]sly, and in the excitem[illegible] followed his chew of toba[illegible] out [illegible]nerous dose of "3-star" relieved him. Bass Tom, Geo. A., and the little Secretary got into another argument on the "Ne Temere" and became so excited that the President ordered them locked up in the stable. Anvil Jim gave a short address of welcome to the new brethren, thanked all who so kindly brought wood, as it showed a good will on their part to have the hall comfortable, and advised all to go quietly home, get in the kindling wood and water. The janitor was told to let those three out of the stable and on entering found them all quite friendly and happy, having found a treaty of peace in one of the mangers, which they had unsealed and subscribed to with good effect. Uncle Billy woke up and then the closing order was sung. Meeting closed for four weeks.

Later—The President on his way home noticed an unusual number of tracks leading to his woodshed, and upon investigation found that each member who had so "kindly" brought wood, took it from Jim's pile. There'll be music in the air at the next meeting.

A quiet wedding took place a few days ago at the residence of Mr. Wm. James, Chandos, when his son, Owen James, and Miss Greta Downing were united in the bonds of matrimony, Rev. C. Lord officiating. We wish the young couple every happiness.

J. G. Hardill of Keasear & Co., and Mr. Taylor of the Kingan Hardware Co., drove in Wednesday night, 31st. They report roads very heavy, but Ernie got here in good time. Mr. Hardill, as usual, reports good orders and Mr. Taylor though it was the first trip of a representative of his firm was pleased with his orders.

Mr. Z. Tucker and daughter Charlotte have gone on a visit to friends and relatives at Warsaw.

Reeve Tucker drove down to Burleigh Falls to meet the Road and Bridge Committee who were there to inspect the work just completed of filling in the approach to the iron bridge, done by Wm. Windsor. They found everything satisfactory.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

(From Eastern Styles)

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple home wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

[illegible] pure powdered saxolite from her nearest druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The result is charming—marvelous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

LAKEFIELD.

Mr. R. Hunter of Port Hope, was in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. Theo. Crawford was in Toronto a few days this week.

Mr. Thos. Foster spent Sunday in Toronto visiting friends.

Mr. Eldred Cumberland of Peterborough, was visiting in the village last week.

Mrs. John Hendren of Warsaw, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. J. Charlton.

Miss Roteen Darcy attended the birthday party of Master Thomas Darcy at Burleigh Falls on Thursday.

Mrs. C. D. Crawford returned to the village on Tuesday after spending a few weeks in Toronto visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Edwards.

Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's Church, Peterborough, exchanged pulpits on Sunday with Rev. H. A. Ben-Aliel of St. John's Church, Lakefield.

The 24th annual Sabbath school convention of the village of Lakefield and Township of Smith Sabbath School Association will be held in the Selwyn Methodist Church on Tuesday, Feb. 6th. Two sessions will be held, commencing at 2 p.m. and 7.30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Foote and Master Rodgers of Revelstroke, B.C., are at present in the village visiting friends and relatives, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ridpath. Mr. and Mrs. Foote are on their way home after a month's trip through the States, and to Bermuda, West Indies.

Mr. Oscar Rowe, who has been spending the winter at Nairn Centre, arrived in the village on Wednesday on a visit to his home here.

On Sunday, Feb. 4th, Mrs. Josiah Hunter of Smith, passed away after a lingering illness of heart trouble. The funeral will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 7th, at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Jos. Paul will sell by public auction at the town hall, Lakefield, on Thursday, Feb. 8th, all her household furniture. Sale to begin at eight o'clock sharp. No reserve.

Mr. Jas. Watson spent a few days in Port Hope this week.

Miss Viola Magee of Peterborough, spent Sunday in the village.

Miss N. Finney of Grand Forks, is the guest of Miss Maude Beavis.

Miss Eva Alford spent a few days in Peterborough this week visiting friends.

Mrs. W. A. Hunter of Peterborough, was visiting friends in the village this week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Kline of Tilsonburg, were visiting friends in the village this week.

Mrs. T. R. Darcy is spending a few weeks visiting friends in Toronto and Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. H. G. Mason returned home on Thursday of last week after spending a few weeks visiting in Wallington, N. Y.

A very successful oyster supper was held in the Sunday school room of the Baptist Church on Friday of last week under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Baptist Church. After the supper a good programme was rendered, consisting of a rattling address given by Rev. Mr. Biddiford of Park St. Baptist Church, Peterboro'.

Miss Selkirk of Warsaw, is visiting Mrs. David Sanderson in Lakefield.

Miss Ferguson and Mr. Thos. Caldwell of Westwood, Ont., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ingram this week.

An inquest was held in the town hall on Saturday morning to inquire into the burning of the Lillicrap-Tate saw mill on January 23rd.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

MORE THAN FRUIT AND WINE

Country to Popular Belief Portugal Is one of the World's Highly Mineralised Countries.

In the popular mind Portugal is generally associated with wine and fruit as its only industries and products, yet there are several important mining concerns which add materially to the wealth of the country. For its size it is one of the most highly mineralised countries in the world; but while in the time of the Romans it was the scene of much mining and metallurgical activity, in these days its resources are not developed to the extent that they should be.

The great belt of copper-bearing iron pyrites which springs from the Sierra Morena in Spain passes through Algarve and Estremadura in Portugal, and is lost in the sea near Lisbon. All through its course it is associated with manganese. These are the only minerals south of the Tagus. The Spanish end of the belt is much wider than the part which passes into Portugal, and is worked by many large companies, the most important being the Rio Tinto and the Tharsis mines. The former is the largest mine of any kind in the world. On the Portuguese side the largest mine is the San Domingos, in the extreme south; farther north the Aljustrel mines, and nearer Lisbon the Mina da Covetra. Besides these there are several others of less importance. This is the copper district of the country.

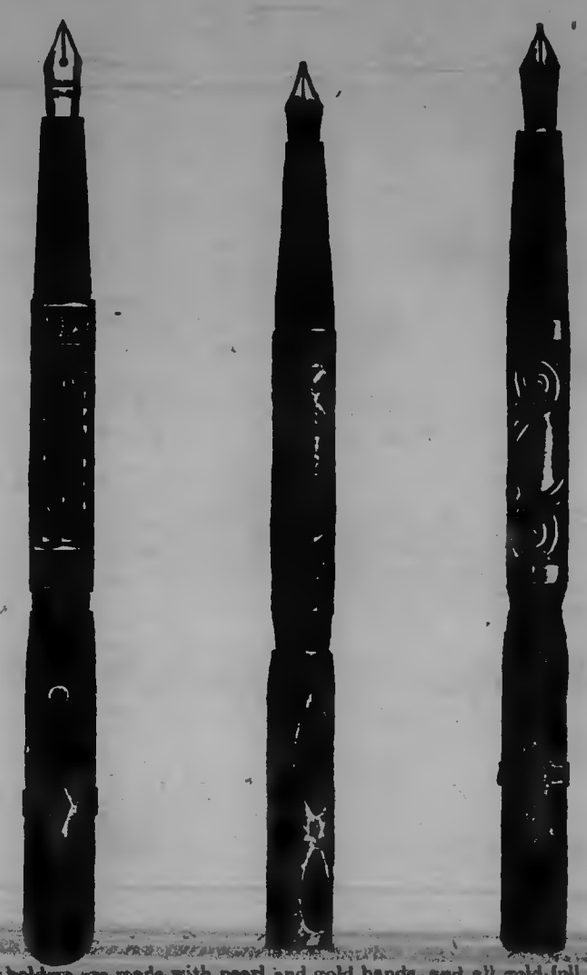
In one of the Portuguese mines where the gossan attains a thickness of one hundred and thirty feet it is treated with marked success for the small quantity of gold and silver which it contains.

It is a noteworthy fact that no mine of any importance in either Spain or Portugal has been discovered that has not been worked by the Romans during their occupation of these countries. Wherever mineral outcrops appear the Roman workings are to be found, and in many cases heaps of slag amounting to many thousands of tons.

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens. "Safety Clip", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons cut from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.



The holders are made with pearl and gold bands, and all gold, full chased, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by its makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON.

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address .....

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fibroloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

FAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1885, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation.

PRESIDENT.

Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

YOU PAY WHEN CURED

Drs. K. & K. TAKE ALL RISKS

Cured by the New Method Treatment

NO NAMES OR PHOTOS USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

NERVOUS DEBILITY

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through Early Indiscretions, Excesses and Blood Diseases. If you have any of the following symptoms beneath us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, [illegible], restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, [illegible], hair loose, sore throat, etc.

YOU WILL BE A WRECK

Our New Method Treatment can cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified, so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual [illegible] are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Don't [illegible] and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars. We will cure you or no pay.

EVERYTHING PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

READER: No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (Illustrated) on Secret Diseases of Men.

QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT SENT ON REQUEST

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

P. J. McGARRY A. MIDDLETON
George St. Agent
PETERBORO LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c. per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c. " "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c. " "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.
163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.
Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF IT'S PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards in Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 139 Simcoe Street
Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

Local Man Saw Disaster.

Whilst nearly every resident of the city has read with regret reports of the recent disaster at Niagara Falls when three people went to watery graves, one local citizen was a spectator of the sad scene. Mr. S. Hampton, 64 Hunter street, saw the unfortunate occurrence and was deeply impressed by the awful spectacle. He has, to his friends graphically described how with an unusually cold wave and a boisterous wind, the He described how he himself was quickly covered with a coating of frozen spray. When the alarm was sounded, and everybody rushed for the shore and safety, he happened to be the last to reach terra firma on the American side of the river. Mr. Hampton thinks that the winter headwear of those who perished prevented them from hearing the cries of those on shore. It seems that Mr. Hampton, shortly before the fatality, was engaged in taking photographs of the ice-bridge.

Local Brakesman Injured.

A G.T.R. brakesman by the name of Succee, who is well known in this city had the misfortune a few days ago to sustain a severe injury to his head, from falling on the ice whilst skating on the Lindsay rink. He was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital and is now considered in a favorable condition.

Statement of City Taxes.

Statement of rolls for the year ending 31st Jan., 1912:

Total amount on roll ...	$223,218.01
Total amount deposited	207,299.04
Balance	$15,918.97
Less 2 per cent. dis. on 1st payment	3,343.87
Balance	$12,575.10

Amount collected on January and deposited, $792.42.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON
Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, E. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, Successors to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. E. R. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson.

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS

DR. E. A. HAMMOND
Late Assistant Westminster Hospital, Brampton, Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 462, House 190.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited
Fraser Avenue, Toronto

TRUE TO ITS PLEDGE.

The people of Canada did more last September than pass upon a fiscal policy. They commissioned the government of Premier Borden to set about governmental house-cleaning.

The Borden government promptly set about on a policy of economical administration of public business. It has lopped off official incompetence. Now it is setting about to investigate the departments. The scandals of the printing bureau are too well known to require recital here. A whitewashing committee under the late government completed the work of exoneration where it was found impossible to suppress an investigation altogether.

Instead of baulking a rigid investigation the supporters of the old government would, if they were convinced that there were no foundation for the charges against the management of governmental departments, assist in making the inquiry as thorough, and as fearless as possible. In no circumstance would any innocent man suffer from such a course.

The Borden government is simply performing a public duty in investigating the affairs of the departments under Liberal management for more than sixteen years and against which charges of malfeasance or worse have been preferred.

Engineer Grant is Home.

Mr. A. Grant, local chief engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, has returned from a trip to Panama where he naturally took great interest in inspecting the big ditch being dug by Uncle Sam. He reports that the Panama engineers expect to have a 30-foot head within the next two months, which in the course of a year will be brought to to the specified height of 85 feet above sea level.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

Stinging Trees

In the southern part of Formosa grows a tree, about 10ft. in height, having long leaves which possess the property of the nettle, and produce a maddening irritation of the skin when incautiously touched. The natives call it chiao-jen-kou, meaning "man-biting-dog." Mr. Tokutaro Ito, of Tokio, who has recently made a botanical exploration in Formosa, suggests the name "viper tree" as a more distinctly warning title. There is another species of "stinging tree" in Australia, which attains a height of 15 feet, and the effect of whose touch appears to be even more maddening to men and animals. Horses stung by it have to be shot, and dogs, when affected by the poison of the leaves, run about whining and biting themselves.

Spiders' Threads in Astronomy.

The cultivation for scientific uses of certain species of spiders, solely for the fine threads they weave, has an important bearing upon astronomy. No substitute for the spider's thread has yet been found for bisecting the screw of the micrometer used for determining the positions and motions of the stars. Not only because of the remarkable fineness of the threads are they valuable, but because of their durable quality. The threads of certain spiders raised for astronomical purposes withstand changes in temperature, so that often in measuring [illegible] the threads are not cracked. These spider lines are only [illegible] one-fourth of a thousandth of an inch in diameter, compared with which the threads of the silkworm are large and clumsy.

CURE OF INVENTIVE...

The Longing to Introduce Something New Affects all Classes and Conditions of Men.

The lure of invention is one that influences all people and spares no class or condition of men. From the clergyman in his study to the convict in his lonely cell, it exerts its attraction, and both are found enrolled among the list of patentees, although not so precisely identified. The stimulus is not always the hope of fee or reward, for we find the millionaire as strongly interested as the very poor. There is something in the attraction that cannot be resisted. Someone has said that writing is like flirting. If you cannot do it, no one can teach you to do it, and if you can do it, no one can keep you from doing it. So it is with invention; no one can teach you to do it, and if you have the divine afflatus, no one can prevent you from exercising it. This is fortunate; for the inventor is subjected many times to discouraging influences in the first instance. Have you ever noticed, however, the pride with which anyone will display an invention even of the simplest character? Surely this is commendable, for we all admire originality, and invention is originality, often of the highest order. While the lure may be regarded apart from the results, we cannot help realising what a poor world this would be except for the beneficent works of the inventors of all times.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Two women fell from a window of an old wooden building last night when the upsetting of a stove started a blaze in the attic. They fell into a snowbank in a narrow passage way and when the fire was extinguished, the firemen had to pull them up into the little attic again to get them out to the street.

One of the women, Mrs. B. Smith, was slightly burned on the hands and face, while other Mrs. M. Finn, had one side of her face scratched.

Bring the Crowds Here.

Lindsay will next week hold a big winter carnival, and judging by the reports heard by The Times, the event will be a great success. Mr. Wm. Smith of the Toronto Construction Co., together with engineers Vom Sydow and Patten, informed Mr. P. J. Breen and Mr. Gillies that they would help on the good work by putting on something special for one of the three days. What this will be has not been fully decided, but there is no doubt but it will be something good. "What is the matter with Peterborough getting up some such event?" was a question asked of The Times yesterday by a subscriber. This latter gentleman remarked later "It seems to me that about the only thing Peterborough takes any interest in, is some entertainment happening at a distance." He went on to say that, "in years gone by Peterborough used to bring money into town, now the money all goes out."

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, formerly of this city, but now one of Lindsay's well known citizens has, with his daughters, and a party of friends gone to Winnipeg to attend the bonspiel there.

UP TO DATE

Farmer Jones—"By jinks, I never had any success scaring off them pesky birds till I put up that suffragette scare-crow."

SOMETHING TO CRY ABOUT

"Why are you sobbing, my little man?"

"My pa's a millionaire philanthropist."

"Well, well, that's nothing to cry about, is it?"

"It ain't, ain't it? He's just promised to give me one pound to spend for Christmas provided I raise a similar amount."

CHEATED

Manager:—"What's the leading lady in such a tantrum about?"

Press Manager:—"She's only got nine bouquets over the footlights tonight."

Manager:—"Great Scot! Ain't that enough?"

Press Manager:—"No—she paid for ten."

PROOFS OF POPULARITY

Biggs:—"Is your daughter popular?"

Boggs:—"Well, I don't want to boast, but fifteen young men are teaching her to swim."

A BILL COLLECTOR

She:—"This is Maude's third husband, and they all bore the name of William."

He:—"You don't say so? Why, the woman is a regular Bill collector."

LEAVING HIM AT SEA

"Could you do something for a poor sailor?" asked the seedy-looking wanderer at the gate.

"Poor old sailor?" echoed the woman at work at the tub.

"Yes'm, I followed the water for sixteen years."

"Well," said the woman after a critical look, "you certainly don't look as if you ever caught up with it."

Then she resumed her labors.

WHAT DID SHE MEAN?

"I want to buy a hog."

"Well, pa ain't home."

KNEW HOW TO SAVE COAL

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading: "Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal."

"Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all me coal."

Getting Even.

Some retaliations are too clever to be resented. They seem to be almost a logical part of the circumstances that evoked them. Dr. Wines was formerly the principal of a boys' school. One day he had occasion to trounce a lad, who naturally resented the punishment. On the doctor's front door was a plate bearing the one word "Wines." That night a bold and clever hand added three words to the inscription, so that in the morning the doorplate read this way: "Wines and Other Lickers."

Receding Chins.

The minority who have square chins and big lower jaws say that two of the receding chins have neither will nor strength of character, which is absurd, as anyone may know who remembers that Gen. Wolfe and Mr. Pitt had practically no chins at all, to say nothing of living soldiers and statesmen. To judge a man by his chin is no less foolish than to judge him by the bumps of his skull.

Lindsay Post: The many friends of Mr. "Pete" Spratt, who was injured in the hockey game, will regret to learn that he is not improving very rapidly. He is still confined to his room, the injured limb being badly swollen.

THE NICE YOUNG MAN.

(By Steven Roberts).

(Copyright by Publishers Press, Ltd).

Gordon Thompson was a misanthrope. For five years he had lived alone in his flat, and during that time he had not exchanged half a dozen words with his neighbors.

But that was before Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and Nina came to live in one of the apartments. Nina was only four. She was quite alone when first she met Gordon Thompson. He had just made his solitary way up the stairs when he almost fell over a wee girl busily drawing wonderful chalk pictures on the floor.

A welcoming smile lit Nina's baby face. "Nice man," she cooed. "Nice man see Nina's pictures."

He took the hand she had extended to him, and knelt down. There was neither form nor anything intelligible in the chalk scribble, but he gravely assured her that it was very nice, very nice, indeed."

Nina gurgled with delight. Her blue eyes danced as she placed her chalk into his hand.

"Nice man make pictures better'n Nina," she announced gleefully. "Make some more, nice man." But Thompson stood up suddenly. He had heard a step behind them on the stairs, and his face assumed the usual mask of rigidity.

"Nina, darling, you must come away and have tea," a gentle voice said. "I hope you will excuse my little girl," Mrs. Andrews continued, "she has a perfect genius for making friends, and she never stops to consider whether her advances will be appreciated."

"Who could help appreciating them?" Gordon Thompson said. Nina leaned forward and held her rosy lips up to be kissed. Gordon hesitated and glanced nervously at Mrs. Andrews.

"Certainly," she said, in an undertone. "She expects it." He kissed the child, and there was a new tenderness in his voice when he said, "Good night, Nina."

"Good night. God bless you, nice man," Nina responded.

After that Nina got into the habit of waiting on the stairs for the return of her "nice man" every evening.

He became anxious when, on one night, she was not there. The child had taken such a fancy to him, he felt she would not willingly miss coming to see him. Perhaps there was something the matter. At any rate, it would only be polite to inquire, and he hastened up the stairs to the Andrews' flat. Mrs. Andrews answered his knock, and he started back at sight of her. Her eyes were red with weeping, and her face wore a strained, anxious look.

"What is the matter?" he asked, faintly. "Is it Nina?"

Mrs. Andrews nodded. "I can't ask you to come in," she said, "Nina is very ill. It is diphtheria."

"Is there anything I can do?" Thompson asked hoarsely. "Could I bring her anything, grapes, for instance, or [illegible] Mrs. Andrews, thank you, Mrs. Andrews," she said, "but there is nothing to be done but follow the doctor's instructions, un——" She checked herself.

"Unless what?" Gordon asked. "Mrs. Andrews, if there is any way I could help, any way at all, it would be a charity to let me do it. Perhaps a nurse——"

"Dr. Forman said I ought to have a nurse," said Mrs. Andrews, slowly. "We couldn't possibly afford it."

"Then you must let me send for one. I can well afford it, and it is for Nina's sake," he said; then, without waiting for her consent, "If you don't mind, I will slip to the nearest telephone and ask Dr. Forman to send one at once."

Gordon was distinctly perturbed, so much so that on the three following days he waylaid the doctor on the stairs and asked for news of Nina. A load was taken off his mind when the doctor was able to assure him that the child had taken a turn for the better.

Then one evening he missed the doctor. For an hour he waited with his door open, listening for his footstep, until he could stand the suspense no longer. He must go up to the Andrews' flat and ask how the patient was progressing. He was half way up the stairs when he almost ran into a tall, slender girl in nurse uniform.

"Lottie!" he exclaimed impulsively; then he drew back. "I beg your pardon, Miss Clapp; I forgot myself," he said. Nurse Lottie's violet eyes filled with tears. For a moment she hesitated, then she laid a hand on his arm. "Won't you forgive me, Gordon?" she asked, softly. "I was foolish, I did not really mean that cruel letter. Afterwards, when I came to know my own heart, I realised that I had thrown away real gold for dross. Then, when I wanted to tell you, you had gone away!"

"If I had only known," the man groaned. "I came to New York immediately, and have been living alone in the flat below. Lottie, do you really mean it? You haven't married that other fellow, at any rate. I can barely realise that you have cared all the time, that you still care."

"I did care all the time, I still care," Lottie said softly.

"My darling, I am not married," he said, as he kissed her. "But I soon will be." Lottie drew back.

"Oh, you mustn't," she exclaimed. "I have just come from Nina."

"I don't care," he said. "Dear little Nina! But for her I might never have found you. How is she?"

"She is much better, and I think you might see her," Lottie said, and together they entered the child's room.

Nina gave a weak cry of recognition when she saw him.

Her glance travelled to Nurse Lottie.

"Nina loves nice man," she explained. "Does 'oo?"

Lottie stooped and kissed the child. "Yes, Nina, I do," she said.

Scientific Bottle Breaking.

The method of breaking small bottles or vessels at the place wanted with a kerosene-soaked string is well known, but this method does not work so well with the larger vessels. Following is a method given by a writer, by which any sized glass vessels can be broken — as, for example, a glass tub to be made out of a carboy. Fill the vessel with cold water up to the place at which it is to be broken. Pour enough boiling oil over the water to make a good coat on the surface, and before the oil has time to cool dash cold water on the outside of the vessel. A clean break at the contact-point of oil and water will be the result.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
28 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.25 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto,	12.10 p.m.	9.05 p.m.
London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Lindsay Local	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	9.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Lakefield	5.10 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	5.55 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
	9.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.40 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m. 7.07 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.31 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto; Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago, Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	5.36 a.m. 5.51 a.m. 7.47 a.m. 4.36 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

Stoves For Sale.

A small Happy Thought kitchen range and also a gas range, for sale at a bargain. Stoves may be seen at 313 Maitland avenue.

To Learn Bookbinding.

We have a vacancy in our bindery department for a bright young fellow to learn the trade of bookbinding. It is a rare chance to acquire one of the best of trades. Apply at Business Office of The Times.

NOTICE.

Mr. Schwerdt, 58 Victoria Avenue, wants it understood that he will pay

WANTED.

Young man with office experience, must be good operator on typewriter Apply The Quaker Oats Company.

Sunday School Anniversary.

George street Methodist church will hold their Sunday school anniversary next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Pogue of St. Paul's church will preach in the morning and the pastor will preach to a mass meeting in the evening.

Advances in Local Regiment.

The Militia Gazette gives notice of the following: 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers—To be Captain, Lieutenant A. G. Carruthers; Vice J. Mills promoted. To be provisional Lieutenants—Sergeants Andrew Ferguson Hagerman and John Armstrong Brightman.

To Our Correspondents.

The Times would request its regular correspondents throughout the district, when sending in their weekly letters to give the name of the places, distinctly written from which such letters are sent. We are in receipt of so many letters, that unless this is attended to, we cannot identify the locality referred to.

"Garbage like the sins of humanity must be purged," so remarked a leading citizen yesterday. He further added that "If we want to keep the city free from disease and keep down a plague of flies, some action thorough in its scope must be adopted to get rid of Peterborough's garbage nuisance."

The Canadian Club.

The Executive of the Canadian Club have succeeded in arranging with Mr. J. L. Englehart, Chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, to address a meeting of the Club this evening, Feb. 8th, at the Oriental Hotel at eight o'clock. Mr. Englehart's address will probably be in reference to the Northern Country, about which he is well qualified to speak in an interesting manner.

High Prices for Poultry.

A Toronto despatch says that in Peterborough chickens sell at $1.10 per pair, geese at $1.10 to $1.25. The price of turkeys was not quoted, probably the linotype operator fainted when he got the quotations. Chatham, the report says, gets 80c per pair for chickens and $1.25 for geese. Whilst the comparison does not show a great discrepancy, the man or woman buying at either town pays enough!

More Money For Soldiers.

Members of the local troops, horse, foot and artillery, will be glad to learn that the Canada Gazette announces a general change in the pay and allowances of officers and men in the militia of the country. The pay of the men of the non-permanent forces has been increased from 50c a day to 75c a day. The schedule of efficiency pay has been done away with and the schedule now is a flat rate of 75c a day and 85c a day for those serving two years in succession, with an efficiency allowance of 15c a day. The increase of non-commissioned officers is on the same relative basis.

Local Vocalist Mentioned.

Belleville, Ont.: Miss Lavina Halliban, soprano, possesses a beautiful rich voice and great entertaining ability. Mr. "Jack" Hayes, ex-Bellevillian, was given a grand reception on his appearance in his home town. His deep baritone voice showed careful training and thoughtful interpretation of the emotions Mr. Barnaby Nelson, tenor, was at his own in the rendition of classic ballads. His stage presence and resonant voice won instant applause. Mr. E. Jules Brazil, as piano soloist, and accompanist, could not be paralleled.

Answers from England.

As actual results of enquiries made recently by a well-known local contractor to the Canadian High Commissioner, the Peterborough writer had within the past three months, no less than forty-seven answers and replies from forty-two different manufacturers in the Motherland. As the contractor remarked yesterday to a Times reporter, "This is going some" but it also demonstrates that the High Commissioner is not only anxious to answer Canadian enquiries on business matters, but is a medium whereby this city may get a large and good amount of advertising among the manufacturers of England.

Barrel of Oil Explodes.

Yesterday those who happened to be in the vicinity of the Charlotte Street crossing of the G. T. R. were astounded by an explosion of a barrel of oil. It seems that a G.T.R. employee had ignited a fire for the purpose of thawing out a barrel of oil, which was to have been used in connection with their work on the sewerage system, when suddenly a loud report was heard, and then a flash occurred. Fortunately no one was hurt, although several men were standing close to the fire. In fact, one man actually stood beside the barrel at the time of the explosion, but he was uninjured. The end of the barrel was afterwards discovered lodged on the roof of Messrs. Perkins, Ince and Company's grocery warehouse.

Good Program at Conservatory.

Miss Exbelle Gray, at the Conservatory of Music, demonstrated that she has exceptional powers as a violinist. Her debut, before a Peterbrough audience, was given before a local gathering of music lovers, under auspices of the George Street Church choir. Her execution of this instrument is perfect. In "Hyre Kati," Gypsy melody arranged by the Norwegian composer, Hubang, she displayed marvellous tone colour. She was equally at home in Mozart's "Rebel Rejn." In this her fingering was superb.

Miss Florence Crawford, as a pianist, is no less distinguished. Her rendering of Chopin's Polonaise was greatly admired. Margaret Gray, elocutionist, also contributed to the enjoyment of those present. Her Irish dialect story "Mary Ellen, etc." was well received, as was "The Ride to the Fort."

Nasal Discharge Proves Catarrh is Active

THE PURE BALSAMIC ESSENCES OF CATARRHOZONE AFFORD SUREST AND QUICKEST CURE.

Catarrhozone is certain to cure because its healing vapor is carried with the breath direct to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences, it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the ejection of mucous, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing winter ills—that's what thousands say about Catarrhozone. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog, or damp can affect them—let them get Catarrhozone and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS.

"I was unfortunate enough to catch a bad cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head," writes Miss Nora E. Jemieson, well known in Sangre Grande, Td. "An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhozone, and sent to Smith Bros.' drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhozone cleared out my nostrils, cured the sneezing, coughing, and all traces of catarrh."

Large size Catarrhozone, sufficient for two months' use, guaranteed, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations, and substitutors, and insist on getting "Catarrhozone" Kingston, Ont.

THE BEAR CATS IN SEMI-FINALS

The Local Hockey Team Will Have a Rest—Will Likely Win Finals

The Bear Cats go into the semi-finals. The draw was announced yesterday. While the other six remaining teams are pairing off the Petes will have a rest and will probably not be called upon to play until a week from last night, when they and three teams will be all that will be left in the running. This means that is the Bear Cats win their next round they will be in the finals. The locals are determined to annex another victory when they are called upon.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. C. Currier, Port Elgin, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Donald Potter will not receive to-day.

Mr. J. N. Reid of St. John, N.B., is a guest at the Oriental.

Mrs. F. J. McNulty will not receive to-day.

Mrs. M. A. Morrison, 452 Hunter street, will not receive to-day.

Mrs. Scott, 512 Weller street, will receive to-morrow afternoon from 4 to 6.

Mrs. J. H. Miller, 360 Brock St., will not receive to-day, or again this month.

Mrs. Middleton, East City, is visiting her brother, Mr. Gordon Manning in Lindsay.

Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., is in Toronto attending the opening of the Ontario Legislature.

Mrs. D. A. Doxsee and Miss Audrey of Oakwood, are in the city, guests of Mrs. Lebar, 167 Charlotte street.

Rev. A. C. Hoffman is the preacher this week at St. James' Methodist Church evangelical services. His subject last night was "What it costs not to be a Christian."

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Henderson, His Honour Judge Huycke took the leadership of the Charlotte St. Methodist Church last night, at 9 o'clock.

The engagement is announced of Miss Laura A. Lochhead, of Centreville, Ontario, to Mr. E. H. Howson, of Peterborough, secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Lock Works. The marriage will be celebrated privately on February 28th, at the home of Dr. J. A. Lochhead, of Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glendinning, Manilla, Ont., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. W. J. Beatty, of Guelph, Ont., son of the late Mr. Wm. and Mrs. Beatty, Barrockside, Carisle, Cumberland, Eng. The marriage will be celebrated without ceremony on the 20th of the month.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

St. Mary's Hospital has had 43 patients, 37 for scarlet fever and six for diptheria. Only one death occurred.

Farmers are complaining that the snow is very deep on the country roads. If a sudden thaw should come, they may require canoes or row boats to enter the city.

A sad scene was that at the arrival of the noon train yesterday when the body of Miss Caroline Dyer was brought here for burial in the Little Lake Cemetery. The deceased died in Millbrook.

The firemen of Lindsay are asking for an increase of pay. They should get it. Just think of the time a fireman would love while crossing from one side of Kent street to the other boundary.

Young [illegible], was [illegible] day pleaded guilty to stealing a stick-pin from Ned Meehan. However, he was "stuck" by his deal as he will spend a good many days in the Belleville jail.

The town council of Lindsay has been asked by the Fire Brigade of that burg for 600 feet more hose. A Peterborough man, who we must admit is somewhat shortsighted tells us that a few weeks ago when three young ladies were walking down Kent street on a very windy day, he had evidence that the town of Lindsay has enough hose to do them for a century.

SCHOOL REPORTS.

S. S. No. 5, Douro.

Following is the school report of S. S. No. 5, Douro, for January:

Sr. IV.—Irene McMurray, Marie McMurray, Katharine McMurray, K. McMurray, Vincent Kennedy, Fred Crowe.

Sr. III.—Helen McMurray.

Jr. III.—Willie Tobin, Richard Lundrigan, Florence McMurray.

Sr. II.—Maggie McManus, Claire McMurray.

Jr. III.—George McKeever, Clarence McMurray, Charlie Morrison.

Sr. Pt. II.—Cressa Crowe, James McKiever.

Jr. Pt. II.—Joseph McManus, Reta McMurray, Gerald Crowe.

Sr. I.—Justin McKiever, Leonard McMurray.

Jr. I.—Bernard McManus.

Loreto Mahoney, teacher.

S. S. No. 17, Otonabee.

The following is the report of S. S. No. 17, Otonabee, for the month of January. The names are in order of merit.

IV. Class — Hazel Chamberlain, Sadie Brown, Maurietta Rosborough, Victor Sedgewick.

III. Class—Valeria Rosborough.

II. Class—Gordon Brown, Thomas Allen, Vivian Rosborough, Clifton Deck, Wilbert Kemp.

I. Class—Allan Brown, Lance Kemp Edward Allen, Mary Collins.

Primer Class—Hugh Hunter, Winnie Carpenter, Leo. Allen, Ray Lee.

S. S. No. 1, Douro.

The following is the report of S. S. No. 1, Douro, for the month of January. Names are in order of merit:

Form IV.—Thos. Sheehan, Gertrude O'Grady, John Lonergan, Jos. O'Grady.

Form III.—Mamie Cavanagh, Nellie Meade, Marie Devlin, Annie Cavanagh, May Guerin, Josie Guerin, John Whibbs, Chas. Collins, Vincent Sullivan, Jos. Sheehan, Charles Whibbs.

Form II.—Mary T. Cavanagh, Oswald O'Toole, John O'Toole, Oswald O'Toole, John O'Toole, Leo. Sullivan Ada Lonergan, Josie Cavanagh, Rosy Tucker, Irene Guerin, John Collins, Alice Devlin.

Primer—John Corneline, Katie Cavanagh.

CLYDESDALE.

The weather continues very cold one day the thermometer registering 52 below zero.

Mr. D. S. Campbell has returned from Peterborough, where he attended the county council.

We are pleased to hear that Miss Dorothy Trotter is recovering from her late attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. J. Ratcliffe of Stouffville, spent a few days in this vicinity last week.

Miss Annie Duffied of Rose Island, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Blackburn and son Harold left Saturday for Coe Hill, where they intend spending a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe and son returned home last week from visiting friends in Ormsby.

Mr. Joseph Trotter sold his team of horses last week.

A serious drawback to the lumbermen this year is that the ice on Loon Lake is unsafe. Two young men having attempted to cross it with a team a short while ago and were compelled to return.

The members of the Ladies' Institute held their monthly meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hawkes, Chandos.

KEENE.

Mr. John Dickson of Toronto, is spending a few days in the village.

Misses Lillian, Agnes and Jean Campbell are visiting friends in Toronto.

Miss Estelle Bailey of Peterboro', returned home Monday after spending a week with Miss Laura Mactarlane.

A number of our curlers left on Monday for Toronto, where they expect to have some interesting games.

Mrs. V. H. McWilliams is spending a few weeks at Florida.

Miss Edith Bryce was the guest of Miss M. Bryce last week.

Mr. A. Edington of Toronto, was in the village on business last Friday.

A large number attended the supper and dance given by the Foresters on Friday evening, and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Mrs. W. Montgomery of Roseneath, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wedlock.

Miss Mary Gall is spending a few days in Belleville.

A masquerade carnival will be held in the skating rink on Friday evening, Feb. 9th. Good prizes will be given and a good time is expected.

To Have Complexion That Men Admire

—To Have Complexion That Men

"A man may admit, with great sophistication, that powder and rouge are necessary aids to beauty," writes the Countess of Wenick, "yet deep in his heart he dreams of the woman whose loveliness needs no artificial touching up. Women who appreciate this, who give consideration to the masculine viewpoint, avoid using anything that might indicate their beauty is not all their own.

"Such women in increasing number are acquiring the mercolized wax habit. By applying the wax at night as they would cold cream, washing it off in the morning, they secure, and maintain, entirely natural complexions. Their faces exhibit no evidence of having been 'beautified.' Nothing is added to the old complexion—the latter, instead, is discarded. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, absorbs the devitalized outer skin, gradually, almost imperceptibly. The fresh, clear, satiny underskin which appears, bears a healthy, youthful bloom not comparable with the

NORTH SMITH.

A number of our people attended the convention at the Indian Village Chemong, last week, and report a good convention. The missionary service in Epworth League was conducted by the Misses Harris and Craft, who gave very interesting and instructive readings on missions.

Rev. Mr. Ireland will be in charge of the quarterly Sacrament service in the Wesley Church, at 2.30 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Parsons is spending a few days in Belleville. While there he will attend the League convention.

Mr. Alex. Davis is attending the League convention in Belleville this week.

Miss Mabel Harrison of Peterboro', was the guest of her parents over Sunday.

Miss Cecil Pearson, Lakefield, spent the week-end under the parental roof.

Miss Violet McCall spent Saturday and Sunday with her friend, Miss Myrtle Northey.

Mr. John Armstrong, who has been holidaying among friends in Welland, returned home on Saturday evening.

Miss Mary Pearson was the guest of her sister, Mrs. S. Northey.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CHURCH DOINGS

St. Luke's Church.

Friday, 4.15—Junior Auxiliary; 8, choir concert, East City town hall.

Sunday, 8.30 a.m.—Corporate Communion of the young men.

Friday evening—Boys' Club Rally; address by Mr. Roy Smyth. Choir practice at 8 p.m.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes—discharges from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To overcome it is dangerous. Big G [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, any ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some (a!) at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require both sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 35 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

NO RIOTING IN BELFAST || Religious Freedom Secured---Crown May Refuse Assent to the Bills---Military Under Imperial Control ; Finances Under Local || ON THE HOME RULE BILL

GIANT WAVE SWEPT OVER THE STEAMER "OCEANIC"

Captain Haddock Was Almost Thrown Into the Sea---The Steamer Was a Day Late

New York, Feb. 8.--The steamship Oceanic reached her dock a day late to-day with a tale of a great sea which battered the vessel on Sunday and Monday, and, at one time, nearly swept Capt. Haddock from the the bridge. The skipper saw the wave coming, however, and ducked inside the navigating room in time to save himself from being carried overboard. Sailors who were busy about the forecastle had at the time clung to whatever came handy and though wet to the [illegible] uninjured.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all dealers.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and cold.

COCKING MAIN NEAR CHATHAM

Prominent Citizens Summoned to Court on Charge of Attending

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 8.—A number of Chatham men have been summoned to the police court on a charge of attending a cock fight. The main was "pulled off" in Chatham Township a few days ago and a number of farmers are also implicated in the charge. A number of Chatham's prominent people who went through curiosity to see the main are also connected with the case.

TWENTY-FOUR PEOPLE LOSE THEIR LIVES IN SHIPWRECK

TRADING STEAMER TATHRA WAS FOUNDERED OFF AMBRYN

News Brought by the Steamer Marama, Reporting at Victoria, B.C.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 8.—News was brought by the steamer Marama yesterday of the foundering of the trading steamer Tathra, with loss of twenty-four lives, including seven white men, off Ambryn Island, in the New Hebrides group, during a heavy gale on January 3.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lavonia, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all dealers.

NEW ONTARIO'S POSSIBILITIES FULLY EXPLAINED LAST NIGHT

Last night the local Canadian Club held a banquet at the Oriental hotel. Mine host Graham had decorated the dining hall appropriately with Union Jacks, etc. President Goodwill very ably filled the chair. After the splendid repast served by the Oriental had been enjoyed, the chairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Englehardt.

Mr. Englehardt opened by saying Peterborough is much to be envied. Peterborough will launch forth larger and stronger than ever. The Edison Works and its agricultural possibilities were touched on. Peterborough does not have a member of the Agricultural Department. People should be taught what the land can do, how 100 acres can be made to produce double their products. His home town of Petrolia sent her sons to the West, the land whereof is blessed. An expert by the name of Todd, an expert has told the people of Lambton County how to improve the land there. Mr. Todd, though not married very long has seven children. The experts of the Ontario Government have come in, like an expert in a prospect mine and have made thousands for the people of Lambton. Prices for poultry, eggs, etc., are more expensive in Peterborough than in Toronto. The speaker strongly advocated that Peterborough should get a government expert here to teach the farmers how to produce the most in their lands.

He then spoke of New Ontario, mentioning Cochrane, North Bay and other points to illustrate the great possibilities of agriculture. The G. T.P. has round houses in the places mentioned. There are more than 20 million acres of clay belt in the territory he mentioned, open for agriculture. There were possibly some mistakes made in locating the railway in that part of the country. The curves made in the railroads can be materially reduced. One engine now only draws 600 tons, but he hoped that soon every engine will draw more. The road cost $40,000 a mile, but by spending a certain sum the annual returns will be much more satisfactory. The road runs through 40 miles of virgin forest. Montreal River is an important stream. From Latchford, he carried his remarks to Cobalt. Cobalt to-day to the miner, whilst only six or seven years old, has made good, with the millions it has produced. One hundred and ten millions of dollars of nickle have been quietly produced. Cobalt is an ore, a very refractory ore and hard to get rid of. Cobalt used to be sold at $2 to $3 a pound. To-day the price of Cobalt is sold for less than half the price quoted. Arsenic is also found and used for agricultural purposes. Mercury has recently been found. Lake Temiskaming is really a widening of the Montreal River. The speaker gave Peterborough citizens a strong invitation to visit Haileybury. He brought samples with him of the agricultural products. They raise peas without weevils. He here showed a glass jar of beans from Chatham. The oats they grow in his country do not run to straw, but to oats. This is the class of oats which the Quaker Oats Company would want. Seed potatoes in New Ontario are away superior to anything of the kind grown in Ontario. They raise three crops of Alsalfa in a year. Clover is natural to the soil. There are nineteen hours of sunshine a day. Providence has certainly blessed the Northland. Along Long Lake, which is 45 miles long, there is not an acre but is susceptible to the plough. The waters in the Northland are now, partly owing to artificial sowing of Indian Rice, the breeding ground of wild ducks. The timber there is spruce, they have no hardwood like there is here. Pulp wood brings in big returns. The poorest man if able and anxious to work can make good wages. There is better natural drainage in New Ontario than in any part of Canada. People may talk about muskegs, but when they built their railroad out there, they simply cut down spruce trees and laid the rails on them. Then they took Mr. Hays, of the G. T.R., for 55 miles over the road and the roadbed was found to be absolutely steady and satisfactory. Black river is rightly named, the high rocks giving the color to the water. Crossing up that river he saw mink, foxes bear and moose, passing up the river with an Indian guide. The speaker, then, after giving a little dig at the various Boards of Trade, for what they do not do, said the Canadian Club could exercise a lot of power for the good of the country, if they worked together. In the North country no harrow is required. There is a mould from six inches to 12 feet deep over the clay and under this is limestone. James Bay holds great possibilities. It has been claimed that there is no depth of water at James Bay, but experts they sent out found from six to thirteen feet of water. Many rivers run into Hudson and James Bays. Along those rivers are inexhaustible forests of splendid spruce. The speaker has great faith in the mining industry. He has been down the shafts of several mines and has personally tested the ores.

On conclusion of the speaker's remarks, Mr. Goodwill tendered him the thanks of the Peterborough Canadian Club.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

Well-Fed Brains and Healthy Body

Can Do Things

Grape-Nuts FOOD

Builds Both

"There's a Reason"

TERMS OF HOME RULE BILL FOR IRELAND

Belfast, Feb. 8.—Without closely particularizing the terms of the Home Rule Bill to be brought in by the Government, Mr. Churchill said that the Irish Parliament and Senate would fairly represent the minority as well as the majority of the people of Ireland.

REFUSE ASSENT—The Crown will be in a position to refuse its assent to any unjust law and the Imperial Parliament will be able to repeal any such law.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM—Religious freedom will be secured. The Privy Council will be able to declare void any law which goes beyond the limits of the Home Rule bill.

MILITARY—The military will remain under the control of the Imperial Government.

FINANCES—The financial proposals of the bill will give a fair start to the Irish Government and insidious taxes will not be able to be placed upon Ulster. The Irish Parliament will have real control of its finances, but the system used must be consistent with the financial system of the United Kingdom.

LAND PURCHASE AND PENSIONS—The Imperial Government will continue to carry out the land purchase and old age pensions scheme.

REPRESENTATION—The Irish representation at Westminster will be reduced.

Mr. Churchill continued that the Government is prepared to fight the bill through Parliament and be asked for fair play from the Unionists.

LOOKED UGLY FOR CHURCHILL DETECTIVES WORMED WAY OUT

Groans of Orangemen Drowned by Liberal and Nationalist Cheers--Grounds Surrounded by Troops and None Were Allowed Admittance Without a Ticket

CARSON AND LONDONDERRY BRANDED AS TRAITORS

Belfast, Ireland, Feb. 8.—Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, the chief figure in to-day's Home Rule demonstration, arrived this morning with his wife at the Central Station and was given a somewhat mixed reception.

A number of Orangemen who had gathered at the station greeted him with groans and boos but these were drowned in the hearty cheers of the large crowd of Liberals and Nationalists. There was no disturbance and the large force of police on duty in the station had a very easy task to perform.

UNIONISTS CARRIED AN EFFIGY

A large crowd of Unionists paraded the streets carrying an effigy of Mr. Churchill to which was attached a placard bearing the words "Down They proceeded to the hotel where Mr. and Mrs. Churchill are staying and sang the National Anthem. Then they dispersed without disorder.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT AMONG THE WORKERS.

There was no marked excitement among the workers of the city today. The tens of thousands of men and women engaged in the shipyards and the linen factories proceeded to work as though the question of Home Rule had not been mooted. A few small crowds, however, were scattered here and there anxious to see the First Lord of the Admiralty and watching the movements of the military.

RAINED ALL MORNING — FOOTBALL GROUNDS A SWAMP.

Rain fell pitilessly the whole morning. The football grounds, where the meeting is to be held, is a swamp and the saturated canvas marquee in which Mr. Churchill is to speak has sagged threateningly several times.

CROWD TRIED TO BLOCK HIS PASSAGE.

Belfast, Feb. 8.—Arrangements for preserving the peace have been made on the most elaborate scale ever witnessed in this city. Detachments of police have been posted everywhere and the troops are held in readiness in their quarters.

Matters looked ugly for a moment when Mr. and Mrs. Churchill started for the place where the meeting is to be held. A great crowd which had gathered outside the hotel, appeared inclined to rush the First Lord's motor car and tried to block its passage, but a flotilla of escorting motor cars packed with detectives succeeded in worming a way through the groaning throng and got the First Lord safely away.

GROUNDS SURROUNDED BY TROOPS.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, reached the marquee safely. Their journey through the streets was marked by nothing more serious than outbursts of groans and hoots.

The football grounds was surrounded from an early hour by troops so as to guard against the invasion by the Unionists. Only ticket holders were admitted.

The surroundings of the football grounds which is known locally as "Paradise," was appallingly dreo [illegible] a sea of black ooze. The supports and ropes holding up the marquee were strained with the weight of the sodden canvas through which the water dripped like a shower bath.

LIKE CORPSES HANGING FROM GALLOWS.

Effigies bearing the labels "Carson and Londonderry, Turncoats and Traitors," swayed from poles inside the marquee, looking all the world like corpses hanging from the gallows.

Bodies of infantry and dragoons were stationed a short distance from the marquee in readiness for emergencies. The police challenged every one who tried to pass through the entry into the grounds. Occasional bands of rowdy youths marched by with banners bearing the words "No Home Rule," "Down with Churchill."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

"MADE IN PETERBOROUGH."

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I read with great interest, a day or two ago your notice of the Lindsay Winter Carnival. What struck my attention most was the fact that a little town like Lindsay scould have a "Made in Lindsay" exhibit. Mr. Editor, if a little town like Lindsay can present and advertise a home made exhibit, why cannot our city fathers, our merchants and our manufacturers wake up and get up a similar and better carnival goods. There is no denying the fact that this city wants to enlarge. We want more manufacturers here. We want to not only fill our present factories, but we want more new factories to be built. This means that Peterborough has to do her part. We have, and we are able, to put up the goods. If Lindsay can show an exhibit of home made goods, we can bet a whole stack of chips that this city could and can put up an exhibit that will open the eyes of all Canada when the exhibit is advertised. This whole thing is for those interested to get busy and get busy quickly.

Advance.

OUR NATURAL GAS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Some months ago there was some little excitement here over the reported find or suspected presence of natural gas close to this city. This idea seems unfortunately to have died out. This is a great pity, if true, ar the production of natural gas here would, more than offset Peterborough's alleged high prices for water power. Could you or any of your subscribers advise me whether all hope of procuring natural gas here has "petered out." Should we be able to supply manufactureres with gas at as cheap rates as it is furnished in Windsor and Detroit, Peterborough would soon flourish like the "Green Bay Tree."

I happened to notice yesterday in the last issue of the Canadian Journal of Commerce an article stating that an English syndicate is developing natural gas near the city of Moncton, N.B. Already over [illegible] put of over 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day. This syndicate is now arranging to pipe the gas to St. John and other centres. Just imagine, Mr. Editor, what Peterborough's progress would be immediately should we be able, after supplying local requirements, to pipe gas, at cheap but remunerative prices to Cobourg, Lindsay and other nearby towns. Now why not have our successor to our recent Industrial Commissioner, or some other qualified city official, communicate with the English syndicate handling the gas supply of Moncton. There seems good reason to believe that there is natural gas in, or close to this city and better reason to believe that if this be so, the English syndicate would have both the capital, ambition and ability to first find and then handle it.

J. L. Somers.

DENIES THAT BRITAIN HAS LANDED GUNS

Father Rougier Has Arrived Back at Victoria From Fanning Island---Montreal Men Are In It

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 8.—A free port, for extensive piers, coal bunkers, large oil tanks, and ship repair yards will be established next year at Fanning Island, in the South Seas, according to an announcement made by Father Emanuel Rougier, who arrived from Australia yesterday, after completing the transfer of Fanning and Washington Islands to a British-Canadian syndicate, headed by C. V. Armstrong, of Montreal.

Father Rougier said it is probable that the British Government will establish a naval base to Fanning Island, but denied that guns were landed there by the steamer Makura recently.

PRISON FARM CURED DISEASE OF CRIME

DR. JAMIESON, IN MOVING ADOPTION OF SPEECH FROM THE THRONE PRAISES GUELPH INSTITUTION.

Few Attempts to Escape—"And We Look for a Large Percentage of Cures," Says This M.P.

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Feb 8.—"It must be gratifying to us as Canadians," said Dr. Jamieson, in rising to move the adoption of the speech from the Throne, "that Canada is deemed of such importance in the Empire that a Prince of the Royal blood is sent here to be appointed to be our Governor-General."

[illegible] new prison farm at Guelph, which he described as an ideal resort. "The prisoners are treated like men," said he. "They have good food, healthy work and a certain amount of amusement."

The new prison farm is so popular that only fifty attempts to escape have as yet been made.

"We look for a large percentage of cures," said Dr. Jamieson, who regards crime as a disease.

"In reference to Hydro-Electric power," continued Dr. Jamieson, "by its development we are largely independent of the coal mines of Pennsylvania. It will spread industry throughout the Province, making more town centres, and in this way helping in some extent to solve the problem of keeping the farmers on the land."

FATAL FLOODS IN PORTUGAL

Persons and Property Were Swept Away in Rushing Torrents

Lisbon, Feb. 8.—The number of victims of the floods of Portugal is not yet known, but it will be large. Large numbers of injured are being cared for in hospitals in the flooded districts.

The River Tagus is a raging torrent, carrying seaward on its tempestuous current corpses and merchandise of all kinds. Many barges anchored in the navigable section of the Tagus were sunk at the first onslaught of the flood current; others were swept seaward with a great mass of debris from the upper part of the river, including uprooted trees and the bodies of cattle and live stock. Crops throughout the flooded district are ruined and all communication by wire is severed.

The Chamber to-day voted $500,000 to aid victims of the disaster.

PREFERENCE IS CONDEMNED

Reeve of Galway Not Favorable to Reciprocity With Australasia

IS A LIBERAL FARMER

Farmers Require High Price in Order to Compensate Them for High Wages for Farm Help.

Below we publish a letter from Mr. Henry Coben, Reeve of Galway, and Ex-Warden of the County of Peterborough, in regard to the proposed Australian preference agreement. The letter is addressed to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who is seeking the opinions of the farming community in regard to this important matter. As Mr. Coben is a staunch Liberal his opinion on this question will not be regarded as being influential by Conservative leaning. The following is the letter:

Kinmount, Feb. 3, 1912.

J. H. Burnham, M.P., Ottawa :—

Dear Sir,—I noticed in The Review that you are asking the farmers to give you their opinion in regard to preferential reciprocity with Australasia.

I agree with your opioion in the matter that it will, I believe, be ruinous especially to the beef and dairy interests here. Prices may seem high this winter for meat and dairy products, but I don't think they will be as high every winter, and the farmer requires a good price, owing to high wages, to hold his own.

Thanking you for your interest in the farmers' behalf, I am,

Yours truly,

HENRY COBEN,
West Peterborough.

Proposed Preference Condemned

By Well Known Liberal Farmer, Reeve of Galway

KINMOUNT, FEB. 3, 1912

J. H. BURNHAM, M. P., OTTAWA :—

Dear Sir,—I noticed in The Review that you are asking the farmers to give you their opinion in regard to preferential reciprocity with Australasia.

I agree with your opinion in the matter that it will, I believe, be ruinous especially to the beef and dairy interests here. Prices may seem high this winter for meat and dairy products, but I don't think they will be as high every winter, and the farmer requires a good price, owing to high wages, to hold his own.

Thanking you for your interest in the farmers' behalf, I am,

Yours truly,

HENRY COBEN,
West Peterborough.

SUCH LUCK.

WEARY GEORGE—"Instead of a hot hand-out, I've got to enter a wood-splitting contest with one of their boys."—From The Toronto News.

THE CAMPBELLFORD DAM

Deputation Goes to Ottawa to Protest Against Removal of Present Structure.

The good people of Campbellford seem to be up in arms against a contemplated moving of the dam there by the Dominion Government. Yesterday a delegation of some twenty citizens, including the Mayor and several councillors, passed through Peterborough, en route to Ottawa to protest against the proposed change. The trouble seems to be that whilst the local mills have got their power from a dam in or adjacent to the town the government has decided to move the dam two miles down the river, thus making it possible to use the river bed for the course of the Trent Canal. This, the disputants claim, means the taking of the power away from the manufacturers of Campbellford, who built the dam and raceway at their own expense. Those who have gone to Ottawa claim that the taking away of the dam would mean serious loss to Campbellford. They also maintain that unless the current is kept in motion in the river the sewerage system would be greatly involved.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

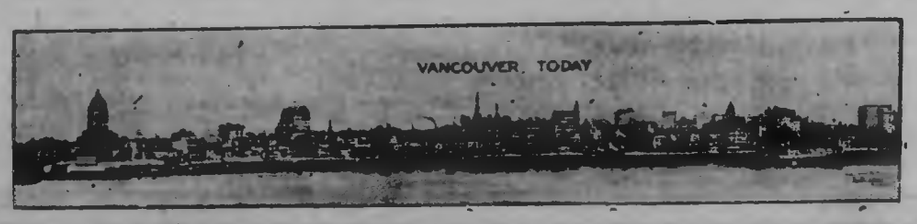
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $100 cash and $5.00 per month buys 100 shares. Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON, Director, Vancouver.
W. B. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B,C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Torrens Title, Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Part Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

LATEST ABOUT RADIUM

Inexhaustibility of Radium Emanation Has Been Disproved.

Scarcely twelve years have elapsed since Professor and Madame Curie, by a painstaking and laborious process, succeeded in isolating the radio-active substance from a large mass of mineral having radio-active properties, and to it the name radium was given. This discovery was followed by fantastic theories and elaborate hypotheses brought about by the desire of physicists to account for the wonderful properties of the new substance without doing violence to existing laws. Here was a phenomenon which had to be reconciled to existing laws of energy, though apparently it transgressed the fundamental law of the conservation of energy. Radium gave off energy day by day and year by year without apparent exhaustion or even diminution in radiating power; and not a few of our leading physicists were ready to disown the law of the conservation of energy under the formidable evidence presented by the untoward phenomenon of this new substance; but recent researches have shown that this barrier to the full acceptance of the law of the conservation of energy has broken down, and that radium slowly wastes away by the dissipation of its energy just as a furnace unreplenished with fuel will eventually lose its radiating power. The extreme slowness of the decline in radiating power of radium was the cause of the first incorrect assumptions regarding it; but under the experimental skill of such men as Professors Soddy, Dewar, and Rutherford the apparent inexhaustibility of radium emanation has been disproved; and, instead of a substance possessed of an inexhaustible store of energy, it may now be regarded as a body possessed of great concentrated energy, which it allows to escape slowly and persistently, and in this respect it fits in with the existing order. As we learn more about it we find that there is less occasion to modify our previous ideas of energy in general.

ARTIFICIAL RUBBER.

Said to be Quite as Good as the Grown Article.

About forty years ago two young chemists announced that they had succeeded in manufacturing indigo. The method used by them was entirely independent of the indigo plants. The yield was extremely small, and there seemed to be no promise in the method of future commercial success. A quarter of a century later or thereabouts the manufacturer was supplying the world with artificial indigo, and the occupation of the indigo planter, if not gone, was going. And now the chemical world is all agog about rubber. This substance obtained mainly from South and Centre America, though, of late years, owing to a great increase in the demand for it, plantations have been started, especially in Ceylon and the Malay Peninsula and Archipelago, and these are now contributing to the world's supply. Deep incisions are made near the base of the tree. The liquid flowing from these incisions is heated to drive off most of the water, and the residue is the impure rubber of the market. The valuable constituent is caoutchouc, a colourless, elastic, amorphous substance. This has long been known, but little has been learned in regard to its chemical nature until erecently. Last year a specimen of artificial rubber was exhibited at Berlin identical in all its properties with the natural substance. At present there appears, to be sure, to be little prospect of early commercial success along the line suggested, but the results already reached are of such interest as to incite to many efforts to solve the problem.

Sterilising Earth Around Posts.

Patent post holes have long been humorously referred to in connection with machines for grinding smoke, left-hand wheel barrows, and other imaginary inventions. It has remained, however, for a Budapest inventor to make what is probably an important improvement relating particularly to post holes, seeking to thus preserve the wood of the posts. Instead of applying preservatives to the wooden posts, railroad ties, sleepers or other wood exposed to the action of the earth, he treats the earth which surrounds the wooden post in such manner as to destroy all insect, germ and fungus life by soaking the earth with a suitable sterilising liquid. The process is termed "Peristerilization," and is claimed to be especially useful in rural and other remote districts in which it is inconvenient to obtain wood which has been treated with creosote or similar preservative.

The Work of the Human Heart.

The average human heart is a suction and force pump of remarkable capacity and durability. Each of its two chambers contains, on an average, 75 cubic centimeters or 4.575 cubic inches; the total contents of 150 cubic centimeters or 9.15 cubic inches being discharged 81 times a minute, corresponding to a delivery of 12.150 cubic centimeters (12.15 liters) or 741 cubic inches per minute, 729 liters or 26 73 cubic feet per hour. Expressed in U. S. gallons, the average human heart pumps through it each hour 192.6 gallons; each day, 4,622.4 gallons; each year 1,687,176 gallons; and in the adult life time of a man living to the age sung by the Psalmist 8,435,880 gallons. The pressure against which this fluid is pumped is equivalent to that of a water-column 2½ meters or say 8 feet 2.42 inches high; otherwise expressed, about 0.242 atmospheres or 3.55 pounds avoirdupois per square inch.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

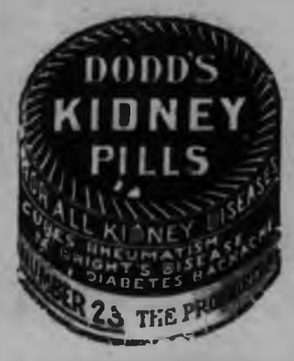
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

643 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines" or "Tender for Steel Barge", as the case may be, will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

PAMPERED CRIMINALS.

The new prison-hotel system which is being adopted in Europe for habitual offenders will do much to remove the charge that such members of society have been neglected. Under the new regime these prison-hotels are built in carefully selected and well wooded spots, which have also some advantages from a scenic point of view.

The habitual criminal gets the hospitality of the place for an indefinite period, which may not exceed ten years. Every facility is given for that social intercourse which does so much to make life endurable. The prisoners have meals together in an association hall. There will be a canteen, at which those who have not misbehaved themselves will be allowed to purchase what little luxuries are not provided on the ordinary menu of the establishment, and the long winter evenings will be beguiled with various recreations in the association hall. As for the bedroom accommodation, all has been done that the most solicitous care for the well-being of the inhabitants could dictate. It is well known that hotel patrons do not like to lodge in fourth or fifth storey rooms, so the prison blocks are handsome buildings of two storeys each. The cells are well lighted and carefully ventilated. Their internal arrangement is comfortable, and their decoration adequate, without being gaudy. The depressing square hole through which the ordinary prison cell receives its light is replaced by a charming cottage window frame, which the prisoners can open or close at their will. A steel grid is placed on the other side of each window in order that the seclusion of the convicts may not be destroyed by the envious honest outside trying to force their way into the prison. A large staff of servants, including a librarian, will be employed. In order that the prisoners may be able to obtain that reasonable amount of outdoor physical exercise that is necessary for health, a large area of the forest land will be cleared, and teachers will be provided from whom they may obtain knowledge of agriculture, horticulture and various skilled trades.

This, this new enterprise on the part of humane government provides for the happiest possible solution of the anxious problem: "What shall we do with our boys?" No calling offers such glorious prospects as the various branches of the criminal profession, in which failure, involving accommodation for an indefinite term in a prison-hotel, is only a trifle less desirable than success.

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 14, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"Yes," he said."

"Then I will tell you all I know."

They sat down again, and she gave him in quick outline the truth—as she knew it. She told him what her father had told her—about the conspiracy which had blackened his name and driven him into exile. She spoke of the mother who had remained in England, working up the evidence which should prove her husband's innocence to the whole world, of the two years which she and her father had spent in this island of San Miguel in the Azores, waiting till the time should be ripe for them to go home and face the courts; of the message of warning which her mother had sent and of the steps which her father had taken, with her help, to find out what the warning meant.

"When I learned by our chance meeting with Mr. Scott in the street yesterday," she said, "that Philip Varney was with the circus, I sent a message back to my father at once. The envelope I gave to Mr. Scott contained that message. Then I went on to the circus with you, saw Philip Varney and another [illegible] whom I knew, and rode back [illegible] alone. When I returned, my [illegible] had gone."

"Gone?" cried Scarborough. "you mean—?"

"I mean that he was not in the house. And he did not come back all night. This morning he was carried back a corpse."

"Where was he found?"

"By the side of the Caldeira de Morte—the boiling spring which sends but poisonous vapors, and which it is even dangerous to approach. He was lying within a foot of its edge."

"But that is three miles away," said Scarborough, "and he could not move a yard without help. His gout was very bad yesterday, you said?"

"It was so bad when I left him that the slightest movement gave him pain; but it must have got better suddenly. Or perhaps the danger that he feared—some terror, which was dogging him—made him forget it, and enabled him to do what would otherwise have been impossible for him. He must have walked there."

Scarborough shook his head. "I don't think that is possible," he said; "but he may have been taken in a carriage."

"There were no wheel marks on our gravel, and none on the road near the Caldeira. The drizzle of the night before had made the ground soft, so that if there had been a carriage, it would have left marks. Besides he was seen on the road."

"Walking?"

"Yes."

"Who saw him?"

"Muriel Davis. She was out for a run with her dog."

"The pine-grower's daughter!" exclaimed Scarborough. "The Caldeira de Morte is near the Casa Davis. She [illegible] Are you sure it was your father she saw?"

"She met him on the road and spoke to him."

"Did she notice that anything was wrong? I mean, was there anything unusual in his manner? Did she see anyone following him? Or was there anyone with him?"

"He was alone, and Muriel says that he seemed to be in unusually good spirits. He told her that his enemy the gout had given him a holiday, and that he was taking advantage of it; and he asked her to bring Mr. Davis to the Chineias to dinner to-day. She promised she would. Oh, Horace, I don't understand it! I left my father suffering agonies at the smallest movement, and a few hours afterwards he is walking along a high road three miles away, and saying that the gout has given him a holiday! It seems impossible! What pain he must have been in! And Muriel says he was cheerful! He was brave—I know he was brave—but this seems an impossibility. Can a man conquer a pain like that?"

"Yes," said Scarborough, "if some sharper emotion takes its place. Sudden or violent grief might do it—or terror."

Scarborough did not know how to answer her. There was, so far as he could see, only one explanation which was even plausible; but he shrank from suggesting it to Elsa yet. The doctor who was coming would no doubt be able to say whether or no the dead man had really suffered from an acute attack of gout yesterday. Scarborough resolved that he would try to see the doctor before Elsa did; and if the suspicion which was being driven in upon him now should be confirmed, he would keep the knowledge of the truth from Elsa as long as he could. If her father was what Phil Varney had said he was, she would know it soon enough. Meanwhile he would not destroy the faith which comforted her sorrow.

"What was the danger which your father feared?" he asked.

"He did not tell me."

"But you know it?"

"No. I want you to help me to find out what it was."

"Tell me how, and I will try."

Elsa hesitated, and then she said in a low tone:

"Phil Varney is your friend."

"You think it came from him?" cried Scarborough in a startled voice. "Do you understand what your suggestion implies?"

"Yes," said Elsa readily. "It connects him, perhaps with my father's death. No, don't speak; let me explain what I mean. I think that my father had got together proofs which would clear his name, and that danger which threatened him was the loss of those proofs. Now who are the people in whose interest it would be that the proofs should be destroyed. If not those whose guilt would be made plain? The son of the man who ruined him might wish to get those proofs in his own hands. I thank heaven that, though murder has been done, I believe that the documents which will vindicate my father's honor are still safe."

"And I," said Scarborough in great agitation, "thank heaven that I ran account for every minute of my chum Phil Varney's time, from yesterday afternoon till an hour ago, when I came to see you."

"How can you do that?" she asked.

"Because he spent the time in my company. He came back with me from [illegible], dined with me, and [illegible] at the Cubis station, in the best [illegible] mail to Horta. I can account for him fortunately."

"I am glad," said Elsa, simply.

"I think you ought to be," he answered sternly. "The knowledge has saved you from hinting, to anybody but me, a horrible accusation against an innocent man."

"Oh, don't misunderstand me!" she broke out. "That's not why I'm glad. My poor father has been murdered! Do you think I am going to throw away a chance of finding his murderer because I may perhaps throw suspicion on an innocent man? I want to find the guilty. The innocent will be able to prove their innocence!"

"Your father found it hard to do so," Scarborough retorted, and almost before the words had left his lips, was ashamed of them.

Elsa drew herself up proudly.

"I have told you that the proofs still exist," she said. "The murderer did did not destroy them." Then hurriedly, as though she had said more than she meant to say, she went on: "I said that I was glad that you could prove Phil Varney to be innocent, and I am. But you misunderstand my reason."

"At any rate I credited you with one that was worthy," said Scarborough.

"And is a daughter's desire to avenge her father not worthy?" she asked hotly. "I am glad to know that it was not Phil Varney, because now I need not waste time in following a false clue. There is another clue which I mean to follow, and I meant to ask you to help me."

"I will help you," said Scarborough. "Then," said Elsa quickly, "find out what the girl who calls herself Mona de la Mar was doing between yesterday afternoon and this morning. I told you I recognized another person besides Phil Varney. It was she. Her real name is—"

"Margaret Ryan," said Scarborough quickly. "Yes, I know."

"You know that, too!" said Elsa. "What else do you know about her?"

Scarborough got up and paced the road back and forth. Then he halted beside Elsa.

"I only know what Phil told me," he said. "But though for her sake I hope your suspicion wrongs her, I cannot say that I know it does. A carriage has just driven up to the Chineias. Is it the doctor?"

"Yes," said Elsa. "Tell me what you know of Margaret Ryan."

"Not yet," said Scarborough firmly. "We don't know yet that murder has been done at all. We will go and hear what the doctor says."

And Elsa, after a brief hesitation, in which she seemed inclined to resist, gave away, and followed him to the house.

CHAPTER VII.

The Portuguese doctor had said that he was not sure, but that so far as he was able to judge there had been no murder. He was inclined, indeed, with all necessary reservations in case the facts should afterwards prove to be otherwise, to think that the death, though lamentably sudden, was due to natural causes. A further examination would be necessary to decide the question. All that he could say, at present, was that there were no external marks of violence.

"But poison?" Elsa had suggested. "The fumes from the Caldeira?"

The doctor shook his head.

"The fumes from the Caldeira de Morte are mainly carbon dioxide," he said. "Death was not due to them."

"How can you be sure of that?" Scarborough asked. "Carbon dioxide is a poison, is it not?"

"Certainly, Senhor, if it is breathed in excess for any length of time."

The dead body was found a few feet from the edge of the Caldeira."

"So I understand. But none the less, Senhor, I am confident that the fumes from the Caldeira de Morte were not the cause of death. Death from carbon dioxide is a form of suffocation. The appearance of the body negatives your theory."

"Can you explain to me how?"

"Certainly Senhor. If the young lady's father had been suffocated by the fumes from the caldeira, his veins would be congested, the skin would be dark, and the lips would be almost purple. I observed, on the other hand, the exact opposite of all this. The lips were bloodless, the veins were flaccid, and the face was white. I am confident that, in this point at least, I shall prove to be right."

"Then you are unable to tell us what did cause death?" asked Elsa.

"Unhappily, yes, Senhora."

"But you have a theory—a guess?"

"If I have I do not feel justified in stating it, until I have made the closer examination which will verify or confute it. I am sorry to have to tell you, Senhora, that the law will require that examination to be made public. It grieves me deeply to have to say so, but there must be an autopsy."

Elsa shivered, and then said quietly. "Very well. Let it take place as soon as possible."

The pompous little doctor looked at her admiringly. Here was a girl who could meet sorrow without weak tears. He had expected that she would offer objections, perhaps that she would become hysterical, and cry out that the dead must not be desecrated. Instead of that, she had the strength to acquiesce in the inevitable. Perhaps this was only an indication of the unemotional English temperament, but the Portuguese doctor, accustomed to something different from his own womankind, admired it.

He expressed his admiration and his sympathy in a few graceful phrases, and then went out to his carriage. Scarborough followed him and as he was opening his carriage door, asked:

"Can you tell me whether the dead man had suffered recently from gout?"

The doctor turned to him quickly.

"Has that suggestion been made?" he asked.

"Yes."

"I do not think it likely."

"But are you sure?" Scarborough insisted. "If he had suffered from a bad attack of gout a few hours before the time of his death—as had an attack that the slightest movement gave him agony—you would be able to say that it was so?"

"I should—"

(To be Continued)

ATHLETICS SPOIL WOMEN'S FIGURES

A Declaration of Artists Who Have Excited Hot Discussion in England

The deterioration in the beauty of woman's figure, consequent upon the present craze for athletics, is exciting a hot controversy in England while medical men are condemning in strong terms the modern girl's over indulgence in hockey.

The discussion has arisen out of the declaration of Louis Potter, the well known American sculptor, that the changes in the female form have been so great that woman does not now in any way resemble the Greek type. Consequently English artists are finding it more and more difficult to find suitable models. "The new figure" says a well-known associate of the Royal Academy, "is full of knotty bunches of muscles instead of soft fleshy curves and though this muscular development is beautiful in man it is not so in woman. To the artist the over-developed woman is an atrocity in the aesthetic sense."

The result is that artists and sculptors now have to rely more on her creative ability than ever before. As Frank Brangwyn points out, it is still possible to get models who are perfectly developed, but the supply is running short.

A far more serious objection to the growing athleticism of woman comes from physicians and women presidents of girl's colleges.

"Hockey is neither healthy nor graceful," said the head of a great London girls' school. "A growing girl who plays this game for an hour, four or five days a week, is almost bound to show curvature of the spine after a year or so."

One of the best medical experts also declares that "the tendency at hockey is to put strain on the muscles that ought not to be trained in young girls and women." But such games as cricket, lacrosse, and tennis are favored by most authorities when played in moderation.

The outcry in England is not against physical exercise for women, but against the undue indulgence in it. Keen observers of present-day tendencies interpret woman's too hearty indulgence in mannish sports as tending to produce a sexless girl, flat footed, and ungraceful. This, say the critics, is due to the craving of "the gentler sex" for complete equality with men, and accounts for the growing indifference to household duties noticeable in certain sections of modern Englishwomen.

SUGGESTIONS FOR MOTORISTS IN BIG EUROPEAN CITIES

Stop

Turning Corner or Backing

Look Out Danger Ahead

TRAINING LESS STRENUOUS

So Says Lawson Robertson, Famous Trainer and Coach

At a recent gathering of certain members of the athletic fraternity of New York, Lawson Robertson, trainer and coach of the Irish-American Club, started the gathering by making the statement that sprinters do not have to train as diligently for indoor running as they do when they are preparing to compete in the open.

"There is a very logical reason for making this statement," he said, "but first it must be understood that when I say sprinters I do not include any who run more than 150 yards. Above that distance it is largely a test of endurance as well as speed and therefore those runners must train just as diligently for running on the board floors as if they were conditioning themselves for races on cinder paths.

"In the first place, one of the most serious things sprinters have to combat is the wind. Indoors, of course, there is no wind, and, since speed is not impaired by any outside force, so much energy is not required. Then, too, there is more elasticity to board floors than there is to cinder paths. Another reason is the fact that the runner does not have to take into consideration weather conditions. While preparing for dashes in the open an athlete is compelled to be ready as every ounce of energy that he can gather at any time, for he can never tell when the track may be heavy."

$125,000 FOR A HORSE

Mr. August Belmont's Flint Rock the winner of the Dominion Handicap at Fort Erie last summer, will be sent to France to head his breeding establishment in Normandy. Flint Rock is a son of the Two Thousand, Derby and St. Leger winner Rock Sand. For this horse Mr. Belmont paid $125,000 and English breeders were very anxious for his return to that country to take the place of Isinglass.

High Prices for Poultry.

A Toronto despatch says that in Peterborough chickens sell at $1.10 per pair, geese at $1.10 to $1.25. The price of turkeys was not quoted, probably the linotype operator fainted when he got the quotations. Chatham, the report says, gets 80c per pair for chickens and $1.25 for geese. Whilst the comparison does not show a great discrepancy, the man or woman buying at either town pays enough!

DUSTBANE THE DUST KILLER

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP

absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

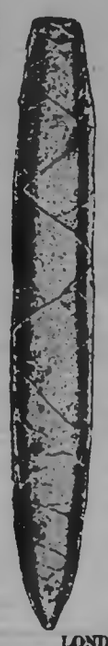
One week free trial. Yours for health,

DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in Bibs., 1, 2 Bibs. & 5 Bibs. For use in stores, offices and public bldgs.

For sale by, Peterboro Hardware Co.



10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO

Three trains daily.

Excellent service.

Making connection at Detroit for

FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—

W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

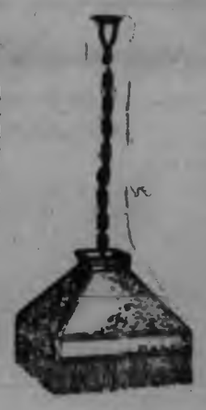
and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00

OUR OWN FACTORY



Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

16-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL ALE is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd. QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23

Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are expecting friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

GRAMPIAN,

Friday, Feb. 2. Saturday, Feb. 3.

CORSICAN,

Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.

HESPERIAN,

Saturday, Feb. 24.

TUNISIAN,

Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.

Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.

Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.

Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.

Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.

Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Lucian—May 4, June 1, June 29.

Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.

Sestian—May 18, June 15, July 13.

Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY, C.P.A. Can. Pas. Ry.

B. A. ROSS, C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO'

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00

RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00

TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,100,549.41

Savings Department

3 1/2 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO'

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director.

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

Phone 164, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

THE "MILK-O" MUSEUM

Wonderful Collection of Photos Gathered by Parisian Schoolmaster

Future generations of English people will find much to interest them in the wonderful collection of photographs gathered by Sir Benjamin Stone.

Armed with a recording gramophone, this Parisian citizen, who is a schoolmaster by profession, spends his leisure hours lying in wait for street-criers. When he hears the French equivalent for "Milk-O!" or the coal-man's call, he promptly pounces on them, and gets them shout into his instrument. Already he has collected the calls of the bird seed seller, the vegetable carrier, the [illegible] and the man who makes [illegible] takes to repair all kinds of broken crockery.

In this way he means to prepare a complete museum of speech, which will be left eventually to some public institution, for the instruction of the generations to come.

FOR READY REFERENCE

An Explanation of Certain Old-Time Biblical Words

Here is a handy table furnished by The Christian World which it would be well to cut out and paste in your Bible for ready reference:—

A day's journey was about twenty-three and one-fifth miles.

A Sabbath day's journey was about an English mile.

A cubit was nearly twenty-two inches.

A hand's-breadth was equal to three and five-eighths inches.

A finger's-breadth was equal to one inch.

A shekel of silver was about fifty cents.

A shekel of gold was $8.

A talent of silver was $523.30.

A talent of gold was $3,849.

A piece of silver, or a penny, was thirteen cents.

A farthing was three cents.

A mite was less than a quarter of a cent.

A gerah was one cent.

An ephah, or bath, contained seven gallons and five pints.

A firkin was about eight and seven-eighths gallons.

A hin was one gallon and two pints.

An omer was six pints.

A cab was three pints.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG

Expect a good, long, useful life.

Hold your thoughts persistently.

Keep in the sunlight; nothing beautiful or sweet ripens in the darkness.

Simply refuse to grow old by counting your years or anticipating old age.

Refrain from all kinds of stimulants and sedatives; they will shorten your life.

One of the best preventives of old age is enthusiasm and interest in affairs of the day.

Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression. It is the greatest enemy of the human race.

Nature is the great rejuvenator; her spirit is ever young. Live with her; study her; love her.

Contemplate beauty in all its forms, and you will drive everything that is ugly out of your life.

Avoid excesses of all kinds; they are injurious. The long life must be a temperate, regular life.

SURPRISE FOR THE HOME

J. H. Maddy, of the Erie Railroad, was born in Muncie, Indiana. He had two cousins who lived on a farm outside the city.

"One fall," said Maddy, "the boys had been working very hard and their father told them they might take a load of apples to town, sell them and keep the money.

"The boys, on reaching town, stood around for a time, and finally sold the apples. Then they wandered in and out of the stores for two or three hours trying to find something to buy to take back home. Finally they bought half a bushel of apples.—Saturday Evening [illegible].

Health for Every Woman No More Headaches

FROM WEAKNESS AND DESPAIR THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN RESTORED TO ROBUST HEALTH BY DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

That sick women are made well by Dr. Hamilton's Pills is proved in the following letter:

"For years I was thin and delicate I lost color and was easily tired; a yellow pallor, pimples and blotches on my face were not only mortifying to my feelings, but because I thought my skin would never look nice again I grew despondent. Then my appetite failed. I grew very weak. Various remedies, pills, tonics and tablets I tried without permanent benefit. A visit to my sister put into my hands a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. She placed reliance upon them, and now that they have made me a well woman I would not be without them whatever they might cost. I found Dr. Hamilton's Pills by their mild yet searching action very suitable to the delicate character of a woman's nature. They never once griped me, yet they established regularity. My appetite grew—my blood red and pure—heavy rings under my eyes disappeared, and to-day my skin is as clear and unwrinkled as when I was a girl. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

The above straightforward letter from Mrs. J. Y. Todd, wife of a well-known citizen in Rogersville, is proof sufficient that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful woman's medicine. Use no other pill but Dr. Hamilton's 25c. per box. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE MORNING TIMES

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9TH.

PUBLIC OWNED TELEGRAPHS.

In presenting his resolution in the House of Commons for the appointment of a commission to investigate the advisability of nationalizing telegraphs, telephones and cables, Mr. J. E. Armstrong of East Lambton expressed very clearly and forcefully his arguments in favor of governmental control of these public utilities. The attitude of the government towards this resolution quite as clearly evidenced a healthy disposition to encourage independent thought among members of Parliament. The government is not undertaking to keep its following in a position of servility or confining their activities in the House to the orders of the party whips. This is a refreshing tendency which was resolutely suppressed by the late government.

The nationalizing of telegraphs and telephones involves a stupendous responsibility and task, but the government gave a willing and courteous ear to Mr. Armstrong's proposal, indicating a disposition to consider the question from every standpoint. The Winnipeg Telegram thinks that it is unfortunate that little has been done in the direction of nationalising these public utilities. It may be recalled that Sir William Mulock, when postmaster-general, took this matter up, but the government of that day was subject to many entanglements, and he was forced to abandon his efforts. It is commonly supposed that this was the reason for his retirement from the government. The attitude of the late government was not such as to encourage any further attempts in this direction.

The nationalization of a public utility which has reached the magnitude of the Canadian system of telegraphs is a tremendous task, but the people may rest assured that its feasibility will find sympathetic consideration at the hands of the Borden government.

GERMAN ELECTIONS DESTROY ARGUMENT FOR CANADIAN NAVY.

There are 397 seats in the German Parliament and of these 110 were won by the Socialist party in the recent general election. The Socialists have thus secured a stronger following than any one of the other five principal parties into which the German electorate is divided.

The full significance of what has occurred is in danger of being overlooked owing to lack of clear knowledge as to what Socialism, in Germany, stands for. The term Socialism is in many cases confused with anarchy and in others with a plan for a forcible redistribution of wealth, under which the industrious Haves will be forced to share with dissolute Have Nots. The Socialist cause has for its being in following platform:

Responsibility of the Government to Parliament;

Abolition of plural voting;

Abolition of standing army and substitution of a national guard;

Abolition of indirect taxes and of duties on necessaries of life;

Prohibition of child labor and the creation of courts for the adjustment of industrial disputes.

The Socialist party demands the adoption of a system similar to that prevailing in Canada, with one man, one vote, and Government responsible to the people's representatives in Parliament. The first two planks in the German Socialist platform, as thus explained, as well as the other planks which are self-explanatory, are such as democrats the world over will freely subscribe to.

The verdict of Germany is of special and vital interest to Canada. The whole agitation for a Canadian navy, or Canadian contribution to the British navy, is based on alleged danger to Britain and Canada from Germany. The formal declaration of the masses of Germany for the total abolition of the German standing army and for international peace, and the fact that this declaration was made in the face of the most frenzied appeals by German jingoes, shows how wholly baseless this alleged danger is. The popular verdict in Germany has knocked the foundation from under the whole argument for naval expenditure by Canada.

Aided by Films

Cinematograph films which were taken during the recent champagne riots in France have enabled the police to identify and arrest many of those who took part.

After Fifty Years

After fifty-three years, an Indian Mutiny veteran, Private Andrew Butler, has just been presented with the medal earned by him for his service in the 72nd Highlanders in 1858.

Telephone Despatching

The Canadian Pacific Railway has 3,055 miles of telephones, or seventy-one miles more than its nearest competitor, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1895, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $300,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation.

PRESIDENT.

Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1871 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	$62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

BLACKMAILING THE RICH

Instances Showing How the Millionaires are Held Up

Under the title of "John D. Rockefeller Ar[illegible]" Professor Telemaque Timayenis, [illegible] Boston, has just published [illegible]raphy of the world-famous [illegible]re, and in it he writes:

"N[illegible]or words can describe [illegible]r. Rockefeller fears publicity. He fears to have his acts questioned or criticized, fears even to have his family question him on matters of business, fears the very sound of his own footsteps, fears his shadow, fears the reflection of his own image in the looking-glass. The life of John D. Rockefeller is a constant fear. He fears the water he drinks is not pure, fears trades are not honest—in fact, I know from experience that no man has long been associated with John D. Rockefeller who can escape being impregnated with fear."

A notorious American blackmailer once wrote a letter to Mr. Cudahy, the millionaire pork-packer of Chicago, threatening to murder him unless he was immediately paid the sum of $250,000. Mr. Cudahy, on receiving the epistle, surrounded himself with a private armed bodyguard, and the blackmailer, finding it impossible to carry out his threat, quietly kidnapped Master Cudahy, a boy of twelve. Then he wrote to the father declaring that if the $250,000 was not forthcoming on or before a certain date the boy's sight would be destroyed. The money was paid.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt was said to be the most miserable millionaire who ever lived in the States. Threatening letters reached him by every post, and men who had designs on his life were often found in the neighborhood where he resided. One day a man called at the millionaire's mansion and demanded money of the footman who answered the door. The servant turned him away, but the caller immediately rushed to the front of the house and startled Mr. Cornelius by thrusting his fist through the dining-room window and shouting, "Death to Vanderbilt!" The police arrested the man before he could do further mischief and took him to the station, where a fully-loaded bomb was found upon him.

Mr. Russell Sage, the New York millionaire, died peacefully in his bed, contrary to his own expectations. His life was so often threatened that he declared that he would die with his boots on. He had many narrow escapes of being assassinated, and on December 4th, 1891, his secretary and three of his clerks lost their lives in defending him.

Mr. Jay Gould had his life threatened times without number, and after his decease receipts were found among his papers which showed that he had paid away to various blackmailers in the course of ten years no less than $2,400,000 in order to prevent being assassinated.

DIGGING BETTER THAN SOARING

Birdseye Says Men Cannot Meet in the Trackless Skies

"There is more to be got by digging down into the earth to harvest its surface, than there can be had by soaring up into the boundless skies by the aid of dirigible balloons or aeroplanes. There are no precious mines to explore in all the vast expanse of air, nor is there any invitation to profitable industry. There is no level in the trackless skies where man with man may meet, where we can help one another or be helped. There can be no brotherly love where there are no public highways with dwellings, where there is no chance to meet and grasp the friendly hand or even to give and to receive the passing word. —George Birdseye.

PENCILS AND DIPHTHERIA

A recent outbreak of diphtheria at Bacup is attributed to the sucking of lead pencils. The pencils in themselves are harmless. What caused the mischief was the school-children's habit of sucking dirty pencils and then passing them on to each other.

The very first lesson every child should be taught is not to put a pencil in its mouth. If it was known that the severest punishment would follow pencil sucking, the habit could be rooted out promptly. It is practically impossible for any teacher, however vigilant, to prevent children borrowing one another's pencils, but it ought not to be a very difficult task to see that the little ones keep their pencils and paint brushes out of their mouths.

Rich and Poor Alike

Having been in vogue for centuries, the custom of ringing two bells, one to summon the rich, and the other the poor, to vestry meetings, has now been discontinued at Northleach, Gloucestershire, on the ground that it is out of keeping with modern feeling.

Tree 1,000 Years Old

In the churchyard at Plymtree, Devon, is a yew-tree whose age is calculated at 1,000 years, and which is doubtless the oldest in the country.

Many Lost Dogs

During the first three months of this year, 7,405 dogs, most of them "strays," were received at the temporary Home for Lost Dogs in Battersea.

Beef for Britain

For the quarter ending March 31st last, 1,634,405 cwt. of beef was imported into Great Britain, a record quantity for this period of the year.

Traffic Observers

For the traffic census of the City of London nearly 300 observers were required to watch 52 roads, 14 other walking ways, 18 railways, 6 tube stations, and 2 stairways.

Big Income

Lord Halsbury was Lord Chancellor for seventeen years and received in salary during that period $850,000. With his six years' pension he has received $1,000,000 for his services.

BOUGHT AN ONTARIO FARM

Dr. John Standish, of the staff of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, after looking over many farms for a home in the Province of Ontario, purchased a fine 200-acre farm in the township of Pequesing, county of Halton, 2½ miles from Georgetown.

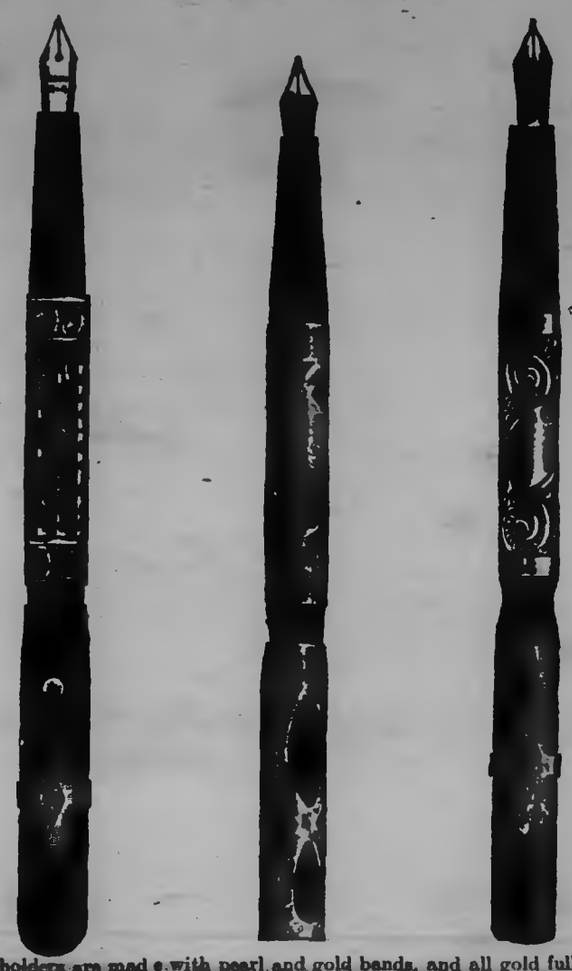
Regiment to a Menagerie

Banishment from the regiment to a menagerie has been the fate of the Himalayan bear, the pet of the 2nd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, as the result of biting his keeper, and then escaping.

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens, "Safety City", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons cut from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.



The holders are made with pearl and gold bands, and all gold full chased, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by its makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON.

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address .....

WIT OF THE WORLD

Some of the Cleverest Sayings Culled From Many Sources

A London clergyman was called on to address an audience of actors. Alluding to the better social status of the players, the clergyman said that in former days it was sometimes customary to brand them as vagabonds and bore a hole in their ears with an awl, that the citizens might thus be forewarned. "And who knows," the clergyman added, "but that it is a survival of an endeavor to hide this mark of indignity that causes some of the actors even to-day to wear their hair long?"—Munsey's Magazine.

You don't need a very complete list of funny stories to amuse a girl who is gifted with pretty teeth.—American Magazine.

Happiness is a by-product obtained from work well done.—Panlon Star.

If home is where the heart is, it's a wonder more girls are not homeless.—The Gleam.

There is no place like home from which to roam when female temper is on the foam.—The Searchlight.

No matter how intellectual she may be, after a woman reaches a certain age she feels that almost any man is a match for her.—The Owl.

A Chicago mail-order house has shipped 10,000 alarm clocks to Peking. There can be no further doubt as to the awakening of China.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Advice is lost on woman—though she continues to receive it in car-load lots.—Smart Set.

The fun that a man gets in watching a woman sharpen a pencil is only equalled by the quiet amusement a woman experiences while the man is endeavoring to thread a needle.—Tatler.

KITCHENER AND THE C. O.

A certain commanding officer was putting his troops through a series of manoeuvres before Lord Kitchener, but somehow or other he managed to get his men thoroughly mixed up. In the end, however, the C.O. bobbed up, smiling, and, trotting proudly up to "K. of K.," he remarked: "There, sir, I flatter myself that was extremely well done."

"Oh, excellent!" was the suave reply; "but, may I ask what on earth were you trying to do?"

AMERICAN CATTLE TRADE

The export cattle trade of the United States in 1910 was the lightest in over twenty years. Exports from Chicago were approximately 58,700 for the year, against 130,448 in 1909, 187,205 in 1908, 266,131 in 1907, and 301,221 in [illegible].

YOU PAY WHEN CURED

Drs. K. & K. TAKE ALL RISKS

Cured by the New Method Treatment

NO NAMES OR PHOTOS USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

NERVOUS DEBILITY

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through Early Indiscretions, Excesses and Blood Diseases. If you have any of the following symptoms consult us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, loose pains, hair loose, sore throat, etc.

YOU WILL BE A WRECK

Our New Method Treatment can cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified, so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual [illegible] are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Don't [illegible]ks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars. We will cure you or no pay.

EVERYTHING PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

READER: No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (Illustrated) on Secret Diseases of Men. QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT SENT ON REQUEST

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal for you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?

Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?

No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

O'K

The Food Drink

Many people drink O'Keefe's "Special Extra Mild" Ale solely for its food properties. Being brewed of finest hops and malt, it contains all the body and brain building elements of these grains. It is because we use the best, that is so rich and creamy—so thoroughly enjoyable—as well as so nutritious and wholesome. It's "extra mild" remember, and never makes you bilious. In Crown stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's

Special Extra Mild ALE

"The Beer that is always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & CO., Distributors

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

Trade Marks
Designs
Copyrights &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Prince George Hotel

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upward; American plan, $2.50 per day and upward

Samuel M. Thompson, Proprietor

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, formerly of this city, but now one of Lindsay's well known citizens has, with his daughters, and a party of friends gone to Winnipeg to attend the hospital there.

FRED. LAKE, CHAMPION TRAVELER OF MAJORS

Manager Fred Lake of the Providence Club of the International League for Frank J. Navine and company, is baseball's greatest tourist, says the Detroit News. He has done more hot footing during his 22 years actual service than any other man in the game. Briefly his record is as follows:—Starting his career on the diamond at Moncton, N.B., in 1890, Fred moved up to the Boston Nationals in 1891. After quitting Boston he was with Milwaukee and Providence in 1892; Wilkesbarre, 1893-4; Toronto, 1895; Kansas City, 1904; Nashua and Lynn 1905; Little Rock, 1906; Boston Americans, 1908; Boston Nationals, 1910; St. Louis Americans, 1911; and Providence, 1912.

JERRY EDMUNDS,
a ball player who has made good in the Western Canadian League, and is ripe for better company this year.

NOT IN CHURCH

A well-known preacher gives a curious experience, as follows: It was his custom to point his sermon with either "Dearly beloved brethren," or "Now, my brothers," until one day a lady member of the congregation took exception to this and asked why he always preached to the gentlemen and never to the ladies.

"My dear lady," said the beaming vicar, "one embraces the other."

"But not in the church," was the reply of the astonished lady.

MIGHT BE WORSE

It was not always possible for Mrs. O'Flaherty, from her permanent station at the washtub, to appreciate the silver lining, which her husband took pains to point out to her in every cloud.

"I've lost me job, Norah," he said cheerfully the other day; "but this is just the toime whin ye ought to be thankful I'm not so smart as some people."

"An' for why should I be thankful for that, thin?" asked the hard-working soul, pausing to wipe her glistening forehead with her damp apron.

"'Tis aisy seen," replied her lord, gazing tolerantly at her from his comfortable chair by the stove. "If I was Tim Murphy, fr instance, an' out of me job, I'd be losin' two dollars a day instid of a dollar and a half. You think o' that, me darlint, and 'twill put the heart into ye, same as it hev into me."

RUNS IN THE FAMILY

"Longevity? I should say longevity did run in the family," said Mrs. Spriggins. "Why, John was six foot two, Bill was six foot four, and George had more longevity than any man I ever see." He was six foot seven, if he was a foot."

DOING THE COOKING

Friend:—"Do you find it cheaper to do your own cooking?"

Young Wife:—"Oh, yes. My husband doesn't eat nearly so much now."

INSECT POWDER

Lady:—"How shall I apply this insect powder, then?"

Chemist (absently):—"Oh, a teaspoonful after each meal!"

NATIONS AT TEA

Methods Followed by Tea-Drinkers in Various Countries

In England, France, and Germany tea is made in much the same plebeian way; but in other countries the method of enjoying the cup which cheers is a more picturesque ceremony.

In China, for example, a large, artistic cup is set in a brass or silver holder, and in this cup the tea is placed and covered with boiling water. A little saucer which just fits it is placed inside the cup to keep in the steam and flavor of the tea. When it is drawn it is poured from the big cup into dainty little ones no bigger than an eggshell. The method followed in Japan is almost similar.

Tea making in Russia is a simple process, involving merely the use of a samovar and a slice of lemon or of lime.

In Java tea is served in broad, flat cups, and flavored with Batavia arrack; and in Formosa it is steeped with tea-flowers and one or two orange-flowers.

For their tea-drinking the Uruguayans employ silver tubes, each of which has at the end a ball-like strainer known as a bomba or bombilla.

In Martinique an aromatic tea is used, and a peculiar liqueur made by the monks and by the old French housewives is added.

AN ECONOMICAL TIP.

Candles will last double the usual time if treated in the following way: Take each candle by the wick, and give it a good coating of white varnish. Put the candles away for a day or two to let them harden. The varnish prevents the grease from running down, and so prolongs the life of the candle.

WHEN WASHING CURTAINS.

Those who wash their own lace curtains know how difficult it is to keep the edges straight. A good plan is to tack a piece of broad tape along each outer edge before putting them in the water, and let it remain on until the curtains are washed and ironed. By this means the edges are kept straight and even.

DOT'S "NICE MAN"

By MARY McLENNAN

James Gordon was a misanthrope. For five years he had lived alone in his flat in Hope Mansions, and during that time he had not exchanged half-a-dozen words with his neighbors. Every morning, punctually at nine o'clock, he locked his door and went out for the day. He returned as punctually every evening at five o'clock.

It was years since the neighbors had ceased to make overtures. The children made up stories about him, and sometimes he could hear a childish voice on the stairs, "Here's the black man coming!"

But that was before Mr. and Mrs. Willett and Dot came to the Mansions. Dot was only four, and the Mansions presented endless possibilities of adventure to her.

She was quite alone when first she met James Gordon. He had just made his solitary way up the stairs when he almost fell over a wee girl busily drawing wonderful chalk pictures on the floor.

A welcoming smile lit oDt's baby face. "Nice man," she cooed. "Nice man see Dot's pictures."

He took the hand she had extended to him, and knelt down. There was neither form nor anything intelligible in the chalk scribble, but he gravely assured her that it was very nice, very nice indeed.

Dot gurgled with delight. Her blue eyes danced as she placed her chalk in his hand.

"Nice man make picture," she suggested persuasively. With both her fat little hands she seized his wrist, and pains-takingly guided it over the dusty floor. The result of their combined efforts was so droll that an unaccustomed laugh forced itself to his lips. Dot fairly shouted in her delight.

"Nice man makes pictures better'n Dot," she announced gleefully. "Make some more, nice man."

But Gordon stood up suddenly. He had heard a step behind them on the stairs, and his face assumed its usual mask of rigidity.

"Dotty, darling, you must come away and have tea," a gentle voice said. "I hope you will excuse my little girl," Mrs. Willett continued, addressing Gordon, "she has a perfect genius for making friends, and she never stops to consider whether her advances will be appreciated."

"Who could help appreciating them?" James Gordon said. Dot leaned forward and held her rosy lips up to be kissed. James hesitated, and glanced nervously at Mrs. Willett.

"Certainly," she said, in an undertone. "She expects it."

He kissed the child, and there was a new tenderness in his voice when he said, "Good-night, Dot."

"Good-night. God bless you, nice man," Dot responded.

After that Dot got into the habit of waiting on the stairs for the return of her "nice man" every evening. She was always ready to be amused, and Gordon grew oddly fond of the little mite who had claimed his friendship. Very soon he asked Mrs. Willett's permission to entertain Dot to tea in his flat. It was readily granted, and Gordon managed to leave his office half an hour earlier that he might select some particularly appetizing cakes. Some impulse made him don his best suit, and he was glad he had done so when Mrs. Willett carried Dot down resplendent in a white silk dress.

As Gordon said, it was a "great" occasion. He had lost the air of melancholy which had hitherto distinguished him. Dot had crept into his heart, and already his outlook was beginning to change. She had infected him with her joyousness.

On the next evening no gurgle of baby laughter greeted James Gordon on his arrival home. A feeling of unaccountable loneliness assailed him as he entered his flat.

He became anxious when, on the next night again, she was not there. The child had taken such a fancy to him, he felt she would not willingly miss coming to see him. Perhaps there was something the matter.

At any rate, it would only be polite to inquire, and he hastened up the stairs to the Willetts' flat.

Mrs. Willett answered his knock and he started back at the sight of her. Her eyes were red with weeping, and her face wore a strained, anxious look.

"What is the matter?" he asked, faintly. "Is it Dot?"

Mrs. Willett nodded.

"I can't ask you to come in," she said. "Dot is very ill. It is diphtheria."

"Is there anything I can do?" Gordon asked hoarsely. "Could I bring her anything—grapes, for instance?"

"She couldn't eat them now, thank you," Mrs. Willett said sadly. "No, there is nothing to be done but follow the doctor's instructions, unless—" She checked herself.

"Unless what?" Gordon asked. "Mrs. Willett, if there is any way I could help, any way at all, it would be a charity to let me do it. Perhaps a nurse—"

"Dr. Mayne said I ought to have a nurse," Mrs. Willett said slowly. "We couldn't possibly afford it."

"Then you must let me send for one. I can well afford it, and it is for Dot's sake," he said, then, without waiting for her consent, "If you don't mind, I will slip to the nearest telephone and ask Dr. Mayne to send one at once."

He ran downstairs, and Mrs. Willett shed thankful tears.

But when Nurse Baines arrived, and infused fresh hope into her, she realised how much she had needed her. She was passionately grateful to Gordon, and tried to express something of her gratitude when he called next day.

Gordon was distinctly perturbed so much so, that on the three following days he waylaid the doctor on the stairs and asked for news of Dot.

A load was taken off his mind when the doctor was able to assure him that the child had taken a turn for the better.

Then one evening he missed the doctor. For an hour he waited with his door open, listening for his footsteps, until he could stand the suspense no longer. He must go up to the Willett's flat and ask how the patient was progressing.

He was half way up the stirs when he almost ran into a tall, slender girl in nurse's uniform.

"Marian!" he exclaimed impulsively, then he drew back. "I beg your pardon, Miss Baines, I forgot myself," he said.

Nurse Marian's eyes filled with tears. For a moment she hesitated, then she laid a hand on his arm. "Won't you forgive me, James?" she asked softly. "I was foolish; I did not really mean that cruel letter. Afterwards, when I came to know my own heart, I realized that I had thrown away real gold for dross. Then, when I wanted to tell you, you had gone away."

"If I had only known!" the man groaned. "I came to London immediately and have been living alone in the flat below. Marian, do you really mean it? You haven't married that other fellow, at any rate. I can hardly realise that you have cared all the time, that you still care."

"I did care all the time, I still care," Marian said softly.

"My darling, I am not married," he said, as he kissed her. "But I soon will be."

Marian drew back.

"Oh, you mustn't!" she exclaimed. "I have just come from Dot."

"I don't care," he said. "Dear little Dot! But for her, I might never have found you. How is she?"

"She is much better. I think you might see her," Marian said, and together they entered the child's room.

Dot gave a weak cry of recognition when she saw him.

Her glance travelled to Nurse Marian.

"Dot loves nice man," she explained. "Does 'oo?"

Marian stooped and kissed the child. "Yes, Dottie, I do," she said.

JUST AS WELL

Mrs. Masden:—"Mother writes to say she is coming to spend a month with us."

Mr. M.:—"! ! ! ! ! ? ? ? ? ? ! ?—"

Mrs. M.:—"Why, Harry, you always told me you thought a lot of mother."

Mr. M.:—"Very true, my dear, and so I do; but I never told you before what it was I thought of her!"

A GRACIOUS CONCESSION

An old gentleman, evidently a stranger to London, stopped a youth hurrying along Piccadilly.

"Young man," he said abruptly, "I want to go to Hyde Park."

The youth seemed lost in thought for a moment.

"Well," he said at length, "you may go just this once. But you must never ask me again!"

THE TIE

They stood beneath the starry dome as the heart-beats of the night looking into the diamond-studded shirtfront of the sky.

"Is that Mars?" he whispered, as he slipped his arm around her taper waist, and gazed upon a glittering orb in the distant blue.

"No, it isn't," she exclaimed, jerking away. "It's mine, and if you can't tell the difference between my waist and mother's after eight years' courtship, well, we'd better part."

The matter was amicably adjusted before anything serious resulted.

A SCHOOLBOY'S WIT

The master of a free grammar school was one day endeavoring to instil into the minds of his pupils that two negatives make a positive. On a remarkably fine day shortly afterwards the boys were petitioning their master for an afternoon's holiday, to which he hastily replied, "Nh, no." They were accordingly repairing to their studies, when one of theboys (a very shrewd lad) reminded him of the fact that "two negatives make a positive," and therefore claimed a holiday. The master, pleased with the boy's wit, immediately granted the request.

SHOOTING UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Pat was a raw recruit, and had lately had a day's leave to go duck-shooting with his sergeant, who was to initiate him into the mysteries of that art.

"Well, Mulligan," said a kindly subaltern, who took a separate and kindly interest in every man in the company, "how many ducks did you shoot?"

"Well, sorr, Sergeant Ball shot six brace; but as for me, I couldn't hit divvil a wan, sorr!"

"How was that? Weren't there plenty on the lake?"

"Yes, there was, sorr; and, begorra, that was the throuble. As soon as I'd point me gun at wan duck, sorr, another wan would fly in between, and shpoil me aim entoirely!"

GREATEST QUESTION

For three hours, fifty-nine minutes, and forty-five seconds Professor L. L. Doe had been lecturing upon the burning question affecting political economy.

"And now," he concluded, glancing at his chronometer, "I should just like one of the students to state concisely what he considers to be the greatest question at present occupying the minds of men in this country."

From a far corner of the auditorium, cutting the proverbial hush like the proverbial knife, came the response, clear and concise:—

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?"

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Grimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

DOLLS—TRAINS—HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a Specialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

Good Program at Conservatory.

Miss Exbella Gray, at the Conservatory of Music, demonstrated that she has exceptional powers as a violinist. Her debut, before a Peterbrough audience, was given before a local gathering of music lovers, under auspices of the George Street Church choir. Her execution of this instrument is perfect. In "Hyre Kati," Gypsy melody arranged by the Norwegian composer, Hubarg, she displayed marvellous tone colour. She was equally at home in Mozart's "Rebel Reim." In this her fingering was superb.

Miss Florence Crawford, as a pianist, is no less distinguished. Her rendering of Chopin's Polonaise was greatly admired. Margaret Gray, elocutionist, also contributed to the enjoyment of those present. Her Irish dialect story "Mary Ellen, etc." was well received, as was "The Ride to the Fort."

CLYDESDALE.

The weather continues very cold one day the thermometer registering 50 below zero.

Mr. D. S. Campbell has returned from Peterborough, where he attended the county council.

We are pleased to hear that Miss Dorothy Trotter is recovering from her late attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. J. Ratcliffe of Stouffville, spent a few days in this vicinity last week.

Miss Annie Bullied of Rose Island, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. Blackburn and son Harold left Saturday for Coe Hill, where they intend spending a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe and son returned home last week from visiting friends in Ormsby.

Mr. Joseph Trotter sold his team of horses last week.

A serious drawback to the lumbermen this year is that the ice on Loon Lake is unsafe. Two young men having attempted to cross it with a team a short while ago and were compelled to return.

The members of the Ladies' Institute held their monthly meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hawkes, Chandos.

KEENE.

Mr. John Dickson of Toronto, is spending a few days in the village.

Misses Lillian, Agnes and Jean Campbell are visiting friends in Toronto.

Miss Estelle Bailey of Peterboro', returned home Monday after spending a week with Miss Laura Macfarlane.

A number of our curlers left on Monday for Toronto, where they expect to have some interesting games.

Mrs. V. H. McWilliams is spending a few weeks at Florida.

Miss Edith Bryce was the guest of Miss M. Bryce last week.

Mr. A. Edington of Toronto, was in the village on business last Friday.

A large number attended the supper and dance given by the Foresters on Friday evening, and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Mrs. W. Montgomery of Roseneath, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wedlock.

Miss Mary Gall is spending a few days in Belleville.

INDIAN CHIVALRY

By W. M. THOMPSON, M.D.

It occurred in a beautiful lake country not far from the source of the Montreal River before it becomes so popular with canoeists and tourists.

We sat around a camp-fire near the Hudson Bay Company store. The ranger and one or two of his men, a half-breed, whose grandfather, a Scotchman, had been a famous fur-trader, a Pittsburger on his summer wanderlust, and the writer. The half-breed, a splendid specimen of young manhood such as Remington drew so well, a pastmaster of the canoe and woodcraft, sat silently smoking as the Pittsburg man related this story of their return from Shusawagaming Lake.

They had gone to the lake by one route and returned by another. On their return journey on arriving be low Kettle Falls, about forty-five miles from the post, they came upon two rangers one of whom had just been accidentally shot through the upper part of the thigh and was quite weak from loss of blood, although his partner had already checked the hemorrhage with a tourniquet. These boys had been out three months and had seen but one party, had eaten up their grub stake, were returning to headquarters for supplies, and were looking forward to meeting some of their kind and hearing from the outside world. On moving about in the canoe one of them had accidentally discharged his Colt revolver, causing a serious wound in the thigh and puncturing a hole in the canoe. His partner knew that he could not carry a wounded man across the portages between there and the post even if he could paddle the canoe through the thoroughfares. While they were pondering this question along came the Pittsburger and his guide, their rescuers.

The accident had occurred at twelve o'clock noon; it was then three o'clock in the afternoon. The boat was mended, and the Indian and ranger cut two saplings about eight feet long and lashed a blanket across them, making a stretcher. On this the wounded man was laid and carefully lifted and placed in the canoe, which was manned by the ranger, the Pittsburg man and guide following in their canoe.

At each portage the wounded man was carried across on the stretcher by the guide and ranger and left in the care of the man from the States, who had carried a pack sack across, while they returned for their duffle and canoe.

All this necessitated numerous trips on the portages, and at dark they had only reached the Sturgeon Falls, thirty miles from the post. Here a council was held, and it was decided to cache the wounded man's outfit, so as to proceed more rapidly. The little company travelled all night. From Sturgeon Falls they ascended the Sturgeon River to the Obabika River, and in these days the Obabika was filled with flood-wood jams, which necessitated numerous portages, close to a mile and a half, if I remember correctly.

From the Obabika they portaged to Round Lake and paddled north across Round Lake, made a quarter-of-a-mile portage to the south arm of Obabika [illegible] Obabika, made a half-mile portage to a little lake and then crossed a short portage to the north-west arm of Temagami Lake, which brought them within fifteen miles of the end of their journey. They arrived at the post at half-past seven in the morning, in time to catch the boat to Temagami station, and the railway took the wounded man to the hospital at North Bay. Thus a man's life was saved by the untiring perseverance and marvellous woodcraft of the half-breed, who never faltered, no matter how tired they were, always encouraging the drooping spirits of the others, and constantly forging ahead with that indomitable persistance so characteristic of the true red man.

The day following I made the trip in company with one of the rangers, to bring in the duffle of the wounded man, and had a very good object lesson of the difficulties they had surmounted. At that period in the development of the country it must be remembered that the portages were not nearly so well marked as they are at present. The night was clouded, so much so, that one of the men had to precede the party on the carry, with a birch-bark torch to light the way.

After the Pittsburger had finished the story, we naturally wanted to hear the Indian's side, and turned to him with inquiries. He arose, knocked the ashes out of his pipe, and faded into the darkness.—Rod and Gun.

A BIT OF STORE NEWS

Salesman:—"What may I have the pleasure of showing you, madam?"

Lady Visitor:—"Oh, I'm not buying at the moment, I'm merely looking round, taking stock, as it were, you know!"

Salesman:—"I'm glad you mentioned it, the guv'nor said he thought that was your little game."

ECONOMY

A New England mother had come upon her eight-year-old son enjoying a feast whereof the components were jam, butter, and bread.

"Son," said the mother, "don't you think it a bit extravagant to eat butter with that fine jam?"

"No, mummie," was the response, "it's economical; the same piece of bread does for both."

SOON REMEDIED

Shortly after the conclusion of the honeymoon, Spooner, on arriving home one evening, found his wife in tears. Between her sobs she gave him to understand that something terrible had happened.

"Dearie," she sobbed, "it does seem too awful that the very first meat-pie I should make for you should be eaten by the cat."

"That's all right, my love," said the husband, patting her on the shoulder in his anxiety to soothe her. "I'll soon get you another cat!"

The town council of Lindsay has been asked by the Fire Brigade of that burg for 600 feet more hose. A Peterborough man, who we must admit is somewhat shortsighted tells us that a few weeks ago when three young ladies were walking down Kent street on a very windy day, he had evidence that the town of Lindsay has enough hose to do them for a century.

CALCUTTA RACES

The King Will Set Apart 100 Guineas Annually for the King George Race

The King and Queen attended the races when they were in Calcutta. Their Majesties' presence contributed to bring together the largest crowd ever seen on the racecourse, and the huge stands were packed to their utmost capacity. The race for the King's Cup provided a grand contest, which resulted in a victory by a length and a half for Mr. J. C. Galstaun's Brogut. Mr. Goculdas's Last Call was second, and Mr. Kelso's Hilarity third, half a length behind. Eighteen ran. After the races the King warmly congratulated the stewards on the excellence of the racing and th club arrangements, and declared his intention of annually giving a cup worth 100 guineas for the race bearing his name.

JACK CHESTNUT,
secretary of the Canadian Bowling Association.

SILENT AEROPLANES

The All British Machine Which Experts Have Been Demanding

"People are afraid of aeronautics, but when the aeroplane is flying frequently from town to town silence will become imperative." So says Mervyn O'Gorman, superintendent of the army aeroplane factory at Frambrough, who has turned out the new all-British "silent" aeroplane that the experts have been demanding.

"As a matter of fact," he says, "silence is very easy to obtain. This machine shows a little step in advance.

"As far as I know, this is the first absolutely silent aeroplane; it is silent to this extent, that when the wind is blowing strongly from it toward you you cannot hear it.

"A military aviator who was present at our trials remarked that there were other machines with which he was acquainted which it would not have been safe to have flown up in, in the wind that was blowing. I see no reason why every aeroplane should not be silent. It is a very simple matter. The reason why it has been put in the background hitherto is because other matters have required more attention, but everyone knew that the moment for silence would soon arrive—at all events on a large class of engines.

"There is a certain loss of power in silencing, but there is no difficulty about it beyond just a careful study of the engine proposition. Silence will become very important when the confidence that will come as soon as the 'shudders' have left aeronautics has arrived.

"You can imagine, for example, that it might be worth a man's life, instead of taking a special train, to be carried along what might be called the postal route between Dover and Liverpool. He comes from the Continent and wants to go to Canada and on such a route as that silence would before long become compulsory.

"The extent to which the weather delays or controls the doings of an aviator depends largely on two things—one, the speed of his machine; the greater the speed the less is he affected by the relative fluctuations in the speed of the wind. The other thing is that his means of control of his balance shall be very powerful in response to a small effort on his part, and by making that small effort, he shall obtain a large result."

RALPH ROSE COMES BACK

Big Westerner Makes New Indoor Record a Club Games in San Francisco.

The first skirmish in the Olympic games for 1912 has taken place, and an American of the Far West is victor. Father Time has been put to flight since Ralph Rose has shown that he can come back, and is a factor to be considered in the selection of the United States team for Stockholm.

Rose won the Olympic shot putting contests at St. Louis in 1904 and London in 1908. Now he proposes to try for third and final honors at Stockholm next summer. If he is successful he will have established a record that will probably stand for years to come.

That the California Colossus is in earnest and will in all probability make the American team is shown by his recent performance at the Olympic A. C. games in San Francisco. Rose, using a rubber ball with a lead cork, put the 16-pound shot out for 48 feet 9 5-8 inches. This is a new world's indoor record if accepted by the A. A. U., for it exceeds by 1 foot 6 1-8 inches the put made by Coe of the Boston A. A.

PAID IN HIS OWN COIN

Wood prided himself on his joking abilities. He was a bit of a wag, what? One day he met a gentleman of the name of Stone. The chance was too good to be missed.

"Hello; Happy Easter!" he beamed, with the conscious pride of a witty remark-to-come style. "And how are Mrs. Stone and all the little pebbles?"

"Very well, thank you!" replied his friend witheringly. "And how are Mrs. Wood and all the little splinters?"

Wood went away looking thoughtful.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10.00 Worth of Medicine

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 807 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
3—Pain, scalding or obstruction of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Brick dust deposit in the urine.
6—Frequent headache, backache, dizziness
7—Pain or soreness in the joints or stomach.
8—General debility, weak heart, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, fright, etc.
9—Pain or soreness in any part of the body.
10—Specks before the eyes or floating appearance in the vision.
11—Pain in the region of the kidneys.
12—Pain in the small of the back.
13—Pain in the muscles or joints.
14—Pain in the muscles of the neck.
15—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
16—Pain or swelling of the kidneys.
17—Pain or swelling of the bladder.
18—Pain and soreness in the groins.
19—Kidney or bladder trouble of any kind.

Big G

For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Registered pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes—discharges from the vagina, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To correct it is dangerous. Big G, sold everywhere, 50 cents, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Write for booklet.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Bird Friend

Cottam Bird Seed

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package often greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO — H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try o

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF IT'S PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment

Agency and

REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 199 Simcoe Street

Next Kilgas Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

Local Markets.

COARSE GRAINS.

Beef, by the quarter.....	$7.50	$8.00
Peas, small	.80	1.15
Peas, mummies	1.00	1.25
Wheat, per bushel.....	.80	.85
Barley, per bushel.....	.80	1.00

MEATS, POULTRY AND DAIRY PRODUCE.

Beef, by the quarter.....	$7.00	$9.00
Mutton, per lb.....	.09	.10
Spring Lamb, quarter.....	.12	.13
Dressed Hogs, per cwt....	8.00	8.50
Pork, by quarter, per lb.	.11	.12
Ducks, per pair.....	.50	1.00
Chickens, per pair.....	.60	1.25
Eggs, per dozen.....	.30	.40

LIVE STOCK

Cattle, ch. per cwt.....	$3.50	$4.50
Butchers, per cwt.....	3.00	4.00
Stockers, per cwt.....	3.00	3.50
Calves	3.00	4.00

Answers from England.

As actual results of enquiries made recently by a well-known local contractor to the Canadian High Commissioner in London, Eng., for information regarding a certain branch of industry, the Peterborough writer had within the past three months, no less than forty-seven answers and replies from forty-two different manufacturers in the Motherland. As the contractor remarked yesterday to a Times reporter, "This is going some" but it also demonstrates that the High Commissioner is not only anxious to answer Canadian enquiries on business matters, but is a medium whereby this city may get a large and good amount of advertising among the manufacturers of England.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co

OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, BARRISters, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, H. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. H. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSors to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. H. R. Hall, K. C., T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSpital, Brompton, Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.

SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.

OFFICE—543 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1261.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

A Huge Stadium

Having a seating capacity for 40,000 spectators, and standing room for another 30,000, the stadium at the Turin Exhibition is the largest of its kind in the world.

Partridge Eggs for England

About 100,000 partridge eggs are exported from Austria-Hungary to England each year.

Mormons in England

In the United Kingdom there were last year, according to official returns, 14,233 Mormons.

At the Art Gallery

An average of 3,047 persons visited the National Gallery on each of the 297 free days during 1911.

Not a Beggar

When arrested in Berlin recently, a beggar was found to possess $16,000, which he admitted had been gained by begging.

Loads for Donkeys

At the Yarmouth Town Council it was recently proposed that the donkeys on the sea-front should not be allowed to carry persons weighing more than eight stone.

A Fat Income

Lord Howard de Walden is one of England's wealthiest peers His income is $1,250,000 a year.

"I, the King"

The King of Spain is the only monarch who does not sign his name. He merely signs his edicts, "Yo el Rey"—"I, the King."

Keir When a Boy

When a boy, Mr. Keir Hardie was employed in taking around hot rolls of a morning to his master's customers. He worked for a Glasgow baker, who paid him 50 or 75 cents a week.

"Garbage like the sins of humanity must be purged," so remarked a leading citizen yesterday. He further added that "If we want to keep the city free from disease and keep down a plague of flies, some action thorough in its scope must be adopted to get rid of Peterborough's garbage nuisance."

ENGLISHMAN SEES A HOCKEY MATCH

He Says it Reminded Him of the Days of the Bullfights in Spain

An Englishman thus describes a recent hockey match in Toronto: 'Oh, I say! This Canadian game of hockey is some sport all right. You know, I imagined there was some kind of system to the thing, but I went to see the game the other night, the Torontos and Tecumsehs they were called. I say, if you ever want to see a heaped-up eruption of infuriated humanity, just go and watch two lacrosse teams play hockey. Chop sticks I should call it. For, by Jove, the sticks seemed to be used more for chopping the air than anything else. And there was the blooming puck enjoying itself against the wall, or playing a pirouette in the centre of the rink

Somehow or other, one seemed to feel in the air that there was going to be a lively bout. For, immediately one went in, there was a shout of recognition from the opposite side of onlookers' stand. It was a pitched battle, by Jove,, the lines of the Tecumsehs on one side, the Torontos on the other, and the onlookers. And then the noise effect was helped on by a hundred bally magaphones made out of cigaret ads. Most extraordinary language they use too, at such places. The moment I came in, a crowd of chaps on the opposite side shouted through their bally megaphones, "Pipe the bloke with the eye piece!" Most unmannered, I say. But they have a language all their own, I found out before I left. Someone knew every player as they came on the ice. The Tecumsehs were a likely-looking lot, in red and white sweaters, blooming nice ones too. By Jove, I staked all my pile on them, the minute they came on the ice. Rather, in my mind I did, for nobody seemed very anxious to stake much on either team. As a matter of fact, I felt as if I were going into a burlesque house, after a steady diet of straight drama. And they did strenuous things, in their practice, those fellows. They weren't so much on weight as the fellows in blue, but they looked systematic.

But, my word, this look seemed to fade away, when the real game started. There was one fellow, Joe everyone called him, He seemed to be quite a favorite. He has a great smile, this Joe fellow. I suppose that's why everyone knows him. But it takes more than a smile to play hockey, old chap. He was particularly good at the game of chop sticks, and cross trips. By Jove, there was one big husky who had it in for him, every time he came near the blue halting place. He was one of those big primitive types, don't you know, can't get away from the idea that it takes brute force to win the game. The sticks met in successive whacks, and the puck smiled cheerfully on its way. All the Toronto fellows were husky devils, and seemed to be looking for something they couldn't get. But they got the goals. By Jove, five of them. I say, I know why they call the game shinny, when it isn't played on the ice. Because the bally puck makes for one's shins, every time.

But, my word, it was an exhibition of muscular air movement, all right. For several minutes both teams would forget all about the blooming puck, and whack the air repeatedly, and then, they'd all fall down on the ice in a heap. The poor puck seemed to be cursed, it was so undecided which way to go. And the best man the red sweaters had got a beastly blow on the hip, and left a shocking spot on the ice. But, by Jove, he was a brick, and came out in the second half all patched up, ready for the game again. He did some good work too, even with his patches. If the blue sweater at the Toronto goal hadn't been such a good stop, they would have scored more, the Tecumsehs. For they shot everywhere around the goal, and some time there would have come a shot that hit the net. They got three of them, and seemed to tease the bally puck away from the other goal. It was a remarkably audible game, and my word, isn't it extraordinary the way those chaps can run on their skates! I believe the day of fancy skating is over, and everything is turned to speed. It reminded me of the days of the bullfights in Spain and its a jolly long time since I saw one.

To Our Correspondents.

The Times would request its regular correspondents throughout the district, when sending in their weekly letters to give the name of the places, distinctly written from which such letters are sent. We are in receipt of so many letters, that unless this is attended to, we cannot identify the locality referred to.

IMAGINES HE IS AT GAME COACHES AND ROOTS

Edward Ashenbach, last year [illegible] at one time manager of the St. Paul, Minn. Association team, was committed to a detention hospital by Probate Judge Luxers of Cincinnati. Ascenbach returned to Cincinnati at the end of last season and acted as scout for the Cincinnati Club of the National League. He suffers the hallucination that he is constantly at a ball game, and continually cheers for the home tem and coaches the players.

A WONDERFUL LEAP

Remarkable Performance of Lars Haughen on Skis

Lars Haughen of the North Star Ski Club of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and brother of Anders Haughen, formerly champion professional ski runner of America, won the professional championship of the National Ski Tournament at the closing day of the meet at Gary, Ill. He made two jumps of 121 and 123 feet and scored 262 on form.

Haughen's leaps were negotiated beautifully. Sailing high he cleared all of the rough portion of the hill on both jumps and finished with pretty glides on the flat ground at the foot of the slope.

THE BLACKS BY THEMSELVES

All men are equal on the turf, except in South Carolina, if they are black men. The colored brother is not allowed to speculate in company with whites at the Charleston meeting, and the bookmaking arrangements provide a separate enclosure for him.

ABE ATTELL,

who has been barred from boxing in New York for six months for stalling in his bout with "Knockout" Brown. Jim Corbett is of the opinion that Attell was not in shape, and did his best under the circumstances.

More Money For Soldiers.

Members of the local troops, horse, foot and artillery, will be glad to learn that the Canada Gazette announces a general change in the pay and allowances of officers and men in the militia of the country. The pay of the men of the non-permanent forces has been increased from 50c a day to 75c a day. The schedule of efficiency pay has been done away with and the schedule now is a flat rate of 75c a day and 85c a day for those serving two years in succession, with an efficiency allowance of 15c a day. The increase of non-commissioned officers is on the same relative basis.

VALUE OF ATHLETICS

Dr. Barton, University Physical Director Defends Good Sport

Writing of the value of athletics in the last issue of Varsity, Dr. J. W. Barton, physical director of the University of Toronto, says:—

It may be news to many of the staff and students to learn that at the University of Toronto we have more students engaged in intercollegiate contests than any other university on the continent. One has only to think of the Jennings Cup series, track, soccer and tennis competitions to at once realize that while we are still far from our ideal—that is, that every student shall be engaged in some form of athletics—yet we are far away from allowing a few men to do our athletics for us.

But the main point I wish to emphasize is, that many might gather that athletics are simply recreation, and should be treated as such. If this were all they might still be worth while, but your humble servant would be engaged in some other occupation. But to those who really know their value, this "recreation" pales into insignificance beside those other things of tremendous import to the life of the man engaged in athletics.

I know this from an experience of eighteen years as a teacher of athletics, and as a physician who secures his knowledge, subjective and objective, in the examining-room as the students stand stripped before me. It is this knowledge that makes one realize what an integral part of a university course are the athletics. And this knowledge is shared by men of affairs.

At the risk of repeating myself, I have only to quote William Michaels, in Moody's Magazine. In describing the different classes of men accepted as risk by bonding and surety companies, he makes this statement:—

"You are a college man? Or you are not? Well it makes little difference, speaking broadly, with the surety people, so far as your honesty is concerned. But you were an athlete at college? A point in your favor."

Now, think of that a moment. A college man, with a surety company is not considered a better risk than a man who never attended college. But the college man who has engaged in athletics has proven to be a better risk.

If I were a professor I believe I would ponder over this late statement and give athletics a place in the curriculum as an integral part of a student's training

POPULARITY OF HUNTING

Motley Crowds Assemble in England Every December.

It is a curious collection of humanity and horseflesh that is seen at the typical annual Boxing Day (every December 26) meet of hounds, writes an English correspondent. Occasionally sedate-looking followers on long-tailed blacks are actually to be found there, causing the shrewd suspicion that even undertakers make holiday at times, and it is certain that many of the ewe-necked, wall-eyed, rough-haired, cow-hocked, cruppper-marked animals under borrowed saddles and in makeshift, home-repaired bridles, that are brought on to the scene, spend the greater part of their lives between the shafts. Cyclists are there in their scores; pedestrians in their hundreds. Soldiers and sailors on furlough seem to emphasize the all-embracing nature of the gathering. One comes to the conclusion that Johnson was right when he suggested that, in the estimation of most men, to view a fox break cover is a sight more glorious than the Lord Mayor's show; at any rate, the Boxing Day meet proves again and again, as nothing else does to quite the same extent, what an immense hold hunting has upon the affections of the people of Great Britain. The majority of masters, recognizing this fact, arrange their fixtures at the most accessible parts of their countries at Christmas time, and many packs last December 26 met in the market places of the chief towns within their borders. Perhaps the most extraordinary Boxing Day meet of all is that of the Surrey Union Foxhounds at the Burford Bridge Hotel, Boxing Hill. Hushing is far from the Surrey Union country, though long threatened by the spread of bricks and mortar, and the Boxing Day meet attracts not only the people of the neighborhood in their hundreds, but vast numbers from London itself besides. This Burford Bridge fixture is a revival of an old custom, which had long lapsed before Edward Murray became joint master in 1907. Since then it has always been held on the morning following Christmas Day, and last year, in the second season of Mr. Murray's sole control, it touched the record. One could count the people by their thousands. Not only was it the largest gathering of the kind in England, but probably the best-attended meet that has ever taken place in the whole history of fox-hunting.

H. T. WILSON,

one of the skips of the Granites (Toronto) tankard-winning rinks.

ENGLISH BILLIARDS

Gray, the Australian, Again Beats Stevenson, the English Champion

Amid a remarkable scene of enthusiasm George Gray, the champion of Australia, beat H. W. Stevenson, the English champion in the second "test" match at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, and having also won the first game played in London, the Australian became the winner of the "1st" game, and £2,500. At the finish of the game Gray was also presented with Burroughs & Watt's cheque, £200, for the highest break, 839. The final scores were: Gray, 18,000; Stevenson, 17,239.

NO EPSOM DERBY BETTING

The Grass is to be Given a Chance to Grow.

It has been decided to close the Epsom race-course for three months in the year in order to give the grass time to recuperate. Trainers are accordingly deserting the old-time Metropolitan course. This has naturally attracted attention to the next Derby, regarding which "Scout," in The Daily Express says: "After spasmodic attempts to create a Derby market, the whole affair fell very flat, and most people will soon be too busy over the spring entries to worry about Derby betting for a while. When, however, it does come into prominence, I think that you will find Lomond hardening into a better favorite than Mr. Jack Joel's game colt, although, of course, should White Star (in preference to Absurd) run in and win the Two Thousand Guineas—Lomond is not in the race—before Mr. Hulton's crack comes out as a three-year-old, the supporters of Lomond will probably be able to trade on better terms even than they could at present. Mr. Hulton certainly stated in his Gimcrack speech that Lomond would probably have several races before the Derby, but we have got to wait and see first how the conditions are at Epsom for bringing a good horse, to hand fairly early."

LACROSSE IN SASKATCHEWAN

Saskatchewan is moving for a Provincial lacrosse association.

Local Vocalist Mentioned.

Belleville, Ont.: Miss Lavina Hallihan, soprano, possesses a beautiful rich voice and great entertaining ability. Mr. "Jack" Hayes, ex-Bellevillian, was given a grand reception on his appearance in his home town. His deep baritone voice showed careful training and thoughtful interpretation of the emotions Mr. Barnaby Nelson, tenor, was at his own in the rendition of classic ballads. His stage presence and resonant voice won instant applause. Mr. E. Jules Brazil, as piano soloist, and accompanist, could not be paralleled.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in Diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	8.20 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto,	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
London, Detroit, Chicago and west. Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m. 5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Lindsay Local	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Lakefield	8.16 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
	5.25 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.40 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston.	11.35 a.m.
Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Trenton.	7.07 p.m.
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	12.10 a.m. 1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago.	5.36 a.m. 5.51 a.m.
Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto,	7.47 a.m.
Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	4.28 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

WANTED.

Young man with office experience, must be good operator on typewriter Apply The Quaker Oats Company.

NOTICE.

Mr. Schwerdt, 58 Victoria Avenue, wants it understood that he will pay no debt contracted by his son Frank, in any store in Peterborough.

Evangelistic Services.

The evangelistic services in St. James' Methodist church will be addressed to-night by the Rev. C. E. Cragg, B.A. The male choir will assist in the singing. Evening service commences at 7.45.

Bank of Toronto in Norwood.

Officials of the Bank of Toronto have been in the village of Norwood and made arrangements to open a Bank Office. For the present the bank will be situated in the store on Peterborough street, recently occupied by Mr. Walter Girven as a jewelry store.

Lakefield Pastor Promoted.

The Kingston Daily Standard notes that the congregation of St. John's church, Brockville, Ont., has extended a unanimous call to Rev. S. S. Burns, formerly pastor of the Methodist church in Lakefield. Whilst his former parishioners in Lakefield will be sorry to lose his services, the reverend gentleman might be congratulated on his promotion to a larger sphere of action.

Entertained in Otonabee.

A number of young people drove out to Otonabee to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnott on Wednesday night. The evening was spent in games and music, finishing with an oyster supper. Mr. and Mrs. Arnott were splendid entertainers and looked well after their guests' comfort. The party reached home in the wee small hours.

Former Local Man Wise.

In another column of this issue we note that a former local citizen, Mr. Bansell Sawyer had resigned from the directorate of the Dr. Reddick mine. In this connection it might be noted that the Montreal Star of yesterday says that "Dr. Reddick stock went to pieces to-day, selling as low as 2 cents a share. The Company needs more money to conduct development work."

Roads Were Almost Impassible.

Farmers and others living to the north of the city yesterday complained that the roads to the north of the city had become so heavy that they were impassable to heavy loads. A number of cattle dealers started out with loads of hogs but were forced to turn back as the teams were unable to make any headway against the drifts. During the morning there were a few loads of wood and hay, on the market, but they had come a long distance.

Improvements to Local Store.

As another instance of the progress of Peterborough's merchants, it might be noted that Mr. E. F. Mason, the George street grocer has begun enlarging and changing the front of his principal store on our central thoroughfare. A landing is being built above the main floor at the rear, while galleries will be built extending along the sides. The improvements are being done for the purpose of adding to the storing accommodation.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Reputable physicians will tell you Big G is the standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes—discharges from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To appreciate its prompt results, Big G must appear on the label. Sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles for $2.75, or 6 bottles for $5.00. It may be used for all forms of these troubles. Try one and convince yourself. Send for booklet or medical counsel in plain envelope on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Mr. Bansell Sawyer Resigns.

Mr. Bansell Sawyer, formerly head of the Peterborough Business College, at a meeting of the directorate of Dr. Reddick Gold Mine in the Russell House, Ottawa, resigned as a director. His resignation was accepted. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed that during the month of January the mill treated 468 tons of ore from which a couple of bricks were made with a value of $700.00.

High Priced Chief of Police.

Calgary, Alta., is advertising for a Chief of Police at $3500 per annum. This is going some, practically $300 per month. Peterborough, with as active and intelligent a Chief of Police as reasonable salary can procure would think its City Fathers were crazy should they offer such an annual salary for a similar position here. The Chief of Police has no sine cure, but when it comes to thinking of $300 a month, Peterborough has got a better article from the Police Chief bargain counter.

Slight Accidents to Joy-Riders.

The hospitable residence of Mr. Chas. Long, Otonabee, was visited Wednesday evening by members of St. Andrew's church choir, who to the capacity of two sleigh loads, drove out from the city. The visitors, with whom was Mr. H. C. Treneer, leader of the choir, left the church about 7.20 and made excellent time in spite of the bad roads, in covering the three miles to their destination. On the way home one of the sleighs was upset and the occupants unceremoniously flung into the "beautiful." Fortunately no serious consequences were involved.

WE MIGHT GET FOUNTAINS

The Humane Society have written the Civic officials of Kingston stating that the Society would present the city with two combination drinking fountains at a cost of $100 each if the city would instal the fountains and supply the water. The size of the pipe supplying the fountains was to be three-quarters of an inch. But as such a sized pipe would cost too much for the water supply, the officials wrote the Society accepting their offer should a smaller pipe be allowed. If a similar offer be made to Peterborough, this city would probably stand for a full sized pipe, as our citizens own the local water works.

Separate School Trustees.

The separate school, No. 8, Otonabee, as represented by its trustees, night before last nominated trustees Messrs. Michael O'Toole, Patrick Sullivan and John Hefferman were elected. The meeting was at the residence of Mr. S. F. Redmond. Notices had been posted in the section announcing this meeting for the inauguration of the new board and all the other requirements of the School Act had been complied with. Mr. John Carey was appointed chairman of the meeting. The preliminary work has thus been completed and there remains the sending of the application to the Department.

Garbage By-Law Wanted.

The Examiner contemporary, Nov. 25th, had yesterday a well-worded and strong article for the garbage by-law. A letter from ex-Ald. Geo. Elliott was quoted, advocating such a civic law. There is no doubt but what, in the public interests the refuse of our thousands of homes should be disposed of by public funds. The cost pro rata would be comparatively a trifle, whilst the good gained by the public at large would be beyond description. One only has to consider a moment what the result of leaving garbage to fester and smell in local yards would mean during the summer months. One can easily see what an epidemic might arise: what a plague of flies would certainly be bred and what fees our citizens would have to turn in to doctors and hospitals. Why, it's absurd to think for one moment of opposing so philanthropic and common-sensed a by-law.

Who Will Win In O.H.A. ?

Who will win the intermediate O.H.A. championship, and who the junior? In the senior series Kingston, Frontenacs and Eatons will likely play for the J. Ross Robertson senior cup. Parkdale has an outside chance to tie the Big Store team in their group. To accomplish this they must win in Stratford to-night, and T.A.A.C. must defeat Eatons at the Excelsior Rink on Saturday night. A week from yesterday the intermediate series will be down to the semi-finals and the ultimate winner can be guessed. Paris, Preston and Midland are picked by the fans as sure contenders in the semi-finals, while others claim Peterborough will surprise them all. In the junior series there will be a big fight in the next round with the strongest clubs in the running. Woodstock looks best in the west, but either Berlin or Seaforth may count. The fans expect to see Woodstock, Orillia, Canoe Club and Peterborough in the semi-finals.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Mr. Wm. Warren has been elected County Master of Victoria County.

A well-known farmer of Smith remarked to a Times' reporter yesterday that last month was the coldest January he can remember.

Local merchants are kicking over our business conditions in Peterboro. Still this old burg generally comes out on top. Cheer up!

Lindsay Post: Mr. Geo. McGee was in Peterborough on Saturday last, and reports butter having reached the record breaking price of 37 cents per lb. on the market.

The police census of Toronto, credits that city with a population of 425,407—Peterborough may be a few behind that number, but keep your eyes on the future of this city.

Toronto seems to have a milk scare. That city is considering the analysis of all their milk by Government and that prices shall be regulated by results of said inspection.

Just as was anticipated here, there was no trouble yesterday over Winston Churchill's address. The people of Ireland, or the Ulster portion of it, recognized that England's rule is and must be supreme.

Kingston people seem to have the same rumors that agitated Peterborough citizens some months ago. The Daily Standard, of the Limestone City, has a long editorial on the subject of the T. Eaton Co., of Toronto, opening a branch there.

It seems that the farmers of Manvers, notwithstanding the high price city folk pay for produce, are not all millionaires. In fact it is rumored that some of them have had to borrow money to see them through till next spring.

A Baltimore burglar a few days ago, broke into a residence there and stole eggs instead of coal. Peterborough people should guard their coal bins lest that colored man break in and try to split up profits with the local coal barons.

Now that the people of this city have expressed their desire for Hydro Electric power, our citizens will be pleased to learn that at the opening of the Ontario Parliament, it was demonstrated that the Hydro-Electric system is to be sustained and enlarged.

A Saskatchewan paper of this week's issue declares that the "beef cattle are getting much scarcer." Judging by prices in Peterborough and some of the beef sold here, the cattle of Canada excepting a few octogenarian bullocks must have died years ago.

Lieut.-Col. Stoneman of Hespeler, Ont., was recently attacked by a mad dog, but fortunately escaped injury. With the hundreds of useless curs that make our streets a nuisance there is certainly room for a few owners of strychnine, or a box or two of cartridges to be used to advantage.

A few Sundays ago a pupil in one of our local Sunday Schools was asked "When did Moses live?" After the boy had searched the Testament and found the characters "4000" he hesitated before answering. In response to the teacher's remonstrance the pupil said "I thought that was his telephone number."

The last issue of a Kingston newspaper has a long article which states that the police of that city "are shad owing two very suspicious characters, &c." Why, in Peterborough similar characters would be arrested, searched, tried and either jailed or put on good behaviour whilst the Kingston compositor was setting his type!

MARRIAGE.

At the Baptist parsonage, 194 London St., Feb. 9th, by Rev. J. H. Webb, Robt. G. Gavine to Edna F. Nelland, daughter of Joseph Nelland.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Ald. Gordon was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mr. W. J. Armstrong, of Campbellford, is visiting friends in the city.

St. Luke's choir met for rehearsal in East City town hall last night.

Mrs. T. R. Darcy, of Lakefield, is spending a few weeks' vacation visiting friends in Toronto and Buffalo.

Miss Ida G. Sanderson, of this city attended the Mendelssohn concert in Toronto last night.

Kingston Standard: Wm. Tattle, of Peterborough, spent the week-end in town.

Mr. Thos. Stewart has been re-elected chairman of the Lindsay Board of Education.

Mrs. Alex. J. Robinson, 174 Antrim street will receive Friday, February 9th, from four to six o'clock, and not again until after Easter.

Mrs. M. Smith and Miss M. Smith Rubidge street, left yesterday for St. John, from where they sail on the Empress of Britain, for England.

Mrs. Alex. J. Robertson, 174 Antrim Street, will receive to-morrow (Friday) February 9th, from four to six o'clock and not again until after Easter.

Mr. J. T. Robinson, Bobcaygeon, came down with the curlers on Wednesday and remained over yesterday. Whilst in the city Mr. Robinson gave The Times a friendly call.

An Emily despatch says: Miss Alice Hopwood, of Peterborough, spent Friday at home. In honor of her birthday a large number were invited for the evening, which was pleasantly spent in music and games.

J. W. EDWARDS

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat.

Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

BUY FLORIDA LAND—Why?

BECAUSE:

1. It is very productive.
2. It is not hot in summer and their winter is June weather.
3. Your buildings do not cost one-quarter of Northern Farm Buildings.
4. You save your large winter fuel bill.
5. You do not work all summer to winter your live stock.
6. It grows crops the year round; THREE CROPS in the year.
7. Your crops are ready to market when the rest of the continent is in the dead of winter.
8. Splendid markets.
9. Regular and plentiful rainfall.
10. Pure water easily obtained.
11. Healthful climate — Cures rheumatism and tuberculosis.

We Have 12,400 Acres For Sale—All Within 1 to 3 Miles of Ry. Station. Write for Full Particulars and Illustrated Literature.

Terms Easy.

Address:

Head Office:

Florida Colonization Co., Ltd.

21 Queen Street North, Berlin, Ont.

Stops a Cough IN ONE NIGHT

CATARRH AND WEAK THROAT NOW CURED WITHOUT SWALLOWING DANGEROUS DRUGS.

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing Vapor of Catarrhozone All Throat and Catarrhal Trouble is Quickly Cured.

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured with Catarrhozone. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes, and chest, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old-standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pain over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave permanent relief till I used Catarrhozone. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of catarrh from my system.

"TIMOTHEUS A. SALMON.
"No. 6 Lopez street, Kingston, Ja."

REMEMBER THIS—You breathe Catarrhozone and it will cure any throat chest or bronchial cold. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00, and lasts two months; smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c. Beware of imitations and insist on "CATARRHOZONE" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the disease.

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and 1c stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

CHURCH DOINGS

St. Luke's Church.

Friday, 4.15—Junior Auxiliary; 8, choir concert, East City town hall.

Sunday, 9.30 a.m.—Corporate Communion of the young men.

St. John's Church.

Sunday, Sexagesima—8.30—Holy Communion; Corporate Communion, Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Junior Auxiliary sale and concert, Thursday, Feb, 15th, from 4 to 6.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

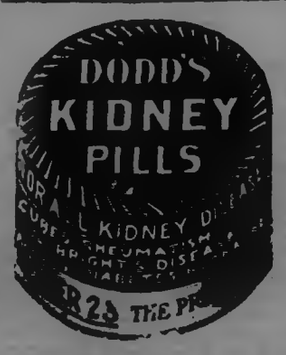
Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Spiders' Threads in Astronomy.

The cultivation for scientific uses of certain species of spiders, solely for the fine threads they weave, has an important bearing upon astronomy. No substitute for the spider's thread has yet been found for bisecting the screw of the micrometer used for determining the positions and motions of the stars. Not only because of the remarkable fineness of the threads are they valuable but because of their durable qualities. The threads of certain spiders raised for astronomical purposes withstand changes in temperature, so that often in measuring sun spots they are uninjured when the heat is so great that the lenses of the micrometer eyepieces are cracked. These spider lines are only one fifth to one-seventh of a thousandth of an inch in diameter, compared with which the threads of the silkworm are large and clumsy.



MOLESKIN AND LYNX.

Moleskin occupies a favored place in the fur world this season, and some charming models have been made with trimmings of other skins. For example, above coat is trimed with bands of black lynx around bottom, on collar and on sleeve ends.

WHEN TO WED

There is a little verse which instructs lovers as to when they should wed:—

Marry when the year is new,
Always loving, kind and true;
When February birds do mate,
You may wed, nor dread your fate;
If you wed when March winds blow,
Joy and sorrow both you'll know;
Marry in April when you can,
You will surely rue the day;
Marry when June roses blow,
Over land and sea you'll go;
They who in July do wed,
Must labor always for their bread;
Whoever wed in August be,
Many changes are sure to see;
Marry in September's shine,
Your living will be rich and fine;
If in October you do marry,
Love-in-a-cottage will be near you;
If you wed in bleak November,
Only joy will come, remember;
When December's snows fall fast,
Marry and true love will last.

STILL LOOKING

Agent:—"Here, madam, is a book that will tell you how to manage a husband."

Woman:—"But, my dear sir, what I want is a book that will tell me how to get one, and I'll manage him all right."

RECOGNITION IN DANGER

"So," said the girl, whose father had been talking to her, "you dislike Herbert and will not recognize him?"

"That's it," he replied. "If he doesn't keep away from here I won't recognize him, and neither will his own mother."

BEATING A GOOD WIFE

An orator holding forth in favor of woman—dear, divine woman—concluded thus:

"Oh, my friends, depend upon it, nothing beats a good wife."

"I beg your pardon," replied a woman. "Sure, a bad husband does."

HOLDING THE BURGLAR

Biggs:—"Hello, Higgs, why this hurry?"

Higgs:—"Going for the police. There's a burglar at our house!"

Biggs:—"You haven't left your wife alone, have you?"

Higgs:—"No, she's holding the burglar."

IN BUGVILLE

Billy Bug:—"Look, who's here!"

Tilly Bug:—"Yes, it's Mr. Firefly. He's been elected commissioner of city lighting."

COMING

PROF. DORENWEND OF TORONTO

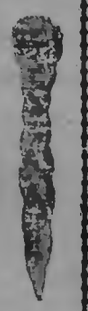
will be at the

ORIENTAL HOTEL PETERBORO

FRIDAY, FEB'Y. 9th

with a stock of the newest EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN FASHIONS IN

HAIR GOODS



SWITCHES
TRANSFORMATIONS
POMPADOURS
WAVES-FRONTS
COILS

Our Transformation for the lady who has thin hair, cannot be equaled. ALL OUR GOODS are noted for their superior workmanship, exclusive styles, and fine quality of hair.

ANY STYLE WILL BE GLADLY DEMONSTRATED FREE

OF INTEREST TO THE BALD MAN.

You are invited to call on us or a FREE DEMONSTRATION of our famous

"DORENWEND SANITARY PATENT TOUPEE"

The only Sanitary and perfectly constructed toupee made. Indetectable, light in weight, strong, perfectly ventilated. Worn and endorsed by physicians and medical men. They are made in any styles, shapes or shades.

Do not fail to call and see them

THE DORENWEND COY., of Toronto Limited.
The House of Quality Hair-Goods.
106-106 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.

Will be in Lindsay, Benson House, Saturday, Feb., 10th,

TO THE FARMERS

OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH

Gentlemen,—To-day, (Jan. 29) Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works in the late Laurier Administration moved in the House of Commons that the Borden government take immediate steps to bring about preferential reciprocal trade with Australasia. He was supported by Mr. Ames (Conservative) of Montreal Centre, and others from constituencies centred. The government, through Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, promised to bring it on accordingly and to send commissioners to Australasia early in the spring, for that purpose. Australasia exports in vast quantities mutton and beef and poultry, and in some years vast quantities of butter and eggs, and other farm products, at prices less than one-half (delivered here) of the like products of Canadian farmers. Such a treaty, on the proposed list for list basis, would rob the farmer here of this protection and almost ruin him. That is my opinion. But I believe that our farmers should be protected as well as our other manufacturers and I do not propose to discriminate against the farmer and in favor of the manufacturer, unless the farmers wish it. I appeal therefore to the farmers of W. Peterborough to let me know with all speed if they are in favor of preferential reciprocity with Australasia. If so I will vote for it. If they consider it contrary to their interests and will let me know I will vote against it. No time is to be lost.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier supported very strongly the proposition for an Australasian preferential reciprocity treaty.

Yours truly,

J. H. BURNHAM.

PAID FOR THE SUPPER

Three men had been out on a spree, and on the way home at night they made a compact that the one who did not do as his wife told him should pay for a champagne supper the following night.

The first one returned home, and his wife greeted him thus:

"Hello, you beauty! That's right, knock all the ornaments off the mantel-piece!"

And he knocked them all off.

The second returned, and on going into his house fell against the piano; whereupon his wife said:

"Go on! Get the axe and smash it up!"

He did so.

The third returned, and on going upstairs his wife said:

"You miserable scamp! Now fall downstairs and break your neck!"

"No fear," he said. "I'll pay for the supper."

THE SILENT JAP

The Japanese, alone of all races, utter no sound when engaged in combat. From this national trait springs the curious regulation which prevents Japanese regiments from possessing bands bugles, or drums. Orders are given verbally, or by means of signals with the hand or sword. No trumpets sound the charge, no drums beat the tattoo, and no cries wake the troops with their reveille.

Receding Chins.

The minority who have square chins and big lower jaws say that we of the receding chins have neither will nor strength of character, which is absurd, as anyone may know who remembers that Gen. Wolfe and Mr. Pitt had practically no chins at all to say nothing of living soldiers and statesmen. To judge a man by his chin is no less foolish than to judge him by the bumps of his skull.

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

Chamberlain's

Cough Remedy

The Children's Favorite
...CURES...
Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough.

This remedy is famous for its cures over a large part of the civilized world. It can always be depended upon. It contains no opium or other harmful drug and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult

Price 25 cts; Large Size, 50 cts.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, any ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some (e'l) at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 36 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

ROME TO BE A HEAP OF RUINS

An Extraordinary Incitement to Violence

WAR AT ANY MOMENT

THE following extraordinary excitement to violence appears in the Roman Catholic press. The Times has taken it from the Catholic Register of February 8th. It appears under the head of "Varied News from the Eternal City." The article is regarded by some as a declaration of war, which may come any day:

There is much talk in the Eternal City about the Pope's health and his belief in the fatal ninth year which has played such a part in every phase of his life. But there is also a lot of speculation over the Don Bosco prophecy to the effect that "in that month of flowers (May) in which the moon will be at its full twice the Pope will have to fly from Rome; he shall, however, return at the end of one hundred days and find the Eternal City a mass of ruins, devoid of inhabitants and strewn as to its streets with human corpses, as he proceeds to the Vatican." Next May has these two moons and those who believe in Dom Bosco, a holy Italian priest, who died half a century ago in the odor of sanctity and will surely be canonized some day, are convinced all this will come to pass. They have even planned out where the Pope will go—to Malta and then to Ireland—before returning to the Holy City. Of course if these events do not transpire they will interpret the prophecy some other way. Certainly things are so mixed up in Italy and Europe that anything may happen at any time."

Celebrated their Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry, custodians of the Children's Shelter, yesterday celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. About seventy relatives and imtimate friends were present, and the occasion will go down as a memorable one in the lives of this well-known couple.

Boxer Teacher Hauled Up.

Police Magistrate Simpson has before him this morning, for the near future. It seems that a lusky-looking lad laid a complaint before the Magistrate to the effect that his teacher, John Harvey, of Douro, had assaulted and abused him. High County Constable Cochrane went out and served the necessary papers on the defendant.

Poultry Men.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association the following officers were elected:

Hon Pres.—J. T. C. Lang.
Hon. DirectorsMMayor Bradburn, and Warden Porter.
President—Fred. Holmes.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. J. Cunningham.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Arthur Ashe.
Sec.-Treas.—J. J. Kelly.
Board of Directors—Messrs Robinson, Grose, Dummitt, Howard, Buller, Paxman, Everson, W. Mein, and Kingdon.

Mr. Harold Graham Better.

It will be remembered that some few weeks ago Mr. Harold Graham, son of Ald. James Graham, was taken seriously ill at Calgary, and that he father journied out to that Western city to look after his boy, who was in a hospital there Ald. J. Graham, on his arrival in Calgary, secured the services of specialists, who, however, were unable to diagnose the trouble. Mr. Graham is now greatly improved, and it is expected that in a month's time he will be able to return home.

Boy Scouts Banqueted.

The banquet, held in the Armories for the local Boy Scouts, was a great success. Messrs. Coleman Bros. undertook to satisfy the appetites of about fifty-two hungry scouts. First, third and fourth troops, conducted by Rev. F. B. Sawer, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Miller respectively, were present. After the boys had done justice to the excellent bill of fare provided, a toast to the King was proposed and was followed by a brief address by Revf Mr. Sawers.

PLACATE FENIANS SAYS ENGLISH MORNING POST

Everything Must Be Sacrificed says English Paper to Satisfy Patrick Ford

London, Feb. 10.—The News, a consistent Ministerial supporter, says:

"We cannot have a more compact Imperial fellowship until Ireland enters as an equal, which is the opinion of the dominions, who all overwhelmingly favor Home Rule. The British foreign policy should endeavor to bring this country and the English speaking republic republic across the Atlantic into the most intimate friendship, which cannot be so long as the Irish suffer under the sense of a bitter grievance."

The Morning Post says "Everything is to be sacrified in the hope of placating Patrick Ford and other Fenians who have long been violent enemies of the British Empire."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents

"Be STEADFAST."

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The receiving of President Taft's sister-in-law into the R. C. Church has produced a great sensation in the U. S., coming as it does at the end of a very long list of notable American "conversions." It looks as if the State will have all it can do in the coming battle with the Church. The theory that God spoke to mankind from without and not from within seems to take hold in a more practical way of the average mind. Mankind is still in its babyhood and feels the need of a nurse. How far the present rout will go is a matter of conjecture. Be steadfast.

A.B.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In your issue of Thursday I saw a very sensible letter signed by Mr. W. Bullied, of Otonabee, about the price of milk. Whilst I must admit that the prices of all kinds of foodstuffs is now very high, there is good reason for the seemingly high price of milk. Every man who works for a living is entitled to his fair remuneration. I would like to ask some of the commodity [illegible] faces all kinds of weather seven days a week and makes less for his investment and himself than the milk sellers. They have to get out in all kinds of weather hours before their customers are out of bed. Then, as explained by Mr. Bullied, and explained truly, milkmen have to pay four cents per quart for milk and sell it for seven cents. Suppose a vendor sells one hundred quarts a day this leaves him $3.00 profit. Out of this he has to keep himself and family and his horse. If the public would only consider the price of fodder, oats and hay, the cost of blacksmiths bills, repairs to rigs and harness, etc., that has got to come out of this $3.00 a day profit they would easily see that local milkmen could not sell their goods cheaper and live. I hope that others interested in the milk question will take up this matter and thus let the people recognize that they are not paying too much for their milk.

Wm. Bromwell.

WANTS AIRSHIPS ELIMINATED FROM ACTUAL WARFARE

London, Feb. 9.—Prominent English citizens sign memorial asking the various powers to agree that flying machines shall be barred out from participation in any future war. Memorialists say that war on earth or water is serious enough without engaging aid of airships.

In a memorial issued by the arbitration league protesting against the use of aerial vessels in war, the memorialists appeal to all governments to foster an international understanding which shall preserve the world from what they think would add new hideousness to warfare. They say the occasion for the necessary universal agreement in unique, that all civilization protests its desire for peace and good will, and its wish to reduce the burden of armaments. The memorialists suggest that aerial warfare, by reason of its horrors, must frighten men from war, and that the art of flying will reach full development without the stimulus of war.

To the argument that, because men fight on earth and water, they may just as well fight in the air, the memorialists reply that there has never yet been a moment when it was practically possible to ban war machines off the earth or the water, but there is a moment when it is practically possible to ban those of the air. "That moment," it is added, "is now before us, before these machines have been proved and great vested interests have been formed."

The signatures to the memorial cover a wide range. They include those of bishops, professors, writers and scientists, among them being Lord Coleridge, Sir A. Conan Doyle, John Gatsworthy, Thomas Hardy, Maurice Hewelett, Frederick Harrison, Sir Victor Horsley, Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir William Osler, Sir Arthur Pinero, John S. Sargent, R. A. Sir William Ramsay, Alfred Russell Wallace and Israel Zangwill.

OTONABEE LADY'S DEATH.

Former Resident of Local Township Dies in Cleveland Hospital.

Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. P. J. O'Brien, Ohio, youngest daughter of the late William Morgan of Otonabee. Her death occurred last evening about eight o'clock at the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio. She is survived by a sorrowing husband, seven sisters and one brothers.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

East Peterborough Orangemen Meet.

The annual county meeting of East Peterborough L.O.L. was held in Norwood Orange Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 6th, and was largely attended. The reports showed a large increase in members, and all primary lodges in a flourishing condition. County Master Robertson was selected to represent the county at the Grand Lodge meeting in Kingston in March.

RUGBY CLUB'S GREAT DANCE

Collegiate Institute Has Good Reason to be Proud---Conservatory Crowded

Third Annual Dance Largely Attended by the Youth and Beauty of Peterborough, under Auspicious Circumstances.

DURING several hours last night, and continued into the small hours this morning guests of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute Rugby Club thoroughly enjoyed themselves at the Conservatory of Music Hall. This was the third annual dance given by the Club and was a huge success, the hundreds present being unanimous in voting their hosts the palm for enjoyable entertainment. About five hundreds invitations had been issued, and in every case possible had been accepted. By the use of flags, bunting and good taste, Messrs. Turner & Sons, kindly assisted by the young ladies made the big hall into a veritable fairy land of beauty. The invited guests who included many people from a distance, began to arrive shortly after eight o'clock. Complete arrangements had been made for dressing rooms, and by the time that Fralick's Toronto Orchestra playedplayed the first music, a two-step, entitled "Evening Star," until the last waltz, "Tosti's Good-bye," the well waxed floor was always well covered by a splendid representation of Peterborough youth and beauty.

Shortly after the city clocks sounded the midnight hour, Messrs. Coleman Bros., the George street caterers, furnished a dainty supper, that appealed to all present. The refreshments were served in the ball-room "sans ceremonie," between the first and second part of the program.

Those in Charge.

The committee in charge of the dance were Messrs. R. A. Dixon, Wilfred Hall, Harold Hill, M. J. Brooks, D. Huyeke, H. Eastwood. The lady patronesses were Mesdames W. H. Bradburn, J. R. Stratton, E. C. S. Huycke, J. H. Eastwood, W. R. Tavers, Vincent Eastwood, R. R. Hall, W. H. Hall, T. W. Hayes, A. H. Stratton, J. F. Harvey, Dickson Hall, T. F. Mathews, E. C. Macleod.

This most successful social event terminated at an early hour this morning.

PETERBORO INTERMEDIATES WIN

Defeated Cobourg Last Night Before a Record Crowd.

The Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team defeated the Cobourg team at the Brock St. Kink St. Rink last night by a score of 18.3. The half time score was 9-3. The game was fast and fairly clean. Cobourg put in some good combination, but the home defence broke up their rushes before they were able to shoot. The home team all played the game and their combination was a pleasure to watch. They back-checked their opponents very closely and aided the defence materially in this respect. Dennison ade several end to end rushes and notched several counters. Drocher, in goal, stopped many shots and the ones that did pass him were the easiest of the lot. The game was late in starting, owing to Cobourg's late arrival, commencing at 9.45.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough — Goal, Drocher; point, Hand; cover, Guy; rover, Lavis; centre, Payne; left wing, Doheny; right wing, Cunningham.

Cobourg — Goal, Patten; point, Hand; cover, Guy; rover, Lavis; centre, Payne; left wing, Doheny; right wing, Cunningham.

YOUNG GLADSTONE TO THE FRONT

London, Feb. 10.—William Glynne Gladstone, M.P., grandson of the famous Prime Minister, and the present head of that branch of the Gladstone family, has been selected to second the reply to the address from the throne in the House of Commons at the opening of Parliament.

Mr. Gladstone lives in Hawarden Castle. He made a good reputation as a speaker at Oxford and his career in Parliament will be watched with much interest. He is twenty-six years old.

JESUITS NOT TO SUE REV. C. O. JOHNSTON RE OATH

Mr. E. V. Sullivan Receives Word From Head of the Order at Montreal to Let the Discussion Drop, Leaving the Public to Judge Facts of the Case for Themselves

Toronto, Feb. 20.—Mr. E. V. O'Sullivan said to-day, in speaking of [illegible] Rev. C. O. Johnston:

"I have now final instruction regarding the Jesuits oath from the Reverend Father LeCompte, Superior General of the order in Montreal.

"The general trend of opinion with regard to taking action against Mr. Johnston, who made reference to a body of men whose name stands in Canadian history for holiness and Christian spirit unsurpassed since the time of the early martyrs, is that the publication of the real oath has served the purpose of giving to fair-minded men an opprtunity to know the facts, and that any person capable of believing that the Jesuits, or any person else, took such an oath would remain unconvinced by proof or verdict, and that Mr. Johnston, having been challenged to prove his statements, and having failed, having given as his authority a book which has not, and never had, any existence, and which [illegible] to produce, even when offered one thousand dollars to produce it, that action in the courts would merely fan the fires of religious controversy, of which every clean-minded Canadian is sick and tired. The Jesuits are entirely of this opinion.

"The newspapers have given the same publicity to the true oath that they gave to the one quoted by Mr. Johnston, and say that they never made any comments upon it. Mr. Johnston only states that he believes the one he read to be the true oath.

"The Father Superior instructs me to say that he would prefer to let the public judge which is the true oath, the one that they positively say that they take, and have always taken, or the one Mr. Johnston believes they take."

FAKE PROPOSITION CUT

Immigration Commissioner Hawkes Catches Swindling Employment Agent at Liverpool, Eng.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 10.—Active work for the renomination and re-election of President Taft, aside from that done at the White House, began here to-day, when Representative William B. McKinley, of Illinois, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, [illegible] his new duties as manager of the Taft campaign.

BRITAIN INCENSED

London, Feb. 6.—All England is greatly stirred up over the sentence to three and a half years' confinement in a fortress passed by the German Imperial Court at Leipsic upon Bertrand Stewart, a prominent London lawyer, who was recently tried on the charge of espionage. The English newspapers of both political parties are much incensed at this action of the German Government, and claim that Stewart was not given a fair trial. The trial was held partly in secret, and the English press urges very strongly that a new trial be demanded, claiming that this is another Dreyfus case. Pressure is being brought to bear on the members of the Imperial Parliament, and it is expected that action will be taken promptly as soon as the house meets.

THE TAFT BOOM WARMING UP

Liverpool, Feb. 10.—Just before sailing to-day Immigration Commissioner Arthur Hawkes caught a small Western city's employment agent requiring apulicants to purchase the hundred-dollar town lots two miles from the city's centre. Mr. Hawkes trounced the culprit. He also repudiated newspapers mixing immigrationwith real estate propositions

Mr. Buchanan's Death!

The many friends of the late Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, of 413 Bethune St., heard yesterday with deep regret of her demise. Mrs. Buchanan leaves behind to mourn her loss five children, three daughters and two sons: Mrs. A. C. Harran, 413 Bethune St.; Mrs. O. C. Callander, 174 Dublin st., and Miss Daisy Buchanan, Regina, Sask.; Mr. J. R. Buchanan, 525 Patterson street; and Geo. H. Buchanan of Toronto; besides three brothers and thrfe sisters of Pittsburg, Pa., her husband having predeceased her some 23 years.

Judge Huycke To Speak.

His Honor Judge Huycke has consented to be present at and deliver an address on "The Investment of Influence" tomorrow afternoon at Park Street Church. Mr. Frank Pratt and others will furnish special vocal music for the gathering.

A "Made in Peterborough" Fair.

Possibly, as a result, in part, of suggestions made by the Times in referring to a similar affair held in Lindsay, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Peterborough Health Association are arranging to hold a "Made in Peterborough" Fair, in the interests of the association, the proposition having been discussed at the organization meeting last Monday. The dates are not yet decided as both larger and smaller cities than Peterborough have made financial successes of similar meetings, with the fine material and excellent management here, there is every reason to predict a success for the local Fair.

OUR WATER SUPPLY

Peterborough Would Benefit by Having Bill Now Before House of Parliament Passed.

A Bill, which has passed its first reading at Ottawa, provides that "No person shall throw or deposit, or cause or permit to be thrown or deposited, any sewage, offal, or refuse, or any other solid matter that is poisonous, decomposing, refuse or waste into any river any part of which is navigable, or into any stream that flows into any navigable river. Every corporation convicted of an offence against this section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding the sum of $50 for each day during which the offence continues." Whilst such a bill might strike a hard blow at the larger Canadian cities, which at present use the rivers of the country as sewer outlets, we in Peterborough who, with our wives and little ones are dependent on the Otonabee River for practically all our drinking water, would almost unanimously endorse such legislation. It is not hard to realize what an awful epidemic of typhoid or diphtheria would quickly be in evidence were all the cottagers and residents along the Trent Valley Canal allowed to deposit such objectionable and dangerous matter as noted above in the Otonabee and contributary waters. Let the politicians fight as they may over most parliamentary bones of contention, but one thing our citizens should and will insist on, and that is the conservation, preservation and purification of the water that we and our babies drink.

Local Marksmen Won.

Members of Peterborough Gun Club not only had a good time during their visit to Keene but even fortunate enough to win out by a score of 146 to 128. A match at 25 clay birdswas shot off, and considering the cold wind, some good scoring was made. A return match will be held here at a later date.

TEMPERATURE.

Fine and very cold.

ANGLICAN CHURCH IN CANADA

May Absorb the Greek Church

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE AT THE MONTREAL SYNOD MEETING —WILL SET ASIDE A SUNDAY FOR PRAYERS TO THAT END.

Montreal, Feb. 9.—At the Montreal Synod meeting here yesterday evening it was announced by several speakers that the Anglican Church of Canada is ready to enter into an entente with the Greek Church. The announcement was made during a discussion on the proposal made by Rev. Dr. Paterson Smyth that a Sunday should be appointed for special prayer and teaching on Christian unity, and that other churches be asked to do the same.

Bishop Farthing said he had assisted at the opening of the Greek Catholic Church in Montreal, and he felt it should be encouraged in every way.

Other speakers approved of the action of the Bishop of Alaska admitting members of the Greek Church to communion.

Dr. Smyth's motion was carried.

Frost Bitten Man Goes Home.

The young man who was found in a half frozen condition on the C.P.R. track, west of the city on Thursday night was yesterday taken home A young man named Batley brought the unfortunate man whose hands and ears were badly nipped by the frost, to the Police Station. Here he was attended by Dr. Young.

Died From Result of Accident.

A sad scene was in evidence here Thursday night when a young man, an Austrain, died from loss of blood in St. Joseph's Hospital. It seems that owing to a serious accident at Campbellford one of his legs was terribly crushed from the knee. Whilst at once taken to the above noted hospital, and placed under care of Dr. McNulty, who was not a to speak after his arrival in the city, died soon after admission.

The many friends of Mr. P. P. Young, President of the Stony Lake Navigation Co., will be pleased to learn that he up again after a three weeks' illness from lumbago.

Injured by Broken Pole.

Whilst James Mullen and Jas. Judd, two employees of the Bell Telephone Co. were pulling a guy wire, at the corner of Aylmer street and Aberdeen Ave., a day or two ago an anchor pole broke, four feet from the ground. The twenty-six feet of pole fell and the surrounding deep snow prevented the men escaping. The big stick struck Mullen on the head, knocking him unconscious for twenty minutes. He was taken home where Dr. Young was called to attend him. No serious effects from the blow will follow.

The other employe, Judd, escaped with a painfully bruised thigh. There were four men pulling on the rope at the time the accident occurred.

PREPARING FOR A BIG WAR

Naval Developments Referred To In Special Cables To-Day

London, Feb. 20. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, announces that Great Britain will maintain her naval supremacy at all costs.

The Kaiser prepares to rush a bill through the Reichstag, providing a tremendous increase in the German navy.

Japanese Minister of Marine says Japan must have eighteen more battleships, eight of them Dreadnoughts, before 1920.

France orders three Dreadnoughts.

Advocates of an increased navy for navy for the United States cite foreign activity in an attack upon the Democratic building policy.

LAURIER'S WHITE HOPE.

MANAGER LAURIER—"Do you think you can come back, George?" — From the Toronto News.

TO FARMERS

Farmers who will send in their names and kind of soil to the Director of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, by Feb. 15, will receive

Planting Samples of extra quality Wheat Oats, Peas, Barley and Potatoes

D-1-10-2) J. H. BURNHAM

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

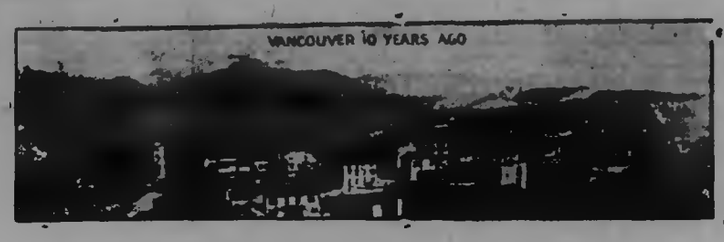
Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop. 415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security



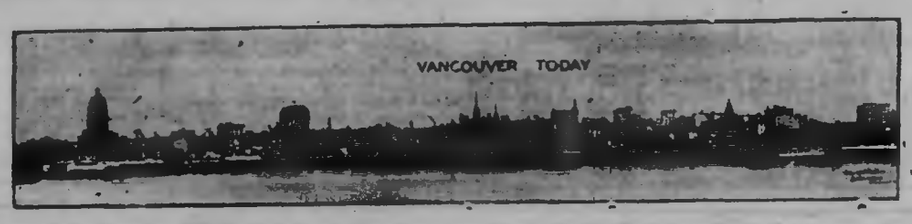
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan—$10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares. Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON, Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

QUEENS AND DRESS

Her Majesty of Holland Spends $20,000 a Year on Her Attire.

Queen Marr has not yet been sufficiently long on the throne for her to be able to estimate exactly what it will cost her each year for dress. It takes at least three years for any queen to be able to guage this closely from actual experience. But so far owing to ceremonies which necessitate costly variations of dress, the Queen has found that she can hardly do what is required in this way at a less cost than $10,000 per annum though this sum may (and probably will) be considerably curtailed in a year or two when she has got all this department into full working order.

Queen Alexandra used to find not less than $10,000 necessary for a similar purpose. She had, as a rule, eight really gorgeous dresses each year from Paris, and she made it her practice never to appear twice at any very important function in the same gown. Yet she was not extravagant, as queens go, for she kept a staff of clever seamstresses, who recast such gowns after they had been once or twice worn, and made them up again in a manner so different that few people recognized them as what Queen Alexandra had worn before.

Queen Mary is almost sure to get most of her hats and underclothing made in England, though one or two special delights in millinery may come to her from Paris. Queen Alexandra followed this rule, and, though she always had eight or ten hats from the French capital every season, yet she dealt very largely with British houses for what she wore.

Few Royal ladies spend more in their attire than does her Majesty of Holland. Her money expended in this fashion totals up to far above $20,000 a year; and when one remembers that, after all, few European queens have to make less expensive public appearances, so far as dress is concerned, than has Queen Wilhelmina, one must admit that she holds the record at present in this line.

The Dutch Queen is extremely fond of bright colors in her dress, of spangles and embroidery, of lace and ostrich feathers.

No European queen dresses more simply on ordinary occasions than does the Czarina of Russia, for her favorite wear is a plain black gown, except at court functions. Yet she has the largest dress allowance of any queen on the Continent, and when occasion demands it the Empress of Russia can don superb gowns which put those of her Royal rivals quite in the shade. Her everyday tastes, however, are simple in the extreme.

The German Empress usually ignores Paris and Parisian fashions in her dress arrangements. She never deals with the French capital at all but gets all her gowns and millinery from Vienna and Berlin. She obtains them from Germany's fine Austrian city stands very high in her regard for its tailors, milliners and dressmakers. Her expenditure in dress is about $10,000 a year, though sometimes it approaches $12,500, and is seldom less than the former sum.

Queen Helena of Italy has a private allowance for dress of a sum which is nearly equal to $15,000 annually. She is an excellent judge of a gown and has both the figure and dignity for showing one off to perfection. Costly lace and embroidery of richest pattern and fashion are favorite adornaments of her dresses, whilst her millinery is just as pretty as her gowns. No doubt much of her fine judgment in these matters comes from the fact that she herself is an expert needlewoman, and used when a princess in poor Montenegro to make many of her own dresses and hats.

FEVER-COOLING DEVICE

Pipes Carrying Cold Liquid Surround Patient's Body.

A Missouri man has gone a long step farther than the inventors of ice bags of various kinds, and has designed a cooling apparatus which envelops a person's entire form. For the treatment of fever cases it should prove a great help. Two long rubber pipes start at the patient's head and pass down along his sides to below his feet. Shorter pipes run along the sides of his head and under his neck, so that he is completely surrounded by the apparatus. The cooling liquid whateve it may be, is conveyed to the tubes through still another pipe, which runs from the bed to the tank holding the liquid, which stands on a chair nearby. Ordinary ice water make a very effective cooling agent and the apparatus can be attached to an ice cooler. In fact, it was probably intended to use ice water in the pipes almost exclusively.

FINE FOR FEVER CASES.

A WASHING HINT.

We always put a slice of lemon into the boiler when boiling clothes, and find that besides making them beautifully white, it takes the stains out of handkerchiefs, etc. The lemon-rind should be left in the boiler until the clothes are ready to be taken out.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

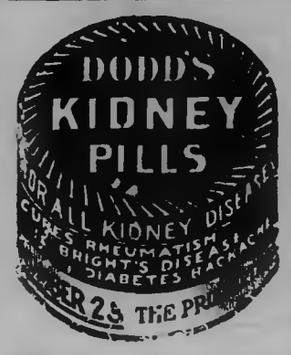
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Outfit Equipment", will be received at this office until the sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.

2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.

3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.

4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

PAMPERED CRIMINALS.

The new prison-hotel system which is being adopted in Europe for habitual offenders will do much to remove the charge that such members of society have been neglected. Under the new regime these prison-hotels are built in carefully selected and well wooded spots, which have also some advantages from a scenic point of view.

The habitual criminal gets the hospitality of the place for an indefinite period, which may not exceed ten years. Every facility is given for that social intercourse which does so much to make life endurable. The prisoners have meals together in an association hall. There will be a canteen, at which those who have not misbehaved themselves will be allowed to purchase what little luxuries are not provided on the ordinary menu of the establishment, and the long winter evenings will be beguiled with various recreations in the association hall. As for the bedroom accommodation, all has been done that the most solicitous care for the well-being of the inhabitants could dictate. It is well known that hotel patrons do not like to lodge in fourth or fifth storey rooms, so the prison blocks are handsome buildings of two storeys each. The cells are well lighted and carefully ventilated. Their internal arrangement is comfortable, and their decoration adequate, without being gaudy. The depressing square hole through which the ordinary prison cell receives its light is replaced by a charming cottage window frame, which the prisoners can open or close at their will. A steel grid is placed on the other side of each window in order that the seclusion of the convicts may not be destroyed by the envious honest outside trying to force their way into the prison. A large staff of servants, including a librarian, will be employed. In order that the prisoners may be able to obtain that reasonable amount of outdoor physical exercise that is necessary for health, a large area of the forest land will be cleared, and teachers will be provided from whom they may obtain knowledge of agriculture, horticulture and various skilled trades.

Thus, this new enterprise on the part of humane government provides for the happiest possible solution of the anxious problem: "What shall we do with our boys)" No calling offers such glorious prospects as the various branches of the criminal profession, in which failure, involving accommodation for an indefinite term in a prison-hotel, is only a trifle less desirable than success.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, - 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terrens Title, Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Part Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

the man would be unmistakable?"

"Quite."

"You did not see them?"

"I did not, Senhor. He has had no such an attack. I don't think he had out at all; but certainly not to the effect your question would indicate."

"Thank you," said Scarborough, and returned to the room where Elsa was waiting for him.

He had a difficult task before him. He knew now that his suspicion had been correct, and that the gout was a fake. He believed moreover, that Richmond Carrington's whole life had been of a piece with that lie, and that for the last two years he had imposed upon his daughter as he had imposed upon the world before the world had found him out. The guilty man had played upon her credulity, and tricked her of her love by deceit; and Scarborough, pitying him, hardly blamed him for so doing. But Varney's estimate of him was right, and Elsa's was wrong. She must know some time, and yet Scarborough shrank from the necessity of deceiving her. To destroy a daughter's trust in her father, when the mother was dead, and beyond the [illegible] further—surely it was a cruel thing to do!

He did not know what to say to her; but he had to say something, and no time was given to him for considering what it should be. For she met him at once with a question:

"Tell me what you know of Margaret Ryan."

"I know only what Phil Varney told me," he said.

"That is what I want to hear."

Scarborough thought for a moment. How could he tell her? To gain time, he asked her to tell him first what she knew.

"Very little," she answered. "When I saw Mona de la Mar at the circus yesterday, I thought at once that I knew the face, but I couldn't remember at first where I had seen it. Just before your friend, the Revolver King, came into the ring, I saw him standing in the gangway speaking to her, and she looked up into his face with a laugh, and a curious shake of the head. Then I remembered in a flash where I had seen that laugh, with its accompanying jerk of the head before. It was at a tennis party at the Varney's, three or four years ago, and I remembered that Phil Varney and Margaret Ryan had played together most of the afternoon. They are cousins, I think. That is all I know."

"There is nothing in all this to make you suspect her," said Scarborough.

"She is one of the Varney's. I suspect them all."

"She is not," said Scarborough. "You are wrong in thinking that Phil and she are cousins. He told me that there is no relationship between them, the latter only found there her joint guardians, that is all."

"Oh, what does it matter?" cried Elsa. "She is in the circus, and my mother warned us of danger from the circus! Tell me what you learned about her."

Scarborough paced the room once or twice. Then he sat down beside Elsa.

"She is an orphan," he said, "and she was an heiress. Her father had made his money as a stockman, in the States, in the days before the West was fenced with wire, and opened out with railways. Her childhood had been spent in the saddle, and she often knew what it was to sleep under the stars. When her father had made what he considered was a big enough pile to leave to a girl, he came to England and brought Margaret with him. She was fourteen then, and the next three or four years she spent at school, getting the education for which there had been no time in her wild life out West. When she was nearly twenty, her father died, and for a year she travelled with an elderly governess, whom your father and Mr. Varney engaged for her. At the end of that time she went to live with the Varneys for a month or two. The firm of Carrington and Varney failed when she was within three weeks of the time when, by her father's will, she would be of age. On her twenty-first birthday she was to have been given the absolute and unfettered control of her fortune of twenty thousand pounds. Her father believed that, with the training she had had, she would be capable of controlling it wisely. But she was never put to the test."

Scarborough paused, and Elsa, who had made no sign or movement whilst he was speaking, asked quickly:

"It had gone?"

"Every penny of it, I am told."

"Poor girl! How she must have loathed the Varneys! What did she do?"

"Made up her mind to earn her living. There was one accomplishment in which she excelled, and she resolved to put it to account. She became a riding-mistress."

"In London?"

"No, in Boston. A man who had known her father kept a big riding-school there. He happened to be in England on a holiday, and he offered her a post in his school. She had a few pounds of her allowance left, and she made up the money for her passage and outfit by selling her trinkets. A month after she landed, Val B. Montague saw her ride, and asked her to join the troupe he was getting up to tour the Atlantic islands. She did so."

"It was an extraordinary thing to do," said Elsa.

"I fancy she is not a very ordinary girl. Besides, she had a reason. And Montague was not a stranger. She had known him out West as one of her father's stockmen, and she believed he was to be trusted."

"Still," said Elsa, "it was a mad thing, unless her reason was a very strong one."

"I believe it was."

A faint smile flickered over Elsa's face, and she asked with something like a sneer:

"Was it Phil Varney? So she did not hate him, though his father had ruined her?"

Scarborough shook his head gravely.

"Phil did not know of the existence of the circus troupe till three months later, when he joined it at Rio. Her motive was not that."

"Do you know what it was?"

"Yes."

He got up and paced the room again. After all, the thing had to be told, and his delay had not made it easier, or suggested any gentle way of saying the thing. But Elsa was not as [illegible] she was [illegible] and would near the truth without flinching. He owed it to her courage not to fence with the necessity longer. He would say straight out what had to be said.

"You know that there are people who do not hold the view you do about your father's innocence?" he said.

"Why do you say that?" she asked quickly.

"Because what I am going to tell you is only plausible if it is read in the light of that fact."

She looked at him coldly.

"What fact?" she asked. "That my father was guilty? Is that what you mean?"

"That there are people who believe that he was guilty," he said.

"Oh, I know that!" she said, scornfully. "Why, we have been living here for two years in San Miguel under the false name of Page, if not because there are fools who think my father was a scoundrel? We will take their existence for granted. Go on, please."

"When the affairs of Carrington and Varney were investigated," Scarborough went on, "it was found that the partners, or whichever of them was the guilty man, must have known for a long time that the failure was inevitable; and yet it was only within a period of six weeks before the crash came that the securities which represented Margaret Ryan's inheritance were turned into ready money."

Scarborough stopped. He had expected that the thing would be hard to say; but now, with Elsa's eyes widening with a growing apprehension, he found it almost impossible.

"The money was taken to try to stave off the disaster?" she said.

"No. It had not been added to the firm's assets. No trace of it was found in the books. It was believed that—"

Again he stopped. He saw Elsa's eyes fixed on him with horror looking out of their depths.

"Go on," she said. "Tell me quickly."

"It was believed that the partner who had fled had taken this money with him for his own use. He had taken the orphan's inheritance, not with the intention of paying it back, if by its means he could save his firm from ruin—but simply and solely for himself, to swell his crime-gained plunder. It sounds incredible, but many believed it, and amongst them the girl herself. I have told you that in some ways she is a strange girl, a girl from whom one would expect strange things. She took a fantastic vow of vengeance, dedicated the next five years of her life—if the task should take so long—to tracking down and punishing the man who had ruined her. She became a riding-mistress because she knew no quicker way of earning the money she would need; she joined Val B. Montague, because with him she could begin her search at once, and more, could, and she did. She had heard that the object of her pursuit was in hiding in one of the islands of the Atlantic."

"Horace," cried Elsa, suddenly, and there was a note of heart-breaking grief in her voice. "Do you believe all this?"

He forced himself to answer.

"I don't know what I believe. But, if it is true, it gives us what has been lacking hitherto—a motive for the murder—if murder has been done."

"It gives that, even though it is not true," said Elsa quickly. "She believed it, and she vowed revenge."

Again Scarborough had to force himself to say:

"I do not mean that. I don't think that Margaret Ryan is the murderess. But it is known that before he left London Mr. Carrington invested a large sum in diamonds. If he retained them in his possession, as it is probable that he would, they would supply a motive. There are plenty of men in the world who will murder for less."

With a cry that was almost a sob, Elsa rose and faced him.

"You say that my father had those diamonds?" she asked—"diamonds which he had bought with that girl's money! You say that, Horace?"

"I say that that is the story I was told."

"Do you believe it?"

He did not answer. She waited for nearly a minute, and the silence was broken only by their deep breathing. Then she laughed softly, and Scarborough thought that laugh was the most desolate sound he had ever heard.

Then she stopped, and with an imperious gesture pointed to the door.

"Go!" she said.

"Elsa!"

"Go! I asked for your help, but I will do without it. You believe ill of my father, whom I loved more dearly than anyone in the world"—and then in a lower tone, she added:—"till you came, and I thought I had found one whom I could love more!"

He went to take her in his arms, but she shrank back from him.

"Go!" she cried. "Go! I think I hate you now!"

And then, in a paroxysm of sobbing, she threw herself into a chair, and covered her face with her hands.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Scratched Stone

"Well?" asked Phil Varney, when Scarborough returned from the Chimelas to the Cable Station.

"Richmond Carrington is dead," said Scarborough simply.

"Murdered?"

"I don't know, but it looks like it."

"The diamonds?"

"Oh, I suppose so. Have you an hours to spare?"

"Yes. If I am in the circus twenty minutes before the performance begins it will do. What do you want me for?"

"I want you to help me probe this thing. I am going first to the girl, who, so far as we know, was the last person to see him alive, and afterwards I shall go with you to Ponda Delgada. I want to be introduced to Mona de la Mar."

"What for?" asked Varney quickly. "You are not going to be ass enough to suspect her of murder, are you?"

"No."

"Then what do you want with her?"

"I want to know whether she saw or spoke to Richmond Carrington yesterday. I want to know whether the private business which made her refuse to perform last night was an interview with the man who had ruined her. Is she the sort of girl who will be sensible enough to see that questions will be put, and that she'll have to answer for her movements?"

"Yes," said Varney. "And she's sensible enough to have forgotten that fantastic vow business long ago. It was only a piece of girlish froth in the beginning, nothing more than a burst of natural temper, expressed in a romantically violent way. Of course she soon dropped it."

"Probably," agreed Scarborough. "But I want to talk to her."

"Oh, all right, I'll introduce you. How is the daughter taking things?"

"Bravely," said Scarborough.

"Did she know the truth about her father?"

(To be Continued)

HE WAS AN ASS

She:—"My brother tells me you have been going in for a little speculation on the Stock Exchange lately. Were you a bull or a bear?"

He:—"Neither. I was an ass."

A SUCCESS

The Girl:—"What's your opinion of women who imitate men?"

The Man:—"They're idiots!"

The Girl:—"Then the imitation is successful."

BITING SARCASM

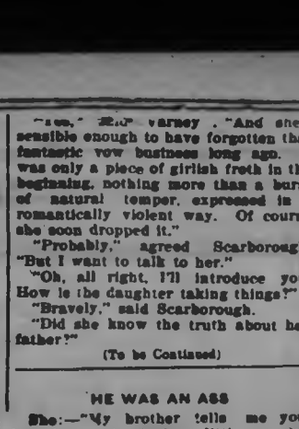
"Why does Miss Simpson address all her verses to the moon?" asked the professor of Lady Susan.

"Well, I suppose," said her ladyship, who has a satirical turn, "it is because the man up there is the only one who can't run away."

RAGGLES, THE TRAMP

Employer:—"We want a man who is willing to work and knows the city."

Raggles the Tramp (sotto voce):—"Well, I guess I ought to fill the bill. I know the city like a book, and I've been working it for the past two weeks."



THE WHOLE BUSINESS

Courteous Barber:—"Will you have any bay rum, eau de cologne, lavendar water or powder on your face, sir?"

Customer:—"Any extra charge?"

Barber:—"No, sir."

Customer:—"Then I'll have all."

ROUGH ON THE PORTER

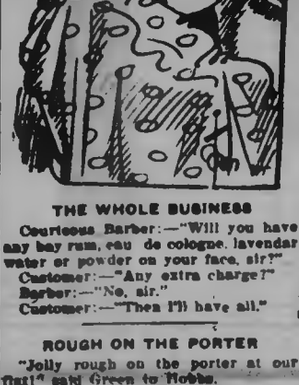
"Jolly rough on the porter at our flat!" said Green to Hobbs.

"What was?" inquired Hobbs.

"Why, a seedy-looking chap called the other day, and the porter refused [illegible] and the porter refused to let him in. Then he [illegible] round on the side and [illegible] the owner of the flat. The porter nearly had a fit."

"Ha! Ha! Rather good. Funny that the porter had never seen the owner. Ha! Ha!"

"Wait a bit, that's not the joke; the man was not the owner at all; he was a book canvasser, and he sold books to every man in the flat. Now the tenants have complained to the owner, and the porter has got the sack!"



OH! YOU VAUDEVILLE

"You can't marry my sistah. She's a lady ob rank!"

"Well, I'se as rank as she am!"

TERRIBLE OFFENCE

The other day a man with a ruby nose was brought before a magistrate, charged with impersonating a police-officer.

"What have you to say?" asked the magistrate.

"I am innocent," replied the man.

"What did he do?" asked the magistrate.

"What did he do?" exclaimed the policeman, haughtily, who had hoped that such a question would not be put. "Why, he tapped three times at the door of a saloon on my beat, and when the landlord shoved the beer out through the half-opened door he took it and drank it. That's what he did."

Amid roars of laughter the case was dismissed.

THE LIMIT

Auto Enthusiast: — "Curses! Not another high hill left to climb."

DUSTBANE THE DUST-KILLER

A handful in a litre

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in Bibs., ½ Bibs. & ¼ Bibs. For sale in stores, offices and public Bldgs. For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO Three trains daily. Excellent service. Making connection at Detroit for FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply— W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 $8.00

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE, 14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 822

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO. Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL [illegible] is a speciality

CHEW

KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd.

QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23

Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

SummerSailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List.

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

GRAMPIAN,

Friday, Feb. 2. Saturday, Feb. 3.

CORSICAN,

Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.

HESPERIAN,

Saturday, Feb. 24.

TUNISIAN,

Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.

Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.

Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.

Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.

Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.

Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.

Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.

Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.

Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY, C.P.A. Can. Pass. Ry.

B. A. ROSS, C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO'

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00

RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00

TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,580,549.41

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO'

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director.

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

Phone 104, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

BEST RACE COURSES

Located in the Neighborhood of the Capital of France

W. H. Snider, who has been training the Hitchcock steeplechasers in France, is full of praise for the French racecourses. He says: "Auteuil is a pretty little place right in the park in the suburbs of Paris. They close off a part of the park while the racing is in progress. On the other side of the park is Longchamps, where racing is under the same conditions, and you talk about a race track and [illegible] Longchamps is modern in comparison, and the racing is conducted far more liberally than in the United States. Jockeys can stroll around the grounds with their colors on. They are presumed to be honest until proved to the contrary. But if they do get you—well, it's goodby.

"You don't hear of a purse of less than $1000, and thirty-two different tracks within a radius of twenty miles of Paris racing on one Sunday. Any kind of a horse can win, if you only pick the right place to start him.

"All the running in the winter is in the South of France, and don't you think it's like our winter racing. Plenty of stakes worth from $5000 to $22,000 to the winner. They start around Paris again on Feb. 15. It's all trotting now in this part of the country.—I am anxious to see the trotters perform over here. They trot on the turf, the same as they run, and they go rain or shine; no postponements on account of weather in France. The trotting races are most all dashes or handicaps, and catch-weights."

HAWAIAN FOR SWEDEN

Expert Confirms Reports of Marvelous Swimming by Kahanamoku

Jamison Handy, of the Chicago Athletic Association, former one-mile swimming champion and record holder of America, who recently returned from a trip around the world, confirmed the cabled news of the sensational sprinting performances of Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu, and expressed the opinion that the times credited to the Hawaiian are in no way exaggerated.

Handy describes Kahanamoku as a giant, ebony-skinned native about twenty years old, standing over six feet in stockings, weighing about 190 pounds, and a magnificent specimen of manhood, straight, well-muscled, and perfectly formed. He swims a smooth, rythmic crawl stroke very much resembling that of Harry Hebner of the Illinois Athletic Club, the National 50-yard champion and record-holder, and goes through the water with shoulders high above the surface, moving at fast speed.

In last year's championship, Kahanamoku won both the 50 and 100 yards titles, covering the shorter distance in 24 1-5 seconds and the longer in 55 2-5 seconds, over a straightaway open-water course. The century mark established new world's figures which are likely to be recognized as a standard, for four watchs agreed on the time, and the local authorities intend to apply for the record.

Enthusiastic supporters of aquatic sports in the Hawaiian Islands are so anxious to see the new prodigy pitted against the world's best sprinters that they have subscribed to a purse in order to send him to the Olympic Games next summer in Sweden, where he would represent Uncle Sam in the 100-meter swim, and unless the cold water of the north breaks his form completely, they expect to see him win the event easily.

Bank of Toronto in Norwood.

Officials of the Bank of Toronto have been in the village of Norwood and made arrangements to open a Bank Office. For the present the bank will be situated in the store on Peterborough street, recently occupied by Mr. Walter Girvan as a jewelry store.

Anaemic Mothers

YOU CAN ENRICH YOUR WORN-OUT BLOOD AND QUICKLY RE NEW YOUR HEALTH WITH DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr. Hamilton's Pills Are a Real Cure.

"I can't remember any time during the past 20 years when my head wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to the head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P.O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: 'Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going up stairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. My doctor told me that if that was the cause Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest blood renewer on earth. I tell you how I feel today and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made.

I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going up stairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any well person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful woman's medicine. They helped me in other ways, too, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health.

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c. per box. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE MORNING TIMES

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10TH.

LLOYD GEORGE WINS.

David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, whilst recently making a speech at the City of London Liberal Club declared that reports of a split in the British cabinet were entirely unfounded. He also assured his audience that the alleged feud between himself and Premier Asquith was a myth.

Lloyd-George also made his first incursion into international politics since the speech delivered by him last summer so inflamed public opinion in Germany. Speaking on the reduction of armament he said he believed the present was an advantageous moment to consider the question. It was in the interests of France, Germany, Russia and Great Britain that there should be a better understanding. He continued: "I believe that with candor, frankness and boldness it is attainable. The world would be richer for it. Taxes might be reduced and money which would be saved that is now spent on armaments could be devoted to developing the resources of the country and improving the conditions of the people. The corner stone of sound finance is 'Peace on earth and good will among men.'"

A PEACE MISSION.

Lord Haldane has paid a hurried visit to Berlin, and there is no doubt but that the minister of war is on a mission of peace. The case of the London barrister, Bertrand Stewart, who was arrested in Germany on suspicion of being a spy, tried and convicted in secret and sentenced to a long term of imprisonment after passionately protesting his innocence, has aroused the British people to a higher pitch of resentment than even the Agadir incident did. Here is a concrete grievance against Germany that every person can understand—something with a human element in it that "comes home to the business and bosoms of men." The outburst of popular fury over what is felt to be an act of oppression and gross injustice has had its natural effect in Germany, where the "governing classes" regard the British demonstrations of resentment as impertinent interference with the natural course of justice in Germany.

Undoubtedly the passions which have been aroused over this incident make the situation extremely critical. The relations between the two countries have long been strained, and when intense popular antagonism is added to governmental and diplomatic friction, an explosion may happen at any moment. In spite of all, it is practically certain that neither the British nor the German government wants war. The men at the top in both countries realize the frightful results of an Anglo-German war, and they will do their utmost to preserve the peace—for the present at least. And it may safely be inferred that that is why Lord Haldane has gone to Berlin. May his mission prove successful!

SMOKING.

Smoking is regarded as a nuisance by those to whom the fragrant weed is obnoxious, but it seems to be more than that. At any rate, under the nuisance clause of the penal code of New York, the Fire Commissioner will put a stop to the smoking of pipes, cigars and cigarettes in factories. In 1910 3240 fires were caused by the carelessness of smokers, and it is estimated that the loss, to the whole country from this cause is about $100,000,000 annually. The awful fire in the New York shirt waist factory, which resulted in the loss of 146 lives was supposed to have been caused by smoking. It is believed that the Equitable building was burned from the same cause, and it is supposed that the great fire in Baltimore a few years ago was caused by a lighted cigarette thrown on the sidewalk and blown into a cellar through an uncovered hole. Certain it is, that of all people on earth, Americans are the most careless as to the way in which they know about lighted matches, cigars, cigarettes, and such things, hence a factory where rubbish and inflammable material abound is no place to allow smoking.

Buy Lots in Hazelton, B. C.

vals Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, for rapid growth; on main line of G.T.P. railroad. Send for free book about Hazelton and Central B. C. Hazelton now busy town; 24 stores, 3 banks, 2 newspapers; telephone, telegraph, municipal water system, clear streets; $500,000 business done year[illegible] past ten years; centre mining and anthracite coal district. Fruit and stock raising. Lots average $100 to $300 on easy terms. Property selling rapidly. $10 secures a good lot subject to your acceptance of one reserved for you or money refunded. Sure to get good location if order now with inquiry. Big book, photographs, map of Central B.C., free. Write for it. Give names of friends who would be interested.

310, C52, Hastings St. W., Vancouver, B. C. D1-10-2

PROOF POSITIVE

"Theorists are fools."

"Yes."

"Then we will let it go at that."

NO USE FOR GLASSES

Visit[illegible]enty-eight, and you don't [illegible] a glass yet, they tell me?"

Vi[illegible]te:—"No, miss, as I do; [illegible]ither. When I can't drink [illegible]ottle I'll drink out o' the tap—hang me if I don't!"

AN UNEXPECTED QUESTION

A lecturer on theosophy had concluded a long and careful address, and said to his attentive audience:

"If there is any question which any one of you would like to ask, I shall be pleased to answer it."

For a moment there was silence; then an earnest-looking gentleman rose and said:

"I should like to know, professor, whether anybody has ever discovered a reliable cure for warts."

A DINNER BELL(E).

PURIFYING THE WATER

Mistress:—"This water has a queer taste."

Careful Servant (who has heard much scientific conversation):—"It's all right, mum. There ain't a live germ in it, mum. I run it through the sausage machine."

HE KNEW HIS FATE

"Silas, my lad," said the grocer to his new assistant, "who bought that mouldy cheese to-day?"

"Mrs. Brown, sir," was the youth's reply.

"And the stale loaf we could not sell last night?"

"Mrs. Brown, sir."

"Where's that lump of rancid butter that the baker refused?"

"Mrs. Brown bought it, sir," was the answer.

"And the six eggs we could not sell a week since?"

"Mrs. Brown— Are you ill, sir?" asked Silas, as the grocer turned green and groaned.

"No, no! Only I'm going to tea at the Browns' to-night," replied the unhappy man, as he wiped the perspiration from his face and sank into a chair.

EITHER

Passenger:—"Which end of the car do I get off?"

Conductor:—"Whichever end you prefer; both ends stop."

EGGSTRA CAREFUL

Old Lady (to guard, before leaving a station):—"Guard, do you think we are going to have an accident?"

Guard:—"I hope not, ma'am. Why?"

Old Lady:—"Because I have got a dozen new-laid eggs with me."

THEY GOT SEATS

The excursion train was crowded, and Smithson and Wilkinson moved slowly along the platform, gazing bewilderedly into the densely-packed carriages.

"Whew! Whatever shall we do?" inquired Wilkinson, with a whistle of dismay.

Without deigning to reply, Smithson bawled out at the top of his voice:

"Great bargain sale now open at Jenkins's. Commences to-day instead of Monday. Five dollar hats at 85 cents apiece, and unshrinkable summer skirts at 60 cents."

One hundred and sixty-seven ladies simultaneously vacated the carriages and scrambled to the nearest exit, and the two male excursionists quietly selected their seats and commenced smoking.

A PUZZLE

It is rather interesting the way children associate size with age.

Looking at his feet the other day little Joe asked suddenly:

"Mother, why is one of my toes so much bigger than the others? I thought they were all the same age?"

RUNS IN THE FAMILY

"Longevity? I should say longevity did run in the family," said Mrs. Spriggins. "Why, John was six foot two, Bill was six foot four, and George had more longevity than any man I ever see. He was six foot seven, if he was a foot."

DOING THE COOKING

Friend:—"Do you find it cheaper to do your own cooking?"

Young Wife:—"Oh, yes. My husband doesn't eat nearly so much now."

INSECT POWDER

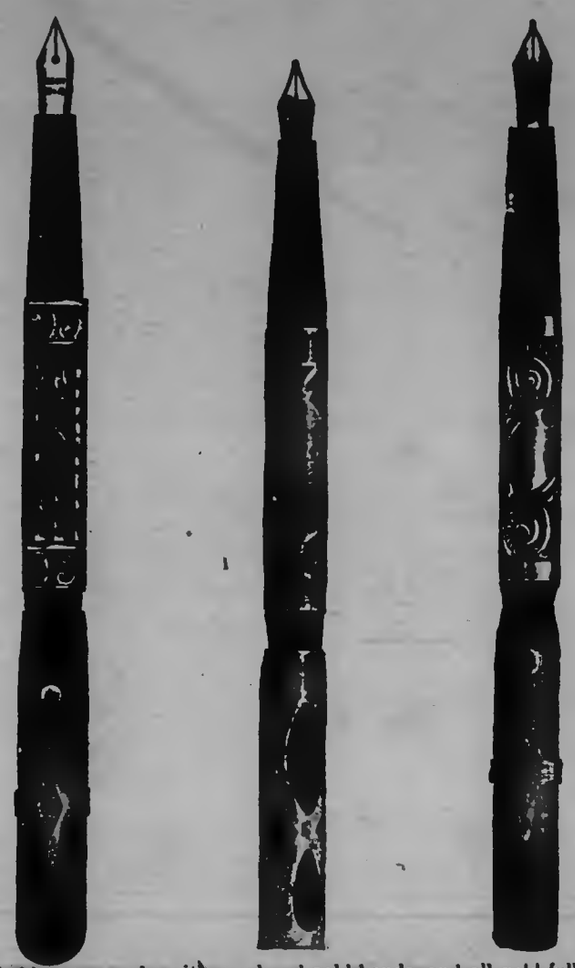
Lady:—"How shall I apply this insect powder, then?"

Chemist (absently):—"Oh, a teaspoonful after each meal!"

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens. "Safety Clip", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons cut from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.



The holders are made with pearl and gold bands, and all gold full chased, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by the makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON.

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address.....

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1885, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation.

PRESIDENT.

Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

FATHER KNEW

"My son's writing is awful, just look at this letter."

"Great Scott! However can you read it?"

"I can't. I just send him a cheque. He never writes home except to ask for money."

DEAR OLD SOUL

When Smith fell heir to that little legacy he changed his name to Smythe, and did everything in style. Not a word of protest did his mother make till the telephone appeared. Then she struck.

"Never, Albert!" she said, firmly. "Never shall one of those things come into my house!"

"But, moth—" he began.

"I wonder you dare," she went on. "Look at all those poor Hindus it killed last year! Why we might—"

A light broke over Smythe's countenance.

"That wasn't a telephone, mother! That was a typhoon!"

"Albert," said the old lady, very sternly, "don't you try to fool your poor old mother with tales like that. Typhoon, indeed! I know just as well as you do that the typhoon is the Emperor of Japan!"

HIS QUALIFICATIONS

Father:—"Well, my son, you have now got your commission, and are prepared to join your regiment and fight for the glory of our country. Do you think you have the necessary qualifications?"

Young Officer:—"Well, I should think so. I am the champion long-distance runner of our club."

YOU PAY WHEN CURED

Drs. K. & K. TAKE ALL RISKS

Cured by the New Method Treatment

NO NAMES OR PHOTOS USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

NERVOUS DEBILITY

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through Early Indiscretions, Excesses and Blood Diseases. If you have any of the following symptoms consult us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired sporadic, restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, sore throat, etc.

YOU WILL BE A WRECK

Our New Method Treatment can cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified, so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual [illegible] are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Don't [illegible] and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars. We will cure you or no pay.

EVERYTHING PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

READER: No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (Illustrated) on Sexual Diseases of Men.

QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT SENT ON REQUEST

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal for you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?

Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?

No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections (3,200 acres). You see the results of California on an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman

Sole Agents for
OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

GREATEST QUESTION

For three hours, fifty-nine minutes, and forty-five seconds Professor L. L. Lee had been lecturing upon the burning question affecting political economy.

"And now," he concluded, glancing at his chronometer, "I should just like one of the students to state concisely what he considers to be the greatest question at present occupying the minds of men in this country."

From a far corner of the auditorium, cutting the proverbial hush like the proverbial knife, came the response, clear and concise:—

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?"

CAUSE FOR REJOICING

Teacher:—"Don't you realize, Willie, that by keeping you in after school, I punish myself as well as you?"

Willie:—"Yes, teacher. That's why I don't mind it."

FINE TALKER

"I like the look of this parrot," said the lady who had stepped into the bird-shop. "Is he a good talker?" The proprietor replied that the bird was an excellent talker, and it was evident the customer was favorably impressed.

"What is your price for him?" she asked.

The man had noticed the rich apparel worn by his customer, and he judged that there was a chance to make a little "easy money" at the expense of one who would never miss it.

"Ten dollars," he said, with just the slightest possible hesitation.

"Five dollars, madam," instantly croaked the parrot.

The lady looked at the proprietor, who had turned red.

"He certainly is a fine talker," she said, "and he also seems to have good sense. I am willing to take him at his own valuation. Do I get him for that?"

"You do," answered the man sadly.

EXCUSED

Judge:—"You say you have fished with your friend week after week for three years now, yet you fought over a little fish."

Prisoner:—"Yes, your honor. It was the first one that we ever caught."

REQUEST TO HEADQUARTERS

A stationmaster at a country station, when making the usual monthly requisition for stores, amongst other things applied for a new sweeping brush.

When the goods arrived he found there was no brush among them, and on referring to the list he saw that his request for this article had been crossed out at headquarters.

The following month he made a similar application, but with the same result.

Not to be outdone, however, he then forwarded an old brush, which was absolutely devoid of hair, with the following note:

"As it seems you cannot grant me a new brush, please rub a quantity of 'hair-restorer' on the accompanying article, and return to me when it has taken effect."

NOT GUILTY

Master:—"John, my cigars seem to go very rapidly. Is it possible that you—"

Butler:—"Certainly not, sir. I have still two boxes left from my last situation. I've no need to touch yours yet, sir."

A DEAD TOOTH

An Irishman with one side of his face badly swollen stepped into Dr. Wisten's office and inquired if the dentist was in.

"I am the dentist," said the doctor. "Well, then, I want ye to see what's the matter wid me tooth."

The doctor examined the offending molar, and explained:

"The nerve is dead; that's what's the matter."

"This, be the powers!" the Irishman exclaimed, "the other tooth must be lonelin' a wake over it!"

POPULARITY OF HUNTING

Motley Crowds Assemble in England Every December.

It is a curious collection of humanity and horseflesh that is seen at the typical annual Boxing Day (every December 26) meet of hounds, writes an English correspondent. Occasionally sedate-looking followers on long-tailed blacks are actually to be found there, causing the shrewd suspicion that even undertakers make holiday at times, and it is certain that many of the awe-necked, wall-eyed, roach-backed, cow-hocked, cropper-marked animals under borrowed saddles and in makeshift, home-repaired bridles, that are brought on to the scene, spend the greater part of their lives between the shafts. Cyclists are there in their scores; pedestrians in their hundreds. Soldiers and sailors on furlough seem to emphasize the all-embracing nature of the gathering. One comes to the conclusion that Jerrocks was right when he suggested that, in the estimation of most men, to view a fox break cover is a sight more glorious than the Lord Mayor's Show; at any rate, the Boxing Day meet proves again and again, as nothing else does to quite the same extent, what an immense hold hunting has upon the affections of the people of Great Britain. The majority of masters, recognizing this fact, arrange their fixures at the most accessible parts of their countries at Christmas time, and many packs last December 26 met in the market places of the chief towns within their borders. Perhaps the most extraordinary Boxing Day meet of all is that of the Surrey Union Foxhounds at the Burford Bridge Hotel, Boxing Hill. Hunting is far from the Surrey Union country, though long threatened by the spread of bricks and mortar, and the Boxing Day meet attracts not only the people of the neighborhood in their hundreds, but vast numbers from London itself besides. This Burford Bridge fixture is a revival of an old custom, which had long lapsed before Edward Murray became joint master in 1907. Since then it has always been held on the morning following Christmas Day, and last year, in the second season of Mr. Murray's sole control, it touched the record. One could count the people by their thousands. Not only was it the largest gathering of the kind in England, but probably the best attended meet that has ever taken place in the whole history of fox-hunting.

H. T. WILSON,
one of the skips of the Granites (Toronto) tankard-winning rinks.

ENGLISH BILLIARDS

Gray, the Australian, Again Beats Stevenson, the English Champion

Amid a remarkable scene of enthusiasm George Gray, the champion of Australia, beat H. W. Stevenson, the English champion in the second "test" match at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, and having also won the first game played in London, the Australian became the winner of the "test" game, and £2,500. At the finish of the game Gray was also presented with Burroughs & Watt's cheque, £200, for the highest break, 839. The final scores were: Gray, 18,000; Stevenson, 17,239.

NO EPSOM DERBY BETTING

The Grass is to be Given a Chance to Grow..

It has been decided to close the Epsom race-course for three months in the year in order to give the grass time to recuperate. Trainers are accordingly deserting the old-time Metropolitan course. This has naturally attracted attention to the next Derby, regarding which "Scout," in The Daily Express says: "After spasmodic attempts to create a Derby market, the whole affair fell very flat, and most people will soon be too busy over the spring entries to worry about Derby betting for a while. When, however, it does come into prominence, I think that you will find Lomond hardening into a better favorite than Mr. Jack Joel's game colt, although, of course, should White Star (in preference to Absard) run in and win the Two Thousand Guineas—Lomond is not in the race—before Mr. Hulton's crack comes out as a three-year-old, the supporters of Lomond will probably be able to trade on better terms even than they could at present. Mr. Hulton certainly stated in his Gimcrack speech that Lomond would probably have several races before the Derby, but we have got to wait and see first how the conditions are at Epsom for bringing a good horse, to hand fairly early."

LACROSSE IN SASKATCHEWAN

Saskatchewan is moving for a Provincial lacrosse association.

High Priced Chief of Police.

Calgary, Alta., is advertising for a Chief of Police at $3500 per annum. This is going some, practically $300 per month. Peterborough, with as active and intelligent a Chief of Police as reasonable salary can procure would think its City Fathers were crazy should they offer such an annual salary for a similar position here. The Chief of Police has no sinecure, but when it comes to thinking of $300 a month, Peterborough has got a better article from the Police Chief bargain counter.

The Food Drink

Many people drink O'Keefe's "Special Extra Mild" Ale solely for its food properties. Being brewed of finest hops and malt, it contains all the body and brain building elements of these grains. It is because we use the best, that is so rich and creamy—so thoroughly enjoyable—as well as so nutritious and wholesome. It's "extra mild" remember, and never makes you bilious. In Crown stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's

Special Extra Mild ALE

"The Beer that is 22B always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & Co., Distributors

416 WATER STREET PHONE 61
PETERBOROUGH ONT.

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel M. Thompson, Proprietor

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, formerly of this city, but now one of Lindsay's well known citizens has, with his daughters, and a party of friends gone to Winnipeg to attend the hospital ...

FRED. LAKE, CHAMPION TRAVELER OF MAJORS

Manager Fred Lake of the Providence Club of the International League for Frank J. Navins and company, is baseball's greatest tourist, says the Detroit News. He has done more hot tooting during his 22 years actual service than any other man in the game. Briefly his record is as follows:—Starting his career on the diamond at Moncton, N.B., in 1890, Fred moved up to the Boston Nationals in 1891. After quitting Boston he was with Milwaukee and Providence in 1895; Wilkesbarre, 1893-4; Toronto, 1895; Kansas City, 1904; Nashua and Lynn 1905; Little Rock, 1906; Boston Americans, 1906; Boston Nationals, 1910; St. Louis Americans, 1911; and Providence, 1912.

JERRY EDMUNDS,
a ball player who has made good in the Western Canadian League, and is ripe for ... company this year.

AN ECONOMICAL TIP.

Candles will last double the usual time if treated in the following way: Take each candle by the wick and give it a good coating of white varnish. Put the candles away for a day or two to let them harden. The varnish prevents the grease from running down, and so prolongs the life of the candle.

WHEN WASHING CURTAINS.

Those who wash their own lace curtains know how difficult it is to keep the edges straight. A good plan is to tack a piece of broad tape along each outer edge before putting them in the water, and let it remain on till the curtains are washed and ironed. By this means the edges are kept straight and even.

BOUGHT AN ONTARIO FARM

Dr. John Standish, of the staff of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, after looking over many farms for a home in the Province of Ontario, purchased a fine 200-acre farm in the township of Esquesing, county of Halton, 2½ miles from Georgetown.

Regiment to a Menagerie

Banishment from the regiment to a menagerie has been the fate of the Himalayan bear, the pet of the 2nd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, as the result of ... his keeper, and then escaped.

TRAIN JAPAN'S ATHLETES

A. J. Flanagan Will Have Charge of the Oriental Athletes

John J. Flanagan, the famous athlete and hammer thrower of the Irish-American Club, New York, who has now made his home in Ireland, has accepted an offer from the Japanese Government to go out to the East for the purpose of training a contingent of Japanese athletes who have been mustered to go to Stockholm this year to compete in the great Olympiad.

The big Irishman has refused remunerative offers to train the English contingent, who feel they could learn much from a man with such American experience, and though he has not divulged the reason, it is understood he is not sufficiently enamored of the British to desire to aid them. It is presumed that the friction which was such an unpleasant feature of the English Olympiad in 1908— when the English and Americans came into conflict—has had much to do with Flanagan's attitude.

To the square mile in the United Kingdom there were 373 persons; in Canada and Newfoundland, 1.99.

Motor vehicles to the total of 120 000 were in use in the United Kingdom, the number of licensed drivers being 200,000.

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY FOREMOST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always. Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

DOLLS — TRAINS — HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a Specialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

STRIKING LIFE OF LAFAYETTE

The Great Entertainer Who Was Killed in the Empire Theatre Fire, Edinburgh

From poorly-paid bank clerk to one of the world's foremost entertainers, drawing a salary of $300,000 a year, such in brief is the record of the "Great Lafayette," who was killed in the Empire Theatre fire in Edinburgh.

He was born in Los Angeles, and even as a boy he showed a marked partiality for music and art. He was sent to Munich to study, which he did not do very conscientiously, but he performed a good deal at smoking concerts, getting a vast amount of experience that in later days was of the utmost value to him.

When he returned to America he went into a San Francisco bank, but still clung, as an amateur, to entertaining in his spare time. He did almost anything, singing, reciting, imitating, and playing all sorts of musical instruments.

Having saved a little money he left home determined to make a music-hall career for himself, though his parents told him that he would be home in a month without a penny in his pocket. He got his first engagement at Spokane Falls at a fee of $10 a week, but not at a music hall. Lafayette's part in the programme was to make caricatures of American celebrities and bang a big drum while teeth were extracted. His salary was soon raised, but he left that business and became an actor in a regular theatre.

In New Orleans he saved $5,000, and this was the starting point of his brilliant career. Chicago was the first big city he took by storm. New York followed, and when there, six years ago, he was being paid $25,000 for a twenty-three weeks' engagement.

Lafayette's first appearance in London was at the Hippodrome, under Mr. Stoll's management, in 1909. His turn, which lasted over an hour, consisted of conjuring tricks, characteristic, acting, conducting, illusions, impersonations, and wonderful scenic effects, an absolute unique act.

Wonderful Illusions

Lafayette was a clever modeller of clay, and this accomplishment, as well as that of painting, entered into the scheme of his great "entertainment offering," as his "show" was billed in the country of his birth. In the second part of his programme we found him at work on a model of "Leda and the Swan," bringing them into shape with extraordinary rapidity, but by the actual process of the sculptor; and then, in some mysterious fashion, disposing of his work in a flash, and revealing to our astonished eyes a living Leda mounted amid cascades of scintillating waters from the fountain of Isis.

His "mysteries," though they dealt with the appearance and the disappearance of a man or a woman under amazing circumstances, were very different to those of the ordinary illusionist. They were magnificently spectacular, and often given in dramatic form. His last illusion [illegible] was a romance in Oriental setting, wherein a noble young Persian prince rescued a captive maid from a lion's den, which she had preferred to the harem of a terrible pasha.

It was called "The Lion's Bride," and its mysteries and quick changes and perplexing dodgeries were performed by Lafayette amid gorgeous and most elaborate scenery, with slaves, soldiers, guards of the harem, eunuchs, and all the human paraphernalia of Oriental high officialism, filling the stage as in some play of importance.

Of late years Lafayette added to his knowledge of the technicalities of instrumentation, and succeeded in becoming a composer for both orchestral and military bands of scores of no mean order.

Belief in Advertising

He was an extraordinary man for detail, and when away from London he would send no fewer than from twenty-five to thirty telegrams a day to his agents. He was extremely particular about his contracts, and would never attach his name to a paper until he had carefully considered its whole meaning and gone into every phase of it.

One of the great secrets of his success was his belief in advertising. He spent thousands of dollars yearly in exploiting himself, and as one London theatre manager said, "Some of his ideas were enough to scare the average advertiser."

Although not reckless with his finances, he spent large sums when he foresaw that they would return him tenfold. He was particularly extravagant in the selection of his scenery and other paraphernalia, and most of it was built to order after his own design.

It is stated that he had paid at least $10,000 for his famous lion, and that his scenery, curtains, etc., were valued at about $50,000.

It is related of him that when he was still a struggling performer, he asked a certain manager $50 a week and was promptly refused. He told the manager he would make him one day pay him the biggest fee in his record. A few years later he refused a fee of $1,250 at that very house

CONSERVING VITALITY

Taking Care of Men Means Maximum of Results With Minimum of Effort.

What has long been considered one of the most important principles in the realm of mechanical and engineering science is finally beginning to be looked upon as an equally vital principle in the realm of human development. This is the conservation of energy. The best thinkers and the greatest leaders in the industrial world are awakening to a realization of the fact that it pays not only to take care of machinery but also to take care of men. And taking care of a man means giving him the right chance and the right instruction to produce the maximum of results with the minimum of effort — to use to the best advantage what energy he uses, and to conserve his energy in such a way that it will not be taxed unduly. Further, to protect employees from greedy and cruel employers who drive a man to death because it is easy to get another one to take his place, we are continually passing more and more stringent laws regulating hours of labor, conditions in which people work in various establishments, the employment of women and children, and other common factors in industry of different kinds. In other words, we are coming to see that we can not afford to waste humanity any more than we can afford to waste our forests or any of our natural resources. Happily, too, we are going still further along this line of human conservation, and are making extensive provisions of a practical sort for the preservation of health through simple, natural, healthful manners of living. We are striving to interest everybody in the value of fresh air, wholesome food, proper exercise, bathing and other health-building factors, and we are striving also to give everybody a chance to take advantage of all these things. The greatest movement of all the ages is this new movement for conserving human vitality.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

ESTABLISHED 1874.

Deposits Nov. 30, 1906	$17,000,257
Deposits Nov. 30, 1910	$32,418,446
Increase in Five Years	$14,418,178

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT

is an incentive to save. $1.00 or upward opens an Account, interest compounded half-yearly.

Peterborough Branch, George Street

G. C. WAINWRIGHT, Manager

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

THE BLOOD AND THE BRAIN

To Get the Best Brain Work the Blood Must be Maintained in Healthy Condition.

As all brain action is dependent upon the blood that is the heart action we frequently look for an explanation of unhealthy mental conditions in the state of the blood. Unusually low blood pressure is generally associated with the mental states characterising brain-fag, neurasthenia, etc.; anaemia or poorness of the blood quality will produce also mental incapacity and dulness; a man whose blood is not healthy cannot be alert and decisive. Bad food combinations such as cheese and tea together) and incorrect eating are responsible for quite more than indigestion, serious as that is in itself. It is by such mistakes that the blood is rendered less suitable to all the organs of the body, including of course the brain. The powers of memory are directly [illegible] and upon good and condition [illegible] Again gorous brain [illegible] largely upon the regular and speedy elimination of the waste products of the body; if these do not get out by way of the bowels and kidneys they are taken into the blood, and this, fouled as it is, is yet sent by the wonderful pumping mechanism of the heart to the remotest corner of body and brain. Simple food, plenty of water to drink between meals, fresh air by night and day, regular exercise and deep breathing will keep the blood at its best, and that in its turn will do good work for the brain.

The Latest in Guns

During the recent extended manoeuvres of the German army there were many night attacks, in which use was made of the newly-introduced illuminating pistols. According to the new regulations, these are to be employed wherever the configuration of the land makes their use preferable to that of the ordinary searchlight. The machinery necessary for the use of the latter device is very inconvenient, and especially in rolling and otherwise difficult country, where the main manoeuvres take place, it cannot be used to advantage. The illuminating pistols have not this disadvantage, as they are easily transported. Further, the searchlight is useless in valleys and deep-lying plains, as their rays shoot over these and leave them apparently in still deeper shadow. For this reason, such valleys serve as excellent covers at night against the searchlights. The illuminating pistols have done away with this advantage of shelter, as the cartridges which they throw light up the deepest and darkest gulleys. There are two different sorts of cartridges, producing respectively white and red light. The white ones serve exclusively for illuminating the country, the red ones for signalling purposes between widely separated commands or divisions, even where the distance between them is several miles. The illuminating cartridges develop a light that makes everything within 650 feet visible, and lasts eight to ten [illegible]

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Flying Machine Patented in 1854

In the year 1854, the Earl of Aldborough, one of the most enthusiastic promotors of aviation of his time, patented in Great Britain a flying machine embodying a multitude of ideas more or less practical, and among his many suggestions, describes an aeronautical anchor of peculiar form, evidently the result of an investigation of the anatomy of a bird's foot, and which he describes in the following terms: "I prefer forming the grapnels with flukes, attached to the stem by joints, and pressed downward by springs in such manner that the flukes shall strike downward when liberated, in a manner bearing a certain resemblance to the talons of a bird, separate cords being attached to each of the flukes, and all these being collected in a small sheath, and so arranged that the flukes can be raised, or permitted to spring downward by either fixing those cords in any convenient way, or letting them go when it is desired that the flukes shall act so as to enter the ground or seize any object." Apparently not satisfied with this device, he further perfected it in a patent of somewhat later date, wherein he describes a steel-sheathed cable for supporting the anchor, the cable being provided with a device for lessening the effect of sudden shocks, this latter feature being of very common use in marine navigation, being known in that art under the name of "shock-absorbers."

PUBLIC OWNED TELEGRAPHS.

In presenting his resolution in the House of Commons for the appointment of a commission to investigate the advisability of nationalizing telegraphs, telephones and cables, Mr. J. E. Armstrong of East Lambton expressed very clearly and forcefully his arguments in favor of governmental control of these public utilities. The attitude of the government towards this resolution quite as clearly evidenced a healthy disposition to encourage independent thought among members of Parliament. The government is not undertaking to keep its following in a position of servility or confirming their activities in the House to the orders of the party whips. This is a refreshing tendency which was resolutely suppressed by the late government.

The nationalizing of telegraphs and telephones involves a stupendous responsibility and task, but the government gave a willing and courteous ear to Mr. Armstrong's proposal, indicating a disposition to consider the question from every standpoint. The Winnipeg Telegram thinks that it is unfortunate that little has been done in the direction of nationalizing these public utilities. It may be recalled that Sir William Mulock, when postmaster-general, took this matter up, but the government of that day was subject to many entanglements, and he was forced to abandon his efforts. It is commonly supposed that this was the reason for his retirement from the government. The attitude of the late government was not such as to encourage any further attempts in this direction.

The nationalization of a public utility which has reached the magnitude of the Canadian system of telegraphs is a tremendous task, but the people may rest assured that its feasibility will find sympathetic consideration at the hands of the Borden government.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10 00 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and it you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 807 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
3—Scanty or excessive flow of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Brick dust deposit.
6—Gravel in the kidneys.
7—Catarrh of the bladder.
8—Pain or soreness in the urethra.
9—Frequent headaches.
10—Nervousness.
11—Dizziness.
12—Sediment in the urine.
13—Pain in the small of the back.
14—Pain in the groin.
15—Pain in the thighs.
16—Pain in the muscles.
17—Pain in the joints.
18—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
19—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
20—Inflammation of the bladder.
21—Pain and burning in passing.
22—Aversion or distaste for society.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, discharges from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To experiment is dangerous. Big G, used according to directions, will [illegible] prevent [illegible] and complications. Sold by druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of [illegible] cents, plain wrapper, or [illegible] dozen bottles, $2.75. Why not cure yourself quickly? Don't keep paying, as we think someone [illegible] Full pamphlet enclosed with each bottle or mailed sealed in plain envelope on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package often proves greatest economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL George St. PETERBORO
H. A. MIDDLETON Agent. LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

STEPHEN OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment

Agency and

REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100. EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 190 Simcoe Street

Next Kiegan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

30,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

TRAIN JAPAN'S ATHLETES

J. J. Flanagan Will Have Charge of the Oriental Athletes

John J. Flanagan, the famous athlete and hammer thrower of the Irish-American Club, New York, who has now made his home in Ireland, has accepted an offer from the Japanese Government to go out to the East for the purpose of training a contingent of Japanese athletes who have been mustered to go to Stockholm this year to compete in the great Olympiad.

The big Irishman has refused remunerative offers to train the English contingent, who feel they could learn much from a man with such American experience, and though he has not divulged the reason, it is understood he is not sufficiently enamored of the British to desire to aid them. It is presumed that the friction which was such an unpleasant feature of the English Olympiad in 1908— when the English and Americans came into conflict—has had much to do with Flanagan's attitude.

To the square mile in the United Kingdom there were 372 persons; in Canada and Newfoundland, 1.99.

Motor vehicles to the total of 120,000 were in use in the United Kingdom, the number of licensed drivers being 200,000.

Lakefield Pastor Promoted.

The Kingston Daily Standard notes that the congregation of St. John's church, Brockville, Ont., has extended a unanimous call to Rev. S. S. Burns, formerly pastor of the Methodist church in Lakefield. Whilst his former parishioners in Lakefield will be sorry to lose his services, the reverend gentleman might be congratulated on his promotion to a larger sphere of action.

It seems that the farmers of Masvere, notwithstanding the high price city folk pay for produce, are not all millionaires. In fact it is rumored that some of them have had to borrow money to see them through till next spring.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co

OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 219. 579½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, B. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, E. A. Peck, E. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. M. R. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.

SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.

OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 462, House 188.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery..... bearings ....

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

HOUSEMAID'S TIDY.

Buy two margarine tubs at the grocer's—they will cost four cents each—fit one in the other, cut the inner tub two inches higher than the outside one; divide into two compartments with a piece of board; and cut a slot in the centre of the wood for lifting the tray. Take off the handle of an old bucket, and screw it on each side of the outer tub. The outer one is used for ashes, and the top one for keeping blacklead, brushes, stove polish, etc. At the shops these tidies usually cost fifty cents each; if made at home, eight cents, and they will last quite a long while.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Should you be unfortunate enough to have wine spilt on table linen, cover the stains immediately with salt, and afterwards wash out in cold water.

Should stains refuse to come out, cover them with a paste made of lemon-juice and salt. Leave to dry and then rinse in cold water.

HOME-MADE SWEETS.

Take one tin of Swiss milk, four ounces of fresh butter, two pounds of Demerara sugar, and twelve dessert-spoonfuls of water. Melt the butter and sugar in a saucepan, then add the milk and water, and boil for an hour, stirring all the time. Flavour with vanilla. Pour on to a buttered slab, and when nearly cold cut into squares.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

A clean tablecloth will last much longer so if, when no visitors are present, a small cloth is placed over it in front of each person. These cloths will catch all stains, and can be easily washed.

FADED CARPETS.

To restore the colour of a faded carpet, first of all brush it well all over, then rub it with a cloth wrung out of water to which a little ammonia and salt have been added. This revives the colours wonderfully, and the carpet beautifully fresh looking.

A BAKER'S HINT.

When putting dough, for bread or teacakes, to rise in a warm place, a skin always forms on the top, which prevents yeasted goods rising properly. To prevent this, instead of covering the pan with a dry cloth, put on a damp one, and the result will surprise you.

TO PEEL ONIONS.

If onions are peeled from the root upwards they will not make the eyes smart.

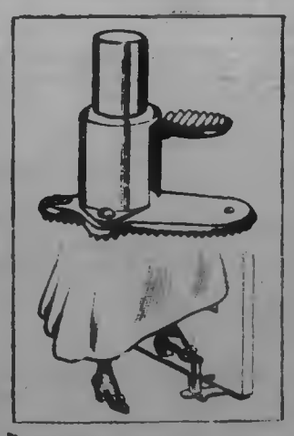
QUAINT AFTERNOON COSTUME

A quaint, but effective, afternoon costume of black dotted gray taffeta. The quaint feature, however, is the coat-like bodice, of plain black silk, with long tails, the latter lined with plain gray silk. The fulness at back is caught at waist line in a square buckle of cut steel. Short sleeves are finished with a quilling of black silk.

HANDY DOOR HOLDER

Not Attached to Door or Floor and Can be Used Anywhere.

A most ingenious device is the portable doorholder designed by a Massachusetts man. It is not attached to either the door or the floor and can be used on any door. The apparatus is of metal, with a rubber-padded base and the projection that extends from the side is padded with rubber above. This prevents scratching of woodwork and gives a firmer hold. The projecting piece is fastened to a plunger, which works on a strong spring. The device is placed at the bottom of a door and the plunger pressed down with the foot until the projection can be inserted under the door. The foot is then removed and the pressure of the spring pushes up against the door and down against the floor and holds the former open at any width desired, thus doing away with any slamming or squeaking. One of these holders can be used all over the house and for hotels and public institutions guards and against theft.



PRESSURE DOES THE WORK.

The Value of Nettles.

A safe natural specimen is a soup made from sorrel and seasoned with pepper. Sorrel is a health-giving, laxative vegetable, and it is a great pity that its wholesome properties are so little known in this country. Our neighbors across the Channel appreciate the various uses of sorrel at their full value, and use it in the making of many excellent dishes.

NATURE'S DISPENSARY

Simple Remedies That Are Within the Reach of Everybody.

The despised dandelion, for instance, provides us with both food and physic. A toothsome salad may be prepared from the leaves, if gathered when young and tender, and chopped up with oil and vinegar; and an excellent laxative is extracted, in the form of taraxacum, from the roots of this herb.

The cup of the cowslip, another common object of the meadow, contains a healing fluid, and may be chewed with results which are very beneficial to a sore throat.

A handful of violet leaves, boiled in half a pint of water, produces a panacea for coughs of all kinds, the dose being three or four tablespoonfuls every two hours. It is specially efficacious in the case of whooping-cough, and may also be used as a gargle for a sore throat.

Food, medicine, hair-wash, tea—all these are held at our disposal by the lowly nettle, and yet it would be safe to say that ninety-nine people out of every hundred are in blissful ignorance of the fact.

The tender green shoots make quite an excellent substitute for spinach, and a most wholesome dish during the summer. The roots, well boiled, and the liquor strained, provide a liquid well charged with blood-cleansing properties, and are most efficacious for removing those disfiguring eruptions which are wont to make their unwelcome appearance during the periods of excessive heat.

Then it is worth remembering that tea made from dried nettle-leaves may be used in winter with effects beneficial to the pulmonary organs. The water in which nettle-leaves have been boiled makes an excellent hair-wash.

Mint and Sage.

Tea brewed from the leaves of mint is a first-class cure for stomachic troubles; it also relieves palpitation of the heart, and clears the complexion. A cupful should be taken on rising in the morning. If mixed with vinegar, it will be found to cure violent retching.

Sage is not only splendid for the liver, but tea made from its leaves, and used in the bathing of wounds, will be found greatly to assist the healing process.

Strawberries are very effective for clearing the blood, and have the merit of not being altogether disagreeable to take. A daily course of this cheap and delicious fruit will speedily cause unsightly spots and blotches on the skin to vanish. They may be taken with advantage by martyrs to liver complaint, and a wholesome and tea may be made from the leaves.

Improving the Complexion.

Apples, too, are extremely beneficial to the system in more ways than one. The amount of phosphorous they contain makes them valuable as a brain-food; gouty and liverish persons may also derive much good from their consumption. An apple every morning will be found to improve the complexion very considerably, and the free use of this fruit will frequently stave off an attack of laundice.

[illegible] a powerful and effective remedy in cases of diarrhoea and dysentery. The dose is a few drops, given on a lump of sugar.

No doubt many make painfully close acquaintance with the business end of a wasp; in which case, remove the sting with a pair of tweezers, and then rub the small wound which has been made by the sting with a raw onion. Relief will be almost instantaneous.

These are only a few of the many simple remedies contained in every field and garden, and a knowledge of them will be found almost invaluable.

UPSIDEDOWN PIE.

Cut some beef steak into small pieces, add pepper and salt, and stew it with as little water as possible for one and a half hours, then thicken and brown the gravy. While the steak is cooking, make some dripping pastry, roll it out half an inch thick, lay it on an ordinary china meat-dish, make a wall round the edge by pressing it between the thumb and fingers, and bake well. When done, put the cooked meat on to the pastry, and serve very hot.

PERSIAN LAMB AND SILVER FOX

One of the novelty coats shown this season is made of Persian Lamb and trimmed with jet buttons and belt. Collar and cuffs are of silver fox.

Separate School Trustees.

The separate school, No. 8, Otonabee, as represented by its trustees, night before last nominated trustees Messrs. Michael O'Toole, Patrick Sullivan and John Hefferman were elected. The meeting was at the residence of Mr. S. F. Redmond. Notices had been posted in the section announcing this meeting for the inauguration of the new board and all the other requirements of the School Act had been complied with. Mr. John Carey was appointed chairman of the meeting. The preliminary work has thus been completed and there remains the sending of the application to the Department.

"NOTHING" NEW

Recent Happenings That are Mere Repetitions

That history repeats itself may be a trite remark, but, all the same, is a very true one. Take the burning question of woman's suffrage.

In a museum at Cracow may be seen to-day a document bearing a seventeenth-century date, which is headed the "Young Women's Petition." It was presented to the Polish Parliament summoned by King Ladislaus, and bears the official mark.

While the framers of this petition do not actually ask for the vote, they make no fewer than twenty-five separate requests, each bearing upon various aspects of women's rights. The petition begins by pointing out that Polish young men spend far too much time in courting. The women request that a fine of a thousand crowns may be inflicted upon any young man who fails to marry the maid he is courting by the June following the commencement of the courtship. Another clause demands that all men shall by law be forced to marry at or before the age of thirty.

Most folk imagine that arbitration and disarmament are purely the outcome of twentieth-century civilisation, but the fact is that the desire for universal peace is no new thing. Eighteen hundred and seventy years ago a temple to Peace was dedicated in Rome; and, to come to more modern times, the Congress of Vienna in the year 1814 seriously discussed a general limitation of armaments and a preliminary agreement was drawn up, by which France and Prussia and Austria pledged themselves not to increase their armies beyond a certain point.

Two years later, in 1816, a Peace Society was formed, which held annual meetings, and many people really believed that an era of universal peace was dawning upon the world.

Even the harem skirt is no novelty. In 1849 Mrs. Amelia Jenks Bloomer, an American woman, introduced the trouser costume which bore her name. It consisted of "an open-fronted jacket and loose trousers, the latter wide like those of the Turks, but gathered in at the ankles." The Bloomer dress was seen a good deal in the West East of London in 1851, but caused trouble, just as the harem skirt has.

TAKE THE TIME

Learn How to Live Well; the Real Purpose of Our Being Here

Take time to enjoy the flowers that are all about you at this season of the year. The Great Lover of us all must love flowers Himself, and must want us to love them, too; for He has scattered them everywhere with a free hand. Look at them often; take in their sweet perfume, let them help you to think beautiful thoughts. Then they will not have been made in vain.

Take time to care for the trees. There is something grand about trees. To be with them, to read them and to [illegible] better. If the great educational life of the farm, be sure to include a course in tree culture.

Take time to learn all you can about the living creatures that depend upon you for their very life. Not simply because these friends of the field are able to do something for you, but for the better reason that they, too, are creatures of His thought and therefore worthy of every kindness you may bestow upon them.

Take time to know men. Pope was right when he said, "The proper study of mankind is man." Get close to all the good men and women you can. Serve them with a good pure heart, and your own life will be the broader and the better for it.

Take time to live. This is the real purpose of our coming here—to learn how to live well. Calmly, earnestly, patiently, go on from day to day, and so build a life which will last through the ages.—Farm Journal.

SONG-BIRDS FOR GOURMETS

Huge Numbers of Larks Find a Market in London

A recent prosecution in Norfolk has thrown some light on the trade in larks for London. A farmer was fined for laying down grain poisoned with strychnine for the purpose of catching larks, which would afterwards appear on the tables of epicures.

This man sent seventy-seven dozen larks to London in three weeks, the price being 30 cents the dozen. It has been said that between January and March 40,000 larks arrive in Leadenhall Market every day!

Those who consider pigeon-pie a delicacy may be interested to learn that the birds are often cruelly treated before they appear in the poulterers shops. Some 10,000 are annually brought to London from Italy.

They are taken when quite young, and packed in crates containing eighty to a hundred, arriving in Paris two days later. Twelve hours later they continue their journey, and reach London after travelling two days and three nights, a very large number of them dying on the way.

Quails are also packed in crates in the same cruel way, attention having been frequently called to the scandal. Then there is a certain amount of cruelty in catching plovers, and those whose business it is to carry on the trade have been prosecuted more than once, although the number of convictions have been few.

His Big Salary

Mr. John Hays Hammond, America's special representative for the Coronation, was at one time the highest-salaried man in the world. He was paid $500,000 a year for acting as chief consulting engineer to a big American railway.

Pat Pension This

Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., who still practises at the age of seventy, refused a judgeship in 1897, an appointment which would now entitle him to a pension of $20,000 a year.

High Priced Chief of Police.

Calgary, Alta., is advertising for a Chief of Police at $3500 per annum. This is going some, practically $300 per month. Peterborough, with as active and intelligent a Chief of Police as reasonable salary can procure would think its City Fathers were crazy should they offer such an annual salary for a similar position here. The Chief of Police has no sinecure, but when it comes to thinking of $300 a month, Peterborough has got a better article from the Police Chief bargain counter.

DR. SOPER DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.24 a.m.	8.35 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	9.30 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m.
	5.30 p.m.	11.00 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	7.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.35 a.m.
	10.15 p.m.	5.30 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	5.30 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
	5.35 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	9.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m.
	7.07 p.m.
	12.10 a.m.
	1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	5.35 a.m.
	1.51 a.m.
Barberton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.07 a.m.
	6.20 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

George St. Anniversary.

On Sunday George St. Church will hold their Sunday School Anniversary. At 11 a.m., Rev. Mr. Pogue, of St. Paul's Church will preach to a mass meeting of the scholars, teachers, officers and parents. In the evening the pastor will preach and endeavor to remove some misconceptions that many people have as to the religious life. Special singing. All welcome. This should be a helpful day to those who attend the services.

SMITH.

The roads in this township are very many just now owing to the constant fall of snow and drifting.

Mr. P. Donaldson of this neighborhood, is leaving to locate on a farm he has purchased in Otonabee.

Mrs. Jos. Rosborough and her son Gilbert, spent last week in Port Hope, guests of Mr. Trenbeth, and report having had a most enjoyable visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fowler spent Tuesday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mackey, Otonabee.

Surprise parties are now all the fashion around here and help to make things enjoyable.

WEST BELMONT.

A number of people from this vicinity attended the Forester's ball in Norwood on Friday evening.

Messrs. Wm. Gardener of South Dummer, Harry Gardener of Killarney, and Geo. Rodgers of this place, spent Sunday last at the home of Mr. A. Buchanan.

Miss Olive McConnell of Campbellford, spent the week-end at her home here.

Mrs. J. McKay was a guest at the home of Mr. Samuel Thompson, one day last week.

A number of people from this vicinity journeyed to Donegal last Friday evening, where they were entertained at the home of Mr. Samuel Buck.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott were in Peterborough on Saturday.

A New Bank for Norwood.

The Bank of Toronto has opened a branch at Norwood, under temporary management of Mr. P. J. Wright, of Havelock. This latest addition to Norwood's business system is located in the premises lately occupied by Mr. John Hendren and previously occupied by Mr. Walter Girvan, opposite the Methodist church property. This is but a temporary location, it being intended that in the spring a new and suitable building shall be erected in some convenient place.

Lakefield Fire Inquest.

The inquest into the recent fire of the former Tate-Lillicrap mill at Lakefield was held in Lakefield a few days ago. The inquest was conducted by Coroner Dr. Burges. Mr. Langley acted for the village and Mr. Ruddy of the city, for the Siemens Co., who recently purchased the property. It will be remembered that the entire mill, except the boiler and engine house were destroyed. There was an insurance of $10,000 on the property. Whilst the inquest seemed to demonstrate that the fire was of incendiary nature, none of the evidence adduced went towards locating the actual perpetrator of the deed

We Congratulate Lindsay.

The Lindsay Warder, referring to a notice we had, a few days ago, concerning the Winter Carnival of that town says: "Peterborough jealous of Lindsay's big Carnival." No, dear G., you mistook our meaning. The Times intended and does now, congratulate Lindsay on her enterprise. We distinctly said, "What is the matter with Peterborough getting up some such event." Lindsay deserves credit for her enterprise and it is to be hoped this city may do something similar to draw strangers and incidentally their loose change to Peterborough.

Lakefield Musicians at Point.

About thirty members of the congregation of St. Johns Church, Lakefield, drove out to Young's Point last night to give a rendition of the cantata recently rendered in the former village. The program also included some interesting musical numbers. Those who went out reported at a late hour on their return home, that whilst the drive was somewhat cold, a very enjoyable time was

A Great Change in Temperature.

Did you watch the thermometer yesterday morning? At 7.45 the mercury registered 16 below zero; at 9 a.m. it had climbed to 14 above or a difference of 30 degrees inside of two hours. One local gentleman remarked, in this connection, that "the thermometer was rising almost as quickly as the taxation of Peterborough."

This rapid change of temperature reminds us of a letter received here last week from a former local lady now residing in Alaska. This lady noted that within One Week the thermometer at her place of abode, some 60 miles from Calgary, had changed from 45 below zero to 70 above. To people living in Ontario such a tremendous change seems almost incredible; still the authority from which this news was received is beyond question.

Local Pastor at Port Hope.

Port Hope Guide: The 43rd anniversary of St. Johns Church will be celebrated on Sunday, Feb. 11th. [illegible] Rev. Dr. Pomeroy at both services will be the Rev. H. B. Gerrie, M.A., of Peterborough.

Big Hearted Boniface.

An Atlantic City, N.J., hotel-keeper recently celebrated his 78th birthday by giving a dinner to a number of friends. To each of those present he presented a brand new $100 bill. This boniface says he intends to repeat this act on every anniversary of his natal day. Why not put our Industrial Commissioners' staff, if these be such, or our Board of Trade, on this hotelman's trail and induce him to come to Peterborough. He could be certain of a cordial welcome and a reception by the combined bands of the town.

Scotch Curlers Temperate.

When the Scotch curlers were in Montreal much surprise was expressed over the fact that all of them except five were abstainers. By the time they reached Toronto they were is to be hoped that this was caused more by the prevailing temperance sentiment so apparently prevalent in Canada rather than a result of the kind of fire-water so often handed out in this country. Time will tell.

Good Concert at St. Andrew's.

Last night a large and representative audience gathered at St. Andrew's Church, who thoroughly enjoyed a splendid program presented by the Royal English Hand Bell Ringers. The company comprised nine men, all artists in their respective lines. The program included some good vocal music, a quartette, tenor and alto singers, contributing to the enjoyment of all. The committee in charge of the entertainment did excellent work and were instrumental in affording a musical treat to several hundreds who were present. The ladies of the Committee comprised Mesdames J. Moore, G. Lang, J. John and Wareham.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Last night the Bellegrhem Ambulance met the 8.55 G.T.R. train and took a patient to Nicholl's Hospital. Dr. Frederick attended the man who was suffering with a sore foot.

Whilst men were digging a sewer trench on Gilmour street yesterday, [illegible] was found at a depth of four feet.

The Ladies Library Society of St. Peter's T. A. S., met last night in St Alphonsus Lyceum.

It was 13 degrees below zero at Springville yesterday.

A report from the far West of Canada deplores a shortage of cars. A local citizen, living near Auburn, made a similar complaint whilst standing at George and Hunter Sts. last night, as he shivered and had his mind on his quarters and fixings when he should get home.

The Oriental Rotunda and bar were crowded last night prior to the game by fans looking for the Cobourg team. Our local sportsmen in a tone of disgust said to a Times representative "I have $100 with me and I cannot get a bet up on the game.

A Kingston hen has laid an egg eight inches long by seven inches round the centre. The egg weighs 4½ ounces. If Peterborough hens would only follow this example we could afford to pay present prices for hen-fruit.

Natural Cure for Catarrh Obviates Taking Drugs

IT HAS SUPERSEDED THE OLD-FASHIONED STOMACH-DOSING REMEDIES, AND INVARIABLY CURES QUICKLY.

It was their inability to reach the real source of catarrh and bronchitis that caused the medical profession to drop liquid cough mediences and adopt "Catarrhozone" instead. Catarrhozone provides a method of breathing right into the lungs certain rare medicinal vapors which are so healing and comforting as to entirely banish coughs, catarrh and throat trouble in a very short time.

The most wonderful thing about Catarrhozone is, that no matter where the germs of bronchitis or catarrh are hidden, Catarrhozone will reach and destroy them.

"About five years ago I took a cold in the head and Catarrh set in. It kept increasing by leaps and bounds. I kept putting off getting anything until at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, Catarrhozone, and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhozone to all who have catarrh, etc.

"(Signed) Everton L. Wassan.

"Blair P.O., Queen's Co., N.B."

Catarrhozone has made an astonishing record of cures. Its method is right; no drugs; just healing balsamic vapors, that bring instant relief to Catarrh and all throat, bronchial and chest colds. Get the large size, lasts months, is sure to cure you, price $1.00; smaller size 50c; sample or trial size, 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

CHURCH NOTICES

Announcements Under This Heading Will be Inserted Free of Charge on Saturdays.

ALL SAINTS.

Fourth Sunday after Epiphany.
3 p.m.—Sunday School.
11 a.m.—Morning Prayer and sermon.
7 p.m.—Evening prayer and sermon
Special Xmas music at both services.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., Rector.

Sexagesima Sunday, 8.30 a.m.—Holy Communion. Corporate Communion of the Young Men.
10 a.m.—Holy Baptism.
11 a.m.—Morning Prayer and Sermon.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.
7 p.m.—Evening Prayer and Sermon. The second special sermon to young men and young women subject: "Influence."

Canon Morley of St. Alban's Cathedral, Toronto, will preach in the morning, and the rector in the evening. All seats free.

Confirmation classes on Monday at 4.30 for boys and girls, at 8 for adults.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.
Rev. Canon Davidson, Rector.

Fourth Sunday after Epiphany.
8.20 and 12 a.m.—Holy Communion
Morning prayer and sermon at 11 a.m.
Evening prayer, 7 p.m.
Special Xmas music at both services.

MARK ST. METHODIST.
Rev. C. E. Clegg, B.A., B.D.

11 a.m.—Subject, Church Union. Will all the members and adherents make a special effort to be present.
2.45 p.m.—The Sunday School. Dr. Middleton, Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Mitchett. Bible classes in the auditorium of the church.
7 p.m.—A special service for young men.

GEORGE ST. METHODIST.
Rev. Isaac Couch, M.A., B.D.

Sunday School Anniversary.
11 a.m.—Rev. R. Pogue.
7 p.m.—The pastor, subject, "The Spirit and The Sphere of Religion." Special singing. All welcome.

MURRAY ST. BAPTIST CHURCH.
Rev. J. R. Webb, Pastor.

Residence, 194 London St.
Sunday, February 4th, 1912.
11 a.m.—The pastor will preach.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible classes.
7 p.m.—The pastor will preach.
All seats free.

SALVATION ARMY.

Ensign Merritt, officer in charge.
10 a.m.—Children's class.
11 a.m.—Morning Worship.
2 p.m.—Sunday School
3 p.m.—Free and easy meeting.
7 p.m.—Gospel Meeting.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST.
378 Aylmer Street.

Services as follows:—
Sunday, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
Sunday school 12.15 p.m.
Wednesday, 8 p.m., testimony meeting.
A free reading room open Monday, Wednesday and Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN.
Rev. R. Pogue, pastor.

10 a.m.—Young Men's Bible class.
10 a.m.—Adult Bible class, taught by Inspector Mowat.
11 a.m.—Morning service.
3 p.m.—Sunday School.
7 p.m.—Evening service.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN.
Rev. Jas. Rollins, B.A., pastor.

11 a.m.—Divine service
3 p.m.—Sunday school.
3 p.m.—Young Women's Bible class—Mr. Kew, teacher.
7 p.m.—Divine service.
Mr. Herbert C. Kinnear, organist and choirmaster.

KNOX PRESBYTERIAN.
Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., B.D., pastor.

10.40 a.m.—Elders' prayer meeting in the vestry.
11 a.m.—Morning service. Preacher Rev. Dr. Wilkie.
3 p.m.—Sabbath school and Bible Classes.
7 p.m.—Evening service. Preacher the Minister. Subject: "Would Peterborough do for a City of Refuge?"

ST. JAMES METHODIST CHURCH
Rev. J. G. Brown, M.A., Rector.

10 a.m.—Class meeting.
11 a.m.—Morning Worship.
2.30 p.m.—Sunday school.
7 p.m.—Evening Worship.
Evangelistic services.
Rev. A. C. Huffman, of Warsaw, will assist the pastor each week night in Evangelistic services.

CHARLOTTE ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

Decision Day, and Quarterly services.
10 a.m.—The prayer hour.
11 a.m.—"The Fulness of the Spirit." The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.
2.30 p.m.—The Sunday school. The Men's Bible class.
7 p.m.—"The Holy Spirit: How Grieved." Reception of members.

BETHANY TABERNACLE.
Rev. John A. Fee, Pastor.

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
Sunday School and Bible Classes at 3 p.m.

Annual Announcement

Cheapest Place in Peterboro for Presents

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

Has the largest, brightest and best stock ever shown in their store, consisting of Fancy Goods of every description, suitable for presents.

These will be sold at prices that defy competition. We are in a position to sell cheaper than others for the simple reason that our expenses are much lighter than other stores in the city, and we are not depending on the store sales to meet expenses, as our large and growing newspaper, printing and bookbinding business takes care of all this. So, the public are invited to call and examine our stock and prices, and they will be convinced. In addition to selling cheap, we offer a beautiful pair of Patent, Self-Sharpening Shears free with every purchase of $2.00 and upwards.

We ALSO GIVE a Splendid Kitchen Set as Shown in Cut Below,
Consisting of Nine Pieces, with every purchase of $10 or over

Call and see this splendid set, even though you do not buy.

Our Stock Consists of

GIFT BOOKS
LEATHER GOODS
PURSES
HAND SATCHELS
BRASS GOODS
BASKETS
CALENDARS,
PRESENTATION BIBLES
JEWEL CASES
FANCY PAPETRIES
BEAUTIFUL CHINA
FOUNTAIN PENS
FANCY STATIONERY, &c.

TOYLAND.

Bring the children in and make them happy. Our Toys are the latest and best that money can buy. Everything for the little ones.

OUR DOLL DISPLAY

is also very fine, and should be seen to be appreciated. Prices that knock others all out.

Do you read The Times? If not, let us send it to you on a three months' trial for 50c, delivered to your home in the city, or mailed to your address in the country. Every purchase of $4.00 or over in the Bookstore Department will entitle you to The Times every day for three months. Call early. Open evenings.

TIMES BOOKSTORE

W. H. ROBERTSON, Sole Proprietor

141 HUNTER STREET, PETERBOROUGH
Neary opposite the Post Office

ST. PETER'S ROMAN CATHOLIC.
Low mass 8 a.m. and 9.15 a.m.
High mass 10.30 a.m.
Vespers 7 p.m., with sermon.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Norwood Register: Miss A. Peters, of Peterborough, was the guest of Miss Rose Squire on Sunday.

Nowood Register: Master Nelson King of Peterborough, visited Masters Armour and Alex Weir on Saturday.

Norwood Register: Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., has donated a gold watch to the pupil in East Peterborough, who obtains the highest number of marks at the Entrance Examinations next June.

Lindsay Post: Dr. and Mrs. Matthews, Peterborough, were in town last evening. Mrs. Middleton, East City, Peterboro, is visiting her brother, Mr. Gordon Manning in Lindsay.

The Rev. J. J. Lewis of Warkworth returned home yesterday after spending a few days in the city.

Miss Vi Fraser and Miss Margaret McGrath were in Lindsay Thursday night, attending the Bachelors' dance.

The friends of Mrs. Ray Tisdall will be pleased to learn that she came through an operation successfully at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday.

Mr. C. McNeil of the Grand Seminary, Montreal, who has been visiting Mrs. J. Sheehan, and other friends in the city, has returned to Montreal.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Symonds of Montteal, passed through the city yesterday, returning from Bobcaygeon, where they have spent the past two months.

Rev. G. Wf Henderson has returned from Belleville, where he attended the convention of Epworth Leaguers.

Miss Olive Pentland, 16 Benson avenue, has returned home from Toronto.

Mrf R. Gliddon returned from Toronto, having attended the series of concerts by the Mendelssohn choir at Massey Hal..

Rev. Dr. Symonds, vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, and Mrs. Symonds, were in the city yesterday. They were on their way to Montreal, after a visit at Toronto.

Miss Jane Neilson of Beverton is the guest of Mrs. S. R. Pearson, 576 Stewart Street.

Mr. Mr. Hilliard of Lakefield was in the city yesterday and gave the Times a friendly call.

Mr. Will Corner of Cavanington is stopping with his sister, Mrs. S. R. Pearson.

Lakefield News: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nesbitt and Miss Nellie Nesbitt of Lakehurst, and Mrs. John Wilson of Peterboro, were visiting relatives in the neighborhood for a few days.

Warsaw correspondence, Lakefield News: Mr. A. F. Calder and Mr. James Haggis, of Peterboro, paid a visit to Warsaw last week.

Millbrook Reporter: Ted Burnham was out from Peterboro over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Donaldson of Peterborough, spent Sunday at his old home, Mr. Jas Donaldson's.

NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT—

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough has constructed as a local improvement, side walks on the following streets:—

Park St., west side, from Rink St. to Townsend St.

Lock St., east side, from Romaine St., to Ware St.

George St., east side, from Romaine St. to King Edward St.

Hart Ave., west side, from Paterson St., 216 ft. south.

Bethune St., west side, from Hunter St. to Simcoe St.

Smith St., south side, from Harvey to e. side Lot 4, Place 66.

Barnardo Ave., south side, from George St. to Water St.

Benson St., south side, from Benson Ave. 236 ft. east.

Benson St., north side, from Benson Ave. to east side Lot 4.

Benson Ave., west side, from Manning Ave. to Wolseley St.

Aberdeen Ave., north side, from Grand Trunk Railway to Aylmer St.

Manning Ave., north side, from Benson Ave. to Aylmer St.

Aylmer St., west side, from 48 ft. north of Smith St. to Aberdeen Ave.

Downie St., west side, from London St, to Dublin St.

Murray St., south side, from Reid St. to Park St.

Euclid Ave., south side, from Concession St. to east side Lot 9, Pl. 19

Euclid Ave., north side, from Concession St. to Erskine St.

Hazlitt St., south side, from Concession St. to Rogers St.

Caddy St., south side.

Concession St., west side, from Clifton St. to Hazlitt St.

Rogers St., west side, from Stanley Ave. to south side Lot 5, Pl. 17a.

Mark St., east side, from Hunter St. to Douro St.

Mark St., east side, from Sophia St. to Lake Front.

Robinson St., north side, from Mark St. 176 1-3 ft. east.

Chamberlain St., south side, from Lafayette Ave. to Alfred St.

Antrim St., south side, from George St. to Water St.

Smith St., north side, from Water St. to Dennistoun Ave.

Harvey St., east side, from London St. to Dublin St.

Dublin St., north side, from Harvey St., 115 ft. east.

Donegal St., east side, from McDonnell St. to London St.

Donegal St., east side, from Brock St. to Murray St.

Murray St., north side, from Donegal St. to Gilchrist St.

Cambridge St., east side, from Elm St. to McDonnell St.

2. The cost of the work is $11,385.75, of which $5,406.35 is to be paid by the Corporation. The special assessment is to be paid in twenty annual instalments.

3. The estimated lifetime of the work is twenty years.

4. A Court of Revision will be held on the 23rd day of February, 1912, at 8 o'clock p.m. in the City Council Chamber for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed assessment or the accuracy of the frontage measurements, and any other complaint which persons interested may desire to make, and which by law is cognizable by the Court.

5. The special assessment, showing the special rate per foot frontage, the properties assessed, the names of owners and other particulars is open for inspection at the office of the undersigned.

Dated Peterborough, February 9th, 1912.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
(D—1-10-2) Clerk.

GREAT CHANGE IN A FEW DAYS

His Muscles Cramped, he was very Irritable and he had Headaches—Dodd's Kidney Pills changed it all:

Hitchcock, Sask., Feb. 9.—(Special)—Mr. Wm. Gervais, well known and highly respected here, is telling his friends of an almost miraculous change Dodd's Kidney Pills have made in him. He is a man of few words, but he speaks straight to the point:

"My muscles would cramp," Mr. Gervais says: "My head ached and I was very irritable until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. Two boxes made a new man of me."

A change in a few days from a nervous, irritable condition, with an aching head and a presentment that a serious illness was hovering over him, to rousing, energetic health was what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for Mr. Gervais. That's what they have done for thousands of others on the prairies. No matter where you go you will hear of cures they have made. If you don't know from your own experience, your neighbor will tell you they are the one sure cure for any form of Kidney Disease.

[illegible] TIDY.

Buy two margarine tubs at the grocer's—they will cost four cents each—fit one in the other, cut the inner tub two inches higher than the outside one; divide into two compartments with a piece of board; and cut a slot in the centre of the wood for lifting the tray. Take off the handle of an old bucket, and screw it on each side of the outer tub. The outer one is used for ashes, and the top one for keeping blackleads, brushes, stove polish, etc. At the shops these tidies usually cost fifty cents each; if made at home, eight cents, and they will last quite a long while.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Should you be unfortunate enough to have wine spilt on table linen, cover the stains immediately with salt, and afterwards wash out in cold water.

Should stains refuse to come out, cover them with a paste made of lemon-juice and salt. Leave to dry and then rinse in cold water.

HOME-MADE SWEETS.

Take one tin of Swiss milk, four ounces of fresh butter, two pounds of Demerara sugar, and twelve dessertspoonfuls of water. Melt the butter and sugar in a saucepan, then add the milk and water, and boil for an hour, stirring all the time. Flavour with vanilla. Pour on to a buttered slab, and when nearly cold cut into squares.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat.

Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

Colds

Don't trifle with a cold. No one can tell what the outcome may be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis and consumption invariably result from neglected colds. Nothing can be compared with

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

as a quick cure for colds and grip and by its use the more serious diseases may be avoided

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, any ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some dv'l at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your kild much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute. Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 37 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

EXPLOSION OF FIVE TONS DYNAMITE KILLED THIRTEEN

Concussion in C. N. R. Camp in Rainy River Lake Island Heaved Hundreds of Tons of Rock on Men

Fort Francis, Feb. 10.—As the result of a premature explosion of dynamite at the construction camp of Johnstone & Carey, contractors for the Canadian Northern, twelve men were killed outright, another died from his injuries, and five more were frightfully injured on an island in Rainy River Lake, eight miles east of here yesterday.

The explosion is believed to have been caused when a badly placed charge in one of a series of 64 holes of a uniform depth of 22 feet was being drawn, so that a new charge could be properly placed.

FIVE TONS EXPLODED.

Stories told by survivors of the explosion are more or less unintelligible, but it is certain that the explosion of the first holes caused all the others to explode almost simultaneously. The amount of dynamite exploded is held at over 200 bolts, or about five tons. The terrific concussion heaved hundreds of tons of rock in all directions, and the men working in the solid rock cut who were not killed in the first concussion of the explosion were burned or battered to pieces by the falling rock as it settled. Pieces of solid rock, half the size of a small house, were upheaved.

Thos. Casey, foreman of the gang, was hurled 150 feet in the air, and his mangled and dismembered body was found near the Canadian Northern tracks. All of the other victims were foreigners, Austrians and Bulgarians, and none of their names were yet available at a late hour tonight. Several other men are said to be missing, and it is regarded as quite possible that the list of dead may be added to when the work of searching for the bodies is completed.

BRIDGING IN LAKE.

A unique piece of engineering, being the construction of a rock fill for a distance of three miles through Rainy Lake was the work upon which the unfortunate men were employed. Five years in Kingston Penitentiary.

SPECIAL CHURCH MUSIC

St. Andrew's Choir Assisted by the Royal English Handku Ringers.

At both services of St. Andrew's church most interesting music was rendered, the fine choir being augmented by the presence of the Royal English Handku Ringers. Following were the respective numbers of this talented organization:

MORNING

1—"Ora Pis Nobis"—Manning—Male Quartette, Messrs. Charlesworth, Wain, Hunt and Jessop.

2—"Comfort Ye My People," from Handel's Messiah. Tenor solo, Mr. Wain.

3—"Abide With Me."—Liddle, alto solo, Mr. Charlesworth.

EVENING.

1—"Remember Me, O Mighty One,"—Bennett—Male Quartette, Messrs. Charlesworth, Wain, Hunt and Jessop.

2—"Nazareth."—Gounod—Bass solo Mr. Jessop.

3—"Almost Persuaded,"—Soprano solo, Miss Olive Howell.

4—"Days and Moments Quickly Flying,"—Dykes — Male Quartette—Messrs. Charlesworth, Wain, Hunt and Ceasop.

Mr. Herbert C. Treneer, organist and choir master.

BERLIN BURGLARS ARE SENTENCED

Berlin, Ont., Feb. 10.—Alfred Cooper and George Preuss, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing Wolf's hardware store and to having shot Sylvester Yost, who tried to prevent his escape, when caught robbing the C. P.R. tolls house, were each sentenced this morning by Magistrate Weir to five years in Kingston Penitentiary.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S STRONG PLEA FOR UNITY OF EMPIRE

Here is a striking passage in Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill's speech at Belfast.

"For our part we look forward to the time, which has been long retarded, but which we believe now to be near, when this island, instead of being a disruptive force in the Empire, shall be transformed into a new centre of union, when the harsh and lamentable cry of reproach, which has so long jarred the concert of Empire shall die away, when the accursed machinery whereby hatred is manufactured and preserved, shall be broken forever; when from every country where our language and institutions are established hands shall be joined across the seas in peace and cordiality.

"Then shall the victory be worthy to stand forever with Trafalgar and Waterloo. Every part of the Empire would join in our rejoicings, every Parliament in its boundaries, and in the United States, would approve and applaud our decisions, the self-governing Dominions would draw more trustfully towards the Motherland; and the difficulties of federation of the Empire would be sensibly diminished by the reconciliation of Great Britain and Ireland."

SLICK SWINDLER CAUGHT

Quebec, Feb. 10.—A slick flimflammer, Hector Beaudet by name, was rounded up this morning by police here. Beaudet at different times has fraudulently collected gas, telephone and telegraph bills, and altogether he is said to have got away with hundreds of dollars. This morning he tried to collect a gas bill that was paid yesterday and the woman at the house in which he called telephoned for the police. Beaudet was arraigned before the magistrate this afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

APPEAL FOR AID CHINA FAMINE

Board of Trade Which Should Take Prompt Action

The following appeal has been made to the local Board of Trade:—

January 11th, 1912

The Secretary of the Board of Trade, Peterborough, Ont:

Dear Sir,—We are asking three hundred cities in Canada and the United States to take part in a great demonstration of good will to the New China.

China is facing a tremendous calamity. Two and a half millions of her people are in dire need of help, most of them in the same district where the famine raged last year. The Chinese are in the midst of a struggle for freedom and unable to do much for their own people; indeed one great reason for the Revolution is the recurrence of famine conditions. Throughout a large portion of two populous provinces schools are closed, business is at a standstill, the weak are becoming beggars, families are being broken up by the sale of wives and daughters, often into lives of vice, and the people are lapsing into apathy.

In previous famines people all over Canada and the United States have given as individuals, but it is now proposed that throughout these two countries each city as a unit, cable at once its willingness to help, raise a fund to be sent on as fast as it comes in, and on May 10th cable a statement of the total sent to date, with a message of good will in the name of the city. We shall transmit these messages to the Chinese press, and publish them in a booklet to be presented to officials and members of the National and Provincial Assemblies, and thus not only help to avert a great calamity, but make the alleviation of suffering the opportunity of strengthening the friendship between China and the rest of the world.

The time is opportune. China is turning her face toward the future as never before. The consideration and protection which foreigners have received during the present Revolution are an indication of the extent of the influence of the West. A demonstration of friendliness on a national scale in this hour [illegible] the New China and the effect on trade and political relations, and on the progress of civilization and Christianity, will be incalculable.

The funds raised will be used to avert starvation and at the same time to start China upon a policy of conservation. It is not enough to-day to pour rice into the rathole of famine. It is planned to give relief only in return for labor on canals and dykes, except in the case of those unable to work. Competent foreign and Chinese engineers will co-operate in making all such work of permanent value in preventing future floods. The Famine Committee believes that the New Government will adopt a programme of conservation and, until this can be carried to completion, shoulder the responsibility of relieving the famine conditions, thus making the Committee which is presenting this appeal the last of its kind in China. The New China is awake to the situation and many influential men are already pledged to such a policy.

The famine will be at its worst in February and March and will continue until harvest in the middle of May. It is imperative that money begin to come in before the end of February if great loss of life is to be avoided. We confidently hope that you will take prompt measures to bring this before the citizens of Peterborough and secure a large fund. We beg to suggest that a publicity campaign be carried on and contributions received by a committee of the Board of Trade, or that the Board of Trade appoint a committee of citizens for this purpose, or authorize the Press to take it up in the name of the city. It will save life.

Yours very truly,
E. C. LOBUISTINE,
Hon. Secretary.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and a little higher temperature.

ORILLIA FOR HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Following the wise example set by Peterborough and other live towns and cities the Council of Orillia has wisely decided to consult the Hydro-Electric Commission in regard to a readjustment of light and power rates in that town. The question is a complex one. The Hydro-Commission, like it will do here, will first ascertain cost of production, which should not be difficult when the new appliances ordered are installed. A basis of profit will then be determined, and power and light sold to all consumers accordingly, with special privileges to none. The city of Ottawa claims to have the cheapest light and power in Canada. Its power rates vary from $22.50 per h. p. for very small motors, to $9.80 per h.p. for 100 h.p. motors. Its light rates are 4 cents per 100 square feet per month of area lighted, and are 3 cents per kilowatt for current consumed, including lamps and meter, less 10 per cent. fifteen days. With an abundance of power Ottawa does not sell on a flat rate, but by meter only.

THE DOURO ASSAULT CASE WAS SETTLED

Mutual Explanations Result in Case Being Withdrawn.

As announced in a former issue of The Times Mr. John Garvey, a school teacher of Douro, who, it is alleged, did ill-treat and assault one John Casey on the first day of February while in the performance of his duties, the said act being contrary to the criminal code, was tried on Saturday before Magistrate Edmison in the County Court. Owing to absence of Mr. D. O'Connell one of the learned counsels, the case was postponed from 11 a.m. until the afternoon. Promptly at 11 o'clock, seven of the scholars including the allegedly assaulted victims entered the court room.

Fortunately for all concerned, mutual explanations were made by both complainant and defendant and the case was settled by agreement. It seems that when both sides told their respective stories that each party concerned paid their own costs and even the witnesses subpoenaed did not demand their fees.

OTONABEE RIVER NOISY

Extremely Cold Weather Causes the Ice to Boom and Roar so That Nearby Residents Were Astonished.

Residents along the Otonabee river on Friday night clearly heard the booming of the ice as the tremendous depression of the weather caused breaks and uprisings. A Times correspondent who heard the news from a resident nearby the Dickson property, happened to speak of the occurrence to a former resident on the south shore of Rice Lake. This former resident along the shores of this popular summer resort said: "Why would not the ice on the Otonabee, in such weather, boom and make a noise like artillery. I distinctly remember going into Cobourg about 25 years ago. When I got to Cold Springs, about half way between Rice Lake and Cobourg, and fully six miles from Gore's Landing, as I stopped to water my horses, I could clearly and plainly hear the booming and cracking of the ice on Rice Lake. This noise was created by the expansion of the ice created by the very cold weather.

DYNAMITE CASES MAY BE TRIED

Indictments Expected to Bring out Important Evidence

MANY CITIES AFFECTED

Thirty or More Indictments Have Been Drawn Up By the State and Over One Hundred Explosions Will be Investigated.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 11.

THE indictments in the dynamite conspiracy cases are to be tried at once. What evidence the government has procured as to who were responsible for the many explosions which culminated in the wrecking of the Los Angeles Times building in October, 1910, and as to who, through payments of money or otherwise, helped to blow up viaducts, bridges and buildings before and after that time, is expected to be revealed, at least in part, by the number of indictments returned. The federal grand jury prepared to hold its final session beginning at 2 o'clock. Federal Judge A. B. Anderson arranged to be present to receive the jury's verdict.

As indicating the wide scope of the jury's six weeks' inquiry into the ramifications of the hundred or more explosions, which were directed against "open shop" contractors in the last four or five years, and in which the McNamara brothers and Ortie McManigal were declared to be only a few of the conspirators, it was said action following the jury's report might be expected in the following cities: Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Peoria, Ill., Cincinnati, St. Louis, New Orleans, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle.

Thirty or more indictments have been drawn up against men whose names heretofore have been mentioned only in the secret testimony heard by the jury. The following facts were made known in connection with the probable return of indictments: "The number of defendants might be greater or less than [illegible] number of indictments, because more than one defendant might be named in a single indictment. The jury's report to Judge Anderson would be secret as to the names of the defendants, but the number of indictments would be divulged. An interval of a week might elapse before any arrest, to enable the authorities to send the necessary papers to the federal districts where defendants reside. The arrests, as nearly as possible, will be secretly agreed upon by the government. The charges are embraced in the indictments as drawn up. These are violation of the federal law regulating the shipment of explosives, conspiracy to violate the law regulating the shipment of explosives, and concealment of knowledge of the guilt of others. The charge of concealment of knowledge is said to have been invoked, not only in connection with money spent by the McNamara brothers for explosives, but also in relation to the stores of explosives kept by the dynamiters at Tiffin, Ohio; Rochester, Pa.; Muncie, Ind., and Indianapolis.

PRICE OF SUGAR IS ONCE MORE RAISED

Some four citizens have naturally "kicked" over the steady raise in prices of all kinds of commodities, but chucked quickly over the thought that sugar is decreasing in price. "Alas, a sad farewell" to all such hopes. Sugar advanced another 10 cents at 11 o'clock on Saturday and it was announced that a similar increase might be made again soon. This follows out the market indications that were given a short time ago in these columns. The local price is now $5.68 per cwt. in bags wholesale, or $5.73 in barrels, for the first grade granulated. It is estimated that the visible supply is two million tons short and this fact alone would strengthen the market in the face of normal conditions.

RELIEF IS URGENTLY NEEDED FOR AWFUL CHINA FAMINE

Appeal Being Made to a Peterboro Board of Trade on Behalf of the Sufferers

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—I am enclosing a copy of a letter to the Secretary of the Board of Trade, (which appears in another column), asking that Peterboro' unite with three hundred other cities of Canada and the United States in an international expression of courtesy and good will by helping the New China grapple with the terrific famine conditions which she is now facing. You will appreciate the possibilities of such a demonstration and the great moral effect that it will have on all future relations between China and the West.

Enclosed you will find an "Official Statement and Appeal." We shall greatly appreciate it, if you will be good enough to feature it in one issue, and follow this up by repeated publication of the "Official Statement," or by printing "readers", which we shall send you from time to time or, in any way you think best, help to keep before the public the awful need out here, and aid in giving this movement a national character.

We hope that the Morning Times will co-operate with the Board of Trade and help out by receiving subscriptions and pushing the raising of a large fund to be sent in the name of the city. An editorial will be of great use in starting things.

I am enclosing also a card of information on "How to remit money" It is important that this be given publicity. We are counting on the Morning Times to see to it that Peterborough is heard from out here. It will save life.

E. C. LOBUISTINE,
Hon. Secretary.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of the correspondents who [illegible]

THE CORDAGE COMPANY SALE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—When may the shareholders in the late lamented Cordage Company, expect to receive a statement concerning their property, which has been handed over to the International Harvester Co? I believe I am right in saying that it is over four years since they have been favored with any information.

—Shareholder.

OUR ACTION ENDORSED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Although a new comer to Peterborough, I have followed the articles in your paper on the anti-home rule and anti-ne temere arguments with much interest. I must congratulate you on having the courage of your convictions and on not being afraid to put your opinions in print. I think every resident of this county, no matter what his creed or position and support The Times. Other papers may, for political purpose, slip by the handling of such subjects, but you, without venom or animosity against anyone try to tell the whole truth and give facts as they are.

C. L. Cyril.

THE CIGARETTE EVIL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—It is sad to note the number of sallow-faced youths about our streets puffing at ill-smelling, brain-destroying, atmosphere poisoning, thief-breeding, obnoxious cigarettes. Now only yesterday I saw two boys, one of whom asked me for a match, smoking these paper-wrapped inventions of the Evil-One. Neither of these boys could have been over twelve years of age. Does it stand to reason that the parents or guardians of such boys could long remain in ignorance of the fact that the boys were in this habit. If parents do know that their boys are using these things they are greatly to be found fault with for not promptly preventing it.

—Pipe Smoker.

HOMELESS AND FRIENDLESS

Two Poor Families in Pressing Need of Help from the Community.

As a result of fire on Saturday two poor families in this city are rendered homeless, without a single cent of insurance to fall back upon. One family consists of father and mother and five little ones ranging from 10 years of age downwards, the other of parents and an infant in arms. All their worldly possessions have been consumed by the fire fiend, even including clothing. Relief Officer Mr. F. Miller has risen to the occasion, but this is a case for public aid apart from the means at the disposal of the Charity Board. With this end in view, The Times invites its readers to exercise Christian charity toward these two deserving but afflicted families, and forward to Relief Officer Miller donations of clothing, money, furniture, food or fuel to aid the unfortunates in surviving the dark days so suddenly fallen upon them.

DOUBLE BLAZE ON SATURDAY

As a result of a chimney fire on Harvey street on Saturday, two families there were rendered homeless. The fire was first seen about 11 a.m. when it had eaten its way into the woodwork, and when the firemen arrived the blaze was bursting through the roof. Three lines of hose were soon playing on the flames and after several hours of strenuous work on the part of the firemen, the flames were subdued, but not before the house, which is a double one, was badly gutted. The occupants barely escaped with their lives. The house was tenanted by Mr. Edward Smith and Mr. Jack Sweeney.

The fire was difficult for the firemen to deal with, owing to the cold weather. The water froze almost as soon as it left the nozzle. They were also hampered with the ice which froze on their helmets and rubber coats, Mrs. Tomlinson, next door, [illegible] understood to be light.

BOURASSA AND ROMAN HEIRARCHY

Quebec, Febf 10.—"I am not acting as an intermediary between the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the Ottawa Government, no more in the matter of the Keewatin Separate Schools than in other matters," said Mr. Henri Bourassa, when interviewed on the report published in some Liberal papers.

The story is false, he said, and on a par with other similar attempts of the same papers to stir up feeling in the English provinces against the Nationalists, to distort our aims.

The Keewatin school question is simply a question of applying the law, which, if the Federal Government were true to its former legislation, would remain the same in the new territory, even though the Manitoba boundaries were extended.

EX-KING MANUEL WILL MARRY

that ex-King Manuel will marry the Princess Elizabeth Marie, daughter

Lisbon, Feb. 10.—It is stated here of Dom Miguel. The report receives some credence on account of the recent reconciliation between the two families.

For the "Hurry Up" Breakfast——

Post Toasties

and cream

Always ready to serve instantly from the package and MIGHTY GOOD.

At home or abroad—when business or play calls for a quick meal or lunch, about the best thing one can have is a bowl of crisp POST TOASTIES.

Convenience of serving has helped to make this food a favorite—beyond that, delicious flavor and wholesome nutriment.

"The Memory Lingers"

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Pure Food Factories, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

THE WORD THAT COST TEN MILLIONS.

SIR WILFRID—"And I left it on him as a decoration."—From The Toronto News.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments--Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

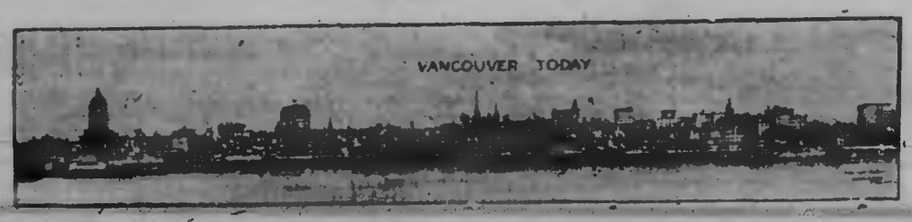
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 41,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms 7th Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

THE FARM HORSE

He Is Entitled to the Best of Care and Feed

The farm horse needs a stable, a comfortable stall in which to rest when the day's work is done. Don't put him in a dungeon, with no light or ventilation and expect him to be in good trim for the next day. Neither should he be compelled to stand under a straw shed where the water drips through for three days after each shower. A good bed is as essential to the comfort of the horse as of the man. As to feed, the best is none too good. Clean, bright hay, with oats that are not smutty nor dirty. Decide the quantity for yourself, but don't be stingy. A man who can't tell what amount of feed is required by a horse after he has worked him for a few weeks, hasn't sense enough to farm anyway. All horses do not require the same amount of food any more than all men. Study your horse. Feed him enough to enable him to do his work. And pay some attention to his likes and dislikes if possible. He works for his keep, and surely he is entitled to something better than a forkful of musty hay under his feet and a quart of screenings in a dirty feed box.

The horse at work should be well combed and brushed every morning, and a few strokes at night would not hurt him.

The harness, too, should receive attention. There is neither humanity, economy nor common sense in having your horse's shoulders peeled and raw, his back sore, and his mouth torn with the bit. See that the collar fits the horse, better to buy a new collar than use one that does not fit. Then keep it clean and smooth, if the collar becomes coated, wash it off at night with a rag and some warm water, and in the morning it will be clean and smooth as when new. If you will make your collars fit and keep them clean you will seldom need a pad, and the horse will have better shoulders and be more comfortable at work without a pad. The hames, too, should fit the collar, with the pull so adjusted that it will bear evenly on the shoulder, and keep in one position. A little attention to other parts of the harness will prevent galls, bruises, rubs and the like.

Kindness is appreciated by a horse as well as by a man. The owners of the world's famous race horses will not allow a groom about the stables who swears at horses, neither will they permit harsh treatment of any kind. The farm horse may not be as finely bred as his brother of the turf but he will respond to kind treatment none the less.

From the standpoint of right the farm horse deserves kindness, care, and good feeding. It is his due. It must be left to the humane of ... service.—L. M. Doughty.

A WONDERFUL COW

New York Animal That Has Broken All Records

Pontiac Clothilde DeKol, 2nd, a Holstein-Friesian cow owned by the Stevens Bros. Co., Liverpool, N.Y., has broken all records for butter-fat production for periods of seven and thirty days. This wonderful cow, tested under the supervision of Cornell University, produced in seven consecutive days 646.1 pounds of milk containing 29.766 pounds of fat, and in thirty days 2,588.4 pounds of milk containing 116.229 pounds of fat, the amount of fat for the week being 1½ pounds in excess of anything before known. Cornell University estimates that the fat produced is equal to 34.72 pounds of the best commercial butter for the week and 135.6 pounds for the thirty days.

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape, says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings neatly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot but be attracted to such a section. The business man knows the value of attractive surroundings.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of these the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Woman as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

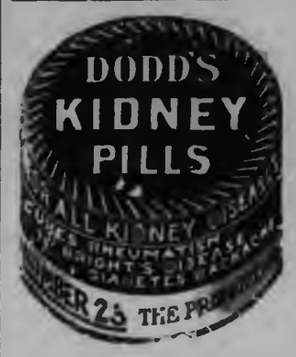
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ored at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompany the unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.
Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

A PEACE MISSION.

Lord Haldane has paid a hurried visit to Berlin, and there is no doubt but that the minister of war is on a mission of peace. The case of the London barrister, Bertrand Stewart, who was arrested in Germany on suspicion of being a spy, tried and convicted in secret and sentenced to a long term of imprisonment after passionately protesting his innocence, has aroused the British people to a higher pitch of resentment than even the Agadir incident did. Here is a concrete grievance against Germany that every person can understand—something with a human element in it that "comes home to the business and bosoms of men." The outburst of popular fury over what is felt to be an act of oppression and gross injustice has had its natural effect in Germany, where the "governing classes" regard the British demonstrations of resentment as impertinent interference with the natural course of justice in Germany.

Undoubtedly the passions which have been aroused over this incident make the situation extremely critical. The relations between the two countries have long been strained, and when intense popular antagonism is added to governmental and diplomatic friction, an explosion may happen at any moment. In spite of all, it is practically certain that neither the British nor the German government wants war. The men at the top in both countries realize the frightful results of an Anglo-German war, and they will do their utmost to preserve the peace—for the present at least. And it may safely be inferred that that is why Lord Haldane has gone to Berlin. May his mission prove successful!

OVER 50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNBY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"—"

"You told her?"

"Yes, but she didn't believe me'."

Varney nodded. "That's natural," he said. "Poor girl, this is a rough time for her! And for you too, old man," he added quietly. "I think I can understand what you are feeling. What difference will this make to you?"

Varney's question meant to ask what difference the knowledge that the father was an unpunished criminal would make in Scarborough's feelings towards the daughter. It was a natural question, perhaps, but luckily Scarborough misunderstood it. It never even occurred to him that such a question would be put, so he answered it readily. He thought that Varney was asking about Elsa, not about him.

"I hope that in the end it will make no difference," he said.

Varney shot a puzzled look at him, saying:

"I don't quite see. Do you mean to say that it does make a difference now?"

"Yes. Elsa refuses to speak to me, or to let me help her. Shall we start? Your machine is in the shed."

Varney understood now, and saw that he had made a mistake. It was the girl, not the man, to whom the new knowledge made a difference. He was glad that Scarborough had missed the point of his question, and he honored his friend for not understanding him. Varney had learned in a rough school lately, and he knew that in the world's eyes, his thought would be counted the natural one; and he knew too, how to respect a man to whom that thought did not even occur.

"You mean to help her, none the less," was what he said.

"Oh, yes," said Scarborough, and they rode off together.

The road to the pine-grower's house passed within a few hundred yards of the Caldeira de Morte, and they turned aside to see the place where Richard Carrington had met his death.

The Caldeira lay in a shallow depression in the hillside, formed by an extinct crater, and they had to leave their bicycles to get to it. There was a narrow fissure in the lip of the crater through which the warm, shallow stream from the Caldeira made its way to the lower levels. The path and the stream occupied the whole of this fissure, but somtimes the stream took up all the available space for itself, and left no path; so that it was necessary to jump from rock to rock in its bed, or to splash boldly through it. Walls of grey pumice, splashed with irregular patches of red lichen, rose for forty feet on either side; and scorings and watermarks on their flanks showed that there were times when the shallow stream was a rapid torrent.

About sixty yards from the entrance to the shallow cup of the crater [illegible] a complete circle, a quarter of a mile in diameter, broken only at the place where the two young men had entered. Below this black rampart the slopes were clothed with a green mantle of heath and whortleberries; lower down there was a thick carpet of stag-horn moss; and lower still, barrenness, bare earth and stones, with a scurfy incrustation of white upon them. The Caldeira itself was hardly more than ten yards across it now, but the white desolation round it marked the limits to which its waters sometimes rose. The waters themselves were white, like milk, and they were in constant curling, bubbling movement, like milk gently boiling. A cloud of steam rose from them in a dense column, expanding into a canopy, and twisted in everthinning wreathe out over the toothed edge of the crater.

"It reminds me of the picture of the genie in the Arabian Nights, rising in a cloud from the brazen jar," said Varney. "What's the smell?"

"Sulphuretted hydrogen," said Scarborough. "There generally is a little, though the amount varies. The vapors are mostly carbon dioxide, I believe; but after an earthquake anywhere in the island, the sulphur fumes are in sufficient quantity to be dangerous."

"Does that often happen?"

"Yes, pretty often; but I haven't heard of any earthquake lately."

They were not the only visitors to the crater. A man was standing by the edge of the water, a blouse-clad Azorean peasant, with a wide hat on his head and a cigarette of maize-husk between his lips. A donkey quietly browsing on the herbage at the edge of the whitened circle was evidently his property. Presently the man bent down and lifted a dripping, steaming sack from the water.

"What's he doing?" Varney asked.

"Cooking," said Scarborough. "That sack is full of red lupin beans. They are a popular food here, you'll see sacks of them in every provision shop in Ponta Delgada."

"And they cook them in the Caldeira!" said Varney. "Is it hot enough for that?"

"A few degrees below boiling point. Put your hand in and see."

"No, thanks. I'll take your word for it. That's the cheapest kind of wholesale cooking I ever heard of."

"Food needs to be cheap in a country where sixpence is a good day's wage," said Scarborough. "Fortunately, it is cheap. The lupin grows like a weed, steeping in the sea picks the beans, and the Caldeira cooks them. Our friend there probably comes here every day. It's his trade."

"Then he may have seen something of what happened yesterday," suggested Varney. "Ask him. You speak Portuguese."

The man had slung his sack across the donkey's back, and seated himself on the top of it. His seat was a hot and wet one but he seemed to find it comfortable. He built his cigarette and urged his beast towards the narrow entrance between the walls of pumice.

Scarborough approached him, and the man, with the real politeness of the Islanders, jumped to the ground and took his hat off.

"Bonas dias, senhores," he said.

Scarborough returned his greeting, and asked whether he had heard anything of a dead man having been found there this morning.

"Sim, senhor," was the answer. "It was I who found him."

Then he went on to describe the matter with voluble earnestness and a wealth of dramatic gesture. The finding of a dead man was an event in his life, and he had the histrionic ability to make the most of his share in the occurrence. He entered into the explanations not only of what he had done in this alarming crisis, but also, minutely and comprehensively, of what he had thought. He explained that his first impulse had been to carry the news to the Corregidor at Ribeira Grande; for few Portuguese will touch a dead man, or help a dying man, until officialdom has given the word, for fear lest, if foul play has been done, they may be summoned as accomplices. The peasantry have a firm belief that the last hand which touches a dying man, is by the law of the land presumed to be the hand which gave him death; and it is a belief which at one well authenticated instance left a man who had been injured on the railway, a few miles from Coimbra, the intellectual capital of Portugal, to lie unaided through the heat of a long summer's day. He was conscious, and able to beg for water. But no one dared to give him any, for the Corregidor had been summoned, and nothing could be done till he came. And this is not an isolated case.

But the man, peasant explained, and took pride in explaining, that he had risen superior to this fear.

"I helped to carry him," he said proudly.

"You helped? Then you were not alone?"

"I was alone at first, but I went to the Casa Davis, which is near here, and summoned the Senhor Davis. We carried the dead man to Senhor Davis's cart, which waited at the end of the gorge, and Senhor Davis drove him to the house which is called As Chinelas. I did not go with him. I had done enough; for, Senhores, the Corregidor had not said that the body was to be moved."

"What is he saying?" asked Varney, in English.

"He is claiming to be a hero because he dared to touch a corpse," said Scarborough; and to the man added: "Was that all?"

"What does the Senhor mean?"

"Did you see anything which suggested how the dead man met his death?"

"I, Senor? No! Why should the Senhor suspect me?"

"I don't suspect you," said Scarborough, rather impatiently. "I only want to know what you saw. You say you saw nothing?"

A gleam came into the man's eye. He hesitated a moment, and then he said cunningly:

"I am a poor man, Senhor. A poor man cannot afford to keep his eyes so wide open as richer men may. I say now I saw nothing."

Scarborough put his hand in his pocket and [illegible]

"Think again," he said quietly.

"No, Senho[illegible]," he [illegible]," said the Azorean.

"What did you see?"

"I saw that the fingers of the dead man's right hand were tightly [illegible]. There was something in the [illegible] opened the fingers gently. It was [illegible] a flat stone with some scratchings on it."

"Have you got the stone?"

"Sim, Senhor. It is a thing of no value. I keep it to remind me of a tragic affair in which I assisted [illegible] morning. A poor bean-seller's life is uneventful, Senhor."

"I will buy it from you," said Scarborough. "Two milreis."

The man put his hand into his pocket.

"Five," he said insinuatingly.

"Very well, five."

The bean-seller produced the stone and gave it to Scarborough. It was, as he said, a small flat stone, about three inches square. It was covered with the white incrustation caused by the Caldeira water, and there were marks on it where something had been written in pencil. But half a day's rubbing in the pocket of a peasant's blouse had obliterated most of them and those that were still legible owed their preservation to the fact that they were in the hollows of the stone's surface.

"What is it?" said Varney.

"It was a message, but this fool has rubbed most of it out. Can you make sense of it?"

Varney examined the stone closely. "ache . . . blue . . . N drip" was all that remained of the writing.

"It isn't much," he said. "But it may be the clue we want."

"To the murderer?"

"No, to the diamonds. 'ache' looks uncommonly like the end of the word cache, and the rest tells where the cache is."

"Or did tell, before this idiot's blouse rubbed it out."

"Stay, though! There is another possibility," said Varney. "Mrs. Carrington's name is Rachel. Perhaps it is not a C that has gone, but an R and an L. This stone may have carried a dying man's last message to his wife. What next, Horace?"

"We'll go and see Davis."

(To be Continued)

Local Pastor at Port Hope.

Port Hope Guide: The 43rd anniversary of St. Johns Church will be celebrated on Sunday, Feb. 11th, with special services. The preacher at both services will be the Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A., of Peterborough.

Scotch Curlers Temperate.

When the Scotch curlers were in Montreal much surprise was expressed over the fact that all of them except five were abstainers. By the time they reached Toronto they were is to be hoped that this was caused more by the prevailing temperance sentiment so apparently prevalent in Canada rather than a result of the kind of fire-water so often handed out in this country. Time will tell.

A Kingston hen has laid an egg eight inches long by seven inches round the centre. The egg weighs 4½ ounces. If Peterborough hens would only follow this example we could afford to pay present prices for hen-fruit.

WEIGHTY EVIDENCE

Clarissa:—"Of course I love you, Clarence. Haven't I just danced eight times with you?"

Clarence:—"I don't see any proof in that."

Clarissa:—"But you would if you only knew how you dance."

ONE KIND OF TIMIDITY

"Maud is a timid girl," said George.

"Yes," said Esther; "she'd jump even at a proposal."

FRANK NOT A MAN

"Is that you, Frank?" asked Mrs. Tippins, in a nervous voice, as she heard someone moving about in the darkness.

"It is," replied Mr. Tippins.

"You gave me such a shock. I thought at first there was a man in the house."

SO SMALL

Waiter:—"How do you find your chicken, sir?"

Guest:—"With a magnifying glass."

MAKING MONEY

Skinner:—"If I could get someone to invest $5,000 in my great scheme I should make some money."

Fooly:—"How much would you make?"

Skinner:—"Think again."

Fooly:—"Oh, I'll think again, but I'm sure I couldn't raise that much."

WHAT HAPPENED

Doctor:—"Ha! The patient seems better this morning. A lot better. Something must have happened!"

Nurse:—"Yes, sir. The medicine you said should send was never delivered."

NO CHANGE!

The returned traveller was visiting the old college, where he spent some years of his happy youth.

"It is the same as ever," he murmured, as he wandered about, "absolutely the same as ever. Ah! Here is my old study! Just the same as ever!"

He opened the door and went in. A young man was talking earnestly to a young lady as he entered.

"Ah! The same old game," chuckled the traveller, delightedly.

The young man sprang to his feet.

"Excuse me, sir! This is my sister!" he explained.

The traveller laughed.

"Ah! Yes, and the same old excuse!" he murmured.

ACCOMMODATING

Mistress:—"Your name, Mary, and my daughter's being the same makes matters somewhat confusing. How do you like, say, the name of Bridget?"

Cook:—"Sure, mum, an' I'm not particular. I'm willin' to call the young lady anything ye like."

PAYING THEM BACK

Churchwarden:—"Excuse me, Mr Smith, but are you aware you put a false half-crown in the contribution plate this morning?"

Mr. Smith:—"Yes, I owe the Vicar then a grudge for eating a missionary uncle of mine."

Poultry Hon.

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association the following officers were elected:

Hon Pres.—J. T. C. Lang.
Hon. Directors—Mayor Bradburn, and Warden Porter.
President—Fred. Holmes.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. J. Cunningham.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Arthur Ashe.
Sec.-Treas.—J. J. Kelly.
Board of Directors—Messrs. Robinson, Gross, Dunnmitt, Howard, Baller, Pamman, Everson, W. Mein, and Kingdon.

DUSTBANE THE DUST KILLER

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

"Packed in Bibs., ½ Bibs. & ¼ Bibs. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs."

For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO
Three trains daily.
Excellent service.
Making connection at Detroit for
FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—
W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.
F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures

$2.00 Wholesale to All

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

201 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.
PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the purest and purest in the market
The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY
MAJESTIC SIZE
VICTORIOUS PRICE
POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd.

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada Mar. 9, April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings—Quebec at 1000 Foot Steady. Sheet Iron Lined

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY
Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—
CORSICAN,
Friday, Feb. 10. Saturday, Feb. 17.
HESPERIAN,
Saturday, Feb. 24.
TUNISIAN,
Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.
GRAMPIAN,
Saturday, March 9th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $73.50 and upwards.
Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.
Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.
Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.
Cornelian, May 17, June 14, July 12.
Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.
Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.
Scottian—May 18, June 15, July 13.
Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY, C.P.A. Can. Pass. Ry.

B. A. ROSS, C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO'
PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,190,549.41

Savings Department

3 1 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on 2 Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:
437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO'
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director.

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,
14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing, Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 623

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

Phone 164, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

Injured by Broken Pole.

Whilst James Mullen and Jas. Judd, two employees of the Bell Telephone Co. were pulling a guy wire, at the corner of Aylmer street and Aberdeen Ave., a day or two ago, an anchor pole broke, four feet from the ground. The twenty-six feet of pole fell and the surrounding deep snow prevented the men escaping. The big stick struck Mullen on the head, knocking him unconscious for twenty minutes. He was taken home where Dr. Young was called to attend him. No serious effects from the blow will follow.

The other employe, Judd, escaped with a painfully bruised thigh. There were four men pulling on the rope at the time the accident occurred.

Died From Result of Accident.

A sad scene was in evidence here Thursday when a young man, an Austrain, died from loss of blood in St. Joseph's Hospital. It seems that owing to a serious accident at Campbellford one of his legs was terribly crushed from the knee. Whilst at once taken to the above noted hospital, and placed under care of Dr. McNulty, who was not able to speak after his arrival in the city, died soon after admission.

A "Made in Peterborough" Fair.

Possibly, as a result, in part, of suggestions made by the Times in referring to a similar affair held in Lindsay, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Peterborough Health Association are arranging to hold a "Made in Peterborough" Fair, in the interests of the association, the proposition having been discussed at the organization meeting last Monday. The dates are not yet decided, as both larger and smaller cities than Peterborough have made financial successes of similar meetings, with the fine material and excellent management here, there is every reason to predict a success for the local Fair.

Mr. Harold Graham Better.

It will be remembered that some few weeks ago Mr. Harold Graham, son of Ald. James Graham, was taken seriously ill at Calgary, and that his father journied out to that Western city to look after his boy, who was in a hospital there. Ald. J. Graham, on his arrival in Calgary, secured the services of specialists, who, however, were unable to diagnose the trouble. Mr. Graham is now greatly improved, and it is expected that in a month's time he will be able to return home.

OUR WATER SUPPLY

Peterborough Would Benefit by Having Bill Now Before House of Parliament Passed.

A Bill, which has passed its first reading at Ottawa, provides that "No person shall throw or deposit, or cause or permit to be thrown or deposited, any sewage, offal, or refuse, or any other solid matter that is poisonous, decomposing, refuse or waste into any river any part of which is navigable, or into any stream that flows into any navigable river. Every corporation convicted of an offence against this section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and an additional sum of $50 for each day during which the offence continues." Whilst such a bill might strike a hard blow at the larger Canadian cities, which at present use the rivers of the country as sewer outlets, we in Peterborough who, with our wives and little ones are dependent on the Otonabee River for practically all our drinking water, would almost unanimously endorse such legislation. It is not hard to realize what an awful epidemic of typhoid or diphtheria would quickly be in evidence were all the cottagers and residents along the Trent Valley Canal allowed to deposit such objectionable and dangerous matter as noted above in the Otonabee and contributary waters. Let the politicians fight as they may over most parliamentary bones of contention, but one thing our citizens should and will insist on, and that is the conservation, preservation and purification of the water that we and our babies drink.

MEN WHO DON'T EXERCISE

SUFFER FROM INDIGESTION, HEADACHES, POOR APPETITE, SLEEPLESSNESS.

Nothing so Sure to "Set Up" a Man Make Him Feel Brisk and Vigorous as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Lack of exercise and overwork were the causes that combined to almost kill Samuel S. Stephens, Jr., one of the best known citizens in Woodstock.

In his convincing letter Mr. Stephens says:—

"A year ago I returned home after a long trip, completely worn out. I was so badly affected by chronic biliousness, so much overcome by constant headaches, dizziness, that I despaired of ever getting well. I was always tired and languid, had no energy and spirit, found it difficult to sleep for more than five hours. My appetite was so fickle that I ate next to nothing, and in consequence lost weight and strength. I was pale and dark rings under my eyes that made me look like a shadow.

"It was a blessing that I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In one week I felt like a new man. The feeling of weight and nausea in my stomach disappeared. My eyes looked brighter, color grew better, and, best of all, I began to enjoy my meals. The dizziness, languor and feeling of depression passed away, and I fast regained my old-time vigor and spirits. To-day I am well—thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

For health, strength, comfort and good spirits there is no medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Beware of substitutes, and don't let any dealer palm off some other pill on which he can make more money. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1912.

A TERRIBLE PREDICAMENT

How Edward Boltie Got the Explanation of Madeleine's Change

Sexton Blake ran his eye over the young man who sat in an attitude of nervous excitement, with his long, thin hands gripping the arms of the client's chair.

"Just back from West Africa?" he remarked, to give his visitor a chance to calm down a little.

Edward Boltie nodded.

"My bronzed look, I suppose?" he remarked, rousing himself. "But it was a risky shot, Mr. Blake. Why not South Africa or Mexico—or anywhere where there is a good sun?"

Blake smiled, and pointed to a scar on Mr. Boltie's left hand.

"The West African spider," he said. "No other animal that I know of bites and leaves a little hole like that."

He lit a cigarette.

"You have had malarial fever, too—though not for some time," he added casually.

"Yes—a year ago was my last attack. But how do you know that?"

"Oh, come," said Blake, "that's easy! Surely everybody knows that malarial fever leaves a series of wrinkles on the victim's neck?"

"I had forgotten my wrinkles. You have sharp eyes, Mr. Blake."

"Part of my stock-in-trade, Mr. Boltie. But come—now you are a little calmer, what is it you wish to consult me about?"

"It's a somewhat unusual case, I am afraid; my doubt is whether, indeed, it is in your line," he answered.

"Let's hear it," said Blake. "It's a love affair, isn't it?"

Boltie sat up with a sudden surprised movement.

"Don't look so astonished," murmured Blake. "It is quite simple. I've been consulted so often, you see. A man who has been robbed, or is under a false suspicion, or wants to find out who murdered somebody, is upset in quite a different way from a man whose heart is aching for a woman."

"That is just the phrase, Mr. Blake. My heart is aching for a woman—for the dearest, prettiest, and yesterday I should have said truest, woman in the world."

"Go on," said the detective. "Begin at the beginning."

"Three years I have been out there working for her—rubber, you know—and I've made my pile. I came home to marry her, and on the day I sailed I got her last letter—a loving, eager letter, saying she was looking forward to the day of our wedding, just as I was. I wept over it out of sheer joy. Three years out there is rather a strain.

"That was the last I heard of her. During all the voyage I was consumed with impatience for it to end—my heart and my mind were full of her. People chipped me about being so keen on going home to be married that I wouldn't even play a game of deck billiards, but preferred to moon and stare ahead—looking out for the shores of old England, while they were still two thousand miles away. The captain called me his extra lookout, as a matter of fact, but I didn't care. I was so happy—so hungry to get to her, sir, Blake."

He paused, and Blake waited patiently for him to resume.

"The voyage ended at last, and there was a telegram waiting for me at the docks. That particular ship, by the way, had not got a wireless installation." He pulled a telegraph form from his pocket and handed it to the detective.

Blake read it:

"Sorry, cannot marry you. Will write if you will wire an address. Do not come to see me, and try to forgive me.—MADELEINE."

"You can imagine what a blow it was to me, Mr. Blake," he said simply. "I had been working for her out there for three years, and her last letter said—" He gulped, and the detective turned his eyes away."

"I didn't faint," he went on, "and I didn't wire. I couldn't accept my dismissal like that—so I just took a special train, and demanded an explanation. They tried to prevent me from entering," he added grimly, "but I would not be denied."

"Well?" said the detective.

"She was—she nearly fainted at the sight of me, but pulled herself together, and reproached me for coming. I demanded an explanation, and she said she had none to give. I asked her if all her love-letters had been lies—and she burst into tears. I inquired the name of the man she was going to marry, and she told me—Donald Brayshon. I asked her if she cared him, and she would not answer; asked her if her love for me was dead, and she would not answer that either. All she would say was, 'Go—go—I cannot marry you! Oh, Edward, have mercy upon me, and go!'"

His hands were trembling, and there was fire in his eyes—the fire of a strong man's love.

"How could I go?" he cried harshly. "I distressed her—but how could I go? But I could get nothing out of her, Mr. Blake—nothing but the statement that she could not marry me and that she was going to marry him.

"In a minute it was she who went,' he continued after another pause. "She left the room—ran away from me. I looked up Brayshon's address and went to him—and he would say nothing either. I didn't kill him, Mr. Blake—though I wanted to. I offered him money—all I had in the world. I accused him of having some hold over her, and tried to buy him off. But he laughed at me, and rang for his servant, and, together they put me out. I enjoyed that—yes, I enjoyed that; but they got me out in the end. And this morning I thought of you."

"What is it you expect me to do?" inquired Blake, who was keenly interested in the story. The telegram, the special train, the interview with the girl, and then the fierce altercation with the man, ending with a combat in which he shrewdly suspected that Brayshon had sustained considerable damage—in imagination Blake filled in all the details for himself.

"I want you to find out why she is going to marry him, that's all," said Boltie. "Find that out, and let me know."

"Look here," said Blake, "I'll do my best on one condition."

"Name it!"

"That whatever the reason may be, whatever the hold he may or may not have over her, you must pledge me your word of honor not to murder him!"

The two men's eyes met—the eyes of two strong, resolute men.

"There is my hand upon it," said Boltie, at last. "I accept your condition—but find out, and, if possible, prevent the sacrifice—I am sure he hasn't simply cut me out. If I thought that I would take my gruel like a man, but—"

"When is the marriage to take place?" inquired Blake.

"Next week," he groaned.

"I'll do my best for you," Blake promised.

II.

To find out why Madeleine was going to marry Brayshon, and, if she was doing it under compulsion, to discover some way of releasing her—that was briefly the task which Sexton Blake had undertaken, and the difficulties in his path caused the great man considerable uneasiness.

However, Blake was not a man to be easily daunted, and by evening he had established certain facts, at any rate, to his own satisfaction.

It was not to save a father or a brother from dishonor; it was not the usual story of a forgery or the staving off of an impending ruin that had caused Madeleine Meyton to jilt the man who loved her so devotedly at the last moment. Careful inquiry among the servants convinced Blake that all the family, servants included, were astonished at Madeleine's behavior, and considered that she had treated Edward Boltie very badly, and that nobody knew the girl's reasons.

Donald Blake learned on the following day, was a [illegible] man of ungovernable temper, who had once been fined for assaulting a servant. He had plenty of money, and, apart from his one appearance at the police-court, there was nothing serious against him. All the same, he was not the sort of man one would have imagined a beautiful, sweet-natured girl like Madeleine to jilt her lover for the eleventh hour.

So far, in two days out of the seven before the date of the wedding Blake had drawn blank, and he sat up that night smoking pipe after pipe in a vain endeavor to solve the problem of what the man's hold over Madeleine could possibly be.

In the morning—the third day—as Donald Brayshon came jauntily down the steps of his town house, he was very much annoyed with a certain well-dressed stranger who cannoned into him in the clumsiest manner, and sent his silk hat rolling into the gutter.

The well-dressed stranger was full of apologies, and listened meekly to Brayshon's revilings.

"I was lost in a reverie. Do forgive me, sir! It was foolish of me, I know, but pray overlook it!" the well-dressed stranger said humbly.

Brayshon cooled down a little and began to walk on, but the well-dressed stranger kept by his side, still murmuring apologies and refusing to be shaken off. Gradually and skilfully he introduced other subjects, till Brayshon, thawed and interested, found himself at last exchanging cards with his new friend.

"I insist," said the stranger effusively, whose card proclaimed him to be Sampson P. Vane. "I insist that you lunch with me to-morrow, sir. Your conversation interests me, and I want to force you as my guest to forget the extremely annoying way in which I made your acquaintance."

"Very well," said Brayshon. "I shall be delighted! We seem to have a great deal in common!"

They parted, and Sampson P. Vane returned to Baker Street, doffed his disguise, and, as plane Sexton Blake, drove to an address in Harley Street.

The specialist gazed at him in amused astonishment as he explained his desire.

"My dear Blake," he exclaimed, "what next?"

"I count upon you, Sir James," returned the detective coolly. "Don't forget your promise over that Ellersham affair—that if ever you could be of service to me, you would."

"But, Blake—to dress up as a waiter and actually wait upon you and another man at lunch, and what is more, to find a colleague who would also dress up as a waiter—my dear chap, I can't!"

"You must!" said Blake.

"But I don't know how to 'wait.' We should give ourselves away."

"Not you. All you will have to do will be to put things on and take them off. I will arrange with the manager of the restaurant to have them all brought by a proper waiter to the door. It will be quite simple—just think of how you have seen other waiters behave."

And, taking his victim's consent for granted, Sexton Blake promptly retired.

"Cheek!" muttered Sir James. 'But I suppose I shall have to do it, and it will be a lark!"

Blake, meanwhile, had gone to Boltie's hotel.

"You mustn't ask questions," he said. "And you must give me your word to leave everything to me. I am lunching with Brayshon at the Bingwood Restaurant to-morrow, and you can sit behind a screen and listen—if you are sure you can control yourself, and will undertake not to make a sound till I give you leave."

Boltie promised, and Blake went off to interview the manager of the restaurant.

III.

"Don't think much of the waiters here," muttered Brayshon discontentedly. "But the cooking's good, I will say that!"

"First-class!" agreed Sampson P. Vane.

"That clumsy brute—the older one of the two—has already dropped two plates," exclaimed Brayshon, "besides spilling some soup on my shoulder."

"Never mind the waiters, old chap," said Sampson P. Vane, soothingly, "have some more champagne. A remark you made yesterday has been sticking in my mind. It sort of gave me an idea. Look here! That case I put to you wasn't entirely hypothetical. I want to know how a man who is madly in love with a girl who won't look at him can force her to marry him? You said—"

"I said the only way to rule a woman was to terrify her!" exclaimed Brayshon, taking the bait.

"Yes—but how?" murmured Blake.

"Do you think these waiters can hear?"

"All the waiters at this place are foreigners, and can only speak enough English to make themselves understood," said Blake evasively. "I shouldn't bother about them. Tell me how one can terrify a woman into doing whatever one wishes?"

"It must be a terror on a large scale. To threaten to shoot yourself or her isn't good enough. You must threaten to kill hundreds—thousands—"

"Appeal to her instinctive love of self-sacrifice—eh?"

"That's it, Vane! That's the idea, exactly! Now in my case—"

"Oh, you have done it,—eh?"

For a moment he looked confused, and then continued defiantly, made bold by the champagne:

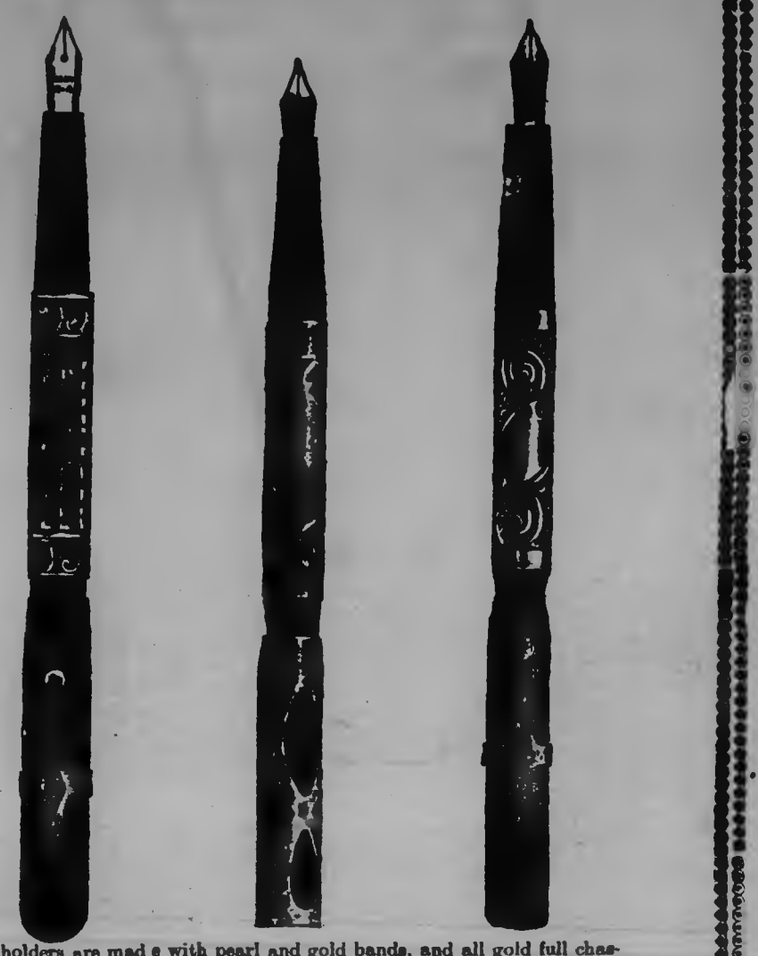
"Well, yes, I have!" His eyes began to flash. "This is what I did: I said to her, marry me at the earliest possible moment or the deaths of a thousand innocent men, women, and children will be at your door. She laughed at first, and then she said I was mad, and threatened to tell the police. 'Tell them,' I said; 'but before they can interfere, the deed will be done.' And it would, too! 'Think what your nights would be like with that to haunt your dreams,' I said. 'What it comes to is that you have got to give your life to save thousands!' She called me a demon—she said again that I was mad, but she gave way in the end. I convinced her, you see, that I would do it—and that I would manage to do it, somehow. If

Continued on Page 6.

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens. "Safety Clip", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons cut from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.



The holders are made with pearl and gold bands, and all gold full chased, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by its makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON.

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address.....

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fibrioid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1895, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation.

PRESIDENT.

Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 20c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 24 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

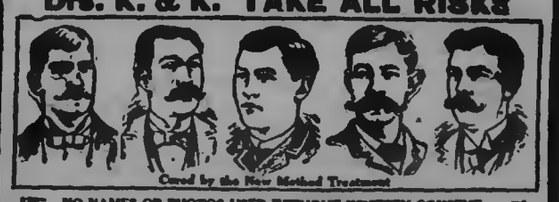
SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

YOU PAY WHEN CURED

Drs. K. & K. TAKE ALL RISKS



Cured by the New Method Treatment

NO NAMES OR PHOTOS USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

NERVOUS DEBILITY

Thousand of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through Early Indiscretions, Excesses and Blood Diseases. If you have any of the following symptoms consult us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, listless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, sore throat, etc.

YOU WILL BE A WRECK

Our New Method Treatment can cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified, so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual [illegible] are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Don't [illegible] and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars. We will cure you or no p[illegible].

EVERYTHING PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL.

READER: No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (Illustrated) on Secret Diseases of Men.

QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT SENT ON REQUEST

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Weal h Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Samp'e Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?

Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?

No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

A TERRIBLE PREDICAMENT

Continued from Page 4.

He betrayed me—and you can come to my wedding in four days' time!"

"I see the idea," said Sampson P. Vane. "But what was the actual scheme?"

"Simple and convincing, my boy. I ore I would put a sufficient quantity of poison into one of the water-tanks to poison everyone who drank a glass of water that particular main supplied."

"And she preferred to throw her lover over to risking the lives of so many—eh?"

"Of course she did, being a woman! I know she would, too—for all's fair in love and war, and she couldn't be sure if she attempted to betray me that I wouldn't contrive to carry out my threat; and, besides, she wouldn't be able to prove anything. As I pointed out to her, I should simply deny it to the police as an hysterical fabrication of hers, and then go and do it!"

Once more he chuckled.

"Neat—eh? Just the sort of thing to terrorise a woman. What you will have to do is to think of something clever, old chap! Let's see!"

He fell into a reverie, and Sampson P. Vane beckoned to the waiters.

"Good enough, Sir James?" he whispered.

"Quite good enough," the specialist answered.

"Bolitle!" called Sampson P. Vane sharply, and at the same time springing up and seizing Brayshoe in a grip of iron.

White with horror and anger combined, Boitle rushed from behind the screen to the detective's aid, and almost before he realised what was happening, the two men had Brayshoe handcuffed and helpless in their grasp.

"We have made out the certificate," said Sir James. "He is undoubtedly of unsound mind, and a fit and proper person to be placed under restraint."

"A cab and two attendants from an asylum are waiting at the back entrance," said Blake.

They carried the lunatic, kicking and struggling furiously, to the cab, and having despatched him, returned to their private room.

"What a ghastly scheme!" muttered Boitle. "How poor Madeleine must have suffered! Can's you see how such a terrible predicament must have tortured her? Poor Madeleine—afraid to speak for fear he might carry out his threat!"

"Mad as a hatter!" said Sir James. "A wholesale slaughterer—quite a well-known type, Blake. How did we 'wait'?"

"Vilely! But, all the same, I am very much obliged!" said the detective.

"I," said Boitle, "am more than obliged! I have no words, gentlemen, to express my thanks. As for you, Mr. Blake, I am your debtor for life!"

"Suppose you run away and relieve the poor young lady's mind, and leave us to finish the dinner," suggested Sexton Blake, who never could bear being thanked.—From Answers.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD

Creditor:—"Suppose I'll have to wait till the day of judgment for what you owe?"

Debtor:—"Yes; call late in the day, though."—Fliegende Blatter.

EGGS-ACTLY

"Am I a slave?" bellowed the budding orator, warming to his subject.

"You're under the yolk," replied a small boy in the audience, as he let fly an unsavory egg.

POOR STUFF

"But do you think," asked the visitor in the local option town, "that prohibition really prevents?"

"Well," replied the native, "It prevents a fellow from getting the best whiskey, but it doesn't prevent whiskey getting the best of him."

NOISE WITHOUT WORK

"What are the wild waves saying?" murmured the woman, as she stood on the silver lining of the mighty main.

"Nothing, Maria," replied the man, hoarsely; "They are like some people we know; they make a great deal of noise, but don't say anything."

HOW HE GETS ALONG

"How do I get along?" said Striker. "I'll tell you, my boy. I am constitutionally opposed to labor, my pride forbids me to beg, I am too honest to steal a pin's worth from anybody; but, thank goodness, I am always willing to borrow from a friend. My dear boy, may I call you a friend for, say, a fiver? Ah, thanks! I shall never forget what I owe you—day-day!"

AMBIGUOUS

First Sportsman (after pheasants):—"Look out! Your last shot missed my wife by about an inch."

Second Sportsman:—"Sorry, old man."

AN EXPERT BEGGAR

How Lord Rothschild must hate bazaars! At the last one he attended he was badly victimised by a well-known woman author.

"Won't you buy? Won't you buy?" she cried, as he walked past her stall.

"I would willingly," he said, "but really, the articles you have for sale are rather bulky."

Then, catching sight of a little pile of papers, each bearing the author's signature, he added:

"But I shall be proud to purchase your autograph."

With ready wit the lady writer took a slip and scribbled above her name the words: "Received from Baron Rothschild the sum of fifty pounds for charity."

If the baron was staggered he did not show it. Gravely handing her a bank-note for the amount, he said: "Madam, this autograph shall occupy an honored place in my collection."

COSTLY PLATE

Dinner Services that are Valued in the Hundreds of Thousands—Priceless China

Senator W. A. Clark, the Montana "Copper King," is said to be the proudest man in all America, for he is rejoicing in the possession of "the costliest, most ornate, and the largest silver and gold dinner-service in the world." And a wonderful service it is, with its full table equipment for twenty-four diners, each piece made of the purest silver, lined with sheet-gold of great thickness, and the whole service costing $120,000.

But the proud Senator is surely wrong in boasting that his service is the largest and costliest in the world. It is far surpassed in value and splendor by the famous Emperor's service at Windsor Castle, which is used only for crowned heads. Some of the epergnes of this marvellous service weigh several hundredweight, and even a strong man can carry no more than three of its dishes or eight of its plates at a time. It is of silver, richly gilt, and its value must run into six figures.

At Windsor, too, there are five tons of plate, some of it of solid gold, and of a value far exceeding $5,000,000. There is a rose-water fountain of silver, which weighs 2,250 ounces, and a nautilus cup by Cellini, with shell of pearl and mountings of gold and silver, which alone is said to be worth many thousands of dollars.

In America Mr. Pierpont Morgan's plate is valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars—indeed, the plate of the Tudor and Stuart days alone was purchased for six figures in Berlin. Mr. Morgan's collection includes two silver table-ornaments valued at $500,000 each. One represents Diana seated on a stag, with jewelled headdress and trappings; the other is an iridescent nautilus, borne on a gold and silver snail, and on it is perched a Nubian boy in black enamel.

It is not long, too, since a Piccadilly, London, firm completed an order for silver and china to the value of $850,000, designed as the present of a millionaire to an Eastern potentate. The silver included a table weighing 6,000 ounces, a tray eight feet in diameter, and a service, all in solid gold, for a thousand persons—a thousand silver dinner-plates, a thousand smaller plates, a thousand spoons and forks, a thousand silver wine-glasses, and so on.

In English noble houses there are many services of solid gold and silver almost, if not quite, as valuable as Senator Clark's vaunted purchase. And the china is of almost fabulous value. The Duke of Argyll has refused $20,000 for his white and gold Canadian china; Lord Hillingdon's superb hand-painted Worcester dinner-service for twenty-four persons is valued at $6,000; and Lord Dudley has a Coalport game-service worth $6,700, while Lord Rothschild's Dresden and Sevres ware is almost priceless.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S DESK

Britain and the United States

The desk used at the White House by the President of the United States is interesting in itself, apart from its connection with the ruler of a nation, for it is a token of the goodwill existing between Great Britain and the United States. Although occupying so prominent a place in the official residence of the chosen governor, it is not of American manufacture.

It was fashioned in England, and was a present from Queen Victoria to a former President. It was made from the timbers of H.M.S. Resolute, which was sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852. The ship was caught in the ice and had to be abandoned. It was not destined to go to pieces in frozen waters, however. An American whaler discovered and extricated it in 1855, and it was subsequently purchased and sent to Her Majesty by the President and the people of the United States as a token of goodwill and friendship.

In an English dockyard the Resolute was at last broken up, and from her timbers a desk was made, which was sent by the Queen "as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

At this desk, itself a representative of the kindly feeling of both nations, the President does the greater part of his writing.

BIBLICAL IGNORANCE

Members of Parliament Who Have Made Amusing Errors

Some interesting stories are told of members of the British House of Commons who were lacking in Biblical knowledge. For instance, in a debate a few years ago Mr. George Wyndham referred to David and the fifty fighting men he had in a cave. "Not David—Daniel," interjected Sir Edward Grey. "I am much obliged to my right honorable friend," continued Mr. Wyndham; "of course I meant Daniel," as the House resounded with laughter and shouts of "Obadiah!"

A little later the same evening Sir Edward again aired his Biblical knowledge by speaking of the feeding of the prophets on bread and water, when Sir William Evans Gordon convulsed everybody by suggesting that the prophetic menu consisted of locusts and wild honey.

Certainly a few lessons on the Bible would have been useful to a good many statesmen, past and present. Mr. Gladstone once committed the atrocity of putting Daniel in the fiery furnace, and made the Psalmist responsible for the words, "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." John Bright saddled St. Paul with the well-known aphorism, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness"; and Lord John Russell made a touching reference to Pharaoh and his host struggling in the engulfing waters of the Jordan.

In Paris, during 1910, 30,965 marriages took place, while 1,926 divorces were granted

WHAT A POSTMAN WALKS

An official walk of 200,000 miles has been accomplished by Mr. Leonard Wavell, a rural postman of Sandown, Isle of Wight, just retired from the service. For the past eighteen years he has daily walked from Sandown to Newchurch, via Apse Heath and Borthwood, and back, a distance of about twenty miles. During the previous thirty years he covered the same district from Newport, the total distance covered being about the same. Thus for thirty-one years he has walked twenty miles daily.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" Lager made its reputation on quality.

O'Keefe's PILSENER LAGER

"The Light Beer in the Light Bottle"

keeps its reputation for quality because it keeps up the quality that made it famous.

"The Beer with a Reputation" 216

Ask your Dealer for O'Keefe's.

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS
416 WATER STREET PHONE 61
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
Trade Marks
Designs
Copyrights &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Should you be unfortunate enough to have wine spilt on table linen, cover the stains immediately with salt, and afterwards wash out in cold water.

Should stains refuse to come out, cover them with a paste made of lemon-juice and salt. Leave to dry and then rinse in cold water.

HOME-MADE SWEETS.

Take one tin of Swiss milk, four ounces of fresh butter, two pounds of Demerara sugar, and twelve dessertspoonfuls of water. Melt the butter and sugar in a saucepan, then add the milk and water, and boil for an hour, stirring all the time. Flavour with vanilla. Pour on to a buttered slab, and when nearly cold cut into squares.

HOUSEMAID'S TIDY.

Buy two margarine tubs at the grocer's—they will cost four cents each—fit one in the other, cut the inner tub two inches higher than the outside one; divide into two compartments with a piece of board; and cut a slot in the centre of the wood for lifting the tray. Take off the handle of an old bucket, and screw it on each side of the outer tub. The outer one is used for ashes, and the top one for keeping blacklead, brushes, stove polish, etc. At the shops these tidies usually cost fifty cents each; if made at home, eight cents, and they will last quite a long while.

GREATEST QUESTION

For three hours, fifty-nine minutes, and forty-five seconds Professor L. L. Doo had been lecturing upon the burning question affecting political economy.

"And now," he concluded, glancing at his chronometer, "I should just like one of the students to state concisely what he considers to be the greatest question at present occupying the minds of men in this country."

From a far corner of the auditorium, cutting the proverbial hush like the proverbial knife, came the response, clear and concise:—

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?"

HOME-GROWN

He was a seedy, sad, sick-looking individual. His coat was gritty and grimy, and his countenance showed a close and unwashed friendship with Mother Earth. The large boquet in his buttonhole, despite its size and bright color, did not relieve his deplorable condition. It only seemed to accentuate it.

Yet he was nothing worse than a neighbor who had dropped in to pay Jones a call.

"How are you?" he said, extending an ungloved paw. "Nice day, ain't it? Everything's bloomin'. What do you think of my buttonhole?"

"Charming!" replied Jones politely

"Yes, ain't it?" said its owner proudly. "Now, where d'you suppose I got it—eh?"

Jones bestowed upon the flower and the dirty coat-lapel on which it was pinned a thoughtful scrutiny.

"I give it up," he answered at last "Did it grow there?"

HOW COULD SHE?

Mrs. Holmes:—"Mrs. Bangs threw a saucepan at her husband because he sat on her new hat I could never do a thing like that."

Mr. Holmes:—"Ah, no! Because you love me so dearly, pet?"

Mrs. Holmes:—"No, because I have a't a new hat"

SALE OF SIGNORINETTA

Lord Rosebery Purchases the Derby Winner of 1908

Signorinetta, the famous 100 to 1 Derby winner of 1908, and one of the only three of her sex to secure both that race and the Oaks, has been disposed of privately to Lord Rosebery and is at the Durdans stud. Chevalier Ginistrelli submitted his favorite to auction at the December sales, when she failed to reach her reserve, and was withdrawn at $37,200. It was rumored—though nothing transpired on the point—that $50,000 was the reserve figure. The Chevalier is now free to gratify his desire to return to Italy, which he announced he should do in the event of the "apple of his eye" changing hands.

WORKS WITH HIS GLASS

"I defy anyone," roared the teetotal lecturer, "to name a man who works better with his glass than without it."

"I know one," said a quiet man in the front row.

"Who is that?"

"A glazier."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

DOLLS—TRAINS—HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a Specialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

NEW WIVES FOR OLD

Viscount Wolseley has completed his seventy-eighth year. During his long military career he has met with many experiences, amusing and otherwise. One of the most comical was after Cetewayo, the conquered leader of the Zulus, had been sent by him into exile.

Cetewayo had wives by the hundred, but the British general set most of them at liberty, permitting the native to take only three with him. Again and again Cetewayo pleaded to be allowed to take all; but in vain.

The climax came when Lord Wolseley's departure for England was announced. Cetewayo sent a last despairing message to ask that, if the general would not send him more wives, he would at least exchange those he had for three others!

ALL GROW BEARDS

Among the many suggestions made for the commemorating the reign of King Edward VII., the quaintest is that now put forward by Captain MacIlwaine, R.N. Captain MacIlwaine's suggestion is that the men of the British Empire, following the example of the late King, should put their razors aside and proceed to grow beards. Our present King, sharing the views of his father, grows a beard, and makes his staff do the same. The beard is the exception, not the rule, among men of the present day.

TO STOP HAT-LIFTING

To put a stop of hat-lifting as a form of salutation a league has been formed at Zurich which seeks to introduce the military form of salute. The league states that the uncovering of heads is the cause of many colds affecting mainly the older men. In Germany, Austria, and German Switzerland it is the custom for a man to hold his hat in his hand until the lady asks him to "cover" himself. A nod is generally sufficient, but some wait for a formal request.

CAST-OFF UNIFORMS

Much money is made out of cast-off police uniforms. Quantities are bought by African traders and exported to various parts of the "Dark Continent," where they are exchanged for palm-oil, ivory, skins, and other merchandise. It is by no means an uncommon sight to see a swarthy savage dressed in the uniform of a London policeman, and wearing the regulation helmet of the force.

VERY ABSENT-MINDED

On the stage Sir Herbert Tree can be alert enough on occasion. Off it he is absent-minded. Sir Herbert took a taxi, and gave the driver the address. Throughout the journey he was reading letters, and when the house he was going to was reached the cab stopped and the driver came and opened the door. Still reading, Sir Herbert looked up abstractedly and said to the amazed chauffeur: "Come in! Come in!"

DEMAND FOR LIGHT HORSES

The demand for all light horses of approved style and breeding is keen in the Old Country, and prices rule very high at the London sales. Among the sales at Tattersall's were twenty horses which brought prices ranging from $580 to $1,870 each, and in a list of forty in the same sale, the lowest price was $565.

NO ESKIMO WIDOWERS

At Least None of Long Standing, For They Remarry at Once

In civilization it is said that a wife does not always add to her husband's ease or render his life more supportable, but up on the barren grounds the worst of wives would be better than none.

There, among the heathen tribes, if a man's wife dies—provided he is not a polygamist, in which case, says the Wide World, there is less need for hurry—he often marries again within the week.

Even the Christian Eskimo widowers are with difficulty persuaded by the Moravian missionaries to allow six weeks to elapse between the death and remarriage. On the very day after the six weeks have elapsed the hunter presents himself with a new bride and asks that the marriage service may be speedily read.

The reason is not far to seek. It is said in civilization that "a woman's work is never done," and far more is that true of the helpmate of the savage and the semi-savage, the woman of the barren grounds or of the ice edge. She makes and breaks camp, cooks, cuts up and carries to camp her husband's kill; she dresses the skins of deer and seal.

She is responsible for the fashioning of footgear and clothes; on a journey she often paddles the canoe, and on portage she carries a heavy load. In fact, it is easier to write down the duties not expected of a squaw than those which by immemorial custom she must perform.

LETTING OFF STEAM

Peculiar Methods of Disposing of One's Angry Feelings

Many brain-workers find at times a distinct need for some violent frolic or escapade to relieve their pent-up feelings and overstrained nerves.

One such man has a preference for barring doors; another for playing the "Dead March" in "Saul" with one finger; a third, after a heavy day's work, will go round the neighborhood ringing door bells; whilst a fourth, to steady his nerves, will dash a teacup against a wall.

It seems an idiotic thing to slap a policeman's face to relieve one's feelings, yet that is what a well-known actor does; and he does it in such a gentlemanly fashion, and pays so liberally, that the driver seldom takes offence.

Other brain workers have a penchant for playing ornaments, such as fern-pots and knick-knacks, on the floor, not even settling for the damage done in the coolest manner imaginable; while recently a well-known City merchant was fined $100 for spitting on each side of a constable—a practice he was in the habit of carrying out regularly.

One man finds relief in dashing his spectacles against the wall, and another is never happier than when he has just pushed his fist through a window.

WORLD'S TALLEST TREE

Australia claims to have the tallest tree in the world. It has long been thought that to California belonged the distinction, but while we trees are of gigantic dimensions, do not come up to Australia's eucalyptus trees. The Californias are noted not so much for their height, as for their girth and diameter. The tallest tree in California yet discovered was found by actual measurement to be 340 feet high. Australia's record gum tree can beat this by 140 feet.

MILLIONAIRE POLICEMAN

The Philadelphia police force now boasts the possession of a millionaire policeman. This is Mr. Edward T. Stonesbury, the well-known financier and sportsman, and a partner of Mr. Anthony J. Drexel. He has been sworn in as a special policeman by the Chief of Police of Philadelphia as a mark of the force's appreciation of his generous donation to the police funds.

HAREM-SKIRTED CARPENTER

A carpenter in a harem skirt is one of the curiosities at Clusses, near Montlucon. [illegible] is the wife of a carpenter, and they are employed on a new building for the infantry barracks. The "lady carpenter" may be seen every day carpentering away as cleverly as any of her male companions, but the novelty of the case is that she wears a good practical harem skirt, with a green velveteen [illegible] She is a native of Spain, and [illegible] of age.

"BUNKUM"

"Buncombe" is the spelling of bunkum in the new English dictionary. Buncombe, of course, is the place in North Carolina whose representative in Congress once justified himself for making a superfluous speech by explaining that he was speaking not to the House, but to Buncombe.

All Learn Chess

Chess is taught in nearly all the schools in Saxony.

Man-of-War Ropes

The ropes of a first-class man of war cost about $15,000.

Big Tobacco Area

Over six million acres of land are under tobacco cultivation throughout the world.

Aliens in Europe

Of 1,131 aliens naturalized in Britain last year, 390 were Russians and 347 Germans; while of the whole total 468 settled in London.

Lots of "Smith"

At a Perthshire village a Miss Smith was married to a Mr. Smith by the Rev. Mr. Smith. They have gone to live in a house where their only neighbors are a Mr. and Mrs. Smith!

A report from the far West of Canada deplores a shortage of cars. A local citizen, living near Auburn, made a similar complaint whilst standing at George and Hunter Sts. last night, as he shivered and had his mind on hot oysters and fixings when he should get home.

Whilst men were digging a sewer trench on Gilmour street yesterday, [illegible]

JOHN REDMOND, IRISH LEADER

Sketch of the Man Who is at the Head of the Irish Home Rule Party

What manner of man is John Redmond.

The answer is given in a sketch by Mr. Louis Redmond-Howard, who is the adopted son of the Irish leader. A note of filial affection runs through it. But while the book is more laudatory than critical, it presents a very life-like portrait of the man, and gives an excellent narrative of his career. Mr. Redmond-Howard, who was born in New South Wales, was left an orphan at an early age. "When my mother died," he says, "leaving me an orphan, I was taken into Mr. John Redmond's house as one of his own children, with a kindness and magnanimity which did for me all that a father could have done for the education of his own son."

Reserved, silent in company, contemplative, and with a touch of melancholy in his outlook, John Redmond has none of the Irish exuberance and gaiety of spirit. Constant in his attendance at the House of Commons, he does not mingle in its rich, free inner life. He is a widely-read man of cultivated tastes and with a serious view of life and duty. It is no surprise to learn that he thought at one time he had a religious vocation.

An Ancient Family

Mr. Redmond belongs to the old Irish gentry. He is the head of an ancient Anglo-Norman family, which has been rooted in Ireland since 1170. Following the all-but invariable habit of the English settlers in the Emerald Isle, the Redmonds became Irish of the Irish. Has not Froude shown us with matchless art how English, Norman, and Scotch settlers in Ireland succumbed to the witchery of their new surroundings and became ipsis Hibernis Hiberniores? In 1170 Raymund le Gros, leader of Strongbow's advance guard, landed with a small force in Wexford, and that county has ever since been the home of his descendants.

Several members of the family sat in the Westminster Parliament, including Mr. Redmond's father, William Archer Redmond, who was returned for the borough of Wexford in 1872. A zealous Catholic and a temperance reformer, W. A. Redmond was described by the "Tablet" on his death in 1881, as "a man of large and cultivated intellect, refined and sensitive nature." In his election address of 1872 Mr. W. A. Redmond strongly urged the necessity of Home Rule for Ireland, and declared that "ample means existed to achieve this result within the limits of the Constitution and without infringing upon our loyalty to the throne."

Clerk in the House of Commons

With such an ancestry, John Redmond took naturally to politics and to Nationalism. Born in 1856, he received his early education at the Irish Jesuit College of Clongowes, in Kildare. Here he was a diligent scholar, and early gave promise of excellence in speaking and writing English. He was a shining light in the amateur theatricals of the college. Mr. Redmond retains his youthful enthusiasm for the stage, and is an assiduous theatregoer in London.

From Clongowes he went to Trinity College, Dublin, and was called in due course to the Irish Bar. It was fortunate enough to obtain a [illegible] in the House of Commons while still in the early twenties, and from that position of detachment observed the startling rise of Parnell and the birth of a new Nationalism movement in Ireland.

Resigning his clerkship in the House of Commons, Mr. Redmond soon returned to it as member. In 1881 he was elected M.P. for New Ross, and joined Mr. Parnell's band, then in its brilliant dawn. Mr. Timothy Healy tells a story of how Mr. Willie Redmond, himself later to become a Nationalist M.P., but at that time a lively young Militia officer, telegraphed in horror from Wexford barracks to his brother on hearing of the candidature for New Ross. "For God's sake don't disgrace the family by joining the Land League and Parnell." How amusing is that telegram in the light of later events.

The Schism and After

There is no need to retraverse the old familiar ground of the Irish agrarian agitation in the 80's, Parnell's amazing ascent into fame and power, and then after the divorce suit his swift descent into the abyss. Mr. Redmond stood by the chief in the schism that destroyed the unity of the Irish party. As a Parnellite he stood at the General Election of 1892 for Waterford, where he defeated Michael Davitt. Before this, on the death of Parnell in 1891, he succeeded to the leadership of the little forlorn remnant of what was once a powerful party. After ten years of bitter fratricidal strife, a re-union of Anti-Parnellites and Parnellites was effected in 1901, and John Redmond became the leader of what was again a more or less united band.

Mr. Redmond first distinguished himself in the House of Commons during the debates on the Home Rule Bill of 1893. The force, the cogency and the clearness of his speeches showed that he was a valuable addition to the debating strength of the Irish members. He has always been averse to the idea that Ireland should cut herself away from an Empire to whose greatness Irish valor and Irish statesmanship have contributed so largely, and which includes within its borders so many millions of the Irish race.

Corean Marriages

In Corea marriage is even more important and essential for a man than it is for a woman, as until a man be wed, he is a being of no account. If a father has not selected wives for his sons ere they reach the age of twenty he is considered worthless and neglectful.

We Congratulate Lindsay.

The Lindsay Warder, referring to a notice we had, a few days ago, concerning the Winter Carnival of that town says: "Peterborough jealous of Lindsay's big Carnival." No, Brer G., you mistook our meaning. The Times intended and does now, congratulate Lindsay on her enterprise. We distinctly said, "What is the matter with Peterborough getting up some such event." Lindsay deserves credit for her enterprise and it is to be hoped this city may do something similar to draw strangers and incidentally their loose change to Peter-

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out, I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 357 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every way with all requirements. It will cure you when all else fails. It will stop pain and backache at once. It will stop too frequent desire to urinate at night, heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure, but everything that will benefit. All that I ask is this, you write me and let me prove it yourself do that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, cures and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this great illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you to-day.

These Are the Symptoms:

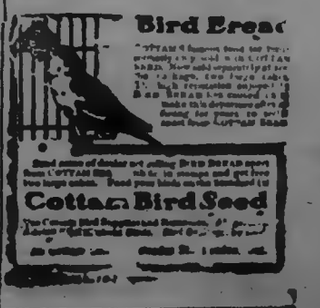
1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to pass water.
3—Burning or other pain in passing water.
4—Pain or uneasiness in the bladder.
5—Prostatic troubles.
6—Gravel or pain in the kidneys.
7—Unnatural debility, nervousness, blues, etc.
8—Pain or uneasiness in the joints or muscles.
9—Rheumatism in any part of the body.
10—Sciatica, lumbago or fleeting pains.
11—Pain in the head or temples.
12—Pain in the back of the head.
13—Pain or uneasiness in the kidneys.
14—Pain or uneasiness in the bladder.
15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
16—Pain and soreness in muscles.
17—Attacks or rheumatic rheumatism.

Big G

For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced physicians will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes other than those caused by venereal disease. Quick relief and prevents contagion. Sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.



Bird Brand

Cottam Bird Seed

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in five size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, Barge St., PETERBORO — H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J. CHALMERS

No 190 Simcoe Street

Next Kings Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

SMOKING.

Smoking is regarded as a nuisance by those to whom the fragrant weed is obnoxious, but it seems to be more than that. At any rate, under the nuisance clause of the penal code of New York, the Fire Commissioner will put a stop to the smoking of pipes, cigars and cigarettes in factories. In 1910 3240 fires were caused by the carelessness of smokers, and it is estimated that the loss to the whole country from this cause is about $100,000,000 annually. The awful fire in the New York shirt waist factory, which resulted in the loss of 146 lives was supposed to have been caused by smoking. It is believed that the Equitable building was burned from the same cause, and it is supposed that the great fire in Baltimore a few years ago was caused by a lighted cigarette thrown on the sidewalk and blown into a cellar through an uncovered hole. Certain it is, that of all people on earth, Americans are the most careless as to the way in which they know about lighted matches, cigars, cigarettes, and such things, hence a factory where rubbish and inflammable material abound is no place to allow smoking.

LLOYD GEORGE WINS.

David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, whilst recently making a speech at the City of London Liberal Club declared that reports of a split in the British cabinet were entirely unfounded. He also assured his audience that the alleged feud between himself and Premier Asquith was a myth.

Lloyd-George also made his first incursion into international politics since the speech delivered by him last summer so inflamed public opinion in Germany. Speaking on the reduction of armament he said he believed the present was an advantageous moment to consider the question. It was in the interests of France, Germany, Russia and Great Britain that there should be a better understanding. He continued: "I believe that with candor, frankness and boldness it is attainable. The world would be richer for it. Taxes might be reduced and money which would be saved that is now spent on armaments could be devoted to developing the resources of the country and improving the conditions of the people. The corner stone of sound finance is 'Peace on earth and good will among men.'"

VENTILATING THE FOWL HOUSE

An Important Matter Which Must Not Be Overlooked

If you do not keep your fowls under thoroughly healthy conditions you cannot hope to be successful.

If you bear in mind that in a natural state birds roost in trees—and on many farms fowls do actually spend the night in this way—you will realise how important plenty of fresh air is. Imagine, for instance, thirty birds cooped up in a tiny house 6ft. by 7ft., without ventilation, and you will realise how stuffy the quarters must be by the time the slide is raised in the morning.

As a matter of fact, the night apartment of a hygienic fowl house should have an entry for fresh air near the base, and an exit at the roof. In this way there will be a continual passage of air without draughts. In some pens there are sliding shutters; they run up and down grooved frames, and at the top of each is a hook. From the eaves of the roof chains depend, and the hook is fastened to a link in the chain. On warm nights the shutters are left wide open, whilst when cold, threatening days are tightly closed. Keep the roosting-place draught-proof, yet ventilate it, make it rain-proof and whitewash inside.

AN ANCIENT BRITISH CANOE

An ancient canoe, the third to be found within a few years, has been discovered in the Kirk Loch. It is of oak, 15ft. long, and is said to be of the same type as those used by the prehistoric Britons. When unearthed it was partially filled with stones, as if it had been sunk with them. The canoe probably dates back many years. It is 15in. in breadth, and at the broadest part is 3ft. 6in. It is about 15in. in height.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 219. 570½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 570 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 615 Water Street, H. A. Peck, K. H. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. E. B. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.

SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.

OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 483, House 1361.

HARRIS

is true to its reputation as the

HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL

PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

BUILDERS WHO ARE BUSY

Some Huge Buildings Being Erected in London, England

Probably in London's history there has never been a year in which a larger number of great buildings are being erected, the whole representing several millions of capital expenditure.

On one side of Kingsway is rising a magnificent new opera house which is to cost $1,000,000. On the other side is being erected an enormous steel and concrete structure, costing $400,000, which will have seven floors, with a total area of 66,000 square feet, and which will be able to hold 500 employees.

Further up, in the same direction, one sees an hotel, to which 500 new rooms and the most palatial Turkish bath ever seen in London are being added. Then there are the new Law Courts which, costing $500,000, will be complete in July, 1913. Further west, in Tottenham Court Road, the Y.M.C.A. is establishing a new headquarters, with numerous offices, 200 bed-rooms, a swimming-bath, a gymnasium, and recreation-rooms, at a cost of $875,000; and in Regent Street the Polytechnic are extending their premises at a cost of over $450,000.

In Drury Lane a new music hall is being built at a cost of $500,000, while the London County Council, the British Museum, the Local Government Board, and the Wesleyan Methodists are all extending their premises in various parts of the metropolis.

RECENTLY DISCOVERED STAR

M. Deslandres, a well-known French astronomer and chief of the Meudon observatory, brings out some new points about a variable star in the constellation of the Lizard. This star, which was discovered about a year ago, seemed at first to be of the twelfth or thirteenth magnitude. Its brightness suddenly increased, and during last November it reached the fifth magnitude. Less than a month after its brilliancy lessened, and now the star is only of the seventh magnitude.—Science Siftings.

SMALLEST GLASS BOTTLE

What is regarded by skilled artisans as the smallest perfect glass bottle ever blown has just been turned out by Robert Gillespie, one of the blowers of the great Whitall-Tatem glass works in Millville, New Jersey. The tiny bit of glass is not much larger than a kernel of corn, but is in every way perfect, including a ground stopper. Gillespie was at infinite pains to produce the curiosity, which, compared with a 110-gallon carboy, such as is made at the same works, would be about like a fly against an elephant. Indeed, a common housefly could barely crowd into the Gillespie bottle.

PLATINUM IS SOARING

The prices of platinum are soaring. Recently, hard platinum reached the record price per ounce of $43, whilst the soft metal touched $41. Six years ago the pure metal was selling at $19.50 per ounce. Through the year 1908 the price of hard went up to $40. The market then declined, until in August, 1908, prices had fallen to $20. One incidental cause of enhanced prices, says the Canadian Mining Journal, is the growing use of platinum in manufacturing jewellery. Another is the demand for the metal in making tips for the sparking plugs of automobiles. But probably the main factor is the closer control of the principal Russian sources of supply.

TICKET MACHINE

The Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company have installed a remarkable automatic machine at Sandhills Station, Liverpool, by which, on dropping a penny in the slot, a ticket is printed, dated, and cut. The machine is worked electrically, the power being supplied from the live rail. When the supply of cardboard is running short the clerks in the office are warned by the ringing of a bell.

REFORMED TOO SOON

An eminent speaker at the Congregationalist meeting in the First Congregational Church, East Orange, was telling the other day of a Westerner's opinion of the East. "This man," said the speaker, "was a prominent churchman, and had occasion to visit New York, where he remained for a few days. In writing of his experiences to his wife in the West, he said: 'New York is a great city, but I do wish I had come here before I was converted.'"

A Ruby Wedding

That rare event, a ruby wedding, was celebrated in Balfour village, Shapansey, Orkney Islands, recently by Mr. and Mrs. John Orever. They were married in 1841, and their respective ages are ninety-one and ninety-four years.

THE FIVE-FINGERED ORANGE

Grows Exactly the Shape of a Half-Opened Hand

A most weird-looking fruit is the five-fingered orange. It grows exactly the shape of a half-open hand. Even the nails are identical, hard-pointed and claw-like, tipping the orange flowers with a length equal, in some cases, to three inches.

It is no freak, but a proper kind of orange, belonging to a special variety. That tree itself is a rugged little shrub that does not average more than five or six feet in height in its native home—Japan. It does not grow straight, as the ordinary orange-tree should, but is curved in all directions.

Even the branches grow in spiral or twisted forms, so that the width of the tree is often greater than the height. The fruit itself is of a pale yellow color, of a pure lemon hue, growing greenish toward the stem. The size is immense, considering the smallness of the tree, the largest ones measuring when mature fully ten inches from the wrist to the point of the middle finger, including the nail.

But the fruit is not good to eat, though what it lacks in flavor it more than makes good in perfume. Perhaps the strangest thing about this perfume is that it is the fruit and not the flower that is odorous.

THOSE BRAINY SCOTS!

A noted Scot is Viscount Haldane, lately plain Mister. He was partly educated at the University of Gottingen. Discussing the German Universities the other day his lordship remarked:—

"Scottish students have quite a reputation at Gottingen. A great German professor said to me:—

"'I think we shall have to exclude young Scotsmen from our schools. They no sooner come here than they begin to cheat.'

"'Cheat!' said I, alarmed. 'How so?'

"'Why,' said the professor, 'they only pay for tuition for one, but they learn enough for three or four!'"

THE BACHELOR'S WISDOM

We must all try to stand erect, not be kept erect by others.

Whether you be men or women you will never do anything without courage.

Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust before brightness.

Victories attained by right thought can only be maintained by watchfulness.

God does not look to see if the hands are full. He looks to see if they are clean.

An opportunity is like a pin in the sweeping: you catch sight of it just as it flies away from you, and gets buried again.

WITH A ROYAL ACCOMPLICE

The Queen, like so many members of our Royal Family, is blessed with [illegible] On one occasion she was present at [illegible] Mansion House, the official city [illegible] her majesty [illegible] next to the Lord Mayor.

Soon he confessed that he was greatly worried about the printed address he had presently to read, and that he would far sooner "say a few words" that he really felt.

"Very well, then," replied her Majesty sympathetically; "let us hide that printed speech behind this flower-pot!"

This they did, and the Lord Mayor made a little speech that rang true instead of reading his address.

CARUSO'S BIG LOSS

It is announced that Signor Caruso hopes to benefit by a complete rest and change of air, the physicians having forbidden him to sing this season. The loss sustained by the great tenor through what was in the first place regarded as an ordinary slight cold is estimated at about $60,000, as he has been compelled to refrain from singing for a period of twelve weeks.

PROFITS ON "GLADSTONE"

Morley's "Gladstone" has beaten all records in biographies. The cheque sent by the publishers to the proprietors of the book—that is, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting, was greater by several thousand pounds than Longman's famous $160,000 cheque to Macaulay for the profits on the third and fourth volumes of his History of England.

THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK

Naturalists consider the elephant's trunk the most marvellous miracle of Nature. It contains over 4,000 muscles—a great many more than are found in the entire human body. By aid of these muscles the trunk will uproot trees or gather grass, lift a cannon or a nut, kill a man or brush off a fly. It is as useful as a hand with all its fingers to supply the elephant with food, and, being hollow, is used as a suction pump. No other animal has a single member or organ so perfect and so useful.

TREMENDOUS WHALE

The largest whale of its type of which there is scientific record was captured recently off Port Arthur, Texas. He measured 63 feet in length, and was estimated to be about 300 years old. Capt. Cob Plummer, mate of a United States pilot boat, sighted the monster in the shoals off the jetties, and the crew of his vessel captured the mammal. The huge body was towed ashore, exhibited and much photographed before being cut up.

PROTECTION OF SMALL BIRDS

The Agricultural Society of the Gironde, France, is convinced that the continually increasing numbers of enemies of crops, and especially of the insects so harmful to vines, Cockylis and Eudemis, is due to a great extent to the disappearance of small birds. The society, therefore, has invited all the agricultural associations of France to unite and insist upon the protection of these valuable auxiliaries of the farmer.

A New Bank for Norwood.

The Bank of Toronto has opened a branch at Norwood, under temporary management of Mr. P. J. Wright, of Havelock. This latest addition to Norwood's business system is located in the premises lately occupied by Mr. John Hendren and previously occupied by Mr. Walter Girvin, opposite the Methodist church property. This is but a temporary location, it being intended that in the spring a new and suitable building shall be erected in some convenient place.

RIDE SOME DAY IN GOLDEN TAXIS

A Few of the Amazing Things We May Do in the Magical Future, According to Edison

What will the world be like a hundred years hence?

None but a "wizard" dare raise the curtain and disclose the secrets of the future; and what wizard can do it with so sure a hand as Thomas Alva Edison, who has wrested so many secrets from jealous Nature? He alone of all men who live has the necessary courage and gift of foresight; and he has not shrunk from the venture.

Already, Edison tells us, the steam-engine is emitting its last gasps. A century hence it will be as remote an antiquity as the lumbering coach of Tudor days, which took a week to travel from Yorkshire to London. In the year 2011 such railway-trains as survive will be driven at incredible speeds by electricity (which will also be the motive force of all the world's machinery), generated by "hydraulic" wheels.

But the traveller of the future will largely scorn such earth-crawling. He will fly through the air, swifter than any swallow, at a speed of two hundred miles an hour, in colossal machines which will enable him to breakfast in London; transact business in Paris, and eat his luncheon in Cheapside.

Steel Cradles for Babies

The house of the next century will be furnished from basement to attic with steel, at a sixth of the present cost—of steel so light that it will be as easy to move a sideboard as it is to-day to lift a drawing-room chair. The baby of the twenty-first century will be rocked in a steel cradle; his father will sit in a steel chair at a steel dining-table; and his mother's boudoir will be sumptuously equipped with steel furnishings, converted by cunning varnishes to the semblance of rosewood or mahogany, or any other wood her ladyship fancies.

Books of the coming century will all be printed on leaves of nickel, so light to hold that the reader can enjoy a small library in a single volume. A book two inches thick will contain forty thousand pages, the equivalent of a hundred substantial volumes of to-day; three such volumes, six inches in aggregate thickness, would suffice for all the contents of the "Encyclopaedia Britannica." And each volume would weigh less than a pound.

Already Mr Edison can produce a pound-weight of these nickel leaves, more flexible than paper, and ten times as durable, at a cost of $1.25. In a hundred years' time the cost will probably be reduced to a tenth.

More amazing still, this American wizard can [illegible] of gold as a precious metal. "Gold," he says, has even now but a few years to live; the day is near when bars of it will be as common and as cheap as bars of iron or blocks of steel." We are already on the verge of discovering the secret of transmuting metals, which are all substantially the same in matter, though "combined in different proportions." Before long it will be an easy matter to convert a truck-load of iron bars into as many bars of virgin gold.

We Shall Not be Here

In these magical days to come there is no reason why our great liners should not be of solid gold from stem to stern; why we should not ride in golden taxi-cabs; or substitute gold for steel in our drawing-room suites. Only, steel will be the more durable, and, thus the cheaper in the long run.

And in the world of manufacture the changes of the next hundred years will be just as revolutionary. Where we have now a score of machines, each responsible for a stage of manufacture, one will suffice.

"Before long," says Mr. Edison, without a twinkle in his eye, and certainly without his tongue in his cheek, "we shall have a machine into one end of which you will put cloth, thread, buttons, and so on, and from the other end draw suits complete to the last stitch, and ready folded for delivery."

All our present marvels of phonograph and telephone and aerial telegraphy are but blind gropings in the dark compared with the light that shall flood the next century.

The Briton of 2011 will be able to sit in his armchair and converse with his son at the Cape, or with a friend in Melbourne, as easily as across the hearthrug; and not merely to listen to his friend's or his son's voice, but to see each of them as clearly as if he were in the same room.

"WHERE'S THE MISSIS?"

During the tour round the world of the King and Queen as Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, one of the ceremonies was at the University of Melbourne in Australia.

The Duke was to receive an honorary degree, but the Duchess was unable to be present. There was a vast crowd. At last the solemn procession of the Council and Senate of the University emerged and made its way to the platform, the Chancellor escorting the Duke, gorgeous in his new hood and gown. In the hush of the moment, while the dignitaries were taking their places, a student of the University called out, in a disappointed tone:—

"Hello, George! Where's the missis?"

The shocked expression on the faces of some of the bigwigs only added to the audience's delight at the good-natured smile with which the Duke looked up in the direction of the voice.

Fifty-one Years Clerk

Mr. Elias Taylor, parish clerk of Felsted, has retired on reaching the age of ninety, after fifty-one years of service. During his term of office he has ascended the church tower to wind the clock. He discharged that duty 18,360 times, and climbed 160 miles of stairs.

Big Hearted Boniface.

An Atlantic City, N.J., hotel-keeper recently celebrated his 70th birthday by giving a dinner to a number of friends. To each of those present he presented a brand new $100 bill. This boniface says he intends to repeat this act on every anniversary of his natal day. Why not put our Industrial Commissioners' staff, if there be such, or our Board of Trade, on this hotelman's trail and induce him to come to Peterborough. He could be certain of a cordial welcome and a reception by the combined bands of the town.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in Diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	8.35 p.m.
Fort Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	8.35 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto.	1.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
London, Detroit, Chicago and west. Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.19 p.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	5.20 p.m.	8.30 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	11.34 a.m.	7.15 a.m.
Lindsay Local	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	10.15 p.m.	8.35 p.m.
Lakefield	8.10 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
	3.35 p.m.	1.00 p.m.
	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	4.15 p.m.	12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston.	11.33 a.m.
Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed.	7.47 p.m.
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	12.10 a.m.
	1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago.	5.26 a.m.
	5.51 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto.	7.07 a.m.
Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	4.26 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

Infant Dies at Bridgenorth.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Telford will receive the condolence of their many friends over the death at Bridgenorth of their infant son. The child which was only two days old, died on Saturday.

Austrian Partly Identified.

Enquiries having been made at Campbellford, it is discovered that the young Austrian who died in St. Joseph's Hospital 'last Thursday night, was entered in his employers' books as John Douglas. His real name still remains a mystery.

Lindsay Man Gets Damages.

Mr. Samuel Walker, of Lindsay, sustained injuries last June by falling on the sidewalk. He claimed that the walk was out of repair, and the plank had been out of order for over a month. He sued the town and was awarded $300 and costs.

Wild Ducks at the Lake)

A Port Hope paper says: Wild ducks have been very numerous along the lake front this winter. If the temperature along the Port Hope shore of Lake Ontario has scared the mercury down as low as it has slunk here, these wild ducks would be in permanent "cold storage."

Mrs. Buchanan's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Buchanan will be held to-morrow, February 13, from the family residence, 413 Bethune street, at 3 p.m., to the Little Lake cemetery. The service at the home will commence at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Canon Davidson officiating.

Business Quiet at the Court.

Business was slack at the Police Court mill on Saturday. One Tweed drunk, one Toronto soak and one young man who had imbibed not wisely, but too well, comprised the whole grist. They all admitted the soft impeachment, and after getting some good advice from the Cadi were allowed to depart.

The Team for Midland.

At a meeting of the hockey club executive on Saturday morning it was proposed to take the following players to Midland to-day: Derocher, Bearss, Bond, Glover, Denison, Weatherston, Park, Kelly, Coughlin and Giroux. Bond, Kelly and Bearss are somewhat under the weather, but may be in shape for to-day.

Small Fire Yesterday.

The fire brigade had a run over to East City at about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Little damage fortunately was done. The fire was caused in a rather unusual manner, viz., a coal stove exploded. The fire laddies however, by a prompt reply to the call and intelligent action on arrival soon put out the incipient blaze.

Peterborough People Abroad.

Lindsay Post: Miss Alice Milloy, of Peterborough, is on a visit to Lindsay friends.

Miss Margaret McGrath, of Peterborough, is the guest of Ops relatives.

Messrs. H. W. Stock and J. A. Gibbs, Peterborough, were in town to-day.

Presentation to Judge Benson.

His honor Judge Benson of Port Hope is well known in this city. His many friends will be pleased to learn that Judge Benson, when the High School Board of the Lakeside town met last week, learned that the members in recognition of his long services had collected a large sum to purchase a silver set for him.

Cobourg Farmer Loses Cheque.

A Farmer residing on the Cobourg Road purchased a cow from another agriculturist living near Elmview, and was paid for the animal by a cheque. The Elmview man claims he lost the cheque and entered suit in the Division Court against the Cobourg Road man, thus piling up the cost. All the banks in town have been notified not to honour this cheque on presentation.

Local Electricians Get Contract.

The contract for supplying the electric fixtures, electroliers, etc., and the installation of same for the new Murray street Baptist church, has been awarded to the firm of Alexander & Miller, electricians of this city. The designs decided on embracing some of the most modern and effective methods for successful church lighting.

Liberal Club for Lindsay.

The Young Liberals of Lindsay, at a largely attended meeting decided on the organization of a club in Lindsay and the speech delivered during the evening were of an enthusiastic character, the speakers being very optimistic. Mr. J. P. Donald was voted to the chair, and in his opening remarks, stated that the formation of a Young Liberal Club has been considered well by those who had taken the initiative.

Verulam House is Burned.

Last week the house and contents of Mr. Albert Thurston, lot 3, con. 5, Verulam, son of Mr. E. Thurston, Lindsay, town, was completely destroyed by fire. The cause of the fire is unknown. The house had been erected only a few years. There is very little insurance, and the loss will be heavy. Mr. Thurston and family left home about 11 o'clock in the morning coming to Lindsay to spend the day. About five o'clock in the afternoon a phone message was received to the effect that the house was on fire.

Take and Advertise in The Times.

If you do not take The Times, why not? We are now on the aeroplane of success and put the latest news of the city and the world-at-large on your breakfast table daily. Try it for a year! Why wait for noon papers often late? At the same time, if you are in business place your adv. in our columns. We reach the class who have the "Ready Money," the people who buy when they see good live advertising, the class of ads. that tell our readers where bargains are to be found.

You May Have Catarrh And Not Know It

DISEASES WITH GERMS FROM NEGLECTING COLDS AND COUGHS.

Catarrh is Treacherous—When Fully Developed is a Horror—Note Its Symptoms.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritable, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"

If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs or bronchial tubes—then it may be too late. The remedy is "Catarrhozone", a direct breathable cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that's tainted by catarrhal germs.

There can be no failure with Catarrhozone—for years it has successfully cured cases that resisted other remedies. "No one can know better than I the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrhozone," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years stubborn case of Bronchial Catarrh ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stopped-up nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrhozone cured quickly."

Get Catarrhozone, use it, and you are sure of cure—beware of imitation and substitutes. Large size Catarrhozone, with hard rubber inhaler lasts two months, and is guaranteed. Price $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Services at George St. Church.

Rev. Mr. Pogue, the popular and talented pastor of St. Paul's church, preached yesterday morning in the George street Methodist church. The occasion was the anniversary of the Sunday school. His eloquent address was most appropriate to the occasion and was listened to with great interest by the large audience present. In the evening, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Couch took as his subject "Spirit and Sphere of the Religious Life," and gave a logical and impressive sermon.

Local Citizen and a Sable.

A sable skin was recently sold in London, Eng., for £18 or about $90. Now one of the most popular furs on the market here is Alaska Sable or in plain English language "skunk." We know of a resident in East City who a few weeks ago killed three Alaska sable. By the time he got through his slaughter and presented himself to his wife and family and they had expressed the respective opinions regarding the odor he bore with him, the East Ward resident would gladly have given up twice £18 to get rid of his raiment and escape the reproaches of his family.

How We Treat Tramps Here.

A. Murphy, a vagrant, was on Wednesday sent down for ten days. He is an able bodied tramp and will help to pull down the stone pile.—Cobourg Sentinel Star. Send all tramps to jail at hard labor, and thus stamp out the nuisance.—Port Hope Times. Fortunately the reputation of the Peterborough police and the memory of Sam. Newhall's treatment of pick-pockets and similar characters saves this city from such gentry as described. They take side-door Pullman, aeroplanes, the other man's bicycle or any old way to get past Peterborough quickly.

Western Man Cold Here.

One of Winnipeg's leading real estate agents, in the person of Mr. S. O. Nixon, of the firm of Nixon & Rutherford, Winnipeg, Man., was in the city on Saturday and gave The Times a call. Whilst in conversation in this office, Mr. Nixon remarked emphatically that since his arrival in Peterborough he had felt the excessive cold worse than he ever felt it in the Prairie City. Mr. Nixon is here in connection with the placing of some splendid building lots in which he is interested. Full particulars of these lots will be given in these columns in a day or two.

New Jersey and Local Crime.

A man in New Jersey was recently sentenced to kneel before his better half, beg her pardon and then wind up by giving her a kiss. The magistrate thought this exhibition in court would shame the individual and be more severe than a jail sentence. That New Jersey Magistrate should have heard a local married woman discussing his recent lapse from temperance, a few days ago, with her husband. What that lady unloaded on her repentant lord and master, right on Hunter street was worse punishment than ten times his dose of kisses. When the lady got through with her spouse, the latter could easily have crept through a small key-hole.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The month just closed was the coldest January since 1857.

Prices of needed human food are still soaring. Sugar went up 10c a cwt. on Saturday.

Enquiries made at the police station last night elicited the reply "Nothing doing"—as usual.

What do you think of butter on the local market at 40c a pound? Someone must be making money these days.

The City Fathers who inspected a motor chemical engine in Toronto last week, think the price a little stiff.

The Bear Cats will practice to-night at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is expected as the team will likely have to play a semi-final game this week.

Last night, the Rev. Mr. Webb, at the Murray street Baptist church, preached a strong sermon on "Lessons from the Niagara Falls Tragedy."

Eggs sold on Peterborough market Saturday at from 36c to 40c a dozen. The local hen should either die of despair or cackle with pride at the results of her output.

If the bear did or did not see his shadow on Candlesmas Day he must have been a double asterisk fool, if he did not return to his warm retreat. That is, if the bear in question lives anywhere near here.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Harold Meldrum, Toronto, was in the city on Saturday, having come down to attend the P.C.I. dance.

Mrs. Myles Henry and Mrs. Kelly, 204 Brock street, will receive to-day.

Miss Nora Reason left for Toronto on Saturday to visit friends.

Mr. Chas. Buchanan, president of the Edmonton Land Company of Edmonton, Alta., was in the city on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Conroy have gone on a trip to Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Augustus Whibbs, Constable of Indian River, was a visitor to the city on Saturday.

Miss Hazel McGlashan of Toronto, who came down for the Collegiate dance, at the Conservatory of Music, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stapleton, Gilmour street.

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat.

Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

Colds

Don't trifle with a cold; no one can tell what the end may be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis and consumption invariably result from neglected colds. Nothing can be compared with

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

as a quick cure for colds and grip, and by its use the more serious diseases may be avoided.

Buy it by the Box
of any dealer
Put It In Your Trunk—Or Grip—Or Bag. It Costs LITTLE By The Package, But LESS By The Box. It benefits much if you chew but one stick, but benefits most by the habit.
Look For The Spear
WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT PEPSIN GUM
THE FLAVOR LASTS
The Flavor Lasts
Whether you'll be on sea or shore—at home or abroad—take this handy friend along. Your breath will always be pure, your appetite keen, your digestion strong, your teeth bright.
You'll surely be glad if you take it. You'll surely regret if you don't. A piece in your pocket is an excuse to dine well.
Made in Canada
Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Ltd.
7 Scott Street, Toronto, Ont.

Annual Announcement

Cheapest Place in Peterboro for Presents

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

Has the largest, brightest and best stock ever shown in their store, consisting of Fancy Goods of every description, suitable for presents.

These will be sold at prices that defy competition. We are in a position to sell cheaper than others for the simple reason that our expenses are much lighter than other stores in the city, and we are not depending on the store sales to meet expenses, as our large and growing newspaper, printing and bookbinding business takes care of all this. So, the public are invited to call and examine our stock and prices, and they will be convinced. In addition to selling cheap, we offer a beautiful pair of Patent, Self-Sharpening Shears free with every purchase of $2.00 and upwards.

We ALSO GIVE a Splendid Kitchen Set as Shewn in Cut Below,

Consisting of Nine Pieces, with every purchase of $10 or over

Call and see this splendid set, even though you do not buy.

Our Stock Consists of

GIFT BOOKS
LEATHER GOODS
PURSES
HAND SATCHELS
BRASS GOODS
BASKETS
CALENDARS,
PRESENTATION BIBLES
JEWEL CASES
FANCY PAPETRIES
BEAUTIFUL CHINA
FOUNTAIN PENS
FANCY STATIONERY, &c.

TOYLAND.

Bring the children in and make them happy. Our Toys are the latest and best that money can buy. Everything for the little ones.

OUR DOLL DISPLAY

is also very fine, and should be seen to be appreciated. Prices that knock others all out.

Do you read The Times? If not, let us send it to you on a three months' trial for 50c, delivered to your home in the city, or mailed to your address in the country. Every purchase of $4.00 or over in the Bookstore Department will entitle you to The Times every day for three months. Call early. Open evenings.

TIMES BOOKSTORE

W. H. ROBERTSON, Sole Proprietor

141 HUNTER STREET, PETERBOROUGH
Neary opposite the Post Office

School Report

Appended below is a report of S.S. No. 2, Belmont. Names in order of merit:—

IV. Class—Clinton Ketchen, Jesse Smith, Simon Symmith.

III. Class, Senior—Amy Clark, Alfred Peoples, Grace Ketchen, Hazel Clark, Bessie Garnsey.

III. Class, Junior—Alma Rannie, Arthur Hinds, Frank Elmhirst, Charlie Warren, Pearl Spinks, Kathleen Smith.

II. Class—Ida Toms, Randal Sexsmith.

I. Class, Senior—Addie Elmhirst, Harry Toms, Nellie Clark, Annie McGowan, Herbert Deline, Grace Elmhirst, Basil Garnsey, Earl Garnsey.

A. Class—Archie Hinds, Ruthie McCullough, Phrona Hubble, Elsie Hubble.

Average attendance, 26.

PRENEVEAU.

Mr. J. Huffman of Norwood, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Warren on Saturday.

A number from here attended the social at Mr. T. J. Parkers at Blairton Wednesday. All report a pleasant evening.

Mr. W. R. Warren spent Sunday at the home of his father, Mr. Thos. Warren, Marmora.

Miss G. Keller is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roe this week.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, any ruling made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some (in) at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL XXXIX. NO 38 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

MANCHUS SURRENDER THE OLD POWERS GOVERNMENT

Accept Republic Amid Much Excitement in Pekin Great Applause by all China

Pekin, Feb. 12.—The abdication of the throne of China by the Manchu dynasty was proclaimed in an Imperial edict at noon to-day.

Another edict declared that the throne accepted the Republic, while a third approved of all the conditions agreed upon by Premier Yuan-Shi-Kai and the Republicans.

Excitement in Pekin.

The momentous step by which the Manchu dynasty yields up its power after three centuries of rule and agrees to change from an absolute to a representative form of Government was notified in three simultaneous proclamations.

Although the final act of abdication had been awaited for some time the posting of the edict with the declaration that it was an accomplished fact caused profound excitement.

Unconditional Surrender.

The second edict approving of all the conditions agreed upon between Yuan Shi Kai and the Republican representatives created even more astonishment. It had been expected that the Manchus would demand conditions which would safeguard many of their privileges, but according to their proclamation their surrender is unconditional.

The third edict informed the viceroys and Provincial Governors of the retirement of the throne from political power and instructed them to continue doing their duty and to preserve order throughout the land.

It declared that the step taken by the throne was in order to meet the wishes of the people.

Negotiations between the Republicans and the Imperialists followed and an armistice was arranged. This was not strictly observed, but the negotiations continued, with the result that the Manchu rulers seeing that China proper was almost entirely in favor of the republican idea and that the outlying dependencies of Tibet, Turkestan, Mongolia and Manchuria were breaking away, decided that it was their best policy to yield to the popular demand and abdicate from power.

History of the Manchus.

To-day's abdication of the Chinese Throne by Pu Yi the child Emperor, brings to an end the powerful Manchu dynasty, which has reigned in China since 1644.

SCORING HON. G. P. GRAHAM FOR NEWMARKET CANAL AND G. T. P.

Renfrew, Ont., Deb. 12.—Dr. Mallamy on his canvas and at his meetings tells the constituents that when he was unable to get the seat in the House himself he did not begrudge it to his friend "Tom" Low. If the riding decided to go Liberal he was glad that the choice should centre on Mr. Low.

Told to Go Back Home.

"I was well satisfied to have Tom Low as our member," he says. "He represented us at Ottawa to the best of his ability, and I considered our interests safe in his hands, but what did we find, his own party think of him? He went there with a big majority and to go back home. If his parliamentary duties conflicted with his private interests it was his privilege to resign, but he had no right to throw it up to make room for Mr. Graham at our expense.

Should Consult Mr. Borden.

"I have no fault to find with the men who signed that agreement, so long as they did not presume to sign for anyone but themselves. I could not consent to be a party to it, I said, 'Go about it in the right way. Consult our leader and our party.' I was forced to take that stand and have received endorsation of it. I have received requests 'For God's sake don't let Graham have it without a fight,' and some of those requests are from people who opposed me in September last. Now Mr. Graham has the audacity to herald it forth that the Conservative party has broken faith.

No Breach of Faith.

"It is untrue. Any man who was at our convention as a delegate will [illegible] enthusiastic convention filled, with determination to fight the foisting of this outsider on our riding. Mr. Graham well knew the position of the Government, and the Conservatives of this riding before Mr. McGarry was sent to the Legislature by acclamation. It was brought to Mr. Graham's notice many times that he would not have this riding without a fight. What excuses has he to offer?

MIDLAND 10, PETERBORO 2

Last night after a hotly contested game on the rink at Midland City, Midland won over Peterborough by a score of 10 to 2. At half time the scores stood 3 to 1 in favor of Midland.

SUMMARY OF STANDING.

Up to yesterday the standing of the local clubs was as follows:

Intermediate Series.

Second Round.

First Game—
[illegible]..... 6 Cobourg 8

Second Game—
Peterboro.....16 Cobourg 3

Total.....24 Total 11

Third Round.

First Game—
Preston.....13 St. Catharines 2

Second game at Preston to-night.

First Game—Peterboro at Midland to-night.

Second Game—Midland at Peterboro Feb. 14.

Junior Series.

Second Round.

First Game—
Peterboro.....12 Trenton 5

Second Game—
Peterboro..... 1 Trenton 2

Total.....f.13 Total 7

Peterboro won by 6 goals.

MEN-YOU NEED NERVE

Wonderful Nervous System

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early Indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

This is the condition our New Method Treatment is GUARANTEED TO CURE

We have treated Diseases of Men for almost a lifetime and do not have to experiment. Consult us FREE OF CHARGE and we will tell you whether you are curable or not.

We guarantee curable cases of NERVOUS DEBILITY, VARICOSE VEINS, BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES, GLEET, BLADDER URINARY AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS

Free Booklet on Diseases of Men. If unable to call write for QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

HAMILTON FRIGHTENED OVER COAL SHORTAGE

Hamilton, Feb. 13.—Hamilton faces a coal famine unless there is an immediate break in the weather. There are not more than one thousand tons of coal in the city, and with the great demand this will not last more than a few days. "It is just a case of from hand to mouth," said J. M. Peregrine, one of the largest dealers there, "and I never remember a time when the situation was so serious. The mine owners tell me that the demand is greater than the supply. The great trouble is in getting engines to move the cars and if the weather does not open up soon there will be a real famine here. Many houses in Hamilton yesterday were without coal."

WHAT THE GLOBE HAS RE SATURDAYS GAME

The Globe has the following to say in reference to the Eatonias and T.A.A.C. match on Saturday:

The Eatonias qualified for the senior O.H.A. finals at Excelsior rink Saturday night by defeating T.A.A.C. by the score of 14 to 6, the winners leading at half time by 10—5.

A large crowd braved the extremely cold weather to witness the game, which was a very poor exhibition of senior hockey. The score just about indicates the strength of the teams, the Crimson being completely outclassed.

T.A.A.C. lined up as follows: Goal, McArthur; point, Williams; cover, McLean; rover, Burrell; centre, Crane; right wing, Brown; left wing, McCamus.

Referee Chaucer Elliott, Kingston.

ROBBERS TURNED OUT IN THE COLD

Montreal, Feb. 10—Armed burglars called at the residence of Hamilton Gault, of Gault Bros., dry goods merchants on Sherbrooke street, yesterday, and asked if Mr. Gault was at home. When told by the butler he was not, one of the robbers produced a revolver, and instructed the servant to show them where the silver was kept.

"Jeames," not liking a bit of his dignity, took the revolver away from [illegible] and covered [illegible] two of them on to the street quietly, but firmly, closing the door in their faces. He afterwards telephoned for the police, though the robbers had decamped before they arrived.

BOBCAYGEON DEMANDS NEW T. V. C. LOCKS

Bobcaygeon Independent: "A reply from Col. Sam. Hughes acknowledging receipt of the Council's resolution regarding the local works was received and it brought up the question. It was decided to write the Department, and point out what was required at once, and what could be done entirely apart from the canal. Years of experience has proved the uselessness of trying to patch the old lock and canal. A new lock and canal is a necessity, that should be put in hand and completed concurrently with the finishing of the lower end of the waterway at Trenton, otherwise the traffic would have to cease at this point instead of being carried through to Lake Simcoe."

AD. CLUB WILL MEET AT HOOPER'S TO-NIGHT

To-night will see the beginning of new and better things for Peterborough.

The local business men who spend money for advertising and the local men who write ads, are meeting together at dinner, at 6.15 this evening in Hooper's Palm Parlours, to hear the matter of advertising discussed by the President of the Toronto Ad. Club, Mr. C. W. McDiarmid, of Ryrie Bros., Ltd., who has had many years of successful experience in retail advertising.

On the project proving favorable to those in attendance, steps will be taken to organize a local Ad. Club, to be a branch of the Toronto organization, and having connection through it with the Associated Ad. Clubs of America.

The local club on being organized will probably decide to meet once every two, weeks. Subjects of vital concern to local buyers of advertising space will be discussed. Prominent retail advertisers from Toronto and experts from a distance coming to the Toronto Ad. Club will be present from time to time and address the local organization.

Other than subjects of prime interest to the individual members including all branches of salesmanship in print, topics of concern to our city at large will receive consideration. Ways and means of boosting Peterborough will be dealt with in a way possible only to enthusiastic business men who know how to advertise.

In view of the fact that this Ad. Club movement has caught on in other five cities of Ontario and they now have active advertising clubs, it is only to be expected that Peterborough will not lag behind, but be up and doing, and this evening put through its formation stage the local Ad. Club, which has splendid possibilities of meaning much to our city.

Gaming Chances

Losers May Sue to Recover Under the New Act

CONTRACTS INVALID

Where Money Has Been Deposited in the Hands of a Third Person.

The pastime known as gaming gets a few vigorous knocks in the new Gaming Act which has just come from the hands of the Revision Committee of the Legislature. The purpose of the new clauses is to place a barrier upon gambling transactions not actually accompanied by a transfer of cash.

Contract Void.

One clause provides that every contract or agreement by way of gaming or wagering shall be null and void and that no suit may be brought for recovering any sum of money or valuable thing alleged to be won on any wager or which has been deposited in the hands of a third person.

Such a clause however, has no reference to any subscription toward a prize for a lawful game.

No Promise Goes.

Another blow is struck at a class of gambling, by a provision that no promise expressed or implied to pay any money under agreement or any arrangement as to commission in connection therewith shall be valid.

Section four of the Gaming Act contains another amendment and provides that any person who loses forty dollars or more at any one sitting, playing cards, or at dice tables or other game and who pays over the money lost may within three months sue and recover the money lost.

THE CARELESS GROCER

Blundered, and Great Good Came of It.

A careless grocer left the wrong package at a Michigan home one day [illegible] to the household.

"Two years ago I was a sufferer from stomach trouble, so acute that the effort to digest ordinary food gave me great pain, and brought on a condition of such extreme nervousness that I could not be left alone. I thought I should certainly become insane. I was so reduced in flesh that I was little better than a living skeleton. The doctors failed to give me relief and I despaired of recovery.

"One day, our groceryman left a package of Grape-Nuts food by mistake, so I tried some for dinner. I was surprised to find that it satisfied my appetite and gave me no distress whatever. The next meal I ate of it again, and to be brief, I have lived for the past year almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. It has proved to be a most healthful and appetizing food, perfectly adapted to the requirements of my system.

"Grape-Nuts is not only easily digested and assimilated, but I find that since I have been using it I am able to eat anything else my appetite fancies, without trouble from indigestion. The stomach trouble and nervousness have left me, I have regained my plumpness and my views of life are no longer despondent and gloomy.

"Other members of my family, especially my husband, (whose old enemy, the heart-burn has been vanquished) have also derived great benefit from the use of Grape-Nuts food and we think no morning meal complete without it." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and a little warmer.

HOW TO REDUCE THE PRICES OF BUTTER

Last Wednesday 6000 members of the Congress of Women's Clubs of Western wiped their butter dishes and and wiped their butter dishes and placed them on the top shelf of the china closet, there to remain until the price of butter comes down. This was done as a result of a pledge taken by women of the congress to boycott butter as long as it stood above the reach of the average house-keeper. Now if the women of Canada, even the women of Peterborough would follow this advice it would soon result in a change of prices here. As it is now in this city, when one butters a slice of bread or toast, or the good housewife makes a cake, it seems as though so much gold dust was being used up. The trouble is, that whilst the women here might take this heroic means of lowering prices, the men would grumble. They would say: "Well, we'll have to economize on something else," and then on their way to work buy two cigars for a quarter.

BELLEVILLE'S ADVANCE

Lakeside City Like The Times of Peterborough, Supplies Maps for Places at a Distance.

A Belleville despatch says that the enterprise of her sons at a distance is not confined to exploiting the United States. Messrs. Edward Harrison, son of Mr. Harrison, G.T.R. engineer of that city, and Gerald Ponton, surveyors and engineers settled some time ago in Calgary. No map of the city having yet been made a short while ago they formed the idea of draughting one. By working in spare time, they drew the plans of Calgary, and had them lithographed in Toronto. The latest report from Calgary is that no less than 7,000 copies of these maps have been sold. This reminds us that The Times of Peterborough has done a little in the map business abroad During the past year this paper has issued splendid maps of Victoria, Hastings, Northumberland and Durham Counties, etc. Not only did a good set of maps leave this Peterborough printing establishment, but the merchants and the manufacturers of the towns covered by our maps gave a most liberal supply of advertising.

LIFE SAVING STATION FOR NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 12.—The American authorities, through District Attorney Ackerson and President of the Board of Trade Nye are taking steps to have an organized life-saving corps and station located at Niagara Falls, N.Y. This was mainly decided upon as a result of the recent terrible catastrophy caused by the collapse of the ice bridge.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

ALD. GORDON ON STREET CARS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Ald. Gordon contends that the city should own the street railway. He maintains that if we can get cheap power here, so as to quote per horse power, we would attract manufacturers looking for a new location. It takes about 150 horse power to operate the local street railroad. He thinks the city should acquire the street railway before it extends its lines. Of course, Mr. Gordon seems to base his contention on expense. We must remember when and how the road was sold. We must remember also, and congratulate Mr. Gordon on his acumen, that this gentleman insists on the cheap power and other considerations in connection with the proposed purchase even without any other consideration except payment of the price agreed upon.

Peterboro.

MANY PATENT MEDICINES ARE BARRED FROM CANADIAN PUBLIC

Out of 60,000 Preparations on Market Not More Than One-Fifth Are Registered

Ottawa, Feb 13.—It is understood that Hon. B. Nantel, Minister of Inland Revenue, has decided to introduce some very important amendments to the Pure Foods Act this session. The amendments will be particularly directed towards the sale of patent medicines. At present the Canadian law is not nearly as stringent as the American. As a result many patent medicines which are now debarred in the United States are being widely advertised and sold in Canada.

PAID $1 FOR 1,200 PREPARATIONS.

It is also understood the registry of preparations will be more strictly enforced. At present $1 is supposed to be paid the Department for every preparation registered. Many firms, it is stated, have been in the habit of paying $1 to cover all preparations. It is said that the new Minister has discovered one firm which paid only one dollar for 1,200 preparations. There are some 60,000 preparations on the market and not more than one fifth are registered.

LAW PRACTICALLY A DEAD LETTER.

The new Minister has also decided on a strict enforcement of the present law on the statute books. He has found that under the old Government the law was practically a dead letter, no attempt was ever made to enforce it, and the Government did about as they pleased. Next year there may be a general revision of the Act.

SOUTH TORONTO MEMBER'S BILL.

Mr. Claude Macdonald, South Toronto, has a resolution on the order paper calling for a stricter Pure Food Act. The last opportunity to discuss it has gone as the Government has appropriated all the private members' day. However, arrangements will be made to give him an opportunity to introduce his bill. Mr. Nantel will at that time explain the policy of the Government and will introduce his amendments to the Act.

W.C.T.U. SAYS CIGARETTES WORSE THAN LIQUOR EVER WILL BE

The growing popularity of the "reeking tube" familiarly known as the cigarette, among the youth in Canada has inspired an energetic deputation of the W.C.T.U. workers throughout the Dominion to wait on Premier Borden on Thursday.

An appeal will be instituted to secure legislation which will gradually curtail and finally drive out the cigarette trade from Canada.

In an interview with Mrs. E. A. Stevens, the president of the Toronto branch of the W.C.T.U., it was stated that the deputation would seek the prohibition of the manufacture, sale and importation of this commodity.

"We consider that it has a terrible effect upon the physical, mental, and moral nature of the children and young people who use it. The extent to which the cigarettes are used is shocking, and demands instant action."

Worse Than Liquor.

"Undoubtedly we consider the habit far more injurious to Canadian young people than the liquor habit, for thousands more are addicted to the use of the cigarette."

Mrs. Stevens explained that twice before had a bill to the same effect appeared before the House, and on one occasion it had reached the third reading, but unforseen circumstances had appeared. This time, however, they hoped for victory.

Waiting King's Reply.

She [illegible] appeal to the King to have his name removed from liquor advertisements.

"The request has already been laid before the Secretary of State," said Mrs. Stevens, "and we expect a reply from the King now that he has returned from India."

HALDANE HAS RETURNED WITH GERMANY'S PLANS

London, Feb. 12.—Viscount Haldane, Minister of War, returned from Germany to-day, enthusiastic over the reception that he had been given by the Kaiser and other officials of the Fatherland. He declared that the friendliness manifested toward him eclipsed all expectations. Although he did not issue any official statement upon his arrival, he indicated by his manner that he believed the trip would pave the way to a lessening of the tension between the two countries.

PESSIMISM AT BERLIN.

Berlin, Feb. 12.—Reports that the mission to Germany of Viscount Haldane, British Secretary for War, had been a failure circulated on the Bourse to-day, and contributed to the prevailing weakness and pessimism. The rumors, however,, were not justified, as the situation will be cleared up only after Viscount Haldane has conferred with his colleagues of the British Ministry, with whom rests the decision as to whether definite negotiations with Germany are to be begun.

The German Foreign office to-day is apparently very well satisfied concerning the prospects of the situation Viscount Haldane returned to London in possession of an outline of the new German naval and military proposals, notwithstanding the fact that these have not yet been communicated to the German Federal Council.

AGAINST NE TEMERE

Montreal, Feb. 13. — The Montreal synod last week passed the ne temere resolution debated during the afternoon and which urges All Anglicans and members of Parliament to support the efforts being made to secure one marriage law throughout the Dominion.

EXPLORER GRAHAM—"We'll have to get there pretty soon or there won't be any dog."—From The Toronto News.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day.

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments—Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

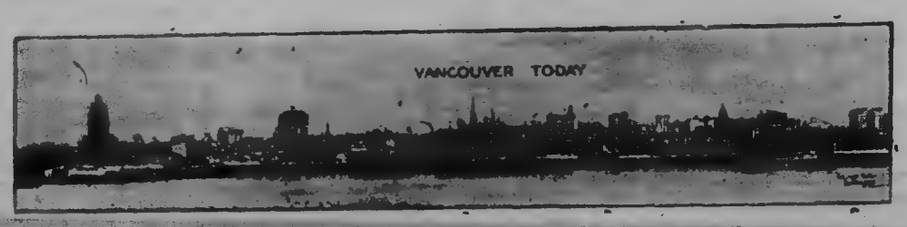
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorised capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5,00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B,C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms Title Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

THE FARM HORSE

He Is Entitled to the Best of Care and Feed

The farm horse needs a stable, a comfortable stall in which to rest when the day's work is done. Don't put him in a dungeon, with no light or ventilation and expect him to be in good trim for the next day. Neither should he be compelled to stand under a straw shed where the water drips through for three days after each shower. A good bed is as essential to the comfort of the horse as of the man. As to feed, the best is none too good. Clean, bright hay, with oats that are not smutty nor dirty. Decide the quantity for yourself, but don't be stingy. A man who can't tell what amount of feed is required by a horse after he has worked him for a few weeks, hasn't sense enough to farm anyway. All horses do not require the same amount of food any more than all men. Study your horse. Feed him enough to enable him to do his work. And pay some attention to his likes and dislikes if possible. He works for his keep, and surely he is entitled to something better than a forkful of musty hay under his feet and a quart of screenings in a dirty feed box.

The horse at work should be well combed and brushed every morning, and a few strokes at night would not hurt him.

The harness, too, should receive attention. There is neither humanity, economy nor common sense in having your horse's shoulders peeled and raw, his back sore, and his mouth torn with the bit. See that the collar fits the horse, better to buy a new collar than use one that does not fit. Then keep it clean and smooth. If the collar becomes coated, wash it off at night with a rag and some warm water, and in the morning it will be clean and smooth as when new. If you will make your collars fit and keep them clean you will seldom need a pad, and the horse will have better shoulders and be more comfortable at work without a pad. The hames, too, should fit the collar, with the pull so adjusted that it will bear evenly on the shoulder, and keep in one position. A little attention to other parts of the harness will prevent galls, bruises, rubs and the like.

Kindness is appreciated by a horse as well as by a man. The owners of the world's famous race horses will not allow a groom about the stables who swears at horses, neither will they permit harsh treatment of any kind. The farm horse may not be as finely bred as his brother of the turf but he will respond to kind treatment none the less.

From the standpoint of right the farm horse deserves kindness, care, and good feeding. It is his due. It is all he asks, and no man should receive more than he gets for a lifetime of toil and service.—L. M. Doughty.

A WONDERFUL COW

New York Animal That Has Broken All Records

Pontiac Clothilde DeKol, 2nd, a Holstein-Friesian cow owned by the Stevens Bros. Co., Liverpool, N.Y., has broken all records for butter-fat production for periods of seven and thirty days. This wonderful cow, tested under the supervision of Cornell University, produced in seven consecutive days 646.1 pounds of milk containing 29.766 pounds of fat, and in thirty days 2,553.4 pounds of milk containing 116.329 pounds of fat, the amount of fat for the week being 1½ pounds in excess of anything before known. Cornell University estimates that the fat produced is equal to 34.73 pounds of the best commercial butter for the week and 135.6 pounds for the thirty days.

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape, says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings neatly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot buy be attracted to such a section. The business man knows the value of attractive surroundings.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of these the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Woman as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

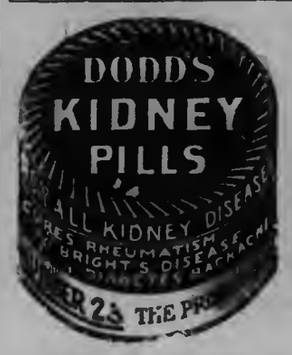
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

143 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompany for unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq' District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St. Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.
Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department

PRICE OF SUGAR IS ONCE MORE RAISED

Some four citizens have naturally "kicked" over the steady raise in prices of all kinds of commodities, but chucked quickly over the thought that sugar is decreasing in price. "Alas, a sad farewell" to all such hopes. Sugar advanced another 10 cents at 11 o'clock on Saturday and it was announced that a similar increase might be made again soon. This follows out the market indications that were given a short time ago in these columns. The local price is now $5.66 per cwt. in bags wholesale, or $5.73 in barrels, for the first grade granulated. It is estimated that the visible supply is two million tons short and this fact alone would strengthen the market in the face of normal conditions.

BOURASSA AND ROMAN HEIRARCHY

Quebec, Febf 10.—"I am not going as an intermediary between the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the Ottawa Government, no more in the matter of the Keewatin Separate Schools than in other matters," said Mr. Henri Bourassa, when interviewed on the report published in the Liberal papers.

The story is false, he said, and like a par with other similar attempts of the same papers to stir up feeling in the English provinces against the Nationalists, to distort our aims.

The Keewatin school question is simply a question of applying the law, which, if the Federal Government were true to its former legislation, would remain the same in the new territory, even though the Manitoba boundaries were extended.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIM

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

CHAPTER IX.

The Hooded Woman

"If you want my opinion," said Mr. Davis, when he had heard what Scarborough had to tell him, "there is a woman in it.

His daughter, who was standing behind him, exchanged a quiet glance with the two young men and shrugged her shoulders slightly. She was a dainty little blonde, with big eyes which tried to look earnest, and managed to look dreamy.

"That's what you always say, father," she said.

"Well, yes, Muriel," he admitted, smiling. "I believe it is a somewhat frequent remark of mine. Generally true, too."

Muriel frowned.

"I don't see why you should suppose that a woman had anything to do with it," she insisted.

"No? But you will find that, as usual, I shall turn out to be right."

Mr. Davis backed this confident judgment with the ghost of a wink to Varney, and laughed. The discussion which threatened was one which frequently arose in this household; for Muriel, having spent the thinking years of her life—not, as yet, a very long one—in the seclusion of a lonely pine-apple quinta, was an aggressive disputant, and made up by the violence of her views on the wrongs of her sex for her total lack of practical knowledge of her subject. Her daily life from the time she was fourteen had been almost conventual "in its simplicity; she had had no opportunity of verifying by the observation of actualities the opinions which she held so strongly; therefore she was never troubled with doubts. If there was another side to the question, her favorite novels did not teach it, and no one had ever made her see it. To be perfectly frank, no one had ever seriously tried, except her father, and his efforts were chiefly aimed at drawing her out. He opposed her, for the sake of seeing her eyes lose their dreamy look in a flash of temper, and her color rise with indignation; and when he had entiled her into saying something sufficiently cutting about the folly and brutality of men, he usually chuckled and owned meekly that she was right. He was almost absurdly proud of his fanatical little daughter.

Varney did not know that this exercise was part of the daily routine at the pine-apple quinta, and was enjoyed by both father and daughter; consequently he was inclined to be angry at the [illegible] her Muriel [illegible] was very pretty.

"If you mean," he said, "that there is a woman at the bottom of most of the good deeds that are done in the world, I am ready to agree with you."

"And Muriel will agree with you, and think you a very sensible fellow," said Mr. Davis, laughing. "But I meant there is a woman in every piece of mischief that is done, and always will be—this side of the Golden River! And I won't say that the same state of things mayn't obtain on the other side, too!" he added, chuckling.

"Have you any reason for thinking that there is a woman in this case?" said Scarborough. He knew the tendency of all discussion at the Casa Davis, and experience told him that, if he was to get any useful information, both father and daughter would have to be kept to the point.

"Yes," said Mr. Davis.

"Father means that he has the same reason that he usually has," opined Muriel. "You know how prejudiced he is."

Scarborough made a slight movement of impatience, and Mr. Davis noted it. He became grave at once.

"You are quite right," he said, answering Scarborough's glance. "Muriel, our leviter is rebuked, and I think we deserve it. I say that there is a woman in this case, because I saw her."

He went on to explain that last night, when Muriel came in to say that she had met Mr. Page, and that he seemed to have recovered from his gout, the news surprised him; for he had called at the Chineras a few hours before, and had been told that the gout was very bad. He went out, therefore, to see the phenomenon for himself, and if possible to persuade Mr. Page to come back to supper. He did not succeed in giving this invitation, because, though he caught sight of Mr. Page in the distance, he could not get near to him. He shouted, and was heard, for he got a wave of the hand in reply; but that was all.

"He hurried on," said the pine-grower, "as though he thought I was chasing him. In a sense of course I was; but what I mean is that I got the impression that he had some strong reason for avoiding me, so I turned back. It was then that I met the woman."

Scarborough and Varney exchanged glances. The same thought had occurred to them both. Was the woman, after all, Mona de la Mar?"

"What was she like?" asked Scarborough.

"I don't know. She didn't give me a chance to see."

"What! Did she run away from you, too?" exclaimed Varney.

Or bicycle?" said Scarborough.

"Neither. She walked pretty fast too! But it wasn't her speed that prevented me from seeing what she was like. I met her face to face, as one might say, without being able to get a glimpse of a feature. She was dressed in capote and capello."

"What are they?" asked Varney.

"The capello is a long blue cloak and the capote is a hood made of card board and whalebone, and covered with cloth," explained Scarborough. "Some of them stick out a yard in front of the face."

"And the edges flap together, and hide everything, unless the wearer keeps them open with her hand," added Davis. "This wearer didn't. She even took particular care to keep them shut. I wondered at the time if she was troubled with excess of modesty; but in the light of our later knowledge I'm pretty sure it wasn't that. So you see, Muriel," he added, turning to his daughter, "I had some reason besides prejudice for saying that there was a woman in it."

Muriel shook her head. "I don't see the reason, she said obstinately, "but [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

DIZZY HEADACHES CURED IN ONE NIGHT

IF TROUBLED WITH HEAD-FULLNESS, RINGING NOISES, SPECS BEFORE THE EYES, THE STOMACH IS AT FAULT.

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The active pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set one wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleansing remedy I would be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy and healthy looking as one could wish, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"MRS. B. C. CURRAN,
"Westport, P.O."

Thousands who are in an ailing, low state of health need nothing else but Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure blood disorders, pimples, rashes, bad color, biliousness, liver, stomach and kidney troubles. Mild, certain and safe. Beware of imitations and substitutes. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers or the Catarrhosone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Peterborough People Abroad.

Lindsay Post: Miss Alice Milloy, of Peterborough, is on a visit to Lindsay friends.

Miss Margaret McGrath, of Peterborough, is the guest of Ops relatives.

THE MORNING TIMES

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1912.

TRAIN JAPAN'S ATHLETES

J. J. Flanagan Will Have Charge of the Oriental Athletes

John J. Flanagan, the famous athlete and hammer thrower of the Irish-American Club, New York, who has now made his home in Ireland, has accepted an offer from the Japanese Government to go out to the East for the purpose of training a contingent of Japanese athletes who have been mustered to go to Stockholm this year to compete in the great Olympiad.

The big Irishman has refused remunerative offers to train the English contingent, who feel they could learn much from a man with such American experience, and though he has not divulged the reason, it is understood he is not sufficiently enamored of the British to desire to aid them. It is presumed that the friction which was such an unpleasant feature of the English Olympiad in 1908— when the English and Americans came into conflict—has had much to do with Flanagan's attitude.

To the square mile in the United Kingdom there were 373 persons; in Canada and Newfoundland, 1.99.

Motor vehicles to the total of 120,000 were in use in the United Kingdom, the number of licensed drivers being 200,000.

[illegible] AN ONTARIO FARM

Dr. [illegible]ndish, of the staff of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, after looking over various farms for a home in the Province of Ontario, purchased a fine 200-acre farm in the township of Esquesing, county of Halton, 2½ miles from Georgetown.

Regiment to a Menagerie

Banishment from the regiment to a menagerie has been the fate of the [illegible] at the pet of the 2n[illegible] Royal Rifle Corps.

Big Tobacco Area

Over six million acres of land a under tobacco cultivation throughout the world.

Aliens in Europe

Of 1,131 aliens naturalized in Britain last year, 299 were Russians and 347 Germans; while of the whole total 408 settled in London.

FRED. LAKE, CHAMPION TRAVELER OF MAJORS

Manager Fred Lake of the Providence Club of the International League for Frank J. Navine and company, is baseball's greatest tourist, says the Detroit News. He has done more hot footing during his 23 years actual service than any other man in the game. Briefly his record is as follows:—Starting his career on the diamond at Moncton, N.B., in 1890, Fred moved up to the Boston Nationals in 1891. After quitting Boston he was with Milwaukee and Providence in 1892; Wilkesbarre, 1892-4; Toronto, 1895; Kansas City, 1904; Nashua and Lynn 1905; Little Rock, 1906; Boston Americans, 1908; Boston Nationals, 1910; St. Louis Americans, 1911; and Providence, 1912.

JERRY EDMUNDS,

a ball player who has made good in the Western Canadian League, and is ripe for [illegible] company this year.

WHEN WASHING CURTAINS.

Those who wash their own lace curtains know how difficult it is to keep the edges straight. A good plan is to tack a piece of bread tape along [illegible] edge before putting them in the water, and let it remain on until the curtains are washed and ironed. By this means the edges are kept straight and even.

THE FIVE-FINGERED ORANGE

Grows Exactly the Shape of a Half-Opened Hand

A most weird-looking fruit is the five-finger orange. It grows exactly the shape of a half-open hand. Even the [illegible] identical, hard-pointed and [illegible]ping the orange flowers [illegible] equal, in some cases, to the [illegible].

It [illegible] but a proper kind of orange, belonging to a special variety. The tree itself is a rugged little shrub that does not average more than five or six feet in height in its native home—Japan. It does not grow straight, as the ordinary orange-tree should, but is curved in all directions.

Even the branches grow in spiral or twisted forms, so that the width of the tree is often greater than the height. The fruit itself is of a pale yellow color, of a pure lemon hue, growing greenish toward the stem. The size is immense, considering the smallness of the tree, the largest ones measuring when mature fully ten inches from the wrist to the point of the middle finger, including the nail.

But the fruit is not good to eat, though what it lacks in flavor it more than makes good in perfume. Perhaps the strangest thing about this perfume is that it is the fruit and not the flower that is odorous.

THOSE BRAINY SCOTS!

A noted Scot is Viscount Haldane, lately plain Mister. He was partly educated at the University of Gottingen. Discussing the German Universities the other day his lordship remarked:—

"Scottish students have quite a reputation at Gottingen. A great German professor said to me:—

"'I think we shall have to exclude young Scotsmen from our schools. They no sooner come here than they begin to cheat.'

"'Cheat?' said I, alarmed. 'How so?'

"'Why,' said the professor, 'they only pay for tuition for one, but they learn enough for three or four!'"

THE BACHELOR'S WISDOM

We must all try to stand erect, not be kept erect by others.

Whether you be men or woman you will never do anything without courage.

Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust before brightness.

Victories attained by right thought can only be maintained by watchfulness.

God does not look to see if the hands are full. He looks to see if they are clean.

An opportunity is like a pin in the sweeping: you catch sight of it just as it flies away from you, and gets buried again.

WITH A ROYAL ACCOMPLICE

The Queen, like so many members of our Royal Family, is blessed with much tact. On one occasion she was [illegible] provincial city, when her Majesty sat next to the Lord Mayor.

Soon he confessed that he was greatly worried about the printed address he had presently to read, and that he would far sooner "say a few words" that he really felt.

"Very well, then," replied her Majesty sympathetically; "let us hide that printed speech behind this flower-pot!"

This they did, and the Lord Mayor made a little speech that rang true instead of reading his address.

CARUSO'S BIG LOSS

It is announced that Signor Caruso hopes to benefit by a complete rest and change of air, the physicians having forbidden him to sing this season. The loss sustained by the great tenor through what was in the first place regarded as an ordinary slight cold is estimated at about $60,000, as he has been compelled to refrain from singing for a period of twelve weeks.

PROFITS ON "GLADSTONE"

Morley's "Gladstone" has beaten all records in biographies. The cheque sent by the publishers to the proprietors of the book—that is, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting, was greater by several thousand pounds than Longman's famous $100,000 cheque to Macaulay for the profits on the third and fourth volumes of his History of England.

THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK

Naturalists consider the elephant's trunk the most marvellous miracle of Nature. It contains over 4,000 muscles—a great many more than are found in the entire human body. By aid of these muscles the trunk will uproot trees or gather grass, lift a cannon or a nut, kill a man or brush off a fly. It is as useful as a hand with all its fingers to supply the elephant with food, and, being hollow, is used as a suction pump. No other animal has a single member or organ so perfect and so useful.

TREMENDOUS WHALE

The largest whale of its type of which there is scientific record was captured recently off Port Arthur, Texas. He measured 63 feet in length, and was estimated to be about 300 years old. Capt. Cob Plummer, mate of a United States pilot boat, sighted the monster in the shoals off the jetties, and the crew of his vessel captured the mammal. The huge body was towed ashore, exhibited and much photographed before being cut up.

PROTECTION OF SMALL BIRDS

The Agricultural Society of the Gironde, France, is convinced that the continually increasing numbers of enemies of crops, and especially of the insects so harmful to vines, Cockylis and Eudemis, is due to a great extent to the disappearance of small birds. The society, therefore, has invited all the agricultural associations of France to unite and insist upon the protection of these valuable auxiliaries of the farmer.

Population of Paris

According to the census returns just published, the population of Paris is now 2,846,986, an increase of 124,255 since 1906.

Decayed Teeth

Following a medical examination, 78 per cent. of Surrey school children have been found to possess decayed teeth.

A World's Record

By making a flight in an aeroplane carrying twelve passengers, the French airman, Sommer, recently constituted a world's record.

HOME-GROWN

He was a seedy, sad, sick-looking individual. His coat was gritty and grimy, and his countenance showed a close and unwashed friendship with Mother Earth. The large boquet in his buttonhole, despite its size and bright color, did not relieve his deplorable condition. It only seemed to accentuate it.

Yet he was nothing worse than a neighbor who had dropped in to pay Jones a call.

"How are you?" he said, extending an ungloved paw. "Nice day, ain't it? Everything's bloomin'. What do you think of my buttonhole?"

"Charming!" replied Jones politely.

"Yes, ain't it?" said its owner proudly. "Now, where d'you suppose I got it—eh?"

Jones bestowed upon the flower and the dirty coat-lapel on which it was pinned a thoughtful scrutiny.

"I give it up," he answered at last. "Did it grow there?"

AN EXPERT BEGGAR

How Lord Rothschild must hate bazaars! At the last one he attended he was badly victimized by a well-known woman author.

"Won't you buy? Won't you buy?" she cried, as he walked past her stall.

"I would willingly," he said, "but really, the articles you have for sale are rather bulky."

Then, catching sight of a little pile of papers, each bearing the author's signature, he added:

"But I shall be proud to purchase your autograph."

With ready wit the lady writer took a slip and scribbled above her name the words: "Received from Baron Rothschild the sum of fifty pounds for charity."

If the baron was staggered he did not show it. Gravely handing her a bank-note for the amount, he said: "Madam, this autograph shall occupy an honored place in my collection."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Should you be unfortunate enough to have wine split on table linen, cover the stains immediately with salt, and afterwards wash out in cold water.

Should stains refuse to come out, cover them with a paste made of lemon-juice and salt. Leave to dry and then rinse in cold water.

HOME-MADE SWEETS.

Take one tin of Swiss milk, four ounces of fresh butter, two pounds of Demerara sugar, and twelve dessert-spoonfuls of water. Melt the butter and sugar in a saucepan, then add the milk and water, and boil for an hour, stirring all the time. Flavour with vanilla. Pour on to a buttered slab, and when nearly cold cut into squares.

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens. "Safety Clip", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons out from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.

With gold and gold bands, and all gold fluted, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by its makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON.

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address .....

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1885, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation. Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

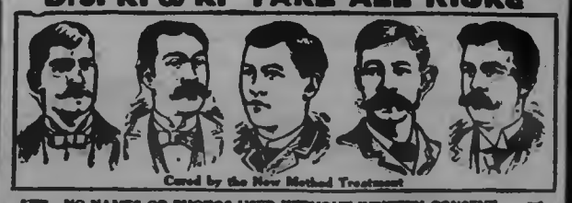
SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

YOU PAY WHEN CURED

Drs. K. & K. TAKE ALL RISKS



Cured by the New Method Treatment

NO NAMES OR PHOTOS USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

NERVOUS DEBILITY

Thousand of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through Early Indiscretions, Excesses and Blood Diseases. If you have any of the following symptoms consult us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, sore throat, etc.

YOU WILL BE A WRECK

Our New Method Treatment can cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified, so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body and the moral, physical and sexual [illegible]s are invigorated: all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Don't [illegible]s and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars. We will cure you or no pay.

EVERYTHING PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

READER: No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"The Golden Monitor" (Illustrated) on Secret Diseases of Men.

QUESTION LIST FOR HOME TREATMENT SENT ON REQUEST

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Weal h Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the heart of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

BUILDERS WHO ARE BUSY

Some Huge Buildings Being Erected in London, England

Probably in London's history there has never been a year in which a larger number of great buildings are being erected, the whole representing several millions of capital expenditure.

On one side of Kingsway is rising a magnificent new opera house which is to cost $1,000,000. On the other side is being erected an enormous steel and concrete structure, costing $400,000, which will have seven floors, with a total area of 66,000 square feet, and which will be able to hold 500 employees.

Further up, in the same direction, one sees an hotel, to which 500 new rooms and the most palatial Turkish bath ever seen in London are being added. Then there are the new Law Courts which, costing $500,000, will be complete in July, 1912. Further east, in Tottenham Court Road, the Y.M.C.A. is establishing a new headquarters, with numerous offices, 300 bed-rooms a swimming-bath, a gymnasium, and recreation-rooms, at a cost of $875,000; and in Regent Street the Polytechnic are extending their premises at a cost of over $450,000.

In Drury Lane a new music hall is being built at a cost of $160,000; while the London County Council, the British Museum, the Local Government Board, and the Wesleyan Methodists are all extending their premises in various parts of the metropolis.

RECENTLY DISCOVERED STAR

M. Deslandres, a well-known French astronomer and chief of the Meudon observatory, brings out some new points about a variable star in the constellation of the Lizard. This star, which was discovered about a year ago, seemed at first to be of the twelfth or thirteenth magnitude. Its brightness suddenly increased, and during last November it reached the fifth magnitude. Less than a month after its brilliancy lessened, and now the star is only of the seventh magnitude.—Science Siftings.

SMALLEST GLASS BOTTLE

What is regarded by skilled artisans as the smallest perfect glass bottle ever blown has just been turned out by Robert Gillespie, one of the blowers of the great Whitall-Tatum glass works in Millville, New Jersey. The tiny bit of glass is not much larger than a kernel of corn, but is in every way perfect, including a ground stopper. Gillespie was at infinite pains to produce the curiosity, which, compared with a 110-gallon carboy, such as is turned out at the same works, would be about like a fly against an elephant. Indeed, a common house fly could hardly crowd into the bottle.

PLATINUM IS SOARING

The prices of platinum are soaring. Recently, hard platinum reached the record price per ounce of $48, whilst the soft metal touched $41. Six years ago the pure metal was selling at $18.50 per ounce. Through the year 1906 the price of hard went up to $40. The market then declined, until in August, 1908, prices had fallen to $20. One incidental cause of enhanced prices, says the Canadian Mining Journal, is the growing use of platinum in manufacturing jewellery. Another is the demand for the metal in making tips for the sparking plugs of automobiles. But probably the main factor is the closer control of the principal Russian sources of supply.

TICKET MACHINE

The Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company have installed a remarkable automatic machine at Sandhills Station, Liverpool, by which, on dropping a penny in the slot, a ticket is printed, dated, and cut. The machine is worked electrically, the power being supplied from the live rail. When the supply of cardboard is running short the clerks in the office are warned by the ringing of a bell.

REFORMED TOO SOON

An eminent speaker at the Congregationalist meeting in the First Congregational Church, East Orange, was telling the other day of a Westerner's opinion of the East. "This man," said the speaker, "was a prominent churchman, and had occasion to visit New York, where he remained for a few days. In writing of his experiences to his wife in the West, he said: 'New York is a great city, but I do wish I had come here before I was converted.'"

A Ruby Wedding

That rare event, a ruby wedding, was celebrated in Balfour village, Shapansey, Orkney Islands, recently by Mr. and Mrs. John Orever. They were married in 1841, and their respective ages are ninety-one and ninety-four years.

Royalty Pays Fares

Although, no doubt, every railway company would gladly convey His Majesty and the Queen free of charge, our rulers pay exactly the same price as anybody else for a special train, in addition to the first-class fare of every passenger by whom they may be accompanied in their respective suites.

The Queen's Jewels

Among the jewels the Queen most values is a chain of pearls presented to her as a wedding present by the women of twenty-three English counties. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed, but only $36,000 was spent on the necklace, and the other $5,000 was divided amongst various charities chosen by Her Majesty.

RUNS IN THE FAMILY

"Longevity? I should say longevity did run in the family," said Mrs. Spriggins. "Why, John was six foot two, Bill was six foot four, and George had more longevity than any man I ever see. He was six foot seven, if he was a foot."

DOING THE COOKING

Friend:—"Do you find it cheaper to do your own cooking?"
Young Wife:—"Oh, yes. My husband doesn't eat nearly so much now."

INSECT POWDER

Lady:—"How shall I apply this insect powder, then?"
Chemist (absently):—"Oh, a teaspoonful after each meal!"

BLACKMAILING THE RICH

Instances Showing How the Millionaires are Held Up

Under the title of "John D. Rockefeller As He Is," Professor Tokonagne Rimgevets, of Boston, has just published a biography of the world-famous millionaire, and in it he writes:—

"Neither pen nor words can describe how much Mr. Rockefeller fears publicity. He fears to have his acts questioned or criticised, fears even to have his family question him on matters of business, fears the very sound of his own footsteps, fears his shadow, fears the reflection of his own image in the looking-glass. The life of John D. Rockefeller is a constant fear. He fears the water he drinks is not pure, fears trades are not honest—in fact, I know from experience that no man has long been associated with John D. Rockefeller who can escape being impregnated with fear."

A notorious American blackmailer once wrote a letter to Mr. Cudahy, the millionaire pork-packer of Chicago, threatening to murder him unless he was immediately paid the sum of $250,000. Mr. Cudahy, on receiving the epistle, surrounded himself with a private armed bodyguard, and the blackmailer, finding it impossible to carry out his threat, quietly kidnapped Master Cudahy, a boy of twelve. Then he wrote to the father declaring that if the $250,000 was not forthcoming on or before a certain date the boy's sight would be destroyed. The money was paid.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt was said to be the most miserable millionaire who ever lived in the States. Threatening letters reached him by every post, and men who had designs on his life were often found in the neighborhood where he resided. One day a man called at the millionaire's mansion and demanded money of the footman who answered the door. The servant turned him away, but the caller immediately rushed to the front of the house and startled Mr. Cornelius by thrusting his fist through the dining-room window and shouting, "Death to Vanderbilt!" The police arrested the man before he could do further mischief and took him to the station, where a fully-loaded bomb was found upon him.

Mr. Russell Sage, the New York millionaire, died peacefully in his bed, contrary to his own expectations. His life was so often threatened that he declared that he would die with his boots on. He had many narrow escapes of being assassinated, and on December 4th, 1891, his secretary and three of his clerks lost their lives in defending him.

Mr. Jay Gould had his life threatened times without number, and after his decease receipts were found among his papers which showed that he had paid away to various blackmailers in the course of ten years no less than $2,400,000 in order to prevent being assassinated.

DIGGING BETTER THAN SOARING

Birdseye Says Men Cannot Meet in the Trackless Skies

There is more to be got by digging down into the earth, or working upon its surface, than there can be had by soaring up into the boundless skies by the aid of dirigible balloons or aeroplanes. There are no precious mines to explore in all the vast expanse of air, nor is there any invitation to profitable industry. There is no level in the trackless skies where man with man may meet, where we can help one another or be helped. There can be no brotherly love where there are no public highways with dwellings, where there is no chance to meet and grasp the friendly hand or even to give and to receive the passing word. —George Birdseye.

PENCILS AND DIPHTHERIA

A recent outbreak of diphtheria at Bacup is attributed to the sucking of lead pencils. The pencils in themselves are harmless. What caused the mischief was the school-children's habit of sucking dirty pencils and then passing them on to each other.

The very first lesson every child should be taught is not to put a pencil in its mouth. If it was known that the severest punishment would follow pencil sucking, the habit could be rooted out promptly. It is practically impossible for any teacher, however vigilant, to prevent children borrowing one another's pencils, but it ought not to be a very difficult task to see that the little ones keep their pencils and paint brushes out of their mouths.

Rich and Poor Alike

Having been in vogue for centuries, the custom of ringing two bells, one to summon the rich, and the other the poor, to vestry meetings, has now been discontinued at Northleach, Gloucestershire, on the ground that it is out of keeping with modern feeling.

Tree 1,000 Years Old

In the churchyard at Plymtree, Devon, is a yew-tree whose age is calculated at 1,000 years, and which is doubtless the oldest in the country.

Many Lost Dogs

During the first three months of this year, 7,405 dogs, most of them "strays," were received at the temporary Home for Lost Dogs in Battersea.

Beef for Britain

For the quarter ending March 31st last, 1,634,406 cwt. of beef was imported into Great Britain, a record quantity for this period of the year.

Traffic Observers

For the traffic census of the City of London nearly 240 observers were required to watch 52 roads, 14 other walking ways, 18 railways, 6 tube stations, and 2 stairways.

Big Income

Lord Halsbury was Lord Chancellor for seventeen years and received in salary during that period $850,000. With his six years' pension he has received $1,000,000 for his services.

O'K

A Royal Brew!

A good many men say that "Gold Label" is the finest Ale that we have ever brewed.

It's all a matter of taste. If you prefer a rich, old, creamy ale—that proves its quality by its delightful flavor—just try "Gold Label."

Every bottle sealed with an easily opened "Crown" stopper.

O'Keefe's "Gold Label" Ale

"The Beer that is always O.K." 110

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS
416 WATER STREET PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
Trade Marks
Designs
Copyrights &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Aided by Films

Cinematograph films which were taken during the recent champagne riots in France have enabled the police to identify and arrest many of those who took part.

After Fifty Years

After fifty-three years, an Indian Mutiny veteran, Private Andrew Butler, has just been presented with the medal earned by him for his service in the 72nd Highlanders in 1858.

Telephone Despatching

The Canadian Pacific Railway has 3,055 miles of telephones, or seventy-one miles more than its nearest competitor, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

VENTILATING THE FOWL HOUSE

An Important Matter Which Must Not Be Overlooked

If you do not keep your fowls under thoroughly healthy conditions you cannot hope to be successful.

If you bear in mind that in a natural state birds roost in trees—and on many farms fowls do actually spend the night in this way—you will realise how important plenty of fresh air is. Imagine, for instance, thirty birds cooped up in a tiny house 6ft. by 7ft., without ventilation, and you will realise how stuffy the quarters must be by the time the slide is raised in the morning.

As a matter of fact, the night apartment of a hygienic fowl-house should have an entry for fresh air near the base, and an exit at the roof. In this way there will be a continual passage of air without draughts. In some pens there are sliding shutters; they run up and down grooved frames, and at the top of each is a hook. From the eaves of the roof chains depend, and the hook adjusted to a link in the chain. On warm nights the shutters are left well open, whilst when cold threatens they are tightly closed. Keep the sleeping-place draught-proof, yet ventilated; have it rain-proof and whitewashed inside.

AN ANCIENT BRITISH CANOE

An ancient canoe, the third found within a few weeks at Lochmaben, has been discovered at the Kirk Loch. It is of black oak. One of the sides and part of the other are gone, but the bottom and the ends make it recognisable as one of the ancient hollowed out canoes used by the prehistoric Britons. When unearthed, it was partially filled with stones, as if it had been sunk with them. The canoe probably dated back 2,000 years. It is 14ft. in length, and at the broadest part is 2ft. 6in. It is about 15in. in height.

WORKS WITH HIS GLASS

"I defy anyone," roared the teetotal lecturer, "to name a man who works better with his glass than without it."
"I know one," said a quiet man in the front row.
"Who is that?"
"A glazier."

PAID FOR THE SUPPER

Three men had been out on a spree, and on the way home at night they made a compact that the one who did not do as his wife told him should pay for a champagne supper the following night.

The first one returned home, and his wife greeted him thus:

"Hello, you beauty! That's right, knock all the ornaments off the mantel-piece!"

And he knocked them all off.

The second returned, and on going into his house fell against the piano; whereupon his wife said:

"Go on! Get the axe and smash it up!"

He did so.

The third returned, and on going upstairs his wife said:

"You miserable scamp! Now fall downstairs and break your neck!"

"No fear," he said. "I'll pay for the supper."

A [illegible]

It is rather interesting the way children associate size with age.

Looking at his feet the other day little Joe asked suddenly:

"Mother, why is one of my toes so much bigger than the others? I thought they were all the same age?"

HOW COULD SHE?

Mrs. Holmes:—"Mrs. Bangs threw a saucepan at her husband because he sat on her new hat. I could never do a thing like that."

Mr. Holmes:—"Ah, no! Because you love me so dearly, pet!"

Mrs. Holmes:—"No, because I haven't a new hat."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use
Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

RATES. European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upward.

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

DOLLS — TRAINS — HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children

You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a S ialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

Liberal Club for Lindsay.

The Young Liberals of Lindsay, at a largely attended meeting decided on the organization of a club in Lindsay and the speech delivered during the evening were of an enthusiastic character, the speakers being very optimistic. Mr. J. P. Donald was voted to the chair, and in his opening remarks, stated that the formation of a Young Liberal Club has been considered well by those who had taken the initiative.

How We Treat Tramps Here.

A. Murphy, a vagrant, was on Wednesday sent down for ten days. He is an able bodied tramp and will help to pull down the stone pile.—Cobourg Sentinel Star. Send all tramps to jail at hard labor, and thus stamp out the nuisance.—Port Hope Times. Fortunately the reputation of the Peterborough police and the memory of Sam. Newhall's treatment of pickpockets and similar characters saves this city from such gentry as described. They take side-door Pullman, aeroplanes, the other man's bicycle or any old way to get past Peterborough quickly.

Western Man Cold Here.

One of Winnipeg's leading real estate agents, in the person of Mr. S. O. Nixon, of the firm of Nixon & Rutherford, Winnipeg, Man., was in the city on Saturday and gave The Times a call. Whilst in conversation in this office, Mr. Nixon remarked emphatically that since his arrival in Peterborough he had felt the excessive cold worse than he ever felt it in the Prairie City. Mr. Nixon is here in connection with the placing of some splendid building lots in which he is interested. Full particulars of these lots will be given in these columns in a day or two.

New Jersey and Local Crime.

A man in New Jersey was recently sentenced to kneel before his better half, beg her pardon and then wind up by giving her a kiss. The magistrate thought this exhibition in court would shame the individual and be more severe than a jail sentence. That New Jersey Magistrate should have heard a local married woman discussing his recent lapse from temperance, a few days ago, with her husband. What that lady unloaded on her repentant lord and master, right on Hunter street was worse punishment than ten times his dose of kisses. When the lady got through with her spouse, the latter could easily have crept through a small key-hole.

Presentation to Judge Benson.

His honor Judge Benson of Port Hope is well known in this city. His many friends will be pleased to learn that Judge Benson, when the High School Board of the Lakeside town met last week, learned that the members in recognition of his long services had collected a large sum to purchase a silver set for him.

If the bear did or did not see his shadow on Candlemas Day he must have been a double asterisk fool, if he did not return to his warm retreat. That is, if the bear in question lives anywhere near here.

WHEN WOMEN LED

The Fair Sex Has Been Well to the Fore in the Past, But Where Real Fighting Was to Be Done.

In the French Revolution women often led the bands of peasants who rose against the aristocrats. At Troyes a similar sight was seen during the champagne riots which convulsed the Aube Department of France.

At the head of the detachment which one district sent to join the "Iron Battalion" marched a splendid-looking young woman, wearing a white-knitted cap, with the Revolutionary red ribbon twined around it. Her starting-point forty miles from Troyes, this girl tramped every step of the distance between dawn and dark. She was cheered by the crowds when she arrived in Troyes.

It was a girl, too, who headed the great no-rent strike in New York, three years ago.

Nearly all the big tenements in the Bowery, the most crowded section of darkest New York, are let to agents, who sub-let them in rooms or small flats to the poor. The rents are awful. A man will have to pay twenty-five dollars a month for three small rooms on a fifth floor.

It will be remembered that at the end of 1907 Eastern America suffered from the worst times which had been known in the States for very many years, and the result was that evictions for non-payment of rent became more and more frequent.

A REDUCTION IN RENTS

It was Cecilie Arkin, a nineteen-year-old girl, who devised the plan of campaign, and banded together as fewer than thirty thousand families, who all vowed to pay no more rent unless a general reduction of twenty per cent. was granted. Each family pledged itself to shelter as many as possible of the evicted ones.

The struggle was a long and bitter one. Hundreds of families were turned out, but in the end Cecilie Arkin won a victory; for the agents compromised, and a general reduction of ten per cent. was the condition on which the strike was settled.

The last Carlist rising in Spain was headed by a woman. This was in 1901, and the insurrection broke out at Berga, in the turbulent province of Catalonia. The identity of the lady has never leaked out. She was tall, beautifully dressed, and rode magnificently.

It was rumoured at the time that she was Donna Blanca, Duchess of Braganza, and wife of Don Alfonso, brother of Don Carlos. But this surmise was proved to be false, and to this day her identity is a mystery.

There has always been a deal of smuggling along the western end of the boundary line between the United States and Mexico.

The most notorious of all these smugglers was a Mexican woman known as Lalia, Queen of the Smugglers. She was quite young, and extremely good-looking, and by her extraordinary talents rose to be head of a band of most daring smugglers.

A QUEEN BETRAYED

For nearly four years she reigned supreme, and then one day, as her long train of "burros" (donkeys), bearing contraband goods, was crossing the Rio Grande, she was surprised by a sudden shower of rifle-bullets. She had been betrayed, and a strong force of Mexican "Rurales" had been ambushed among the rocks.

One of her arms was broken by a bullet, but with splendid courage she gathered her men and rode straight of the troops.

A soldier seized her bridle. She cut him down, and for some minutes a furious fight raged. Then numbers prevailed, and she and her surviving companions were pulled down. She died in hospital a few days later.

There is no part of the world and no race which does not produce its fighting women. Quite lately our Crown Colony of Southern Nigeria has been plagued by a lady of colour known as the "Omu."

Among her tribe she is reckoned officially as a man, and cannot have a husband.

After causing endless trouble to the authorities she made peace, and then coolly demanded a seat upon the legislative Council. So far this has not been granted, but it is possible we may hear more of this coal-black Suffragette.

PERSIAN WEDDINGS

Tying the matrimonial knot is a very prolonged and serious affair in Persia. In fact, a wedding may extend for a week. On the last day of the wedding the bride, who has been treated as a sort of outcast, is conducted by a near relative to a room, where she undergoes further and more elaborate decoration.

She then returns to the guest-room, and her dowry is laid before her in trays. The dowry often comprises such queer things as cheap and highly-coloured oleographs, gandy vases, birdcages, and many useful household articles. Having kissed the hearthstone of her home, she is then given bread, salt, and a piece of gold, and thus equipped and closely veiled she is hoisted on to a gaily-adorned donkey and, accompanied by a circus-like procession of friends, goes to her future home, where her husband awaits her.

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr. Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even he himself would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.

HOUSEMAID'S TIDY.

Buy two margarine tubs at the grocer's—they will cost four cents each—fit one in the other, cut the inner tub two inches higher than the outside one; divide into two compartments with a piece of board; and cut a slot in the centre of the wood for lifting the tray. Take off the handle of an old bucket, and screw it on each side of the outer tub. The outer one is used for ashes, and the top one for keeping blacklead, brushes, stove polish, etc. At the shops these tidies usually cost fifty cents each; if made at home, eight cents, and they will last quite a long while.

GREATEST QUESTION

For three hours, fifty-nine minutes, and forty-five seconds Professor L. L. Doo had been lecturing upon the burning question affecting political economy.

"And now," he concluded, glancing at his chronometer, "I should just like one of the students to state concisely what he considers to be the greatest question at present occupying the minds of men in this country."

From a far corner of the auditorium, cutting the proverbial hush like the proverbial knife, came the response, clear and concise:—

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?"

HOMELESS AND FRIENDLESS

Two Poor Families in Pressing Need of Help from the Community.

As a result of fire on Saturday two poor families in this city are rendered homeless, without a single cent of insurance to fall back upon. One family consists of father and mother and five little ones ranging from 10 years of age downwards, the other of parents and an infant in arms. All their worldly possessions have been consumed by the fire fiend, even including clothing. Relief Officer Mr. F. Miller has risen to the occasion, but this is a case for public aid apart from the means at the disposal of the Charity Board. With this end in view, The Times invites its readers to exercise Christian charity toward these two deserving but afflicted families, and forward to Relief Officer Miller donations of clothing, money, furniture, food or fuel to aid the unfortunates in surviving the dark days so suddenly fallen upon them.

Quebec, Feb. 10.—A slick flimflammer, Hector Beaudet by name, was rounded up this morning by police here. Beaudet at different times has fraudulently collected gas, telephone and telegraph bills, and altogether he is said to have got away with hundreds of dollars. This morning he tried to collect a gas bill that was paid yesterday and the woman at the house in which he called telephoned for the police. Beaudet was arraigned before the magistrate this afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

IN WRONG

Bored Man (at party):—"Beastly slow here! I'm going. Which way do you go home?"

Son of the House:—"I'm at home now."

AN HOUR'S OVERTIME

"I see you claim one hour's overtime, Bill," said the employer. "How's that? I thought no one worked overtime last week."

Bill passed a horny hand across his mouth.

"Quite right," he replied, "One hour's my due."

The master regarded him suspiciously.

"Come, when was it?" he inquired.

"Last Thursday," responded Bill. "I was sent up to your own house to help shake the carpets."

"Yes, I remember that distinctly," cut in the boss. "But you got off at six sharp."

"Ah, that's true as far as it goes," assented the man. "But your missus give me half a meat pie to take home and that there hour is for bringing the dish back!"

A NARROW ESCAPE

Actor:—"The people in this town don't understand acting. I'll be hanged if I ever act here again!"

Stage Manager:—"You will, my boy. It was all I could do to keep the audience from lynching you to-night."

I Am Willing To Pro I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,0?? Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 857 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every respect with all requirements. It will stop pain, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate, it will heal, soothe and strengthen. For all this I ask no pay in any way for having made it. There is not an ingredient that can in any way do you harm. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had to have printed more copies of my medicine than I expected. This book is now ready and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this great medical book—the largest ever written on home diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOK, G for cures, write me. Read this guarantee over and let me hear from you to-day.

These Are the Symptoms:

- Pain in the back, too frequent desire to urinate, burning or scalding sensation, frequent headaches, dizziness or specks before the eyes, pain in any part of the body, sediment or cloudy appearance in the urine after standing, brick dust, mucus or slime in the urine, pain in the bladder, kidneys or back, swollen joints, rheumatic pains in the joints or muscles, sciatica, lumbago, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, dizziness, sick headache, backache, kidney disease, general debility, dropsy, dyspepsia, constipation, pain in any part of the liver trouble, pimples on the face, sallow complexion, twitching of the muscles, specks before the eyes, twitching of the muscles

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

P. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO
H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.
163 CHARLOTTE ST.
MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.
Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 139 Simcoe Street
Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

30,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

MILLIONAIRE POLICEMAN

The Philadelphia police force now boasts the possession of a millionaire policeman. This is Mr. Edward T. Stotesbury, the well-known financier and sportsman, and a partner of Mr. Anthony J. Drexel. He has been sworn in as a special policeman by the Chief of Police of Philadelphia as a mark of the force's appreciation of his generous donation to the police funds.

HAREM-SKIRTED CARPENTER

A carpenter in a harem skirt is one of the curiosities at Cluseau, near Montlucon. The artisan in question is the wife of a carpenter, and both are employed on a new building for the infantry barracks. The "lady carpenter" may be seen every day, carpentering away as cleverly as any of her male companions, but the chief novelty of the case is that she wears a good practical harem skirt, with a green velveteen jacket and breeches. She is a native of Senlis, and 29 years of age.

"BUNKUM"

"Buncombe" is the spelling of bunkum in the new English dictionary. Buncombe, of course, is the place in North Carolina whose representative in Congress once justified himself for making a superfluous speech by explaining that he was speaking not to the House, but to Buncombe.

All Learn Chess

Chess is taught in nearly all the schools in Saxony.

Man-of-War Ropes

The ropes of a first-class man of war cost about $15,000.

Big Tobacco Area

Over six million acres of land are under tobacco cultivation throughout the world.

Aliens in Europe

Of 1,131 aliens naturalized in Britain last year, 2[illegible] were Russians and 347 Germans; [illegible] of the whole total 403 settled in London.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON
Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENISTOUN, PECK & KERR, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 418 Water Street, E. A. Peck, E. M. Denistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. B. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. E. E. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. [illegible] Hospital, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—420 Water Street. Bell Phone: Office 403, House 1301.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the
HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL
PRESSURE For all general machinery.....bearings....

The Canada Metal Co., Limited
Fraser Avenue, Toronto

"NOTHING" NEW

Recent Happenings That are More Repetitions

That history repeats itself may be a trite remark, but, all the same, is a very true one. Take the burning question of woman's suffrage.

In a museum at Cracow may be seen to-day a document bearing a seventeenth-century date, which is headed the "Young Women's Petition." It was presented to the Polish Parliament summoned by King Ladislaus, and bears the official mark.

While the framers of this petition do not actually ask for the vote, they make no fewer than twenty-five separate requests, each bearing upon various aspects of women's rights. The petition begins by pointing out that Polish young men spend far too much time in courting. The women request that a fine of a thousand crowns may be inflicted upon any young man who fails to marry the maid he is courting by the June following the commencement of the courtship. Another clause demands that all men shall by law be forced to marry at or before the age of thirty.

Most folk imagine that arbitration and disarmament are purely the outcome of twentieth-century civilization, but the fact is that the desire for universal peace is no new thing. Eighteen hundred and seventy years ago a temple to Peace was dedicated in Rome; and, to come to more modern times, the Congress of Vienna in the year 1814 seriously discussed a general limitation of armaments and a preliminary agreement was drawn up, by which France and Prussia and Austria pledged themselves not to increase their armies beyond a certain point.

Two years later, in 1816, a Peace Society was formed, which held annual meetings, and many people really believed that an era of universal peace was dawning upon the world.

Even the harem skirt is no novelty. In 1849 Mrs. Amelia Jenks Bloomer, an American woman, introduced the trouser costume which bore her name. It consisted of "an open-fronted jacket and loose trousers, the latter wide like those of the Turks, but gathered in at the ankles." The Bloomer dress was seen a good deal in the West End of London in 1851, but caused trouble, just as the harem skirt has.

Death of Mr. McGregor, the Father of the League

By the death of Mr. William Mc Gregor, familiarly known as the "Father of the Football League," football has sustained an irreparable loss. Mr. McGregor was born in 1847 in Perthshire, but moving south in 1870 first became prominent in football circles by his association with the Birmingham and District Counties F. A. He was a vice-president of the Aston Villa Club, and toiled hard for junior football in the Midlands. His name, however, will be remembered chiefly as the founder of the League, of which he became first president and only life member. He early saw the need for a combination of the leading clubs in the country, so that fixtures could be fulfilled and faith kept with an increasing sporting public who were prepared to pay to see matches. As a result of his efforts the League was formed in March, 1888, and came into effect the following season. The clubs he drew and banded together were Preston North End, Aston Villa, the Wolves, Blackburn Rovers, Bolton Wanderers, West Bromwich Albion, Accrington, Everton, Burnley, Derby County, Notts County, and Stoke. Now the League has two divisions of twenty clubs, and it is the most powerful organization of professional football clubs in the country. In his early days Mr. McGregor was a good cricketer, showing capital form with the bat, and as a Volunteer, shot excellently.

HERB MATTHEWS
The speedy forward of St. Michael's team, Toronto

AN AEROPLANE "LINER" THE VERY NEXT THING

It is to be 34 Feet Long, With Promenade Deck 20 Feet Wide for Passengers

A distinctly new type of aeroplane has been designed by G. Kunicke and George Koehler, of the Bronx. It is to have four propellers, and to be operated by two sixty horse-power motors. This aeroplane is the nearest thing in the heavier-than-air type to an aerial "liner." The inventors have planned a regular deck upon which passengers will be able to walk about with as much freedom as on an ocean liner.

The Kunicke aeroplane embraces some of the principles of the helicopter. Its four propellers will have lifting as well as driving properties. Two of the propellers are placed one on either side, and the other two situated one in front and the other in the rear of the machine. They will all be worked from a central shaft.

As to the planes or wings of which there are two, the inventors have adopted the principle advocated by the late Prof. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution. These planes are placed one behind the other, tandem fashion.

The total length of the machine from boy to stern is to be 34 feet, and nearly all of this is occupied for a sort of promenade deck, nearly 20 feet wide, guarded by railings. It will weigh about 1,500 pounds, and its lifting capacity, it is figured, will be twice that, which ought to carry eight to ten passengers.

GOLFING SUGGESTION

Lord Herbert Vane Tempest was re-elected president of the Machynlleth Golf Club. The secretary reported that he had written to congratulate Mr. Andrew Carnegie on taking up golf, and suggested that, in the event, of his being in danger of using unparliamentary language, he should try to pronounce Llanfairpwllgwyngyll, etc. Mr. Carnegie's private secretary, writing from Skibo Castle, had replied that there was not the slightest doubt of the excellency of the remedy, but he was inclined to think the remedy was worse than the disease.

FROM A SOUTH WINDOW IN CANADA

"Love, Laughter and Life"

MR. AND MRS. MUST-HAVE.

Nearly everyone you meet wants something or another, and this, in its way, is good, because, if they only want it badly enough, they will work hard for it, and eventually get it, says The Family Journal. But there are certain people whom you will recognise under the title of the "Must-Haves." They are people who "must have this thing or that, they must have it, and there is an end of it. But, instead of being an end of it, as they think, it is frequently only the beginning of—trouble. The girl who is on the look-out for a good husband might do much worse than marry the young fellow who wants things. The wanting of them will spur him on to obtain them. He will work and work unceasingly until he gets them. At least, that is what he will do if he has any pluck and perseverance, and the man you marry "must have" pluck and perseverance. When we say the man you marry must have pluck and perseverance, we mean that he must have determination to work for the things he wants, so that he may earn the money to buy them. But if a girl has a young man who "must have" things, and he has them, not caring a rap whether he can afford them, then she had better come to some understanding with him, otherwise when they marry that "must have" trick of clamoring at the door for money—and the latter may bring the bailiffs with him, too. This is what the "must have" trick often leads to.

So you see, sir, if your wife says she "must have" something, you should point out to her that first of all you "must have" the money to pay for it, and if you have not got it, then she must not have the article, but must go without it until you can afford it.

COAT OF BLENDED SQUIRREL.

An exceedingly good-looking coatt of blended squirrel, with splendid lines. Muff and collar are of same fur and braid ornaments trim front of coat.

CRACKED GLASSES.

To prevent custard-dishes or glasses from cracking when pouring boiled custard into them, place the dish on a damp cloth. This plan is most effective.

CAN OPENER

Knife Circles Top While Movable Hub Regulates Radius.

A new kind of can opener has been invented by a woman in the state of

HUB RESTS ON EDGE OF CAN.

Washington, and is shown in the illustration. A long shank has a handle at one end and at the other end a knife, which is horizontally deflected and beveled on its under side. A movable hub is mounted on the shank and fits closely enough so as not to shift its position unless under unusual pressure. This hub regulates the radius of the sweep of the knife, making the opener adjustable to cans of different sizes. To use this tool adjust the hub so that the distance between it and the end of the knife is just a trifle less than the diameter of the can. Then rest the groove of the hub against the edge of the can, and using this as an axis, turn the knife around. The point, being deflected, will cut through the tin and bite out a neat circular piece.

THE FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST

Every home should count among its furnishings a small cabinet or chest containing everything that is likely to be needed in an emergency. When an accident occurs or someone is taken suddenly ill, there is no time to be wasted either in sending to the drug store or in frantically searching all the shelves and cupboards in the house to find forgoten bottles or ointments. Often as not when found the bottle is empty or the contents valueless through long standing. A small cabinet fitted out with the few necessary things is a great saver of time and energy at such time of anxiety.

The cabinet need not be at all elaborate. In some homes small cupboards to be used for the purpose are built into the wall of the bathroom. But any kind of box will do. I read recently of some woman whose improvised medicine chest was simply a tin bread box with a lid, and handles by which it could conveniently be carried about the from one room to another. Light wooden boxes varying from twenty-five to fifty cents in price, according to size, may easily be purchased.

In the box should be kept ready for immediate use all the things one is apt to need—bandages and lotions for accidents, as well as croup and cough remedies. It should include a bottle each of witch hazel, arnica and [illegible] some iodoform, gauze, a roll of absorbent cotton, and several rolls of bandages. A small package of wooden splints will not be amiss, and there should be also both scissors and safety pins. Bandages may either be purchased, or made by tearing old soft sheeting into strips of the proper width.

Every bottle should be plainly labelled. The arnica is useful in cases of sprains and bruises, the alcohol for cleansing, the witch hazel for hemorrhage, while the boracic acid is a good general antiseptic.

VEGETABLE STEAK.

Mix together half a pint of fine breadcrumbs with the same quantity of mashed potatoes, one hard-boiled egg, chopped, a little minced onions, some parsley, and thyme if liked. Season to taste, then bind together with beaten egg, and make into balls. Dredge thickly with flour, drop into boiling fat, and cook to a golden brown.

INEXPENSIVE HANDKERCHIEFS.

Dainty handkerchiefs can be made at home at a quarter of what they would cost if bought in the shops. Buy a yard of fine linen, and out of it cut a dozen squares of varying sizes. Hemstitch some, and the rest simply hem, and edge with valenciennes lace.

TO REPAIR A DUSTPAN.

When the dustpan gets thin, and holes appear, paste a thick piece of brown paper on the outside. Sometimes a second piece will be an advantage. Then give a coat of Brunswick black or varnish, and the dustpan will last a long time.

A USEFUL TIP.

When baking or cooking always spread a large sheet of newspaper on the kitchen table and floor. This saves a lot of trouble, as any grease or flour which has been spilt can then be taken up bodily and emptied.

NOVEL HAT DECORATION.

Among the novelties in hat trimmings are plaited silk quills such as we show in to-day's sketch. They are, of course, of a contrasting shade to hat, and are decidely smart, as well as practical.

Local Citizen and a Sable.

A sable skin was recently sold in London, Eng., for £18 or about $90. Now one of the most popular furs on the market here is Alaska Sable or in plain English language "skunk." We know of a resident in East City who a few weeks ago killed three Alaska sable. By the time he got through his slaughter and presented himself to his wife and family and they had expressed the respective opinions regarding the odor he bore with him, the East Ward resident would gladly have given up twice £18 to get rid of his raiment and escape the reproaches of his family.

Peterborough People Abroad.

Lindsay Post: Miss Alice Milloy, of Peterborough, is on a visit to Lindsay friends.

Miss Margaret McGrath, of Peterborough, is the guest of Opa relatives.

Messrs. H. W. Stock and J. A. Gibbs, Peterborough, were in town to-day.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	9.35 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m. 5.30 p.m.	9.00 p.m. 11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Fabridge & Markham	9.00 p.m. 10.15 p.m.	8.25 a.m. 5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m. 9.35 p.m.	8.30 a.m. 1.00 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m. 6.15 p.m.	7.00 a.m. 12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m. 1.07 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	8.36 a.m. 3.51 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m. 6.25 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

Dr. Marsh's Lecture To-night.

The astronomical lecture on "The Great Telescopes and How They are Built, and What They Will Do," by Dr. Marsh, will be given to-night instead of last night as first announced.

Hockey Player in Hospital.

A young man named Lower, a Campbellford hockey player, is confined to Nicholls Hospital suffering from a badly sprained left knee. He entered the hospital last Friday, and is being attended by Dr. Frederick. It is not known nor obtainable how he got hurt.

Belmont Minstrels Are Busy.

The Belmont Minstrels are getting up witty gags, good solos, touching choruses and in short a splendid programme. It is rumored that more than one number of the cork-faced artists, for the last week has been threatened with Tetanus, owing to such broad smiles over some of the jokes. By the way, Tetanus is "lock jaw."

Art Lecture at Y.W.C.A.

Miss McRae, teacher of art in the Normal and Public Schools, will give a stereoptican talk to-morrow evening at the Y.W.C.A. Miss McRae's subject is "Pictures that have lived." As the pictures many of which have been colored by Miss McRae, are thrown on the screen. The lecturer will show and tell how to study a picture and how to find out and see all that is in a picture.

We Are Not Like Kentucky.

Paducah, Ky., through its county clerk, is offering free marriage certificates where the girl takes a declaration that she did the proposing. And still they talk of Southern chivalry. What Peterborough girl would propose (that is directly so), and if she did so, would any Peterborough swain grudge the $2 for a license at the expense of his sweethearts humiliation? Banish the thought of anything so cheap here!

Astronomer Marsh on Weather.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, the well known Astronomer of Springville, yesterday noted that the thermometer at his residence registered 16 degrees below on Sunday night. Dr. Marsh's residence is situated on a slight elevation. On Friday night he placed four thermometers side by side on his verandah two of them being officially guaranteed as accurate. The whole four registered 24 below.

Knox Church Weekly Notes.

Midweek service will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

The Ladies' Aid will hold an "At Home" at Mrs. Jackson's 232 Perry street, Thursday afternoon.

The Boys' Club will meet at 7.30 on Monday evening to hear Rev. Roy Smyth on Orillia Convention.

The choir will meet on Friday evening for practice.

Rev. I. Couch of George street Methodist Church, will preach in Knox Church next Sabbath morning.

Queen's Bill for Toronto.

The many local graduates and students of and at Queen's University, will possibly regret to learn that the "Bill" of that seat of learning may be laid aside by the Dominion Government who claim such matters belong to the Provincial Legislature the former claiming that the Provinces can alone handle educational matters. It would not hurt the University to have the moral and financial aid of both governments.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Druggists everywhere will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, such as gleet and chronic cases of discharges. A cure in a few days. Avoid substitutes. To prevent contagion and stricture, take Big G. Sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

The Bruce Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Kingston to Enlarge Hospitals.

In view of Peterborough's admirable hospital accommodation, it is interesting to note that a deputation from the Board of Governors of the Kingston General Hospital waited on the Finance Committee of the City Council last week and asked for a grant of $5,000 toward the proposed wing for the hospital. It is understood that private subscriptions total over $10,000, which with a civic grant of $5,000, would assure the much-needed wing.

Library Annual Audit.

Yesterday Sheriff Hall, City Auditor was busy at the Public Library making the annual audit of the finances of that local institution. It seems that the city auditors, in addition to other little outside additions to the regular audit of civic affairs have had the checking over of the Library's accounts. Whilst this only involves a comparatively short time, as the daily patronage of the Library is rapidly growing, and consequently their expenses, the annual audit will each succeeding year demand more time.

Is Chemong Track Dangerous.

Some people living near Chemong Lake claim that the farmers of Emmemore and Smith have made the regular road across the ice between these townships, dangerous. They claim that the roadway across the ice, as connected with the places where ice is being cut, renders the passage way unsafe. Now we believe the law says that ice cutters must keep a certain distance from temporary roads across ice. So there you are! Choose for yourself who is at fault, if anyone.

Throat Becomes Diseased from Neglecting Colds

THEN CATARRH SETS IN, MUCOUS DROPS INTO THE STOMACH, COUGHING, HEADACHES AND DEBILITY FOLLOW.

That the best method of curing catarrhal disease consists in using Catarrhozone is now freely admitted. Catarrhozone is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which for the most part are of so practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhozone you take no drugs—you employ Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhozone's soothing healing vapor and relief and cure follows promptly.

Weak Throat, Racking Cough Cured.

"For five years I suffered from a severe bronchitis. A harsh, dry, racking cough kept my throat in a raw condition from one year's end to another. Before going to sleep at night I always had a bad attack, and in the morning before each break fast I suffered greatly. My voice was harsh and raspy, and sometimes I found it difficult to make myself understood. Catarrhozone seemed to [illegible] like fire. It cured me, and now I wouldn't think of being without a Catarrhozone Inhaler—it means life to me."

The above experience is related by Mr. Alexander P. Savary of Hamilton, Pa., and proves the effectiveness of Catarrhozone, which will cure every cough, cold, bronchial or catarrhal attack. The dollar size of Catarrhozone contains two months' treatment and is guaranteed. Smaller size 50c, sample size 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The Crystal Under New Name.

Once more the Crystal Theatre has changed hands. As is well known this popular place of amusement was opened and successfully operated by Mr. W. A. Edwards. Since he severed his connection with this theatre its success has been problematical. The new proprietor is a former employee of Messrs. Applegath & Sons, one of Canada's leading supply houses for films and other picture house requirements. The Crystal will be re-christened "The Red Mill" and if it does, as it should, in proportion to its size approximate the daily receipts of The Red Mill near Mont Martre in Paris, the new proprietor can soon use diamonds for marbles.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Local Parson is Admired.

A lady who was present at Murray street church on Sunday night, happened to be in conversation with a Times representative yesterday and remarked "The sermon given in the church was vigorous and appealing. As you know the subject was the recent disaster at Niagara Falls, when human life was lost by collapse of the ice bridge. Now I thought the pastor's use of this incident as an illustration that it is but a step betwixt life and death was well taken and should have and must have made a strong impression on his hearers." The Times can whilst agreeing with her in every respect replied "after such a strong commendation of the eloquent clergyman, 'surely his ears (using an old expression) must have warmed'"

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. J. A. Aylmer left for Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. Frank O'Connor was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, of this city, is in Montreal for a few days, the guest of friends.

Mrs. C. H. Rogers, 408 Belmont avenue will receive to-day for the first time since her marriage.

Mrs. J. J. Graham, 595 Gilmour street, will receive this afternoon from four to six o'clock.

Miss Morgan of Niagara-on-the-Lake is the guest of Miss Sarah Robinson, Weller street.

Mrs. J. W. McDermid, 519 Weller street, left yesterday for Toronto on a short visit.

Mrs. C. Currier has returned to her home, Port Elgin, after a month's visit with her father, Mr. T. E. Bradburn.

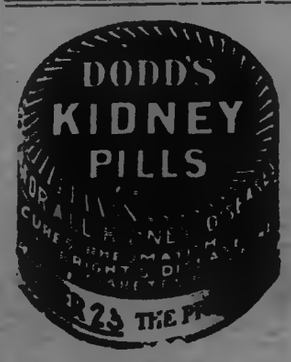
Miss Maude Reycraft and Miss Beulah Metton of Ridgetown, are guests at Mrs. Frank C. Neal, 314 Rubidge street.

Mrs. Walter Stocker, 514 Weller street entertained the Royal English Hand Bell Ringers Sunday evening after the service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The many friends of Rev. G. W. Henderson will be pleased to learn that he is progressing favourably at Clifton Springs, where he is undergoing treatment.

Mr. W. J. Hastie, who has been for some four or five years with the Toronto Savings and Loan Co., has left to take up a position with the Central Canada Loan and Savings Co., of Toronto.

The many friends of Mr. Scott Montgomery, Stewart street, will be pleased to hear of his partial recovery from a serious attack of erysipelas. Although much improved, he is still very weak.



LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Hugh Walker has been appointed License Inspector of Belleville in place of the late Richard Arnott.

Still subscriptions come in for The Times. Yesterday several more names were added to the subscription lists.

A large majority of the Springville Presbyterians have decided for church union.

The Adv. Club dinner takes place to-morrow night in Hoopers' Palm Parlours at 6.15. A report of the same appear in Wednesday's issue.

St. George's Choral Society will hold a practice to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in All Saints' Parish Hall. A good attendance is requested.

Kingston has an $8400 Y.M.C.A. campaign in progress. It is to be hoped the Limestonians will respond as well as did and do the people of Peterborough.

Next Friday, Rev. Mr. Major, of St. George's church, Montreal, will preach a special sermon in All Saints church on the occasion of the induction of the rector, Rev. Mr. Grobb.

It seems that Toronto is up against scarcity of coal supply. This may mean a matter of price. If so let Toronto get a few tips from our local coal dealers.

Owing to the annual tea in George street Sunday School, the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 in the church parlors instead of to-morrow.

Local housewives and others will be pleased to learn that a dispatch from Niagara Falls says the peach crop is safe and not destroyed by frost. It is good these peach trees were not located in Peterborough.

There is a silk factory at Marseilles owned and operated exclusively by girls. If such a factory existed here where could the young man wanted for chores round the house be found at closing hour?

There is an outbreak of rabies at Fort William, Ont. If a few thousands of the useless curs that use our local streets, to the danger of our citizens, without aiding our taxes, Peterborough could drop fear of such an epidemic.

A big temperance meeting is to be held in Massey Hall, Toronto to-day. The gathering of the Clans of Temperance and Antis will soon begin here and much hot air in addition to argument, will soon be heard on both sides.

Miss Adeline E. Roberts, of Youngs Point, is out in the contemporary press with a strong letter against female suffrage. However, in her letter, the writer gives more than a few sly digs over their respective short-comings.

Down town policemen are being supplied by a philanthropist of Chicago, with hot coffee at night. How can these Chicago cops get in a 24 hour sleep. Our local force might like the coffee, but owing to smallness of the force would not have time to swallow it!!

If our farmers will take our "tip" buy clover, Alsike and Alfalfa seed. These seeds are expected to raise $3 a bushel before the robins nest again.

The Belleville, Ontario, in its last issue in its market report of market prices, says "Butter 42 cents for ONE pound."

Hamilton papers have great big headed articles saying that the mercury there, last week dropped to 14 below zero. Why, we had it down to 32 below here. Hamilton should drop their title "Ambitious City," or they would surely have claimed a little (or more) than Peterborough.

BUY LOTS IN HAZELTON, B.C.

Profitable investment: Hazelton rivals Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, for rapid growth; on main line of G. T. P. railroad. Send for free book about Hazelton and Central, B. C. Hazelton now busy town; 24 stores, 3 banks, 2 newspapers; telephone telegraph, municipal water system, clear streets; $500,000 business done yearly past ten years; center immense mining and anthracite coal district. Fruit and stock raising. Lots average $100 to $300 on easy terms. Property selling rapidly. $10 secures good lot subject of your acceptance funded. Sure to get good location if of one reserved for you or money re-order now with inquiry. Big book, photographs, map of Central, B. C., free. Write for it. Give names of friends who would be interested.

Canadian National Investors, Ltd., 310 6'52 Hastings St., W., Vancouver B. C.

(D—1-17-3)

GREATEST QUESTION

For three hours, fifty-nine minutes, and forty-five seconds Professor L. L. Dee had been lecturing upon the burning question affecting political economy.

"And now," he concluded, glancing at his chronometer, "I should just like one of the students to state concisely what he considers to be the greatest question at present occupying the minds of men in this country."

From a far corner of the auditorium, cutting the proverbial hush like the proverbial knife, came the response, clear and concise:—

"Has anybody here seen Kelly?"

THE IMMORTAL WILLIAM

A motorist was stopped by a policeman, the light on his car being insufficient. He gave his card to the constable.

"G. B. Smith," read the man in blue. "Go on with you!" he exclaimed, "I want your proper name and address. We've too many Smiths about here. Now, look sharp!"

"Then," said the motorist, "if you must have it, it's William Shakespeare, Stratford-on-Avon."

"Thank you, sir," replied the policeman. "Sorry to have troubled you." And he carefully entered the particulars in his book.

KNEW HOW TO SAVE COAL

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading: "Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal."

"Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all me coal."

326th Bargain Annex Event — The GRESSMAN Company Limited — Wednesday, February 14, 1912

WOMEN'S CLOTH SKIRTS BIG ANNEX LEADER AT 99c

Cheaper than the usual cost of the material and cheaper than the making. You cannot help being surprised at the exceptional value in this new imported CHEVIOT SKIRT The style is absolutely correct—has front panel and fits neatly and snugly over the hips. Procurable in navy-blue and black—a good range of sizes. Don't miss this chance of buying a fresh new skirt at less than you can buy the material. See them in our show window and be on hand Wednesday at 8.15. sharp Our great leader at only each 99c

Bargain Annex Registered

STRIPE FLANNELETTE 7½c
A special Annex line that represents extra value. A good selection of stripe patterns on light, medium and dark grounds. Good soft quality, wide width only, per yard 7½c

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR 23c
A very fine ribbed Annex line of Women's Underwear to clear Wednesday: White or grey Vests and Drawers. Bought direct from the mill at an exceedingly low figure. All sizes. For an Annex Snap, per garment 23c

SILK LINED NET BLOUSES $1.69
The second Annex Sale of these attractive Dress Blouses will clear the lot quickly. Faultlessly correct in style; made with silk lining; short sleeves; white or deep cream; practically all sizes. Best $2.50 value. Annex Price $1.69

CARPET ENDS 58c
A great selection of colors and patterns in this Annex lot of Carpet Ends. Mostly travellers' samples with overcast ends and sides; also a few from our regular stock. All full yard and a half in length. Extra special at the Annex price of 58c

WOMEN'S STRIPE FLANNELETTE GOWNS 38c
Made of good quality Flannelette, in pink and blue stripes; button fronts. Marked for a quick, sharp Annex clean-up. Our regular stock line at 59c. Annex special 38c

"MILL ENDS" OF TWEEDS 39c YARD
Only 48 of these single fold Mill Ends—varying in length from 1 to 4¼ yards; mostly 30 inches wide. Cloths that sell regularly at $1.00 and $1.25 a yard—all pure wool, in Worsted and Tweed finish. In the Annex, PER YARD 39c

Men's $1 and $1.25 Soft Front Shirts 55c 3 for $1.55
Our Annex Shirt Sales are always a huge success. This week's event promises to eclipse all previous efforts—you have over 300 fine quality Soft Front Dress Shirts to choose from; the patterns are exceptionally good—all being most carefully selected—and represent very neat designs on light, medium and dark grounds; sizes 14 to 16½. We are not exaggerating in the least when we say all are regularly valued at $1.00 and $1.25. Our Great February Annex Shirt Sale brings the price down to only, each 55c
3 FOR $1.55
See the Show Window display.

ANNEX SALE OF
New Lace, 2½c yd.
26c DOZEN
The mention of an "Annex" Lace Sale means a crowd for Wednesday. Let us say, however, the values this week are even better than the remarkable ones the Annex usually offers. The selection in both Insertions and Edgings is numerous and dainty. Whether it's the finer vals. or a heavier torchon you'll find it in our showing. See the window display and buy your spring and summer Laces Wednesday at, per yard 2½c
26c DOZEN

LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING 6½c
360 yards of Linen Crash Roller Towelling; 17 inches wide; red stripe border. A quality you will recognize as being less than the mill price. In the Annex only, a yard 6½c

HEMSTITCHED WHITE LAWN HANDKERCHIEFS 10 FOR 25c
An indispensable cold weather commodity. Made usual size from good quality Irish Lawn; popular narrow hem. In the Annex at the unusual price of 10 FOR 25c

SPECIAL QUALITY WHITE LONGCLOTH 12½c YARD
You would get good value if you paid 17c for this special, heavy quality of White Longcloth. Heavy weight; pure bleached and full 36 inches wide; absolutely free from any dressing or sizing. We have every confidence in this Cloth and expect it to be one of the BEST "Annex" spring lines. Wednesday only 12½c

HEMSTITCHED PILLOW CASES 15c EACH
A shipment of "GREAT VALUE" Pillow Cases—every pair hemstitched, and made of good quality English Cambric. All sizes, 140, 42 and 44 inches; marked at 13c
Your own cost of material. Annex Price, each

COMPLETE BED OUTFIT $5.97
You save money by buying your Beds, Springs and Mattresses in the Annex. Brass trimmed White Enamel IRON BEDS, equipped with double, wool-faced MATTRESS and re-inforced coil wire SPRINGS. All sizes, 3 ft., 3 ft. 6 in., 4 ft., and 4 ft. 6 in. Annex Price complete $5.97
BEDS, $1.97; SPRINGS, $1.69; MATTRESS, $2.49

BLACK SPUN GLASS DRESS LINING 19c
Best 25c quality "Silkteaf" Spun Glass Lining for suit and coat linings and for separate skirts. About 100 yards for this week's Annex at the extremely low price of 19c

2 o'clock Special Moreen Underskirtings 59c
Odd lines of Colored Moreen Underskirts to clear on Wednesday. The qualities are good and the shades represented are tan, brown, and light and dark green; only one or two of a kind; lengths 38, 40 and 42. You couldn't begin to buy the material at anything near this clearing price. A positive limit of not more than TWO Skirts to any one customer. Sharp at 2 o'clock, not before. To clear at 59c

12 1-2 & 15c. Kingcot Canadian Ginghams 10½c
If it's Kingcot Gingham it's absolutely the best of the regular 12½c and 15c lines. A special cloth; excellent patterns in neat stripes and dainty spot and plaid effects. A choice range of the advance spring designs from which to make selection. Only one day in the Annex at an exceptionally low price. See the window display and come early on Wednesday for first choice. Annex price, a yard 10½c
See Window.

RUBBER BOOTS FOR BOYS, GIRLS AND WOMEN IN THE ANNEX $1.19
Every pair best quality Maltese Cross brand and sizes to fit boys or girls, from 3 to 14 years, also women's sizes. The only boot for the late winter and early spring slush. Come early on Wednesday before your size is sold out. Regular $2.00 and $2.50 values $1.19

WOMEN'S $2.25 BUTTON OVERSHOES $1.29
Women's 8-Button High Cut Overshoes—Maltese Cross Brand—sizes only 2½, 3, 3½, 4 and 4½. Regular stock price $2.50. To clear Wednesday in the Annex, per pair $1.29

SCOTCH FINGERING 4c SKEIN
200 skeins of the best quality imported Scotch Fingering in black and grey. Full size skeins. To clear quickly at, only, a skein 4c

MEN'S COAT SWEATERS (WITH POCKETS) 79c
A good heavy ribbed Coat Sweater for men. V-shaped neck and made with two side pockets; grey bodies with [illegible] In the Annex at only 79c

HOOSIER GLOSS AND CORN STARCH 4 FOR 25c
12 cases of full size 10c packages of Hoosier Gloss and Corn Starch. You can buy all one kind or have it assorted as you prefer. Buy this line in the Annex Wednesday at. 4 PACKAGES FOR 25c

ODD LINES AND SAMPLE BLOUSES 49c
...Black Sateens, Stripe Chambrays and White Muslins. Regular prices 75c, 89c and $1.00, but odd lines or samples. To be cleared completely out at the Annex Price of, only 49c

Ready-to-wear Mark Down Sale Now In Progress

The GRESSMAN Company Limited
Store opens 8.15 ⋮⋮ ANNEX CLOSES 5.30 ⋮⋮ Closes 5.45

Do your Wall Papering NOW before the Spring rush commences

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

Colds

Don't trifle with a cold; no one can tell what the end may be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis and consumption invariably result from neglected colds. Nothing can be compared with

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

as a quick cure for [illegible] and by its use the more serious diseases may be avoided.

If the bear did or did not see his shadow on Candlesmas Day he must have been a double asterisk fool, if he did not return to his warm retreat. That is, if the bear in question lives anywhere near here.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, any ruling made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some dull at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your kild much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute. Market Building.

VOL XXXIX NO 39 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14 1912 PRICE 2 CENTS

Rejoicing in North at $5,000,000 Grant---British House Faces Three Great Questions

THE AD. CLUB OF PETERBORO HOLDS ITS FIRST SUPPER

Big Gathering of Local Men Who Knew the Value of Printers Ink Held in Hoopers Palm Gardens

Last night, the to be Peterborough "Ad. Club, held its first meeting in Hooper's Palm Gardens. The attendance present demonstrated the interest that "LIVE PEOPLE" show in advertising their respective business. In the big room of Hooper's restaurant, two long tables were fully filled, and a table across the room was also filled with those interested in the movement.

Those invited were Messrs. R. A. McKee, C. C. Nixon, W. G. Hardill, C. J. Hardy, H. B. Cowan, W. Browett, R. Turner, J. Hamilton, J. M. Greene, J. MacNabb, R. J. Ross, C. Taylor, C. B. Routley, W. H. Overam, R. W. Glover, J. H. Dobbin, J. H. Callender, J. T. C. Lang, W. Meredith, W. Conway, Walter Stocker, Chas. Primeau, Angus MacPherson, Harry Cressman, Fred Cressman, J. McNicholl, R. Overton, W. A. E. Rogers, W. G. Cochrane, W. Williams, W. McDiarmid, Lydratt, W. Coleman, Johns, Anderson, Cameron, Brown, and Gillespie.

Mr. W. B. Cowan, of "Farm and Dairy" fame throughout Ontario, occupied the chair. About 60 representative merchants and business men sat down at the supper. After the fine repast served by mine host Hooper had gone into what the late U.S. President, Cleveland, called "Lumocuous Desuitude" the chairman introduced the toast of the King which was drank and the National Anthem sung. Chairman Cowan then said he was not a local advertiser, but believed in the Advertising Club which originated in Cleveland. The main point is to get the papers to cut out fake advertising. If advertisers would only get together like the meeting of the evening, much good could accrue. He is heart and soul with the club. He would like to see an Ad. Club formed in Peterborough that could be really successful. A month ago a committee was formed to arrange for a club in Peterborough.

Mr. Lidgett, the first speaker said there are 110 Ad. Clubs on the Continent. Last Thursday night in Toronto, Mr. Coleman told of the changes in which the business of the world is carried. He thinks there should be co-operation for the general good of advertisers. The speaker then read a letter from an advertising merchant respecting country merchants and mail order houses. The speaker said that old conditions are changed. It is up to the merchant now to study conditions and study how to advertise. A woman nowadays does not go into a store to find what is fashionable or cheap, but to get the goods and prices advertised. Many words, like the word "best" are overworked. He quoted from Peterborough papers literally to show the obsolete form of advertising done in Peterborough, saying: "I see particularly, the great retiring sale," (roars of laughter ! !) The idea of "Marvellous Attractions," "Phenomenal Offers," etc., are only paying the printer for no use. He spoke against the nonsense of advertising in programms, etc. Peterborough merchants have a pretty fair style of advertising. The speaker then made fun of a local merchant whose advertisement said, he was giving goods at half price. Now, if this were so, the goods would sell themselves without advertising. The advertising man at Richard Hall & Sons knows his business. However, he criticized the wording of the latter's style of composition. His method has lost its force. The speaker next read over the local papers and thoroughly criticized all the advertising therein, mostly to the bad.

The chairman here interrupted to say that the meeting was supposed to end at 8 o'clock, and that those who desired could leave. About half those present availed themselves of the chairman's suggestion.

When the meeting resumed, the previous speaker gave some more logical remarks who merchants and

Mr. McDiarmid, who was expected by the local train from Toronto was next speaker. This gentleman evidently has a great respect for the "Ad. Club," as did the other speakers. The meeting closed with the ceremonies usual to such occasions.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT WILL OPEN TO-MORROW

THREE IMPORTANT MEASURES WILL MAKE SITTING A MOMENTOUS ONE.

Long Days and Many Sleepless Nights for the Law Makers—Sir Edward Grey for Premiership.

PROGRAMME FOR THE COMING SESSION.

Home Rule.
Manhood Suffrage.
Disestablishment of the Welsh Church.

PROSPECTS.

Autumn Session.
All-Night Sittings.
Possible General Election in December.

London, Feb. 13.—King George presided this morning at a meeting of the Privy Council, the first which has occurred since his return from India. The meeting was held in Buckingham Palace, and the King approved of the speech from the throne which is to be read at the opening of Parliament to-morrow.

Prior to the assembling of the Council the King had an unusually long audience which lasted an hour and a half with Winston Spencer Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty. It is understood that Mr. Churchill gave explanations to His Majesty of the notable changes which the Admiralty has effected during the absence of the King from England, and which His Majesty is reported not to have altogether approved.

MAY SHIFT HALDANE.

After the Council King George received Viscount Haldane, Secretary for War, in order to hear his personal report of his visit to Berlin. The report is revived to-day that Viscount Haldane will shortly vacate the War Office and be succeeded by Col. John Edward Bernard Seely, member of Parliament for the Ilkeston Division of Derbyshire and Under Secretary of War.

The changes made at the Admiralty under the administration of Winston Spencer Churchill will at an early date be the subject of questions in the House of Commons.

MANY IMPORTANT MEASURES.

The session which opens to-morrow promises to be a momentous one on account of the three important questions—Home Rule, the disestablishment of the Welsh Church and Manhood Suffrage—All of which the Government is pledged to the hilt to carry through. Any one of these measures would a few years ago, have been considered ample work for the whole session.

An autumn session is assured and many sleepless, all-night sittings will be necessary in order to complete the legislative task before December unless something occurs in the meantime to bring about a general election, which the Unionists are already forecasting.

WORSE THAN IN ITALY

Addressing his congregation of French-Canadians at the Oratory on Mance Street, Montreal, Rev. Dr. Thierrien, President of the Baptist Association, said that Canada was worse off than Italy in the clash between civil and religious authority. For in Italy, he said, the home of the Roman Catholic, neither the Pope nor any of his Cardinals dared to declare a marriage illegal which had been celebrated before the civil authorities. It was high time, he declared, that such a scandalous condition in the marriage laws of Canada was remedied and that it should be impossible for any one church to call in question the validity of a marriage performed by another church under authorization and with the consent of the Governor-General.

ONE KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED IN MONTREAL BLAZE

Many Girls Were in the J. W. Hughes Building, at Craig and St. Antoine Street—Spectators Aided in Rescue

Montreal, Feb. 13.—A fire and an explosion in the establishment of J. W. Hughes, corner of Craig and St. Antoine streets, wiped out the life of Major Rogers, and injured four more this afternoon here.

It is not known what caused the blaze, but in a few seconds after, smoke was seen to be issuing from a window, the whole building was a mass of flames.

The fire started in the basement of J. W. Hughes Plumbing Company. Major Rogers was the manager of the Abbey Effervescent Salt Company which had its headquarters on the second floor of the building attacked. He was connected with the Victoria Rifles here.

BODY WAS UNRECOGNIZABLE.

It was seen when the flames began to eat their way up stairs from the ground floor, where they were first noticed. Afterwards the body of a man, burned into an unrecognizable state, was found in the Abbey Effervescent Salt Company's premises. He had evidently been cut off by the rapid advance of the fire.

A dozen girls were in danger, and were rescued by a spectator, who placed a ladder against the walls and carried them to the street. Moreover, three or four girls were overcome by smoke and one man severely burned about the face and body.

Up to two o'clock the firemen had been unable to search the ruins, the fire having been got under by this time, and it was feared more bodies would be found.

There was a sad scene when Major Roger's son Frederick D., identified his body this afternoon. At first he was uncertain, but when the watch found on the remains was shown to him, there was no longer room for doubt, and he broke down.

WOODBURN DEFENDANT.

One of the most remarkable features about the fire was the case of Woodburn. He was taken out of the burning ruins in bad shape, and on the way to the hospital appeared to die. As a matter of fact he merely lost consciousness, and after giving out that he was dead this afternoon, authorities had to correct it, and say he was alive.

A curious coincidence in connection with the fire is that it took place on the 13th of the month. Strange to say, the Herald fire also occurred on the 13th, viz., the 13th of June, 1910 and the fire at the King's Hall on St. Catharines street, also happened on the unlucky 13th day, the 13th of October, 1910.

J. W. Hughes thinks the explosion may have been caused by an internal combustion engine, which must have in some way, fired the gasoline tank.

The damage is expected to amount to about $80,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

THIS IS THE OLDEN TIME ST. VALENTINES

This is St. Valentine's Day. This is the day when the bucolic swain, after saving his shekels for weeks sends a polite reminder to his sweetheart that this is the only thing that ever happened. A Times representative happened on Monday to be in a George street store. A young man with country atmosphere came to the counter. "I would like to get a nice Valentine." The young man picked out one of those paper-cut-into-art-fashion Valentines with about two inches of chewing gum wrapper poetry. On the front of this creation was the picture of a heart pierced by a pink arrow and surmounted by two cunning little naked cupids. He bought a large envelope, inserted the paper creation, and addressed it to [illegible] Probably this morning Evangeline Arithusia will wonder where the beautiful Valentine came from until she finds her bucolic lover's initials very plainly written just under the stamp.

LOCAL STREET RAILROAD LIKELY TO EXTEND TO ASHBURNHAM

was in the city on Monday. He was here in connection with the extension and improvements in the company's business, slated for 1912 in Peterborough. Probably the most conspicuous item of which is the street railroad extension to Ashburnham. Whilst here he informally discussed the matter of a new bridge for Hunter street, with Mayor Bradburn and outlined the company's ideas in this regard which incline to a substantial and sightly structure for this very important thoroughfare.

BELLEVILLE OBJECTS TO OVERPLUS OF DOGS

Belleville Intelligencer: In this city there is a Dog By-law, one clause of which reads: "That no dog shall be permitted to run at large within the said city without the collar or fastening a metallic medal thereon, designating its number, and any dog running at large contrary to this provision of the By-law may be forthwith destroyed by the police. Is this section of the By-law being enforced by the police? Of late there have been many complaints about dogs disturbing the peaceful slumbers and otherwise creating annoyance. Why great Cesar's ghost, if that Belleville writer would only spend one day in this city and take even a casual census of Peterborough's canine population, he would go back to Belleville with a pound of choice steak and whistle for any or all the dogs he could find. The result would be as 8 to 2.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

C. P. R. DIVIDENDS

Meeting of the Board of Directors—Dividend to Be Paid.

Special to The Times.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—At a meeting of the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway held to-day, the following dividends were declared: One the preferred stock, two per cent. for the half year ended 31st December last. On the common stock, two and one half per cent for the quarter ended 31st December last, being at the rate of seven per cent. per annum from revenue and three per cent per annum from interest on proceeds of land sales and from other extraneous assets, both dividends payable 1st April next, to shareholders of record

RASH ACT SUCCEEDS

Man Living Near Port Hope Dies From Self-Inflicted Wound.

Mr. Wm. Doney, a gardener, living on the Toronto road, has died as the result of a bullet wound in the breast, inflicted by his own hand on Thursday morning, February 1st. The bullet was a 48 calibre and passed directly through the lung. Drs. Clemesha and Powers were called and the bullet was taken out near the back bone. All efforts to save his life were of no avail.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents

CHURCH AND PATRONAGE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—There is a rumor going around that a certain Church is interfering to keep a man in this city in his job. Now I think any party has little to do that will try and get Church influence to keep a man in a job, no matter how big it is. Let the people fight it out themselves, and if a man is not fairly treated the people will attend to it, but in these days when there is so much warm talk about religion and marriage I would think Mr. Burnham, M.P., had enough to do without fighting a Church again. But he is some fighter and look out for him

One Who Knows.

LIST OF GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—It is now a long time since the elections and all changes or new appointments to the offices of both Dominion and Ontario governments must have been made. Would it not be a good move for both Mr. Burnham and Mr. Peck to publish a list of all those they have, to date, nominated for office? There are a lot of men looking for government jobs and, in many cases searching for rainbow gold who would, on the publication of such a list get back to regular work and have all the less disappointment. I myself would accept a government position if it paid enough but do not want to wait indefinitely to find whether I can get it or not

Office Seeker.

THE INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Permit me to reply to an item that appeared in your paper of the 8th inst. re agricultural Fair Association.

I was not aware that any rumor

Continued on Page 8.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with the whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

WOMAN SHOT HERSELF WHILE USING 'PHONE

London, Feb. 13.—Elements of mystery surround the death last evening of Mrs. Buttonshaw, a well known journalist, who shot herself in her dressing room while speaking over the telephone, and died almost immediately. She lived alone and kept a revolver on her dressing table, on which also stood the telephone apparatus. One suggestion is that as she was engaged in a telephone conversation she was trying the weapon and unconsciously pressed the trigger. Mrs. Buttonshaw was heard to call out immediately after the report of the revolver. "For God's sake, burst the door open."

When the room was entered she was found lying on the floor by the table. The telephone receiver was hanging down, the instrument was overturned, and the revolver was on the table. Mrs. Buttonshaw was unconscious.

The coroner's office has requested any person who conversed over the telephone with Mrs. Buttonshaw to communicate with it.

46 WERE DROWNED

Nagasaki, Japan, Feb. 13.—The Japanese steamer Ryoha Maru and Mori Maru were in collision off this port to-day, and were so badly damaged both sank almost immediately.

Thirty-two of the former's crew and fourteen of the latter's were caught between decks and drowned, the remainder being rescued by steamers that witnessed the disaster.

The Ryoha Maru was a steamer of 81 tons net, built in 1878 at Hiogo, Japan, and owned by the Yoshida Keitaro, while the Mori Maru was a steamer of 1,109 tons net, built at West Hartlepool, Eng., in 1880, and owned by the Yoshida Seiko.

PROMINENT BANKER TOOK LIFE WITH GUN

New York, Feb. 13. Despondent because he had been consistently on the wrong side of the market for several months, and partially insane from over-indulgence in drugs, taken to secure relief from nervous indigestion and insomnia, Washington K. Seligman, a noted broker and member of the well known Seligman banking family, shot and killed himself yesterday. His body was found this afternoon in his room in the hotel Gerard, where he had lived for the last five years.

Seligman was a dealer in privileges and sold his Stock Exchange seat two years ago.

GIRL OF SIXTEEN HAS BEEN MARRIED 4 TIMES

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 13.—A much married and divorced young woman is Mrs. Vinnie Dooley, aged 16, who to-day became the wife of D. H. Glass. This is the girl's third marriage to Glass and between times has married and divorced A. H. Lewis, so that she is now starting the matrimonial game for the fourth time. Here is the record: Married Glass July 2, 1910; divorced September; remarried in April, 1911, divorced in August; married Lewis in November, divorced January, 1912; and now married Glass for the third time.

CAN MAKE THE HUMAN BODY TRANSPARENT AFTER DEATH

London, Feb. 13.—The London press is deeply interested in a discovery said to have been made by a German physician, Professor Spalteholz, who, by the use of two complicated organic chemicals, makes the human body transparent after death.

The Daily Mirror says: "As a result of this discovery dissection will be unnecessary, as the Spalteholz process makes not only the whole body, but the bones transparent, so the full mechanism of human life is displayed."

NAPANEE LADY WILL COMPROMISE DAMAGE

Miss Blewett, the Napanee lady who was injured on a G.T.R. local train at the Kingston Junction on January 6th, is still in a dangerous condition at the Hotel Dieu. Miss Blewett claims that the accident was caused by the train starting suddenly before she had been seated. She was thrown heavily against a seat and struck her hip, injuring the spinal column severely. The shock and the pain left the unfortunate woman in a highly nervous condition, and as a result she was brought to the House of Providence, at the Limestone City, and later to the Hotel Dieu at which institution she has been since. She has entered a claim for damages against the railroad company. It is understood that the railroad will meet the demand for damages asked by Miss Blewitt, and that the claim will be settled out of court.

If you have young children, you have perhaps noticed that disorders of the stomach are their most common ailment. To correct this you will find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets excellent. They are easy and pleasant to take, and mild and gentle in effect. For sale by all dealers.

BOGUS CHEQUE EXPERT AFTER LINDSAY MAN

Judging by a current issue of a Lindsay paper, that town seems to consider itself an "easy mark" for bogus cheque experts. This bright little sheet under a double column heading, says "Ex-Lindsay young man not fooled this time." It seems that in the City of Guelph two weeks ago a young man giving his name as Clark, a stranger in the city, walked into Mr. W. J. Thurston's store and selected a pair of boots, in payment for which he tendered a check for $20 drawn on the Port Arthur branch of the bank. Warned by his recent experience in Lindsay, Mr. Thurston refused to accept it, and told the young man to go to the bank with it. Clark had the check cashed readily, as he said he worked in a Port Arthur bank. The check was sent to the Port Arthur branch and has been returned, stamped, "No funds."

CARRIED OUT TO SEA

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 13. Z. Wirt, of Milford, Ills., a shorthand expert, and H. G. Patterson, a mining engineer, of London England, representing the English Rothschilds in this country, are missing somewhere along the coast of Lower California.

They left here three weeks ago in the launch Fortuna, Captain Oakley Hall, to examine onyx and other properties near Santa Rosalia. Ten days ago the launch was reported near San Quentin in a disabled condition. Rough weather has prevailed, and it is believed the boat was carried out to sea.

YANKEE (to hotel manager)—"Say, Mossy, what time does the feedin' take place?"
MANAGER—"Breakfast seven till eleven; lunch eleven till three; dinner three till eight, and supper from eight till eleven."
YANKEE—"Geo, when do I get time to see your city?"—London Opinion

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE BADLY NEEDED

Anyone desirous of assisting the families of Mr. A. Nash and John Sweeny, who lost all their worldly possessions in the Harvey street fire, can do so through the medium of Relief Officer Miller, or Mr. Cochrane, of the Children's Aid Society. The families are at present being cared for by neighbours. Money, clothing, furniture or any article that would be of material assistance in placing these families upon their feet, will be very acceptable, and if placed in the hands of Mr. Miller or Mr. Cochrane, will be distributed with advantage, to those concerned.

The following subscriptions have been received to date:

Harry Webber	$2.00
R. Munro	5.00
"Auntie"	2.00

Two comforters and two pair of quilts from R. Hall & Co.

NEW ROLLING STOCK FOR GRAND TRUNK.

To augment present equipment the Grand Trunk System have recently placed orders for over four thousand cars of various kinds. These include 41 passenger coaches, 23 baggage cars, 300 box cars, and 1,000 coal cars. In addition to the above, 946 cars of all kinds have been received from the manufacturers and put into service during the past three months

THE WEATHER.

Fair and a little higher temperature.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.
Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

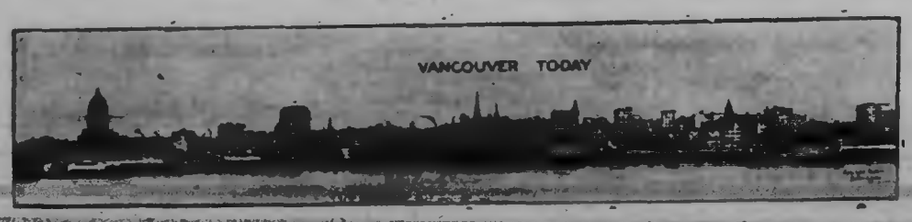
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jf L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON, Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited
432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

COSTLY PLATE

Dinner Services that are Valued in the Hundreds of Thousands—Priceless China

Senator W. A. Clark, the Montana "copper king," is said to be the proudest man in all America, for he is rejoicing in the possession of "the costliest, most ornate, and the largest silver and gold dinner-service in the world." And a wonderful service it is, with its full table equipment for twenty-four diners, each piece made of the purest silver, lined with sheet-gold gold of great thickness, and the whole service costing $120,000.

But the proud Senator is surely wrong in boasting that his service is the largest and costliest in the world. It is far surpassed in value and splendor by the famous Emperor's service at Windsor Castle, which is used only for crowned heads. Some of the épergnes of this marvellous service weigh several hundredweight, and even a strong man can carry no more than three of its dishes or eight of its plates at a time. It is of silver, richly gilt, and its value must run into six figures.

At Windsor, too, there are five tons of plate, some of it of solid gold, and of a value far exceeding $5,000,000. There is a rose-water fountain of silver, which weighs 2,380 ounces, and a nautilus cup by Cellini, with shell of pearl and mountings of gold and silver, which alone is said to be worth many thousands of dollars.

In America Mr. Pierpont Morgan's plate is valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars—indeed, the plate of the Tudor and Stuart days alone was purchased for six figures in Berlin. Mr. Morgan's collection includes two silver table-ornaments valued at $500,000 each. One represents Diana seated on a stag, with jewelled headdress and trappings; the other is an iridescent nautilus, borne on a gold and silver snail, and on it is perched a Nubian boy in black enamel.

It is not long, too, since a Piccadilly, London, firm completed an order for silver and china to the value of $850,000, designed as the present of a millionaire to an Eastern potentate. The silver included a table weighing 6,000 ounces, a tray eight feet in diameter, and a service, all in solid gold, for a thousand persons—a thousand silver dinner-plates, a thousand smaller plates, a thousand spoons and forks, a thousand silver wine-glasses, and so on.

In English noble houses there are many services of solid gold and silver almost, if not quite, as valuable as Senator Clark's vaunted purchase. And the china is of almost fabulous value. The Duke of Argyll has recently [illegible] Sèvres china. Lord Hillingdon's [illegible] Sèvres service for twenty-four persons is valued at $6,000; and Lord Dudley has a Coalport game-service worth $6,700, while Lord Rothschild's Dresden and Sevres ware is almost priceless.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S DESK

Is a Token of Goodwill Between Great Britain and the United States

The desk used at the White House by the President of the United States is interesting in itself, apart from its connection with the ruler of a nation, for it is a token of the goodwill existing between Great Britain and the United States. Although occupying so prominent a place in the official residence of the chosen governor, it is not of American manufacture.

It was fashioned in England, and was a present from Queen Victoria to a former President. It was made from the timbers of H.M.S. Resolute, which was sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1853. The ship was caught in the ice and had to be abandoned. It was not destined to go to pieces in frozen waters, however. An American whaler discovered and extricated it in 1855, and it was subsequently purchased and sent to Her Majesty by the President and the people of the United States as a token of goodwill and friendship.

In an English dockyard the Resolute was at last broken up, and from her timbers a desk was made, which was sent by the Queen "as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

At this desk, itself a representative of the kindly feeling of both nations, the President does the greater part of his writing.

BIBLICAL IGNORANCE

Members of Parliament Who Have Made Amusing Errors

Some interesting stories are told of members of the British House of Commons who were lacking in Biblical knowledge. For instance, in a debate a few years ago Mr. George Wyndham referred to David and the fifty fighting men he had in a cave. "Not David—Daniel," interjected Sir Edward Grey. "I am much obliged to my right honorable friend," continued Mr. Wyndham; "of course I meant Daniel," as the House resounded with laughter and shouts of "Obadiah!"

A little later the same evening Sir Edward again aired his Biblical knowledge by speaking of the feeding of the prophets on bread and water, when Sir William Evans Gordon convulsed everybody by suggesting that the prophetic menu consisted of locusts and wild honey.

Certainly a few lessons on the Bible would have been useful to a good many statesmen, past and present. Mr. Gladstone once committed the atrocity of putting Daniel in the fiery furnace, and made the Psalmist responsible for the words, "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." John Bright saddled St. Paul, with the well-known aphorism, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness"; and Lord John Russell made a touching reference to Pharaoh and his host struggling in the engulfing waters of the Jordan.

In Paris, during 1910, 30,955 marriages took place, while 1,926 divorces were granted

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

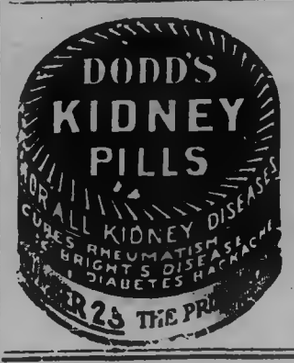
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed "Tender for Dredges", or "Tender for Hopper Barge", or "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets. Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual [illegible] nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department

BOBCAYGEON DEMANDS NEW T. V. C. LOCKS

Bobcaygeon Independent: "A reply from Col. Sam. Hughes acknowledging receipt of the Council's resolution regarding the local works was received and it brought up the question. It was decided to write the Department, and point out what was required at once, and what could be done entirely apart from the canal. Years of experience has proved the uselessness of trying to patch the old lock and canal. A new lock and canal is a necessity, that should be put in hand and completed concurrently with the finishing of the lower end of the waterway at Trenton, otherwise the traffic would have to cease at this point instead of being carried through to Lake Simcoe."

Astronomer Marsh on Weather.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, the well known Astronomer of Springville, yesterday noted that the thermometer at his residence registered 16 degrees below on Sunday night. Dr. Marsh's residence is situated on a slight elevation. On Friday night he placed four thermometers side by side on his verandah two of them being officially guaranteed as accurate. The whole four registered 24 below.

Is Chemong Track Dangerous.

Some people living near Chemong Lake claim that the farmers of Ennismore and Smith have made the regular road across the ice between these townships, dangerous. They claim that the roadway across the ice, as connected with the places where ice is being cut, renders the passage way unsafe. Now we believe the law says that ice cutters must keep a certain distance from temporary roads across ice. So there you are! Choose for yourself who is at fault, if anyone.

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, also 50x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms 1/10 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
518 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

[illegible] didn't express any [illegible] relief at his death, and he seemed very ready to believe that he was running away from that woman. When a man fears a woman so much that he runs from her, the most usual theory is that the man has something to be ashamed of. It strucks me that that was the theory that had occurred to Davis."

"Very likely," said Scarborough. "I believe he didn't like Carrington."

"On general grounds? Or did he [illegible] anything?"

"I don't think so."

Presently Scarborough returned again to the subject of the hooded woman, and Varney said sharply:

"I see what you're driving at, of course, but you're wrong. You think it was Mona."

"I don't."

"Well, anyway, you are prepared to believe that it may have been. I tell you the idea is absurd, but you don't seem to be inclined to believe me."

"I want to hear what she has to say," Scarborough answered steadily.

"Exactly! You suspect her. I promised [illegible] and I'll do it. I'm [illegible] half sorry I promised [illegible] together, sorry I ever told you about [illegible] business. It's that that's [illegible] in your throat all the time, I know. You can't understand that it was all a piece of high-falutin' nonsense, which she has forgotten long ago. She's a rare good sort, and plucky; but you went to make her out a fool!"

Varney spoke with some heat. He and this girl had been comrades for nearly two years, and he resented suspicion as an insult to her.

"It was you who suggested," Scarborough reminded him, "that she refused to perform last night because she had business with Carrington."

"Great Scott, yes! But things have happened since then that she can have had no hand in. Her business wasn't murder!"

"I don't suggest that it was."

"But you don't take it for granted that she had nothing to do with it—could have nothing to do with it, being the girl I am, when to be."

"No," said Scarborough.

Varney laughed, but there was vexation in the laugh.

"Then," he said, "the only cure for you is to meet the girl herself. If you're not a hopeless fool, you'll see in five minutes that you've been insulting her. Hurry up, and let's get there as soon as possible."

Twenty minutes later they dismounted at the door of the circus building. Val B. Montague was standing looking out into the road.

"Where's Miss Ryan?" asked Varney.

Val B. Montague turned a straw, by a dexterous [illegible] of his tongue, from one corner of his mouth to the [illegible] and put his hand to [illegible]

"[illegible] dear idea, Mr. Scarborough, but you will no doubt share my regret that I go so under somewhat [illegible] circumstances, that the honor to acquaint you yesterday with the fact that this show was going to be d—d! I have the honor to inform you to-day that it has gone. Will you not have the pleasure of standing me a whisky and soda?"

"What's [illegible] after now?" asked Varney.

"The matter, sir, is that the lady you acted for just now has deserted. The name of Mona de la Mar will henceforth not appear on the playbills of Val B. Montague's American Circus Combination. In fact, I doubt whether that world-famous troupe will ever [illegible] another playbill. Mr. Varney, I [illegible] you to my invitation to drink whisky and soda."

"Look here, Montague, stop talking nonsense, and tell us what you mean."

"I mean," said Montague, "exactly what I say; but if you ask me what that means, I can't tell you. It is a problem beyond my understanding. My schooner, the Sea-Horse, sailed from the harbor of Ponta Delgada this morning, without my knowledge or permission. It has not returned, and I don't know where or why it has gone."

Val B. Montague laughed as he gave the news, and saw the look of consternation on the young men's faces. Then with a sudden change of manner, he collapsed, and said in a quavering voice to Varney:

"What does it mean, Phil? Ruin to me, of course! But what else?"

"Who was on board?" asked Varney.

"The four deck-hands, the nigger, and the ring-master. I discharged him last night, so he had no right to be there. Except these six, and Mona de la Mar, nobody."

Scarborough and Varney exchanged a look.

"By Jove!" said Varney, and Scarborough gave a short laugh.

Neither of them felt much doubt about the identity of the hooded woman now. Margaret Ryan had not forgotten her vow of vengeance when she came to the Islands of the Azores. She had tracked down the man who had ruined her. She had brought him to bay in the valley of the Caldeira do Morte. The injured and the injurer had met face to face. But what had happened then?

The scene between them had been acted without witnesses. The curtain had gone down upon a tragedy. But had the woman caused it?

CHAPTER X.

A Message From the Dead

Patches of fog were creeping across the water, and as the evening drew down they thickened and grew wider. The setting sun flashed on water mirrors of ever diminishing area. In another hour it would be dark, but even sooner than that the fog curtain would be unbroken, for minute by minute the rents in it were closing.

Elsa stood up in her boat, and marked the exact direction of the rock for which she was steering. Fortunately she had had the foresight to bring a compass. She had half a mile to go yet, and the breeze was dying. She would steer by sight, so long as the fog did not hide the rock. If it did she would have to trust to her compass.

"I wonder what the current is?" she mused. "It is getting dead inshore—but how much? If I allow half a point [illegible] that should take me near enough in [illegible] to your by the sound of breaking water. I'm not afraid of the current taking me past the island, for it is only a mile and a half long, and I can't miss it."

The islet for which she was steering lay a little more than two miles from the shore, with deep water close up to its flanks. It was ring-shaped, like a Pacific atoll, but its formation was different. Not the slow, quiet growth of coral insects had made it, but a convulsion of nature. It was the summit of a deep-water volcano, whose crater raised a brim, a hundred yards across, out of the sea. There was one place on the West, where for a few feet this brim had been broken down, leaving a gap by which a boat might enter; and the water inside made an almost circular lagoon.

Local tradition said that it was bottomless.

It was a place where a ship might have ridden out in safety the heaviest hurricane that ever blew, if it had been possible for any ship to enter. But the opening in the circular wall was hardly more than ten feet across, and underneath there was a broad sill, which rose to within two fathoms of the surface. It was a dangerous entrance, even for a small boat, and when the wind blew from the west, impossible; but Elsa knew it well, and thought that she could manage it, even alone.

She was an expert and fearless boatwoman, but she was not accustomed to having to depend altogether upon herself in her expeditions. The boat was a present which her father had given her a little more than a year ago; but with the present, he had coupled a stipulation that she should never go out in it alone. The irregular coasts of San Miguel breed treacherous currents, and wind squalls are sudden; but even had the waters been as safe as the Solent, Elsa's boat was too big for one girl to manage.

This, therefore, was the first occasion on which she had been out in it alone; but to-day a companion was impossible. For she had work to do which no eye but her own must see.

Did she still believe in her father's innocence? She was acting as though she did; and, for the rest, she tried to force herself not to think.

She had not kept her faith without a struggle. Misgivings had arisen in her mind, but she had strangled them remorselessly at their birth, and by an effort of will made herself believe that they had never been born. There was, however, one moment when the doubts had been too strong to be stifled thus; they had cried clamorously, and had refused to be choked; and for half-an-hour she had tasted a misery more bitter even than that which had come when she first knew that her father was dead. That moment was when she listened to Scarborough's tale of the embezzlement of Margaret Ryan's inheritance, and had told him passionately that since he believed it, he might go—for almost she thought she hated him. She had thrown herself on the couch, and sobbed hysterically; for at that moment the knowledge was in her heart that what he said was true!

Later had come the reaction. She took up her faith again, the more unreasonably because reason had forced her to lay it down; and she despised herself for the weakness in allowing the calumny to influence her even for a moment. There was something of obstinacy in this—the obstinacy of a strong nature which fights the more tenaciously when facts and commonsense alike are against it, and it knows quite well that it is in the wrong; and there was even more of the beautiful loyalty with which every true woman will always, at whatever violence to her own judgment of right and wrong, defend those whom she loves.

It will be remembered that when Elsa set out to go to the circus at Ponta Delgada, her father's last words to her had been that if—unlikely as such a chance seemed at the time—he was not at the Chluelas when she returned, she would find in his desk, in the second small drawer, on the left, a paper that would tell her what she was to do.

This paper was marked, "To my daughter, Elsa, to be opened by her to-morrow at noon, if by that time I have not returned to destroy it."

Elsa opened it an hour after Scarborough had left her. This was what it contained:

"My dear daughter,—I told you this morning that when you returned from Ponta Delgada you might possibly find that I was not at home to greet you, and to hear your report of what and whom you had seen. I might have told you that the possibility was a certainty, but I did not wish to alarm you. By the time you return I shall have succeeded or failed, in an enterprise, the success of which is so essential, that to ensure it I am voluntarily putting myself in some danger. While you are doing your best at Ponta Delgada to discover who the unknown enemy is, I shall be engaged in a similar contest with an enemy who is well known to me, an enemy who of late has taken to using threats. Now, little girl, between the known enemy and the unknown, I run a double risk of failure, and this is what you must help me to avoid.

"The sealed packet which you will find with this letter contains documents which must at all costs be kept out of the hands of people who would use them to your and my injury. I do not trust to my own ability to safeguard them, nor is it possible for me, watched as I believe I am, to put them into any place of safety. That must be your task. Those who are shadowing me will not consider it necessary to watch you also. Take the packet, and put it in the safest place that you know. When I return, if I do return, I shall not ask you where it is.

"I am not a fanciful man, Elsa, but I have written those four words, 'I do not return,' deliberately. Of late I have had a feeling—a fanciful man would say a presentiment—that the end is not far off. I have lived a life of varied activities, some useful, and some perhaps not so useful, and the strain of old efforts is beginning to tell upon me. In the early years of my manhood I suffered great physical hardships, and they left a weak place. Before I left London my doctor warned me that the weak place was becoming weaker. The effort which I must make to-day is an effort, which for your sake as well as mine, is inevitable. It is of the sort which I have been warned to avoid, but I have no choice. I tell you this unwillingly, and for the first time; but it is necessary that you should be ready, if I fail, to take up the work where I leave it.

"Now you will ask what is the work? My daughter, it is the rehabilitation of your father's name. Lately that you were beginning to doubt whether my anxiety on this point was not becoming weaker. Elsa, I say to you solemnly, that it is as strong now as ever it was. But having said that, I am now going to add something which you will, perhaps, not understand. It is this: I hand over the work to you, but I lay no charge upon you to complete it. Nay, more, under certain circumstances, I forbid you to complete it. I do not even make you the judge of those circumstances. That is an office which I leave, not to you, but to your mother.

"Your mother is on her way to join us. She will arrive on the Funchal from Lisbon on the tenth of the month. If on that date I am unable to meet her, if my presentiment—after all, I think it is a presentiment, Elsa—has by that time come true, I wish you to recover this package from the safe-place in which you have bestowed it, and to give it into her hands. When you do so, tell her also that my last message to her, spoken by the lips of you, her daughter, is that she is to respect the wish I have expressed in a letter to her which the packet contains. She will understand; you will not. For the rest, be guided by her.

"Good-bye, little girl. I think this is the longest letter I have ever written to you. I have one thing more to add to it. If you have begun to doubt me in some things, at any rate you have never doubted that I love you. In days to come your estimate of your father may change; you will hear things that will try your faith. But never believe that he did not love you. It is for your sake that I am daring danger to-day; it is for your sake that I hope for success, that I may return to you to be happy, for a little while longer in your love.

"It is time now that I was starting. I cannot write more. But again, darling, good-bye."

Elsa read this letter with tears streaming down her face. Whatever the man may have been in life, only a churl would deny that this message from him in death was pathetic. If he was a scoundrel, he had never been so to his daughter; and in his skilful discounting of the revelations that must come after his death, there was a melancholy cleverness. He fought for the continuance of her love, and it was plain that while he pleaded he feared. At present Elsa saw only the pleading; it was not until later days that she recognised, with a sorrowing pity, that the fear was there too.

There was much in the letter that she did not understand. Her father plainly looked for death as the issue of his effort; but what sort of death? At the hands of the enemy whom he was going to meet?—murder? Then why that reference to the hardships of his youth, and the weak place they had left? For the first time she allowed herself to hope that her father's end had not been violent, after all. Sudden it must have been, but perhaps—

Her love carried her at once to the other extreme of speculation. Was her father not a victim, but a hero? He had made a great effort, and he said that he made it for her sake; she did not understand that, but he had written the words. Did he know that the effort would cost him his life?

She canvassed this thought, and it seemed to her that it was the truth. She found a certain comfort in it, and she took a dreary pleasure in carrying out the task which he had laid upon her. The sealed place she knew. That was merely the ring-rock around which flanks she could now through the fog.

She had the packet with her, sealed in a great stone jar. It was thin and flat, and had rolled easily into a ship that would pass through the jar's neck.

She took the boat in through the opening, and made for a spot on the east of the circle. There was a funnel shaped fissure in the rock wall here, which even at low tide contained a fathom of black water. She had sounded it on the last occasion on which she had visited the Ring-Rock, and it was this funnel shaped fissure that she meant to use for her hiding-place. She had painted the jar black, so that it should not be visible against the basalt, and she had tied many loops of strong picture wire about its neck so that she could recover it by grappling when her mother came.

She brought her boat close to the rock wall, and was feeling with a boat-hook for the mouth of the fissure, when a sound from the outside struck her ears.

She was not alone. Voices of men close at hand came to her through the fog.

CHAPTER XI.

The Piling-Up of the Sea Horse

Elsa drew back her boat-hook from the fissure, and stood up in the boat, listening with a strained intensity of concentration. She was quite sure that they were men's voices that she had heard; but were the men a long way off or close to her? She knew how deceptive is the nature of sound in a fog on the water. Probably some boat was passing in the distance.

She heard the voices again, and this time they seemed quite close. She could almost distinguish the actual words, and she could hear plainly that the language was English. The fog swept down upon her again in a thick blanket. She could not see three yards ahead. The thickening of the gloom was sudden, and probably only local. But while it lasted she was safe from observation.

She must finish her work before it lifted to betray her.

She lowered the stone jar into the fissure, and pushed her boat quickly away from the side. Hardly had she done so, when by some caprice of the air currents, the fog cleared away as completely, that from the middle of her little harbor, she could see the whole circle of the basalt walls. It was only a local clearness; in the gathering dusk of the evening she could see through the narrow entrance that the heavy billowing masses of whiteness were still twisting and heaving on the sea outside.

She put an oar in the stern-notch, and began sculling towards the entrance. A voice from close at hand rang sharply on her ears.

"Rocks dead ahead! Starboard!"

She heard the rumble of a wheel, and the sharp rattle of the rudder chains. A shadowy form loomed out of the vapors, and came slowly on towards the entrance. The next moment the bowsprit of a large vessel passed between the rock walls of the narrow opening; there was a grating noise, and a sharp jerk; the vessel heeled till her bulwark touched the basalt, shivered a moment, and swung back again the other way; the bell on her foremast tolled with the violence of the oscillation, and then, balanced on the fulcrum of the grounded forefoot, she settled down with long slow swings, like some giant metronome, or like the

(To be Continued)

THE DUST KILLER

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP

absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in Kilo., ½, Bibs. & 1 Bibs. For use in stove ovens and public Bldgs.

For sale by, Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO

Three trains daily.

Excellent service.

Making connection at Detroit for

FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—

W. McILROY : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

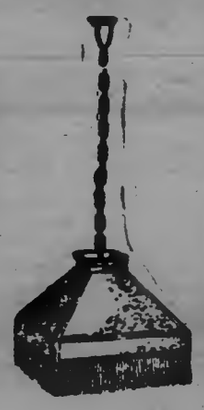
British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.



Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 OUR OWN FACTORY $8.00

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 623

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW

KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23

Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Steamer of 1913 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

CORSICAN,

Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.

HESPERIAN,

Saturday, Feb. 24.

TUNISIAN,

Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

GRAMPIAN,

Saturday, March 9th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.

Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.

Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.

Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.

Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.

Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.

Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.

Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.

Grampian—May 26, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY,

C.P.A. Can. Pass. Ry.

B. A. ROSS,

C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00

RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00

TOTAL ASSETS..... 2,160,549.00

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

DELIVERY OF THE TIMES.

Subscribers to The Times are asked to immediately report to the office every case of irregular or late delivery of their paper.

Hearty co-operation in this regard is appreciated because in no other way may such errors be remedied.

It is the determination of The Times to provide a prompt and regular delivery to its subscribers and the latter by reporting ALL complaints will enable us to guarantee a perfect service.

Phone 164, or notify The Times Printing Co. by post card.

BEST RACE COURSES

Located in the Neighborhood of the Capital of France

W. H. Snider, who has been training the Hitchcock steeplechasers in France, is full of praise for the French racecourses. He says: "Auteuill is a pretty little place right in the park in the suburbs of Paris. They close off a part of the park while the racing is in progress. On the other side of the park is Longchamps, where racing is under the same conditions, and you talk about a race track and grounds, why Belmont Park or Sheepshead Bay is a huckster's garden in comparison, and the racing is conducted far more liberally than in the United States. Jockeys [illegible] and the stands with their [illegible] until proved to the contrary. But if they do get you—well, it's [illegible]

"You don't hear of a purse of less than $1000, and thirty-two different tracks within a radius of twenty miles of Paris racing on one Sunday. Any kind of a horse can win, if you only pick the right place to start him.

"All the running in the winter is in the South of France, and don't you think it's like our winter racing. Plenty of stakes worth from $5000 to $22,000 to the winner. They start around Paris again on Feb. 15. It's all trotting now in this part of the country. I am anxious to see the natives perform over here. They trot on the turf, the same as they run, and they go rain or shine; no postponements on account of weather in France. The trotting races are most all dashes or handicaps, and catch-weights."

HAWAHAN FOR SWEDEN

Expert Confirms Reports of Marvelous Swimming by Kahanamoku

Jamison Handy, of the Chicago Athletic Association, former one-mile swimming champion and record holder of America, who recently returned from a trip around the world, confirmed the cabled news of the sensational sprinting performances of Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu, and expressed the opinion that the times credited to the Hawaiian are in no way exaggerated.

Handy describes Kahanamoku as a giant, ebony-skinned native about twenty years old, standing over six feet in stockings, weighing about 190 pounds, and a magnificent specimen of manhood, straight, well-muscled, and perfectly formed. He swims a smooth, rythmic crawl stroke very much resembling that of Harry Hebner of the Illinois Athletic Club, the National 50-yard champion and record-holder, and goes through the water with shoulders high above the surface, moving at fast speed.

In last year's championship, Kahanamoku won both the 50 and 100 yards titles, covering the shorter distance in 24 1-5 seconds and the longer in 55 2-5 seconds, over a straightaway open-water course. The century mark established new world's figures which are likely to be recognized as a standard, for four watchs agreed on the time, and the local authorities intend to apply for the record.

Enthusiastic supporters of aquatic sports in the Hawaiian Islands are so anxious to see the new prodigy pitted against the world's best sprinters that they have subscribed to a purse in order to send him to the Olympic Games next summer in Sweden, where he would represent Uncle Sam in the 100-meter swim, and unless the cold water of the north breaks his form completely, they expect to see him win the event easily.

There is an outbreak of rabies at Fort William, Ont. If a few thousands of the useless curs that use our local streets, to the danger of our citizens, without aiding our taxes, Peterborough could drop fear of such an epidemic.

Couldn't Get Strong

SEEMED TO HAVE LOST ALL AMBITION, WAS PALE AND ANAEMIC.

Made Wonderful Recovery When Dr. Hamilton's Pills Were Used.

I was never actually sick," writes Mrs. La Pierre, wife of a well-known resident of Labemone, "yet I never could get strong like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow blood rich and red I could never make. When I married I took a great pride in my housekeeping, but it kept me tired all the time. Mrs. Lechance, my neighbor, looked well — she told me her health had been made by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels made me stouter and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks as I never had before. They do good to parts in ways I need not mention in this letter, but I sincerely believe Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used at regular intervals by every woman—that's why I write this letter."

No medicine invigorates a woman like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

THE MORNING TIMES

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1912

HIGH PRICE OF LIVING.

A writer in the Albany Journal, going back forty years, recalls the good old times when living was cheap. He remembers that people lived simply then. They wanted plain foods, and plenty of them, at plain prices. There were no trusts then, no combines, no monopolies. And yet those were the days when sugar and oil and coal were dear enough.

Tea was 5l a pound. Coffee was no dearer, but it may have been purer. Meat and poultry were lower. The demand for them was not so great as it is now, and the export trade was not developed. Clothing was cheaper, and it wore longer. The fashions did not change so often. Vegetables were selling pretty much as they are now.

But modern inventions came, and with them a change in the tastes of the people. They did not telephone forty years ago to the stores for all they wanted. There were no fast deliveries. People carried home what they purchased. The laborer went to work at seven o'clock in the morning and quit at six o'clock in the evening. Holidays were scarce. Amusements were few. A picnic or an excursion was the event of the season. Lunch counters and restaurants were missing. Homes were simply furnished. There was less style, and more sense; less extravagance and more money extant. The simple life was the only life because it was necessary and because the people were habituated to it.

How many would like to go back to it in order to reduce the cost of living? "For obviously," says the Albany Journal, "no argument is required to prove to ordinary intelligence that the higher cost of living is mostly due to the difference in the manner of living. Before we do much more complaining about the present cost of living we should give some thought to the question whether the kind of living that most of us enjoy in these times is not cheaper at its price than the living that was the rule forty or fifty years ago was at its cost."

THE HORROR OF WAR.

That the red-stained god of war, Mars, in the civilized wars of one hundred and ten years following 1789, drank, night and day, two gallons of human blood every twenty minutes? That blood ran down the hill in streams away from the heaps of dead and wounded at Port Arthur?

That a first class modern rifle will force a bullet through 60 one-inch pine boards; that the Danish "Rexer" rifle can be fired 300 times per minute; and that a modern Gatling gun will tear a board fence to pieces a mile away in six minutes?

That in the Russian-Japanese war, regiments of men and boys were forced to charge ten times up a hillside swept by batteries of Gatling guns and that the men and boys fell down in heaps and mounds four and five deep, some of the poor fellows receiving seventy bullet wounds—almost torn to shreds?

That a modern Gatling gun can be fired from 800 to 1,800 times per minute—and, by an electrical attachment, even 3,000 per minute? That artillery is now over 125 times more effective than it was even in the hideous battles of the Franco-Prussian War in 1870?

That in one single campaign of Napoleon's over 150,000 boys under 20 years of age were destroyed?

That one "Dreadnought" battleship costs as much as the officially estimated total value of all the books in all the libraries of 464 leading colleges and universities in the United States?

That the total cost of militarism in the United States for the fifteen and a half months ending June 30, 1909, was greater than the total value of all the books, libraries, lands, grounds, buildings, furniture, scientific apparatus machinery, and all the endowments, all the investments and all "productive funds" of all kinds belonging to all our 461 higher institutions of learning?

A WIDE-AWAKE GOVERNMENT.

It is satisfactory to note that the committee appointed by Parliament to investigate the proposed Old Age Pension Bill, has been duly organized, with Mr. Burnham, M.P., as chairman.

In presenting his resolution to the Dominion House a few days ago, Mr. Burnham pointed out the success of the old age pension systems of Germany and Great Britain. The basis of the pension idea was the abolition of promiscuous poor relief. Persons who were forced in their declining years to look he[illegible] there for charity would be plac[illegible]sitions of security by a pensio[illegible] and would be dependent [illegible]individual or individuals, [illegible]e state. Mr. Burnham [illegible]at in Canada about 30,000 persons would be entitled to benefit from an Act providing pensions for claimants over seventy years of age, and without other means of support. An annual expenditure of about two millions and a half dollars would, he believed, be sufficient to pay these people pensions.

It is not for a moment to be supposed that reasons exist in Canada today such as exist in Europe, where something in the nature of an old age pension was an immediate necessity. But in discussing such a contingency to-day it should be possible for Canada to protect herself from the possibility of some poor law legislation similar to the workhouse system of the old country. In fact, with care it would be possible to omit such institutions altogether.

Curiously enough, too, it is the workhouse that has proved a stumbling block to old age pensions in England.

Man, and woman, too, is just as gregarious an animal at seventy as at twenty, and it has been found that in many cases old people prefer to remain in workhouses where they have all kinds of chances for gossip, than to live lonely lives without the walls of these institutions.

Very few people are prepared to sacrifice their friends for a certain brand of tea, or to lose the pleasure of some idle gossip for the sake of a little more butter on their bread. This is the main objection to the pension system to old people who have become accustomed to life in a workhouse.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St. Montreal

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares, common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulae and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1868, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation. Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

PRESIDENT.

GENERAL MANAGER.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 90c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose repute among the users of this material is such that already offers for the entire production of the plant could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

BUILDERS WHO ARE BUSY

Some Huge Buildings Being Erected in London, England

Probably in London's history there has never been a year in which a larger number of great buildings are being erected, the whole representing several millions of capital expenditure.

On one side of Kingsway is rising a magnificent new opera house which is to cost $1,000,000. On the other side is being erected an enormous steel and concrete structure, costing $400,000, which will have seven floors, with a total area of 66,000 square feet, and which will be able to hold 500 employees.

Further up, in the same direction, one sees an hotel, to which 500 new rooms and the most palatial Turkish bath ever seen in London are being added. Then there are the new Law Courts which, costing $500,000, will be complete in July, 1912. Further west, in Tottenham Court Road, the Y.M.C.A. is erecting a new headquarters, with numerous offices, 200 bedrooms, a swimming bath, a gymnasium, and recreation-rooms, at a cost of $375,000; and in Regent Street the Polytechnic are extending their premises at a cost of over $450,000.

In Drury Lane a new music hall is being built at a cost of $160,000; while the London County Council, the British Museum, the Local Government Board, and the Wesleyan Methodists are all extending their premises in various parts of the metropolis.

RECENTLY DISCOVERED STAR

M. Deslandres, a well-known French astronomer and chief of the Meudon observatory, brings out some new points about a variable star in the constellation of the Lizard. This star, which was discovered about a year ago, seemed at first to be of the twelfth or thirteenth magnitude. Its brightness suddenly increased, and during last November it reached the fifth magnitude. Less than a month after its brilliancy lessened, and now the star is only of the seventh magnitude.—Science Siftings.

SMALLEST GLASS BOTTLE

What is regarded by skilled artisans as the smallest perfect glass bottle ever blown has just been turned out by Robert Gillespie, one of the blowers of the great Whitall-Tatem glass works in Millville, New Jersey. The tiny bit of glass is not much larger than a kernel of corn, but is in every way perfect, including a ground stopper. Gillespie was at infinite pains to produce the curiosity, which, compared with a 110 gallon carboy, such as is turned out at the same works, would be about like a fly against an elephant. Indeed, a common housefly could barely crowd into the Gillespie bottle.

PLATINUM IS SOARING

The prices of platinum are soaring. Recently, hard platinum reached the record price per ounce of $43, whilst the soft metal touched $41. Six years ago the pure metal was selling at $18.50 per ounce. Through the year 1906 the price of hard went up to $40. The market then declined, until in August, 1908, prices had fallen to $29. One incidental cause of enhanced prices, says the Canadian Mining Journal, is the growing use of platinum in manufacturing jewellery. Another is the demand for the metal in making tips for the sparking plugs of automobiles. But probably the main factor is the closer control of the principal Russian sources of supply.

TICKET MACHINE

The Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company have installed a remarkable automatic machine at Sandhills Station, Liverpool, by which, on dropping a penny in the slot, a ticket is printed, dated, and cut. The machine is worked electrically, the power being supplied from the live rail. When the supply of cardboard is running short the clerks in the office are warned by the ringing of a bell.

REFORMED TOO SOON

An eminent speaker at the Congregationalist meeting in the First Congregational Church, East Orange, was telling the other day of a Westerner's opinion of the East. "This man," said the speaker, "was a prominent churchman, and had occasion to visit New York, where he remained for a few days. In writing of his experiences to his wife in the West, he said: 'New York is a great city, but I do wish I had come here before I was converted.'"

A Fountain Pen

Practically Given Away

The Times has arranged for a supply of the famous Diamond Point Pens. "Safety Clip", 14 karat Solid Gold Fountain Pens, which will practically be given away to our subscribers. 20 coupons cut from The Times, together with 75c in cash will get you your choice of these three splendid pens.

The holders are made with pearl and gold bands, and all gold full chased, gold filigree, or full mounted German Filigree, similar to illustrations, and are fully guaranteed by its makers, there being a guarantee certificate with each pen.

COUPON

Twenty of these coupons cut from The Times and presented at The Times Book Store with 75c in cash, will secure one of these splendid 14 kt. Solid Gold Rimmed Fountain Pens.

Name .....

Address.....

VENTILATING THE FOWL HOUSE

An Important Matter Which Must Not Be Overlooked

If you do not keep your fowls under thoroughly healthy conditions you cannot hope to be successful.

If you bear in mind that in a natural state birds roost in trees—and on many farms fowls do actually spend the night in this way—you will realise how important plenty of fresh air is. Imagine, for instance, thirty birds cooped up in a tiny house 6ft. by 7ft., without ventilation, and you will realise how stuffy the quarters must be by the time the slide is raised in the morning.

As a matter of fact, the night apartment of a hygienic fowl-house should have an entry for fresh air near the base, and an exit at the roof. In this way there will be a continual passage of air without draughts. In some pens there are sliding shutters; they run up and down grooved frames, and at the top of each is a hook. From the eaves of the roof chains depend, and the hook adjusted to a link in the chain. On warm nights the shutters are left well open, whilst when cold threatens they are tightly closed. Keep the sleeping-place draught-proof, yet ventilated; have it rain-proof and whitewashed inside.

AN ANCIENT BRITISH CANOE

An ancient canoe, the third found within a few weeks at Lochmaben, has been discovered at the Kirk Loch. It is of black oak. One of the sides and part of the other are gone, but the bottom and the ends make it recognizable as one of the ancient hollowed out canoes used by the prehistoric Britons. When unearthed, it was partially filled with stones, as if it had been sunk with them. The canoe probably dated back 2,000 years. It is 14ft. in length, and at the broadest part is 2ft. 9in. It is about 16in. in height.

Aided by Films

Cinematograph films which were taken during the recent champagne riots in France have enabled the police to identify and arrest many of those who took part.

After Fifty Years

After fifty-three years, an Indian Mutiny veteran, Private Andrew Butler, has just been presented with the medal earned by him for his service in the 72nd Highlanders in 1858.

Telephone Despatching

The Canadian Pacific Railway has 2,055 miles of telephones, or seventy-one miles more than its nearest competitor, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad.

LOOK TO THE WEST

SOME OF YOUR FRIENDS will advise you to buy real estate at home—to support home interests.

BUT YOU WANT TO MAKE MONEY.

THE GREAT PROSPERITY of the Canadian West affords you an opportunity to make money faster and with less capital than in the East.

ALWAYS PROVIDED that you buy right.

YOUR FRIENDS may have made some bad bargains in Western Real Estate.

THAT WAS BECAUSE they did not buy right.

THEY FAILED TO INVESTIGATE—to get reliable information as to the locality of the property—the value of adjacent property or the ability of the vendors to make good their promises.

WE WANT YOU TO INVESTIGATE our property. The more thorough you are the better we like it.

WE STATED SIX MONTHS AGO that we anticipated a rise in value of our lots to the extent of 50 per cent. per annum.

THE VALUE HAS INCREASED 50 PER CENT. IN SIX MONTHS.

THIS SHOULD PROVE TO YOU the investment value of

-- BOULEVARD HEIGHTS --

The residential district of MOOSE JAW, the centre city of the CANADIAN WEST.

Standard Lots $130. Terms: $10.00 Cash and $10.00 per month. No Taxes. No Interest. Free Deed.

CANADIAN CITY & TOWN PROPERTIES Ltd

284 Portage Avenue, WINNIPEG

TORONTO, 130 BAY STREET.

MOOSE JAW, 15 MAIN STREET.

The Natural Weal h Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office. 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). Yon see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

THE FARM HORSE

He Is Entitled to the Best of Care and Feed

The farm horse needs a stable, a comfortable stall in which to rest when the day's work is done. Don't put him in a dungeon, with no light or ventilation and expect him to be in good trim for the next day. Neither should he be compelled to stand under a straw shed where the water drips through for three days after each shower. A good bed is as essential to the comfort of the horse as of the man. As to feed, the best is none too good. Clean, bright hay, with oats that are not smutty nor dirty. Decide the quantity for yourself, but don't be stingy. A man who can't tell what amount of feed is required by a horse after he has worked him for a few weeks, hasn't sense enough to farm anyway. All horses do not require the same amount of food any more than [illegible]. Study your horse. Feed him enough to enable him to do his work. Also pay some attention to his likes and dislikes if possible. He works for his keep, and surely he is entitled to something better than a pitchful of musty hay under his feet and a quart [illegible] mixings in a dirty feed box.

The horse's stall should be well bedded and cleaned every morning, and a few shovelfuls at night would not hurt him.

The harness, too, should receive attention. There is neither humanity, economy nor common sense in having your horse's shoulders peeled and raw, his back sore, and his mouth torn with the bit. See that the collar fits the horse, better to buy a new collar than use one that does not fit. Then keep it clean and smooth. If the collar becomes coated, wash it off at night with a rag and some warm water, and in the morning it will be clean and smooth as when new. If you will make your collars fit and keep them clean you will seldom need a pad, and the horse will have better shoulders and be more comfortable at work without a pad. The hames, too, should fit the collar, with the pull so adjusted that it will bear evenly on the shoulder, and keep in one position. A little attention to other parts of the harness will prevent galls, bruises, rubs and the like.

Kindness is appreciated by a horse as well as by a man. The owners of the world's famous race horses will not allow a groom about the stables who swears at horses, neither will they permit harsh treatment of any kind. The farm horse may not be as finely bred as his brother of the turf but he will respond to kind treatment none the less.

From the standpoint of right the farm horse deserves kindness, care, and good feeding. It is his due. It is all he gets, and too often much more than he gets, for a lifetime of toil and service.—L. M. Doughty.

A WONDERFUL COW

New York Animal That Has Broken All Records

Pontiac Clothilde DeKol, 2nd, a Holstein-Friesian cow owned by the Sterrett Bros. Co., Syracuse, N.Y., [illegible] production for periods of seven and thirty days. This wonderful cow, tested under the supervision of Cornell University, produced in seven consecutive days 646.1 pounds of milk containing 29.766 pounds of fat, and in thirty days 2,538.4 pounds of milk containing 116.229 pounds of fat, the amount of fat for the week being 1⅛ pounds in excess of anything before known. Cornell University estimates that the fat produced is equal to 34.73 pounds of the best commercial butter for the week and 135.6 pounds for the thirty days.

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape, says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings neatly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot but be attracted to such a section. The business man knows the value of attractive surroundings.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of those the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty-three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Woman as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

KNEW HOW TO SAVE COAL

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading: "Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal."

"Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all me coal."

A PUZZLE

It is rather interesting the way children associate size with age.

Looking at his feet the other day little Joe asked suddenly:

"Mother, why is one of my toes so much bigger than the others? I thought they were all the same age."

THE FIVE-FINGERED ORANGE

Grows Exactly the Shape of a Half-Opened Hand

A most weird-looking fruit is the five-fingered orange. It grows exactly the shape of a half-open hand. Even the nails are identical, hard-pointed and claw-like, tipping the orange flowers with a length equal, in some cases, to three inches.

It is no freak, but a proper kind of orange, belonging to a special variety. The tree itself is a rugged little shrub that does not average more than five or six feet in height in its native home—Japan. It does not grow straight, as the ordinary orange-tree should, but is crooked in all directions.

Even the branches grow in spiral or twisted forms, so that the width of the tree is often greater than the height. The fruit itself is of a pale yellow color, of a pure lemon hue, growing greenish toward the stem. The size is immense, considering the smallness of the tree, the largest ones measuring when mature fully ten inches from the wrist to the point of the middle finger, including the nail.

But the fruit is not good to eat, though what it lacks in flavor it more than makes good in perfume. Perhaps the strangest thing about this perfume is that it is the fruit and not the flower that is odorous.

THOSE BRAINY SCOTS!

A noted Scot is Viscount Haldane, lately Lord Chancellor. He was partly educated at the University of Gottingen. Discussing the German Universities the other day his lordship remarked:—

"Scottish students have quite a reputation at Gottingen. A great German professor said to me:—

"'I think we shall have to exclude young Scotsmen from our schools. They no sooner come here than they begin to cheat.'

"'Cheat?' said I, alarmed. 'How so?'

"'Why,' said the professor, 'they only pay for tuition for one, but they learn enough for three or four!'"

THE BACHELOR'S WISDOM

We must all try to stand erect, not be kept erect by others.

Whether you be men or women you will never do anything without courage.

Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust before brightness.

Victories attained by right thought can only be maintained by watchfulness.

God does not look to see if the pews are full. He looks to see if they are clean.

An opportunity is like a pin in the sweeping: you catch sight of it just as it flies away from you, and gets buried again.

WITH A ROYAL ACCOMPLICE

The Queen, like so many members of our Royal Family, is blessed with much tact. On one occasion she was present at a banquet in a large provincial city, when her Majesty sat next to the Lord Mayor.

Soon he confessed that he was greatly worried about the printed address he had presently to read, and that he would far sooner "say a few words" from the heart.

"Very well, then," replied her Majesty sympathetically; "just put that printed speech behind this flower-pot!"

This they did, and the Lord Mayor made a little speech that rang true instead of reading his address.

CARUSO'S BIG LOSS

It is announced that Signor Caruso hopes to benefit by a complete rest and change of air, the physicians having forbidden him to sing this season. The loss sustained by the great tenor through what was in the first place regarded as an ordinary slight cold is estimated at about $60,000, as he has been compelled to refrain from singing for a period of twelve weeks.

PROFITS ON "GLADSTONE"

Morley's "Gladstone" has beaten all records in biographies. The cheque sent by the publishers to the proprietors of the book—that is, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting, was greater by several thousand pounds than Longman's famous $100,000 cheque to Macaulay for the profits on the third and fourth volumes of his History of England.

THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK

Naturalists consider the elephant's trunk the most marvellous miracle of Nature. It contains over 4,000 muscles—a great many more than are found in the entire human body. By aid of these muscles the trunk will uproot trees or gather grass, lift a cannon or a nut, kill a man or brush off a fly. It is as useful as a hand with all its fingers to supply the elephant with food, and, being hollow, is used as a suction pump. No other animal has a single member or organ so perfect and so useful.

TREMENDOUS WHALE

The largest whale of its type of which there is scientific record was captured recently off Port Arthur, Texas. He measured 63 feet in length, and was estimated to be about 300 years old. Capt. Cob Plummer, mate of a United States pilot boat, sighted the monster in the shoals off the jetties; and the crew of his vessel captured the mammal. The huge body was towed ashore, exhibited and much photographed before being cut up.

PROTECTION OF SMALL BIRDS

The Agricultural Society of the Gironde, France, is convinced that the continually increasing numbers of enemies of crops, and especially of the insects so harmful to vines, Cochylis and Eudemis, is due to a great extent to the disappearance of small birds. The society, therefore, has invited all the agricultural associations of France to unite and insist upon the protection of these valuable auxiliaries of the farmer.

Extra Mild, Remember

Many people would drink ale, in preference to all other malt beverages, if ale did not make them "bilious."

This O'K brew is brewed especially for those people. It is extra mild and extra light, and lets you enjoy the creamy deliciousness of real old English ale without the heaviness and excessive bitterness. In easily—opened and unopened bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's ALE

"The Beer that is always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS
416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

TRAIN JAPAN'S ATHLETES

A. J. Flanagan Will Have Charge of the Oriental Athletes

John J. Flanagan, the famous athlete and hammer thrower of the Irish-American Club, New York, who has now made his home in Ireland, has accepted an offer from the Japanese Government to go out to the East for the purpose of training a contingent of Japanese athletes who have been mustered to go to Stockholm this year to compete in the great Olympiad.

The big Irishman has refused remunerative offers to train the English contingent, who feel they could learn much from a man with such American experience, and though he has not divulged the reason, it is understood he is not sufficiently enamored of the British to desire to aid them. It is presumed that the friction which was such an unpleasant feature of the English Olympiad in 1908— when the English and Americans came into conflict—has had much to do with Flanagan's attitude.

To the square mile in the United Kingdom there were 373 persons; in Canada and Newfoundland, 1.99.

Motor vehicles to the total of 120,000 were in use in the United Kingdom, the number of licensed drivers being 200,000.

Big Tobacco Area

Over six million acres of land are under tobacco cultivation throughout the world.

Aliens in Europe

Of 1,181 aliens naturalized in Britain last year, 390 were Russians and 347 Germans; while of the whole total 444 settled in London.

WHEN WASHING CURTAINS.

Those who wash their own lace curtains know how difficult it is to keep the edges straight. A good plan is to tack a piece of broad tape along each outer edge before putting them in the water, and let it remain on until the curtains are washed and ironed. By this means the edges are kept straight and even

Population of Paris

According to the census returns just published, the population of Paris is now 2,846,986, an increase of 134,986 since 1906.

Decayed Teeth

Following a medical examination, 78 per cent. of Surrey school children have been found to possess decayed teeth.

A World's Record

By making a flight in an aeroplane carrying twelve passengers, the French airman, Sommer, recently constituted a world's record.

BOUGHT AN ONTARIO FARM

Dr. John Standish, of the staff of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, after looking over many farms for a home in the Province of Ontario, purchased a fine 200-acre farm in the township of Esquesing, county of Halton, 3½ miles from Georgetown.

Regiment to a Menagerie

Banishment from the regiment to a menagerie has been the fate of the Himalayan bear, the pet of the 2nd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, as the result of biting his keeper, and then escaping.

HOME-GROWN

He was a seedy, sad, sick-looking individual. His coat was gritty and grimy, and his countenance showed a close and unwashed friendship with Mother Earth. The large boquet in his buttonhole, despite its size and bright color, did not relieve his deplorable condition. It only seemed to accentuate it.

Yet he was nothing worse than a neighbor who had dropped in to pay Jones a call.

"How are you?" he said, extending an ungloved paw. "Nice day, ain't it? Everything's bloomin'. What do you think of my buttonhole?"

"Charming!" replied Jones politely.

"Yes, ain't it?" said its owner proudly. "Now, where d'you suppose I got it—eh?"

Jones bestowed upon the flower and the dirty coat-lapel on which it was pinned a thoughtful scrutiny.

"I give it up," he answered at last. "Did it grow there?"

WORKS WITH HIS GLASS

"I defy anyone," roared the teetotal lecturer, "to name a man who works better with his glass than without it."

"I know one," said a quiet man in the front row.

"Who is that?"

"A glazier."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

Trade Marks Designs Copyrights &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Royalty Pays Fares

Although, no doubt, every railway company would gladly convey His Majesty and the Queen free of charge, our rulers pay exactly the same price as anybody else for a special train, in addition to the first-class fare of every passenger by whom they may be accompanied in their respective suites.

The Queen's Jewels

Among the jewels the Queen most values is a chain of pearls presented to her as a wedding present by the women of twenty-three English counties. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed, but only $25,000 was spent on the necklace, and the other $5,000 was divided amongst various charities chosen by Her Majesty.

THE PRINCE GEORGE HOTEL
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

DOLLS—TRAINS—HORSES

Cold, Stormy Weather is Indoor Weather for the Children
You Owe it to Them and to the Community to make their HOME LIFE Bright and Suitable

TOYS

TOYS of ALL KINDS for Children of all ages

Newest Designs as well as Standards.

Dolls Carriages Guns
Trains Airships Fire Engines

BOOKS

Books in Beautiful Bindins and Superbly Illustrated

Books for the baby, the boy, the girl, the grown-up

Beautiful Art Books a S ialty

CALLING CARDS

THE TIMES BOOKSTORE

BARGAIN HOUSE

141 Hunter Street Peterborough

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

RIBBON PAINTING

A vogue which will commend itself to the home artist is the use of hand-painted ribbon for trimming evening and other gowns. Both silk and satin ribbon are treated to water-colour designs of a "sketchy" artistic type usually in colours of "chintzy" suggestion, or imitative of Japanese colour schemes with the "Chinese blues, pure greens and reds, and its suitable touch of black.

A broad satin ribbon hand-painted in a bold conventional design makes an excellent skirt "band" of the fashionable kind. It can, if desired be ruffled with chiffon, in order to produce the attractive "blurred" effect so well liked this season. Moreover ribbons serve to trim tunics and imagyar blouses, the edges of the ribbon being turned under to make it simulate piece satin, or a beaded edge can be worked over the selvedge to blends coloured like the painted design. It is an original detail of this character which just now distinguishes the most expensive gown.

Some Sickroom Rules

The doctor's orders must be scrupulously obeyed. The patient should be in a room as remote as possible from the "bustle" of the house. The window should, as a rule, be kept open but there must be no draughts. The fire must be mended quietly — not with tongs, but with gloved fingers. The nurse's dress should be simple washable, and make no rustling sounds. The patient must not be regaled with minute accounts of the terrible illnesses of other people. The household worries must not be mentioned in the sick-room. The patient's meals — no matter how simple they are — must be served up daintily with specially attractive tray-cloths and china. Flowers must be taken out of the room at night. Visitors must be admitted with the doctor's permission, and not otherwise.

A Mother's Creed

Mrs. Cesera S. Davis gives the following beautiful "mother's creed":

I believe in the eternal importance of the home as the fundamental institution of society.

I believe in the immeasurable possibilities of every boy and girl.

I believe in the imagination, the trust, the hopes, and the ideals which dwell in the hearts of all children.

I believe in the beauty of nature, of art, of books, and of friendship.

I believe in the satisfaction of duty.

I believe in the little homely joys of everyday life.

I believe in the goodness of the great design which lies behind our complete world.

I believe in the safety and peace which surround us all through the never-brooding love of God.

To Cure Forehead Creases

A perfectly smooth brow is not the least of youth's enviable possessions, and it is one of those tiresome accidents which makes a "fringy" style of hairdressing most becoming just when the forehead begins to resemble the weary map known as "frown marks" the beauty doctors advocate what they call "wrinkle plasters." The lines are pressed out with the fingers, and the plaster is applied while the "frown mark" is thus forcibly held in abeyance. The plaster should be applied, it seems, every time one proposes to go into a "brown study," as well as during sleep.

To eradicate the fine lines, flannel wrung out of hot water and laid on the forehead for ten minutes at a time, and followed by a similarly lengthy dabbing not rubbing, with olive oil is the treatment prescribed. Adopted twice a day for a fortnight, these means are said to ensure a smooth white brow. The oil must be freely applied, as it is the oil which fills the wasted tissues that causes the lines.

Browned Crumbs.

Keep all scraps of crust until there is a good quantity; cut off any black bits, and put the rest on a baking-tin in the oven until they are a bright golden brown all over and quite crisp. Then pound them in a mortar, or, if there is not one available, put them between two pieces of paper and crush them with a rolling-pin. Next pass them through a sieve—this ensures them being all of one size. Put them in a tin with a tight-fitting lid.

These crumbs are useful for shaking over boiled ham or bacon, and can often be used for puddings instead of white crumbs, giving the mixture a richer appearance.

Seared Round Steak

Have the butcher cut the steak thick. Lay it on your meat-board, sprinkle lightly with flour and pound until the flour disappears. Continue this, turning the steak over occasionally, until about half a cupful of flour to one pound of steak has been used. Put a little butter or suet in the frying-pan and heat smoking hot. Sear the steak on both sides, being careful not to burn. Now add a little hot water, about a cupful, cover closely, and set back to simmer for about half an hour. Add more water if necessary. Season with butter, pepper and salt just before serving. You will have a rich, brown gravy, which may be thickened if liked.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 12.—The American authorities, through District Attorney Ackerson and President of the Board of Trade Nye are taking steps to have an organized life-saving corps and station located at Niagara Falls, N.Y. This was mainly decided upon as a result of the recent terrible catastrophy caused by the collapse of the ice bridge.

Last Wednesday 4000 members of the Congress of Women's Clubs of Western wiped their butter dishes and and wiped their butter dishes and placed them on the top shelf of the china closet, there to remain until the price of butter comes down. This was done as a result of a pledge taken by women of the congress to boycott butter as long as it stood above the reach of the average house-keeper. Now if the women of Canada, even the women of Peterborough would follow this advice it would soon result in a change of prices here. As it is now in this city, when one butters a slice of bread or toast, or the good housewife makes a cake, it seems as used up. The trouble is, that while the women here might take this heroic means of lowering prices, the men would grumble. They would say: "Well, we'll have to economize on something else," and then on their way to work buy two cigars for a quarter.

SOCIETY BEARERS

Society People By Art Bearing the Good Money on the Side And Many Make Their Living By It.

Although there are many dealers in art treasures and antiquities who are scrupulously honest and have never intentionally sold an object which was not exactly what they described it to be — and who to-day, in quite a number of cases, are prepared to give 10 per cent. profit upon the return of almost every article they have sold during the last ten years, so greatly has the value of these increased within that period — it is a fact that there are many others who, taking advantage of the modern craze for collecting, resort to all sorts of dodges in order to impose upon the ignorant.

For instance, in Great Britain, it is quite a common trick for dealers to distribute part of their stock in farmhouses and cottages, in the hope that enthusiastic strangers will assume that they have been there for generations. After thus stocking a cottage the dealer casually mentions to customers that he has been told of a certain cottager who has some very good antique "stuff," and that he himself has had no time to verify the report. Of course, the address is promptly asked for by the enthusiastic collector, who is thus led to purchase goods which he might not otherwise think of buying.

An Ingenious Method.

This is a somewhat common and fairly well-known trick, and the consequence is that some dealers have sat upon a more ingenious method. They arrange with some well-known man or woman in "society," who is furnishing a new house, to decorate it with fine furniture, pictures, and prints, supplied free on the understanding that should a visitor admire any of them they are to be sold if possible, and that a handsome commission will be given on the transaction. "There are certainly in society many who add to their diminished incomes by either selling works of art themselves or acting as agents for dealers.

"A well-known connoisseur, when recently visiting a Duchess, had the following experience:—

"The lady was delighted to see him; she particularly wished for his advice and assistance. 'Algy has run terribly into debt; he may have to resign his commission in the Guards. I cannot ask his father for money, as he is badly hit by the depression in agriculture. You know all the rich Americans and the value of fine furniture; could you possibly help me to sell that magnificent Louis Seize piece? It was given to a former Duke by the Emperor of Russia, and it was always said to be worth many thousands of pounds.' The visitor looked at the bit of furniture — it was one he had seen at the shop of a celebrated dealer, who had had it for years on his hands and had resorted to this device to try to get rid of it."

AGAINST NE TEMERE

Montreal, Feb. 13. — The Montreal synod last week passed the ne temere resolution debated during the afternoon and which urges All Anglicans and members of Parliament to support the efforts being made to secure one marriage law throughout the Dominion.

The Crystal Under New Name.

Once more the Crystal Theatre has changed hands. As is well known this popular place of amusement was opened and successfully operated by Mr. W. A. Edwards. Since he severed his connection with this theatre its success has been problmatical. The new proprietor is a former employee of Messrs. Applegath & Sons, one of Canada's leading supply houses for films and other picture house requirements. The Crystal will be re-christened "The Red Mill" and if it does, as it should, in proportion to its size approximate the daily receipts of The Red Mill near Mont Martre in Paris, the new proprietor can soon use diamonds for marbles.

We Are Nat Like Keatucky.

Paducah, Ky., through its county clerk, is offering free marriage certificates where the girl takes a declaration that she did the proposing. And still they talk of Southern chivalry. What Peterborough girl would propose (that is directly so), and if she did so, would any Peterborough swain grudge the $2 for a license at the expense of his sweethearts humiliation? Banish the thought of anything so cheap here!

Queen's Bill for Toronto.

The many local graduates and students of and at Queen's University, will possibly regret to learn that the "Bill" of that seat of learning may be laid aside by the Dominion Government who claim such matters belong to the Provincial Legislature the former claiming that the Provinces can alone handle educational matters. It would not hurt the University to have the moral and financial aid of both governments.

Hamilton papers have great big headed articles saying that the mercury there, last week dropped to 14 below zero. Why, we had it down to 32 below here. Hamilton should drop their title "Ambitious City," or they would surely have claimed a little (or worse) than Peterborough.

Local Parson is Admired.

A lady who was present at Murray street church on Sunday night, happened to be in conversation with a Times representative yesterday and remarked "The sermon given in the church was vigorous and appealing. As you know the subject was the recent disaster at Niagara Falls, when human life was lost by collapse of the ice bridge. Now I thought the pastor's use of this incident as an illustration that it is but a step betwixt life and death was well taken and should have and must have made a strong impression on his hearers." The Times man whilst agreeing with her in every respect replied "after such a strong commendation of the eloquent clergyman, 'surely his ears (using an old expression) must have warmed."

I Am Willing To Pro I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10.00 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out: I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number——here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 887 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT
who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will [illegible] you at once, it will stop pain and backache, it will [illegible] too frequent desire to [illegible], soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having used it. There is not an ingredient that can [illegible] but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the [illegible] number of requests I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this great illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine and book as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money FOOLING for cures, write me. Read this over once more and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire [illegible]
3—Scalding or other irritation of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Rheumatic pains in the joints.
6—Pain or pains in the side or back.
7—Nervousness, irritability, worry, fears, dizziness.
8—Pain or soreness under the ribs.
9—Dragging in any part of the body.
10—Sediment in the urine.
11—Pain in the back of the head.
12—Pain in the small of the back.
13—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
14—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
15—Pain or soreness in the joints.
16—Any of the symptoms of Bright's Disease.
17—Pain under the shoulder blades.
18—Kidney or chronic rheumatism.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

ESTABLISHED 1874.

Capital Authorized	$5,000,000
Capital Paid Up	$3,500,000
Rest and Undivided Profits	$4,017,988

Money may be remitted cheaply and safely by

BANK MONEY ORDERS

Payable at par at any Chartered Bank in Canada (Yukon excepted).

Peterborough Branch, George Street
G. C. WAINWRIGHT, Manager

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, discharges from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To expedite in Gonorrhea, Blood Poisoning, spinal irritation, kidney and bladder troubles, inflammation, ulceration, and other diseases, also sold by druggists, or sent prepaid in plain wrapper, on receipt of $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Full pamphlet sent with each bottle or mailed sealed in plain envelope, on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO — H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, use

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.
163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.
Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our reptesentative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Enter by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 199 Simcoe Street
Next Kilgour Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

GREAT CANVASSERS

Napoleon, and George Washington and Many More Great Men Were Successful Books Agents In Their Youth.

Books. — Well-known firm of London publishers require the services of country gentlemen to act as agents. Liberal commission. Districts apportioned. Hunting and shooting men preferred. Members of good families, younger sons who have been at the 'Varsities or public schools, will find this a first-class opening. Apply, etc.

When the above appeared in the advertisement columns of the English papers recently, no doubt many people who read it would ask themselves what things were coming to.

Country gentlemen taking to book-canvassing!

Certainly it reads revolutionary, even in these days of trading "nobility and gentry."

But greater men than country squires have, before now, been engaged in canvassing books

Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of the French, the world's greatest military genius, was once a book-canvasser.

The future conqueror, while yet a lieutenant, and with nothing to live on but his scanty pay, undertook to "push" for Messrs Boulanger and Co., the Paris publishers, a work called "The History of the (French) Revolution." And apparently he liked the work — with its emoluments — for after a short trial he applied to be given the sole agency for the Department of La Vendée He had, however, to be content with a restricted district in suburban Paris With what zeal he "worked" this may be seen to-day at the Louvre ,where there is exhibited his canvasser's outfit, together with the long list of subscribers' names which his industry secured.

Almost at the same time, in a different part of the world, another future ruler was partly earning his bread as a book agent This was none other than George Washington, "Father" of the United States The particular book that Washington canvassed bore the somewhat lengthy title of "The London of Stoke-on-Trent Square, American Savage; How He May be Tamed by the Weapons of Civilization."

To "get off" such a mouthful as this would surely require more than average ability and persuasiveness, and if, as he recorded, Washington's sales were eminently satisfactory, small wonder that in later life he accomplished so much greater things.

Scientific Bottle Breaking.

The method of breaking small bottles or vessels at the place wanted with a kerosene-soaked string is well known, but this method does not work so well with larger vessels. Following a method given by a writer, by which any sized glass vessel can be broken — as, for example, a glass tub to be made out of a carboy. Fill the vessel with cold water up to the place at which it is to be broken. Pour enough boiling oil over the water to make a good coat on the surface, and before the oil has time to cool dash cold water on the outside of the vessel. A clean break at the contact-point of oil and water will be the result.

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr Edison's first invention will bear retelling One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON
Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 210. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, BARRISters, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, R. A. Peck, R. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, REID & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSors to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. E. H. Hall, S. T. Reid, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND
LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSpital, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phone: Office 433, House 1261.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general ..... bearings ....

The Canada Metal Co., Limited
Fraser Avenue, Toronto

Good Form

Little Social Calling.

The interest taken by the woman of today in athletics, in the world, in affairs of public tenor, has brought about at least one welcome social change—the abolition of the social call.

No longer are upper blinds seen to flutter suspiciously while maid or butler utters the solemn "Not at home" to relieved callers. The allotted twenty minutes of platitudes, during which hostess and guest conversed about such vital topics as the weather or the servant situation, is reckoned as so much wasted time by the busy woman of society.

The gradual disappearance of the calling custom does not mean a consequent damper upon social activity. What it does signify is a more sincere and a more natural phase of sociability. Today a woman rings up the friend she wishes to see on the telephone and at stiff rose and gilt of the front parlor have yielded to the cozy depths of the living room easy chairs and the staid conversation of the reception room to the cozy chatter of the tea table.

What a bugbear were the "Tuesdays" or "Thursdays" of the society leader, from which continued absence spelled social oblivion. Many a heartache originated in these drawing rooms of the dictator, where cuts were dealt right and left and arrows sent out by a satirical tongue which caused a sting which lasted for weeks. A vise of stiff silk, burning patent leathers and other insignia of correct dress are not conducive of kindness and good cheer. For these very obvious reasons we hail with joy the passing of an era of silly formality, hastening to welcome in its stead the custom of "just dropping in for a chat" or an afternoon visit.

Telephone Courtesy.

Many otherwise polite persons feel that they can be rude when engaged in a telephone conversation. With the first "Hello" many a man and woman drop their courtesy as if it were a garment that did not fit them.

If the "central" were to record all that she hears and all that is said to her it would make some of us blush for shame. While men frequently swear over the telephone, there are many women who, while they do not give vent to profanity, so far copy the manners of the male sex that they scream like shrews at "central" if she happens to give them the wrong number or interrupts them before they have finished talking.

That the ways of telephones and the persons who operate them are trying to one's temper no one can deny, but the irritability that manifests itself in outward speech is not a requisite of the proper appreciation and use of the telephone. It is nothing less than a pernicious habit which most people acquire unconsciously. Let us remember that consideration and kindness pay better than rudeness and discourtesy. If not, then let us have poorer telephone service and preserve our self respect.

Make it a rule never to be rude to the telephone assistants. It is like shooting from an ambush—at an unseen foe, it is true, but it hurts just as much

Politeness a Valuable Cult.

If regarded from no other point of view than as an asset in journeying through life, politeness and the observance of small courtesies will be found a very valuable cult.

True, the blustering, pushing man or woman makes a way of its sort, but if closely observed neither can very readily come back another time with any success. Aggressiveness is often needed, but impoliteness never. When it is necessary to emphasize even that may be done with dignity and a perfectly polite manner, carrying weight far better than arrogance and rudeness ever can.

Kingston to Enlarge Hospitals.

In view of Peterborough's admirable hospital accommodation, it is interesting to note that a deputation from the Board of Governors of the Kingston General Hospital waited on the Finance Committee of the City Council last week and asked for a grant of $5,000 toward the proposed wing for the hospital. It is understood that private subscriptions total over $16,000, which with a civic grant of $5,000, would assure the much needed wing.

Three Modern Farmers

The Reeve of Middlemass Township sat back in his great arm chair before a snappy fire, and opened his paper. It was a city daily, dropped at his front gate by the rural mail delivery service. In the half light of the fire, the Reeve's figure loomed large and comfortable. His shoulders, broad as a door and slightly bowed, suggested but did not proclaim their strength. The head and neck, rough-hewn and massive, capped fittingly the body's column. The eyes of the Reeve were gray and steady; his mouth was a kindly straight line. He was like a tree which had grown from a sapling until it spread its giant branches protectingly over the small shrubbery at its base.

The Reeve of Middlemass was in the cheerful mood which comes to those who count their assets frequently. He was just in the midst of this pastime, when the telephone at his elbow rang.

"Hello!" he said, taking down the receiver.

"Hello, dad," came a voice over the wire.

It was his oldest boy, who was studying at the University of Toronto, fifty miles away. When the conversation was finished the Reeve returned to his paper, after first adjusting the shade of the electric reading lamp. He looked out of the window after a short time, towards the road where the poles of the Hydro-Electric system carried Niagara power past the adjacent farms. The great power mill in his barn ground meal and chopped feed for a hundred cattle. His house was heated by a furnace, and a wind-mill and elevated tank furnished water for his bath room.

The door behind him opened and in rushed a pretty girl of about twenty. She was just home from the MacDonald Institute at Guelph, where she learned not only the practical culinary operations of housekeeping, but also the hundred little feminine devices for making a home attractive. Her touch was everywhere in the great farm house. Cushions, draperies, the piano littered with music all spoke eloquently of her presence.

"Bill and Jim will be home on Thursday," she said.

"No," corrected her father joyously, "On Wednesday."

Bill and Jim were at the Ontario Agricultural College learning how to farm According to scientific methods instead of attempting to enter the crowded professions in the strenuous competition of business life.

The Reeve paid all the bills. He could afford to do so. His land was clear of debt. His annual crops had been excellent and all had sold at a high price. He owned stocks and had recently bought part of an issue of debentures made by the neighboring town.

The Reeve of Middlemass dozed in his chair, a picture of thirty years ago came slowly out of the past and was mirrored in his memory. A log house stood in a clearing, where several small fields made a brave showing against the background of heavy timber. A young man, little more than a boy, driving a team of horses up to the door of the house. A woman, with a patient face and gray hair, came out and climbed into the rig. They drove off in the direction of the nearest town. It was market day and they intended to secure supplies in exchange for their baskets of eggs and butter. The woman had one dollar in cash. Paying the interest on the mortgage had taken so much that year. The Reeve of Middlemass knew that boy. It was himself. He remembered how he had been forced to leave school just when he began to thirst for knowledge. He recalled the struggle upward against bad markets, the lack of farm machinery, the sluggishness which hung over the industrial life of the country until the coming of the good times. It was a bad dream and the Reeve awoke.

He returned to his paper, selecting the market page, and running his keen eye over the lists of prices paid for the products which he had for sale. "Just for amusement," he said. "I'm going to compare prices to-day, December 1st, 1911, with prices on the same day thirty-one years ago."

This is what he got by comparison:

Produce	Dec. 1st, 1880
Hay, ton	$9.00 to $13.00
Straw, ton	7.00 to 8.50
Dressed hogs, cwt	5.75 to 6.00
Chickens, pair	.30 to .40
Ducks, pair	.50 to .60
Turkeys, each,	.75 to 1.25
Geese, each	.45 to .60
Butter, lb.	.20 to .21
Eggs, doz.	.20 to .22
Apples, bbl.	1.00 to 1.75
Potatoes, bag	.45 to .50
Cabbages, doz.	.25 to .50
Produce	Dec. 1st, 1911
Hay, ton	$10.00 to $22.00
Straw, ton	14.00 to 15.00
Dressed Hogs, cwt.	9.25 to 9.50
Chickens, lb.	.14 to .15
Ducks, lb.	.13 to .14
Turkeys, lb.	.22 to .25
Geese, lb.	.14 to .15
Butter, lb	.30 to .32
Eggs, doz	.50 to .60
Apples, bbl.	2.00 to 3.50
Potatoes, bag	1.20 to 1.25
Cabbages, doz.	.75 to 1.00

The Reeve of Middlemass regarded his comparison with considerable pleasure.

"Not only have the prices paid for my produce increased," he observed to himself, "but my markets have also been enlarged."

To prove this to his own satisfaction the Reeve looked up the census returns, showing the growth in the population of Hamilton, Brantford and Berlin, his three nearest and best markets, to which he shipped the choicest of his products direct to consumers.

Markets	1891	1901	1911
Hamilton	36,661	52,634	81,961
Berlin	4,054	9,747	15,196
Brantford	9,616	16,619	23,702

"There is no doubt," observed the Reeve, "that my home market has grown with the expansion of the big manufacturing towns. It now takes 80 per cent. of what we farmers produce."

He then satisfied his curiosity as to the amount of farm produce exported and the increase in exports during the last thirty years. Blue books gave him the following:

Exp'ts	1868	1879	1909
Agricul. Pro.	$12,871,055	$19,628,000	$71,997,000
Animal Pro.	6,893,167	14,100,000	61,349,000
Cheese, lbs.	4,503,370	46,414,000	164,907,000
Wheat, bus.	2,284,703	6,610,724	49,137,449

The Reeve of Middlemass dozed again, this time with pleasant dreams.

Twenty years before, a friend of the Reeve, had decided to leave Ontario and try his fortune in Saskatchewan. He settled on a homestead and endured the hardships of pioneer life. While the Reeve battled grimly with "the black nineties," the Westerner hung desperately to his homestead in defiance of frost, wind, fire, and crops failure. At last the tide turned and a succession of fat years cured his sick exchequer. He harvested hundreds of acres of No. 1 Northern during the summer of 1911 and stored it safely away in great elevators. One day he was going to Winnipeg via Grand Trunk Pacific. He liked travelling that way because he had anticipated the line by nearly twenty years, and it was a novelty to ride on the road which had reached him in the prairie wilderness. The luxurious Pullman coach filled him with subtle satisfaction. Presently, he went into the dining car, and enjoyed the attendance of half a dozen colored waiters. Among other things, he ordered poached eggs. The waiter brought two, delicately balanced on fragrant toast.

"Thirty cents for two poached eggs," remarked the Westerner, looking at his check. "Rather high."

"They cost us sixty cents a dozen, sir," replied the waiter.

"The farmers around here must be getting rich," remarked the traveller.

"Not by selling these eggs," said the waiter. "They come from Chicago."

"Chicago," exclaimed the traveller, "What are they doing away up here?"

"Feeding Western farmers who don't keep hens," retorted the waiter.

The Westerner.

"Do you sell any eggs?" demanded the waiter, smiling.

"No," replied the other thoughtfully, "I even have to buy some occasionally."

"When people buy," said the waiter, "most of them pay through their nose."

The Westerner opened his suit case and took out a Government blue book, in which he buried himself for the remainder of the journey.

"Say," he called to the waiter as he left the car, "Where does your butter come from?"

"Ontario."

"And your vegetables?"

"Ontario."

"Meats?"

"Ontario mostly."

The Westerner turned up the subject "Eggs" in his blue book. He found that the imports of eggs for consumption had increased from 772,672 dozen in 1902 to 2,878,640 dozen in 1911. Of the latter, 2,512,797 dozen had come from the United States.

He looked over the market columns in the newspaper. In the old provinces, where mixed farming was carried on, farmers had a dozen sources of revenue. Eggs, butter, cheese, vegetables, animals, all brought high prices.

"I have only one source of revenue," soliloquized the Westerner, "Wheat, and I'm mining my land. Some day it will give out. Our Western towns and cities are growing fast as the people come from other lands and locate here. They are creating a great home market for us. I am going to stop growing wheat only and begin mixed farming. If I am growing rich with one source of revenue, how rich will I be with half a dozen?"

While the Ontario farmer dozed in comfort, and the aggressive Westerner planned to increase his large revenue, the hardy settler in Northern Ontario smiled to himself.

"I've got them all beaten," he said, "The last census taken of the district served by the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway shows that it has an urban population of 35,550 and a rural population of 17,666. That means that every farmer has the townsmen as steady customers the year round.

And all three farmers were pleased to learn that the Dominion and Provincial parliaments are spending $3,300,000 annually to encourage and develop that most important industry—agriculture, which has passed from its status as a hard, unattractive and unprofitable calling to that of a fairly pleasant, fairly easy, attractive and an utterly independent means of making a good living.

"NO goods purchased abroad are cheap that take the place of our own labor and our own raw material."

Knox Church Weekly Notes.

TheLadies' Aid will hold an "At-Home" at Mrs. Jackson's 232 Perry street, Thursday afternoon.

The Boys' Club will meet at 7.30 on Monday evening to hear Rev. Roy Smyth on Orillia Convention.

The choir will meet on Friday evening for practice.

Rev. I. Couch of George street Methodist Church, will preach in Knox Church next Sabbath morning.

Belmont Minstrels Are Busy.

The Belmont Minstrels are getting up witty gags, good solos, touching choruses and in short a splendid programme. It is rumored that more than one member of the cork-faced artists, for the last week has been threatened with Tetanus, owing to such broad smiles over some of the jokes. By the way, Tetanus is "lock jaw."

DR. SOPER DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

15 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	8.20 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m.
	5.30 p.m.	11.46 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	5.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	8.76 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m.	8.34 a.m.
	8.55 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	4.15 p.m.	12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood.	11.35 a.m.
Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	7.47 p.m.
	12.10 a.m.
	1.05 a.m.

Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto; Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago.	5.35 a.m.
	5.51 a.m.
Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m.
	4.30 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

MACHINISTS WANTED.

Three machinists wanted. Apply at the office of the International Harvester Co., Peterborough.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-12-12)

Local Preacher is Home.

Rev. R. H. Stroak, pastor of All Saints' Church, has returned from Toronto in connection with the celebrations in connection with the celebration of the 43rd anniversary of St. John's church.

Local Carpenters Want Raise.

At the regular meeting of local union, No. 672, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, held in the Labour Hall on Monday night, it was unanimously decided to ask 30 cents per hour, to come into effect on April 15th, 1912.

Wild Duck Caught in Ice.

Day before yesterday some boys saw a wild duck on the ice of Little Lake. This bird, like an aeroplane, required a certain amount of momentum before it could take wing. Possibly in addition to this offset to its natural element and usual conditions the duck may have had its wing feathers frozen. Anyway the boys followed the mallard and captured it.

Contributions to Fire Sufferers.

Mr. F. W. Miller has received the following additional gifts to the fund for the families who suffered in Saturday's fire:

Mrs. Dr. Burnham $5.00
Fred Mitchell 5.00
Mrs. Travers, clothing; Mrs. Walsh comforters and Blankets; Mrs. John Johns, tea and coffee.

One of the families have been fortunate enough to secure a house.

Work on Fowler's Corners Church.

Preparations are under way for the erection of a new Presbyterian church, at Fowler's Corners. Teams are busily engaged in hauling material for the work. Rev. Mr. Curry, pastor of the Lakevale church, has rendered very efficient service in connection with the work. Lakevale, the name by which the present church is known. Will revert to the new one following its completion.

A Test of His Honesty.

Last night two George street merchants were discussing a former employee of the Dominion Government, who, owing to the recent "landslide" is not now drawing pay. One of them asked the question "Tell me straight now, do you think he is or was honest?" The other replied, "Well, I would not like to exactly say that he is or was dishonest, but if you ever happen to shake hands with him, be sure to count the fingers on your right hand afterwards.

A Quiet Local Wedding.

A pretty, but quietly celebrated wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. G. Brown, of St. James Methodist church, Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gourlay, 189 Reid street. The contracting parties were Mr. Edwin John Hamilton, who claimed as his bride Miss Lydia Iles.

Mr. W. J. Gaynor acted as groomsman and Miss Fanny Edney was a charming bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends of the family. The happy couple will reside in Peterborough.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Reputable druggists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for the cure of all mucous membrane discharges from the nose, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To escape inconvenience, contagion, or stricture, use Big G according to directions, and keep it handy for immediate use. Sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, or 6 bottles, $5.00. Booklet sent on request.

The Bruce Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Victorian Nurses at Bobcaygeon.

A meeting was held a few days ago in the Bobcaygeon public library for the purpose of securing the services of a trained nurse, under the Victorian Order of Nurses, for that community. The meeting was fairly well attended. Mrs. Belcher explained the project, stating that a membership of 100 at $1.00 each would guarantee the services of a trained nurse. No definite decision was arrived at and another meeting was arranged for later on.

Locals Ready for Orillia.

The local hockey club will bump up against the Orillia bunch here on Friday night. It will be remembered that the Orillia team won the Junior finals last year. Here on Friday a junior semi-final game will be contested. The game should be about the fastest junior game seen here in a decade. The Orillias have a great reputation, but the locals are not backing up any, and are determined to keep up their winning streak. The boys are in good shape after their rest up and will go after the Orillia team from A. to Z. They held a practice last night that showed they are in good trim.

Literary Treat at Y.W.C.A.

Last night Miss McCrae gave a most interesting address at the Young Women's Christian Association building. The subject of the talk, which is better described as an address than a lecture, was "Pictures that Talk." The fine green room was comfortably filled. Miss McCrae's talk was received with great attention and demonstrated that the speaker was not only "at-home" with her subject, but fully capable of expressing her opinions. The Y.W.C.A. is to be congratulated on having such a splendid program as they have held and are to have on their literary evenings.

Why Sniffle And Sneeze With Catarrhal Cold?

BY BREATHING THE HEALING VAPOR OF CATARRHOZONE YOU GET RELIEF IN TEN MINUTES.

Every second person that you meet seems to have a sneeze and stuffed feeling in the forehead and nostrils. To cure promptly, say, in half an hour, there is nothing worth using except Catarrhozone. You inhale its balsamic vapor, and feel as if you were among the Norway pines. This is because Catarrhozone contains a healing medicine, light as pine air, which is breathed straight into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Away goes the cold; sneezing and catarrhal cough cease, bronchial irritation stops; in short, you are cured of catarrh by a pleasant, simple remedy, free from sedatives and irritants.

That Catarrhozone is a swift, certain means of destroying colds and catarrh is proved by the following statement of Mr. Pulos, one of Russia's best known merchants:

"In the fall of 1903," writes Mr. Pulos, under date of June 10th, 1910, "I contracted a very severe cold which developed into Catarrh. At that time I was living in New York State and treated with four different physicians, who afforded me no relief. On coming to Brockville I was advised by a friend to try Catarrhozone. I bought the dollar outfit, and was gratified by the results. I was completely cured by Catarrhozone, and have used it since to check a cold with unfailing results. It is the grandest medicine in existence, and I hope my testimony will be of some use to other fellow-sufferers."

(Signed) George Pulos.

An ideal protection for the chest, lungs, nose, and throat is the frequent use of Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment (the large size) costs $1.00, medium sizes 50c; at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

CURLING NOTES.

The following is the result of the games played by the ladies of the Peterborough Curling Club for the pans presented to the club by Mr. Cameron:

Mrs. Sanderson
Mrs. McLeod
Mrs. Goodwill
Mrs. Travers, skip	7
Miss H. Davidson
Miss Velle Morrow
Miss M. Davidson
Mrs. Coulthard, skip	6
Miss Archer
Miss Perks
Mrs. McLean
Mrs. Matthews, skip	7
Mrs. A. Hall
Mrs. Grant
Mrs. Hill
Mrs. Ritchie, skip	16

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A Hint for Our Local Schools.

A Philadelphia optical expert has advised the school trustees of that city that school blackboards should be deflected or pulled from the wall at their bases. This is to prevent the light being reflected into the eyes of the children. He claimed that children should never be required to read copy script from the blackboards, because, in order for a child forty feet away to see them the letters would have to have lines a quarter of an inch thick. To be in proportion the letters would have to be five or six inches high. The copy-book evil he considered just a trifle less serious. There was a glare from the white page, and the writing of the child became less and less good. The copies should be inserted in a carrier on a ruler that could be moved down the page in such a manner as to cover the last line in writing.

326th Bargain Annex Event — The CRESSMAN Co. Limited — Wednesday, February 14, 1912

WOMEN'S CLOTH SKIRTS BIG ANNEX LEADER AT 99c

Cheaper than the usual cost of the material and cheaper than the making. You cannot help being surprised at the exceptional value in this new imported CHEVIOT SKIRT. The style is absolutely correct—has front panel and fits neatly and snugly over the hips. Procurable in navy-blue and black—a good range of sizes. Don't miss this chance of buying a fresh new skirt at less than you can buy the material. See them in our show window and be on hand Wednesday at 8.15. sharp. Our great leader at only each 99c

STRIPE FLANNELETTE 7½c
A special Annex line that represents extra value. A good selection of stripe patterns on light, medium and dark grounds. Good soft quality; wide width only, per yard 7½c

Bargain Annex Registered

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR 25c
A very fine ribbed Annex line of Women's Underwear to clear Wednesday: White or grey Vests and Drawers. Bought direct from the mill at an exceedingly low figure. All sizes. For an Annex Snap, per garment 23c

SILK LINED NET BLOUSES $1.69
The second Annex Sale of these attractive Dress Blouses will clear the lot quickly. Faultlessly correct in style; made with silk lining; short sleeves; white or deep cream; practically all sizes. Best $2.50 value. Annex Price $1.69

CARPET ENDS 58c
A great selection of colors and patterns in this Annex lot of Carpet Ends. Mostly travellers' samples with overcast ends and sides; also a few from our regular stock. All full yard and a half in length. Extra special at the Annex price of 58c

WOMEN'S STRIPE FLANNELETTE GOWNS 85c
Made of good quality Flannelette, in pink and blue stripes; button fronts. Marked for a quick, sharp Annex clean-up. Our regular stock line at 59c. Annex special 38c

"MILL ENDS" OF TWEEDS 39c YARD
Only 48 of these single fold Mill Ends—varying in length from 1 to 4¼ yards; mostly 30 inches wide. Cloths that sell regularly at $1.00 and $1.25 a yard—all pure wool, in Worsted and Tweed finish. In the Annex, PER YARD 39c

Men's $1 and $1.25 Soft Front Shirts 55c — 3 for $1.55
Our Annex Shirt Sales are always a huge success. This week's event promises to eclipse all previous efforts—you have over 300 fine quality Soft Front Dress Shirts to choose from; the patterns are exceptionally good—all being most carefully selected—and represent very neat designs on light, medium and dark grounds; sizes 14 to 16½. We are not exaggerating in the least when we say all are regularly valued at $1.00 and $1.25. Our Great February Annex Shirt Sale brings the price down to only, each 55c
3 FOR $1.55
See the Show Window display.

ANNEX SALE OF
New Lace, 2½c yd.
28c DOZEN
The mention of an "Annex" Lace Sale means a crowd for Wednesday. Let us say, however, the values this week are even better than the remarkable ones the Annex usually offers. The selection in both Insertions and Edgings is numerous and dainty. Whether it's the finer vals. or a heavier torchon you'll find it in our showing. See the window display and buy your spring and summer Laces Wednesday at, per yard 2½c
28c DOZEN

LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING 6½c
300 yards of Linen Crash Roller Towelling; 17 inches wide; red stripe border. A quality you will recognize as being less than the mill price. In the Annex only, a yard 6½c

HEMSTITCHED WHITE LAWN HANDKERCHIEFS 10 FOR 25c
An indispensable cold weather commodity. Made usual size from good quality Irish Lawn; popular narrow hem. In the Annex at the unusual price of 10 FOR 25c

SPECIAL QUALITY WHITE LONGCLOTH 12½c YARD
You would get good value if you paid 17c for this special, heavy quality of White Longcloth. Heavy weight; pure bleached and full 36 inches wide; absolutely free from any dressing or sizing. We have every confidence in this Cloth and expect it to be one of the BEST "Annex" 12½c

HEMSTITCHED PILLOW CASES 13c EACH
A shipment of "GREAT VALUE" Pillow Cases—every pair hemstitched, and made of good quality English Cambric. All sizes, (40, 42 and 44 inches); marked at less than cost of material. Annex Price, each 13c

COMPLETE BED OUTFIT $5.97
You save money by buying your Beds, Springs and Mattresses in the Annex. Brass trimmed White Enamel IRON BEDS, equipped with double, wool-faced MATTRESS and re-inforced coil wire SPRINGS. All sizes, 3 ft., 3 ft. 6 in., 4 ft., and 4 ft. 6 in. Annex Price complete $5.97
BEDS, $1.97; SPRINGS, $1.69; MATTRESS, $2.49

BLACK SPUN GLASS DRESS LINING 19c
Best 25c quality "Silktaf" Spun Glass Lining for suit and coat linings and for separate skirts. About 100 yards for this week's Annex at the extremely low price of 19c

2 o'clock Special Moreen Underskirtings 59c
Odd lines of Colored Moreen Underskirts to clear on Wednesday. The qualities are good and the shades represented are tan, brown, and light and dark green; only one or two of a kind; lengths 38, 40 and 42. You couldn't begin to buy the material at anything near this clearing price. A positive limit of not more than TWO Skirts to any one customer. Sharp at 2 o'clock, not before. To clear 59c

12 1-2 & 15c. Kingcot Canadian Ginghams— 10½c
If it's Kingcot Gingham it's absolutely the best of the regular 12½c and 15c lines. A special cloth; excellent patterns in neat stripes and dainty spot and plaid effects. A choice range of the advance spring designs from which to make selection. Only one day in the Annex at an exceptionally low price. See the window display and come early on Wednesday for first choice. Annex price, a yard 10½c
See Window.

RUBBER BOOTS FOR BOYS, GIRLS AND WOMEN IN THE ANNEX $1.19
Every pair best quality Maltese Cross brand and sizes to fit boys or girls, from 3 to 14 years, also women's sizes. The only boot for the late winter and early spring slush. Come early on Wednesday before your size is sold out. Regular $2.00 and $2.50 values $1.19

WOMEN'S $2.25 BUTTON OVERSHOES $1.29
Women's 8-Button High Cut Overshoes—Maltese Cross Brand—sizes only 2½, 3, 3½, 4 and 4½. Regular stock price $2.50. To clear Wednesday in the Annex, per pair $1.29

SCOTCH FINGERING 4c SKEIN.
200 skeins of the best quality imported Scotch Fingering in black and grey. Full size skeins. To clear quick 4c

MEN'S COAT SWEATERS (WITH POCKETS) 79c
A good heavy ribbed Coat Sweater for men. V-shaped neck and made with two side pockets—grey bodies with colored trimmings. Our special stock line at $1. In the Annex at only 79c

HOOSIER GLOSS AND CORN STARCH 4 FOR 25c
12 cases of full size 10c packages of Hoosier Gloss and Corn Starch. You can buy all one kind or have it assorted as you prefer. Buy this line in the Annex Wednesday at, 4 PACKAGES FOR 25c

ODD LINES AND SAMPLE BLOUSES 49c
Black Sateens, Stripe Chambrays and White Muslins. Regular prices 75c, 89c and $1.00, but odd lines or samples. To be cleared completely out at the Annex Price of, only 49c

Ready-to wear Mark Down Sale Now in Progress

The CRESSMAN Company Limited
Store opens 8.15 ⋮⋮ ANNEX CLOSES 5.30 ⋮⋮ Closes 5.45

Do your Wall Papering NOW before the Spring rush commences

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

It is thought that to-night Brock street rink will have a record crowd.

The case of William Shaw and Elsie Parks, charged with vagrancy, has been postponed until Friday next.

And now after a raise in sugar, tea is said to be on the upward rise in price. As a local man said yesterday evening "This is enough to drive a man to drink." What drink he meant, our reporter did not know.

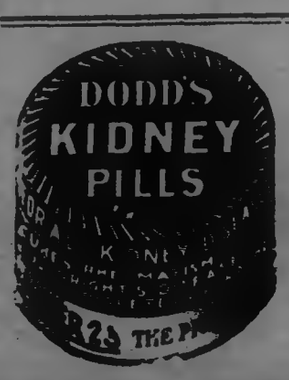
When one reads of the dynamiting and other outrages occurring through out the continent, it almost reminds one of the tax rate of Peterborough.

Bobcaygeon Boy Scouts attended church last Sunday. Good little Bob to raise a corps of Boy Scouts. Still with its solid rock foundation, that village should raise a good sturdy generation!

James Tugnett died at Belleville last Sunday. The deceased was born in 1835, and, as an apprentice, at the age of 13 served on the well known, and now obsolete battleship Victory. It will be remembered that the Victory was Lord Nelson's flagship.

Now that people are talking about a possible danger in crossing Chemong Lake on account of ice cutting, it might be noted that Matthew May whilst crossing the St. Clair River on Sunday last fell through the ice and nearly lost his life.

A local hotelman yesterday told a Times representative that he had received a telegram from Midland on Monday advising him to bet $500 on the lakeside city. He further added that he tried to put up money on the Midland hookey team but could get no backers. Hot air will raise a balloon, but carries little argument.



SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Magistrate Edmison is in Toronto for a few days.

Mr. G. T. Pennington, of Bowmanville, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Capt. P. Young of Young's Point, was in the city yesterday on business and gave The Times a friendly call.

Mr. H. Phelan, collector of Inland Revenue, was in Lindsay yesterday on business.

Miss Cora Mowry went to Belleville yesterday, on a two weeks visit with friends.

Mr. W. G. Morrow left yesterday for Winnipeg, and will be absent on business about a week.

Mrs. Thos. Moule, Lock street who underwent an operation at Nicholls Hospital, is progressing favorably.

Mrs. (Dr.) Frank C. Neal will be at home this afternoon, from four to six o'clock.

Miss Annie Cameron, who has spent the past month in the city, returned to her home in Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Thornton and daughter, of Calgary, are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Graham of East City.

M. A. Owens, manager of the Dr. Barnardo Homes of Canada, was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a call.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. M. O'Brien, of Peterboro, Inspector of Public Schools, was in town to-day on official business.

Memorandum:
The Grand Trunk Railway System have ordered 1,000 freight cars as follows:

250 Refrigerator 40 ft. long, 60,000 pounds capacity, from Canadian Car and Foundry Co.

250 Refrigerator 40 ft. long, 60,000 pounds capacity, from American Car and Foundry Co., Chicago.

250 Automobile steel under-frame cars—40 ft. long, 60,000 pounds capacity, from American Car and Foundry Co., Detroit.

250 Automobile steel underframe cars—40 ft. long, 60,000 pounds capacity, from Western Car and Foundry Co., Chicago.

Delivery of these cars to commence in April, 1912, and to be completed at the rate of 25 cars per day.

LOCAL MAN IS KILLED

Mr. Harvey Sharpe, a Former Peterborough Painter Evidently Falls to His Death at Edmonton, Alta. Whilst Engaged in Work.

Word has been received in the city concerning the death of Mr. Harvey Sharpe, who was killed in Edmonton by a fall presumably from a building as the deceased was a paper hanger and decorator by trade. The late Mr. Sharpe was about twenty-seven years of age, and was well known in this city. He left here about six years ago, and has resided in the West ever since, with the exception of two years, which he spent at home. He is unmarried and is survived by a mother and one brother, John, both of whom reside at 480 Sherbrooke street; also one sister Margaret, the latter residing in New Ontario. Full particulars concerning the young man's tragic death, and the arrangements for the funeral are not yet to hand.

PUBLIC OPINION

Continued from Page 1.

was current on the streets that one of the directors was getting a yearly "pull" of even small sums let alone several hundreds of dollars. This rumor is certainly false in every particular.

It would be a pleasure to the directors to have the City Council or any private individual who grants one dollar to the Society to examine the books of the Association and see for themselves where the money is spent.

A copy of receipts and expenditures for the year 1911 is in the hands of the secretary, and is free for the public to investigate and for publication.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper.

J. C. Garbutt,
Pres. Peterboro Industrial Exhibition

Reply—In reference to the above, The Times sent a representative to the office of the Exhibition Secretary to look over the vouchers and accounts of that Association. He found that the only directors who received any money from the exhibition were Director J. J. Turner, of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons. His account was $102.95, the greatest part of which was rent for tent used for the poultry show. The balance being for work done at the grounds by his firm and one other director who was paid current market prices for feed for the chickens.—Ed.

LOCAL HOCKEYISTS EXPECT TO WIN TO-NIGHT

The Peterborough team was beaten but like the king in history, partly admitted "All is lost but honor." However, to this they claimed, and the people of the city all hope they are correct, that they fully expect to trim Eddie Gould's team to-night. This game, just referred to, is on home ice and the locals have good reason for their confidence. They had no breaks in the luck, and the majority of Midland's goals were scored when the Pets were a man short through penalties. It was an even battle in the first half and for ten minutes in the second period, the teams fought along without scoring.

$80,000,000 FOR WORK IN WEST.
Expenditure Proposed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

West of Winnipeg, on the main line 195 miles to be built East of Fort George and 150 miles West of Fort George, leaving only 200 miles to be built in 1912 between Winnipeg and Prince Rupert. A total number of 500 miles of branch lines to Moose Jaw, Brandon, Calgary, Battleford, Prince Albert and the Alberta Coal Fields will be complete, and the building of the line from Calgary to Lethbridge will be started. Hotels will be erected in Edmonton and Regina of 150 rooms each, and the Terminals at Regina will be inaugurated between Winnipeg and Regina, and Winnipeg and Fort William. This work will all be done this summer if the supply of labor is sufficient, and the steel can be secured for the laying of track.

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

J. W. EDWARDS

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy
ALWAYS CURES
And is Pleasant and Safe.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some (o') at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute. Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 40 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS

Prominent Labor Leaders are Arrested in Gonnection With the Dynamite Conspiracy

FORMER LOCAL PRINTER IN HANDS OF POLICE

Toronto, Feb. 14.—According to Crown Attorney Corley, there is reason to suspect that the person who set fire to the Globe and the Mail offices recently is in the hands of the police. On information being laid before the police by several firemen, Norman Creeper, who appeared in the police court yesterday, on the charge of vagrancy, is the suspected one, and was remanded for a week, with a far more serious charge pending. Creeper was arrested by P. C. Lane two weeks ago behind Carrick's stables, which were on fire at the time. He was taken into custody on the statement of the firemen that he had been on hand at several fires lately, and had been the first to give the alarm.

Some eighteen months ago Creeper was employed as compositor by the Examiner, working at night. One night a fire broke out in the editorial room of the Examiner, and Creeper who was alone at the time, turned in the alarm, the blaze being extinguished without any damage being done. While in Peterborough Creeper had a mania for attending fires, and tried to accompany the local brigade every time they turned out. In fact, for some time, he used to sleep at the fire hall.

NATIONALISTS WANT WHOLE HOG OR NONE

London, Feb. 14.—The Home Rule bill as announced by Winston Churchill, is being discussed all over Ireland and general disappointment is expressed over the financial proposals. Various public bodies suggest that if Ireland is not given full control of all taxes levied in the country a national convention should reject the proposal.

Patrick White, M.P., last night said that unless under Home Rule the Irish Parliament had full and free legislative authority the bill would be useless.

At a meeting of the executive of the United Irish League, held at Drogheda, N. T. Murphy said that the only measure of self-government acceptable would be one that would give Irishmen full power to deal with everything concerning Ireland and full control of every tax.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and not much change in Temperature.

NEARLY FORTY LABOR MEN ARRESTED INCLUDING AN INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT ALL INDICTED FOR DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY

Simultaneous Action on Charge of Violating Transportation Statutes by Forwarding Dynamite

DIRECT RESULT OF McNAMARA TRIAL

THE CHARGE.

The men are charged with conspiracy to violate certain sections of the Federal Criminal Code forbidding the transportation of explosives in passenger trains or cars.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—Arrests in the dynamiting conspiracy cases began to-day and soon many of the fifty or more defendants scattered, in various parts of the country were taken into custody.

Among the first arrested was Frank M. Ryan, President of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. He was taken in Indianapolis, where the Iron Workers' International headquarters are located and from which J. J. McNamara, the convicted dynamiter, was arrested last April.

Reports from many cities show the Government's intention to arrest all the men at one time.

ELEVEN BUSINESS AGENTS INDICTED.

Eleven business agents of the Iron Workers, four or five officials, and some members of the Executive Board, who are charged with knowing what McNamara did with money used to buy explosives, are among those indicted.

Spurgeon P. Meadows, quriness agent of the District Council of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, also was arrested in Indianapolis. He represents one of the three labor unions alleged to be implicated in the conspiracy. The officials of the other union represented is C. E. Dowd, of the Machinists' Union, under arrest at Rochester N.Y.

FIGURED IN McMANIGAL'S CONFESSION.

Frank G. Webb, a former member of the Iron Workers' Executive Board who was arrested in New York, figured prominently in Ortie McManigal's confession. Webb is charged with meeting McManigal and showing him where to do "jobs" in Hoboken and Jersey City, N.J.

FIFTY OR MORE BY NIGHT.

Before night it is expected a majority of the fifty or more men indicted will be apprehended and the Government will reveal the facts, all the names involved and the extent of a conspiracy which, it charges, has for six years been carried on by union labor officials and others against "open shop" contractors.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

MEAT SHOULD BE INSPECTED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that a deputation representing many municipalities has been to Toronto to ask for the establishment of municipal abbatoirs. In my opinion this is a good move and the people of this city should endorse and back up this bill. When a Peterborough man or woman enters a local meat market what does he or she know about the health of the animal being cut up and sold? Whilst this might seem a hardship to our farmers who occasionally kill a cow, pig or sheep, the health of this whole city is our first consideration. We ought to do what we can to prevent meat from diseased or tuberculous animals being sold to our citizens.

Englishman.

KEEP BOYS FROM POOL ROOMS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that the Ontario Government is considering a law to prevent anyone under 18 years of age entering or remaining in a licensed billiard or pool room. I heartily endorse this action of the Government. Whilst I play neither pool nor billiards, I occasionally have cause to enter such places on business. The game of billiards is all right both as being scientific and a good method of exercise. However, let any person of open mind go into a pool room and what does he hear and see. Young fellows [illegible] are, in a majority, boys who should be either at home or at work. Where do those boys get the money to play pool? Do not many of them (I will not use the vulgar word 'steal') borrow from their employers or parents? If the Government forbids boys under 18 years old entering pool rooms that same government will be the means of saving thousands of such boys from becoming chronic loafers and bums!

Subscriber.

WILL CLUBS HAVE TO CUT OUT INTOXICANTS

The Ontario Government was asked oy a temperance deputation yesterday to abolish the bar, treating system and drinking in clubs. It was time the speaker urged, that the "wet" municipalities which are only 29 per cent of the whole province, were swept into line. Hon. W. J. Hanna remarked that the proposition was entirely new, as it asked a political party to make abolition of part of its platform. He contended that the present license system had greatly reduced drinking. The deputation also waited on the opposition leader, Mr. Rowell, who informed them that the Liberals were working now on a temperance platform. He promised a decision before the end of the session.

BURNED BABY ALIVE

Halifax, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Ada McCarron confessed to the police yesterday that she put her five week's old child in the hot blast stove in her house and burned it alive. She said she did this nine days ago, and then spread the story that the child had been kidnapped from the cradle.

"I put the baby in the stove and burned it. I'm sorry now, but I did it when the feeling came over me," she said.

SHUSTER CLAIMS IT WAS SIMPLY SPITE

Southampton, Feb: 14.—W. Morgan Shuster, who was shown the despatch from St. Petersburg about the detention of his associates in Persia while he was waiting here for the North German Lloyd steamer George Washington, on board of which he is proceeding to New York, said: "I know nothing of this matter, but presume that it is a continuation of the campaign of the Belgian officials to foster Mr. Mornard's candidacy for the Treasurer-Generalship of Persia by currying favor with the British Government and by attacking the Americans. My accounts were balanced to a cent with the Imperial Bank of Persia when I left on Jan. 11. I regard the charges as absurd on their face and purely political."

I love at midnight's holy hour
When I am snug in bed,
To rise, step on a tack and freeze
My shanks and bump my head.
And when I've won the telephone
Learn with a sharp intake
Of breath, that central gave my wire
To someone by mistake.

LINDSAY LITTLE ONES NARROW ESCAPE FROM VERY SAD DEATH

This morning, Ursula Bell, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bell, fire hall, had a narrow escape from burning to death. She was in the room at the time the dress caught fire on the fire when the sleeve of her kimona caught fire. The little girl ran from the room. Mr. Bell, who was in the room at the time, caught her in the hall. He put the fire out in a few minutes. The dress was burned, and her hair scorched a little. The only burn she received was behind one ear. Mr. Bell's hands were burned. It is fortunate that Mr. Bell was right there, else the consequences might have been serious.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY

Splendid Financial Results During Past Year Attained by Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

Strong among the prominent Canadian financial institutions is the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, a report of whose thirteenth annual meeting appears in this issue. The meeting was held at the company's new head office at the corner of Bay and Melinda streets, Toronto. There was a good gathering of shareholders in attendance. Those present were unanimous in approving of the splendid work done by the directorate in charge. Not only the shareholders, but the clients of a trust company sedire to keep in touch with the volume of business done by the company and the class of work transacted to intelligently ascertain its possibilities and earning capacity. These important details were fully explained by the report presented by the directors The President's comments and those of the Managing Director were most explicit and thoroughly satisfied all present. That both the clients and shareholders have been, in every respect thoroughly safeguarded is beyond dispute. As the years roll by the business of The Toronto General Trusts Co., shows a steady and healthy increase. The net profits for the year amounted to $198,393.42, being an increase of $20,318.41 over last year. The assets under the control of the corporation amount to $45,066,659.99. Mr. Featherston Osler, K.C., re-elected president and Mr. J. W. Langmuir, Managing Director, two of Canada's ablest financiers have reason for congratulation over the past successful financial year.

THE BIG DREADNOUGHT LION HAS FAR TOO MUCH POWER

London, Feb. 14.—It transpires that the trouble with the new Dreadnought Lion, necessitating extensive alterations in the engine and boiler rooms, is the development of abnormal heat by her powerful engines. In other words, she develops too much power.

Similar alterations are being contemplated in the other battleships of the same class which have been found to show the same trouble to a lesser degree. Many naval constructors, according to the Morning Post, believe that the developments at the Lion's trials confirm Sir William White's opinion that the size limit of vessels has been nearly reached.

NO PREFERENCE DESIRED

Mr. T. T. Milburn Opposed to Australian Reciprocity.

February, 8, 1912.

J. H. Burnham, M.P.,

Dear Sir,—In regard to the proposed preference and reciprocity with Australia, I think that the farmers of Canada would be better off the way it is now than to run the risk of having the cheaper produced beef and dairy produce in competition with our own.

T. T. MILBURN,
R. R. 4, Peterborough.

WELL KNOWN LOCAL CITIZEN DROPPED DEAD AT HOME

Terribly Sudden Death of Mr. John Haggart Peterborough's Oldest Auctioneer, on Brock Street

One of the oldest and best known local citizens, in the person of Mr. John Haggart, dropped dead about 9 o'clock last night in the kitchen of his residence, at 167 Brock street. The late Mr. Haggart has not been in robust health for some time. For some months he had complained of a pain in the region of his heart. Still no such fatality was anticipated. Yesterday afternoon he and Mr. James Middleton, as clerk, attended a sale in the township of Smith, at the farm of Mr. W. G. Johnston. Mr. Haggart was born in this city on the site where the store of Messrs R. Fair & Co. is located, 66 years ago. The deceased leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and an adopted daughter. The funeral arrangements are not yet definitely settled, but will be published in to-morrow's issue.

Through the Rockies.

Mr. Geo. Brewster, of Banff, a member of the firm Brewster & Moore, in speaking of Jasper Park, that is being opened up by the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific through the Canadian Rockies, stated that it will excel any of the Canadian Parks as a pleasure playground.

Mr. Brewster has been through the District, and says it is exceptionally well stocked with wild game of all kinds; also that it is a splendid country for mountain sheep, as well as moose, deer, bear and mountain goat.

The mountains in Jasper Park are higher than in any other Canadian territory, and as soon as the Grand Trunk erect the hotels that they propose, and the Government get proper trails throughout the territory it will become more popular than any of the mountain resorts on the Continent.

The temperance orator was waxing eloquent:

"What?" he demanded. "What causes more misery than liquor?"

"Thirst," responded a husky voice from the rear of the hall.

BARBERRIES CONDEMNED

Ontario Government Rules That the Pretty Shrubs Must be Destroyed.

Bill No. 103 of 1912 of the Ontario Government very strongly forbids the growing, selling or cultivation of the Barberry Shrub. Every person who plants, cultivates, or sells the shrub known as the Barberry shrub, shall incur a penalty not exceeding $10. The council of any municipality may order the owner or occupant of any land on which any hedge or fence formed by such shrub or any plant of such shrub is growing, to remove and destroy the same, and upon his neglect or refusal so to do within one month after the service of notice in writing requiring such removal and destruction, the council may cause the same to be removed and destroyed, and in such case he shall be entitled to compensation for such removal and destruction. If within thirty days after receiving notice, the owner or occupant removes and destroys such shrub, he shall be entitled to compensation for the value of the plant and the cost of removal. As many of these ornamental shrubs are to be seen in the gardens of Peterborough, this notice may save the owners thereof trouble in the immediate future.

C. W. MORSE GONE TO REGAIN HEALTH

New York, Feb. 14.—C. W. Morse, the ex-convict banker, who, with his wife and a trained nurse, went aboard the liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria last night preparatory for a departure for Mediterranean ports believes that the sunshine of the Riviera and the waters of the Bad Nauheim will return him to this country in improved health.

His physician said that while Mr. Morse was suffering from Bright's disease and a heart disorder he showed much improvement since his return to this city.

DAMAGED BY FIRE

Guelph, Feb. 13.—Fire was discovered in the third floor of the biological building at the Ontario Agricultural College at noon to-day. Two alarms were turned in and both college and city fire departments responded. Considerable damage was done, as there were valuable specimens in the building.

The fire started in the lecture room between the platform and the wall and proved very difficult to get at. Much damage was done by water and smoke. The wax work which is very valuable, was just removed by the students in time. The cause of the fire is thought to have been short circuiting of wires.

Fireman Lamaan fell during the progress of the fire and fractured his skull.

HOCKEY

Midland Defeated Local Intermediates 4—1 Last Night Before a Record Crowd.

Last night, before a crowd of hockey fans that packed Brock street rink to its capacity, Midland intermediates defeated the local seven by a score of 4—1. The half time score was 1—0 in favor of Midland.

The game was fast throughout, featured by close checking. The locals were unable to get away with much combination. Midland checking back very close. Giroux and Glover were the best for the homesters. Glover and Kelly combined in the second half and Coughlin scored on the rebound.

Midland wins the round by 11 goals and play Mount Forest a sudden death game in Toronto.

Following are the teams:

Peterboro		Midland
Derocher	Goal	Cook
Nicholls	Point	Glover
Gould	Cover	Bearss
Lavigne	Rover	Giroux
Chase	Centre	Parks
P. Beatty	L. Wing	Kelly
W. Beatty	R Wing	Coughlin

Referee—H. Sproule.

"My wife made me what I am!"
"Have you forgiven her yet?"

JUMPED INTO THE SEA AND SAVED HER GIRL COMPANION

Honolulu, Feb. 14.—The Nippon Maru, of the Oriental Steamship Co. orrived here after having a narrow escape from disaster, when the coal [illegible] The liner listed to starboard, and wallowed in the trough of the sea for a long period, terrifying the passengers.

Miss M. Page, a Berkeley girl, who was standing on the upper deck with a ship acquaintance, was hurled into the sea while the boat wallowed among the waves. She would have been drowned but for the brave action of her companion, Miss Ruth [illegible] after Regan threw off her coat and followed the California girl into the water, and being an excellent swimmer held her up until a boat from the Nippon Maru picked them both up.

JUDGMENT AGAIN DELAYED IN FAMOUS HEBERT CASE

Montreal, Feb. 14.—To-day, according to rumor, was to have seen the delivery if the judgment in the Hebert case, but, though a crowd of reporters were on the job in Judge Charbonneau's court, nothing transpired.

The judge was boxed up in his office all morning, and declined to give any answers to the messages sent in to him inviting him to state when the finding might be expected.

It is understood, however, that he is finishing up the judgment, and that unless he is compelled to drop it and take cases, its delivery cannot be delayed longer than the end of the week or the beginning of next week.

FAILURE OF FARMERS BANK TO BE Probed

Sir William Meredith has been appointed Commissioner to investigate the collapse of the Farmers Bank. Word has been received by him to this effect from Ottawa, the Commission having been issued by the Minister of Finance. When interviewed as to the nature and scope of the inquiry Sir William was not ready to say what the inquiry would include. He is awaiting further word from Ottawa.

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBORO MAN

The many friends of Mr. George A. Simpson, who was born in this city, will regret to learn of his demise in Lindsay last Monday. The late Mr. Simpson, a brother of Mr. W. H. Simpson of Lindsay, left here with his father, the late Mr. John Simpson for Bobcaygeon, where his mother died. He and his brother, W. H. five years later moved to Lindsay. The deceased resided for twenty-three years in Lindsay. He was well and favorably known among the travelling public. He leaves to mourn his loss, his devoted wife, and one son John, of the D.N.R. offices, Toronto; two brothers, W. H., of town and J. B. of Vancouver, B.C., and a sister Mrs. E. H. Dunham, of Montreal, who has been here for the last two months, during his illness. The funeral was held yesterday in Lindsay.

Many a good cook will tell you that she could not be sure of the light, flaky biscuits, cake and pastry that she makes, without using

Cleveland's SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Made from a Superior grade of pure Grape Cream of Tartar.

Makes Light, Flaky Biscuits, Cake and Pastry

PURITY STRENGTH PERFECTION

After running the gauntlet of the railway, taxi, and other labor troubles John Bull is now threatened with another miner's strike.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a New And Complete Change of Program Every Day

4,000 feet of the best film available is shown daily.

Special attention given to Ladies and Children.

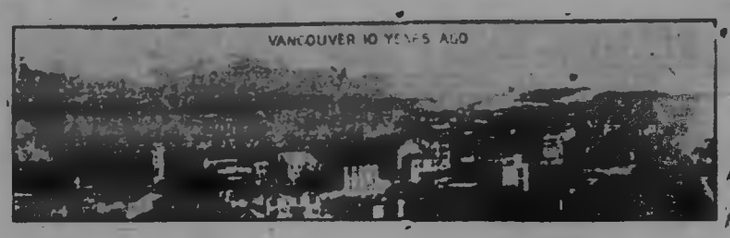
Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security



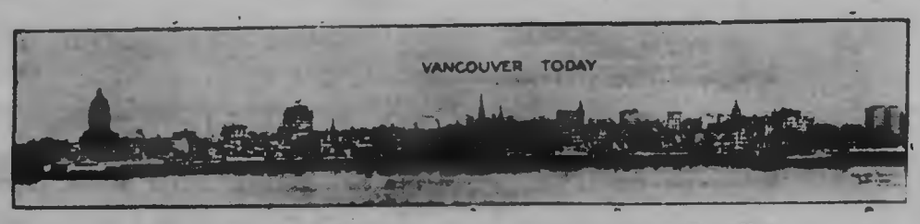
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,090,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan—$10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares. Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 50x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Torrens Title Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

THE PRIMROSE LEAGUE

The Story of the Founding of the Famous British League. — The Primrose Was Beaconsfield's Favourite Flower.

It was really a chance remark which led to the founding of the Primrose League — that remarkable political organization which to-day has over 1,500,000 members.

When, on April 19th, 1883 — the second anniversary of Lord Beaconsfield's death — his statue was unveiled in Parliament Square, Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, arriving at the Commons late in the afternoon, was given a primrose by Mr. Cove, superintendent of the members' cloakroom. When Sir Henry entered the Chamber he found the whole Conservative party similarly decorated with Lord Beaconsfield's favourite flower. The fact impressed him so much that as he walked home with Lord Randolph Churchill he remarked: "What a show of primrose! This should be turned to account. Why not start a Primrose League?"

Lord Randolph was instantly interested. "Draw up a plan," he said, "to carry out your idea, and we will see what can be done."

Ultimately Lord Randolph and Sir Henry were joined by Sir John Gorst and Sir Alfred Shade and in due course these four gentlemen founded the League, and constituted themselves the ruling council.

It was originally intended to admit men only, banded in companies of about a hundred, to act as missionaries of the League. Ultimately, however, it was decided to admit ladies, with the result that the membership rose from 957 in 1884 to 237,283 in 1886. Not long ago it was reported that the total membership had touched 1,700,000.

It has, of course, been said that the primrose was not Lord Beaconsfield's favourite flower, and that when Queen Victoria sent a wreath of primroses to Lord Beaconsfield's funeral and wrote on it, "His favourite flower," the allusion was to the Prince Consort — not to the dead statesman. Mr. Reginald Lucas, however, in "Lord Glenesk and the 'Morning Post,'" says that one who knew Lord Beaconsfield well declares that he habitualy wore a single primrose in his button hole when he was at Hughenden in the early spring; while another more intimate friend can speak of having seen an abundance of primrose in Beaconsfield's house in Curzon Street that had been gathered on the slopes of Windsor Castle.

THE MEAN MAN

"Talking about meanness," said an old son of the soil, who nursed a pint of ale in a chair by the fire, "you should ha' known old Ruby what used to keep a farm out Goswell way.

"Why, sir, he was so mean that he once sent his son out with a tin bucket to milk a cow. Somehow or other, both the lad and the bucket disappeared mysteriously.

"No more was heard of him till he wandered back home ten years after, as rich as a millionaire, and loaded the old man up with gold and diamond pins and new clothes, and gave him five thousand dollars as a birthday present.

"And d'ye think old Ruby was grateful? No'er a bit!

"'George,' says he 'wot 'ave yer done with the bucket?'

"And George left home again, wondering whether his dad was the meanest man in the world or whether that distinction was still held by the fellow who used a wart on the back of his neck for a collar-stud."

PURE ENGLISH

"My dear, I wish you would speak more carefully," said a stickler for pure English to his wife. "You say that 'Henry Jones came to this town from Sunderland.' Don't you see that it would be better to say that he 'came from Sunderland to this town'?"

"I don't see any difference in the two expressions," rejoined the lady.

"But there is a difference in the two expressions — a rhetorical difference. You don't hear me make use of such awkward expressions. By the way, I have a letter from your father in my pocket."

"Oh, dear, is my father in your pocket?" inquired the wife. "You mean that you have in your pocket a letter from my father."

"There you go with your little quibbles! You take a delight in harassing me; you are always taking up a thread and representing it as a rope."

"Representing it to be a rope, you mean, dear?"

And then he grinned a sickly grin and wished he had never started the discussion.

RUN DOWN

The council employé had formally applied, in writing, for a holiday — with salary, of course — on the grounds that he was "run down."

"I'm a bit suspicious of this rundownative," remarked the chairman. "It's been very prevalent among the council's employés of late. I propose the applicant be sent for."

"I beg to second that."

The proposition being carried, a messenger went in search of the applicant. Presently there was a scuffling at the door of the council chamber.

"Order there!" commanded the chairman. "Officer, why do you allow that person to try and force his way into the room? Remove him instantly!"

"Beg pardon, sir," said the officer, with a smile, the breadth of which not even his own capacious palm could conceal, "it's the man you sent for — the road foreman wot's run down."

"Oh, well, let him enter, then."

"Beg pardon, sir, 'e can't. 'E's too fat for the door!"

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

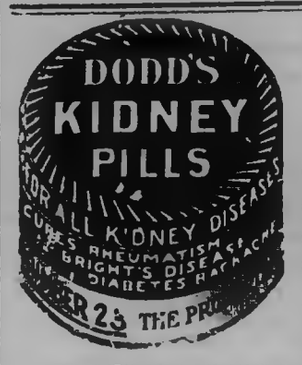
To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.



TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender or Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received, up to noon of the Tuesday following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ered at Sorel.

2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivto be delivered at Sorel.

3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.

4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered ot Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompany the unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq. District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

HIGH PRICE OF LIVING.

A writer in the Albany Journal, going back forty years, recalls the good old times when living was cheap. He remembers that people lived simply then. They wanted plain foods, and plenty of them, at plain prices. There were no trusts then, no combines, no monopolies. And yet those were the days when sugar and oil and coal were dear enough.

Tea was $1 a pound. Coffee was no dearer, but it may have been purer. Meat and poultry were lower. The demand for them was not so great as it is now, and the export trade was not developed. Clothing was cheaper, and it wore longer. The fashions did not change so often. Vegetables were selling pretty much as they are now.

But modern inventions came, and with them a change in the tastes of the people. They did not telephone forty years ago to the stores for all they wanted. There were no fast deliveries. People carried home what they purchased. The laborer went to work at seven o'clock in the morning and quit at six o'clock in the evening. Holidays were scarce. Amusements were few. A picnic or an excursion was the event of the season. Lunch counters and restaurants were missing. Homes were simply furnished. There was less style, and more sense; less extravagance and more money extant. The simple life was the only life because it was necessary and because the people were habituated to it.

How many would like to go back to it in order to reduce the cost of living? "For obviously," says the Albany Journal, "no argument is required to prove to ordinary intelligence that the higher cost of living is mostly due to the difference in the manner of living. Before we do much more complaining about the present cost of living we should give some thought to the question whether the kind of living that most of us enjoy in these times is not cheaper at its price than the living that was the rule forty or fifty years ago was at its cost."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

lead rolling of a derelict in the trough.

There was a confusion and shouting on her deck and Elsa thought that she saw a woman's form. The fog crept round again and blotted out the view of the stranded vessel.

She sculled nearer as quietly as she could. It did not seem that there was any immediate danger, the vessel apparently was not sinking, and as the sea outside was calm, her people would easily make the shore in their boats. She did not wish to be seen, so she waited until they were gone. But meanwhile she must know whether it was possible for her to get out at all.

It was not possible. Under the light air the ship had taken ground slowly, but her weight had carried her well into the opening. There was not room on either side of her for a boat to pass out. Elsa was a prisoner.

She looked up at the name painted on the bows. It was almost dark now, but she could just make out the white letters. She nearly betrayed herself by a cry of dismay. The vessel was the Sea Horse, the circus people's schooner.

She pushed back quickly, but a head appeared over the forward bulwarks, and a woman's voice hailing her told her that she had been seen.

"Boat ahoy! We want help. Bring your boat alongside."

It was Mona de la Mar.

Elsa drew back further into the fog. Her first impulse was to refuse help. Mona shouted again, and Elsa brought her boat alongside.

"Do you need help?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Are you filling?"

"No. I don't think so. But we're hard aground. If it comes on to blow, we shall break up."

"You had better take to your boats."

"We have't any boats, that's why we need yours. Can you come aboard if we let down a ladder?"

"Yes."

A rope ladder was thrown over the side. Elsa fastened the end of it to the painter of her boat, and then, waiting till the pendulum swing of the schooner brought the bulwarks to their lowest point, put her feet in a rung and took a firm hold with her hands. There was an almost motionless second between the down swing and the up, and then she was carried swiftly upwards. At the same time she was pressed hard against the schooner's side, and the cold iron took the skin off her knuckles. It was all she could do to hold on; she could not climb until once more the fall of the roll swung her outwards again. In the [illegible] between the two movements she got her knees [illegible] but it was not until she had been [illegible] that she had been carried above the bulwark level. Then two black arms grasped her and lifted her on the deck, and a soft voice murmured:

"All right, missy; now yo's safe. You very brave lady."

"I don't think you would manage it," said Mona de la Mar, who was standing close by. "Sambo is right. You are a very brave girl. But I don't suppose you need us to tell you that, and time is precious. May we use your boat?"

"Yes, said Elsa.

"I expect you wonder why we haven't our boat of our own. There's a simple explanation, but you can hear it by and by. Meanwhile I daresay you'll trust us. We're honest, you know. We haven't stolen this ship."

Mona laughed as she said this, but Elsa answered gravely:

"You may use my boat if you can get it out."

"Get it out? What do you mean?"

"You will have to get the boat out of the water, and launch it again over the stern. There is only one way into or out of the circle of the Ring Rock, and your schooner is blocking it."

"Is this the Ring Rock?"

"Yes. Didn't you know?"

"Hadn't a notion," said Mona lightly. "I saw it marked on the chart, but I thought we were a good five miles from it. Val B. will say nasty things about my navigation when he hears. I'm his pupil in that subject, you see!"

She laughed softly again, and then with a quick movement, came closer to Elsa, and peered into her face.

"Aren't you Elsa Carrington?" she asked in a low voice.

"Yes."

"Do you know who I am?"

"You are Margaret Ryan."

"I was. I'm Mona de la Mar now. Come down to my cabin. Sambo, you heard what the lady said about the boat. Can you do it?"

"Got to, Missy Mona," said Sambo cheerfully. "Can't stay here till the wind comes. Oh, yes, we'll do it all right."

"Then be quick as you can. Let me know when you've done it. I shall be in my cabin."

She led the way down below, and Elsa followed her.

As she lit a lamp in the pretty little cabin she said with a smile:

"It's a funny meeting between us too, isn't it? I wish I could have shown you over my home under less wobbly conditions, but the circumstances are peculiar. Do you think you can sit on the edge of that bunk without being shot off when she rolls?"

"Why are you here?" said Elsa.

"Why am I here,—I, Mona de la Mar, late Margaret Ryan? Is that what you mean? Or do you mean why is the good ship Sea-Horse piled on the Ring-Rock, and making it necessary for Sambo and the sailors to life your boat out and rescue you from a watery prison? Incidentally, of course, you rescue us from a possible watery grave, which would be even more unpleasant. So we are grateful. But in which sense am I to understand your question? —Me or the Sea-Horse?"

"Both," said Elsa.

Mona laughed again.

"I'm here because—oh, because of a variety of reasons. It's a long story though, and I think you know most of it already. The Sea-Horse is here because I didn't allow enough for drift, and piled her up. There, I've answered your question, haven't I?

"Not in the sense in which I asked it," said Elsa.

"No, I know that. But I shall have to explain at great length to Val B. Montague presently, and explanations are fatiguing. I want to talk about you just now. I want to know you, if I can. Do you wonder why?"

Elsa looked straight at the laughing face of her questioner, and after a brief pause, said coldly:

"No."

"You understand why?" said Mona, ..ddling.

"I don't understand. It is merely that the question does not interest me."

Mona clasped her fingers behind her head, and leaned her back against the heaving wall of the cabin. Her brown eyes showed a sparkle of amusement, and a smile played about her lips. She was a girl who made a habit of taking life with a laugh, and even the fact that she had just piled her employer's ship on a ledge of sharp volcanic rock did not seem to have made a break in the habit. Elsa regarded her with a cold disapproval, but at the same time with a certain admiration. There had been no examination of the extent of the damage. For all that this laughing girl knew to the contrary, the Sea-Horse might in a few minutes slip off the ledge and take her to the bottom.

"I want to talk to you," said Mona—"to learn, if I can, what sort of girl you are; and though you are not interested in my reason, I'm going to give it to you. It is because you are the daughter of the man who robbed me of twenty thousand pounds."

Elsa sprang to her feet with quivering lips.

"That is not true," she said.

"Oh, come! You don't deny the relationship!" said Mona mockingly. "And as for the robbery—"

"My father did not rob you," said Elsa hotly.

"Didn't he? I think the term is accurate. At any rate Richmond Carrington accepted its substantial accuracy as a description of what he had done when I taxed him with it yesterday."

"Yesterday!" cried Elsa. "You saw him yesterday? You admit it?"

"Of course I admit it. Why shouldn't I? I have been very anxious to see him, you know. I knew he was in San Miguel, and I meant to see him; but I didn't count on having the luck to run up against him in the course of the very first bicycle ride I took in the island. However, that was what happened."

"Where did you meet him?" Elsa demanded.

"About a mile from the village of Furnas. I had gone there to see the famous geysers, you know. Romantic diartiet for a defrauded heiress and the defaulting trustee to meet in, wasn't it?"

Elsa decided at once that the girl was lying. Furnas is ten miles from the Caldeira de Morte. The tale was impossible.

"I thought the defaulting trustee was looking very prosperous," Mona went on mockingly. "He has put on flesh since I last saw him. Poor he didn't seem to be as glad to see me as he might have been, considering all that he owes to me. He spoke of you, by the way, and actually had the folly to appeal to what he called my finer feelings, my generous heart, on your behalf. That was a false move which I should not have expected from a man of his proved ability. Do you know, Miss Carrington, that your father is a very plausible impostor?"

Elsa answered her with a glance of contempt.

"I recognize," she said, "that he made a mistake in crediting Margaret Ryan with finer feelings. Will you allow me to return to the deck? You shall have the use of my boat."

"But you would prefer not to have any more of my company than is necessary," said Mona, laughing. "I suppose that's natural. But I've something more to say. Your father made a ridiculous proposition to me. Will you tell him that it is declined, with Margaret Ryan's best love and thanks."

"Let me go!" said Elsa fiercely. "How dare you mock at him like that! You know that he is dead!"

Mona de la Mar started forward with a cry.

"Dead! Do you say he is dead?"

"Do you say that you did not know it?"

"Dead! Your father is dead!" repeated the girl, with a scared face. "Of course I did not know. And I have been saying all these things about it to you! Oh, what a brute you must think me!" She came close to Elsa and tried to put her arm about her, saying softly: "I am so sorry. I would give anything to be able to unsay all I have said in the last few minutes. But I did not know. You believe me, don't you? You don't think I could be so utterly heartless?"

Elsa drew back from her touch.

"I think," she said, coldly, "that you are a finished actress."

Mona shuddered, and her brown eyes were wide with a real distress.

"You don't believe that I am sorry, that I would not have said a word of all this to you if I had known," she cried passionately; and then, as she noted the fixed look of scorn on Elsa's face, she added: "You think that I did know! You think that!"

"I do not believe anything that you have said," was Elsa's answer.

A voice from above shouted down the companion.

"Missy Mona, the boat am launched, and the stars am shining. I tink there is a breeze coming."

CHAPTER XII.

Mona de la Mar Terminates Her Contract

"It is only by the special favor of the elements," said Val B. Montague impressively, "that we have been able to do it. I am told that a whole week without a westerly gale is almost unprecedented at this time of the year."

Mona helped herself to salad. She and Montague were lunching together in the Cafe Marquez de Pombal, the dining-room of which overlooked the port of Ponta Delgada. The Sea-Horse had been brought safely into harbor that morning.

"Is the damage very serious?" she asked.

"Her forefoot is crumpled up," said Montague; "but the diver reports that it will not take more than a fortnight to put her all right again for the sea. Still a delay of a fortnight is somewhat embarrassing, because Val B. Montague's American Circus Combination is billed to appear in Funchall, Madeira, exactly a fortnight from to-morrow. But I don't repine. You understand clearly, I hope, that Val B. Montague does not repine."

"I recognize that you've been a brick," said Mona warmly. "I have very nearly ruined you, and you haven't even scolded me. If the westerly gale had come, and the Sea-Horse had broken up on the Ring Rock and gone to the bottom, it would have meant ruin to you, wouldn't it?"

"Yes," said Montague. "This venture represents my capital and a bit over, and I was fool enough to compromise on insurance. If the Sea-Horse had gone to the bottom, Val B. Montague would have had to begin life over again—from the bottom."

"I am glad that the westerly gale did not come," said Mona.

"So am I, uncommonly glad. But see here—before we go farther, there is one thing I want to straighten out. You think I blame you for what has happened?"

"I don't. I blame myself."

"Then you'll oblige me by taking that saddle off your back and strapping it on to mine. I know well enough who's to blame. In the first place, Val B. Montague, for not knowing enough to sack a sulky half-bred ringmaster, without going out of his way to rile the brute by telling him wholesome and unnecessary truths—in the second place the said ringmaster for stealing the Sea-Horse, kidnapping the lady I am speaking to, and then bolting to a Yankee orange-ship when the luck gave him the chance—in the third place, Val B. Montague again, for being such a downy, unfledged fool as to allow a man who threatened revenge to steal a march on him. There, I've located the blame exactly. The thing stands just so. You're not on in this scene."

"I piled your ship up," said Mona.

"Of course you did! But not till that scoundrel—frightened at the probable consequences of his act of piracy, I dare say—had profited by the chance of having met an orange ship in the fog, and had deserted with my boat to her. He was the only man on board who knew anything about navigation, and he left you to find your way back without him. I'd wring his neck with pleasure, if I could get hold of him; but I think you did very well."

"I might have prevented his taking the Sea-Horse from her moorings at all," said Mona.

"Yes, if you'd shot him or thrown him overboard, I dare say you might," said Montague with a laugh. "Short of that, I don't see how you could."

"Still," Mona insisted, "I might. I haven't told you that when he came aboard and gave the order to heave short, the deck-hands hesitated, and Sambo came and told me what was being done."

Montague gave her a sharp look.

"No," he said quietly. "You haven't told me that. What did you do?"

"Nothing," said Mona.

"Frightened?"

"Not in the least. I was in a bad temper."

"And wanted a short cruise to put you right again?"

"I thought you needed a lesson, and that a scare would do you good; and I thought that when the lesson had gone far enough, Sambo and the others would obey me and bring the schooner back. I got more than I bargained for myself in the educational line, but I went into the experiment with my eyes open."

"So?" said Montague, and was silent.

Mona waited for a minute.

"Suppose we [illegible] some truths," she said presently. "Tell me what you think of me. I'll take it [illegible] well, because I deserve it."

Val B. Montague looked up with a smile.

"Very well," he said. "I'll start in straight! I'll tell you that so far from blaming you for your fit of temper, Val B. Montague has the sense to see that he is to blame there too. I was rude to you in the morning, and it served me properly to be taught a lesson. Verney gave me some straight talk about that, the impudent scoundrel! But of course he was right, and so were you. Shall we cry quits, cut the loss, and start afresh?"

He held out his hand and the girl took it.

"You're a good sort, Val," she said.

"I'm a Yankee circus man with an uncommonly hot temper," said Montague, laughing. "But I once put in a year or two in a Boston academy where they charged extra for manners, and if I do sometimes so far forget myself, under provocation, as to be rude to a lady, I flatter myself I know what's the right thing to do afterwards. Is it peace?"

"Of course it's peace," said Mona with a smile. "Now tell me what you reckon that your loss will amount to."

Val B. Montague followed her lead with alacrity. He had apologized handsomely, but it did not amuse him to labor the apology more than was necessary.

"Counting repairs, loss of profits on performances, wages to the members of the Combination during enforced idleness—say five hundred pounds. Not so bad as it might have been!"

"Is the Sea-Horse entirely uninsured?"

"Lord, no! I'm a fool, but not quite a madman. She's insured up to about half her value. I daresay I shall get a hundred out of the Companies. Then there's the advertisement. That should be worth a lot."

"What advertisement?"

Montague looked pained.

"I'm disappointed in you," he said. "You've been with me for two years, and you've had the opportunity of studying my business methods, and yet you fail to see that your adventure in the Sea-Horse will give a chance for a bit of real good advertising. Trust me to know how to use it. I've written up the tale of your heroism in my best style, and the newspapers of every place we perform at will print it as a sensation from real life. The populace will flock to the circus just to see you, and we shall turn money away. You'll see!"

Mona smiled doubtfully.

"Suppose we leave that out of the calculation," she said. "You put your gross loss at five hundred, net four hundred, if the insurance people pay according to your estimate. Then if I were to give you a cheque for £450, there would be a margin?"

"Oh, yes."

"Then I shall write my cheque for that amount."

Montague burst out laughing.

"And I shall cash it—where?" he asked. "At the Bank of Friendship, eh? Excellent! But my dear young lady, I don't know in what city of the prosaic world the paying counter of that bank is to be found."

"Try Lloyd's, in London," said Mona quietly. "If you send my cheque through to them, I think you will find that it will be honored."

Montague stared at her. She did not seem to be joking.

"I can't figure this out," he said in bewilderment. "Come into a fortune suddenly?"

"Something like [illegible]

(To be Continued)

DUSTBANE THE DUST KILLER

A handful in a litre

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in 1 lb., ½ lb. & ¼ lbs. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs. For sale by, Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO
Three trains daily.
Excellent service.
Making connection at Detroit for
FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—
W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.
F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

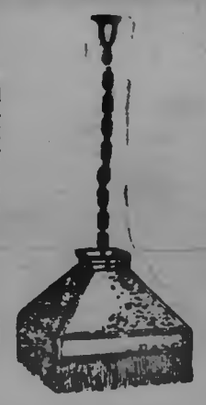
British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.



Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 $8.00

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.
PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,
14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 623

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO. Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market
The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY
MAJESTIC SIZE
VICTORIOUS PRICE
POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd.
QUEBEC.

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and S. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY
Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—
CORSICAN,
Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.
HESPERIAN,
Saturday, Feb. 24.
TUNISIAN,
Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.
GRAMPIAN,
Saturday, March 9th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.
Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.
Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.
Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.
Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.
Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.
Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.
Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.
Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY,
C.P.A. Can. Pas. Ry.

S. A. ROSS,
C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,500,549.00

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:
437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

THE "MILK-O" MUSEUM

Wonderful Collection of Photos Gathered by Parisian Schoolmaster

Future generations of English people will find much to interest them in the wonderful collection of photographs gathered by Sir Benjamin Stone.

Armed with a recording gramophone, this Parisian citizen, who is a schoolmaster by profession, spends his leisure hours lying in wait for street-criers. When he hears the French equivalent for "Milk-O!" or the coal-man's call, he promptly pounces on them, and gets them to shout into his instrument. Already he has collected the calls of the bird-seed seller, the vegetable carrier, the fish wife, the basket-maker, the old-clothes man, the window-mender, the flower-man, and the man who undertakes to repair all kinds of broken crockery.

In this way he means to prepare a complete museum of speech, which will be left eventually to some public institution for the instruction of the generations to come.

FOR READY REFERENCE

An Explanation of Certain Old-Time Biblical Words

Here is a handy table furnished by The Christian World which it would be well to cut out and paste in your Bible for ready reference:

A day's journey was about twenty-three and one-fifth miles.

A Sabbath day's journey was about an English mile.

A cubit was [illegible] inches.

A hand's breadth was equal to four, and five-eighths inches.

A finger's-breadth was equal to one inch.

A shekel of silver was about fifty cents.

A shekel of gold was $8.

A talent of silver was $523.30.

A talent of gold was $3,809.

A piece of silver, or a penny, was thirteen cents.

A farthing was three cents.

A mite was less than a quarter of a cent.

A gerah was one cent.

An ephah or bath, contained seven gallons and five pints.

A firkin was about eight and seven-eighths gallons.

A bin was one gallon and two pints.

An omer was six pints.

A cab was three pints.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG

Expect a good, long, useful life.

Hold your thoughts persistently.

Keep in the sunlight; nothing beautiful or sweet ripens in the darkness.

Simply refuse to grow old by counting your years or anticipating old age.

Refrain from all kinds of stimulants and sedatives; they will shorten your life.

One of the best preventives of old age is enthusiasm and interest in affairs of the day.

Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression: it is the greatest enemy of the human race.

Nature is the great rejuvenator; her spirit is ever young. Live with her; study her; love her.

Contemplate beauty in all its forms, and you will drive everything that is ugly out of your life.

Avoid excesses of all kinds: they are injurious. The long life must be a temperate, regular life.

SURPRISE FOR THE HOME

J. H. Maddy, of the Erie Railroad, was born in Muncie, Indiana. He had two cousins who lived on a farm outside the city.

"One fall," said Maddy, "the boys had been working very hard and their father told them they might take a load of apples to town, sell them and keep the money.

"The boys, on reaching town, stood around for a time, and finally sold the apples. Then they wandered in and out of the stores for two or three hours trying to find something to buy to take back home—finally they bought half a bushel of apples.—Saturday Evening Post.

PAID FOR THE SUPPER

Three men had been out on a spree, and on the way home at night they made a compact that the one who did not do as his wife told him should pay for a champagne supper the following night.

The first one returned home, and his wife greeted him thus:

"Hello, you beauty! That's right, knock all the ornaments off the mantel-piece!"

And he knocked them all off.

The second returned, and on going into his house fell against the piano; whereupon his wife said:

"Go on! Get the axe and smash it up!"

He did so.

The third returned, and on going upstairs his wife said:

"You miserable scamp! Now fall downstairs and break your neck!"

"No fear," he said. "I'll pay for the supper."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Toronto General Trusts Corporation

Report of the Proceedings of the Thirtieth Annual General Meeting.

The Thirtieth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was held in the Board Room of the Corporation's new Head Office Building, corner of Bay and Melinda streets, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 7th of February, 1911.

There were present:—Hon Featherston Osler, K.C., John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., John L. Blaikie, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., Sir John M. Gibson, K.C., Thomas Long, Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., D. R. Wilkie, Hon. Robert Jaffray, Samuel Nordheimer, Sir Wm. Mortimer Clark, K.C., Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., Alexander Nairn, John Paton, Emmerson Coatsworth, E. T. Malone, K.C., James Davey, Victor Ross, G. A. Stinson, A. R. Boswell, K.C., W. D. Matthews, F. W. Harcourt, K.C., H. S. Osler, K.C., J. W. Langmuir, J. B. Holden, C. S. MacInnes, K.C., W. R. Couch, Frank W. Maclean, Fred C. Jarvis, Frederick Wyld, J. Bruce Macdonald, G. G. S. Lindsey, J. G. Scott, K.C., C. W. MacLean, R. J. Maclennan, J. Harry Paterson, Joseph A. Thompson, P. Freyseng, George Bell, K.C., J. F. Edgar, Edward Galley, James Hedley, Wm. Ince, G. H. Wood, A. L. Malone, D. A. Dunlap, A. D. Langmuir, W. G. Watson, E. E. Argles, T. J. Maguire, W. N. Lonsdale, C. E. Robin, H. M. Forbes, F. R. Dymond, H. C. Hewetson, J. A. H. Burt, Fred. L. Jarvis, James Lang, George Porter.

The President, the Hon. Featherston Osler, took the chair, and Mr. A. D. Langmuir, the Assistant Manager, acted as Secretary to the meeting.

The financial statements, showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1911, were submitted and commented upon by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir.

The report to the Shareholders was then read, as follows.—

THIRTIETH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION, BEING FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31st DECEMBER, 1911.

To the Shareholders:

Your Board of Directors have pleasure in submitting the Thirtieth Annual Report of the Corporation, together with the statement of Assets and Liabilities, the Profit and Loss Account and other statements showing the operations of the Corporation for the year 1911.

The new Executorships, Administrations, Trusts and Estate work assumed by the Corporation during the year amounted to $7,095,478.65, as follows:—

Executorships	$2,470,785.27
Administrations	1,050,954.69
Trusteeships	654,682.89
Guardianships	31,152.83
General Agencies	1,252,856.28
Investment Agencies	459,462.70
Guaranteed Investments	900,641.11
Lunatic Estates	5,517.82
Committeeships	16,907.56
Miscellaneous	252,498.50
Total	$7,095,478.65

In addition to the foregoing the Corporation became Trustee for bond issues to the amount of $5,920,000, as well as having been appointed to act as Registrar and Transfer Agent, and in other capacities.

The residuum of assets in the hands of the Corporation at the close of the year amounted to $45,065,232.49, as compared with $41,601,297.63 in the preceding year.

The net profits, after payment of the entire cost of management at the Head Office and its Branches, and after making ample provision for losses, amounts to $198,392.42. This amount, together with the balance at credit of Profit and Loss at the end of the preceding year, namely, $52,844.95, enabled your Directors to bring down for distribution the sum of $251,237.37. Out of this amount four quarterly dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum were paid, amounting to $80,000, $100,000 was carried to Reserve Fund, increasing that account to $700,000, and $71,237.37 was brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss.

The Corporation's Safe Deposit and Storage Vaults in the new building are now [illegible] (with the exception of two small areas) has been rented in advance of completion. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupation by 1st April.

All which is respectfully submitted

J. W. LANGMUIR, Managing Director. F. OSLER, President.
Toronto, February 7th, 1912.

PROFIT AND LOSS STATEMENT

For Year Ended 31st December, 1911.

By balance brought forward from 31st December, 1910		$ 52,844.95
By commissions for management of Estates, acting as Trustee for Bond issues, Registrar and Transfer Agent, etc.; interest on Capital and Reserve, Profits on Guaranteed Funds, net rents from Office Buildings and Vaults, etc.	$372,253.76
To management expenses, Directors' and Auditors' fees, salaries, advertising, rent, commission paid Agents for finding loans, etc.	173,861.34
Net profits for the year		$198,392.42
		$251,237.37
Appropriated as follows:—
To Quarterly Dividends Nos. 59, 60, 61 and 62, at the rate of 8 % per annum		$80,000.00
To amount transferred to Reserve Fund		100,000.00
To balance carried forward		71,237.37
		$251,237.37

ASSETS AND LIABILITIES STATEMENT

Year Ended 31st December, 1911.

ASSETS.

Capital Account—
Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 526,096.44
Stocks and Bonds	81,000.00
Loans on Stocks and Bonds	93,551.94
Real Estate—
Office Premises and Safe Deposit Vaults at Toronto and Ottawa	326,000.00
Accrued rents re Offices and Vaults at Toronto and Ottawa	2,789.07
New Head Office Premises, including Building in course of erection, and Land and Building in rear of same	525,132.87
Sundry Assets	432.86
Cash on hand and in Banks	149,890.08
		$ 1,804,591.26
Trust, Guarantee and Agency Accounts—
Mortgages on Real Estate	$17,189,172.85
Government and Municipal Debentures	4,073,092.14
Loan Company Debentures	7,400.00
Stocks and Bonds	546,360.61
Loans on Stocks, Bonds and Debentures	919,031.17
Sundry Assets	310.65
Cash on hand and in Banks	457,314.21
		28,193,671.93
Trust Estates and Agencies—
Unrealized Original Assets, including Real Estate, Mortgages, Debentures, Stocks and Bonds, etc., at Inventory value		20,089,496.80
		$45,086,659.99

LIABILITIES.

Capital Account—
Capital Stock, fully paid	$1,000,000.00
Reserve Fund	700,000.00
Dividend No. 62	20,000.00
Profit and Loss	71,237.37
Interest in Reserve	12,813.39
Sundry Liabilities	540.50
		$ 1,804,591.26
Trust, Guarantee and Agency Accounts—
For investment or distribution	$23,192,571.93
		23,192,571.93
Trust Estates and Agencies—
Inventory value of unrealized Original Assets of Estates and Agencies under administration by the Corporation		20,089,496.80
		$45,086,659.99

AUDITORS' REPORT

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1911, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statements of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined, and find in order, all the mortgages, debentures, bonds and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and we have checked same with the mortgage and debenture ledgers and registers. The bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the reports of the auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, and find that they agree with the head office books.

R. F. SPENCE, F.C.A., "Can." } Auditors.
GEO. MACBETH. }

Toronto, January 29th, 1912.

In moving the adoption of the Report the President, the Hon. Mr. Featherston Osler, K.C., said in part:—

I shall not comment at any length on the report, but shall ask the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, whose remarks are looked forward to from year to year with much interest by the Shareholders, to address you. There are, however, two matters to which I might refer very briefly. In the first place, I am convinced that this Corporation is capable of rendering a larger service to the farming community throughout the Province, who have during the last few years acquired considerable wealth, but owing to the lack of proper facilities for investment have large sums of money earning not more than two and a half to three per cent., which if invested through the Corporation's Guarantee Investment System would produce a guaranteed net return of four and a half per cent. per annum.

The other matter to which I wish to [illegible] work of the Inspection Committee, the report of which will be read by the Hon. Mr. J. J. Foy, K.C., Chairman of the Committee. This report should be of interest to everybody concerned, showing as it does how full and complete is the work done by the Committee in the examination of the loans negotiated or new business assumed by the Corporation, and in ascertaining that the authority of the Board has been received in every instance for the acceptance of such new loans and work, etc. In closing I need only add that I am quite sure that the financial results of the operations of the Corporation for the year will be alike satisfactory to both shareholders and clients of the Corporation. I have much pleasure in calling on the Managing Director to address you.

The Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, said:—

Thirty years ago this week the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was organised, when, at a meeting of the Shareholders, nineteen Directors were appointed. Of these nineteen gentlemen ten are dead, four have resigned, and five only of the charter Directors remain and are with us to-day—namely, the Attorney-General, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C.; Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Senator Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir and J. G. Scott, K.C.

We commenced operations in a small office on Wellington street, with a staff comprised of the Manager and one clerk, who performed the duties of stenographer as well as bookkeeper. To-day our staff at the Head Office and its three Branches numbers seventy-two.

The gradual growth of the Corporation necessitated the purchase and removal to our quarters on the corner of Yonge and Colborne streets (formerly occupied by the Canadian Bank of Commerce), where we have been for twenty-one years, and to-day we meet for the first time—although the building is not quite finished—in our splendid new quarters. I say "splendid," for I think when the building is completed it will be acknowledged to be one of the handsomest structures in Toronto, both in respect to exterior and interior construction. So much for our past history.

Coming now to the operations of the year just closed, I am sure that the Shareholders and clients of the Corporation will find satisfaction in the Thirtieth Annual Report presented to you to-day. The volume of business, as shown by the statement of Assets and Liabilities, in the hands of the Corporation, has reached the sum of $45,086,659.99. This is an increase over the residuum in the hands of the Corporation as at the 31st of December, 1910, of no less a sum than $3,485,362.36. The Corporation during the year assumed new business to the extent of $7,095,478.65, as shown by the Directors' Report, so that the increase in the volume of assets in the hands of the Corporation over the amount under its control as at the 31st December, 1910, represents approximately 50 per cent. of the entire amount of new business taken over during the year. This is a feature of our business which I think is a matter for congratulation, indicating as it does an increasing degree of permanency in connection with the work assumed by the Corporation; in other words, it makes apparent the growing disposition on the part of individuals to provide, either by Will or by Trust Deed, that the Corporation shall invest the proceeds of their Estates and pay the revenue to wife or children, rather than distribute forthwith among the beneficiaries the corpus of such Estates.

The net profits for the year, as shown by the Profit and Loss Statement, are $198,392.42, or an increase over last year of $20,318.41, which, together with the balance brought forward from 1910, makes a total balance for disposition of $251,237.34. Out of this amount your Directors have paid the four quarterly dividends of two per cent., or eight per cent. for the year, amounting to $80,000; transferred to Reserve $100,000, and carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss account the sum of $71,237.37.

The Corporation's Reserve has therefore reached the sum of $700,000, which, with the balance brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss, gives us a total Capital and Surplus of $1,771,237.37.

One of the outstanding features of the Profit and Loss Statement is the small percentage the net profits bear to the volume of business controlled by the Corporation. And I may say that the result cannot be attributed to excessive cost of management, as in this respect, notwithstanding the complex character of a very large percentage of the assets and work of the Corporation, necessitating the employment of a skilled staff, the ratio of expenses to the volume of business in hand for the last year will very favorably compare with the returns of any other financial institution. These deductions should, I think, dispel from the minds of certain persons—and I understand there are some—the idea that the profits made by Trust Companies through the administration of Estates, are more or less excessive; at the same time these figures should be instructive to persons who contemplate the appointment of the Corporation as their Executor or Trustee, or in other fiduciary capacities.

Notwithstanding the comparatively small profits derived from such a great volume of business, the result will, I think, be entirely satisfactory to the Shareholders, especially when it is remembered that during the entire year, and, indeed, for the past two years, a considerable amount of our Capital has been locked up in the construction of our new Head Office building, thus withdrawing for the time being a considerable sum from the field of productive investment.

Referring to the Assets and Liabilities Statement, I should like to point out the large increase in mortgage investments—namely, $2,029,703.30—made by the Corporation for its Trust and Guarantee Accounts during the year. In placing these funds [illegible] investments we can obtain better returns than from any other class of securities in which Trustees are authorized to invest. In this connection I may say that the Corporation in its mortgage investments confines itself strictly to mortgages that come within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act, which does not admit of advancing more than 50 per cent. of the value of the security offered and loaning only on first mortgages on improved real estate.

Although the demand for loans on farm properties in the Province of Ontario has greatly fallen off during the past five years, it is satisfactory to note that choice city loans on centrally located properties have largely increased. At the close of the year we have of our own negotiation (excluding unrealized mortgages taken over with estates) mortgages to the extent of $12,882,614.83 in Ontario; in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta $4,759,546.61, or a total of $17,642,161.44.

The investments in Government and Municipal securities amount at the close of the year to $4,079,047.55, bearing an average rate of 4.42 per cent.

The class of the Ontario city and farm mortgages will be best realized when I state that 97 per cent. of the interest which matured on or before the close of the year has been paid. Owing, however, to the disappointing harvest results extending over a considerable area of western Canada, the interest payments have not been quite so satisfactory, although over 75 per cent. of the interest that had matured on or before the 31st December, 1911, in respect of loans in the Northwest Provinces has been paid.

Speaking of mortgages on real estate leads me to refer to a matter that is at present attracting much thought and attention—namely, speculation in unproductive real estate. A number of Presidents and General Managers of Banks have recently sounded abroad notes of warning, which I am convinced are most opportune. This form of speculation has, with the general expansion of the country, assumed serious proportions, particularly in connection with some of the western cities and towns, and especially the new townsites along the great railway systems through the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. In many of these towns property is being subdivided and sold as building lots that will certainly not, if indeed ever come into the market for building purposes for a great many years. While this is true of the West, it is also true of the city of Toronto suburban property. Farms from one to five miles from the city limits that were under cultivation a few years ago, having a value of not more than $200 per acre, have been recently sold at fabulous prices, and are now offered to the public in building lots on a foot frontage basis. It is quite true that Toronto is increasing its population in the neighborhood of thirty thousand per annum, making it necessary to provide several thousand homes every year; at the same time it must be remembered that between these outlying subdivisions and the city there is still an enormous amount of vacant land to be built upon. While it is important that Banks should give warning against this form of speculation, it is perhaps even more incumbent upon Trust Companies to endeavor as far as possible to maintain true land values, since so large a percentage of their investments are confined to mortgages on real estate.

The desire to "get rich quick" is finding expression also in stock flotations in respect of a number of industrial and other companies that are greatly over-capitalized, a very large percentage of the stock being water, as the actual assets or earning power of some of these companies would not at all warrant any such stock issues as are offered to the public. The fact that such companies as I speak of can be floated at all is one of the results of the phenomenal development in Canada during the last dozen years or more, and while it may be difficult for the Governments to altogether control such flotations in order that the public may be protected, yet no doubt something more could be done by a more careful investigation into the facts before charters are issued.

On the other hand, there has existed, and will continue to exist in this country for many years to come, a great field for properly organized and well-managed companies in the several departments of industrial and financial enterprise, as the future of Canada is undoubtedly assured. This very fact places, if possible, a greater responsibility upon the Banks and Trust and Loan Companies, who control so largely the financial affairs of the country, to as far as possible see that the foundations of our new industrial enterprises are well laid, to the end that our Canadian business affairs shall be of a stable and permanent character.

Some time ago I held the view very strongly that the Trustee Investment Act, confined as it was to investments in first mortgages on real estate, Government and Municipal Debentures, and high class securities of this character, was not sufficiently broad, and that it might very well be extended to other investments on a well-defined basis. I must say that, with the conditions now existing in Canada, I think it wise—for the present, at any rate—to confine the investments of Trust Funds to their present limitations.

It is a matter of regret, both to the Board of Directors and the Officials of the Corporation, that we were not comfortably settled in our new quarters on the 1st October last, as promised, instead of having a mere temporary occupation to-day. The vexatious delays which seem to attach to all large building contracts in Toronto has caused not only discomfort, but considerable loss of rents to the Corporation. The Shareholders, however, will be able to see for themselves that the building is now almost completed. Practically the whole of the building has been rented in advance of completion, and not a few tenants are already in possession.

With respect to the Safe Deposit and Storage Vaults of the Corporation in connection with its new Head Office building, to which brief reference is made in the Report, I have to say that these vaults have been practically completed, and will be ready for occupation in a few weeks. I can assure the clients of our Safe Deposit Department in our old building, as well as prospective renters, that in the construction of our new vaults the greatest possible care and skill has been exercised, with a view to providing absolute security from fire, burglary, water or even the collapse of the building, if such a contingency were possible. We are advised by authorities competent to give an opinion in such matters that we have in this respect, not only the finest equipment in Canada, but up to the highest standard in the United States. The wisdom of persons or companies in placing records and valuable papers, as well as securities, in a properly constructed vault has been clearly demonstrated in connection with the recent total destruction by fire of the Equitable Life building in New York, when securities and papers representing many millions of dollars were saved through being stored in the safe deposit vaults in the building. We are looking for a large increase in connection with our Safe Deposit and Storage business during the next few years. Literature giving details and particulars with regard to our building and vault construction will be forwarded to you about the time the Corporation takes possession of these premises.

I have much pleasure in recording my high appreciation of the services rendered by the Advisory Boards at Ottawa and Winnipeg, and also by the staff of the Corporation both at the Head Office and its Branches.

The Report was unanimously adopted.

The Report of the Inspection Committee as signed by the Hon. J. J. Foy, Sir Aemilius Irving and Mr. Frederick Wyld was adopted.

The following Shareholders were elected Directors for the ensuing year: W. H. Beatty, W. R. Brock, John L. Blaikie, Hamilton Cassels, K.C., Sir Wm. Mortimer Clark, K.C., Hon. W. C. Edwards, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., Sir John M. Gibson, K.C., A. C. Hardy, John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Hon. Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir, Thomas Long, W. D. Matthews, Hon. Peter McLaren, J. Bruce Macdonald, Hon. Sir Daniel McMillan, K.C.M.G., Samuel Nordheimer, Sir Edmund Osler, M.P., Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., J. G. Scott, K.C., Sir Edmund Walker, D. R. Wilkie, Frederick Wyld.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., was re-elected President, and W. H. Beatty and Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., Vice-Presidents.

The Inspection Committee was re-elected, namely Hon. J. J. Foy (Chairman), Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., and Frederick Wyld.

The following members were elected to the Advisory Boards of Ottawa and Winnipeg:—

OTTAWA—W. D. Hogg, K.C. (Chairman), Sir Henry N. Bate, George Burn, Capt. J. L. Murphy and Hiram Robinson.

WINNIPEG—Hon. Sir D. H. McMillan, K.C.M.G. (Chairman), Hon. D. C. Cameron, W. H. Cross, A. L. Crossin and H. H. Smith.

THE MORNING TIMES

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1912.

ULSTER AND HOME RULE.

No better evidence of the good sound common sense of the people of Ulster could have been given than was presented recently when Right Hon. Winston Churchill, in Belfast, delivered his long-heralded speech on Home Rule, and was not only not disturbed efcept by a few individuals who clearly acted on their own responsibility, but was even given a most respectful and orderly hearing. Not only is this evidence of Ulster's common sense, but it is striking evidence that the self-contained men of Ulster are as capable as any in the land of governing their passions as well as themselves—evidence, therefore, that Ulster has good grounds in the quality of the men that go to make it up in asking for a separate government of its own in the event that Home Rule is granted to Ireland; evidence, too, that though Ulster does not believe in Home Rule it does believe in freedom of speech.

Yet while all this is so it can not be denied that a certain amount of provocation was given the men of Ulster which might very well have been avoided.

THE SALVING OF THE ARGIL

An Adventure in Mid-Ocean

By Ernest M. Robinson.

Captain Porters took the socks and mits the mate was drying for himself at the galley fire, and swung himself up on to the bridge.

"Sandy makes himself a deal too comfy," he grunted, as the bitter nor'easter tore at his beard and tried to stuff the collar of his oilskin through his teeth. "He's a good mate, but he takes life a deal too easy. Socks and mits—why, he's a regular [illegible] master, Hull!"

The little Stormbird—for [illegible] Porters referred to with pride as "my ship," though she was nothing more nor less than a tug—a Mersey tug—was five days out from Liverpool, bucketing at large through a snorting Atlantic gale that had clothed her, from the wind-vane on her stubby polemast to the glass of the engine-room skylight, in a sheet of ice.

Captain Porters hummed a song. It mattered not to him that his crew were nearly in a state of mutiny, and that his mate openly abetted them. He had great plans in his close-cropped head. He and his men would return from that trip rich—despite the fact that they had no tow in sight.

"Me and the chief," said Captain Porters, abolishing grammar and all doubters with one magnificent sweep of his hand, "me and the chief are going to make you fools rich."

The plan was a very simple one. It merely consisted in running out into the Atlantic when the winter drifts brought down the Arctic icebergs across the liner-tracks, and waiting about on the off chance that some huge mail-boat, making her fifteen or eighteen miles an hour through thick or thin, would pile herself on a berg, and need the tender mercies of the Snowbird—to bring her safely to port. At the moment, when Captain Porters took his mate's mits the first white mass of an unwieldy berg had been sighted.

The hours that had followed before the short winter day ended were filled with many and varied exertions. Driven by the gale, the ice bore down on the little wave-swept tug with alarming swiftness. As Captain Porters put it, laughing till the icicles rattled in his beard, "Those spiky brutes are coming down on us kerflop, like the chap in the pome who wolfed the fold."

The mate glowered at him. "You'll laugh the other side of your silly face when we're all drowned," he muttered.

The captain paid no attention to this mutinous speech. He recognised the danger more keenly than any of his men; but he dared not show it.

"Now then, you skulkers," he called to the tiny knot of men gathered forward ominously watching the towering pinacles that were rapidly blotted out by the night and a rolling, swelling fog. "tumble up there. I want two of you in the chains with your weather eyes skinned!"

The mate eyed him expectantly, turning every now and again to the engine-room telegraph, which he handled fondly. All round the tiny tug the air roared with the indescribable noise of a thousand bergs. Presently his terror gave him tongue.

"Shall I ring half-speed?" he jerked out. The skipper gazed at him blandly.

"Sandy, you think too much o' that body o' yours," he grinned. Then he laid a firm hand on the mate's arm. "You think old Porters is a fool, don't you, my lad? Well, I'm not saying you're not right, but listen."

Through the roar of the gale and the thunder of the bergs Sandy heard a dull bellowing as of a sick cow.

"You're a liner askin' help!" he gasped.

Captain Porters beamed. "Precisely so," he said, in his best shore-going manner. "That's our fortune. It's a good half-mile away. I want to get to it before Davy Jones."

As he spoke the Stormbird struck on an iceberg.

Two men rushed with yells and curses towards the dinghy on the shocks at the stern. Before they reached the prostrate skipper he had whipped out a revolver and held them breathlessly still.

"The first man that comes a step further aft, I blow his brains out," he said. "Sandy, go and see if she's filling. Where's the chief?"

The Chief Engineer—coxswain, with Porters of the Stormbird—appeared, followed by the three stokers.

"Man, he cried, "she's ripped the bottom out of her. She'd hanging on by a tooth of ice. If we don't get off quick, we're all dead men."

"Hold your jaw, chief," said the skipper, tersely. "Get the dinghy over, some of you. Put some food and water into her, and anything you can think of. Chief, get Sandy to help you lower me when the dinghy's out; I've broken my leg."

The dinghy was got out in record time, though not in Navy fashion, and Sandy was lowered into her. Directed by the chief, the men pulled in the dark round the berg until they found a safe landing place.

Who shall describe the three days that followed? Days of fog and nights of cold so bitter that the chief broke down and cried. Days and nights enlivened only by the delirious ravings of the skipper.

On the morning of the third day Captain Porters awakened at the dawning with a brain as clear and free from trouble as the sky. The fog had gone from the sea and his mind in the night.

Around him on the ice slept his crew, said, not a hundred yards away, there floated a huge freighter, with no signs of life about her, and her bows stove in like a closed-up concertina.

Captain Porters rubbed his eyes. Then with amazement he remembered the incident of the piling up of the Stormbird. But that did not explain this obviously derelict and doubtless richly loaded freight ship. He reached out and shook Sandy.

"Help me to the dinghy," he said. "Your leg's broke."

"I know," hissed the skipper fiercely; "help me, or I'll brain you."

Quickly Sandy arose, and lifted the skipper bit a groan in two.

"Are you right?" asked Sandy, and the skipper nodded. He did not trust his lips. Stepping cautiously as a cat over the ice, Sandy carried him to the dinghy and sat him in the stern.

"Row me to that steamer," commanded the skipper. "Our fortune! Put you back into it!"

A gangway had been left down by the departing crew, and Captain Porters insisted on being helped up, though the agony of the effort forced great beads of sweat from his brow. He fainted as he reached the deck.

Captain Porters came to himself to find the chief dancing amidst findings on the deck in front of him, murmuring. "Beyond the dreams o' avarice Porters, ye're a marvel. Ye said ye'd bring us a fortune, and ye've done it." [illegible] quired the skipper, instantly taking charge of the situation from his prostrate place upon the deck.

"First class," was the answer, "she'll steam fine. There's not a drop of water behind her second collision bulkhead, though her nose, is all chawed off by the ice."

"Right-o! Whack her up; you men! We'll take our fortune into N'York."

Though the crew of the Stormbird was exactly nine, if you count the boy as one, the magnitude of the task of navigating the ten thousand ton Argil did not appeal to them.

The ice drifted away from them by that time, but their troubles were by no means at an end, for a terrific blizzard set up. The chief commanded all hands, save the skipper and Sandy, for the stokehold, and since someone had to keep a look out forward, the skipper had a chair lashed to the bridge and made them fasten him in it, broken leg and all, and there he sat and steered.

His leg had been set, under his own directions, by the chief, and this and its splints had separate lashings.

Not a man on the rescued Argil slept in his bunk during the one hundred and twenty hours of that terrific fight for gold. In the stokehold men dropped as they shovelled coal, only to be kicked aside by more wakeful comrades and awakened some minutes later to take another trick. The skipper and the chief slept not at all.

When the New York pilot came aboard, he found a wild-eyed man at the wheel, who, in response to his urgent inquiries, persisted in singing:

"All I want is a thousand million sovereigns,
A champagne fountain sparkling at my feet,
Mr. Pierpont Morgan a-waiting at the table,
And Sousa's band a-playing while I eat."

He got no more satisfaction from the red-headed mate who said he had been look-out for seventy-nine years and threatened to kill anyone who "spoke to the man at the wheel."

Below were black devils who wrestled with furnaces which they said were their private Tophet, in which they would presently sleep.

Altogether it was a merry Argil he took past Sandy Hook, and docked greatly to the surprise of certain officers and men who had deserted a sinking Argil in mid-ocean.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man as I know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY

We treat and cure VARICOSE VEINS, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD AND URINARY COMPLAINTS, KIDNEY AND BLADDER DISEASES and all Diseases peculiar to Men.

CONSULTATION FREE. BOOKS FREE. If unable to call write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

WOMEN'S AILMENTS CAUSED BY NEGLECT

ARE QUICKLY CURED AND ROBUST, SOUND HEALTH RESTORED BY DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is that put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer, and a run-down condition takes root.

Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, because of their undoubted power to remove constipation, irregularities, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the result is as you would expect, pain in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, the finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. All dealers in 25c. boxes, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

WHEN WASHING CURTAINS.

Those who wash their own lace curtains know how difficult it is to keep the edges straight. A good plan is to tack a piece of broad tape along each outer edge before putting them in the water, and let it remain on until the curtains are washed and ironed. By this means the edges are kept straight and even.

HE FELT IT.

"Football," cried the old gentleman with the rubicund countenance, "is a sin and a disgrace. Football," he continued, thumping the table with his fist, "is an abomination and a blot on civilisation. The very name of football," he shouted, sweeping the flowers vase off the table in his excitement—"the very name of football is enough to make a decent, respectable man get up and 'ang hisself out of pure disgust!"

"The gentleman seems to feel rather deeply on the subject," said a commercial traveller, who had been listening to his remarks.

"He do," assented one of the patients. "Has he lost some money at a football" inquired the commercial.

"He 'ave so. 'Ad a 'undred pounds at one," replied the [illegible]

What relative was it? asked the querist.

"'Is wife's first 'usband!" was the response.

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.	0.8505
Light Oil	94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby-field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

BASEBALL STORIES

A Couple of the Best Going About Tim Hurst

Almost every day stories about Tim Hurst, in the days when that Irish celebrity was handling the indicator and smothering "fresh" players, come to the front. Billy Evans of the American League staff, recently related the following:

"I met Tom on Broadway last summer, and enjoyed a chat with him. 'Long Tom' Hughes, the Washington pitcher, joined us, and we talked shop, with Tim doing most of the chattering. When he left Hughes related a story of him. I tell it in Hughes' words:

"'You remember the old Washington grounds, with the hospital just outside the left-field fence? One day I was pitching against Cleveland and was getting an awful lacing, which was strange, as I usually had something on the Naps. But Lajoie, Bradley and Hickman were threatening the lives of the patients in the hospital with their drives that day.

"'Hurst was umpiring and naturally I was sore at the mauling I was getting. I made the mistake of trying to take revenge on Hurst. I might have had a chance to discourage his umps, but not with Timothy. I commented upon his umpiring and he came back sarcastically about my pitching. Finally I turned and asked:

"'"Who's pitching this game, anyhow?"'

"'Well,' he drawled, "judging from the score, I should say one of those old fellows from the incurable ward over there,' at the same time jerking his thumb toward the hospital. I was through for the rest of that game, believe me."

Tom Hughes is responsible for another of the many good stories told about Tim. It seems that a brash young pitcher joined the Washington Club, bringing from his small league a reputation a mile long.

The recruit wasn't averse to talking of his ability, and one afternoon, while Hurst was sitting on the bench, he began to relate the way he used to stand the umpires on their heads back in the bushes.

"Any time I wanted a strike called I would simply yell loud enough for the fans to hear, 'How's that one? Right through the middle,'" was the receipt he gave for obtaining favorable rulings.

As he concluded his tale of how he lorded it over the umpires, the manager told the recruit to warm up, as he might work that afternoon. Hurst listened to the youngster's monolog with interest, and evidently made up his mind to teach the young man a lesson, for on the first ball pitched, although right through the heart of the plate, as Tim afterward confessed, he delivered an ultimatum.

"How's that one?" the pitcher demanded, turning on Tim.

Looking him over in the most critical way, Hurst responded: "under the circumstances, it is a ball. If you [illegible] been a strike."

"And that bit of advice was the best thing that could have happened," said Hughes. "It taught the kid a lesson, and thereafter he confined himself to pitching, leaving the umpiring to men hired for that purpose. Today he is a star in the big league, although not with the Washington Club."

MICROBES ENLARGED

Greatly Increased Images of Objects Can be Thrown on Screens

One of the most wonderful inventions of its kind ever seen in Toronto has arrived at the new pathological buildings. It is a machine by the aid of which the images of objects placed anywhere in a room can be thrown on the wall or on a screen in their natural colors. The machine stands 7 feet high, 5 feet long and 2 feet wide and has been imported from Germany. Its cost is somewhere in the neighborhood of $1500.

To set the machine in operation, two arc lamps, each of 1500 candle-power, will be required. A special cable will have to be run into the new building to supply the high voltage required by demonstrations lasting any length of time.

The principal mechanism of this ingenious device consists of two convex mirrors and a number of large and powerful lenses. For showing the insects in their true light this German invention has put everything else on the back list. Living microbes of infinitesimal size, and actually moving can be shown as large as, say, a mouse.

MR. J. T. SUTHERLAND

The man behind the Kingston Frontenac hockey club, and a warm supporter of all amateur sport.

Fine Asparagus

A "champion" bundle of asparagus, containing 120 heads, and weighing 19lb. 8oz., brought $25 at Evesham, England, this season.

Once an Orphan

The newly-elected Governor of Hull Workhouse was brought up as an orphan boy in the same institution.

A New Shade

"Helen Pink," a new artistic shade named after President Taft's daughter, has become very popular in America.

Had Bad Sore Four Years

ZAM-BUK HAS HEALED IT!

Mrs. Wilson, 110 Wickson Avenue, Toronto, says: "About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor, but the ointment he gave me did not have any good effect. The sore continued to discharge freely, and was most painful. I had it cauterised, tried poultices, and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!

"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me good, so I purchased a further supply.

"Each box did me more and more good, and, to my delight, before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks, I saw that it was going to heal the sore. In less than a month it was healed!

"I know a lady in the east of the city, whose husband suffered for years with an open sore on his leg. On my recommendation, Zam-Buk was tried in that case. The other day, when I saw her, she told me that it had healed the sore completely.

"My daughter, who lives in Lethbridge, Alta., has also used Zam-Buk with the same satisfactory result. I think it is, beyond all doubt, the finest healing balm known."

Such is the opinion of all persons who have really tried Zam-Buk. It is a sure cure for eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. In case of skin disease use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c tablet

KEEP SPORT CLEAN

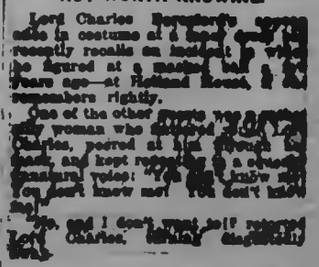
A Mistake to Put it in the Control of the Vicious

Sports dances and recreations of all kinds should be under civic management instead of in the hands of the vicious, said Mr. Rufus D. Smith, secretary of the Charity Organization, in an address on "Criminals." "Only in the modern city," he said, "have men concluded that it is no longer necessary for the municipality to provide for the insatiable desire of play. In so far as they have acted upon this conclusion have they entered upon a most difficult and dangerous experiment and this at the moment when the city has become distinctly industrial, and daily labor is continually more monotonous and subdivided. We have left the organization of our recreation in the hands of men and women who organize it viciously and for profit."

REG. RANKIN

The crack goalkeeper of the Stratford hockey team.

NOT WORTH KNOWING.



Lord Charles Beresford, across table in costume at a [illegible] recently recalls an incident [illegible] was figured at a masked ball [illegible] years ago—at Holland House, I [illegible] remembers rightly.

One of the other guests was a [illegible] by woman who disguised herself [illegible] Charles, peered at him through [illegible] hand, and kept repeating in a shrill [illegible] voice: "I don't know who [illegible] I don't know who [illegible] I don't know who [illegible] Charles. [illegible]

What Strikes You in New Brunswick

PEOPLE ALL HAVE CONFIDENCE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Everywhere You Find People Who Have Been Cured of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Bright's Disease or Some Other Form of Kidney Disease — Cure is Always Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Cameron's Mills, Kent Co., N. B., Feb. 14.—(Special) — The one thing that strikes a visitor to New Brunswick is the confidence its people have in Dodd's Kidney Pills as a cure for any and all forms of Kidney Disease. They have used them and they know by their own experience that Dodd's Kidney Pills are all that is claimed for them. Everywhere you go you find this confidence. It is expressed in this village by Mrs. Joseph P. Daigle. "I have great confidence in Dodd's Kidney Pills," she says. "Six boxes cured me of my Kidney Disease."

All over the Province you find people who have been cured of Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Backache, or some other form of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. You cannot find a case in which they have been given a fair trial that the results have not been beneficial.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

Rates: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

Stout Is Extra Mild

Those who prefer English Porter to Ale, will find O'Keefe's Stout unsurpassed by delicious.

It has the rich flavor of the finest imported porter—but, being extra mild, will not make you bilious.

All bottles sealed with Crown stoppers to prevent cork and tinfoil getting in your glass. Sold everywhere.

"The Stout That is Always O.K."

THE O'KEEFE'S BREWERY CO. Limited, TORONTO.

200

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS

PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

ONE TO BRIDGET.

A lady had in her employ an excellent girl who had one fault—she was always grimy. Mrs. X., wishing to tell her to wash her face without offending her, at last resorted to strategy.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "that if you wash your face every day in hot soap and water, it will make you beautiful."

"Will it?" answered the wily Bridget. "Sure, it's a wonder ye never tried it, ma'am."

Serious attention is at last being directed to measures to cope with the serious [illegible] of Scotland, and the [illegible] of the Scottish people.

LISTER PATRICK

Who with his brother Frank organized the Pacific Coast League. He is manager and point player of the Victoria hockey club.

ARTIFICIAL ICE RINK

A Description of the Mammoth Structure Being Erected in Vancouver

The proposed artificial ice rink which the Patrick Brothers are erecting in Vancouver requires two and a half million feet of lumber, three hundred tons of steel, thousands of barrels of cement, with over 500,000 bricks and with miles of pipiing. Built on a plot of ground 200 feet by 330 feet, to skirt the outside of the building a person would cover just a fifth of a mile. The reach from the surface of the ice to the highest point of the trusses would require the services of a ladder one hundred feet high. If the cement of the building were placed in bags a foot apart and extended in one long line, a person would have to cover miles to reach the end of the line. Comfortably seated, the capacity of the rink is 10,500, but if pressed for space this number could be much increased. Estimated originally at a cost of $150,000, when completed the structure will stand the promoters to the extent of nearly $300,000. It will be considerably over the $275,000 mark.

Ice is manufactured by two seventy-five ton refrigerating machines. The machinery is placed in the west end of the basement. In the basement provision is also made for the curlers, where there are four fine sheets of ice. Curling commenced this week, and it will no doubt be as popular here as in other parts of the country.

During the summer months it is planned to use the ground floor for the purpose of automobile shows, food shows or for any other attraction requiring a large building with adequate seating capacity. The basement will be utilized for the manufacture of artificial ice for domestic use and for cold-storage purposes, while provision has also been made in that part for a large natatorium or swimming bath. Should the decison be reached to convert the main floor of the rink into a huge swimming pool, Vancouver would undoubtedly possess the finest natatorium on the continent.

"BICYCLE BOB."

The new Alpine "bicycle bob," invented by Herr Buhler, is simply a light wooden bicycle with two sleds substituted for the wheels, is guided by handle-bars and can be employed on snow slopes or toboggan runs.

It requires some skill and practice to guide and can be geared horizontally or vertically. The rider glides down, as on a free-wheel cycle, at a great speed, attaining 40 or 50 miles an hour, but there is no brake—except a plunge in the snow.

NO SPEED IN HIS CAR.

Ferrold: I can't get any speed out of that motor-car you sold me. You told me you had been arrested six times in it.

Hobart: So I was old chap; for obstructing the highway.

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO
H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.	" "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.
163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.
Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment

Agency and
REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards in Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 159 Simcoe Street
Next Kinsmen Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO.

GREAT CANVASSERS

Napoleon, and George Washington and Many More Great Men Were Successful Book Agents in Their Youth.

Books. — Well-known firm of London publishers require the services of country gentlemen to act as agents. Liberal commission. Districts apportioned. Hunting and shooting men preferred. Members of good families, younger sons who have been at the 'Varsities or public schools, will find this a first-class opening. Apply, etc.

When the above appeared in the advertisement columns of the English papers recently, no doubt many people who read it would ask themselves what things were coming to.

Country gentlemen taking to book-canvassing!

Certainly it reads revolutionary, even in these days of trading "nobility and gentry."

But greater men than country squires have, before now, been engaged in canvassing books.

Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of the French, the world's greatest military genius, was once a book-canvasser.

The future conqueror, while yet a lieutenant, and with nothing to live on but his scanty pay, undertook to "push" for Messrs. Boulanger and Co., the Paris publishers, a work called "The History of the (French) Revolution." And apparently he liked the work — with its emoluments — for after a short trial he applied to be given the sole agency for the Department of La Vendée. He had, however, to be content with a restricted district in suburban Paris. With what zeal he "worked" this may be seen to-day at the Louvre, where there is exhibited his canvasser's outfit, together with the long list of subscribers' names which his industry secured.

Almost at the same time, in a different part of the world, another future ruler was partly earning his bread as a book agent. This was none other than George Washington, "Father" of the United States. The particular book that Washington canvassed bore the somewhat lengthy title of "The London of Stoke-on-Trent Square American Savage. How He May be Tamed by the Weapons of Civilization."

To "get off" such a mouthful as this would surely require more than average ability and persuasiveness, and if, as he records, Washington's sales were eminently satisfactory, small wonder that in later life he accomplished so much greater things.

Scientific Bottle Breaking.

The method of breaking small bottles or vessels at the place wanted with a kerosene-soaked string is well known, but this method does not work so well with the larger vessels. Following is a method given by a writer, by which any sized glass vessels can be broken — as, for example, a glass tub to be made out of a carboy. Fill the vessel with cold water up to the place at which it is to be broken. Pour enough boiling oil over the water to make a good coat on the surface, and before the oil has time to cool dash cold water on the outside of the vessel. A clean break at the contact-point of oil and water will be the result.

Edison's First Invention

The story of Mr Edison's first invention will bear retelling. One day, when he was a small boy of five, his parents missed him, and after a long search his elder sister discovered him in the fowl-house, where he said he intended to remain three weeks. His clothes were in a terrible condition, being smothered with crushed eggs. "What were you doing that for, Tom?" asked his sister in alarm. "Well, I thought if the hens could hatch eggs by sitting on them I could," was the reply of the youthful genius.

Mr. Edison has often been credited with inventing things which even for him would have been remarkable. Some time ago, an American paper stated that he had invented a wonderful shirt which would last a man for twelve months without requiring to be washed. This shirt, it was stated, was made of 365 layers of material, the composition of which no one knew but the inventor, and all the wearer had to do to restore it to its original spotlessness was to tear off one of the layers, when he would have practically a new shirt. This announcement was reprinted in various other papers, with the result that Mr. Edison received no end of orders for the mystery shirt.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON
Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 210. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street. E. A. Peck, E. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, Successors to Stratton & Hall. Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce.
H. H. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson.

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND,
Late Physician, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phone: Office 443, House 1281.

HARRIS HEAVY PRESSURE is true to its reputation as the BEST BABBITT METAL For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited
Fraser Avenue, Toronto

Good Farm

Little Social Calling.

The interest taken by the woman of today in athletics, in the world, in affairs of public tenor, has brought about at least one welcome social change—the abolition of the social call.

No longer are upper blinds seen to flutter suspiciously while maid or butler utters the solemn "Not at home" to relieved callers. The allotted twenty minutes of platitudes, during which hostess and guest conversed about such vital topics as the weather or the servant situation, is reckoned as so much wasted time by the busy woman of society.

The gradual disappearance of the calling custom does not mean a consequent damper upon social activity. What it does signify is a more sincere and a more natural phase of sociability. Today a woman rings up the friend she wishes to see on the telephone and arranges for a friendly little visit. The stiff rose and gilt of the front parlor have yielded to the cosy depths of the [illegible] and conversation of the reception room to the cozy chatter of the tea table.

What a bugbear were the "Tuesdays" or "Thursdays" of the society leader from which continued absence spelled social oblivion. Many a heartache originated in these drawing rooms of the dictator, where cuts were dealt right and left and arrows sent out by a satirical tongue which caused a sting which lasted for weeks. A rise of stiff silk, burning patent leathers and other insignia of correct dress are not conducive of kindness and good cheer. For these very obvious reasons we hail with joy the passing of an era of silly formality, hastening to welcome in its stead the custom of "just dropping in for a chat" or an afternoon visit.

Telephone Courtesy.

Many otherwise polite persons feel that they can be rude when engaged in a telephone conversation. With the first "Hello" many a man and woman drop their courtesy as if it were a garment that did not fit them.

If the "central" were to record all that she hears and all that is said to her it would make some of us blush for shame. While men frequently swear over the telephone, there are many women who, while they do not give vent to profanity, so far copy the manners of the male sex that they scream like shrews at "central" if she happens to give them the wrong number or interrupts them before they have finished talking.

That the ways of telephones and the persons who operate them are trying to one's temper no one can deny, but the irritability that manifests itself in outward speech is not a requisite of the proper appreciation and use of the telephone. It is nothing less than a pernicious habit which most people acquire unconsciously. Let us remember that consideration and kindness pay better than rudeness and discourtesy. If not, then let us have poorer telephone service and preserve our self respect.

Make it a rule never to be rude to the telephone assistants. It is like shooting from an ambush—at an unseen foe, it is true, but it hurts just as much.

Politeness a Valuable Cult.

If regarded from no other point of view than as an asset in journeying through life, politeness and the observance of small courtesies will be found a very valuable cult.

True, the blustering, pushing man or woman makes a way of its sort, but if closely observed neither can very readily come back another time with any success. Aggressiveness is often needed, but impoliteness never. When it is necessary to emphasize even that may be done with dignity and a perfectly polite manner, carrying weight far better than arrogance and rudeness ever can.

Now that people are talking about a possible danger in crossing Chemong Lake on account of ice cutting, it might be noted that Matthew May whilst crossing the St. Clair River on Sunday last fell through the ice and nearly lost his life.

And now after a raise in sugar, tea is said to be on the upward rise in price. As a local man said yesterday evening: "This is enough to drive a man to drink." What drink he meant, our reporter did not know.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S PROTEGE

At the age of three, pianists in the making take more interest in toys than in sharps and flats. But Fitz Scavenius, the famous young Grieg player, who will visit Birmingham during his coming concert tour, and who is one of the favoured few to have his name entered in the book in which Queen Alexandra writes down the names of her favourite artists, on his third birthday astonished his family by clambering on to the piano stool and playing "Ding dong bell" and "Mary, Mary, quite contrary," hammering away at the notes till he struck the right ones. Later at the age of 14 he achieved another record by being the only competitor to obtain full marks at the senior Trinity College examination. Shortly after this exploit Queen Alexandra sent for young Scavenius, who is of Danish descent, and immediately set the seal of her approval upon his playing.

The Healthy Pose.

If the proper pose of the body be retained in all the ordinary duties of life, whether sitting or standing, it will minimize the fatigue of the daily routine. When double work is thrown upon some muscles, while others are idle, the result is the pain in back and limbs with which so many woman suffer. To walk upstairs with the figure erect and not like a half-shut jack-knife, legs and joints flexible and lungs breathing properly, will not only contribute to a woman's appearance but also to her health.

MATERIAL IMMATERIAL. THE MODEL'S THE THING

Black and white continue to be the mode; whether frocks are of silk, chiffon, satin or cloth.

An exquisite model for an evening dress is composed of black chiffon over the same fabric of white. A lot of jet is used on the black tunic. The foundation of the gown is cream, veiled with the sheer white. A blue satin girdle gives a touch of color.

This gown would serve for a model in marquisite or it would be charming in any simple limp material. The mode is the thing.

Princess Mary's Rebuff

The following little story of the Queen and Princess Mary was told by one who could vouch for its truth. Princess Mary, when a younger child, ran one day into the sanctum of a certain well-known private secretary at Court. "I am sorry," said the much-harassed individual, "that I have no time to spare this morning for you, my little lady." The Princess, in high dudgeon, ran to her mother. "Sir So-and-So called me a "little lady," " she complained, "and you know, mother, that I am a Princess." The Queen replied laughingly, "Run back, Mary, to Sir So-and-So, and tell him that you are a Princess who has not yet learned to be a little lady."

Poached Eggs with Stewed Tomatoes

Poach carefully the number of eggs required, and, after placing on hot buttered toast, put eggs and toast on a hot ashet. Now wipe some small tomatoes, and stew them for five minutes in a little butter, pepper, and salt. Make a border of the tomatoes round the poached eggs. This provides a dainty and appetising breakfast dish.

Bobcaygeon Boy Scouts attended church last Sunday. Good little Bob to raise a corps of Boy Scouts. Still with its solid rock foundation, that village should raise a good sturdy generation!

James Tugnett died at Belleville last Sunday. The deceased was born in 1835, and, as an apprentice, at the age of 13 served on the well known, and now obsolete battleship Victory. It will be remembered that the Victory was Lord Nelson's flagship.

When one reads of the dynamiting and other outrages occurring throughout the continent, it almost reminds one of the tax rate of Peterborough. Ontario.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

AN EFFECT OF BACK DRAPERY

Quite like the manner of a gown in one of Steven's pictures was one worn by a leader of the Paris modes; its skirt, a bit full, dragged a little, and there was an apron overskirt, heavily fringed, which was pulled in wrinkling folds to the back and disposed of in a large looped bow only a little below the belt line. Narrower fringe edged the fichu corsage and bordered the short, straight sleeves, which opened over little undersleeves of white muslin drawn below the elbow into a narrow, embroidered band. The fichu left a space in the back and front that was covered with an unlined muslin guimpe, its little round collar tied with a knot of cerise ribbon. Black feathers waved from her wide hat of cerise-colored velvet.

A Pretty Sash

A new serge dress for the winter very simple, to be worn with white collars and cuffs, has a black satin ribbon sash tied cleverly, and easy to copy. The ribbon is about six inches wide, and passes straight around the waist, being only tacked in place. Where it meets at the back it is tied in a regular knot, the width of the ribbon being enough to make it one of good size. Then below this are tied two loops, and those droop gracefully on either side, the big knot forming the middle. The whole is one of those simple touches by which the French accomplish a good effect.

A MUCH TRIMMED FUR COAT WITH ADAPTABLE IDEAS

Old clothes may easily be refurbished this season. Many different fabrics may be used in one garment. Coats are much trimmed. A bit of velvet and bands of broad titan braid give a decided air to the simplest coat.

A handsome caracul jacket serves as an example. A band of velvet is set a couple of inches above the bottom, while the flat deep collar and very deep cuffs of velvet are trimmed with titan braid. The collar extends into a panel and through the broad band around the coat and falls far down upon the dress skirt.

A muff and hat of caracul add to the effect.

The Empress Eugenie

The Empress Eugenie spends most of her time in England.

"I am not getting younger," she says, "and Farnham is very [illegible]."

There is a series of rooms in the house at Farnham devoted to memorials of Napoleon IV as the Empress and I like to call the Prince Imperial, who was killed during the Zulu War. In a locked cabinet are the remains of the Prince's uniform, which his mother brought back from Africa when she made the journey to see the spot where he was slain. But most interesting of all is the sword with which he defended himself, the same that Napoleon I. wore at Arcola, at Austerlitz and at Waterloo.

It was not a sword of state, but a plain fighting sword in a simple sheath. When King Cetewayo was conquered this sword, which had terrified Europe, was found among the spoils in his kraal.

The best product of the prairie is not wheat but men, and the quarter section that produces a thinking man, full fledged in all his powers, may well be held to have performed its mission.

Word has been received in the city concerning the death of Mr. Harvey Sharpe, who was killed in Edmonton by a fall presumably from a building as the deceased was a paper hanger and decorator by trade. The late Mr. Sharpe was about twenty-seven years of age, and was well known in this city. He left here about six years ago, and has resided in the West ever since, with the exception of two years, which he spent at home. He is unmarried and is survived by a mother and one brother, John, both of whom reside at 489 Sherbrooke street; also one sister Margaret, the latter residing in New

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

THOMAS GRIGG
Qu'Appelle

For nineteen years Thomas Grigg has farmed near Qu'Appelle, meeting set-backs, but prospering. Although a Canadian, he and his wife came to the Springbrook district from South Dakota. Generally speaking, wheat-growing has been the mainstay. Horse-raising, also, has received attention to an extent sufficient to lead Mr. Grigg to pass opinion that a man can make as much money on a half section of rough land raising colts as he can on a real good quarter of wheat-growing. Pigs, also, are kept, and on different occasions have helped him "out of a tight place." He finds that, as a rule, there is enough feed around to fatten a bunch. The farm comprises 640 acres of which about one-quarter is summerfallowed annually. Wheat is grown for two years, and then oats or barley. Recently, Mr. Grigg has rented his farm for a year in order that he and his good wife may spend the winter in California and take a well-earned rest.

HON. HUGH J. MACDONALD
Police Magistrate Winnipeg

Mr. Hugh Macdonald who was lately appointed Police magistrate of the Gateway city was formerly premier of Manitoba. Probably the importance of his magistracy lies principally in the fact that the man he succeeded was the famous late T. Mayne Daly, and though Mr. Macdonald is not in his famous father's rank he is big hearted enough to make the attempt to fill a big man's shoes. Nothing attempted, nothing done is certainly not in his make up.

Squire Macdonald is a son of the late John A. Macdonald, and might have been premier of Canada today, if he had remained in Dominion politics, and followed closely in the footsteps of his dad. But he chose the nearer honors offered by a provincial premiership and got out of the running for the post of prime minister of Canada.

DR. A. BEVERLEY WELFORD
Woodstock.

It is well for this country that the doctors take such a large and disinterested part in its public life. True they cannot take an active interest in the larger problems because it would mean their giving up their professional duties, but in every community you will find at least one medical man taking an active interest in teh local affairs.

Dr. A. B. WELFORD
President of Canadian Club, Woodstock.

Such a one is Dr. A. Beverley Welford of Woodstock Ont. who is one of the pioneers of the Canadian Club movement in his district, though the doctor's energies are not confined to this laudable work. He is practically connected with every movement that has for its object—the raising of the standard of life.

NELLIE L. McCLUNG
Canadian writer

Mrs. McClung has lived in Manitoba for the last thirty years, having come from Owen Sound with her parents in the very early days of this province. However, she is always very careful to explain that she was only a "mere child" at that time, and yet her stories of some of the happenings of the long journey by ox-drain from Winnipeg to the point on the Souris river where her parents located, are so vividly told that we are forced to believe that she must have been a very bright child for her years.

Mrs. McClung, who before her marriage was Nellie L. Mooney, received her education at a country school and afterwards at the Central Collegiate in Winnipeg. She taught school for five years and then married Mr. R. W. McClung, who was engaged in the drug business in Manitoba, Man They lived in Manitou until last summer, when they removed to Winnipeg, and have taken up their residence on Chestnut street. Mrs McClung was elected president of the local branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club for this year.

Mrs. McClung has written two books, "Sowing Seeds in Danny," and "The Second Chance," also many short stories. Last year she gave a series of readings from her own books in Manitoba, and also in Ontario.

At the present time she is engaged in writing another book.

Mrs. McClung chooses for her characters the plain people of every day life, whom we all know. The keen fidelity of her writing makes a strong appeal to the discriminating reader.

THE FIVE-FINGERED ORANGE

Grows Exactly the Shape of a Half-Opened Hand

A most weird-looking fruit is the five-fingered orange. It grows exactly the shape of a half-open hand. Even the nails are identical, hard-pointed and claw-like, tipping the orange flowers with a length equal, in some cases, to three inches.

It is no freak, but a proper kind of orange, belonging to a special variety. The tree itself is a rugged little shrub that does not average more than five or six feet in height in its native home Japan. It does not grow straight, as the ordinary orange-tree should, but is twisted in all directions.

Even the branches grow in spiral or twisted forms, so that the width of the tree is often greater than the height. The fruit itself is of a pale yellow color, of a pure lemon hue, growing greenish toward the stem. The size is immense, considering the smallness of the tree, the largest ones measuring when mature fully ten inches from the wrist to the point of the middle finger, including the nail.

But the fruit is not good to eat, though what it lacks in flavor it more than makes good in perfume. Perhaps the strangest thing about this perfume is that it is the fruit and not the flower that is odorous.

THOSE BRAINY SCOTS!

A noted Scot is Viscount Haldane, lately ... Minister. He was partly educated at ... University of Gottingen. ... the German Universities, the other day his lordship remarked:

"Scottish students have quite a reputation ... Gottingen. A great German professor said to me:—

"'I think we shall have to exclude young Scotsmen from our schools. They no sooner come here than they begin to cheat.'

"'Cheat?' said I, alarmed. 'How so?'

"'Why,' said the professor, 'they only pay for tuition for one, but they learn enough for three or four!'"

THE BACHELOR'S WISDOM

We must all try to stand erect, not be kept erect by others.

Whether you be men or women you will never do anything without courage.

Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust before brightness.

Victories attained by right thought can only be maintained by watchfulness.

God does not look to see if the hands are full. He looks to see if they are clean.

An opportunity is like a pin in the sweeping: you catch sight of it just as it flies away from you, and gets buried again.

WITH A ROYAL ACCOMPLICE

The Queen, like so many members of our Royal Family, is blessed with much tact. On one occasion she was present at a banquet in a large provincial ... Soon he confessed that he was greatly worried about the printed address he had presently to read, and that he would far sooner "say a few words" that he really felt.

"Very well, then," replied her Majesty sympathetically; "let us hide that printed speech behind this flower-pot!"

This they did, and the Lord Mayor made a little speech that rang true instead of reading his address.

CARUSO'S BIG LOSS

It is announced that Signor Caruso hopes to benefit by a complete rest and change of air, the physicians having forbidden him to sing this season. The loss sustained by the great tenor through what was in the first place regarded as an ordinary slight cold is estimated at about $60,000, as he has been compelled to refrain from singing for a period of twelve weeks.

PROFITS ON "GLADSTONE"

Morley's "Gladstone" has beaten all records in biographies. The cheque sent by the publishers to the proprietors of the book—that is, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting, was greater by several thousand pounds than Longman's famous $100,000 cheque to Macaulay for the profits on the third and fourth volumes of his History of England.

THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK

Naturalists consider the elephant's trunk the most marvellous miracle of Nature. It contains over 4,000 muscles—a great many more than are found in the entire human body. By aid of these muscles the trunk will uproot trees or gather grass, lift a cannon or a nut, kill a man or brush off a fly. It is as useful as a hand with all its fingers to supply the elephant with food, and, being hollow, is used as a suction pump. No other animal has a single member or organ so perfect and so useful.

TREMENDOUS WHALE

The largest whale of its type of which there is scientific record was captured recently off Port Arthur, Texas. He measured 63 feet in length, and was estimated to be about 300 years old. Capt. Cob Plummer, mate of a United States pilot boat, sighted the monster in the shoals off the jetties, and the crew of his vessel captured the mammal. The huge body was towed ashore, exhibited and much photographed before being cut up.

PROTECTION OF SMALL BIRDS

The Agricultural Society of the Gironde, France, is convinced that the continually increasing numbers of enemies of crops, and especially of the insects so harmful to vines, Cochylis and Eudemis, is due to a great extent to the disappearance of small birds. The society, therefore, has invited all the agricultural associations of France to unite and insist upon the protection of these valuable auxiliaries of the farmer.

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

HAIR POWDER

The first English ladies who had the courage to wear powdered hair were as much pointed at for their singularity as the wearer of a crinoline would be to-day. It was in the beginning of the reign of George the First that the pioneers ventured to make themselves so conspicuous, and at the time when the next King was crowned there were only two hairdressers in London; but in the year 1795 it was calculated that there were in Great Britain no less than fifty thousand hair-dressers! A writer with a turn for statistics reckoned up the probable amount of flour these fifty thousand would use in a year, and arrived at the conclusion that it was equal to what would make 5,314,280 quartern loaves.

Apart from the question whether the flour might not have been better employed, it must be owned that there was more excuse for the artificial production of grey hair than there is for the dyeing of the hair when nature decides that it is time for it to be grey.

Simple Hospitality

Sometimes a wife settles down into a dreary, domestic routine, honestly believing that until her husband's improve there is no other course for her to pursue. The very fact that many people cannot afford elaborate entertainments does not imply that they cannot enjoy simple ones. Novelty is the charm of life, as variety is its spice, and very often the guests who come from luxurious homes are the most easily pleased. The young housewife who, through fear of criticism, refuses to invite her richer or more expereienced friend to her home is cheating herself of much pleasure.

SMART WINTER COSTUME

Fashioned of Black Velutina

An apron front edged with knitted silk fringe is the feature of a street costume of velutina.

This walking suit is of black, old blue satin being the contrasting note in the revers upon the three-quarters-length jacket. The revers, too, are edged with fringe and are embroidered with soutache braid of the blue tone.

The coat is trimmed with Hercules braid. A touch of white is given this walking costume with marabout. This delicate feather outlines the collar and cuffs.

The lines of the skirt show a slight tendency to fullness and in length it just escapes the floor.

The model would be pretty in corduroy or cloth.

Golden Orange Cake.

Cream one-fourth cup of butter, add one-half cup of sugar slowly, and continue beating. Add the yolks of five eggs, beaten until thick and lemon coloured, and one teaspoon of orange extract. Mix and sift seven-eighths cup of pastry flour with one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, and add alternately with one-fourth cup of milk to the first mixture. Bake in a buttered and floured tin.

THE FARM HORSE

He Is Entitled to the Best of Care and Feed

... a man's ... a ... in which to rest when the day's work is done. Don't put him in a dungeon, with no light or ventilation, and expect him to be in good trim for the next day. Neither should he be compelled to stand under a straw shed where the water drips through for three days after each shower. A good bed is as essential to the comfort of the horse as of the man. As to feed, the best is none too good. Clean, bright hay, with oats that are not smutty nor dirty. Decide the quantity for yourself, but don't be stingy. A man who can't tell what amount of feed is required by a horse after he has worked him for a few weeks, hasn't sense enough to farm anyway. All horses do not require the same amount of food any more than all men. Study your horse. Feed him enough to enable him to do his work. And pay some attention to his likes and dislikes if possible. He works for his keep, and surely he is entitled to something better than a forkful of musty hay under his feet and a quart of screenings in a dirty feed box.

The horse at work should be well combed and brushed every morning, and a few strokes at night would not hurt him.

The harness, too, should receive attention. There is neither humanity, economy nor common sense in having your horse's shoulders peeled and raw, his back sore, and his mouth torn with the bit. See that the collar fits the horse, better to buy a new collar than use one that does not fit. Then keep it clean and smooth, if the collar becomes coated, wash it off at night with a rag and some warm water, and in the morning it will be clean and smooth as when new. If you will make your collars fit and keep them clean you will seldom need a pad, and the horse will have better shoulders and be more comfortable at work without a pad. The hames, too, should fit the collar, with the pull so adjusted that it will bear evenly on the shoulder, and keep in one position. A little attention to other parts of the harness will prevent galls, bruises, rubs and the like.

Kindness is appreciated by a horse as well as by a man. The owners of the world's famous race horses will not allow a groom about the stables who swears at horses, neither will they permit harsh treatment of any kind. The farm horse may not be as finely bred as his brother of the turf but he will respond to kind treatment none the less.

From the standpoint of right the farm horse deserves kindness, care, and good feeding. It is his due. It is all he gets, and too often much more than he gets, for a lifetime of toil and ... Daily.

A WONDERFUL COW

All Records Broken

Pontiac Clothilde DeKol, 2nd, a Holstein-Friesian cow owned by the Stevens Bros. Co., Liverpool, N.Y., has broken all records for butter-fat production for periods of seven and thirty days. This wonderful cow, tested under the supervision of Cornell University, produced in seven consecutive days 646.1 pounds of milk containing 29.766 pounds of fat, and in thirty days 2,588.4 pounds of milk containing 116.229 pounds of fat, the amount of fat for the week being 1¼ pounds in excess of anything before known. Cornell University estimates that the fat produced is equal to 34.78 pounds of the best commercial butter for the week and 135.6 pounds for the thirty days.

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape, says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings neatly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot but be attracted to such a section. The business man knows the value of attractive surroundings.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of these the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty-three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Woman as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

KNEW HOW TO SAVE COAL

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading: "Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal."

"Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all me coal."

A PUZZLE

It is rather interesting the way children associate size with age.

Looking at his feet the other day little Joe asked suddenly:

"Mother, why is one of my toes so much bigger than the others? I thought they were all the same age!"

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can

To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

CURLING NOTES.

The following is the result of the games played by the ladies of the Peterborough Curling Club for the pens presented to the club by Mr. Cameron:

Mrs. Sanderson
Mrs. McLeod
Mrs. Goodwill
Mrs. Travers, skip	7
Miss H. Davidson
Miss Vells Morrow
Miss M. Davidson
Mrs. Coulthard, skip	6
Miss Archer
Miss Parks
Mrs. McLean
Mrs. Matthews, skip	7
Mrs. A. Hall
Mrs. Grant
Mrs. Hill
Mrs. Ritchie, skip	16

A Test of His Honesty.

Last night two George street merchants were discussing a former employee of the Dominion Government, who, owing to the recent "landslide" is not now drawing pay. One of them asked the question "Tell me straight now, do you think he is or was honest?" The other replied, "Well, I would not like to exactly say that he is or was dishonest, but if you ever happen to shake hands with him, be sure to count the fingers on your right hand afterwards.

Contributions to Fire Sufferers.

Mr. F. W. Miller has received the following additional gifts to the fund for the families who suffered in Saturday's fire:

Mrs. Dr. Burnham	$5.00
Fred Mitchell	5.00

Mrs. Travers, clothing; Mrs. Walsh comforters and Blankets; Mrs. John Johns, tea and coffee.

One of the families have been fortunate enough to secure a house.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
26 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Sturgeon Bay, Sturgeon Falls and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	8.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	5.30 p.m.	9.05 p.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	12.10 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Bracebridge, Uxbridge & Markham	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Lindsay Local	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
	8.10 a.m.	6.30 a.m.
	9.35 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood.	11.35 a.m.
Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	7.07 p.m.
	12.10 a.m.
	1.05 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro
Toronto; Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago.	5.25 a.m.
	5.51 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.07 a.m.
	4.30 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

MACHINISTS WANTED.

Three machinists wanted. Apply at the office of the International Harvester Co., Peterborough.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-12-12)

Mrs. D. Hunter's Daughter Ill.

The many friends of Mrs. D. Hunter, 467 Water street, will regret to hear that her daughter in Vernon, B.C., is very ill. It seems that the [illegible] does not agree with her. Mrs. Hunter left yesterday afternoon, by C.P.R. to attend her daughter.

Lindsay Notices Our Players.

Lindsay Warder: The Peterborough hockey team passed through town this morning at 9.15 on their way to Midland, the following players on board: Derocher, Hearns, Bond, Denison, Glover, Weatherstone, Park, Giroux, Coughlin, Kelly. The line-up was not definitely settled.

Mrs. Buchanan's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. Buchanan took place Tuesday afternoon, from the family residence, 413 Bethune street, to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. I. Couch officiated. The pallbearers were two sons of the deceased, Messrs. G. H. and J. B. Buchanan, Wm. Alexander, O. C. Callender, H. Hall and Geo. Adam.

Annual Meeting of Children's Aid.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Children's Aid Society will be held in the Council Chamber, on Thursday, February 15, at 3.30 o'clock, for the election of officers and other business. All ladies interested in this work are cordially invited to be present.

Rev. Father Phelan Home.

Rev. C. J. Phelan has returned to the city after an absence of four months on a trip for the benefit of his health, which is now very much improved. Mount Clemens, Mich., and the balance of time was spent on the Pacific Coast. The Rev. gentleman enjoyed the trip through the magnificent scenery of the Rockies.

Baptist Y.P.S. at Lakefield.

Some 30 members of the Baptist Young People's Society of the Murray street church, took in a sleigh drive to Lakefield on Tuesday evening. On their arrival at the village they went to the Baptist Church and partook of the good things they had brought with them. After the supper they spent a few hours in games, and at midnight returned home.

Red Mill Theatre. Exit Crystal.

Yesterday a staff of painters were busy repainting and decorating the former Crystal Theatre, now called the "Red Mill." This theatre which re-opens on Friday is under new management. Judging by the snappy and up-to-date style of advertising in the lobby, the new manager will make the Red Mill as good, if not better than the Crystal was in its initial year. An Adv. of the Red Mill will appear in another column.

Peterborough Hockey Mad.

To judge by the talk heard everywhere yesterday, and especially round the hotels, Peterborough seems to have gone clean mad on hockey. A Times representative, just to test the consensus of opinion, walked quietly through groups of people both on George street and in three of our leading ouravauseries, and the whole grist of conversation, as far as he could learn was "I'll bet the Petes win." "How many goals will you bet on?" "Is this the last game of the series?" "Is the year settled by games or by goals?"

Lindsay's Sympathy for Peterboro.

Lindsay Post: There is grief and gloom in the Electric City to-day, for the hockey team representing that burg bumped up against a better outfit in Midland last evening, and when the game was over a 10—2 score was registered against them.

There were many blue countenances in the Electric City last night when the dire news was received, for it is a well known fact that the fans in that burg had the championship pocketed, and were actually talking of a banquet and gold watches for the boys.

Ontario Government After the Dogs.

The Ontario Government, realizing the danger of rabies, has brought forward a bill whereby every municipality [illegible] every dog there is an annual tax of $1 when a man only owns one dog, and $2 for each additional dog. For females the tax is $3 if only one, and $5 for each additional one. Owners of kennels of thoroughbred dogs may pay $10 per annum to the treasurer of the municipality. If this law is strictly enforced in Peterborough the present owners of our thousands of useless curs will either have to pay up or deny ownership.

Valentine and Leap Year Social.

The Valentine and Leap Year Social given in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church on Tuesday night by the young ladies of the Mission Band was a decided success. The room was appropriately decorated with emblems of St. Valentine. The following program was thoroughly enjoyed:

Piano Solo—Mr. Treneer.
Instrumental—Miss L. Shearer.
Instrumental Duet—Miss Girven and Miss Helen Greaves.
Solo—Mr. Charles Thorp.
Instrumental Duet—Misses Grant and Stevens.

Help for Fire Sufferers.

As noted in the Times, the two families recently put out of house and home by the fire demon, are in sad need of assistance. Owing partly to the good work inaugurated by the press of Peterborough, Subscriptions have been coming in to Mr. Finch Miller. This official has received the following subscriptions since our last published list, viz.:

A Friend	$2.00
R. Harstone	5.00
Frank Solht	1.00
Miss Stimson	Clothing
Mrs. Fitzgerald	Blankets

Good Program of United Bible Class.

The young ladies of the Unity Bible Class gave a Valentine Social. Mr. W. Moore acted as chairman for the occasion, and the audience was entertained by the following programme:

Opening Chorus.
Recitation—"Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night"—P. Pogue.
Solo—Mrs. Wells.
Euphonium Solo—Mr. Robinson.
Selection on hand bells.
Song—Mrs. R. C. Braund.
Drill—By three girls of the Unity Class.
Solo—Mary Robinson.
Instrumental Duet—Misses Braund.
Recitation—Three Girls.

Chance For Local Reporters.

The Civil Service Commissioners at Ottawa have issued a circular letter to reporters throughout Canada, asking for three additional reporters on the Official Reporters Staff. The qualifications are very simple. Those applying only have to be very expert stenographers, understand Parliamentary procedure, know Canadian history and geography, be able to re-write illiterate speeches from uneducated members, have a knowledge of foreign words and a few other attainments like the above. As there are only three places to be filled in all Canada, and the salary is $2100 a year to begin with, we would advise the youth of Peterborough to get busy and secure these jobs.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Local Man Crushed to Death.

Joseph Spencely, son of Mr. George Spencely of Lindsay and grandson of Mr. Mark Spencely of this city, was crushed to death at 4 o'clock yesterday morning in the G.T.R. yards at Belleville. He was employed as a brakeman, and had made a run from Lindsay to Belleville. After reaching Belleville it was desired to turn the engine around. It was accordingly run on to what the railway men call a "Y." Spencely threw the switch on as the engine passed onto one side of this "Y" and jumped onto the pilot of the engine to do the switching work at the ends of the "Y." The young man was crushed between the pilot of the engine and a box car. The time of the accident of course involved darkness. His many friends here will sincerely regret to learn of this accident and Spencely's lamented death.

Ideal Protection Against Inroads of Catarrh

BY BREATHING THE RICH, BALMY VAPOR OF CATARRHOZONE YOU PREVENT AND CURE ALL HEAD, NOSE AND THROAT DISEASE.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhozone; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and nose soreness and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence, or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles, as "Catarrhozone." Doctors, hospitals, sanitariums, all say that for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness, or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as "Catarrhozone."

Victim of Chronic Catarrh Cured.

I contracted a severe cold while following my occupation of furniture travelling, and eventually it developed into Catarrh. The desultory mode of life I was following gave me very little chance to attend to the Catarrh condition, and at last I became a victim of Chronic Catarrh. I bought a large package of Catarrhozone, used it as per directions, and have never been bothered since. I will be only too glad to give any information I possess to any person suffering from the disease that was the bane of my life two years.

A. H. SWARTZ, Brockville, Ont.

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhozone, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment guaranteed, price $1, smaller size 50c.; at all druggists, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N. Y., U.S.A.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Richard Hall will not receive to-day and not again this season.

Miss Ethel Watson of Lakefield, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Shadgett, of George street.

Mr. J. B. Rose, of Montreal, was in the city yesterday attending the funeral of his sister.

Mr. William Cummings, of Montreal, an old Peterborough boy, is in the city on business.

Miss Edith Yourex, of Norwood, is the guest of Miss L. Tully, Stewart street, for a few days.

Lindsay Post: Messrs. J. C. McNaughton and Harry Phelan, Peterborough, were in town this morning.

Lindsay Post: Mrs. J. Shields, of Peterborough, was in the town last evening.

Miss Fannie C. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, is visiting friends in the city. She is staying at 526 Water street.

Mr. W. Stock, Bethany, was in the city yesterday and dropped in to The Times office to renew his subscription to this great family journal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Turner, Lachine, P.Q., formerly of this city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Mae, to Mr. William Sutton Nelson of Winnipeg. The wedding will take place quietly on February 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaul, of Edmonton, are in the city for a few days renewing old acquaintances. Mrs. McCaul was formerly Miss Hattie Douglass, Brock street. At present they are the guests of Mr. McCaul's sister, Mrs. R. J. Edmison, Bridgenorth Road.

BIRTH.

SAUNDERS—To Mr. and Mrs. David Saunders, 32 Barnardo Avenue, on February 11th, 1912, a daughter. Both mother and child doing well.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Lindsay's big winter carnival opened yesterday with auspicious weather.

This is nomination day in South Renfrew. By this evening the telegraph wires will probably be hot as they carry the results.

The Ontario Government is discussing a bill which is to compel every county in the Province, not having a House of Refuge to establish one. Fortunately this county has got a building of the kind referred to.

Thos. A. Edison, the electric wizard, was 65 years old last Sunday. It may be of interest to note that Mr. A. O. Tate, an old Peterborough boy was for many years Mr. Edison's private secretary.

The Ontario Government is now considering a new act respecting "Pounds," i.e., land wherein animals straying may be detained. Now here is a chance for some of the local seekers for government jobs to apply for pound-keeper.

For the first time in 27 years Seneca and other central New York lakes are frozen. We would shake hands with the folks along the margins of these lakes, and handkerchief in hand condole with them over the domination of King Frost.

A Paris, France, despatch says that girls are bodied together like the proverbial Paris Apaches to rob men of everything they have got. Pshaw! In this city, without a regular combination, are stealing men's hearts, and that is a worse theft than watches and coin!

The Directors of the Peterborough Exhibition Association held a banquet last night at Hooper's Palm Gardens. Changes and improvements to the grounds were discussed. Mr. J. H. Garbutt very ably occupied the chair.

MARGARET COX HOME STOPS BOARDING HOUSE.

Stenographers and Bookkeepers Will Have to Seek Other Quarters.

Mr. Owens, Toronto, manager of the Barnardo Homes in Canada, was here a day or two ago on business. During his stay Mr. Owens gave The Times a call and remarked that under Lloyd-George's regime in England, financial matters are so affected that subscriptions to Dr. Barnardo's great works of charity have fallen off badly. This is displayed right here in Peterborough. The Margaret Cox home here, for the past year, or so, rented a house at 453 Water street as an overflow place of residence for their stenographers and bookkeepers. Whilst here Mr. Owens notified the owner of this property that financial conditions would not permit him, or the Margaret Cox Home to continue in possession of this extra house. Thus the premises at 453 Water street will be vacant on expiration of their present lease. It is understood that the young ladies who have resided there will have to find boarding places wherever they can. The Margaret Cox Home is doing a good work and is a great help to our merchants, so present conditions will be regretted throughout the city.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

REPRESENTING THE

American Chemicals Corporation

wish to announce that the books of the Corporation will be open for the first public offering of its TREASURY STOCK AT PAR, ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR PER SHARE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1912, AT 10 A.M. ALL shares common shares, fully-paid, non-assessable. Treasury Stock 500,000 shares, to be sold for the benefit of the Corporation. Only 100,000 shares will be sold at $1.00 per share at this offering. The subscription books of the Corporation will close promptly at NOON, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912. 20 per cent. of each subscription must accompany same, balance due and payable in four equal monthly payments of 20c per share each. Subscriptions will be filled in the order received. Over-Subscriptions may be filled at $1.25 per share at the options of the subscriber for the next 50,000 shares. $1.50 for the next 50,000 shares, or any part thereof. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions.

CAPITAL.

The American Chemicals Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par. value of $1.00 each. All shares common shares, fully paid, non-assessable. 500,000 shares in Treasury, 500,000 shares issued for inventions, processes and trade secrets.

PURPOSE.

The American Chemicals Corporation owns and controls inventions, formulas and secret processes for the manufacture of nitro-cellulose products or plastic material, better known as Celluloid, Fiberloid, Viscaloid, etc., for use in the arts and trades.

REDUCED COSTS.

Exhaustive tests prove that the American Chemicals Corporation can manufacture this staple article of commerce for half the present cost of production.

CONTROL MARKETS.

The American Chemicals Corporation can control the world's markets of its industry by its superior product and low cost of production.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

No more profitable investment can be had than that in a corporation controlling the world's markets in any industry.

Plastic-material manufacture such as will be conducted by the American Chemicals Corporation has always been a very profitable industry.

100 PER CENT. SUCCESSFUL.

Every factory producing plastic material has been an immensely profitable enterprise. There has never been a failure.

PAST PROFITS.

Court records for State of Massachusetts show that $4,000.00 invested in this industry in 1885, paid 500 per cent. profit each year and in September, 1911, had a market value of $500,000.00 (the manager of the American Chemicals Corporation was Chief Chemist of this Company.)

American Chemicals Corporation should do as well, possibly better, as American Chemicals Corporation tests prove that it can manufacture a much superior article at less than half the present cost.

Mr. J. G. Jarvis, the first manufacturer of plastic material in America, has accepted the presidency of the American Chemicals Corporation.

PRESIDENT.

Mr. Jarvis began the manufacture of plastic material in 1874 and has been identified with its production ever since. He is now Manager of Parsons & Parsons and Parsons & Jackson, Manufacturers of Celluloid Products, with factories at Cleveland, Ohio and Hamilton, Ontario.

DIRECTOR.

Professor O. W. Pickering, who was Professor of Chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., before actively engaged in plastic material manufacturing, has accepted the general managership of the American Chemicals Corporation. Professor Pickering has been identified with plastic material manufacture for the past twenty years, and is acknowledged the leading expert in plastic material chemistry. Very many of the improvements and cost saving devices of the industry are the result of Professor Pickering's invention and research.

OUTPUT.

The American Chemicals Corporation factory will have an initial production of 4000 pounds per day. This production should give a profit of more than 50 per cent. a year on the par value of its stock.

PRODUCTION AND PROFIT.

4000 lbs. daily selling at 99c lb.	$3,600.00
4000 lbs. daily cost at 30c lb.	1,200.00
Daily Profit	$2,400.00
Monthly Profit, 26 days	62,400.00
Yearly Profits	$748,800.00

More than 74 per cent. on the par value of entire capitalization.

Factory production should be doubled after first year.

DEMAND.

The demand and consumption of plastic material exceeds supply. The four factories in this industry in America output 60,000 lbs. daily. Increasing demand and new uses have required an increase of 100 per cent. yearly, for the past six years. New uses demand even a greater increase in the future.

PRODUCTS.

Professor Pickering has perfected an imitation of Ivory for Billiard Balls, Piano Keys, and the Arts, equal to real Ivory; a reproduction of Linen for Collars and Cuffs, almost impossible to detect; Sheets for Auto Windows and Wind Shields, as strong as metal and clear as glass.

NEW USES.

Mr. Jarvis has perfected a material with the tensile strength of metal and without its friction, for gears and bearings for Autos and other fine machinery.

BY-PRODUCT.

In addition to plastic material, Professor Pickering has perfected a lacquer for metal and wood that is superior to anything ever produced. Manufacturing cost less than 20 per cent. of present of inferior articles. Brass bed manufacturers, silversmiths and chandelier makers have been anxiously awaiting the perfection of such a lacquer for years.

MARKET.

The market for the products of the American Chemicals Corporation is assured by the association with it of Messrs. Jarvis and Pickering, who have grown up with the industry, and whose reputation already offers for the entire production of the plant, could be booked at highly profitable prices from their immediate friends in the trade.

Having investigated every detail of the American Chemicals Corporation and its industry, we unhesitatingly advise the purchase of its securities, and fully believe investors will find it the most profitable investment on the market.

Respectfully,

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY
SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Further particulars and full details on request, without obligation either in person at above address, or by mail.

And now ye of

The Tread Mill

Give Ear

Unto The Word

There may be a way to make your daily life more COMFORTABLE.

You must keep on "sawing wood" for the family, you know, but when the vital forces recede a bit and you join the "cadaverous" army, look sharp to your food and drink. Remember this fact that one wide-spread cause of a brain worker's downfall into nervous prostration and a variety of disorders is

Tea and Coffee

Don't believe it! You say.

Make test and convince yourself, for therein lies a chance for relief. Try leaving off the tea and coffee ten days. Use in their place good, well-made

POSTUM

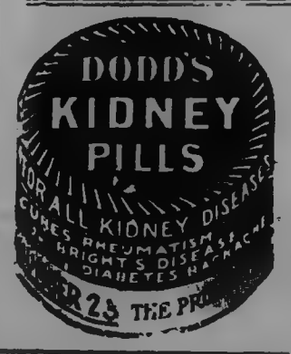
In a few days many feel the old-time spring of health, and the daily toil becomes pleasure once more. The evening pastime brings happiness, and the sound sleep of boyhood comes once again to cheer and refresh.

There is no joy on earth quite so satisfying as the PERFECT POISE OF HEALTH. Generally it's yours for the taking.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

"There's a Reason"

Postum is made of Canadian Wheat, by Canadian Labor.
Canadian Postum Cereal Company, Limited, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.



MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD

What is Going on in the Pretty Northern Village.

Mr. H. Woods, spent a few days in Oshawa this week.

Mr. E. Singer spent a few days in Toronto this week on business.

Misses Lulu and Gladys Pearson, of Bobcaygeon, are the guests of Miss Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mills and Mr. Dalton McBeth were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Graham, at Uplands for the week end.

Mr. Wm. the popular agent for the Massey-Harris Co., for this district, returned on Thursday from Paisley, Ont., where he had been visiting friends.

Mr. John Quinlan, Miss Annie Quinlan and Miss Sadie Quinlan, of Detroit, Mich. and Mr. Wm. Quinlan, of Amherstburg, are visiting their sister, Mrs. A. Ridpath.

Mr. A. Isbister spent a few days in Toronto this week visiting friends.

Mrs. James Vincent was in Peterborough a few days last week visiting friends.

Miss Viola Magee, of Peterborough spent Sunday in the village visiting friends.

Miss Kathleen Vincent of Peterborough spent Sunday at her home in the village.

Mr. W. E. Brisbin, of Peterborough spent a few days in the village this week.

Messrs. T. Braden and J. M. Bygott were in Toronto this week attending the annual convention of Fairs and Exhibitions, as delegates from the local society.

Miss Blanche Kidd is visiting in Dummer.

A young couple wandered into one of our local stores a few days ago, and asked for a certain article valued at $2.00. They made a slight mistake. The village clerk's office was the right place to go.

The first and only grand masquerade carnival will be held in the Lakefield skating rink on Friday evening, Feb. 16th, 1912, where splendid prizes will be given for the different costumes.

Big Opening Tomorrow
RED MILL THEATRE

Peterboroughs Leading Place of Amusement Under New Management

Under New Management.

This Theater will run only the best films that money can buy, including all special features in this line. Up-to-date, life-sized pictured songs. Open daily from 1 to 11 P.M. Nothing offensive allowed. Ladies and children cordially invited to this comfortable house.

5c - Admission - 5c.

This price never changes.

NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes of the genito-urinary tract, such as gonorrhoea, gleet, whites, unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Big G is prescribed by the leading physicians because it is safe and sure. It has promptly relieved and cured in the shortest possible time the most obstinate cases. Big G is sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, or 6 bottles for $5.00.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

J. W. EDWARDS

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1208.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, all ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some dv'l at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your bild much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require bone sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 41 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

BANK MESSENGERS IN NEW YORK WERE HELD UP AND ROBBED

Sensation This Morning in American Metropolis---Robbers Jumped Into Machine and Pounded Messengers

New York, Feb. 15.—Twenty-five thousand dollars in currency was stolen from a taxicab in the heart of the financial district this morning by two highwaymen who sprang into the vehicle and overpowered W. F. Smith and Frank Wardell, messengers of the East River National Bank at 680 Broadway. Both messengers were very badly injured, and the robbers escaped with the money—$15,000 in five dollar bills and $10,000 in one hundred dollar bills. The currency was being transported from the Produce Exchange Bank in the lower part of the city.

The taxicab had proceeded up Broadway without mishap, when for some unexplained reason the chauffeur turned west into Church street and began to pass the rear of Trinity Church yard. About midway of the old cemetery three men sprang from the curb. One jumped on the chauffeur's seat, the other two got into the vehicle. The man on the seat pressed a revolver against the chauffeur, Gino Martini, and commanded him to drive swiftly on without making an outcry.

POUNDED MEN ON THE HEAD.

Inside the vehicle the two robbers were belaboring the bank messengers over the head. Smith, one of the messengers, is 61 years old, and he was bleeding and almost unconscious when the taxicab reached Park place a few blocks up. Wardell was badly beaten about the head, but not seriously hurt.

At Park Place the highwaymen jumped from the taxicab, bearing a tin box which they had wrested from the messengers, and which contained the currency. In a flash they had sprung into a big black automobile, which seemed to be waiting their coming, and were quickly lost in the maize of traffic.

Martini, the taxicab chauffeur, continued to run his machine until he had accosted a policeman. Here he gave the alarm and the two injured messengers were taken to the police station. Smith's condition was serious and had to be removed to the hospital. Wardell's scalp was badly lacerated, but because of his youth he stood the fight well.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

THE GARBAGE QUESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Is the matter of the Garbage law to be dropped? I hope not. This is one thing that the Council ought to put through. The poor man is not allowed to keep a pig in the city to eat his potato peelings and other things like that and he can't afford to put up half a dollar all the time to have such stuff taken away. I heard from a friend of mine a few days ago in Calgary that that city is going to buy five acres on which to put up an incinerator. If the land Mr. Williams has for years rented the city is not now in use for this purpose, the city ought to get other land and have the garbage taken away regular.

Workingman.

WANTS BETTER CITY BUILDINGS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In reading a copy of a Calgary paper sent me a few days ago, I seen that the new City Hall there is already crowded. The piece I read says the city officers will have to get new accommodations. If a new City Hall is not able to accommodate the city officers of Calgary, how about the City Hall of Peterborough? Although a working man who has hard work to pay taxes I would like the city to get on. Any stranger in Peterborough who might ask for the City Hall would certainly get sick when the City Hall of Peterborough is shown to him. Is it not time that this City has a building as good as Peterborough should have?

—Worker.

MADE IN PETERBOROUGH SHOW.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Sydney recently spoke on the duties of the Senate and House, when I stopped a few bright intelligent business men were talking about the "Made in Canada" exhibition. I saw an article in your paper a few days ago suggesting that Peterborough should follow the example set by Lindsay and have a "Made in Peterborough" exhibition. You, Mr. Editor, and your staff are to be congratulated on your loyal support of Peterborough and the strenuous way your paper always advocates everything to boom this city. Allow me, sir, to respectfully endorse your action. If a little town like Lindsay can put up an exhibition of their home-made goods, why cannot Peterborough with larger factories, making goods of international fame, have a "Made at Home" or rather "Made in Peterborough," exhibition that would not only pay for itself, but bring hundreds and hundreds of outside buyers to this city? Boom this town, Mr. Editor! If we do not blow our own trumpet of fame, it is certain that competitive outside towns will not blow it for us.

Merchant.

ADDRESS ON PROTESTANTISM.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—To-night at 8 o'clock in the schoolroom of St. James' church, the pastor, Rev. G. Brown will read a paper on "Will Rome Reconquer England?" All protestants of both sexes are cordially invited and will be welcomed.

In these days when Rome is striving with might and main for supremacy, it behooves all Protestants worthy of the name, to take a deep and sincere interest in all matters that effect their religious and civil liberty. Since Mr. Borden so emphatically stated in the House, that "The State is supreme over the Church," Rome is redoubling her efforts to gain control and influence, and in many cases they are assisted by the Liberal press. Both are anxious to turn the Borden Government out—it is too Protestant. Proof of this can be seen by the criticisms in the Liberal and Romish press on the Conservative members of the Government.

Protestants must realize the weak-

Continued on Page 8.

CANADAS NEW SERVICE BULLET IS A TERROR

There used to be a saying in military circles to the effect "Get behind the biggest oak tree you can find for safety." This advice, when the new Canadian bullet is used is of no avail. The new needle-shaped bullet soon to be issued to the Canadian troops will put an end to such precautions. The bullet has a velocity of 2,700 feet per second, and will penetrate an oak tree 38 inches in diameter, at five hundred yards. It goes so much faster and in the air so much less time that the wind has comparatively little effect on it. At 500 yards it will penetrate: Hard steel plate 7-16 inches thick; Brick and cement 9 inches thick, Hardwood with grain, 38 inches; Loose sand 30 inches thick; Softwood, 56 inches; Clay, 60 inches.

LORD STRATHCONA IS FAVORABLE TO ALLIANCE

Toronto, Feb. 15.—A cable from Lord Strathcona was read at the mass meeting in connection with the annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, in reply to a message of greeting sent to the High Commissioner, in which, after stating that "the devotion in which the word 'home' is regarded by all classes in Canada makes for the importance which honorably distinguishes Canada among all the countries of the world." His Lordship said the work in which the organization was engaged was well worthy of earnest endeavor and wished it every success.

Real Men Wanted

To "make good," requires a man's unhampered ability.

Frequently, headaches and other annoying ills, brought on by the habitual use of coffee and tea, make it quite impossible for a man to think clearly and do his best work.

POSTUM

—made of clean, hard wheat—is really a food-drink, and used regularly in place of coffee or tea, which contain the drug, caffeine, has helped thousands of people in every walk of life, by removing the handicap to NATURAL ability.

The change to Postum for, say, 10 days, may point the way for you.

"THERE'S A REASON"

Postum is made of Canadian Wheat, in a Canadian Factory, by Canadian Labor.

Canadian Postum Cereal Company Ltd Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

SHOT AT POLICEMAN AND KILLS WOMAN

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 15.—Robt. G. Warner, a Boston newspaper man, was the chief witness yesterday in the case against Joseph G. Ettor and Arthur Giovanitto, charged with being accessories before the fact, to the death of Anna Lopizzo, killed during a strike riot.

Warner described the man who fired the fatal shot as a tall Italian and said that the shot was aimed at a policeman named Benoit.

Benoit also testified, telling of a threat to kill, hurled at him by an unknown man, who then struck him with a dagger.

The hearing was continued yesterday.

New Rolling Stock for Grand Trunk.

To augment present equipment the Grand Trunk System have recently placed orders for over four thousand cars of various kinds. These include 44 passenger coaches, 23 baggage coaches cars, 300 box cars, and 1,000 coal cars. In addition to the above, 946 cars of all kinds have been received from the manufacturers and put into service during the past three months.

THERE IS A DIVORCE COURT IN EVERY ROMAN CATHOLIC COUNTRY

Our excellent contemporary, The Orange Sentinel, says that the Roman Catholic Church has established a divorce court in every diocese in Quebec, and in every other Catholic country.

That church professes to abhor divorce. It fulminates against divorce by civil courts with such vigor and persistence as to convince unthinking Protestants that Rome is a guardian of the sanctity of marriage.

What is divorce anyway? Is it anything more or less than separating man and wife? Does it really make any difference what the procedure may be?

A judge in the United States will grant a divorce upon the grounds of incompatability of temper? A Bishop in Quebec will annul a marriage on the ground that the officiating priest was not the parish priest of one of the parties. In our judgment the one excuse is quite as flimsy as the other. The argument of Roman Catholics that an ecclesiastical decree has not been strictly observed appears to us in the light of a mere subterfuge. The intent of both parties was to enter into matrimony. They did so with all the sacramental solemnity prescribed by the Roman Church. That being the case the union should be indissoluble, if there were any sincerity in the Roman doctrine.

The annulment of marriages upon such pretexts as that we have quoted (and which is an actual occurrence) gives weight to the charge made against the Roman Church that the Papacy desires to get a monopoly of marriage and divorce for the money there is in it.

A Roman Bishop will not dissolve a marriage without payment. Neither will a civil court. In the one case the costs of the court must be met. An advocate must be retained. Fees must be paid to all the officials. A similar process is involved in an action before an ecclesiastical court. The cost of a dispensation is, like the charge of lawyers, adjusted to the means of the litigants. There have been cases in which a dispensation has cost $20,000. Like that secured by the Duke of Aosta. This nobleman, in 1868, was given a dispensation to marry his niece, the Princess Laetitia, for which he paid £4,000. Nor was he the only man permitted to marry his niece. In the divorce courts of the United States decrees have cost as much or more.

The circumstances surrounding both kinds of separations are identical. Nor can it truthfully be said that the judges of the Roman courts are one whit more particular as to the grounds upon which they annul marriages than the most mercenary justices of the divorce courts of North Dakota. In fact the law does not supply them with so many invalidating impediments upon which to rest their decisions as the Canon law provides for the judges of the ecclesiastical courts.

The Contemporary Review, June, 1903, contained the following: "Blackstone tells us numberless ceremonial impediments were thrown by the church in the way of marriage, the object being not only to enrich the coffers of the church by the granting of dispensations, but to give it a great ascendancy over Princes of all kinds, whose alliances were sanctioned or reprobated, their issue legitimatized or otherwise, and the succession to their thrones established or rendered precarious according to the honor or interest of the reigning Pontiff."

PAPAL DECREES POINT WARNING

London, Feb. 15.—At a meeting yesterday, Mr. J. H. Campbell, M.P., characterized the ne temere as an insolent attempt on the part of a foreign power to overrule the law of the land. It was an amazing act of aggression and insolence with an incomprehensible motive.

The Vatican had issued a decree known as the motu proprio, concerning which the Roman Catholic lord chancellor, Roman Catholic attorney-general and Roman Catholic solicitor-general daren't put the law in motion where any priest was involved, without incurring excommunication at the hands of the Pope. It was a far-reaching blow to civil freedom, especially in Ireland, the majority of whose population were devoted to their clergy. Was it any wonder when these things were being done on the eve of the expected triumph of home rule that the Protestants of Ireland were getting thoroughly alarmed as to the future?

Not an Irish Roman Catholic M.P. had given any assurance as to these decrees. It was said the Pope could dispense with the application of the decree in England for Ireland, but therein lay a danger. He might dispense with it, but when Ireland got home rule he could reapply it. It depended on the Pope's own caprice. This was not going to [illegible] and religious liberties to depend on the caprice of any man. (Cheers).

Sir Edward Carson declared that administration by an executive accountable only to the Irish Parliament could do what it pleases. "If you were to fill the bill with volumes of so-called guarantees, we don't want guarantees, we know their illusion; we know they don't mean to keep them. We had the same statements when county councils were set up in Ireland. They then said there would be fair play, but the councils were hardly set up when they said, 'We will turn the county councils, if necessary, into political organizations to carry out our work.' Our best guarantee is reliance upon ourselves."

SAY IRISH SCHOOLBOYS MURDERED THEIR MASTER

New York, Feb. 15.—A cable from Dublin says: Eight schoolboys were arrested to-day, charged with the murder of John Kelly, assistant master of an industrial school in County Meath.

The boys, it is alleged, waylaid Kelly while he was making his round Monday night and beat him to death with sticks.

THE WEATHER.

Not much change in temperature.

Suggestion for a statue to be erected beside the Laurier Tower at Ottawa.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVE IN WEST

Transcona Park, Subdivision in Winnipeg Takes a Boom

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT

Those Who Invest In This Fine Subdivision Are Likely to Make Big Money—A Good Stake for the Small as Well as the Large Investor.

For some time the attention of the public of Peterborough and surrounding district has been directed, through the advertising columns of The Times, to the splendid investments offered by Messrs. Clark & Munro, selling agents for Transcona Park, 513 Somerset Building, Winnipeg, Man. The Winnipeg Free Press, of the 9th inst., in referring to this valuable property says:

Long past the days of mushroom growth, although still growing at a prodigious rate the city of Winnipeg now enjoys the spectacle of a suburban "city of a night" springing into being at its gates. Transcona, the site of which two years ago was bald and for the most part untilled prairie is now a town of 1,500 people, and bids fair to rival in time the principal cities of Manitoba.

Authoratitative statements from officials of the Transcontinental Railway place the number of men to be ultimately employed in the shops at Transcona at 6,000, and the nucleus of this mechanical army will move into the town during the month of March. The factory of Eley Brothers Canada, Limited, the Canadian house of the celebrated English cartridge manufacturers, is now completed, and will provide work for a small army of operatives and [illegible]. The Eley factory is located about [illegible] Transcona, and consists of the factory proper, a building [illegible] in extent, two storage warehouses, a boiler and power house, employees' lunch room, and a number of special apartments for cartridge filling. At a distance of 150 feet from the main buildings are four large powder magazines, distant 156 feet from each other.

Less than a mile northwest of Transcona are the factory and storage buildings of the Dominion Tar and Chemical company. The main factory of this company is in a corrugated iron building, 150 feet long and 60 feet wide. Adjoining this is a boiler house and machine shop. At the rear of the factory are four iron creosote tanks having a combined capacity of 196,000 gallons. It is expected that this factory, operated by an English company, will be considerably enlarged next year, and the Canadian directors are at present in London in connection with the proposed extension.

Real Estate Active.

With the promise of so great an increase in population within the next two or three years, it is not surprising that the values in well located Transcona properties are rapidly increasing. Prices of Regent street frontage have doubled since last spring, and choice corners are difficult to obtain. A well known Dauphin hotel man is at the present time trying to secure a suitable location for the erection of a high class hotel. There are already four hotels in the town, whose capacity is taxed to the utmost.

While $175 per foot is regarded as the ruling price for vacant property on Regent street between Oxford and Winona streets, well located corners are held much higher. So high a valuation as $500 per foot is placed by fortunate owners on certain corner sites, which cannot be regarded as on the market in the ordinary sense of the term. Residential values continue to increase steadily, although there is an entire absence of anything of the nature of boom conditions. Choice building lots in the residential quarters have changed hands recently at prices ranging from $25 to $50 per foot.

DRASTIC MEASURES BY LINDSAY LIBERALS.

The Young Liberal Club of Lindsay held a largely attended meeting on Wednesday night with President Knight in the chair. The following somewhat startling resolution was brought forward and will be discussed at the next regular meeting on Feb. 27th:

"Believing that a great deal of unnecessary expense and trouble is caused both parties by the present laws, be it resolved that every voter be compelled to vote on pain of having his name dropped off the rolls at the next election; and second, that all canvassing for registration or voting be absolutely prohibited."

The following officers were elected:
President—L. R. Knight.
1st Vice—H. Brimmell.
2nd Vice—W. Kelcher.
Sec.—W. Knowlson.
Ass.-Sec.—W. Kirkconnell.
Executive committee—B. Wilson, K. Lawrence, G. Eyres, Jas. Gillogly, C. Cunningham and Phil Burke.
The fee for active members $1.00.
The club will meet every two weeks on Tuesday evening, the next meeting being on Feb. 27th.

U. S. NAVY READY FOR REVOLT IN THE ISTHMUS OF PANAMA

It seems that the contemplated revolution in Panama was first originated by Captain Beers, acting as Cromwell's agent on the Isthmus. He was the man who fomented the trouble. This is an authority by Mr Hall. Mr. Hall read from records in the Navy Department to prove that the Secretary of the Navy had given orders to the United States ships on the Atlantic and Pacific Coast to "prepare for a revolution in Panama."

He was asked by a member of the committee whether any money had been paid to encourage the revolution.

"There was $100,000 telegraphed by the new Panama Canal Company to the instigators of the revolution" he replied. "and besides $100,000 was borrowed from the Bowling Green Trust Company, of New York City, on securities furnished by Cromwell."

Mr. Hall charged that President Roosevelt, in his correspondence sent to the State bearing on the negotiations with the republic of Columbia for the control of the Panama Canal strip, failed to send all the facts and papers bearing on the subject.

PROHIBIT SALE OF CIGARETTES

Lax Control of Children by Parents Has Contributed to the Evil

MR. BORDEN'S REPLY

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—A deputation, one hundred strong, representing the W.C.T.U., invaded Premier Borden's office at noon to-day and asked that the Government enact a law prohibiting in Canada the sale and manufacture of cigarettes.

Mr. Borden's reply was the quintessence of frankness. He was very much impressed, he said, with the earnestness and sincerity of the ladies and their desire for the future welfare of the country. He would remind them, however, that one of the very worst possible things in the way of enacting of laws was the placing on the statute books of legislation that is not observed. He thought that the subject was one that was surrounded with difficulties, and very many things were to be taken into consideration.

Mr. Borden also thought the control of parents over their children had somewhat lessened during the last 25 years. This, perhaps, has contributed to the growth of the evil.

In concluding, Mr. Borden said that he fully realized the importance of the question, and would give it every attention.

VARIOUS KINDS OF LIES TOLD BY SOCIETY PEOPLE

CHICAGO PROFESSOR GIVES AN ANALYSIS OF MENDACITY.

Of All Lies the Adulterative Lie is By Long Odds the Very Worst—Next Comes the Heroic Lie.

Chicago, Ills., Feb. 15.—Ten different kinds of lies have been discovered diagnosed, and analyzed by Dr. Allen Hoben, professor of sociology in the University of Chicago, after observation extending over many months. The different kinds of lies he characterized on Sunday night last as follows:

The fantasy or fairy tale lie; the vain-glorious or boasting lie; the defensive lie; the heroic lie; the white or permissable lie; the society lie; the business lie; the adulterative lie.

"The fantasy or fairy tale lie," he said, is that which the very young child invents from his or her own imagination. There is practically no moral quality in very young children.

"The vainglorious or boasting falsehood, is that by which the child constantly exaggerates things he or she has done.

"The defensive lie among children is induced by fear.

WORST LIE OF ALL.

"The heroic lie, is that which is told by one who wishes to save another from punishment by avowing faults which he has not committed.

"The white lie is usually told by conscientious and even religious persons, and consists in hiding the truth while appearing to tell it.

"The society lie is the most frequent. We all know the society lie. It is on the increase I fear.

"The business lie has a thousand forms, and many business men know them to their sorrow.

"For a definition of the professional lie, I would refer to any high-minded lawyer or physician.

"The art lie is the best understood by those who know how many paintings and other works of newly manufactured near-art are palmed off on wealthy amateurs.

"The most injurious and one of the most common of all lies is the modern adulterative lie, which results in giving us oleomargarine for butter, cotton-seed oil for olive oil, red ink for wine, and wood alcohol for whiskey."

What's worse on a car
When taking a nap,
Than to have a fat woman
Fall into your lap?

CHLOROFORMED DYING FIREMAN

He Could Not Be Released From Burning Wreckage

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED

Yarmouth, Maine, Feb. 15.—Three trainmen were burned to death in a freight wreck on the Grand Trunk Railroad near the North Yarmouth Station this morning. Two freight trains collided with terrific impact, the wreckage igniting. Three firemen in one of the locomotives were buried beneath the mass and were roasted to death.

Those who lost their lives were:
Ray Jordan, Yarmouth, fireman
Harry Corliss, Island Pond Vt.
—Barnes, Island Pond.

Corliss was alive when the villagers reached the wreck. The wreckage was burning fiercely and it was seen that it was absolutely impossible to release him. Corliss asked that they give him something to ease his sufferings, and chloroform was administered by a physician.

Shortly after the villagers were driven back by the heat and the men were incinerated in view of the helpless spectators.

WRESTLED WITH WOMAN

Norwood Man Absorbs Too Much Tea and Incurs a Fine of Ten Dollars Which He Did Not Have.

John Rogers, a wheelmaker of Norwood, appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday charged with assault and pleaded guilty. The complainant William Leach, stepped into the witness box with one eye partially closed, head badly bruised and the thumb of his right hand tied up in bandages.

His evidence was to the effect that he and the prisoner had had words, the latter's mouth was full of [illegible]. Then they adjourned to the complainant house, where further refreshments, consisting of tea and toast and a small bottle of liquor were enjoyed. It was here that the fuss began which led to the assault. The prisoner started to wrestle with Leach's wife and the latter threw him down and held him there. Leach interfered and ordered Rogers to get out. After a time the two left the house intending to go to the C.P.R. station, where the prisoner was to have taken train for home. While passing along Murray street, the wrestling incident caused an argument which resulted in Rogers assaulting Leach. The latter said that the prisoner struck him on the head and knocked him down and wounded up by biting his thumb and running swiftly down the railway tracks. Leach notified the police and the arrest of the prisoner followed soon after.

Mrs. Jessie Leach corroborated the evidence of the former witness. She said that Rogers grabbed her by the arms and threw her over the stove damper, remarking at the same time that "he could lick anybody in the house or in Peterborough."

His Worship here asked if the tea was not a little strong.

Rogers on evidence, said that the trouble first commenced by Mrs. Leach grabbing hold of him and throwing him down. The defendant said that when he was leaving the house he took the lady by the arms and said "Good bye Jess." Leach then took him by the throat. His Worship then imposed a fine of ten dollars to be paid forthwith, in default of payment, 15 days in jail. As the prisoner did not have the necessary simoleons, steps were taken to notify some of his friends in Norwood.

PRINCESS THEATRE

SPECIAL

Big Feature Film

"BOMEO & JULIET"

SHAKESPEAR'S MASTERPIECE IN MOTION PICTURES.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

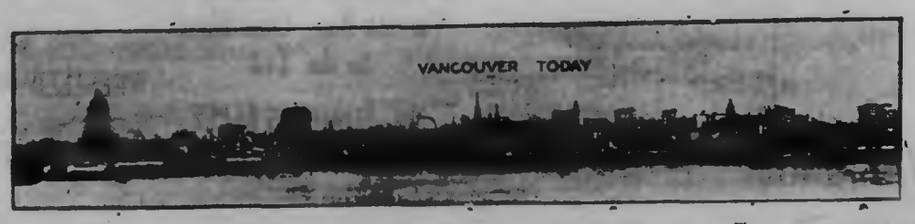
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 15,000 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash, or on the instalment plan—$10.00 cash and $5.00 per month heading 100 shares. Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited
432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $160 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Torrens Title Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

BASE STEALING RECORDS

In Twenty Years Few Went Over the 100 Mark

No world's record in the matter of base-stealing was broken, or equalled in 1911. The most noteworthy performance of the season was by Outfielder Cobb of Detroit, who set a new American League record with 83 stolen bases in 146 games. During the 1910 season William H. Zimmerman of Newark, outfielder on the Utica team of the New York State League, broke the record for baseстealing in organised baseball for the last fifteen years. In the 1910 season he stole 105 bases in 135 games. During the 1910 season, also, Outfielder Sheffield of the Victoria (Southwest Texas League) stole 94 bases in 105 games—the best performance of the 1910 season for the number of games played. There have only been five times from 1890 to 1910 when more than 100 bases have been stolen in one season by a player. In 1890, Stovey of the Players' League stole 135 bases, and Hamilton of the National League stole 102 bases. In 1891, Hamilton stole 115 bases, and Brown of the American Association stole 110 beses. In 1896, Lange of Chicago stole 100 bases. From that time until 1910 no player in any league made a century of stolen bases. As a matter of timely interest, and to show the long period of basestealing retrogression—which appears to be, happily, ending contemporaneously with the increase in batting produced by the new cork-centre ball—we have compiled the major league record of annual basestealing records for the past 22 years, which s appended:

1890—Hamilton, Philadelphia N.L.	102
1890—Stovey, Boston Players' L..	136
1890—Welch, Athletics, Am. Assn.	96
1891—Hamilton, Philadelphia N.L.	115
1891—Brown, Boston Am. Assn..	119
1892—Brown, Louisville N.L.....	75
1893—Wardd, New York N.L. ..	72
1894—Hamilton, Philadelphia N.L.	99
1895—Hamilton, Philadelphia N.L.	96
1896—Lange, Chicago N.L.....	100
1897—Lange, Chicago N. L.....	83
1898—Clarke, Louisville N. L....	66
1899—Sheckard, Brooklyn N.L...	76
1900—Barrett, Cincinnati N.L....	44
1901—Hartsel, Chicago N.L.....	48
1901—Isbell, Chicago A.L.....	48
1902—Wagner, Pittsburg N.L.....	48
1902—Hartsel, Athletics A.L.....	54
1903—Sheckard, Brooklyn, and Chance, Chicago N.L....	67
1903—Bay, Cleveland A.L.....	46
1904—Wagner, Pittsburg N.L....	53
1904—Flick, Cleveland A.L.....	42
1905—Maloney, Cincinnati, and Devlin, New York N.L.	57
1905—Hoffman, Athletics A.L....	46
1906—Chance, Chicago N.L.....	57
1906—Milan, Washington A.L...	59
1907—Wagner, Pittsburg N.L....	61
1907—Cobb, Detroit A.L.....	49
1908—Wagner, Pittsburg N.L....	53
1908—Douherty, Chicago A.L....	47
1909—Bescher, Cincinnati N.L....	54
1909—Cobb, Detroit A.L.....	76
1910—Bescher, Cincinnati N.L....	70
1910—Collins, Athletics A.L.....	81
1911—Bescher, Cincinnati N.L....	80
1911—Cobb, Detroit A.L.....	83

J. S. McATHUR
The veteran proprietor of the T.A.A.C.

BOXER IN EVENING DRESS

A Writer Goes Into Ecstasy Over Kid McCoy's Appearance

Writing from Paris anent the introduction of Kid McCoy to the social favorites of the French capital in the hall of the National Sporting Club, Marcel Boulenger pictures the American athlete and boxer in evening dress, goes into ecstasy over what he terms the beauty of the scene, and concludes thus:

"Kid McCoy ascended the steps with perfect ease. He could well afford to wear a coat which did not, perhaps, come up to the height of fashion. The word elegance seemed to have been specially created for this descendant of the great Olympic athletes. It was neither the nerveless, sickly elegance as some of the primitives depict it, nor the languid grace of decadence. Far from either, it was with a majestic, nearly disdainful freedom that he walked and carried his head; his strength, broad shoulders, straight figure, conveyed an impression of health, power and calmness. He held court as a king might do. What a joy it was to behold this Hercules slim like a young tree, this pugilist with muscles of iron, who carried himself like a prince in the middle of the ring.

"I should have liked to see the expression on the faces of the various young dandies who idle away their time around our elegant bars or of our poor, young actors, who had hitherto believed fondly that a man can buy elegance at his tailors. But elegance must first be contained in the framework of a man, and then in his deportment."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of Thursday, the sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ared at Sorel.

2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.

3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.

4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Dipping Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON.
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

R. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1908. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates. Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 14, Con. 8, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq' District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

DAMAGED BY FIRE

Guelph, Feb. 13.—Fire was discovered in the third floor of the biological building at the Ontario Agricultural College at noon to-day. Two alarms were turned in and both college and city fire departments responded. Considerable damage was done, as there were valuable specimens in the building.

The fire started in the lecture room between the platform and the wall and proved very difficult to get at. Much damage was done by water and smoke. The wax work which is very valuable, was just removed by the students in time. The cause of the fire is thought to have been short circuiting of wires.

Fireman Lannan fell during the progress of the fire and fractured his skull.

NATIONALISTS WANT WHOLE HOG OR NONE

London, Feb. 14.—The Home Rule bill as announced by Winston Churchill, is being discussed all over Ireland and general disappointment is expressed over the financial proposals. Various public bodies suggest that if Ireland is not given full control of all taxes levied in the country a national convention should reject the proposal.

Patrick White, M.P., last night said that unless under Home Rule the Irish Parliament had full and free legislative authority the bill would be useless.

At a meeting of the executive of the United Irish League, held at Drogheda, N. T. Murphy said that the only measure of self-government acceptable would be one that would give Irishmen full power to deal with everything concerning Ireland and full control of every tax.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.	0.8505
Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that [illegible]. Get in on [illegible]. Don't [illegible]. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

LIFE-SAVING MEDAL

The King is to Honor Long and Meritorious Service

In a report relating to life-saving around the coasts of the United Kingdom, issued by the Board of Trade, it is stated that the King has approved of the institution of a medal for long and meritorious service with the rocket life-saving apparatus, which will be granted to enrolled Volunteers and brigademen.

"The institution of this medal, which can be earned under certain conditions by any member of a life-saving apparatus company or brigade, will, it is thought," says Mr. Walter Howell of the Marine Department of the Board of Trade, who signs the report, "be a source of much satisfaction, and this appreciaton will be enhanced by the fact that, with His Majesty's approval, it will commemorate the Coronation year."

Some interesting statistics are given in the report. During the year ended June 30, last, 142 lives were saved by means of the apparatus and gear connected therewith, being eight less than the number saved by the same means during the previous year, and 26 less than the average for the previous years.

The total number of lives saved by the life-saving apparatus since 1870, is 9,450. This number does not include the large number of lives saved by means of ropes and other assistance from the shore.

The total number of life-saving stations under the control of the Board of Trade is 346; there are also 257 stations supplied with belts, or belts and lines, for life-saving purposes.

During the year twelve silver and five bronze medals for gallantry in life-saving at sea were awarded by the King, and several additional money rewards were also granted for special services in connection with the working of the apparatus.

WILLIE'S LITTLE WAY

Pa was little, and Willie was big. The son's shoulder overtopped his father's head, and pa knew it.

But one day Willie was naughty. He needed correction. He was, in fact, spoiling for the want of the rod.

Ma did not feel equal to the occasion, so she served a subpoena on pa, demanding his presence and service.

"John," said she, glowering first at her husband and then at her son, "can't you speak to Willie?"

Papa looked up meekly, and, in a thin, weak voice, turned to his boy. "How d'ye do, Willie?" he asked. "Feeling all right?"

NO SALARY ATTACHED

They had met casually on the common, and had related to each other their adventures and misadventures since last they had been together. Patrick was working on a farm, but only that day he had received his back money, and had been told to go.

"And what'll ye do now, Mike?" asked his sympathetic listener.

"Oh, I'll go back to me former job!" answered Michael hopefully.

"Indade, now! And what was that?" queried Pat.

A sigh broke from Michael's lips, and he shook his head sorrowfully.

"Looking for work, begorra!" said he.

BANG!

Teacher:—"If the earth were empty inside it would resemble—"

Scholar:—"A razor."

Teacher:—"A razor? Why, Teddy?"

Scholar:—"Because it would be no low ground."

SOMEBODY GOT LEFT

"These shoes, sir, were worn by Charles I. on his way to be executed."

"He must have limped a bit."

"No, sir. He walked gracefully and calmly."

"Pish! I don't believe you. Both these shoes are for the right foot."

TROUBLE AT THE TOWER

"She was a good servant, was Jennie, and Mrs. Wanderfar never wished for better. But in the matter of pictures Jennie was weak. There was one in particular, which showed the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Every day Mrs. W. knew it straight, and every morning Jennie put it crooked.

So Mrs. W. watched.

"Now, look here, Jennie," she said, "you've hung that picture of the tower crooked again! Just look at it!"

"That's just what I say, mum," returned Jennie, [illegible] at it! The only way you can get the silly tower to hang straight is to hang the picture upside-down!"

Apply Zam-Buk to all wounds and sores and you will be surprised how quickly it stops the smarting and brings ease. It covers the wound with a layer of protective balm, kills all poison germs already in the wound, and prevents others entering. Its rich healing herbal essences then build up from the bottom, fresh tissues and in a wonderful'y short time the wound is healed!

Zam Buk's popularity is based on merit. Imitations never were cures. Be sure and get the real thing. "Zam-Buk" is printed on every packet of the genuine. Refuse all others, 50 all druggists and stores or Zam Buk Co., Toronto.

ZAM-BUK

ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT

Benevolent Lady:—"Little boy, will you give this temperance tract to your father?"

Urchin:—"You'd better [illegible] Benevolent Lady:—"Oh, how good, and you read the last tract that was given him!"

Urchin:—"No, leddy. He's training for a prize-fight."

THE DOCTOR'S LITTLE DODGE

"Yes," said the doctor, "you are in rather a bad way. You must follow my instructions very carefully."

"I will, doctor," said the patient.

"Now, to begin with, you eat too much. You must cut down your butcher's and grocer's bills by one-half."

"I'll do it, doctor."

"Right. Now, how do you go to the office every day?"

"By street car."

"Then, you must walk. Do you visit theatres?"

"Yes often."

"You must give them up. Do you smoke?"

"You must stop."

"Do you drink?"

"Yes."

"You must give up all drinking for a couple of months, and by that time—"

"Yes?"

"You will probably have saved $35.50, which is what you owe me for last year's medical attendance."

ONLY WAY HE KNEW

Minister:—"My good man, how do you go to the Police Station?"

Jimmy Crackafe:—"Usually in the patrol wagon."

A WOMAN'S WAY

"Charles," said his better half, sweetly, "you have held many high positions in life at various times."

"Um—ah!" said Charles, who had been married long enough to know that the least said soonest mended.

"And I have heard it said," his wife went on, "that your success was due to your personal magnetism; you can attract and draw men towards you."

"Ah—um!" said Charles, very slowly and very thoughtfully.

"Oh, don't be so bashful! I was only just wondering whether you were magnetic enough to draw the tacks from the front-room carpet before breakfast to-morrow morning!"

We make purity doubly sure by pasteurizing every bottle of
O'Keefe's
PILSENER LAGER
"The Light Beer in the Light Bottle"
It is the equal of any imported lager in purity and flavor—and costs about half because there is no duty to pay on it.
"The Beer with a Reputation"
212

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Royalty Pays Fares

Although, no doubt, every railway company would gladly convey His Majesty and the Queen free of charge, our rulers pay exactly the same price as anybody else for a special train, in addition to the first-class fare of every passenger by whom they may be accompanied in their respective suites.

The Queen's Jewels

Among the jewels the Queen most values is a chain of pearls presented to her as a wedding present by the women of twenty-three English counties. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed, but only $26,000 was spent on the necklace, and the other $5,000 was divided amongst various charities chosen by Her Majesty.

WHAT THE SOFA SAID

"I want," began the elderly man, after strolling round the furniture shop, "er—I want—well, you see, it's this way. There's a young man calls every night at our house—I have a daughter, you see—and—er—I suppose I ought to get a sofa for them—eh?"

"We have the very thing, sir," replied the suave assistant promptly. "Here you are, sir! 'Cupid's Retreat,' specially suited for courting couples."

"'Specially suited'?" repeated the fatherly one.

"Yes, sir. Observe the pretty covering; it is absolutely guaranteed to wear off in just six months!"

"But—but," stuttered the parent, "I don't understand!"

"And when worn off," went on the salesman, "it leaves displayed a card, upon which is written 'Time to Get Married!' Neat, isn't it, sir?"

A FATAL AILMENT

Passenger:—"I haven't seen Bill Jones who was conductor on this car for a long time."

Conductor:—"No. Bill ain't on the road no more. He got color-blind."

Passenger:—"Color blind?"

Conductor:—"Yes. He couldn't see which was his and which was the company's."

THE IMMORTAL WILLIAM

A motorist was stopped by a policeman, the light on his car being insufficient. He gave his card to the constable.

"G. B. Smith," read the man in blue. "Go on with you!" he exclaimed, "I want your proper name and address. We've too many Smiths about here. Now, look sharp!"

"Then," said the motorist, "if you must have it, it's William Shakespeare, Stratford-on-Avon."

"Thank you, sir," replied the policeman. "Sorry to have troubled you." And he carefully entered the particulars in his book.

Population of Paris

According to the census returns just published, the population of Paris is now 2,846,986, an increase of 134,886 since 1906.

Decayed Teeth

Following a medical examination, 78 per cent. of Surrey school children have been found to possess decayed teeth.

A World's Record

By making a flight in an aeroplane carrying twelve passengers, the French airman, Sommer, recently constituted a world's record.

ONE TO BRIDGET.

A lady had in her employ an enoch [illegible] girl who had one fault—her face was always grimy. Mrs. X., wishing to tell her to wash her face without offending her, at last resorted to strategy.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "that if you wash your face every day in hot soap and water, it will make you beautiful."

"Will it?" answered the wily Bridget. "Shure, it's a wonder ye never tried it, mum!"

BOUGHT AN ONTARIO FARM

Dr. John Standish, of the staff of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, after looking over many farms for a home in the Province of Ontario, purchased a fine 200-acre farm in the township of Esquesing, county of Halton, 2½ miles from Georgetown.

Regiment to a Menagerie

Banishment from the regiment to a menagerie has been the fate of the Himalayan bear, the pet of the 2nd Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, as the result of biting his keeper, and then escaping.

Don't look the other way when your Grocer tries to Show you Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath, Newly furnished throughout, American and European plan.

RATES: [illegible] plan, $1.50 per day [illegible] $2.50 per

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO
H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try o

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c. per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c. " "
GASOLINE - - - - -	20c. "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 199 Simcoe Street
Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

APSLEY.

Our village is unusually quiet just now on account of the state of the roads which are badly drifted in places. Still, a little excitement comes our way at times. As for instance, two of our divines who were out on their round of visiting last week had an experience they won't forget in a hurry. They were making a call late in the afternoon at a farm house north of Apsley. The man of the house not being well they were invited to put up the horse, which they proceeded to do, and while unhitching from the cutter heard something say Ma! The junior minister turned quickly and saw a very solemn-faced ram (and he was a noted fighter). He asked the ram why he did not say Pa. No doubt Mr. Ram took the remark as an insult, and when the gentleman turned to follow the horse to the stable, the ram took him one for luck, and butted him nearly out of sight in a snow bank. He gained his feet and in the endeavor to escape another attack tripped and fell, but the ram was honorable, did not try to butt in while he was down, but waited until Mr. —— got up. Then there was a marathon race around a waggon which stood in the barn yard, until the Rev. gentleman managed to get on the other side of the fence. The senior gentleman was enjoying the fun from a safe position at the stable door, but you never can tell, for as he took a large grip out of the cutter and started for the house he heard a noise like a cyclode behind and turned just in time to put out the grip with both hands, when the ram collided with it and on trying again, again the grip got the benefit. By a little strategy Mr. L. got inside the gate and the ram walked away triumphant. In our Wisdom Club the candidates get the grip, but in this instance the "goat" got the grip and the candidates got the wisdom. Rob says call again, for the laugh he had over it when told, did him a world of good.

Baptist Y.P.S. at Lakefield.

Some 26 members of the Baptist Young People's Society of the Murray street church, took in a sleighing [illegible] ing. On their arrival at the village they went to the Baptist Church and partook of the good things they had brought with them. After the supper they spent a few hours in games, and at midnight returned home.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON
Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Medill's Drug Store.
Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 370 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 428 Water Street. H. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Medill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, Successors to Hamilton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, [illegible]

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND
Late Assistant Westminster Hospital, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Rotunda.
SPECIAL—Diseases of Heart, Skin and Stomach.
OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1301.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machine y..... bearings ....

The Canada Metal Co., Limited
Fraser Avenue, Toronto

FOR DOING NOTHING

Some Fat Salaries That Were Easily Earned

Uncle Sam has been "getting a move" on him lately, and, as the result of exercising his lynx eyes, has been successful in saving $180,000 a year of the public money which has hitherto been paid to people in the way of salaries for doing nothing. For decades past there have been some snug little jobs connected with the House of Representatives. Apparently, however, some Paul Pry discovered these sinecures, a committee investigated them, and their report has provided one of the most interesting documents produced by the American Parliament for a long time.

One striking example of the "waste of public salary funds," as a chairman of the committee describes it, was the discovery that a thirteen-year-old girl, the daughter of the chief doorkeeper of the Congress, was on the pay-roll as "clerk of the doorkeeper" at a salary of $1,200 per annum, and an extra months' pay each year as a vacation gratuity. And although they made the closest investigations, the committee were quite unable to discover exactly what the functions of this minor official were.

Then there were thirty-eight extra policemen authorized when, during the [illegible] as that there was a plot to dynamite the Capitol, who were still on the pay-roll, costing annually $39,000. Two telegraph operators, drawing $1,400 each, and assigned to a wire long ago discontinued, were also still on the pay-sheet. By abolishing the salaries of "employes of the "clerks' document room," which room was itself abolished sixteen years ago, $6,000 per annum has been saved, and an almost equal sum by stopping the pay of employes designated at "attendants in the library," the library having been removed many years ago from the Capitol.

MATRIMONY A LA MODE

Jack and Jill
Rushed up the hill
Of reckless matrimony.
Years expired,
Both grew tired—
Now Jill gets alimony!—Judge.

Belgian Heroes Fund

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has founded a Belgian Heroes Fund with an endowment of $240,000, the interest of which will be devoted each year to reward civic courage. Other hero funds have been founded by Mr. Carnegie in Great Britain, France, Germany, Denmark and Switzerland.

A Football Trainer

Mr. James Wilson, the trainer for Glasgow Rangers, once walked from Broxburn to Edinburgh and back, a distance of over twenty miles, to watch Queen's Park and Notts Forest play in an English Cup-tie.

Neglected Children

No fewer than 50,828 neglected or otherwise ill-treated children were dealt with in the past year in England.

Steamers and Sailing Vessels

Five hundred and eighty-three new vessels—517 steamers and 66 sailing-vessels—were added to Lloyds' list last year.

Good Program of United Bible Class.

The young ladies of the Unity Bible Class gave a Valentine Social. Mr. W. Moore acted as chairman for the occasion, and the audience was entertained by the following programme:

Opening Chorus.
Recitation—"Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night"—P. Pogue.
Solo—Mrs. Wells.
Euphonium Solo—Mr. Robinson.
Selection on hand bells.
Song—Mrs. R. C. Braund.
Drill—By three girls of the Unity Class.
Solo—Mary Robinson.
Instrumental Duet—Misses Braund.
Recitation—Three Girls.

Rev. Father Phelan Home.

Rev. C. J. Phelan has returned to the city after an absence of four months on a trip for the benefit of his health, which is now very much improved. Mount Clemens, Mich., and the balance of time was spent on the Pacific Coast. The Rev. gentleman enjoyed the trip through the magnificent scenery of the Rockies.

Lindsay's Sympathy for Peterboro.

Lindsay Post: There is grief and gloom in the Electric City to-day, for the hockey team representing that burg bumped up against a better outfit in Midland last evening, and when the game was over a 10—2 score was registered against them.

There were many blue countenances in the Electric City last night when the dire news was received, for it is a well known fact that the fans in that burg had the championship pennant, and were actually talking of a banquet and gold watches for the [illegible]

THE BEGUM OF BHOPAL

Her Highness of East India Visited London in State

Amongst the many interesting visitors who visited London this year was one of the most powerful of East Indian potentates in the person of her Highness the Begum of Bhopal. Her Highness brought a large retinue, including a native doctor, several cooks and an astrologer. The Princess (who is a reigning Sovereign) wore a beautiful silken robe and long veil over her face. A special train was brought to the pier, and her landing was from a gangway which immediately faced the door of the saloon carriage. One eye-witness of a great Durbar held in India tells of seeing at that wonderful and gorgeous ceremony, her Highness the Begum standing between two huge native Princes, Jeypore and Joudphore, who were magnificently got up with full skirts (petticoats be called them) of folds innumerable of soft cream color. From the waist up the garments were of richest embroidered velvets and silks, and literally, with their high turbans, massed with superb jewels, the splendid scimitars also glittering with precious stones; but the little woman, who had only a few above her in rank, the Sovereign of an independent province, with a gorgeous retinue, was most simply attired in trousers! The pajama-like garments of dull, shaded stripes, the bodice and short jacket being being also of sombre color, her black hair done quite plainly with a short silken shawl draped over head and shoulders and remarkably few jewels, only a few showing in her hair and round her throat. The Begum's rightful place was apparently between the two great Princes, and it was a most curious sight to see the huge Maharatto draw himself up to his stately height, advance, and bow low and gracefully to his Sovereign's representative; then retiring, make way for the Begum, who, small though she was, showed no less dignity in her obeisance; and after her Highness came the second of the huge Princes, all eyes being fixed on such an unusual trio, even in that magnificent and inspiring assem-

SAYINGS OF THE WISE

It is better to save lives than to save rates.—Alderman Fildes.

If ignorance were really bliss the world would be much happier.—Mansfield.

Moral sentiment, like cleanliness, should be practised in private.—A. E. Waite.

Some strand of our own mischief is involved in every quarrel.—R. L. Stevenson.

Of all wastes, the greatest waste that you can commit is the waste of labor.—Ruskin.

Making love is easier than making a fortune, but it involves great chances.—J. H. Ring.

There are innumerable methods of courting, but the best method is to be rich.—Frank Richardson

There is not the least use in preaching to anyone unless you chance to catch them ill.—Sidney Smith.

If a little knowledge is dangerous, where is the man who has so much as to be out of danger?—Huxley.

Gossip is a beast of prey that does not wait for the death of the creature it devours.—George Meredith.

It is always right to detect a fraud and perceive a folly; but it is often very wrong to expose either.—Chesterfield.

When your friend calls himself a fool it is better to disagree with him than to lose his friendship.—Walter Pulitzer.

TRAITS OF ANIMALS

Leading Traits of the Common Animals

Some one who was interested in animals studied their characters a short time ago, and read a great deal about them, says the Scrap Book.

His estimate of their leading traits was:

Ant, prudence.
Ass, stupidity.
Bear, ill temper.
Bee, industry.
Bull, strength.
Bulldog, pertinacity.
Cat, deceit.
Cock, vigilance.
Dog, fidelity.
Dove, innocence.
Eagle, majesty.
Elephant, sagacity.
Fox, cunning.
Goose, folly.
Hawk, rapacity.
Hen, maternal care.
Lamb, gentleness.
Lark, cheerfulness.
Lion, nobility.
Monkey, frivolity.
Mule, obstinacy.
Ostrich, stupidity.
Ox, patience.
Owl, wisdom.
Peacock, pride.
Pig, obstinacy.
Robin, truthfulness.
Serpent, wisdom.
Sheep, silliness.
Spider, willingness.
Swan, grace.
Tiger, ferocity.
Turkey, insolence.
Wolf, cruelty.

WORLD'S SEVEN BIBLES

The Great Sacred Books That Are Known to the World

There are seven great sacred books known to the world. The word "bible" means simply "book," and is here used to denote a great standard moral work which has come to be regarded as sacred. The seven bibles are:

The Holy Scriptures, or Holy Bible of the Christians.
The Koran, of the Mohammedans.
The Tripitka, of the Buddhists.
The Five Kings, of the Chinese
The Zendavesta, of the Parsees.
The Three Vedas, of the Hindus.
The Eddas, of the Scandinavians.

The Koran is a comparatively modern work, dating from the seventh century. It contains many quotations from the Holy Scriptures, and, in common with most of the Sacred Books of the world, teaches much the same moral lessons as our own Bible, though differently expressed. The Five Kings, the Three Vedas, and the Zendavesta, all date from about the eleventh century before Christ, as nearly as can be ascertained, and so are of great antiquity. With regard to the Five Kings, the word "King" here signifies a warp, or piece of cloth with which a book is bound, and has no reference to monarchs.

"Zendavesta" means "Living Word written in the Zend language." It is the sacred book of the followers of Zoroaster, an ancient philosopher.

BITS FROM THE NEW BOOKS

Knowledge is the source of all goodness; ignorance the source of all evil. —"Britishers in Britain."

As long as the world is what it is, as long as men and girls are what they are, attractive women will receive attentions from men as of right. —"Laidlaw's Wife."

Proverbs have been termed the "hob-nailed truths of the people," and they certainly are merciless in treading on tender points which ordinary language is inclined to avoid.—"At the Back of Things."

The true genius can no more help exercising his special capacity than a bird can resist flying.—"Oh, for an Angel!"

It's always your sentimentalist who eats the poorest figure in this life and then blames some outside agency. —"The Magic of the Hill."

When we envy a rich man we call him a financier; when we despise a poor one we call him a fool. It is as difficult to admire success heartily as it is to pity failure sincerely. —"A Kingdom of Dreams."

If the poor man falls it is never to rise again.—"The Open Window."

Ontario Government After the Dogs.

The Ontario Government, realizing the danger of rabies, has brought forward a bill whereby every municipality MUST put a tax on dogs. For every dog there is an annual tax of $1 when a man only owns one dog, and $2 for each additional dog. For females the tax is $3 if only one, and $5 for each additional one. Owners of kennels of thoroughbred dogs may pay $10 per annum to the treasurer of the municipality. If this law is strictly enforced in Peterborough the present owners of our thousands of useless curs will either have to pay up or [illegible]

SEES DAY FOR 1.40 TROTTERS

Secretary of Grand Circuit Talks on Future of Harness Horses

A mile in 1.40 is the prediction of George Deltrich, secretary of the Grand Circuit. "Some will say I am crazy to make such a prediction," said Deltrich, "but I firmly believe that ultimately a harness horse will trot a mile in 1.40.

"Horsemen have felt each new world's record would stand forever. The first horse to beat 2.30 was Lady Suffolk, 2.29½, in 1856. Horsemen of that day said the feat would never be accomplished again. Within twenty years Dexter cut down the mark to 2.17¼, and six years later Goldsmith Maid went in 2.14. Two years after Rarus set the mark of 2.13¾, which was lowered to 2.11¼ by St. Julian before another two years had passed. All of these miles were driven in a highwheel sulky.

"Then came the bike sulky, and through various stages down through Sunol, Nancy Hanks, Alix, Lou Dillon and Uhlan the record has been reduced to 1.58⅝ in the open. Lou Dillon's mark of 1.58½ was made with the aid of a wind shield.

"Ten years ago there was a spirited controversy as to whether a horse would ever reach the two-minute mark. It would be as foolish now for a man to say that 1.58⅝ will never be beaten as it was in 1867, when Robert Bonner said Dexter's record of 2.17¼ would stand as a world's record for all time. Budd Dobe, who drove Dexter that mile, predicted the two-minute trotter and was ridiculed.

"Of course, there is certain to be a limit as we now look at the speed of horses but that limit has not been reached by far. Uhlan trotted a half-mile last year in 64¼. That means, under favorable conditions, he can trot a mile in 1.56 or a shade better and Uhlan is now no more the acme of perfection in the trotting horse than Dexter was years ago.

"Of course, the more the record is reduced the harder it will be to clip it a quarter of a second, but it will be done. I have known harness horses to pull a sulky as fast for an eighth of a mile as the best runner can run, which is close to 13⅝. Therefore, with improvement in breeding and greater intelligence in training, I cannot see why a horse, trotting to a sulky, should not ultimately reach a mile in 1.40."

OLD COURSE SOLD

Ancient Newmarket Race Course Ago Passes Further into History

The old Newmarket Race Course, northeast of Toronto, has been sold for $130,000. Half a century ago it was the race course of this part of the world, but just as other properties devoted to the horse sprung up prior to its creation, so in turn came Carlton and the Woodbine to eclipse Newmarket. Only one Queen's Plate has ever run over the Newmarket track, and that was forty-four years ago, when the race was won by James White's Nettle, by Kennett, who also sired another winner in "Roddie" Pringle's Mignonette, but the old course was the scene of much good sport, mainly of the steeplechasing and hunt order. Nettle, by the way, was trained and ridden by Arthur Fisher, who was both prominent and popular in those days. When Carlton now West Toronto, became the vogue, the glories of Newmarket departed and from 1870 on the sport at the old track was of a decidedly spasmodic order. Some rattling good hunt races were held there from twenty to forty years ago, the most enjoyable being when members of the hunt found their own prizes, and John Halligan took up a silver or paper collection in his huntsman's cap. One of the most notable of these races took place some thirty-two or thirty-three years ago, and was won by M. A. (Gus) Thomas, on his lively old hunter Liberty. Those who saw that chase will never forget the masterly finish Mr. Thomas put up. The old course will soon be a thing of the past, and the hungry all-absorbing man of bricks and mortar will be in possession, for it is understood the property is to be broken up into building lots, and that a village is to be brought into existence, that will never again know the ring of a racer's hoofs.

NEW RIFLE SIGHT

A King's Prize Man is to the Front With an Invention

H. Ommundsen, London, has invented a new rifle sight. He has twice won the King's Prize at Bisley and is a non-commissioned officer of Territorials. Experience taught him the difficulty of accurate range-finding, and for the past two years he has been working out a means to do away with that difficulty. He claims for his new sight that within certain limits it does away altogether with the necessity for range-finding. The invention has been tried successfully at the Army Musketry School; "under skirmishing conditions," says Mr. Ommundsen, "tests have shown that the percentage of hits when using the sight is 95 as against 19 with the ordinary sight." He claims that his device will have an immense effect on rifle-shooting.

He says that the improvements in firearms have not kept pace with the science of tactics. "If this be so," he went on, "let us inquire into the chief causes of the comparative ineffectiveness of modern rifle fire as reflected by the South African war, where it took over 5,000 shots to hit a man."

For the first time in 25 years Seneca and other central New York lakes are frozen. We would shake hands with the folks along the margins of these lakes, and handkerchief in hand condole with them over the domination of King Frost.

The Directors of the Peterborough Exhibition Association held a banquet last night at Hooper's Palm Gardens. Changes and improvements to the grounds were discussed. Mr. J. H. Corbett very ably occupied the [illegible]

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNBY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

The Yankee circus-man pushed his chair back, and walked to the window. His lips pursed themselves into the shape for whistling, but no sound came from them. He was plainly disturbed.

Presently he came back to the table and sat down.

"Well?" said Mona.

"I don't like it; honestly, I dont," he said gravely.

"What do you mean?"

"Well, I mean—Jehoshaphat! I don't know what I do mean! But I don't like it."

"I'll tell you what you mean," said Mona quietly. "You know that when I joined you I hadn't five pounds of my own, and you know that I had sworn to find a man who had robbed me of £20,000. I find him here, in this island of San Miguel, and I have a row with you one morning because I want leave of absence which you won't give me. I take the absence without the leave, and say it is because I have private business to attend to. Next morning the man is found dead, and I admit, when I am asked, that I saw him and spoke to him. But I have refused to say what my private business was, or whether it was with him at all. So far is that right?"

"Why won't you tell what your business was?" asked Montague excitedly. "Great Jehu! don't you see—?"

"I won't tell," said Mona, "because that young Cable-man, Scarborough, tried to bully me into doing so. I don't enjoy being bullied, as you have found out. Now, let's go on. I tell you today I have come into a fortune. It is known that Carrington had turned my money into diamonds. Do not think that I got them from him on that night, and that they are the price of his life?"

"He died a natural death," said Montague hoarsely. "The Portuguese doctor said that an aortic aneurism had burst, probably as the result of over-exertion."

"Or of over-excitement," said Mona. "Yes, his death was natural, in a sense. But the person who caused the over-excitement would be morally if not legally, responsible for his death."

"Well, that person wasn't you."

"What evidence have you of that?"

"This!" said Montague. "I know you, and I know that if the facts were so, you wouldn't be sitting there saying them. You'd have given yourself up to the police, if they would take you! You would have called yourself a murderess, and given your friends a damned uneasy time of it proving to you that you weren't. That you are sitting there shows that you are as innocent of Carrington's death as a child out of a custard apple with a spoon is proof enough for me that you had nothing to do with it."

"You are right," said Mona, "I hadn't. I think that Carrington had himself well in hand in the talk he had with me. His mood was a mixture of sham, pathos and calm cynicism. If either of us was excited, it was I, not he. Besides, the place where I met him was ten miles from the place where his body was found. I believe that the doctor was right; it was over-exertion which killed him."

"Or if it was over-excitement, someone else did the exciting—afterwards," said the circus-man eagerly.

"Yes."

"Then," said Montague angrily, "what do you mean by frightening me like this? Why couldn't you have said so in the beginning, instead of hinting at horrors in this way?"

"You said that there was something that you didn't like. You couldn't tell me what it was, so I tried to tell you."

"You didn't suppose that I meant that!"

"I didn't know what you meant. I don't quite know yet."

Montague drummed the table with his fingers. Then he said:

"There's no doubt that the money was yours, is there?"

"The twenty thousand? None."

"Then I suppose it's all right; you are entitled to have it; but I don't like the way it has come to you. Can't you see what my feeling is? Whatever it was that killed him, those diamonds seem like the price of his life."

"The price has not been paid to me."

"What!" cried Montague. "Steady! How's that?"

"I do not even know that it is true that he had those diamonds at all. If he had, none of them have come into my hands. The £50 I offer you is clean money. You can take it in perfect confidence that not a penny of it comes from the man who died by the Caldeira de Morte."

"How did you get it?"

Mona smiled. "At present," she said, "I don't propose to say. Why not? Perhaps for the same reason that I refused to tell Mr. Scarborough what my private business was on the night of Richmond Carrington's death. He suspected me."

"But I don't," cried Montague in distress.

"No, I don't think that you do. But I have my whims. When the Carrington mystery has been cleared up, ask me again, and I'll tell you. Meanwhile you'll take my cheque?"

"Not I!"

"Why not?"

"Because I don't count that you owe it to me. I've explained all that. Besides, hang it all, you know, I had another plan in my head! But," he added doubtfully, "there's no good of mentioning it now. I've had my loss. As I told you, I shall take my profit out of the advertisement! I shall turn it into."

"I don't think you can do that," said Mona quietly. "I told you not to reckon that in your estimate, you know. You won't be able to do it, because I give you notice now that I shall not perform again. A month's notice or a month's wages on either side were our terms, weren't they? I will pay you the forfeit now."

Montague looked at her with twitching lips.

"You mean that?" he asked quietly.

"Yes."

He broke into a short laugh.

"Then," he said grimly, "you have fined me after all."

CHAPTER XIII.

A Suggestion of Partnership

"Since its settled that I'm to be robbed," said Val B. Montague gloomily, "I may as well tell you about that other plan at which I hinted just now. You'll laugh. I was thinking of a partnership. Now smile!"

Mona de la Mar did not smile. She gave him a quick look, and asked:

"A partnership? You and I? On what terms?"

"Marriage, and pool the profits," said Montague simply. "Ridiculous notion, wasn't it?"

"What put it into your head?"

"Dunno! Expect I've got kind of fond of you in the last two years. Say, why don't you blaze out at me?"

"Why should I?"

"Don't you feel you want to?"

"No."

Val B. Montague looked relieved. "That so?" he said. "Then I guess you don't think I've insulted you by mentioning it. I was afraid you would. When a woman's rich enough to throw cheques about—which seems to be your case, though I don't understand how it's happened—she generally thinks an offer of marriage from a man like me pretty insulting. I don't speak from experience, mind you; but I've taken notice of other cases, and it's generally so. Sure you don't want to blaze?"

"Certain," said Mona, and then she added, smiling: "I've never had an offer of marriage before; perhaps that's why."

"Oh, you'll get plenty, now that you are rich!"

"But not from Val B. Montague?"

"Well, no. Not from Val B. Montague," said the circus-man, grinning. "Thought I was that sort of skunk, did you?"

"I think," said Mona quickly, "that you are one of the best fellows I have ever known. Now tell me why you said I had ruined you."

"It's pretty plain, isn't it? My capital isn't big, and isn't distensible; it's too small to swallow a loss of four or five hundred pounds without choking, and it won't stretch to the bite. I thought I could get my own back by booming you in the West Coast towns, but you've put a stopper on that. No, luck's against me, and has been ever since we came here. There's Varney now. I expect he'll be giving me a tip for taking a wrinkle from you, and handing me a month's pay instead. The combination is breaking up. I've said so pretty often lately, and thought I was only telling a lie. But it's the truth."

His tone was as mournful as if he spoke of the demise of a pal. The hushed voice suggested the gloom of funerals. Mona had difficulty in repressing a smile.

"Why should Phil Varney leave you?" she asked. "Has he threatened to do so?"

"Threatened, no! I'd know how to talk to him if he did. But he's developed a sudden and suspicious interest in fruit farming. He'll stay in San Miguel, marry the Davis girl, and grow pine-apples for export to Covent Garden. You know as well as I do, that he's up at the Casa Davis every day. I had hopes that Davis would show him the door, but instead of that the old man seems to have taken a fancy to him. No, no; it's no good disguising the thing. My family's deserting me."

Mona thought for a minute. Then she said:

"I've changed my mind. If it means ruin to you, I won't be the first to push you over. I'll stick to you."

"You've given me notice," said Montague; but a gleam of hope lighted the gloom of his aspect, and straightened the droop of his mouth.

"I withdraw it. Unless you'll take my £450 to cover the losses?"

Montague shook his head.

"Very well then," said Mona. "I shall stay with you till the end of the tour. But we'd better be clear. About that offer of partnership—?"

"I never made it," said Montague, quickly.

"No, but—"

"And I'm not going to make it. What do you take me for?"

"A fool in some things," said Mona laughing, "and a gentleman in all the rest. Very well, we understand each other. The offer was never made. Now let's change the subject. Mr. Scarborough passed along the street just now, and looked up at the window. He saw me, and took his hat off. I think he's coming here. I wonder what he wants."

Scarborough came into the room almost as she finished speaking, and advanced to the table in the window. Montague rose and held out his hand.

"Mr. Scarborough, sir," he said, in his usual fantastic manner—the manner which during his long discussion with Mona had never appeared—"I am very glad to see you. It's a dry day—what may I offer you as an antidote to the atmospheric aridity? Do you know if I were a superstitious man, I should think that your fate and mine were curiously linked somehow? As I am not, I merely remark that life offers strange coincidences. Colares—hummel—whiskey and soda?"

Scarborough sat down beside the girl.

"Nothing, thanks," he said. "But what is the coincidence?"

"That you and I always seem to meet at a crisis in my affairs. The first occasion was, you remember, when I was making up my mind whether the clown or the ringmaster would have to go; the second, when the Sea-Horse was missing from the harbor yonder, and I didn't know where she was; the third—" he paused. "Ah, well, the third crisis has been safely bridged. You won't drink? I'm in the mood for standing champagne just now."

"No, thanks," said Scarborough again. "Too early, you know. I came up here in the search for information."

"Anything that I can tell you—" Montague began.

"Miss Ryan possesses the knowledge that I want," said Scarborough.

Val B. Montague rose took his hat [illegible]

"I understand you, sir," he said. "I am the unnecessary unit of our trio. I will go. But if you will allow me to give you a hint—you will?—then it's this: If you hope to obtain information of any sort from the lady before you, don't try to bully her into giving it! As we used to say at the Boston academy where, as I have just now told Miss De la Mar, I learned my manners as an extra—experto crede! I have the honor to wish you a prosperous issue to your attempt, and a very good afternoon."

(To be Continued)

A Paris, France, despatch says that girls are bodied together like the proverbial Paris Apaches to rob men of everything they have got. Pshaw! In this city, without a regular combination, are stealing men's hearts, and that is a worse theft than watches and coin!

THE CLIMBING ROSE

Points to be Observed in the Cultivation of This Flower

There are climbing roses that will bloom continuously from June until the end of October. But it is just the past score years that have witnessed this remarkable development of climbing roses. Before that, the varieties most common were not at all hardy, their flowers were not nearly so large nor so beautiful as those of to-day. But twenty years ago someone introduced the memorial rose, and about the same time the crimson rambler, a hardy, showy, climbing rose, with flowers in clusters, came over from China and aroused great interest among horticulturists. The question arose whether it could not be combined with the memorial, for the crimson rambler, though strong and bearing beautiful flowers, had nevertheless many defects which were absent in the memorial. The grafting was done and successfully. New hybrids were produced, which combined hardiness, abundance of bloom, rapid growth and grace of form, with great resistance to disease and insects. It was the beginning of a new era in climbing roses. The new roses spread everywhere, and rose-growers were enthusiastic over the results of the experiment. Other combinations were attempted with success, and we have the results to-day in the multiplicity of lovely climbing rose vines that make beautiful so many gardens.

There are three groups of the climbing roses: the multiflora, which bloom early in June only; the prairie roses, heavy in flower and with grey-green foliage, and, most important of all, the memorial group, which flowers all summer and often until the frost has come. Nearly everyone knows one variety of the memorial group, the Dorothy Perkins. It is much like the crimson rambler, save that its flowers are pink; its foliage is thick and glossy, and it is altogether a very desirable variety to cultivate.

In growing climbing roses the secret of success is simply good soil. The earth can hardly be too rich nor the trench too deep. If strong plants are bought at the outset, and they are planted in good soil and well watered, success is almost absolutely certain. The only harm possible might come from insects, but these may be guarded against by judicious spraying.

NOTABLE SENTENCES

Some of the Wisdom of the World in Few Words

The fool and the coward carry no weight when they speak for peace.—Mr. Roosevelt.

Denominationalism is beginning to show signs of senility.—Canon Henson.

No able-bodied man seems to care to walk two miles nowadays.—Judge Roberts.

Englishmen are given to being either lethargic or pessimistic.—Lord Haldane.

There are people on whom metaphysical sermons inflict a headache.—Rev. A. C. Hill.

"Love at first sight" is merely fitting on to a lay figure one's former ideals and desires.—Dr Slaughter.

At times there are far more effective ways of reaching truth than by pure logic.—Dr. I. K. Funk.

The question of the relation of good food to strong bodies and healthy minds is a very large one.—Lord Guthrie.

The peace movement is passing out of the ecclesiastical circle and taking hold of the civic and national conscience.—Prof. Grieve.

The jerry-built houses of to-day play no unimportant part in the encouragement and dissemination of disease.—Mr. W. E. Collinge.

Scotland is so covered with masters of arts that when you want a teacher you can get one round the next corner.—Prof. McGregor.

That many good Samaritans remain outside the churches is perhaps due to the numbers of priests and Levites within.—Rev. E. R. Hayton.

The world is improving, because each generation in its turn deals with and solves the problems which are presented to it.—A. J. Balfour.

London has a special attraction for foolish people; and people who are not foolish at home may become foolish while in London.—E. R. Dibdin.

At the back of men's unjust judgments lie two evil tendencies—a readiness to believe the worst and an eagerness to hear the worst.—Rev. H. F. B. Mackay.

BABYLONIAN SURGEON'S FEES

The French newspapers contain interesting references to the discovery of a Babylonian stone which shows the fees that were paid to surgeons some four thousand centuries ago. The fees, considering the risk, were extremely moderate; and they were fees literally with a vengeance, and not honorariums, in those far-away days. An operation to the neck, we learn, cost about five francs. Setting a broken leg is, we are informed, put down at $3. Dentistry was paid for at a better rate, seeing that the tariff for removing a tooth was $1.25. This seems a very stiff sum relatively, but there is a reverse to this beautiful medal. If the operation turned out badly, and the patient died, then the unfortunate practitioner had both his hands cut off.

London Pensioners

Of the 69,200 odd in receipt of old-age pensions in London, 61,314 receive the full amount of $1.25; 2,675, $1; 2,991, 75c.; 1,413, 50c., and 840, 25c.

The Youngest Member

Only twenty-two years old, Mr. W. A. Redmond, M.P., son of Mr. John Redmond, M.P., is the youngest member of the present Parliament of Great Britain.

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE. ALL GROCERS

"Packed in Bibs., ½ Bbls. & ¼ Bbls. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs."

For sale by, Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25 —THE— FAMOUS BALED HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co. MAKERS AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO Three trains daily. Excellent service. Making connection at Detroit for FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply— W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent. F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 $8.00

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE. PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE, 16-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing, Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO. Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY MAJESTIC SIZE VICTORIOUS PRICE POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION LARGEST STEAMERS CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—
CORSICAN, Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.
HESPERIAN, Saturday, Feb. 24.
TUNISIAN, Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.
GRAMPIAN, Saturday, March 9th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.
Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.
Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.
Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.
Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.
Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.
Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.
Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.
Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY, C.P.A. Gen. Pass. Ag.

B. A. ROSS, C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO
PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 200,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 2,580,549.00

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices: 437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

AERIAL STABILITY

Englishman Demonstrates Value of Invention to Maintain Equilibrium

What appears to be a most important invention in connection with the navigation of the air has been announced in London. The entire future of aviation, it is admitted, is centered in the one word—stability. Among all the modes of locomotion aerial navigation alone is deeply affected by the problem of stability, which is the life and soul of the aeroplane. The final solution of this intricate problem has been made, says the Daily Telegraph, and it is subject for gratification here that the success is wholly due to the efforts and ingenuity of an Englishman, whereas hitherto the development of the aeroplane has practically been confined to France.

Briefly, the facts are these: On a recent Friday J. W. Dunne rose from the grounds at Eastchurch, in the Isle of Sheppy, on his "automatic stability" monoplane, with the object of carrying out a test that should conclusively demonstrate the natural stability possessed by his machine. The flight was witnessed by two competent observers—Alec Ogilvie, one of the most experienced of British aeroplane pilots, and T. O'B. Hubbard, Secretary of the Aeronautical Society.

Mr. Dunne made a flight of six and a half minutes, including two turns, and landed easily at the starting point. Before starting there was handed to Mr. Dunne a blank sheet of paper, previously initialled by the observers; on this sheet of paper he wrote, while [illegible] message in clear script.

While the message was being written Mr. Dunne had both hands off the control levers, thus freely abandoning his machine to the air. Only those who have made an aeroplane flight can fully realize the true nature of this achievement. In an ordinary aeroplane the pilot can never abandon his control, but has to exercise constant watchfulness, has to correct incessantly by slight, almost imperceptible touches the ever-varying equilibrium of his aeroplane. A moment's inattention may prove disastrous, may suffice to cause the machine to lose its equilibrium to such an extent that it cannot be regained. A slight gust may be enough to upset the delicate balance of the forces that constitute equilibrium.

A GREAT BATSMAN

In His Day Was the Best Cricketer in South Africa

Augustus Bernard Tancred, the eldest of the South African brotherhood of cricketers, died at Capetown after an operation. He was in his forty-seventh year at the time of his death, having been born in 1865, at Port Elizabeth. At his best—about twenty years ago—he was the finest batsman in South Africa. Perhaps his best feat was to make 69 and 62 for Kimberley against Transvaal, at Johannesburg, in 1891. His highest innings was 226 in a military match, and he was one of the first cricketers to make two separate hundreds in a game in South Africa.

Mr. Tancred was a brilliant batsman with a splendid defence, but his profession as a solicitor prevented him from going to England as member of a team, for his practice was a large one.

GIVING HER A TIP

"I think 'Lohengrin' is just splendid!" murmured the lady in the large hat, as she handed the conductor her fare.

"Do you?" asked her friend in the purple velvet, with a superior smile. "I think it's not bad; but I just love 'Carmen.'"

The conductor blushed all over his plain features.

"Sorry, miss," he murmured apologetically; "I'm married. You might try the driver, though; he's a single man!"

Local Markets

MEATS, POULTRY AND DAIRY PRODUCE.

Beef, by the quarter	$7.50	$8.00
Peas, small	.80	1.15
Peas, mummies	1.00	1.25
Wheat, per bushel	.90	.95
Barley, per bushel	.80	1.00
Beef, by the quarter	$7.00	$9.00
Mutton, per lb.	.09	.10
Spring Lamb, quarter	.12	.12
Dressed Hogs, per cwt.	8.00	9.50
Pork, by quarter, per lb.	.11	.12
Ducks, per pair	.80	1.00
Chickens, per pair	.60	1.25
Eggs, per dozen	.30	.40

LIVE STOCK

Cattle, ch. per cwt.	$3.50	$4.50
Butchers, per cwt.	3.00	4.00
Steehers, per cwt.	3.00	3.50
Calves	6.00	6.00

The Toronto General Trusts Corporation

Report of the Proceedings of the Thirtieth Annual General Meeting.

The Thirtieth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was held in the Board Room of the Corporation's new Head Office Building, corner of Bay and Melinda streets, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 7th of February, 1911

There were present:—Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., John L. Blaikie, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., Sir John M. Gibson, K.C., Thomas Long, Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., D. R. Wilkie, Hon. Robert Jaffray, Samuel Nordheimer, Sir Wm. Mortimer Clark, K.C., Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., Alexander Nairn, John Paton, Emmerson Coatsworth, E. T. Malone, K.C., James Davey, Victor Ross, G. A. Stinson, A. R. Boswell, K.C., W. D. Matthews, F. W. Harcourt, K.C., H. S. Osler, K.C., J. W. Langmuir, J. B. Holden, C. S. MacInnes, K.C., W. R. Couch, Frank W. Maclean, Fred C. Jarvis, Frederick Wyld, J. Bruce Macdonald, G. G. S. Lindsey, J. G. Scott, K.C., C. W. MacLean, R. J. Maclennan, J. Harry Paterson, Joseph A. Thompson, P. Freyseng, George Bell, K.C., J. F. Edgar, Edward Galley, James Hedley, Wm. Ince, G. H. Wood, A. L. Malone, D. A. Dunlap, A. D. Langmuir, W. G. Watson, E. E. Argles, T. J. Maguire, W. N. Lonsdale, C. E. Robin, H. M. Forbes, F. R. Dymond, H. C. Hewetson, J. A. H. Burt, Fred. L. Jarvis, James Lang, George Porter.

The President, the Hon. Featherston Osler, took the chair, and Mr. A. D. Langmuir, the Assistant Manager, acted as Secretary to the meeting.

The financial statements, showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1911, were submitted and commented upon by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir.

The report to the Shareholders was then read, as follows:—

THIRTIETH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION, BEING FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31st DECEMBER, 1911.

To the Shareholders.

Your Board of Directors have pleasure in submitting the Thirtieth Annual Report of the Corporation, together with the statement of Assets and Liabilities, the Profit and Loss Account and other statements showing the operations of the Corporation for the year 1911.

The new Executorships, Administrations, Trusts and Estate work assumed by the Corporation during the year amounted to $7,095,478 65, as follows:—

Executorships	$2,470,785.27
Administrations	1,050,954.69
Trusteeships	664,633.89
Guardianships	31,152.83
General Agencies	1,252,355.28
Investment Agencies	459,482.70
Guaranteed Investments	900,641.11
Lunatic Estates	5,517.32
Committeeships	16,907.56
Miscellaneous	252,498.50
Total	$7,095,478.65

In addition to the foregoing the Corporation became Trustee for bond issues to the amount of $5,920,000, as well as having been appointed to act as Registrar and Transfer Agent, and in other capacities.

The residuum of assets in the hands of the Corporation at the close of the year amounted to $45,065,238.49, as compared with $41,601,297.63 in the preceding year

The net profits, after payment of the entire cost of management at the Head Office and its Branches, and after making ample provision for losses, amounts to $198,392.42. This amount, together with the balance at credit of Profit and Loss at the end of the preceding year, namely, $53,844.95, enabled your Directors to bring down for distribution the sum of $251,237.37. Out of this amount four quarterly dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum were paid, amounting to $80,000, $100,000 was carried to Reserve Fund (thus increasing that amount to $700,000), and $71,237.37 was brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss.

The Corporation's new building is very nearly completed, and all the space beyond what is required for the Corporation's own use (with the exception of two small areas), has been rented in advance of completion. It is expected that the balance [illegible]

J. W. LANGMUIR, Managing Director. F. OSLER, President.
Toronto, February 7th, 1912.

PROFIT AND LOSS STATEMENT

For Year Ended 31st December, 1911.

By balance brought forward from 31st December, 1910		$ 53,844.95
By commissions for management of Estates, acting as Trustee for Bond issues, Registrar and Transfer Agent, etc.; interest on Capital and Reserve, Profits on Guaranteed Funds, net rents from Office Buildings and Vaults, etc.	$373,253.76
To management expenses, Directors' and Auditors' fees, salaries, advertising, rent, commission paid Agents for finding loans, etc.	175,061.34
Net profits for the year		$198,392.42
		$251,237.37
Appropriated as follows:—
To Quarterly Dividends Nos. 59, 60, 61 and 62, at the rate of 8 % per annum		80,000.00
To amount transferred to Reserve Fund		100,000.00
To balance carried forward		71,237.37
		$251,237.37

ASSETS AND LIABILITIES STATEMENT

Year Ended 31st December, 1911.

ASSETS.

Capital Accounts—
Mortgages on Real Estate	$ 626,694.44
Stocks and Bonds	81,000.00
Loans on Stocks and Bonds	93,651.94
Real Estate—
Office Premises and Safe Deposit Vaults at Toronto and Ottawa	325,000.00
Accrued rents re Offices and Vaults at Toronto and Ottawa	2,780.07
New Head Office Premises, including Building in course of erection, and Land and Building in rear of same	525,133.87
Sundry Assets	432.86
Cash on hand and in Banks	149,890.08
		$ 1,804,591.26
Trust, Guarantee and Agency Accounts—
Mortgages on Real Estate	$17,189,172.85
Government and Municipal Debentures	4,073,092.14
Loan Company Debentures	7,400.00
Stocks and Bonds	546,200.61
Loans on Stocks, Bonds and Debentures	919,021.47
Sundry Assets	210.05
Cash on hand and in Banks	457,214.21
		23,192,871.93
Trust Estates and Agencies—
Unrealized Original Assets, including Real Estate, Mortgages, Debentures, Stocks and Bonds, etc., at Inventory value		20,089,496.80
		$45,086,659.99

LIABILITIES.

Capital Account—
Capital Stock, fully paid	$1,000,000.00
Reserve Fund	700,000.00
Dividend No. 62	20,000.00
Profit and Loss	71,237.37
Interest in Reserve	12,813.39
Sundry Liabilities	540.50
		$ 1,804,591.26
Trust, Guarantee and Agency Accounts—
For investment or distribution	$23,192,571.93
		23,192,571.93
Trust Estates and Agencies—
Inventory value of unrealized Original Assets of Estates and Agencies under Administration by the Corporation		20,089,496.80
		$45,086,659.99

AUDITORS' REPORT.

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1911, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statements of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined, and find in order, all the mortgages, debentures, bonds and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and we have checked same with the mortgage and debenture ledgers and registers. The bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the reports of the auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, and find that they agree with the head office books.

R. F. SPENCE, F.C.A., "Can.," GEO. MACBETH, } Auditors.

Toronto, January 20th, 1912.

In moving the adoption of the Report, the President, the Hon. Mr. Featherston Osler, K.C., said in part:—

I shall not comment at any length on the report, but shall ask the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, whose remarks are looked for[illegible]

ward to from year to year with much interest by the Shareholders, to address you. There are, however, two matters to which I might refer very briefly. In the first place, I am convinced that this Corporation is capable of rendering a larger service to the farming community throughout the Province, who have during the last few years acquired considerable wealth, but owing to the lack of proper facilities for investment have large sums of money earning not more than two and a half to three per cent., which if invested through the Corporation's Guarantee Investment System would produce a guaranteed net return of four and a half per cent. per annum

The other matter to which I wish to refer is the work of the Inspection Committee, the report of which will be read by the Hon. Mr. J. J. Foy, K.C., Chairman of the Committee. This report should be of interest to everybody concerned, showing as it does how full and complete is the work done by the Committee in the examination of the loans negotiated or new business assumed by the Corporation, and in ascertaining that the authority of the Board has been received in every instance for the acceptance of such new loans and work, etc. In closing I need only add that I am quite sure that the financial results of the operations of the Corporation for the year will be alike satisfactory to both shareholders and clients of the Corporation. I have much pleasure in calling on the Managing Director to address you.

The Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, said.:—

Thirty years ago this week the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was organized, when, at a meeting of the Shareholders, nineteen Directors were appointed. Of these nineteen gentlemen ten are dead, four have resigned, and five only of the charter Directors remain and are with us to-day—namely, the Attorney-General, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C.; Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Senator Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir and J. G. Scott, K.C.

We commenced operations in a small office on Wellington street, with a staff comprised of the Manager and one clerk, who performed the duties of stenographer as well as bookkeeper. To-day our staff at the Head Office and its three Branches numbers seventy-two.

The gradual growth of the Corporation necessitated the purchase and removal to our quarters on the corner of Yonge and Colborne streets (formerly occupied by the Canadian Bank of Commerce), where we have been for twenty-one years, and to-day we meet for the first time—although the building is not quite finished—in our splendid new quarters. I say "splendid," for I think when the building is completed it will be acknowledged to be one of the handsomest structures in Toronto, both in respect to exterior and interior construction. So much for our past history.

Coming now to the operations of the year just closed, I am sure that the Shareholders and clients of the Corporation will find satisfaction in the Thirtieth Annual Report presented to you to-day. The volume of business, as shown by the statement of Assets and Liabilities, in the hands of the Corporation, has reached the sum of $45,086,659.99. This is an increase over the residuum in the hands of the Corporation as at the 31st of December, 1910, of no less a sum than $3,485,362.36. The Corporation during the year assumed new business to the extent of $7,095,478.65, as shown by the Directors' Report, so that the increase in the volume of assets in the hands of the Corporation over the amount under its control as at the 31st December, 1910, represents approximately 50 per cent. of the entire amount of new business taken over during the year. This is a feature of our business which I think is a matter for congratulation, indicating as it does an increasing degree of permanency in connection with the work assumed by the Corporation; in other words, it makes apparent the growing disposition on the part of individuals to provide, either by Will or by Trust Deed, that the Corporation shall invest the proceeds of their Estates and pay the revenue to wife or children, rather than distribute forthwith among the beneficiaries the corpus of such Estates.

The net profits for the year, as shown by the Profit and Loss Statement, are $198,392.42, or an increase over last year of $20,318.41, which, together with the balance brought forward from 1910, makes a total balance for disposition of $251,237.34. Out of this amount your Directors have paid the four quarterly dividends of two per cent., or eight per cent. for the year, amounting to $80,000; transferred to Reserve $100,000, and carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss account the sum of $71,237.37.

The Corporation's Reserve has therefore reached the sum of $700,000, which, with the balance brought forward to the credit of Profit and Loss, gives us a total Capital and Surplus of $1,771,237.37.

One of the outstanding features of the Profit and Loss Statement is the small percentage the net profits bear to the volume of business controlled by the Corporation. And I may say that the result cannot be attributed to excessive cost of management, as in this respect, notwithstanding the complex character of a very large percentage of the assets and work of the Corporation, necessitating the employment of a skilled staff, the ratio of expenses to the volume of business in hand for the last year will very favorably compare with the returns of any other financial institution. These deductions should, I think, dispel from the minds of certain persons—and I understand there are some—the idea that the profits made by Trust Companies through the administration of Estates, are more or less excessive; at the same time these figures should be instructive to persons who contemplate the appointment of the Corporation as their Executor or Trustee, or in other fiduciary capacities.

Notwithstanding the comparatively small profits derived from such a great volume of business, the result will, I think, be entirely satisfactory to the Shareholders, especially when it is remembered that during the entire year, and, indeed, for the past two years, a considerable amount of our Capital has been locked up in the construction of our new Head Office building, thus withdrawing for the time being a considerable sum from the field of productive investment

Referring to the Assets and Liabilities Statement, I should like to point out the large increase in "Mortgage Investments," namely, $5,029,761.10—made by the Corporation for its Trust and Guarantee Accounts during the year. In order that the beneficiaries of estates may obtain the best possible revenue return consistent with security, the Corporation exercises due diligence in procuring first mortgages on improved real estate, as on such investments we can obtain better returns than from any other [illegible] investment in its mortgage investments within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act, which does not admit of advancing more than 50 per cent. of the value of the security offered and loaning only on first mortgages on improved real estate.

Although the demand for loans on farm properties in the Province of Ontario has greatly fallen off during the past five years, it is satisfactory to note that choice city loans on centrally located properties have largely increased. At the close of the year we have of our own negotiation (excluding unrealized mortgages taken over with estates) mortgages to the extent of $12,852,614.03 in Ontario; in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta $4,789,546.81, or a total of $17,642,161.64.

The investments in Government and Municipal securities amount at the close of the year to $4,079,087.55, bearing an average rate of 4.42 per cent.

The class of the Ontario city and farm mortgages will be best realized when I state that 97 per cent. of the interest which matured on or before the close of the year has been paid. Owing, however, to the disappointing harvest results extending over a considerable area of western Canada, the interest payments have not been quite so satisfactory, although over 75 per cent. of the interest that had matured on or before the 31st December, 1911, in respect of loans in the Northwest Provinces has been paid.

Speaking of mortgages on real estate leads me to refer to a matter that is at present attracting much thought and attention—namely, speculation in unproductive real estate. A number of Presidents and General Managers of Banks have recently sounded abroad notes of warning, which I am convinced are most opportune. This form of speculation has, with the general expansion of the country, assumed serious proportions, particularly in connection with some of the western cities and towns, and especially the new townsites along the great railway systems through the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. In many of these towns property is being subdivided and sold as building lots that will certainly not, if indeed ever, come into the market for building purposes for a great many years. While this is true of the West, it is also true of the city of Toronto suburban property. Farms from one to five miles from the city limits that were under cultivation a few years ago, having a value of not more than $100 per acre, have been recently sold at fabulous prices, and are now offered to the public in building lots on a foot frontage basis. It is quite true that Toronto is increasing its population in the neighborhood of thirty thousand per annum, making it necessary to provide several thousand homes every year; at the same time it must be remembered that between these outlying subdivisions and the city there is still an enormous amount of vacant land to be built upon. While it is important that Banks should give warning against this form of speculation, it is perhaps even more incumbent upon Trust Companies to endeavor as far as possible to maintain true land values, since so large a percentage of their investments are confined to mortgages on real estate.

The desire to "get rich quick" in finding expression also in stock flotations in respect of a number of industrial and other companies that are greatly over-capitalized, a very large percentage of the stock being water, as the actual assets or earning power of some of these companies would not at all warrant any such stock issues as are offered to the public. The fact that such companies as I speak of can be floated at all is one of the results of the phenomenal development in Canada during the last dozen years or more, and while it may be difficult for the Governments to altogether control such flotations in order that the public may be protected, yet no doubt something more could be done by a more careful investigation into the facts before charters are issued.

On the other hand, there has existed, and will continue to exist in this country for many years to come, a great field for properly organized and well-managed companies in the several departments of industrial and financial enterprise, as the future of Canada is undoubtedly assured. This very fact places, if possible, a greater responsibility upon the Banks and Trust and Loan Companies, who control so largely the financial affairs of the country, to as far as possible see that the foundations of our new industrial enterprises are well laid, to the end that our Canadian business affairs shall be of a stable and permanent character.

Some time ago I held the view very strongly that the Trustee Investment Act, confined as it was to investments in first mortgages on real estate, Government and Municipal Debentures, and high class securities of this character, was not sufficiently broad, and that it might very well be extended to other investments on a well-defined basis. I must say that, with the conditions now existing in Canada, I think it wise—for the present, at any rate—to confine the investments of Trust Funds to their present limitations.

It is a matter of regret, both to the Board of Directors and the Officials of the Corporation, that we were not comfortably settled in our new quarters on the 1st October last, as promised, instead of having a mere temporary occupation to-day. The vexatious delays which seem to attach to all large building contracts in Toronto has caused not only discomfort, but considerable loss of rents to the Corporation. The Shareholders, however, will be able to see for themselves that the building is now almost completed. Practically the whole of the building has been rented in advance of completion, and not a few tenants are already in possession.

With respect to the Safe Deposit and Storage Vaults of the Corporation in connection with its new Head Office building, to which brief reference is made in the Report, I have to say that these vaults have been practically completed, and will be ready for occupation in a few weeks. I can assure the clients of our Safe Deposit Department in our old building, as well as prospective renters, that in the construction of our new vaults the greatest possible care and skill has been exercised, with a view to providing absolute security from fire, burglary, water or even the collapse of the building, if such a contingency were possible. We are advised by authorities competent to give an opinion in such matters that we have in this respect, not only the finest equipment in Canada, but up to the highest standard in the United States. The wisdom of persons or companies in placing records and valuable papers, as well as securities, in a properly constructed vault has been clearly demonstrated in connection with the recent total destruction by fire of the Equitable Life building in New York, when securities and papers representing many millions of dollars were saved through being stored in the safe deposit vaults in the building. We are looking for a large increase in connection with our Safe Deposit and Storage business during the next few years. Literature giving details and particulars with regard to our building and vault construction will be forwarded to you about the time the Corporation takes possession of these premises.

I have much pleasure in recording my high appreciation of the services rendered by the Advisory Boards at Ottawa and Winnipeg, and also by the staff of the Corporation both at the Head Office and its Branches.

The Report was unanimously adopted.

The report of the Inspection Committee as signed by the Hon. J. J. Foy, Sir Aemilius Irving and Mr. Frederick Wyld was adopted.

The following Shareholders were elected Directors for the ensuing year: W. H. Beatty, W. R. Brock, John L. Blaikie, Hamilton Cassels, K.C., Sir Wm. Mortimer Clark, K.C., Hon. W. C. Edwards, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., Sir John M. Gibson, K.C., A. C. Hardy, John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., Hon. Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir, Thomas Long, W. D. Matthews, Hon. Peter McLaren, J. Bruce Macdonald, Hon. Sir Daniel McMillan, K.C.M.G., Samuel Nordheimer, Sir Edmund Osler, M.P., Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., J. G. Scott, K.C., Sir Edmund Walker, D. R. Wilkie, Frederick Wyld.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., was re-elected President, and W. H. Beatty and Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., Vice-Presidents.

The Inspection Committee was re-elected—namely, Hon. J. J. Foy (Chairman), Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C., and Frederick Wyld.

The following members were elected to the Advisory Boards of Ottawa and Winnipeg:—

OTTAWA—W. D. Hogg, K.C. (Chairman), Sir Henry N. Bate, George Burn, Capt. J. L. Murphy and Hiram Robinson

WINNIPEG—Hon. Sir D. H. McMillan, K.C.M.G. (Chairman), Hon. D. C. Cameron, W. H. Cross, A. L. Crossin and H. H. Smith.

THE MORNING TIMES

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1912.

THE TAFT-ROOSEVELT WAR.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, who is a Taft supporter, asserts that the President's political advisers are prepared to give the Roosevelt boomers no quarter and to fight them with their own weapons to a finish. We are told that President Taft has finally been convinced that there is going to be a test of strength between him and the mighty "Man of Oyster Bay."

Taft headquarters will be opened in Washington, where the Taft managers will be in constant touch with the White House and the heads of departments and others who make up the powerful federal machine. Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt himself was in command of the machine forces, hence he cannot with good grace object to the machine method of strengthening the Taft lines.

In the Republican National Convention of 1908 there were 240 delegates from the Southern States, about 80 per cent. of whom were federal officeholders. These States this year will have 259 delegates, or about one-fourth of the coming convention at Chicago. But the use of the federal machine is not restricted to manipulating Southern delegations, for it is brought into play in all parts of the country, and is specially potent in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, hence Mr. Roosevelt, who was so ruthless in dominating the last convention for the nomination of Mr. Taft, will be forced to take a large dose of his own medicine.

FLOOD OF PENSION BILLS.

Since Reciprocity was killed by Canada's vote in the last election it is interesting to note that in spite of the liberal provisions of the general pension laws and in spite of the fact that the Civil War ended nearly a half century ago there is no abatement of the flood of private pension bills passed by Congress one session after another. As a matter of fact the [illegible] has been increasing in recent years. The Sixty-first Congress that closed March 4, 1911, surpassed all its predecessors in pension legislation. It passed 9649 special bills, or more than one-fourth of all the private pension bills enacted since the beginning of the Civil War fifty years ago. During the last ten years 27,805 of these bills were passed compared to a total of 8162 for the preceding forty years, an amazing fact to say the least.

When Grover Cleveland was President he tried to stem the tide by vetoing the private pension acts submitted to him, and for this he suffered savage criticism, but he succeeded however, in calling a halt to some extent. During the eight years he served as President only 1951 private pension bills were passed compared to 18,156 for Roosevelt's eight years.

In Mr. Cleveland's second term only 497 private pension bills became laws, but last week in less than one hour the House passed 500 of these bills, and during the extra session of the present Congress last year the total number of the bills introduced was 3296, of which 2294 were private pension bills. Is there not some Democrat in Congress big and brave enough to stop this recklessness.

SKATING

Skating, apart from being one of the most graceful and enjoyable pastimes of winter is one that every girl and woman should take up, as it helps to develop the figure and to give one that supple grace that is one of women's chief attractions.

In the first place it takes one out in the fresh crisp, cold air, and thus gives the lungs the food they have been longing for. Then it brings all the muscles of the body into action, and thus helps to strengthen the tissues and muscles that increase the natural movement of the body.

Fancy skating, that has for some years been increasing in favor, requires some skill and a great deal of practice, and thus keeps a woman out in the air when otherwise she might be spending her spare time sitting over a fire, which is very bad if indulged in too often.

Switzerland in winter is overcrowded with people from all over, who come just for the skating and winter sports. The women look the picture of health when they come into dinner after a day spent skating and lounging on the mountains.

POOR FELLOW

"Why are you wondering about the country instead of looking after your wife and children at home?" inquired the lady of the tattered tramp.

"Well, ma'am, it's like this," explained the tramp. "My wife has a very fine servant. A perfect treasure."

"I don't believe there ever was such a girl."

"There is only one, ma'am, and my wife's got her."

"Good gracious! She's a very lucky woman."

"She is, ma'am. But the trouble is that girl didn't like me."

"Well?"

"She didn't like me, and she told my wife she must either discharge me or her, so my wife discharged me, ma'am."

"Oh, I see. Poor fellow! Here's something for you."

THE AIRSHIP IN BUGVILLE

Bug Chorus:—"Hurrah, for Jimmie! Now to fly to Europe next!"

PRETTY PERSONAL

In one of the large cities a street car collided with a milk cart and sent can after can of milk splashing into the street. Soon a large crowd gathered. A very short man coming up had to stand on tiptoe to see past a stout woman in front of him.

"Goodness!" he exclaimed. "What an awful waste."

The stout woman turned around and glared at the little man and said sternly: "Mind your own business!"—Harper's Magazine.

WHAT THE VOICE SAID

"All right on behind there?" called the conductor from the front of the street-car.

"Hold on," cried a girl's voice. "Wait till I get my clothes on!"

The passengers craned their necks expectantly. A young woman was struggling to get a basket of laundry aboard.

DIPLOMATIC

"Mother, you promised not to punish me if I told the truth."

"All right, I won't."

"Then I must tell you I told a lie this morning."

SPOILED HIS RECORD

Some cricketers, after practising one evening, were talking in the pavilion about record performances. After a few wonderful events had been related, one of their number, noted as a bad bowler and batsman, began:—

"Well, chaps, Ah dorn'd suppoase as yo'll beleeve me, but Ah once scooared a hundred runs, an' followed 't up by tekkin' nine wickets, an' Ah hev noa doubt but Ah shud hev tekken th' other un, but—"

"An what?" queried his listeners, as the speaker hesitated.

"But my alarum clock went off an' wakkened me up."

TRUTHFUL JOHNNIE

Teacher:—"Johnnie, in what year did Americus Vespucius die?"

Johnnie:—"Honest, teacher, I didn't know that he was sick."

HIS DEFINITION

A lecturer at a suburban school was explaining to his audience, which consisted mostly of boys, the functions of a Lucimeter, an instrument for measuring light, and at the conclusion he asked for a definition of the machine.

One raw youth stood up.

"Is it a lucimeter as yer wants to know about?"

"Yes," said the lecturer.

"Well, that's me. I meets Lucy every night at seven, and if there's any other cove in this 'ere meetin' tries to be a Lucy meeter, that Lucy meeter'll bust, or me name ain't Jarge."

MARRIAGE AND LIBERTY

Lucy:—"Do you intend to marry or retain your liberty?"

Ethel:—"Both."

Are You Dyspeptic?

THEN WAKE UP TO THE FACT TODAY THAT YOUR TROUBLE IS CURABLE.

Thinness, tiredness, poor color, loss of appetite and despondency indicate Dyspepsia and Stomach Disorders.

You don't require a harsh, griping medicine. Best results come from Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, which contain soothing, stimulating vegetable ingredients that so strengthen the stomach and bowels muscles as to enable them to again act as nature intended. When this is accomplished all trace of stomach misery and dyspepsia disappears. You will find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a scientific cure for all forms of stomach distress, headache, biliousness, bad color, liver complaint and constipation. Not half-way measures—but lasting cure for these conditions follow the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. REFUSE A SUBSTITUTE. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

HOW JOHNSTON GOT INTO GAME

First Put on the Gloves 13 Years Ago With Bob Long, at Springfield, Ill.

Jack Johnson, champion heavy weight, touring the world, is a different proposition from the Jack Johnson who a few years ago would fight any one, for anything, from a pork sandwich to a $2 bill.

What a difference a few years make in some folk!

Johnny Connors, who fought Caspar Leon and Jimmy Barry for the bantam championship years ago, is proprietor of a saloon at Springfield, Ill., and, like many an old-timer, recalls Johnson when "the big cinder" was glad to shine shoes "for a gitney."

"Thirteen years ago Johnson didn't know what regular money was," said Connors, reflecting on the champion's present prosperity. "He thought himself lucky to get coffee and rolls [illegible] Jeffries-Munroe Party. Johnson for him to get the coin and I don't believe he is wasting more than he is making now. He's got a long memory in that head of his.

"Most of the stories about Johnson's start in the fight game are yarns," continued Connors. "Take it from me this fellow started right here in Springfield, and I was the first man to put a glove on him.

"We used to have a boxing show here once in a while in those days. Johnson blew in from down South and I put him to work as porter and let him use that shine stand you see in front of the drum now.

"About this time Bog Long, a negro welter, came here after beating the wonderful Rube Ferns in Kansas City, and I took charge of his business. The first match I got for him was with Martin Judge, of Chicago. Sparring partners were hard to find, and I suggested that Johnson go on with him. Jack was a giant, and we thought he could stand the gaff.

"That afternoon Johnson and several others went to the levee, where Long was training. When Johnson put on the gloves he was nervous, and when Long planted his left into Jack's midsection the big smoke shook off the gloves and hiked back to the shine stand.

"We used to stage a battle royal between five or six negroes and after Jack's showing with Long, everyone wanted to see him get his good and plenty so we got him into a battle royal. He went in scared to death, but after five or six bushies had slammed him around he got mad and cleaned out the ring. He was the only jark spot standing when it was over.

"Shortly after this Joe Coffey, who is promoting wrestling matches in Chicago, was matched with Jack Grace and Johnson met 'Klondike' the same night. That fight is history. 'Klondike' won in five rounds. Johnson never returned here, and I was glad to get rid of him, as I never thought he'd amount to anything.

"On the square, I thought I could tell a fighter, but I missed my guess. If I had second sight, I'd be Johnson's manager right now, believe me."

KEEPING HIMSELF COOL

The heat-wave had come! Even the dogs couldn't muster energy to bark, and the street-car conductor who lolled at the back of his car could scarcely keep his eyes open.

But he did observe the youngster who, for a mile or more, trotted doggedly alongside the car. And at this the conductor marvelled.

And at last when the car drew up, he inquired.

"Ain't you hot enough? What d'yer want to run like that for?"

"Oo-oo!" gasped the errand-boy. 'Hot enough? 'Course I am! That's why I'm keeping alongside you. Wanter keep in the shade as much as possible!"

A DIRE EXTREMITY

"I want a pair of gloves for my 'Enry," said the lady from Whitechapel, bustling into the outfitter's shop.

"About what price, madam?"

"About fourpence."

"The cheapest we stock are one shilling a pair, madam."

"Oh, that's too much. 'Enry's going to a ball, and he'll only wear them once."

"That's the best I can do, madam."

"'Aven't you any woollen ones at fourpence?"

"No, madam."

"Then there's no help for it. 'Enry will 'ave to wash 'is 'ands, that's all."

FOR ASSISTANCE OF EMIGRANTS

British Society That Will Advance Part of Necessary Funds—Matrimonial Bureau

New impetus to emigration from Britain to her overseas dominions has been provided by the Empire Emigration Society, an undertaking organised to assist those who wish to emigrate but are unable to do so for lack of funds. Lord Ridley and Lord Stanhurst are actively interested in this society and act as trustees of its funds. Not the ill nourished and poverty stricken but the able bodied with some savings to their credit are the class of emigrant to whom chances are being offered. Soon after it was established, the Empire Emigration Society had over 1,500 people on its books with $10,000 at their disposal, who were anxious to save the balance in order to win through to hoped for prosperity in Canada, Australia or New Zealand.

The intending emigrants have to open an account with the Society with a minimum deposit of four dollars. Each subsequent payment must not be less than one dollar. As soon as the depositor has paid in half the necessary amount his passage is booked and arrangements made to supply him with employment when he arrives at his destination. Every class of worker is dealt with, and steps are taken to help emigrants to follow their own callings overseas. Typical of the variety of applicants in touch with the Society are four cases the secretary selected at random. A nurse, who desires to go to British Columbia has enough money to pay her passage, but is in need of advice as to the best means of going; a stonemason, who means to emigrate as soon as he can raise sufficient funds and who has paid a first instalment of seven dollars; a widow, who is an expert dressmaker, and hopes to have saved enough by the end of June to go out to Canada; a doctor with some capital who wants to know of a colony where he may practice his profession and at the same time give his two sons a start in farming.

The Duke of Marlborough recently gave a broad hint to the surplus women of England to go to the dominions beyond the seas where men were waiting for wives. Said the Duke: "There are a million more women than men in England, and there are a million more men than there are women in the dominions." So, indirectly, the Empire Emigration Society is playing the part of marriage bureau for Canadian bachelors, and domestic helps all over the country are becoming infected with the travel fever after dreaming of more congenial careers in new lands.

FAMOUS FOLKS

Sir Charles Wyndham practised as a doctor before going on the stage.

Sir Edward Clarke's greatest hobbies are boating and piano-playing.

Violets have always been the favorite flowers of the Empress Eugenie.

Stamp-collecting is one of the pastimes of Mr. Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate.

Lord Charles Beresford collects ball programmes as a hobby, especially favoring those painted by lady artists.

Mme. Patti possesses an old doll called Henriette, which was given to her when she was seven years old for singing nicely.

Mr. Hall Caine makes a practice of visiting every place he intends to describe in a novel. When engaged on a story he writes on an average 1,500 words a day.

Mr. Louis N. Parker, the dramatist, was born in France, his father was an American, his mother an Englishwoman, his first language was Italian, and he was educated in Germany.

A GROTESQUE OFFERTORY

Mengo Cathedral, in Uganda, which was recently destroyed by lightning, was probably the largest edifice in Central Africa, being capable of containing nearly 5,000 people. It was consecrated about six years ago, and an offertory of grotesquely varied gifts was collected on the occasion. This consisted of 13 cows, four goats, 125 eggs, 130 fowls, 75,000 cowrie shells, and a number of coins. The cows, for lack of room, were not taken inside the Cathedral, but the goats were led up to the altar and presented to the bishop, while the fowls were brought in big bamboo crates.

MELANCHOLY IN FLOWERS

Curious, indeed, the doom assigned to two of the fairest of the spring flowers, for if primroses are forsaken the violet is a nun. Perhaps this atmosphere of gentle melancholy increases the affection inspired by these favorite flowers which seem dearer far to human kind than such rivals as the brilliant marsh marigold and the dangerous aconite.—Black and White.

On the Wrong Side

Of the goals obtained in the three chief English leagues this season, over thirty have been registered by players scoring against their own sides.

Tunes for Motor Horns

"Let's All Go Down the Strand," and other topical melodies, can now be given on motor horns by means of brass cylindrical records.

Wood vs. Iron Ships

A ship built of iron weighs about one-fifth less than a wooden vessel of the same dimensions.

Gum From Starch

The gum used on postage-stamps is made from potato starch.

Students' Fees

Last year the Carnegie Trust paid students' fees amounting to $342,000.

A TIMELY WARNING

For an hour the cautious batsman had faced the bowlers, but he was not to be tempted. Not a solitary run from his bat had been registered.

Gradually the fielders closed in around him, and waited eagerly for the catch that never came.

And gradually the light failed. It was essential his wicket should be captured, so closer crept the fielders, till at last there was scarcely breathing room.

Most of the spectators had gone home or gone to sleep. But suddenly on the silent air came a voice from the pavilion.

"Look out, Jack!" sounded the warning cry. "They're all around you! Take care you don't get your pocket picked!"

ONE ON THE BARBER

Customer:—"Is it true that the edge of a razor improves if it is laid aside for a while after honing it?"

Barber:—"Yes, sir."

Customer:—"Then, you'd better lay aside the razor you've just used on me for about a thousand years."

MARCHING ORDERS

"Thomas!" cried the boy's father, in surprise. "You! Surely holiday-time has not come yet? I thought the end of the term was not for another month!"

"That's right," answered his son, and looked thoughtfully about the place.

"But why—why haven't you stayed on?"

"Changed my mind," came the brief reply. "And I'm not going back, either! Don't like the school."

"But, Thomas," expostulated the grieved parent, "it is an excellent establishment. That school has turned out some of the smartest men in the country!"

"Know all about that," returned the holiday-maker sorrowfully. "And it's turned me out, too!"

STARTED IN AUGUST

The Bug:—"Why are you going home so early?"

The Snail:—"Well, I'd like to be in time for Christmas dinner."

ADVISING HER DADDY

"Mary!"

Father's voice rolled down the stairs and into the dim and silent parlor.

"Yes, papa, dear."

"Ask that young man if he has the time."

A moment of silence.

"Yes, George has his watch with him."

"Then ask him what is the time."

"He says it is eleven forty-eight, papa."

"Then ask him if he doesn't think it about bed-time."

"He says, papa," the silvery voice announced, impersonally, "he says that he rarely goes to bed before one, but it seems to him that it is a matter of personal preference merely, and that if he were in your place he would go now if he felt sleepy!"

THE CURE THAT FAILED

The fair was in full swing, and the organ that was attached to the chief roundabout was screaming itself hoarse, while the lads and lasses performed gallant feats of horsemanship on the wooden Derby winners.

One elderly and somewhat corpulent dame was just completing her sixth successive pennyworth. On terra-firma stood her husband, and as the engine slowed down he called to his spouse:

"Feeling queer yet, Emma?"

"Not a little bit!" came the cheerful retort.

"Then you'd better come off," bellowed her lesser half, as she whirled past him again.

"She says she doesn't feel queer," bawled an attendant, fearing a mishap, that the man had misunderstood.

"I know what she said," cried the husband; "and that's why she's coming off. She swallowed a quarter half an hour ago, and we thought as how your machine might come in useful. It's cost us ten cents already, so it's time to stop! Come off, Emma!"

The Deputy

A Charming Story of A Snapshot by The Sea.

I.

The young man in the grey suit seemed in a decided hurry. That he could walk so quickly on a hot summer morning filled Walter Raine with surprise. He was not in time, however, to observe the meeting across the road. The girl rose from her seat in welcome; but after a hasty conversation the young man in grey bustled on.

It was at this moment that Raine, reaching the promenade in his turn, remembered that he had brought his camera on purpose to obtain a view of the sea-front. Noting that a pleasure-yacht was just leaving the beach, he decided to include it in the picture, and ran forward to a convenient standpoint.

Staring into the view-finder, he did not notice the girl's swift approach. It was only after he had pressed the lever that she realised she was beside him, flushed and indignant.

"You took my photograph! When men buy a camera they should get a book on manners at the same time! It was impertinence! People ought not to be allowed——"

"I—I think you're mistaken," Raine stammered. "I'd no intention of taking you without permission. Besides, I'm almost sure you won't appear on the plate at all."

The girl glanced over her shoulder. Raine hesitated confusedly while she disappeared. Then suddenly a hand tapped his shoulder. He turned sharply towards the immaculately-dressed youth, rather out of breath, who spoke with an effort at last:

"Excuse m-me, but have you by any chance seen a chap go along this way—fellow in a straw-hat, grey clothes, black-and-white tie?"

Raine eyed him, impatiently.

"Yes—at least, I suppose he's the one you want. He went in that direction."

"Thanks—thanks! A bit of detective work, you know. Ah, yes! Shall I catch him?"

"Perhaps—if you run."

"What on earth's wrong? By Jove, now I think of it, even if I hadn't that girl's photograph, I did 'snap' the man in grey! 'Detective work?' I've half a mind to do a bit on my own account."

He found a studio close by; and there an unoccupied assistant undertook to develop the plate at once. Raine called back at noon, and found the negative awaiting him. He examined it eagerly, and saw that his anticipations were realised. In one corner the young man in grey was plainly visible; at the instant of exposure he had turned for a backward glance.

Raine pointed this out to the girl after luncheon. He caught sight of her in the distance, and, leaving his companions, set out in pursuit. In truth, he was more than a little glad of an excuse for speaking to her a second time.

"You're not here," he started—"you're not in it at all! If you wouldn't mind looking, I'd be much obliged, really. I don't like you to think that I deliberately photographed you without the slightest excuse."

[illegible] with deliberation.

"It's a funny thing, though—I managed to include someone else—a chap some detective's after. That's the one, by the flagstaff. He had a grey suit on. Just after you left me, the other man dashed up—the detective, I mean. It was quite exciting."

"Really?" the girl returned languidly. "And did he catch the man in grey?"

"I can't tell you that, I'm afraid. Perhaps I'd better show this photo of mine at the police-station, and ask them—— Phew!"

He checked an exclamation of annoyance, staring down at the fragment of glass.

"Oh, now I suppose you'll never forgive me!" remarked the girl jestily.

"It slipped out of your hand, of course. Please don't worry about it. I'm down here for a fortnight, and I can easily take another, just the same—except that I mayn't get the exposure right again, and the yacht won't be there."

"I'm sure, in your place, I shouldn't be half so polite. But, really, I'm not always clumsy; and I—I apologise."

The words were gracious enough, but her manner was still constrained. With a little bow she dismissed Raine, who move off to rejoin his friends in a dissatisfied mood. But when he was halfway to the opposite pavement he almost collided with a familiar figure. The foppishly-dressed youth made a gesture of recognition.

"A good disguise!" Raine reflected. "Well, did you overtake him?" he queried.

"The fellow in grey? No." He shook his head disgustedly. "But I'm on his track. By George, yes, and that proves he's in the neighbor hood!"

"What does?" Raine followed the directions of his gaze.

"Why, there's his sister over by the railings. I've seen her waiting outside the office for him many times. I'll trace him yet!"

The little party from Raine's boarding-house found him absent-minded and dull. In truth, his brain was occupied with other matters.

"So she's his sister!" That's the real reason she was annoyed, I guess. That's why my negative was broken. It proved her brother was down here. She dropped it on purpose! I wish she were my sister! No, I don't though. I wish—wish I could meet her again!" he concluded to himself emphatically.

II.

Sooner than he expected, Raine gained his desire. It was only an hour later that he sauntered slowly back towards the town. He had missed the others on the cliffs, but was not really sorry. Now, all at once, he came upon a couple in earnest conversation over a garden gate.

As Raine drew near, the girl tapped the shoulder of the young man in grey; but the latter did not move. He eyed Raine with a frown.

"Look here," he began resentfully. "You seem to be dogging our footsteps. Who the dickens are you, and what do you mean by it? What do you want?"

"That [illegible] been searching for you on [illegible] observed Raine calmly. [illegible]

"I [illegible] don't know what you are talking about!"

The girl started.

"He must mean——"

"Hush, Joan!"

"[illegible] going to wait till three-thirty," [illegible] "and if he hasn't run across you by then, he's returning by the four-five. So he informed me. I only thought it might interest you."

"Thanks!" replied the young man thoughtfully. "It does."

"The four-five!" exclaimed his sister apprehensively. "Why, he'll go back to the office, Frank! He'll find out everything!"

"If it really is young Porchester." He turned to Raine who was moving off. "One moment! Will you kindly describe this person you imagine is a detective? Yes; that's the little chap right enough!"

"And he's sure to tell his father, Frank."

"That'll mean a month's notice. A bright lookout, isn't it?"

"Unless you go straight back—now, at once."

"Can't do that. You said Sherratt would be here at six." He clenched his fists. "I haven't interviewed that gentleman yet!"

"Oh, you ought never to have come, Frank!"

"What! When you've been insulted by a cad?" They seemed to have forgotten Raine, who still paused, in considerable embarrassment. Now he coughed.

"I—I beg your pardon! I couldn't help overhearing. Won't you let me—What I mean is, can't I help at either—in any way? Only too pleased, you know. Plenty of spare time."

They faced him blankly.

"Afraid not, thanks." The young man in grey hesitated. "I say, I've met you before somewhere, haven't I? Oh, no; you lunch at the Imperial Club, don't you, when you're in the City?"

"Nearly always," Raine agreed. "I'm at Dysart's Bank, you see."

"Really? I know a chap there—Hetherington."

"One of my oldest friends."

"Good gracious! I'm blessed if I don't tell you everything! I'm in a fix, and you might have some suggestion to make. My name's Kenley, and I'm in Caxton House, with John Porchester, a consulting engineer. Small office—no one else there; and old Porchester's often away."

He stopped, and referred to his watch uneasily.

"Fact is, I've left the place to itself to-day. Hetherington promised to look in and forward letters to the guv'nor. There really wouldn't be anything else to do. I only have to be there as a matter of form. But, you see, my sister"—the girl strolled a little distance off—"she's companion to an old lady in the house here, and a man's been annoying her—sending her letters, and hanging about—stopping her in the street. Joan won't have anything to do with him, of course; but"—he jerked his head in the direction [illegible] and kicked up a fuss. Joan has explained that she can't get rid of the fellow; but Miss Langdale insists she must have encouraged him, and threatens to discharge her. See? Well, at last Joan couldn't stand it, and wrote to me. I was pretty mad, and dashed off down here to-day to give Sherratt a thrashing."

Raine nodded appreciatively.

"It's the only way to deal with that class of person."

"But, as bad luck would have it, whom should I nearly run into at the station here but Hugh Porchester, the guv'nor's son. It was he who spoke to you on the front—a brainless young ass! His father tried him in the office, but he made such a hash of things that he was turned out."

"Jealous of you now? Trying to make trouble?" Raine suggested.

"You've hit it! His present allowance isn't so big as the salary he used to get; and he thinks he has to thank me for that. As a matter of fact, I always tried to help him. It was his father who decided that he was doing more harm than good to the firm."

"It all seems quite simple," repeated Walter Raine cheerfully. "He's catching the four-five. Well, off you go by the three-forty—you'll just manage it—and get to town first. Be hard at work when he arrives."

Kenley wrinkled his brows.

"You are forgetting about Sherratt, though."

"Leave him to me."

"You mean it?" Kenley cried.

"Rather! Boxing's a hobby of mine. If your sister'll allow me to put her in the matter—as a sort of decoy——"

[illegible]

"I really don't know how to thank you."

"It was a pleasure," affirmed Raine, smiling as well as he could, with a swollen lip. "The deputy quite enjoyed himself! Our friend Sherratt won't trouble you again, either."

"No-o. And a telegram's just come from Frank."

He took the paper from her.

"All gay. Hugh flabbergasted. Apologised." He laughed outright. "Then that's settled, too. There's only one little point that worries me."

"Nothing serious, I hope, Mr. Raine?"

"Just a broken negative."

"Oh, it's too bad of you to remind me of that! First I imagined you were Hugh Porchester, you know; then I thought you were someone he'd employed."

"About that photograph, though. I want to take another. Do you mind being in it this time, in place of the yacht? I'd like it as—as a souvenir."

"But we're practically strangers," she said, with a smile.

"We mayn't always be." Raine protested. "A lot can happen in a fortnight."

"And a lot did. In fact, it was the most thrilling holiday he ever had.

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

KEENE.

Mrs. J. H. Barkey of Peterboro', is the guest of Miss Bella McFarlane.

Miss Estelle Bailey of Peterboro', spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Laura Macfarlane.

Mrs. E. Brennan is the guest of Mrs. L. Burley.

A very small crowd attended the Masquerade Carnival in the skating rink Friday evening, it being a very cold night. The prizes were given to the following: Fancy Lady, Miss Katie Skinner; Comic Lady, Miss Jean Campbell; Fancy Girl, Miss Amy McFarlane; Fancy Gent, Mr. Albert Speirs; Comic Gent, Mr. W Warrington; Fancy Boy, Master Roy Rae; Comic Boy, Master Wm. Brown Best Clown, Geo. McIntyre.

Mr. R. Brown, (Rink manager) intends holding a Masquerade dance in the Town Hall on Friday evening, February 23rd. Everybody welcome. Admission 25c.

Mr. and Mrs. John Renwick of California, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller last week.

Miss Stella Rae of Peterborough, spent Sunday with Miss Vera McNeil

The Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when Miss Katie Doris, eldest daughter of Mr. John Doris, of the village, and Mr. Jos. Doherty of Peterboro', were united. After a very enjoyable afternoon spent with friends and relatives the young couple left for Peterboro' where they will reside.

Miss Irene Thompson of Mount Mullan, is the guest of Miss Jean Lang.

Mrs. Wilbert Howson of Peterboro, spent Tuesday in the village, the guest of Miss Margaret Bryce.

Mrs. J. Center was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Campbell for a few days last week.

Mr. Wallace Wood of Toronto, visited in the village on Sunday and Monday.

The Ontario Government is discussing a bill which is to compel every county in the Province, not having a House of Refuge to establish one. Fortunately this county has got a building of the kind referred to.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

35 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.30 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	8.20 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m.
	5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m.	8.30 a.m.
	8.05 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	6.15 p.m.	12.00 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston,	11.35 a.m.
Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed,	7.47 p.m.
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	12.10 a.m.
	1.31 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	8.36 a.m.
	5.51 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m.
	4.30 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

Children's Aid Gives Thanks.

The Children's Aid Society desires to acknowledge a donation of ladies' coats, children's sweaters and toques from R. Graham and Son, Lakefield; also a quilt from Mrs. Jacob Isbister London street.

A Signalling Class.

In accordance with the divisional order, a signalling class will be opened in the Armouries this evening, 16th inst., and shall continue for one month. The signalling class will be open to all members of the regi-

Produce Prices Plenty at Keene.

Farmers are selling butter and eggs at Keene at about 30c a pound. One man who was in the village stated that 30c and 31c a pound had been paid for butter and the same price for eggs. It is understood that the buying was wholesale.

Business Principles in Lindsay.

Lindsay Council has decided not to pay any accounts that are not properly and fully vouched for. On motion at a meeting of the Council, the clerk was instructed to send back all accounts not properly vouched for.

Western Real Estate Man Here.

Mr. O. L. Macklem, manager for Messrs. W. S. King Co., real estate brokers, 1107 McArthur Building, was in the city yesterday and in conversation with a Times representative grew eloquent over the wonderful possibilities of the Prairie City.

Results of Local Elections.

The Ontario Government has just issued a Blue Book containing a "Return from the Records of the General Election." For West Peterborough this return gives Peck 2674 votes against Hall's vote of 2056, or a majority for Peck of 618. In East Peterborough the figures are Thompson 1579, Hawthorne 1076. Thompson's majority 503.

Contributions for Fire Sufferers.

Following are additional contributions received by Relief Officer Miller for the fire sufferers:

R. Harstone	$5.00
Friend	2.00
Frank Sollett	1.00
Friend	1.00

Mrs. G. N. Gordon, clothing; Miss Morrow, heavy quilt, clothing and fruit.

Fine Cup for Curling Competition.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: The handsome challenge shield donated by Dr. R. M. Mason, M.P.P., is now on exhibition in Mr. A. Northey's jewelry store window. The design is a wreath of gray-finished silver enclosing the figure of a curler, in the same metal, in the act of playing a stone. The shield will be completed for the local rinks and Bobcaygeon rinks, and will add a good deal of interest to the game.

Coroner's Verdict Re Fire.

A few days ago we noted that a coroner's inquest was held on the fire which destroyed the mill at Lakefield lately owned by the Tait-Lillicrap Lumber Co., but sold to the Seimon. At the time of writing the coroner had not given his verdict, which is now made public, as follows:

"My verdict is therefore in accordance with impression that the fire was incendiary, but who the guilty party or parties were is unknown."

Church Union to Be Discussed.

An interesting debate is being arranged for Knox church on Monday, February 26, when the question of church union will be dealt with by representatives of the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations. The debaters are Messrs. McLaren, McKenzie, Cowan and Cunningham, for St. James, Knox, St. Paul's and Charlotte street churches respectively.

Lindsay S.A. Give a Dinner.

The Salvation Army of Lindsay on Tuesday evening last gave a dinner to the old people at the House of Refuge there. After the supper, a good program was rendered by the corps. The evening was greatly enjoyed by all present, and especially by the inmates of the House. The Officers of the Salvation Army and their workers thanked the ladies who so readily responded to the appeal for cake, etc., for the tea.

Postmen Were Kept Busy.

The local letter carriers, a hard working and faithful body of Government employees, state that their burden of work was doubled on account of St. Valentine's Day. They say that the old-fashioned hearts pierced by arrows were not so numerous as postcards. Whilst St. Valentine's Day is almost exclusively a children's affair, the idea is broadening in extent.

Local Families Move Residence.

Times may be hard, provisions may be dear, but the people of the county are still on the move. On Wednesday five families moved their place of abode. They are: Mr. Sid Middleton removed from his house in the city to Mr. B. Seabrook's farm on the 5th line of Smith; Mr. Seabrook moved to Mr. Percy Donaldson's farm on the 4th line of Smith; Mr. Donaldson moved to Mr. W. S. shearer's farm on the 6th line of Otonabee and Mr. Shearer moved into the house vacated by Mr. Middleton.

Italian Arrested on a Serious Charge

When a Times representative made his nightly call at the Police station last night, he found only one prisoner behind the bars. This was an Italian, whose name could not be ascertained, but who was locked up on a very serious charge, viz., that of committing an assault on his daughter. Owing to the seriousness of the offense the police were naturally reticent about giving information. The Italian under arrest it seems, is an employee of the city. Neighbours of his laid the complaint

Darke Appeal Still On.

Toronto Globe: Darke vs. Canadian General Electric Co.—Appeal by plaintiff from the judgment of Mul- [illegible] section by Catharine Darke, widow of Hugh Darke, who was accidentally killed by being whirled around a shaft in defendant's factory while working for them, to recover $10,000 damages, on the ground that the accident was caused by the negligence of defendants. At the trial the action was dismissed without costs. Appeal partly argued but not concluded.

Fear Local Flood in Spring.

Chatham, Ont., is afraid of floods. With almost two feet of ice in the river Thames there is great danger of disastrous floods unless steps are taken to avert such a calamity. The cause of the flood has been the jamming of the ice in the river several miles from the lighthouse, forming a complete dam through which no water is permitted to escape. The ice and water is then backed up with the result that land for miles around is flooded to a depth of several feet. Many of our older citizens who remember when there was a ferry service across George street, near the C.P.R. Station, fear that this spring there will be floods here.

A Pretty Kinmount Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sandiford Murray, Kinmount, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, when their third daughter Miss Jane Murray, and Mr. Wilbert H. Lyle, of Millbrook, were made man and wife by Rev. S. L. Lord, of Fenelon Falls. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bridesmaid was Miss Edna Lyle, sister of the groom, while Mr. John Murray, brother of the bride, was groomsman. After the wedding dinner the couple left on the G.T.R. train for Peterborough on their honeymoon, after which they will reside in Millbrook.

Details Re Mr. Haggart's Death.

Referring to our report in yesterday's Times about the terribly sudden death of Mr. John Haggart, it is somewhat pathetic to see the "Auction Sales" bills about the city on which the name of the deceased appears. Among the sales that Mr. Haggart was to have presided at were those of Messrs. James Melrose, Gravel road, Feb. 20th; J. J. Bennett, North Monaghan, Feb. 27th; and N. Stiles, Ennismore, Feb. 28th. We have since found that Mr. Haggart a few minutes before his death was in front of the Brock street rink just a few doors west of his residence talking about the phenominal crowd present.

WEDDING BELLS.

Finnie—Johnston.

Knox church was the scene of a quiet wedding when Miss Ethel Johnston, of North Monaghan, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Finnie, of Peterborough. The couple were assisted by Miss Edna Johnston, and Miss Wordie. Rev. Mr. Keith officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Finnie will reside in Peterborough.

"Never put off until to-morrow what you can do to-day."

"A good maxium. I did that once, and the next day they took the mistletoe down."

Big Opening Tomorrow

RED MILL THEATRE

Peterboroughs Leading Place of Amusement

Under New Management

Under New Management.

This Theater will run only the best films that money can buy, including all special features in this line. Up-to-date, life-sized pictured songs. Open daily from 1 to 11 P.M. Nothing offensive allowed. Ladies and children cordially invited to this comfortable house.

5c - Admission - 5c.

This price never changes.

Cures Old Folks' Coughs

DOESN'T DISTURB THE STOMACH EASES AT ONCE AND CURES THOROUGHLY.

"CATARRHOZONE" A BOON TO MANY THOUSANDS.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with everlasting coughing—those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhozone. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrhozone, and instantly its rich balsamic fumes are carried by your breath into the tiniest recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it—a direct breathable medicine, full of soothing antiseptic pine essences that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm or sicken the stomach, because Catarrhozone is the purest, safest cough, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

"For many years," writes Richard McCollum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and routinually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed, irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried it. Really it benefited me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so-called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit, I continued using Catarrhozone, and in a few weeks I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble."

Get Catarrhozone to-day. Large size costs $1.00, and lasts two months. Smaller sizes 25c and 50c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The Bear Cats met last night at Brock street Rink.

Lindsay's big winter carnival is in full swing and the town is dressed in gala attire.

The Lindsay lock up is to be renewed and strengthened. Hobos and Weary Willies take notice.

Lindsay Warder: A special train, conveying the Midland hockey team and supporters passed through Lindsay to Peterborough this afternoon.

Toronto won the Capon-Waddell Curling Cup from Peterborough. Still the local wielders of broom and stane are not disheartened and hope for the future.

Mr. James Sweeney of Harvey street whose home was recently destroyed by fire a few days ago desires The Times to thank the friends for [illegible]

Among those who sent flowers from Peterborough in token of regard, to the late Mr. George Simpson, Lindsay, were Mr. and Mrs. Rountree, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lipsett and Mr. Chas. Stapleton.

Some of the American labor leaders seem to be in serious difficulties with the court. The cause of labor is a noble one, but when labor and dynamite try to become bedfellows, honest sons of labor become ashamed of their parents.

We note that the president of the big Lindsay carnival, now in progress, is Mr. Allan Gillies, who has done good work over this great attraction and boom for that town. Mr. Gillies is a member of the Fourth Estate or in other words, a newspaper man.

Yesterday a flock of crows was seen, and incidentally heard, be-caws you generally hear these birds in a field of corn-stooks to the east of the city. This, however, does not guarantee that the average householder may let his furnace out for the summer.

The "Canadian Farm," of last issue, has a large picture of corn eight feet high grown in the county of Kent, Ont. What's the use of bragging that way! A local young lady has a corn, not one-sixteenth of an inch high that caused her to miss two sessions at church, our hockey match and possibly an engagement of marriage.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Melville Jamieson was in Port Hope yesterday.

Mrs. Hugh Bertram will not receive this afternoon.

Mr. J. H. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. J. A. Little of Owen Sound was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Mr. Ernest A. Lawson, formerly of Peterborough, arrived in the city from Toronto.

Mr. W. E. Norman, route agent of the Canadian Express Co., was in the city yesterday on business.

Miss Alta Bradd, who has been the guest of Miss Geraldine Kane, has gone to join her mother in Detroit.

Mrs. T. J. Eason, Galt, is visiting at the home of Mrs. M. A. Turner, 337 Downie street.

Mr. Robt. Gibbs, the well known liveryman is confined to his home through illness.

Mr. A. E. Leek, of Windsor, is in the city the guest of his brother, K. G. Leek, Stewart street.

Mr. W. H. Daymen, we regret to say, is still confined to his home through illness.

Mr. Arthur Johnston, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, who has been ill in bed for some weeks, was yesterday reported as somewhat better.

Mr. Gordon Rutledge of the Montreal staff of the McLean Publishing Co., was in the city yesterday on business.

Mrs. Robert Ward Graham and her little son Ward, of Hamilton, are visiting her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. Graham, 675 Stewart street.

Mrs. McNeill, of Brighton, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Bourn, McDonnell street, left for home yesterday morning.

The family of the late Mrs. J. H. Buchanan wish to extend their heart felt thanks for the kindness shown them during their deep sorrow.

Miss Lillian Crowe, 493 Cross street, entertained a number of her friends Wednesday evening at a very enjoyable progressive euchre party.

Mr. E. Skitch, who is known here is working in Belleville in the interests of the Royal Templars of Temperance. He has secured over 20 names already.

The many friends of Master Stanley Degen will be pleased to learn that he is making rapid progress towards recovery from the operation which he recently underwent at the Nicholls Hospital.

C.P.R. ROADMASTER WEDS.

Marriage of Mr. D. J. McDonnell With Miss Emily Newton Nolan, Which a Pretty Ceremony Was Enacted.

A marriage of local interest was celebrated at Dixie, Ont., on Wednesday when Mr. Daniel J. McDonnell, former roadmaster on the C.P.R., and well known in Peterborough was married to Emily Newton Nolan, of Toronto, the youngest daughter of the late Captain Nolan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Tracey of St. Patrick's church. Miss Zita Burns was bridesmaid, while Mr. William J. Allen, of Vancouver assisted the groom. The bride wore a pretty costume of grey silk, trimmed with Brussels net and cream satin, with a picture hat to match, her travelling dress was a navy blue tailored suit. Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell left on a honeymoon trip to Chicago and on their return will reside in Toronto.

LINDSAY FIREMEN ARE AFTER RAISE IN PAY.

Sengerville Purchases Chemical Instruments as Recommended by the Underwriters.

Now that the matter of the local fire laddies wanting an increase of pay has exercised public opinion, it is interesting to note that the firemen of Lindsay are not averse to similar treatment. Lindsay Warder, reporting a meeting of the Council of that town says:

Several important matters in connection with the maintenance of the fire hall and brigade were brought up for discussion. On motion of Chairman [illegible] was instructed to purchase two chemical instruments for the fire hall. They were recommended by the Fire Underwriters Association. In regard to purchasing 500 feet of hose, Second Deputy Reeve Dobson thought it would be wise to buy only 250 feet. The Fire Underwriters Association called for 3,000 feet and the majority of Aldermen contended that the hose was a good investment as the town should be well protected in the case of fire. On motion it was decided to purchase two new smoke protectors for the firemen. In discussing the question of granting the firemen an increase in wages, as requested by the brigade, Reeve Babcock, Ald. McCloy, Howe and Gray thought that the men deserved the increase. The question of granting an increase of salaries to the firemen was allowed to stand over until a full and detailed report is received from the secretary of the brigade.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

PUBLIC OPINION

Continued from Page 1.

ness of remaining isolated and the strength of becoming united. Rome can be conquered easily by united Protestantism, even if the Liberal press is also on the side of Rome.

Come and hear the address this evening, you cannot learn too much. I hope to see a large number of earnest Protestants there. Admission free.

Percival G. S. Webb.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I have heard a lot of wails and lamentations from the recently defeated Reformers because some of their friends in office have been discharged. The Reformers seem to claim that the Conservative party is enjoying and employing the "spoils" system. I would respectfully call the attention of the disgruntled Grits to a manifesto on the spoils system taken from the columns of the Ottawa Free Press, the Liberal government organ, just after the change in government in 1896:

"The rank and file of the Liberal party will acclaim a plain statement of the need for a closer loyalty of the department to this accepted principle of party government—all patronage should go to the friends of the party. Every departure from this is an act of disloyalty to the followers and supporters of the party.

"No cabinet minister nor any supporter of the Liberal party can assault this position and be loyal to his party.

"Every new appointment, every power of patronage, belongs by right of system and precedent to the members of the Liberal party.

"To appease a political foe by gifts of patronage is a sign of cowardice, or even worse.

"In the initial appointment or in the awarding of a government contract, it is expected that the party in power shall be loyal to its friends. Without such loyalty the party becomes disorganized.

"Howl, howl, ye soreheads!"

—Veritas.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Registered pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes. [illegible] Big G is the safest and surest remedy for [illegible] and ordinary cases. [illegible] Big G, and expect to [illegible] Big G, [illegible]

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

Present the First Offering of the Stock of

PORCUPINE - FORTUNA GOLD MINES LTD.

Incorporated under Ontario Companies Act.

Capital Stock $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 Shares. Par Value $1.00 per Share. Treasury Shares 1,000,000 Shares. All Shares Common Shares, fully paid and non-assessable. The Company has no Bonds, Preferred Shares or Indebtedness of any kind.

The company owns 3 groups in all, 8 mining claims, 310 acres, in the Porcupine Mining District of Ontario, described as follows: The Reany Mining Claim in Tisdale, being the southwest quarter of the south half of Lot Number Two, Concession One, Tisdale; the Mapes Claim in Deloro T. R. P. 914 (Called H. R. 926), and six claims in Shaw Township, called the James claims, being officially known as Claims Nos. 13884, 13885, 13886, 13887, 13888 and 13889.

GROUP NO. 1

The well-known Reany lies east of the Martin and Dome. The famous Dunn and Steel properties adjoin the Reany on the east and the Rose-Van Cutsen claims, owned by one of the largest mining, engineering and brokerage houses of London (owners of Town Site Mine at Cobalt), adjoin the Reany on the west side. The Dunn and Steel vein runs into the Reany and has been exposed by stripping for a distance of 600 feet on the Reany. This vein has an average width of 20 feet and is heavily mineralized. (See Engineer's Report).

GROUP NO. 2

The Mapes claim in Deloro lies two claims south of Tisdale on the south of the Powell claims. On the east of the Mapes are the now famous Dobie Maidens and McDonald properties. The Boston Development Company, on the west, have made their spectacular strike on this same vein, which is traced through the Mapes property from the Dobie. The Sechumacher property lies northwest. The entire property lies in the main Dome ore zone, whose principal trend is northeast by southwest, which is the trend of the Dobie, Maidens, Mapes and Boston Development veins. Two-thirds of the Mapes claim is exposed and easily prospected. The Mapes claim is considered one of the most promising in its neighborhood, and, like the Reany, should develop into a good-paying mine.

Groups 1 and 2 are in famous Dome Ore Zone.

GROUP NO. 3

The six James claims in Shaw are too well known to go into detail in describing. It is sufficient to say that these claims have a well-mineralized ore body 150 feet wide, that with proper development will more than likely prove one of the great ore bodies of the Porcupine District.

SOLICITORS

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

MINE MANAGEMENT.

There has been a great deal of unfavorable comment regarding poor management of many of the Porcupine properties, and in many cases we know this feeling is justified, but with our reputation established as Mine Operators, those who invest in Porcupine Fortuna may rest assured that the management of this property will have the best advice obtainable.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT.

The Officers and Directors of this Company are well known bankers, business and mining men, who have proven successful in handling large financial institutions with profit to the shareholders and credit to themselves. Associated with the bankers and business men are mining men well known in the north mining country of Ontario. They have successfully prospected and operated in Cobalt, Gowganda and Porcupine, and have established reputations for progressiveness, reliability and intelligent operations.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

President: William T. Lyon (President Guardian Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.)

VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex. Gillies (Mine Owner, Cobalt and Porcupine.)

SECRETARY AND TREASURER G. Heagen (of Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan, Toronto.)

DIRECTORS

Alex. Moore, (Vice-President First National Bank, Philipi, W. Va.)
William T. Lyon, Alex. Gillies,
David Reany (Mine Owner, Haileybury, Ont.)
F. L. Mapes (Mine Owner, Buffalo N. Y., and Haileybury, Ont.)

STOCK REGISTRARS, TRANSFER AGENTS AND DEPOSITORY

Trusts & Guarantee Co., Ltd. (All certificates are countersigned by them and all transfers of stock are made through them.)

FIRST OFFERING OF SHARES

We take no little pleasure in being able to offer the first 100,000 shares of Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines Limited, at the extremely low price of 15c per share, and the next 100,000 at 20c per share.

OPENING

This allotment will be open for public subscription at our offices, Monday, February 19, 1912, at 10 a.m.

CLOSING

Subscriptions will be closed promptly at noon, Saturday, February 24th, 1912.

OVER-SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the first 100,000 will be filled at 15c. Over-subscriptions will be filled at 20c per share unless instructed to contrary with order. In case of over subscription, our Subscription Books will be open for inspection of subscribers, so that no question can arise as to orders being filled as received. Copies of prospectus filed with the Government can be had from us. Place your orders through your brokers or direct with us.

Advance information and reservations may be had in person or by mail at above address without obligation.

Brokers who desire to co-operate on this allotment please notify us at once.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Statutory Prospectus of PORCUPINE FORTUNA GOLD MINES LIMITED, dated 18th January, 1912, and filed with the Provincial Secretary, at Toronto.

Authorized capital, 2,000,000 shares of one dollar each, of which one share each was subscribed by the incorporators (who are also at the date of this Prospectus the directors) viz: James E. Day, John M. Ferguson, Edward V. O'Sullivan and James M. Adam (Barristers), and James F. Coughlin (Law Student), all of the office of Day, Ferguson & O'Sullivan, 59 Victoria-street, Toronto, the Solicitors for the Company. The balance of the stock, 1,999,995 shares, is agreed to be issued to F. L. Mapes of Haileybury, Ont., Miner, under two contracts, dated 5th of January and 9th of January, 1912, between him and the Company for the transfer to the Company of certain mining claims in Porcupine. All the stock having been issued to the Company has gone to allotment, but by a contract between F. L. Mapes and the Company, January, 1912, he has agreed to donate 1,000,000 shares to be used for treasury purposes. The above contracts may be inspected any day at the office of the above-named Solicitors.

Qualification required of the directors is one share. No provisions are yet made for their remuneration other than allowance of fees and expenses for attending meetings, nor is underwriting or payment of commission on sale of stock, but the directors have power to fix their own fees up to 25 per cent. on sale of stock, and 10 per cent. on sale of If any of the said 1,000,000 shares are sold the amount agreed to be paid for same will be payable in full in one instalment. The above directors have no interest in the promotion other than Solicitors, or in promoters' profit which is in the shares issued. The preliminary expenses being government, filing and legal fees, are estimated at under $1500.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

THE POOR CONSUMER

"Young man, don't you know those mushrooms you are gathering are poisonous?"

"It's all right, sir. I'm not going to eat them. I'm gathering them to sell."

AT AN ACTOR'S LODGINGS

Comedian Boarder:—"I have named this coffee November, my dear madam."

Stern Landlady:—"Indeed, sir! And why?"

Comedian Boarder:—Because it is cold and cloudy."

Stern Landlady:—"What a brilliant young man! I thought of naming it after you."

Comedian Boarder:—"And why?"

Stern Landlady:—"Because it is so long before it settles."

QUITE DIFFERENT

He was a huge man of the navvy species, and as he stood in the witness-box counsel eyed him dubiously. He knew he would be a hard nut to crack—a very hard nut indeed.

"What we want to get at," he began, "is, who was the aggressor?"

"Eh?" said the witness, puzzled.

"Let me illustrate my meaning," said counsel. "Supposing that I should meet you in the street and strike you in the face, I should be the aggressor."

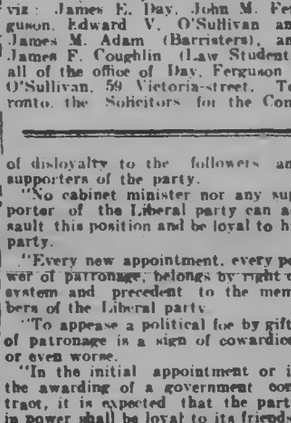
"You would be a fool!" said the witness, with growling emphasis.

"No, no!" said counsel, with heightened color. "You don't understand. I was speaking only in the abstract. Suppose we met, and, without provocation, I struck you. I should be committing an act of aggression."

The navvy hunched his huge shoulders.

"You'd be committing suicide, mister," he remarked, grimly.

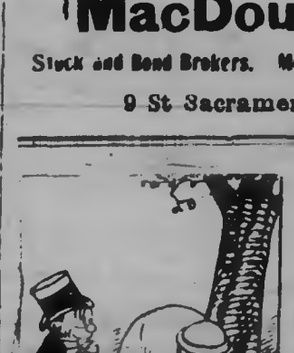
"You may sit down," snapped counsel.



HE WAS UNREASONABLE

"I hear that Gwenole broke off her engagement with Mr. Manly because he tried to HAVE her enjoyments."

"Yes, she was engaged to two other young men, and he objected."



NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof, for an Act to amend the Acts relating to the City of Peterborough, to give the said City authority to expropriate the property, plant and appliances situated within the Municipality, of any person, firm or Corporation engaged in the business of supplying light, heat or power for sale.

Dated the 14th day of February, A.D., 1912.

F. H. D. HALL,
City Solicitor.

(D) 5-16-21-2)

J. W. EDWARDS

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

It is strange how a man sits for hours doubled over a touring car steering wheel, will strain his back if he handles a snow shovel for five minutes.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near-sighted, some defi- at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require base sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 42 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

40,000 Letters And Telegrams, Seized at Indianapolis, Lay Bare Dynamite Plots

MADE HIS WIFE WED RICH AMERICAN BY THREAT OF DEATH

London, Feb. 16.— A remarkable sequel has developed to the marriage between Horace Field Parshall, of Milford, N.Y., who is chairman of the Central London Tube Railway, and Mrs. Deborah Jeffreys, which took place at Eltham Registry Office on May 8th last.

The woman was arraigned yesterday at the Bow Street Police Court on a charge of bigamy. She is a very attractive woman and appeared before the magistrate in a handsome costume. In answer to the charge she said:

"I am deeply sorry for what I have done. I would not have done it if my husband had not made me."

In a formal statement made to the court she declared that she first met Mr. Parshall in January, 1911, when she was presented as a widow. He afterwards proposed marriage to her. Her husband Herbert H. Jeffreys, from whom she was separated, urged her to marry Mr. Parshall for his money, and threatened to kill her if she revealed to Mr. Parshall that she was a married woman.

Mr. Parshall afterward received an anonymous letter in which his supposed wife confessed what she had done. The marriage was annulled by the High Court.

BELLEVILLE INQUEST ON BRAKESMAN

Preliminary Hearing on J. J. Specely, Crushed in a Freight Train Collision.

Belleville, Ont., Feb. 16.- The preliminary proceedings of the inquest into the death of J. J. Specely, brakeman on the Middle-leader through freight which was sent to death early yesterday morning as the result of a collision on the east leg of the "Y" on the Midland line, opened yesterday afternoon in Tickell & Sons undertaking rooms, before Coroner Dr. J. J. Farley. Percy Nugent, of Lindsay, conductor on the ill-fated freight train, was the only eye witness called. He knew deceased slightly, who was employed as brakeman. At Belleville, he saw him taken out dead from beneath the tender which had telescoped the cab of the first engine. He was squeezed between the tender and the boiler-head.

The accident was caused by the freight running in on the dead cars on the left leg of the "Y" The train was yarding, and had received no instructions of obstructions on the main freight line. The inquest was adjourned until Monday, Feb. 17th.

REV. R. B. GROBB NOW IS A LOCAL PASTOR

Last night with the impressive ceremonies consequent in the Church of England at such ceremonies. His Lordship Bishop Reeve inducted Rev. R. B. Grobb into the rectorship of All Saints' Church. This recently rebuilt church was comfortably filled with an enthusiastic audience. His Lordship, after the usual prayers and other proceedings formally declared Rev. Mr. Grobb to be the rector of the Parish. A special sermon was preached by Rev. W. S. Major, a former rector of All Saints' Church. After the close of the church services refreshments were served by the ladies of the parish in the parish hall.

BRITISH COLUMBIA TO SETTLE STRIKES

Victoria, Feb. 16.—Interesting suggestions in legislation, which in view of the Canadian Industrial Peace Association, are likely—if given place upon the statute book—to make for the diminution of strikes and similar disturbances of business conditions, were advanced before the Premier and his full cabinet by a deputation headed by Mr. F. C. Wade, K.C., of Vancouver, president of the local industrial Peace Association; Very Rev. Archbishop McNeil, of Vancouver; Rt. Rev. Bishop McDonald, of Victoria; Mr. P. H. Scullen, general organizer of the Canadian Industrial [illegible] and others. Mr. Wade, acting as spokesman for the committee, presented and elaborating in a comprehensive address the principles of the proposed Act.

The principal feature of the suggested law for the reduction of the number of and loss by industrial crisis is practically the constitution of a special commissioner, who is to be named by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, whose function it shall be to keep closely in touch with all industrial conditions throughout the province, and upon trouble developing in any industry, through which a strike is threatened, to go to the disaffected district, carefully investigate all matters in dispute and give fullest publicity to both sides of the dispute.

THE WEATHER.

Snow or sleet.

STREET PAVING WILL BE UNDERTAKEN THIS YEAR

THIS QUESTION TO BE SERIOUSLY TAKEN UP TUESDAY NIGHT.

Poles Will Also Come Off George Street. Wisdom of Paying For Street Watering by Frontage Tax in Question—Ald. Buller Calls the South City Pumping Station a White Elephant.

The City's Board of Works met last night. There were present Mayor W. H. Bradburn and Aldermen Gillespie, Graham, Johnston and Duffus.

His worship strongly urged that the Board and Council take up the question of street paving and push it through, as he felt it high time that permanent work was laid on our main streets at least.

Mr. Wilmot H. Legge, representing The Warren Bituminous Paving Co., Limited, Toronto, was present in regard to paving Peterborough streets with bitulithic pavement. He pointed out that the cost of laying this roadway depended to some considerable extent upon the price of material locally—crushed stone, gravel, labor, etc, for instance. The cost of their pavement had varied from $2.25 per square yard in Toronto to $3.00 and $3.15 a square yard in Western Canada.

Several communications seeking contracts for laying street pavement of various kinds were received. Representatives of the different companies will be invited to be present at a meeting of the Board of Works next Tuesday evening when the street paving question will be taken up in a business like way with a view to an early prosecution of such permanent road making. Mr. Duckworth, [illegible] of the Great Northern [illegible] Co., will be present in regard to his proposition to remove his company's poles from off George street. Ald. Buller also has reason to believe that the Radial Railway will consent to double track at least the streets on which pavement is laid, and that the Peterborough Light and Power Co. are willing to take down their poles on George street.

His worship suggested that the engineer get a report of all places not connected with the sewer on the streets to be paved. The chairman will interview the City Engineer to this effect.

Consulting Engineer Chipman's balance of account for services in connection with the South City Sewerage System, amounting to $1,350, was left in abeyance.

Ald. Buller thought that in consideration of the initial cost of the South City Pumping Station, together with its incidental expenditure and cost of upkeep, he was quite justified in classing the institution as a "white elephant."

MONEY! MONEY!! MONEY!!!

The City Engineer's estimates for street work the current year totalled up to $20,8000 an excess of over $4,000 above the amount expended on this work last year. These estimates were left in the hands of the Mayor and the chairman.

THE WHITE ELEPHANT AGAIN.

On motion of Ald. Gillespie and Johnston, the chairman was authorized to look into the matter of insuring the motors in the South City sewerage pumping station.

OPPOSED TO SEPTIC TANK.

Regarding the Dickson Company's request for a septic tank in connection with their Waterford street property, the Engineer will be asked to report as to some other scheme for sewerage service for this locality. The Board is opposed to septic tanks.

The Engineer reported that no additional poles be erected on King street. The Bell Telephone Co. had petitioned for permission to erect two poles on King street, and the Engineer advised that they use the Peterborough Light and Power Co's poles on that street. This report was merely received.

Mr. Martin Neary's application for the position of foreman of sewer construction was left in abeyance.

DOWNIE STREET CREEK.

W. H. Spencely's complaint that Downie street creek backs up into his premises was referred to the Engineer to see that the city's culvert is kept open in preparing for spring freshets. This creek will probably be diverted this year.

PREPARING FOR SPRING.

Moved by Ald. Johnston seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the watering carts be painted and put in shape, in readiness for street watering.—Carried.

The Mayor has changed his views regarding the system of paying for street watering. Originally, he favored a frontage tax. He now suggests that it be paid for on a general rate, which, he offered, would be more equitable. A frontage tax, he contended, would give unfair advantage to say business men. For instance, the rate on a highly assessed 16 foot store, on George street would on a frontage tax be materially reduced from what it was on the assessment plan, and the deficit would have to be made good by property owners in outlying districts. The man with a big frontage, on which may be stood a small dwelling would have to shoulder a disproportionate share of the cost of street watering the best of which service necessarily goes to the business streets.

The Board generally appeared to concur in his worship's views, and [illegible] be discussed at the next meeting.

MARCONI SUES FOR DAMAGES ON PATENT

Melbourne, Feb. 16.—Following the issuance of a writ against the Commonwealth Government by the Marconi Company, for infringement of the Australian patents of the firm, a wireless expert who examined the government station recently constructed and equipped with wireless telegraphy, claims the system installed is different to Marconi's, but refused to disclose the difference.

A GOOD SASKATCHEWAN FARMING PROPOSITION

Fine Rich Loam Land Ten Inches Deep for Sale as Advertised Herein.

Now that so many of our young, and in fact, some of our older men are going out West, to grow up with the country, those considering such a move should seriously consider the advertisement of Messrs. F. J. Bullock & Co., 207 Colborne street, Toronto. This seems one of the best land propositions we have seen lately. The Saskatchewan Grain and Land Co., therein, call attention to the property they control. This property should specially appeal to farmers and those seeking a home in the Great West. The property has a splendid rich loam soil, eight to ten inches deep and ready for the plow. It is, as can be seen in the adv. conveniently situated near a station of the main line of the C.P.R., between Winnipeg and Edmonton. I would say those thinking of going West to investigate this proposition and thus secure land that is known by the present owners to be good, instead of buying at random.

RICHEST WOMAN DENIES CHARGE

Says She Did Not Try to Extort Money From W. Hearst.

New York, Feb. 16. KNOWN as the richest woman in the world, Mrs. Hetty Green, "attempted to extort money" from William Randolph Hearst, according to C. V. Bevee, attorney for the editor who obtained an order in court directing Mrs. Green to appear and show cause why she should not be compelled to accept $275,000, with interest, up till last Monday in payment of a mortgage she held on Mr. Hearst's properties. Mrs. Green, Bevee stated, refused to cancel the mortgage until the payment of $1,145 additional interest which, he said, the richest woman claimed, when Mr. Hearst's representatives called on her last Monday.

Yesterday Bevee withdrew the order, saying that Mrs. Green had "capitulated" and turned over the mortgage for the amount named by Mr. Hearst.

Mrs. Green is quoted as saying: "The charge that I tried to extort money is absurd. I simply asked Mr. Hearst's representatives to wait till the return of my son, who was handling the business, and when they refused, I added thirty days' interest to which I believed I was entitled to under the law."

TROOPS MAY GO ON TO MEXICO

[illegible] From New Orleans May Be Dispatched Soon to the Frontier.

New Orleans, Feb. 16. A telegram has been received at Jackson Barracks from the War Department at Washington, D.C., ordering the Ninety-first Company, Coast Artillery, to hold itself in readiness for marching at any moment. While order does not state to what point the company will be ordered to proceed, it is, nevertheless, believed that it will be ordered to report to the Mexican border, where the One Hundred and Sixty-fourth Company, from the same post, spent a part of last summer.

The Ninety-first Company is the only one now stationed at Jackson Barracks, the One Hundred and Sixty-fourth being at present engaged in mine-planting at the forts at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and is not expected to return until next week, but it is understood that should the Ninety-first Company receive orders to march at once, that the company now absent from the post can be brought in in eight hours after the orders shall have been received.

HUNDRED THOUSAND FOR ART BY J. P. MORGAN

Great American Money King Buys Enormous Supply of Art Treasures in Europe.

New York, Feb. 16.—The recent announcement that J. Pierpont Morgan would bring a portion of his art collection from London to New York has led to the discovery that the financier has invested a sum estimated at more than $100,000,000 in art treasures. These are said to consist not only of paintings, statuary and jewels, but of collections of wide range and enormous value of ceramics, porcelain, bronzes, reliquaries and antiquities of almost every form and conception of every age of barbarism and civilization.

CITY COUNCIL WILL ASK FOR POWER TO EXPROPRIATE

LOOKING FORWARD TO MUNICIPAL OWNED ELECTRIC POWER.

Hydro Electric Power Commission Will be Invited to Lay Out Plan for Distribution of Electricity in This City, Together With Other Information as to Cost and Conduction of Municipal Owned Light and Power Plant.

The City Fathers met in special session last night. There were present, Mayor W. H. Bradburn, and Aldermen Graham, Johnston, Brown, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie, Buller and Duncan.

His worship pointed out that under the present municipal act there appears to be some doubt as to the city's position in case the Corporation wished to expropriate the distributing plant of any power company within the city's jurisdiction. Hence it was necessary that the Legislature be petitioned to pass an act unquestionably empowering this municipality to expropriate any such electrical distributing plant or plants deemed necessary to the Corporation's proposed scheme for municipal owned electric power for street lighting and domestic and perhaps motive purposes.

Ald. Gillespie here fathered a by-law petitioning the Legislature to pass an act to enable this city to expropriate the distributing plant of any corporation, generating electrical energy within Peterborough city's jurisdiction.

This measure passed its several readings.

DISTRIBUTION OF ELECTRICITY

Moved by Ald. Gillespie, seconded by Ald. Gordon.—That the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario be requested to lay out for the city council a plan for the distribution of electricity in the city and [illegible] ing such a system with an estimate of cost, and such other advice or suggestions as the Commission deem would be of service to the city, including the procuring and the cost of a supply of power.—Carried.

A QUESTION OF GOOD FAITH.

Ald. Buller here rose to the question of this city taking active steps to enforce parties applying for electric railway charters to bind themselves to commence construction operations within a reasonably limited time. In referring to an application before the Legislature now by an Electric Transportation Co. for a charter under which to operate a railway giving service to our northern country, Ald. Buller contended that the Government should insist upon a satisfactory deposit being made in good faith of the company's intention to get busy and build the line. It is not an infrequent occurrence, he offered, for irresponsible parties to secure such charters and failing to sell their stock or get extensions of their right from time to time, to no other end but that of blocking responsible companies from securing a right of way. In fact, it is time the Legislature should discriminate between promoters and legitimate companies prepared to build.

Ald. Gordon remarked that there was a good deal of force in Ald. Buller's contention. Many irresponsible promoters secure charters and tie up companies who would be prepared to build had they but a charter.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall pointed out that the action of the Electric Transportation Co. did not prevent any other company from getting a charter. In any event, franchises would have to be secured from the different municipalities through which the railway ran. He did not think the city should take any action that would handicap the company in question in their proposition to serve our northern country with railway connection, for want of which, development is at present retarded.

Ald. Buller did not wish to obstruct in any way the scheme to serve our back country with railway connection. He merely desired that the charter for such service should go to a responsible company and not to speculative promoters, who might never build.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Buller, the Mayor was authorized to appoint a committee to appear before the Legislature in the city's interests when the Electric Transportation Company's bill is presented.

The Mayor and Ald. Duncan were authorized to interview Rutherford Bros. with a view to settlement of their back account in connection with the Public Library.

BUY LOTS IN HAZELTON, B.C.

Profitable investment; Hazelton rivals Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, for rapid growth; on main line of G. T.P. railroad. Send for free book about Hazelton and Central, B. C. Hazelton now busy town; 24 stores, 3 banks, 2 newspapers, telephone, telegraph, municipal water system, clear streets; $500,000 business done yearly past ten years; center immense mining and anthracite coal district. Fruit and stock raising. Lots average $100 to $300 on easy terms. Property selling rapidly. $10 secures good lot subject of your acceptance of one reserved for you or money refunded. Sure to get good location if order now with inquiry. Big book, photographs, map of Central, B. C., free. Write for it. Give names of friends who would be interested. Canadian National Investors, Ltd., 810 (3d Hastings St. W., Vancouver, B.C. (D—1-17-9)

WENT DOWN CELLAR AND CUT HIS THROAT

Buffalo, Feb. 16.—George D. Batt, 63 years old, whose home is at 258 Glenwood avenue, stole down cellar at 10.45 o'clock this morning with a butcher knife and cut his throat. He was found by his wife an hour later and taken to the Sisters' Hospital, where it is believed he will die. Batt has been sick for several weeks and it is believed that his illness affected his reason.

SALOONKEEPER SHOT NEWSPAPER MAN

Truckee, Cal., Feb. 16.—During an altercation in the postoffice here today a long standing feud between the saloon keepers of Truckee and W. H. H. Smith, editor and publisher of the Truckee Republican, was brought to a tragic crisis when P. M. Boyle fatally shot the newspaper man through the back and head. Smith is expected to die. Doyle is under arrest.

CAN'T MARRY INDIANS WITHOUT LICENSES

Albany, Feb. 16.—Ministers performing marriages between Indians are governed by the provisions of the domestic relations law requiring the production of a license by the persons intending to be married, according to an opinion to-day by Attorney-General Carmody. The opinion was in response to an inquiry as to the [illegible] tion in Western New York municipalities [illegible] marriage licenses.

PORT HOPE OFFICE VISITED BY THIEVES

The coal and wood office of J. M. Rosevear & Co., Port Hope, was burglarized a few nights ago, entrance being gained by forcing open the rear door. The safe was soaped, a soap cup being constructed at the key hole. Here the nitro glycerine was poured in and the explosion which followed blew the large door into at least fifty fragments. A large portion of the counter was also smashed by the explosion. The perpetrators received little reward, however, for their trouble, only about five dollars in silver being in the safe at the time. None of the books were damaged.

LINDSAYS WINTER SHOW

The City on the Scugog River Sets An Example Well Worth Imitation by the City of Peterborough

The Second Day of Lindsay's Winter Carnival was ushered in with ideal weather, and a big influx of visitors from all parts of the district. The success of the Carnival is now assured and the members of the Advancement Club are very much pleased with the results achieved. The merchants report busy conditions on Wednesday. The "Made in Lindsay" exhibit was crowded all day with visitors who expressed themselves as surprised and delighted with the excellence of the display made. The Lindsay Winter Carnival has now passed the experimental stages and is now a fixture. Next year it promises to be bigger and greater than ever.

PRES. RYAN WORKED HAND IN HAND WITH DYNAMITERS

Prosecutor Alleges That Plots to Wreck Bridges Were Perfected Through Mails With "Amazing Freedom"

WILL THROWS LIGHT ON THE "REIGN OF DYNAMITE."

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16.—Sensational and specific charges that the dynamite conspiracy was conducted with full knowledge of members of the Executive Board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, including President Frank M. Ryan, that the whole conspiracy, extending over years, was recorded on paper; that Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, was shifted shuttle-like over the country on missions of destruction were made public last night by District Attorney, Charles W. Miller.

Miller announced the contents of an indictment known that covering "unconsumated acts" of the conspiracy, and it is to be the basis upon which the Government intends to conduct its prosecution.

The indictment charges Ryan, Herbert S. Hocken, of Detroit, Mc J. Young, of Boston, John T. Butler, of Buffalo, Frank C. Webb, of New York with conducting the conspiracy through the mails and names all of the 54 defendants as abettors.

40,000 LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS

It declares that a regular system of painting non-union steel and iron construction jobs was carried on and that the executive members not only contributed money to buy explosives, but assisted in the work which McManigal was to do.

The basis of all the charges lies chiefly in 40,000 letters and telegrams taken from the Ironworkers' International headquarters. These letters purport to be between Ryan, Hocken Webb and various other officials and business agents.

The principal allegations in the indictment, which is one of thirty-two, are: "That from San Francisco in January, 1906, Ryan wrote to J. J. McNamara in Indianapolis that he had looked over the job in Clinton, Iowa, and described a new bridge there that was later blown up."

HOCKEY

Half Time Score Was 2—1 in Favor of Visitors.

At Brock street rink last night before a large crowd, the Orillia Juniors defeated Peterborough by a score of 8—2. The game was fast throughout and the homesters played a good game, but Orillia had it on them in speed and team work. Dwyer for the locals played a marvellous game in goal, stopping shot after shot in finished fashion. The locals go to Orillia Monday night for the return game, but on the form displayed last night, Orillia should win by a good margin.

Clancy scored first for Peterborough after three minutes play. Clancy went off for a slashing. Moran followed shortly after for tripping and Hall got a rest for the same offence. Clancy was hit over the eye by the puck and carried off but was able to resume shortly. Kennedy got a rap in the nose and retired. Moran going off to even up. Thornton notched Orillia's first, half minute after the face-off. Denison was penalized for tripping and Thornton scored while he was off from a face-off in front of the nets. The visitors were penalized twice for tripping and the half ended 2—1 in favor of Orillia.

Shortly after play started Jupp notched the first tally of the second period for the visitors. Macnab was

Continued on Page 8.

Digestion will be easy if Grape-Nuts is the food—

"There's a Reason"

UNCLE TOM-ING IN RENFREW.

ELIZA (Laurier)—"I've sorter altered de show will have to git along without our little George."
—From The Toronto News.

PRINCESS THEATRE

SPECIAL

Big Feature Film

"ROMEO & JULIET"

SHAKESPEAR'S MASTERPIECE IN MOTION PICTURES.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

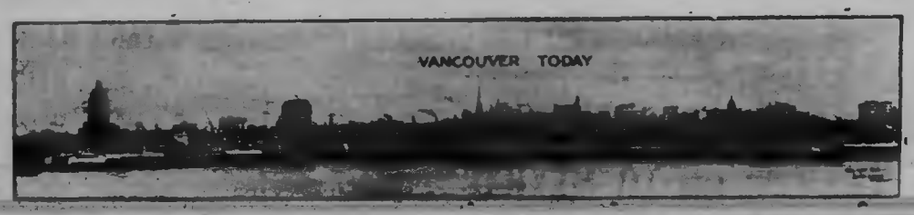
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jf L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B,C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

SEES DAY FOR 1.40 TROTTERS

Secretary of Grand Circuit Talks on Future of Harness Horses

A mile in 1.40 is the prediction of George Deitrich, secretary of the Grand Circuit. "Some will say I am crazy to make such a prediction," said Deitrich, "but I firmly believe that ultimately a harness horse will trot a mile in 1.40.

"Horsemen have felt each new world's record would stand forever. The first horse to beat 2.30 was Lady Suffolk, 2.29½, in 1856. Horsemen of that day said the feat would never be accomplished again. Within twenty years Dexter cut down the mark to 2.17¼, and six years later Goldsmith Maid went in 2.14. Two years after Rarus set the mark of 2.13¼, which was lowered to 2.11¼ by St. Julian before another two years had passed. All of these miles were driven in a highwheel sulky.

"Then came the bike sulky, and through various stages down through Sunol, Nancy Hanks, Allx, Lou Dillon and Uhlan the record has been reduced to 1.58⅘ in the open. Lou Dillon's mark of 1.58½ was made with the aid of a wind shield.

"Ten years ago there was a spirited controversy as to whether a horse would ever reach the two-minute mark. It would be as foolish now for a man to say that 1.58⅘ will never be beaten as it wan in 1867, when Robert Bonner said Dexter's record of 2.17¼ would stand as a world's record for all time. Budd Dobe, who drove Dexter that mile, predicted the two-minute trotter and was ridiculed.

"Of course, there is certain to be a limit as we now look at the speed of horses but that limit has not been reached by far. Uhlan trotted a half-mile last year in 58½. That means, under favorable condtions, he can trot a mile in 1.56 or a shade better .and Uhlan is now no more the acme of perfection in the trotting horse than Dexter was years ago.

"Of course, the more the record is reduced the harder it will be to clip it a quarter of a second, but it will be done. I have known harness horses to pull a sulky as fast for an eighth of a mile as the best runner an run, which is close to 12⅘. Therefore, with improvement in breeding and greater intelligence in training, trotting to a sulky should not ultimately reach a mile in 1.40."

OLD COURSE SOLD

The Scene of Many a Conflict Long Ago Passes Further Into History

The old Newmarket Race Course, northeast of Toronto, has been sold for $130,000. Half a century ago it was the race course of this part of the world, but just as other properties devoted to the horse sprung up prior to its creation, so in turn came Carlton and the Woodbine to eclipse Newmarket. Only one Queen's Plate was ever run over the Newmarket track, and that was forty-four years ago, when the race was won by James White's Nettle, by Kennett, who also sired another winner in "Roddy" Pringle's Mignonette, but the old course was the scene of much good sport, mainly of the steeplechasing and hunt order. Nette, by the way, was trained and ridden by Archie Fisher, who was both prominent and popular n those days. When Carlton now West Toronto, became the vogue, the glories of Newmarket departed and from 1870 on the sport at the old track was of a decidedly spasmodic order. Some rattling good hunt races were held there from twenty to forty years ago, the most enjoyable being when members of the hunt found their own prizes, and John Halligan took up a silver or paper collection in his huntsman's cap. One of the most notable of these races took place some thirty-two or thirty-three years ago, and was won by M. A. (Gus) Thomas, on his lively old hunter Liberty. Those who saw that chase will never forget the masterly finish Mr. Thomas put up. The old course will soon be a thing of the past, and the hungry all-absorbing man of bricks and mortar will be in possession, for it is understood the property is to be broken up into building lots, and that a village is to be brought into existence, that will never again know the ring of a racer's hoofs.

NEW RIFLE SIGHT

A King's Prize Man is to the Front With an Invention

H. Ommunsden. London, has invented a new rifle sight. He has twice won the King's Prize at Bisley and is a non-commissioned officer of Territorials. Experience taught him the difficulty of accurate range-finding, and for the past two years he has been working out a means to do away with that difficulty. He claims for his new sight that within certain limits it does away altogether with the necessity for range-finding. The invention has been tried successfully at the Army Musketry School; "under skirmishing conditions," says Mr. Ommundsen, "tests have shown that the percentage of hits when using the sight is 95 as against 19 with the ordinary sight." He claims that his device will have an immense effect on rifle-shooting.

He says that the improvements in firearms have not kept pace with the science of tactics. "If this be so," he went on, "let us inquire into the chief causes of the comparative ineffectiveness of modern rifle fire as reflected by the South African war, where it took over 5,000 shots to hit a man."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

643 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, sred at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets. Cast Steel Lips and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contractiwith the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and illtreated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks.

Children's Aid Gives Thanks.

The Children's Aid Society desires to acknowledge a donation of ladies' coats, children's sweaters and toques from R. Graham and Son, Lakefield; also a quilt from Mrs. Jacob Isbister London street.

Contributions for Fire Sufferers.

Following are additional contributions received by Relief Officer Miller for the fire sufferers:

R. Harstone $5.00
Friend 2.00
Frank Sollett 1.00
Friend 1.00
Mrs. G. N. Gordon, clothing; Miss Morrow, heavy quilt, clothing and fruit.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq District Engineer, Conlederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq' District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.
Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

DRASTIC MEASURES BY LINDSAY LIBERALS.

The Young Liberal Club of Lindsay held a largely attended meeting on Wednesday night with President Knight in the chair. The following somewhat startling resolution was brought forward and will be discussed at the next regular meeting on Feb. 27th:

"Believing that a great deal of unnecessary expense and trouble is caused both parties by the present laws, be it resolved that every voter be compelled to vote on pain of having his name dropped off the rolls at the next election; and second, that all canvassing for registration or voting be absolutely prohibited."

The following officers were elected
President—L. R. Knight.
1st Vice—H. Brimmell.
2nd Vice—W. Kelcher.
Sec.—W. Knowlson.
Ass.-Sec.—W. Kirkconnell.
Executive committee—B. Wilson, K. Lawrence, G. Eyres, Jas. Gilligly, C. Cunningham and Phil Burke
The fee for active members $1.00.
The club will meet every two weeks on Tuesday evening, the next meeting being on Feb. 27th.

CANADAS NEW SERVICE BULLET IS A TERROR

—There used to be a saying in military circles to the effect "Get behind the biggest oak tree you can find for safety." This advice, when the new Canadian bullet is used is of no avail. The new needle-shaped bullet soon to be issued to the Canadian troops will put an end to such precautions. The bullet has a velocity of 2,700 feet per second, and will penetrate an oak tree 36 inches in diameter, at five hundred yards. It goes so much faster and in the air so much less time that the wind has comparatively little effect on it. At 500 yards it will penetrate: Hard steel plate 7-16 inches thick; Brick and cement 9 inches thick, Hardwood with gram, 38 inches; Loose sand 30 inches thick; Softwood, 58 inches; Clay, 60 inches.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVERVIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about thies.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms Till Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

GREAT BRITAIN'S UNCROWNED KINGS

Lords of the Calf of Man, Sacred Bardsey, Lambay Island and Inishmurray

It was only last autumn that Mr. William L. Cary disposed of his island kingdom, the Calf of Man, to a Huddersfield manufacturer for $100,000. Under a grant of the island from the Crown in the days of Queen Elizabeth, the Calf of Man was declared to be forever free from taxation. No one can land, and, above all, live, on the island without the consent of the owner. It is in every sense of the word a strictly private estate, and laid out as such. The only objection to this little kingdom in the Irish Sea is that but a small part of it is cultivated, and the whole of it is overrun with rabbits and rats, which, strange to relate, like Manx cats, are tailless. Mr. Cary's father lived there for many years, leading a very retired life. He was a man of most scholarly attainments, immersed in study, devoted to his books, and allowed years to go by without so much as visiting the neighboring kingdom, the Isle of Man. His son and successor emigrated as a boy to the United States, and, after serving behind the counter in some of the big stores, started a business of his own in California, which proved so successful that in a few years he amassed quite a fortune. He developed, however, a taste for American life which totally unfitted him for the quiet, secluded existence which his father had lived on the island, and it was for this reason that, after holding it for ten years, he sold it.

Bardsey Island

Out in the waters of Cardigan Bay, off the coast of Carnarvon, is Bardsey Island, a small slip of land two miles long, covering an area of 444 acres. Here reigns the Hon. Frederick G. Wynn, who is acknowledged chief by the inhabitants, numbering less than 200 all told. The island figured largely in the early religious history of the country. Tradition has it that no less than 20,000 "saints" were buried there. That the story has at least some substance of truth is proved by the immense number of human bones and antique remains which have been unearthed in every part of the isle. The name "Bardsey" was bestowed upon the island by the Saxons, probably on account of its having formed a refuge to the Bards. Thither fled a great number of these monks, who escaped the general massacre by the Saxons under the Northumbrian Prince Ethelfrith, the Bernician conqueror. Of the monastery built here, as early as the sixth century, only the shell of a ruined tower remains.

Island of Lambay

Just north of Howth, in Dublin Bay, lies the island of Lambay. Formerly it was the property of the Archbishops of Dublin, but a few years ago it was purchased by the Hon. Cecil Baring, heir to the Earldom of his childless brother, Lord Revelstoke. The island is a small one, barely three miles in circumference, and, although scarcely four miles from the coast, is curiously isolated when one considers its proximity to the capital of the Green Isle. It is only occasionally that any of the frequent excursion steamers from Dublin touch at Lambay. The cliffs which go to make up the greater part of the coastline are exceptionally fine, and rise to a considerable height.

Lambay Castle, the residence of the owner, is an interesting old building of some historic note, from the fact that Archbishop Usher, a staunch adherent to Charles I., took refuge in the house on one occasion when his life was endangered. Some declare that it was on Lambay that St. Patrick first landed in Ireland, and that he built his first church there; while others aver that the old church ruins on the island are those of a sacred edifice founded by St. Columba.

Inishmurray

Another island kingdom in Irish waters is Inishmurray, in Sligo Bay. It has been owned for two hundred years by a family of the name of Waters. The late Michael Waters, the father of the present proprietor, was a great character, and known throughout Ireland. Although his kingdom was small and his subjects few, he ruled without difficulty over a community which knew no law but his will, and who devoted themselves to farming, fishing, and to the manufacture of illicit but excellent whiskey. The island boasts of the most interesting remains of early monastic architecture to be found in Ireland. St. Mulacuis, a disciple of St. Patrick, having established a monastery there, his wooden representation being still preserved in the oratory. Among the oddities of the island is the fact that there is one graveyard for the women, and another, some distance off, for the men. The islanders firmly believe that no male could rest content in the female burying-ground, and that any attempt to inter him there would result in the unrest of his spirit and in ghostly wanderings.

ONE TO THE PRIME MINISTER

Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, is in these days regarded as such a particularly solemn gentleman that the following anecdote is interesting:

Long years ago he attended a small preparatory school for boys, the principal of which was a learned clergyman, and a strict grammarian.

One night, after ten o'clock, when all the boys should have been in bed, he was passing silently along the corridor when he heard sounds of revelry from a darkened dormitory.

He rapped on the door. Silence within. Then:

"Who's there?" called out the future Premier.

"It's me—the principal. Open the door!"

"Ha, ha, ha-a-a!" answered young Asquith. "If it were the principal he would say, 'It is I.'"

Seeing the force of this argument the schoolmaster passed on.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

The Yolk of an Egg, well beaten, is a good substitute for cream in coffee. An egg will suffice for three cups.

Lemon Juice will allay the irritation caused by the bites of gnats and flies.

When Starching Pinafores, put a little strong tea into the starch to keep the garments a good color.

If you want the contents of a saucepan to cook quickly never leave a spoon in it. The spoon carries off a great deal of the heat, and delays the boiling.

Castor Oil rubbed well into boots or shoes will help to preserve the leather and lengthen the life of the boots. Any oil can be used, but castor oil is the best.

To Shine Boots Quickly, do not blacken, but rub with a piece of orange. Let the juice dry in, and then polish with a soft brush, when they will shine like a mirror.

When You Feel Very Hot hold the wrists under the tap and let the cold water run on them, when the whole body will become cooled down in a few minutes without any risk.

To Save Paint and furniture from being knocked and scratched when sweeping, nail pads of velvet or cloth on all brooms and brushes, especially those used for stairs.

Salted Meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to the boil, then let it simmer. Allow longer time than for fresh meat, as the fibres will be harder.

When Polishing a Grate mix the blacklead with turpentine and a very little water, instead of with water alone. This will give the grate a specially good polish, and keep it from rusting.

Stains may be taken out of brown boots by well rubbing a piece of cut lemon on the boots, then polish with brown polish, when all stains will quickly disappear and the boots will look equal to new.

Tumblers which have been used for milk should always be rinsed in cold water before they are washed in hot. When this is done the milk does not stick to the glass, and there is no danger of their looking cloudy.

Sometimes great inconvenience is caused by the drawers of a bureau becoming stiff and inclined to stick. This can be remedied by rubbing them with a little dry soap. This will cause them to slip in and out without any trouble.

If you heat the Knife slightly you can cut hot bread as smoothly as cold.

It is said that if parsley is eaten with nuts or a salad, the odor of the onion will not affect the breath.

To Preserve Lemons for a length of time, bury them in a box of sawdust. In this way they will keep fresh for several months.

To Remove a Grease Spot from wallpaper, hold a piece of blotting paper over the spot with a hot flat iron for a few moments.

In Order to beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth quickly, add a pinch each of caster sugar and fine salt, and beat on a dinner-plate with a broad pointed knife.

Wood Ashes are excellent for cleaning tin articles. Wring a cloth out of warm water, dip it in the ashes, and with this scour the things; then rub off and polish.

To Remove Bric-a-brac Quickly, the hands dash a spoonful of sugar on the hot stove and hold the hands over the fumes. Ground coffee answers the same purpose.

FOR THE COLLEGE GIRL

This extremely plain but smart-looking coat is made from black and grey striped Oxford cloth, and suggests the one-time favored raglan model. Note the attractive arrangement of shoulders and the clever insertion of sleeves. Every line is perfect, and on this depends the successful finish of the garment.

PLENTY OF SOAP AND FRESH AIR

An English Borough Proposes to Make People Healthy — Suggestions Added by Correspondent

The Paddington Borough Council are considering the enactment of a new set of by-laws, to provide that every lodger in a tenement house shall, except in special circumstances, cause his bedroom windows to be opened for at least one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon; and to have the floor of his bedroom or bedrooms swept daily, and washed at least once a week.

"As one who is all for fresh air and plenty of soap and water, I welcome with joy this step on the part of the Paddington Fathers," says a correspondent, who thereupon proposes that the additional by-laws be adopted:—

Any person or persons doing anything prohibited by or otherwise offending against any of the following by-laws shall be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for a first offence, and not exceeding five pounds for any subsequent offence.

All plates, dishes, cups, glasses, knives, forks, spoons, saucepans, frying pans and other utensils, implements and instruments used in the preparation and consumption of supper shall be washed, scoured, dried, and otherwise made clean overnight, and not left to be washed up with the breakfast things in the morning.

All chimneys, flues, and other passages, holes, and recesses to which smoke has regular access shall be swept once in every three months, and the resultant soot preserved for the cultivation of Coronation Sweet Peas.

All grates, ranges, and stoves shall be blackleaded, and all stone and concrete hearths, whether cracked or sound, as well as all doorsteps and window-sills shall be whitened, once every seven days.

No cobwebs shall be allowed to hang suspended from any ceiling in any room, passage, closet, or cupboard for a longer period than one calendar month.

All beds that have been slept in overnight shall be stripped, and the mattress or mattresses turned back, immediately upon the occupant arising in the morning, and allowed thus to remain airing for a period of at least one hour from such time.

All beds shall be re-made by 10 o'clock a.m.

Once every seven days the bottom sheet of each bed in every bedroom in every house in the Borough shall be removed, and the top sheet substituted for it, and a clean sheet substituted for the top sheet thus transferred.

Every occupant of every house shall wash, or cause to be washed, his or her face, hands, and no less than three inches of neck, at least once every twenty-four hours.

Every male occupant of every house shall shave, or cause to be shaved, his chin, cheeks, neck, and top lip, at least once every three days; provided always that such male occupant does not grow a beard and moustache (which is to be appreciated) or has not reached such age as is favorable to the production of growth of face moss.

Every female occupant of every house shall have her hair out of curling pins or curl papers by midday at the latest each day (Saturdays excepted), and all hooks and eyes securely fastened.

Every child occupant of every house shall have his or her nose duly wiped by some qualified person at least three times a day, and four times on Sundays.

THE NEED OF MEN

Work in Every Field Not Only Remains But Increases

More men are needed in the world to-day than ever before, because there is more to do—more different things to make, more actual people to support. Fifteen years ago the bicycle makers would have been frightened into bankruptcy if you had told them that in 1910 their trade would have almost disappeared. But what do we see now? The coming of automobiles has given work to all the bicycle men and thousands more. And it is so in other businesses and professions. The point to remember is that, while the form of work changes, the work in every field remains, and even increases. The real claims are not all taken up. Alexander the Great was only a fool when he wept because there were no more worlds to conquer. He didn't use his eyes to see with, but only to weep with.

POPULAR THOUGH POOR

"Be forgetful of self; think, and think kindly, of others."

"Say a kind rather than a smart thing."

"Be ready to help whenever you can."

"Give others credit for doing and knowing something."

"Be courteous to all, in or out of business."

"Don't talk scandal."

"Pay what you owe, and never borrow money."

Old Age Pensions

Following the removal of the pauperism disqualification, 10,928 persons in London alone received old-age pensions.

New Streets

One hundred miles of new streets for the Metropolis are proposed by the London Traffic Branch of the Board of Trade.

Priests as Cab-Drivers

Since the disestablishment of the Church in France, many former priests have taken up the occupation of cab-drivers in Paris.

MORE MEAT USED BY THE JAPANESE

An Increase Especially in the Consumption of Pork—Beef is Too High Priced

The old prejudice as to the eating of animal flesh among the Japanese has been broken down to a considerable extent. Indeed, there has been an increasing demand for beef among them, but its comparatively high price seriously militates against its being made a universal staple for diet. For this reason the consumption of beef in Tokyo—or through the country for that matter—has remained almost stationary during the last few years, but an increasing demand is noticeable for pork and horseflesh. A few years ago the consumption of pork in the capital did not exceed 20,000 head, but at present something like double that number are slaughtered and consumed. The highest mark for the consumption of beef in Tokyo was reached in 1904, when 3,600 cattle were slaughtered, not including those insured for military use. At this time the people were in an excited condition owing to the war and they were apparently reckless in their household expenditure. With the cessation of hostilities a reaction set in and the demand for beef has considerably decreased. Within the last few years there has been a great increase in the consumption of pork, owing no doubt to its comparative cheapness, and to the fact that the people have become used to it.

Cattle are imported to Tokyo for slaughter from all parts of the country. Most of the animals, however, come from Central Japan, Shikoku and Kyushu, and the flesh of these cattle is sold under the general name of 'Kobe beef.' Most of the pigs slaughtered in Tokyo are imported from Chiba, Ibaraki, Kanagawa and Shizuoka prefectures.

Last but not least there is horseflesh, which is in favor among the lower classes. It is a little more than a decade ago that Japanese took to the eating of horse-flesh, and since then there has been a slow but steady increase in its consumption. At present no fewer than 10,000 head of horses are butchered and eaten in Tokyo annually. In Tokyo horse-flesh is offered for sale under the highly practical name of 'cherry-flesh' which has evidently been suggested from an old popular song in which the horse and the cherry blossom are associated. Japanese are adept in this sort of coining new terms, of which there are many similar instances. It is, however, to be regretted that unscrupulous dealers are known to mix up pieces of horse-flesh with beef and sell the mixture as beef. Sometimes these men are brought to book. The consumption of mutton and veal in Tokyo is still very limited.

THE HABIT OF TEASING

Entertaining at First, But Soon Becomes Intolerable

There are few habits which should be more carefully looked after among youngsters than that of teasing and worrying their companions or the elder members of the family. At the outset, and in its mildest form, it may be to a certain extent entertaining and amusing in the little one, but after a time it grows almost intolerable, and if allowed to strengthen with the growth of the child, it develops into a habit than which nothing is more annoying and exasperating. There are persons in good society who are simply tolerated because there seems no legitimate way in which to get rid of them. An accident, a misfortune, a trifling indiscretion or some uncomfortable event or another furnishes them a pretext, and there is no living with them once they get started. To show that one cares about such things is often to furnish occasion for further teasing; therefore the victims keep silence. Their only protection is the avoidance of the society of such people, and more than one man and woman have found themselves omitted from entertainments and left out of social gatherings without being able to account for the fact.

AN ANCIENT CLOCK

In Winnipeg There is One Made in the Year 1779

When a Winnipeg jeweller was called upon to repair a clock at Mrs. M. M. Lockwood's residence, he was surprised on removing the face to find perhaps one of the first clocks made in America. At a glance it was seen that the works throughout were made of wood, the only portions of other material about it being two heavy iron weights. On further examination it was found that the clock was made in New Haven about 1779. A peculiar feature about this relic of the stormy days of early American independence is that although the most intricate parts are made entirely of hard wood, it has been in constant use since 1779, and has kept correct time. On one piece is found the name of Emil Koch, followed with the information that he had repaired the timepiece in 1859, and only once in the recollection of the present generation of the Lockwood family has the clock stopped. In an interview with Mrs. Lockwood it was learned that the clock had been in their family since her marriage with the late M. M. Lockwood, and that previous to this time it was the property of his grandfather, having been in his home in New York State for sixty years. As near as she could remember it was given to him by his father, who was born in New York State about the time of the declaration of independence. The framework is made of maple and stands 26 inches high. The front is decorated with carved pillars. The figures on the dial are almost obliterated by time, and the same key which for generations has been used every 24 hours to wind it, is worn smooth by age, having been brought into service no less than 50,000 times.

THE TAFT-ROOSEVELT WAR.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, who is a Taft supporter, asserts that the President's political advisers are prepared to give the Roosevelt boomers no quarter and to fight them with their own weapons to a finish. We are told that President Taft has finally been convinced that there is going to be a test of strength between him and the mighty "Man of Oyster Bay."

Taft headquarters will be opened in Washington, where the Taft managers will be in constant touch with the White House and the heads of departments and others who make up the powerful federal machine. Four years ago Mr. Roosevelt himself was in command of the machine forces, hence he cannot with good grace object to the machine method of strengthening the Taft lines.

In the Republican National Convention of 1908 there were 240 delegates from the Southern States, about 80 per cent. of whom were federal officeholders. These States this year will have 252 delegates, or about one-fourth of the coming convention at Chicago. But the use of the federal machine is not restricted to manipulating Southern delegations, for it is brought into play in all parts of the country, and is specially potent in New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, hence Mr. Roosevelt, who was so ruthless in dominating the last convention for the nomination of Mr. Taft, will be forced to take a large dose of his own medicine.

Western Real Estate Man Here.

Mr. O. L. Macklem, manager for Messrs. W. S. King Co., real estate brokers, 1107 McArthur Building, was in the city yesterday and in conversation with a Times representative grew eloquent over the wonderful possibilities of the Prairie City.

Lindsay S.A. Give a Dinner.

The Salvation Army of Lindsay on Tuesday evening last gave a dinner to the old people at the House of Refuge there. After the supper, a good program was rendered by the corps. The evening was greatly enjoyed by all present, and especially by the inmates of the House. The Officers of the Salvation Army and their workers thanked the ladies who so readily responded to the appeal for cake, etc., for the tea.

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can
To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

LAUGHS WITH JOY! NO MORE INDIGESTION

MONTREAL MAN SO ILL HE THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE OF STOMACH DISORDERS.

Just read what Mr. Larose says of the curative powers of Dr. Hamiltons Pills:

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for five years. I suffered so much that I could hardly attend to my work. I was weak and lost all courage. I enjoyed no rest until I decided to follow your treatment. To my great surprise I immediately began to feel better. I am now using the second box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I feel so well that I want to tell you that I owe this great change to your famous pills. I recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills to every person who is suffering from dyspepsia. Your grateful servant D. R Larose, 336 Joliette St., Montreal, P Q.

All who have weak stomachs, and those who suffer with indigestion, headaches, biliousness, can be perfectly cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Successfully used for many years, mild and safe, 25c. per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1912.

WOMEN AND THE PRESIDENCY.

This year women will vote for President in six States, namely, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Washington and California, and it is estimated that the number of votes cast by them will not be far short of a million. The women of Wyoming have voted for President in every national election since 1892; women of Colorado, Utah and Idaho voted in the last four elections, and the women of Washington and California will this year vote for President for the first time.

The candidate who is elected President this year must receive 166 electoral votes. The six woman suffrage States have, all told, thirty-seven electoral votes, of which California will cast thirteen, Washington seven, Colorado six, Idaho and Utah [illegible] The total [illegible] the election may depend on the vote cast in any one of these six States. The vote of California is especially important, and there is a possibility that the women voters may decide the contest there.

THE WORRY OF KAISER WILHELM.

William of Germany is worried, and with good reason, for the newly elected Reichstag consists of 110 Socialists, 95 Progressives, 122 Clericals and 70 Conservatives. The Socialists have made great gains and they hope to be in control of the next Reichstag by means of a combination with some of the other groups. Their platform is short and simple.

It provides for the abolition of the monarchy. Abolition of the Bundesrath, or upper house. Abolition of the standing army and creation of a national guard. Responsibility of the cabinets to the parliaments. Election of all officers by popular vote. Initiative, referendum and per capita representation to all legislative bodies. Nationalization of all means of production. Manhood suffrage and votes for women.

By an alliance chiefly with the Progressives the Socialists hope to gain some of these things in part from the present Reichstag. As a matter of fact, the situation in Germany is such that some observers are saying that Emperor William has an opportunity to prove whether he is "a man or a mouse." But, putting aside the unpleasant alternative, what is a man to do in the situation which confronts the ablest monarch in Europe?

A CHINESE REPUBLIC.

It speaks well for the character of the Chinese people that a Republic has been formed with so little loss of blood up to this time. If matters go on as smoothly hereafter, then China will have given to Christian countries an example of obedience to law and order seldom surpassed in the history of the world.

The Chinese are essentially a law-abiding, peace-loving people. They are also a business people with a high ideal of business integrity and with no aspirations towards militarism. If they are allowed to pursue the even tenor of their way without interference from outside powers — Christian powers at that who seem determined to exploit the country for their own selfish purposes — then China is destined to become one of the greatest republics of all time. Instead of looking to China as a country to be divided up among foreign powers all liberty loving people should do their utmost to maintain the integrity of the Chinese Republic.

AVIATION IN WAR.

Captain Montu and Lieutenant Rossi, two officers attached to the Italian army in Tripoli, recently gave a practical demonstration of the value of the aeroplane in war. These officers were successful in an effort to locate an Arabian encampment about which nothing was known except that it existed somewhere. They also ascertained the exact strength of the army and his equipment; information which it is said, the Italian commander could not have otherwise acquired except through a reconnaissance in force.

It appears that the Arabs were not thrown into a panic by the sight of the aeroplane flying above their camp, but, on the contrary, they opened a hot rifle fire on it, with the result that Captain Montu, who happened not to be steering the machine was slightly wounded. The bullets also cut a number of holes through the wings of the aeroplane, but this was due to the fact that some trouble with the motor occurred and caused the machine in a sudden gust of wind to swoop too near the earth.

The Italian commander was, however, convinced by the demonstration that if he had had a competent corps of aviators at the beginning of the war he would have made much greater progress in penetrating and pacifying the vast stretch of country lying back of the port of Tripoli, because the lack of such knowledge as the scouting expedition of Montu and Rossi revealed is responsible for some of the reverses that the Italian troops have suffered in the interior campaign.

FARMERS NOT WELL REPRESENTED.

It is time that the Canadian National Exhibition Association changed its plan for the election of its directors. The present plan [illegible] eight represent the City Council of Toronto, eight the manufacturers and eight the agriculturists sounds well. Of the eight directors elected in the agricultural section, only two can be classed as really representing the farmer's interest. And this has been more or less the situation ever since this agricultural section was created. Never at any time have the agriculturists had half the representation they are credited with having according to the present division. There is no objection to those who control the Canadian National Exhibition electing whom they please, but there is cause for objecting to having a so-called agricultural section and making it the channel through which directors are elected who are not agriculturists. There is no objection to the men elected to represent this section on this year's board. They are all capable men who should render excellent service to the exhibition but, with the two exceptions cited above, agriculture cannot be said to be the business they are most interested in. The present arrangement creates a false impression in the country and places agriculture in a wrong light before the people. If the farmers' interests are so important to the exhibition as to be entitled to a representation on the board of directors, then let these representatives on the board be elected solely by the various live stock dairy and other agricultural organizations entitled to a vote at the annual meeting.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues, (we day my head ached) why I use to work so much and [illegible] in my condition. I resolved not to consult Drs Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had it [illegible] treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilled. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My recovery was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

HENRY C. LOCUST.

HAS YOUR BLOOD BEEN DISEASED?

BLOOD POISONS are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim and unless entirely eradicated from the system will cause certain complications. Beware of Mercury. It may suppress the symptoms—our NEW METHOD cures all blood diseases.

YOUNG OR MIDDLE AGED MEN.—Imprudent acts or later excesses have broken down your system. You feel the system is ailing over you. Mentally, physically and vitally you are not the man you used to be or should be. Will you heed the danger signals?

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? If [illegible] our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. Consultation Free. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"Boyhood, Manhood, Fatherhood." (Illustrated) on Diseases of Men.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. PRIVATE. No names on boxes or envelopes. Everything Confidential. Question List and Cost of Treatment FREE FOR HOME TREATMENT.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

WHAT YOU HEAR IN OLD QUEBEC

"I AM WELL, THANKS TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS."

Mrs. Gagnon, Riviere au Dore, One of Those Who Raise the Glad Shout of Good Health.

Riviere au Dore, Chicoutimi Co., Quebec, Feb. 16—(Special)—"Yes, I am well, and I give all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills." Those words have been uttered again and again in almost every corner of the Province of Quebec. This time they come from Mrs. Joseph Gagnon, a well-known young married woman of this place. "My back and head ached and my limbs would swell," Mrs. Gagnon continues. "I always had a bitter taste in my mouth, and especially in the morning. Twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

Mrs. Gagnon's symptoms showed beyond a doubt that her trouble was from the Kidneys. Naturally she turned to the old reliable Kidney cure that had proved its worth in thousands of other cases. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills and she is well.

Kidney Disease is the greatest enemy the women of to-day have to fight. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it. That's why they have earned the name "suffering woman's best friend."

Doctor's Orders

How Locke Unintentionally Did His Master a Good Turn, and His Reward

(By Leslie Thomas)

"A nuisance, having to discharge Emily and pack her off at once!" Mr. Shalgrove grunted. "Now I must take all my meals at the club till I get another cook. Of course, it would happen when Barbara's away at the seaside! Emily was insolent, though. I'm 'too particular,' indeed! What did I pay her for except to consult my wishes! Locke!" he roared suddenly. "Don't you see it's eleven o'clock? Where's my port and biscuits?"

The manservant entered impassively with a tray.

"Put it down; and don't want my minding again, please!" Mr. Shalgrove added. "Bah! The doctor'll be here any minute and he always joins me."

"I didn't know he was coming, sir."

"No back answers, now! Fetch another glass. Is that his carriage outside?"

"No, sir."

"Upon my soul! How on earth can you tell when you haven't looked?"

"Just passed the reading window."

"Get that glass, I tell you!" Mr. Shalgrove spluttered. "Hurry up about it, too."

The manservant left the room quietly, but, outside, his features were wrinkled in a queer smile. He nodded slowly.

"Sweet-tempered beauty! You eat and drink and snarl; there's not you [illegible] can live with you at all. I [illegible] wouldn't, only there's an orphan. Don't wonder Emily flared up and caused you, either. If you bully me much more——"

The visitors' bell sounded, and he broke off to answer it. Dr. Usher entered; then he paused.

"Upstairs?"

"To the Sittin'-room, sir, please."

"Your master's not in bed, then, Locke?"

"Overeatin' 'isself again, that's what it is," muttered Locke disdainfully, as [illegible] us servants 'is leavin's, too. Mean isn't the word!"

The young doctor listened politely but with barely concealed impatience, to a long account of Mr. Shalgrove's sufferings. Then, in a few terse sentences, he issued instructions for a cure. His stout patient stared in a horrified fashion.

"You—you don't mean it. You're [illegible]ing!"

"Not a bit. Good-day, sir."

Much he had gone, Mr. Shalgrove sat grumbling to himself. Gradually his former irritation increased.

"Preposterous!" he choked. "Usher's incompetent. By Jove! it's a positive insult. And that man has the impertinence to make love to my niece! I won't have him near the place again, to see me or Barbara, either."

For the rest of the day he vented his ill-humor on Locke. The manservant answered in monosyllables; his eyes glinted dangerously. The climax came when Mr. Shalgrove returned from a six-course dinner at his club, and upbraided him furiously for a trifling oversight.

"Oh, hold your silly noise!"

Mr. Shalgrove could hardly believe his ears. He struggled for breath.

"I'd have brought you slippers in a minute, and the cigars as well."

"Locke! You—you forget yourself!"

"I've 'ad just about enough o' you, an' I tell you straight!"

"Are you mad, Locke?"

"You've been askin' for trouble for a long time," the manservant declared, "an' now you've got it! Come along!" He gripped Mr. Shalgrove's collar. "Make a noise, an' I'll knock your ugly 'ead off!"

Mr. Shalgrove was weighty, but very short of breath. Gasping in half terrified amazement, he was dragged towards the kitchen.

"Do you realise what this means? Have you—have you considered——"

"Shut up, do!"

The coal-cellar door was opened, and Mr. Shalgrove bundled in.

"This is your new bedroom. Like it? Oh, I'll give you a seat," Locke brought a chair, pushed him backwards, and fastened him firmly to it. "You won't quarrel with your comp'ny; but at seven o'clock in the mornin' the charwoman'll be comin', an' I'll leave a little note by 'er. Ain't I thoughtful! 'Ope you'll sleep well. Not surprised at all this, are you?"

"I d-discharge you! Leave my service!"

The servant grinned. "I'm goin' to."

"You're a scoundrel, Locke! I'll punish you for this outrage! I'll never rest till you're in gaol. I—I——"

"You interrupt too much. There's a few remarks I want to make, so I'll just take the liberty——"

Mr. Shalgrove wriggled, but a soiled handkerchief stopped his further speech.

"Now, then," remarked the manservant cheerfully, "It'll relieve me a lot to give you my real opinion of you!"

He spoke hotly, at considerable length.

"Been listenin', I trust?" Mr. Shalgrove writhed. "Well, I'll be goin', I think."

The stout gentleman's rage brought him near to apoplexy. Locke nodded pleasantly.

"It's a good old sayin': even a worm'll turn." He moved towards the kitchen, [illegible] presently reappeared. "'Ere's 'is [illegible] 'f an' a jug o' water. What? [illegible]ave you want to tell me ac[illegible]. Well, that was only temp[illegible]."

He [illegible] rag.

"'Ope you're not afraid o' the dark, because I'm goin' to lock you in now. It won't be a bit o' good shoutin', either. Eh? Didn't quite catch what you said."

Mr. Shalgrove rolled his eyes, but no words would come.

"This'll be a splendid lesson for you. You've goaded me into it, you 'ave. I'm a 'umap bein', if I am only a servant. Goo'-bye. Think that over. You'll 'ave plenty o' time."

The cellar door slammed. Mr. Shalgrove was left alone.

He brooded for a long time while in the darkness; then suddenly an idea came to him. He chuckled aloud. Shouting was useless, as Locke had reminded him; but surely, if he beat upon the cellar wall, the people in the next house would hear and gather that something was wrong. He would soon be rescued!

Moving cautiously he began to squirm and wriggle his chair along. He was nearer the wall than he had thought; and unfortunately he could not rub the resulting bump which rose on his forehead.

This, however, was soon forgotten. He was able to move his feet a little, and presently started kicking violently against the bricks—too violently, in fact. The chair overbalanced; and with a despairing gasp he fell backwards, feet in the air.

It took him perhaps twenty minutes to rise again to a sitting posture.

Hours went by. Mr. Shalgrove grew hungry and thirsty. Somehow he reached the soap-box on which rested the water-jug and the bread. By craning with neck and hands he managed to eat and drink a little. Then he almost wept.

* * * * *

Charwomen are often estimable, hardworking and regular individuals; but there are black sheep in every flock. Mr. Shalgrove's particular specimen entertained a few friends that evening, and in the morning her head ached badly.

She remembered her appointed task for the day, but decided to take a short vacation.

"Shan't go till to-morrow," she declared languidly. "Lay in bed a bit, that's what I shall do. Lay in bed an' be a swell. Let 'em wait. Won't make no diff'rence to them."

Mr. Shalgrove would have contradicted this statement vigorously.

"Surely—surely, it's morning now?" he wailed. "I seem to have been here for years!"

He had, of course, no means of ascertaining the hour. He might possibly have pulled his watch out after sundry contortions, but he certainly had no matches. He was sick and cold; he ached in every limb. Nearly half the water was gone, and the loaf seemed horribly stale.

Also, he disliked the smell of coal.

The day passed, and a second night; and many charwomen at length condescended to arrive.

Ultimately Mr. Shalgrove was released, and assisted from the cellar to bed. Shortly afterwards, Dr. Usher answered an urgent summons by telephone.

"I'm sorry. I've given up your case, Mr. Shalgrove. In your letter you distinctly stated that you'd consult another medical man in future; and you asked me to send in my account. Under the circumstances, I don't feel disposed——"

"But I'm dying," cried Mr. Shalgrove faintly.

At the other end of the wire Dr. Usher smiled incredulously.

"I should be very pleased to call, sir—as a friend, you quite understand?"

"Come anyhow—quickly!"

"And when Miss Barbara returns——"

"We'll talk that over."

* * * * *

William Leeke had long regretted his outburst and subsequent flight. In the streets that day, realising that he was being followed, he had shivered, and tried to elude his pursuer, but with poor success, even after spending a small fortune in changing from trams to trains.

Mr. Shalgrove entered, and closed the door deliberately. "Ah, Leeke!"

"Y-yes, sir."

"You didn't expect me, eh? No, no; I suppose not!"

Leeke began to stammer incoherently. The stout gentleman cut him short.

"Yes, you shut me in my own coal-cellar; I'm quite aware of that."

"Sir, I—I——"

"I was there for thirty-five hours and nine minutes," continued Mr. Shalgrove, fixing him with a steady gaze.

"No, no, sir. S-surely not! You—you can't mean——"

"It was a day and a half before I was liberated, Leeke. Thirty-five hours on bread and water—half starved!"

William Leeke turned hot and cold at once.

"I've been looking for you everywhere. And now—now I've found you!"

"All right, Mr. Shalgrove, sir." He collapsed. "What'll they call it—assault an' battery?" I'll go quiet."

He crossed the room shakily.

"Not so fast. I forgive you."

Leeke's jaw dropped. He gurgled helplessly.

"I might almost thank you, also."

"Th-thank me?"

"Aha! yes. You thought you were mighty clever, Leeke. You thought you were paying me out. Instead, you did me a very good turn!" Mr. Shalgrove glanced down at himself complacently. "Yes! I hadn't the courage to start the cure myself. I wouldn't listen to what Dr. Usher said. As a matter of fact, though, you gave me exactly what I needed."

"Bread and water. Simple diet. Complete rest. Since then I've kept up the treatment. Never felt better in my life. I might be ten years younger. Five inches less around the waist already! Why, I was a wreck a misery. Now I'm a different man!"

Mr. Shalgrove departed. His servant stood staring stupidly.

"'Different man' is right!. Why, 'e—'e never called me no names," he muttered at last. "If that chap Usher wasn't so standoffish, I—I'd go straight round to 'is 'ouse an' shake 'ands with 'im, blowed if I wouldn't!"

* * * * *

In due course even this unexpected event came to pass. Dr. Usher's palm [illegible] contained a five-pound note——

"Put that in your pocket, Locke. Miss Barbara and I—we both appreciate your good qualities."

[illegible] the spring, sir."

The doctor nodded.

BEARING THEM CHEERFULLY

They were in the train, and the solemn, sad-faced man was full of philosophy.

"Life," he remarked, heaving a soulful sigh, "is full of trials."

Everyone yawned—except the prosperous-looking man with the clean-shaven face and steely eyes. The remark seemed to cheer him up.

"It is!" he agreed quickly. "And I'm delighted it is so!"

"Delighted!" gasped the sad philosopher. "My dear sir! Why should you be glad?"

"Because," came the prompt and cheery answer, "I'm a lawyer!"

ECONOMICAL COMPLIMENTS

"Before you kiss me, Horace, let me tell you that Fred has given Kitty a diamond ring. You have never given me one."

"Dearest, it is only girls who are not precious in themselves who require the aid of precious stones."

"Oh, you may kiss me twice, Horace."

IN THE GOOD OLD TIMES

It was Nellie's first visit to the museum, and her mother was anxious to explain all things properly. Room after room they passed through, till at length they stood before a knight in shining armor.

"And this, Nellie," said the fond mother, "is a suit of armor which used to be worn by the knights of old. What do you think of it, dear?"

For a few brief seconds Nellie regarded it thoughtfully, then shook her head.

"P'raps it was all right," she said, doubtfully. "But don't you think, mother, it must have scratched the furniture awfully?"

A Hangman Resigns.

News come from Sydney that the hangman has resigned his position. It seems that seven death sentences have been commuted recently by the Labour Government, and as the executioner would have gained $50 in the case of each malefactor, as a special remuneration, he doubtless considers that his emoluments have been trifled with. His fixed wage was $10 a week, whether anybody was to be hanged or not. He may have suffered from monotony, for, in his three years' service, he had not operated in a single instance.

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN AND RANCH LANDS

The attention of Farmers and Stockraisers is invited to the following desirable lands in

NORTHERN SASKACTHEWAN

The lands are situate in the Port Pelly District, Northern Saskatchewan, long known as probably the richest farming district in the Province. The parcel, which contains approximately 3,681 ACRES in one compact block, is watered on the west and south sides by the Assiniboine River, and by a large creek on the east. It is well wooded, thus assuring as well as evidencing ample rainfall, and plentiful supply of cheap fuel. It is undulating and well drained, having an elevation above the river, and rising gradually from it to a height of about 60 feet, and provides many beautiful residential sites.

In the advantages it offers for mixed farming it is unique, there being some 2,400 acres clear and ready for the plow, while the [illegible] consists of timber and excellent pasture land admirably suited to stock-raising. The soil is a rich, black loam, from 8 to 10 inches in the [illegible]s, resting on a clay subsoil, except along the river, where it is arich sandy loam. Crops produced on similar neighboring lands are phenomenal for their quantity and quality.

The location is within ten miles of Mikado Station, on the main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, of the Canadian Northern Railway, with good trails leading to it, and within a short distance of a school. While the settlement going on in the neighborhood is rapidly adding all the adjuncts of an up-to-date farming community.

This is an opportunity for a man with capital, business ability and practical experience. Such a man should clear his whole investment, including all improvements and equipment, in four or five years at the outside. And now is the time to purchase, as the price will shortly be advanced $5.00 per acre. Experienced men predict this land will be worth $50.00 per acre within ten years. Lands immediately adjoining, which last spring could have been bought for $14.00, are held to-day at $20.00 and $25.00 per acre.

We are also offering some 1,100 acres additional, in separate parcels of three half sections, and one quarter sections, situate in the same locality as above.

These lands were selected for the excellence of their location and the magnificent quality of their soil, which latter the official records of the Indian Agency demonstrate.

Prices, Terms and all Particulars may be had on application

F. J. BULLOCK & CO.

207 Colborne Street BRANTFORD, ONT.

THE PASSSNG - - - - OF THE PIONEER

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO the ranchers and farmers of the great wheat belt of Saskatchewan were pioneers. They worked out the foundation of a great future territory against many obstacles. TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES WERE LACKING, land could be had for the asking.

TO-DAY THE PIONEER HAS PASSED.

CITIES AND TOWNS have sprung up upon his homesteads.

LAND WORTH but a few dollars an acre has become security for hundreds of dollars a foot.

AND THE END IS NOT YET.

IN A FEW SHORT YEARS the suburbs of these to ns and cities will be crowded with population, Where now are only residences will be business houses.

THE GROWTH of the last twenty-five years will go on with an ever increasing ratio.

AND VALUES WILL ADVANCE in proportion to the growth.

IF YOU WANT SURE PROFITS invest your spare capital in property adjoining a prosperous city.

MAKE SUCH INVESTMENT your savings bank.

WE OFFER YOU your opportunity in

- Boulevard Heights -

The close-in residential district of Moose Jaw, the centre city of Saskatchewan. Terms Easy. Prices Right. No Interest. No Taxes.

CANADIAN CITY & TOWN PROPERTIES Ltd

284 Portage Avenue, WINNIPEG

TORONTO, 130 BAY STREET. MOOSE JAW, 15 MAIN STREET.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.		0.8505
Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?

Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?

No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

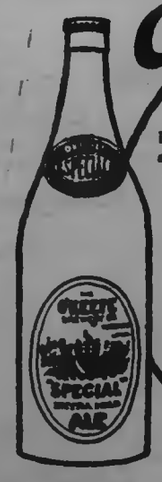
MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....



O'K

The Food Drink

Many people drink O'Keefe's "Special Extra Mild" Ale solely for its food properties. Being brewed of finest hops and malt, it contains all the body and brain building elements of these grains. It is because we use the best, that is so rich and creamy—so thoroughly enjoyable—as well as so nutritious and wholesome. It's "extra mild" remember, and never makes you bilious. In Crowa stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's

Special Extra Mild ALE

"The Beer that is always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Royalty Pays Fares

Although, no doubt, every railway company would gladly convey His Majesty and the Queen free of charge, our rulers pay exactly the same price as anybody else for a special train, in addition to the first-class fare of every passenger by whom they may be accompanied in their respective suites.

The Queen's Jewels

Among the jewels the Queen most values is a chain of pearls presented to her as a wedding present by the women of twenty-three English counties. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed, but only $25,000 was spent on the necklace, and the other $5,000 was divided amongst various charities chosen by Her Majesty.

TRUTH IN BRIEF

A Few Select Sayings of To-day and Yesterday

Perseverance is the root of all money.—Julian Ettinge.

A long head and a long face rarely go together.—J. W. Babcock.

Science tells us How; Philosophy answers Why.—Dr. Rabagliati

Post-impressionism is the influenza of the art world.—Wake Cook.

I do not know a more exact person than the angler.—Mr. C. T. Stanford.

We can live without our relations, but we can't live without our friends.—Howard McDonald.

Very few men, properly speaking, live at present, but are providing to live another time.—Swift.

Some men can only get respect as a highwayman gets money—by demanding it.—William Shenstone.

The rolling stone may gather no moss, but it gets to be a pretty smooth article.—Greenwood Lake.

The friend that flattereth, weakeneth at length. It is the foe that calleth forth our strength.—George Meredith.

The fact that truth lies at the bottom of a well is probably the reason why truth is often so fearfully watered.—H. D. Gastit.

The trouble with whisky is that the bad kind is too bad to drink and the good kind is too good to keep.—Pulitzer.

In my conceit, he understood it right that said a good marriage might be made between a blind woman and a deaf man.—Montaigne.

To combat an opinion is as often as not to strengthen it; if you would really destroy it, do homage to it and then interpret skilfully.—A. E. Waite

MADRID'S BEAUTIFUL PALACE

The Royal Palace at Madrid is one of the most beautiful structures in the world. It was built at a cost of $5,000,000, and was intended to rival the famous palace at Versailles. Of white marble, it is 470ft. each way, with a court 240ft. square, roofed with glass.

THE DEPOPULATION OF FRANCE

Statistics have been published to show that in the year 1960, the population of Germany will probably reach the figure of 100,000,000, while that of France will be only 25,000,000. Time alone will show whether this forecast is right; but it is interesting to note that anxiety on the subject already prevailed in France in the eighteenth century. The Abbe Saint-Pierre then thought that the marriage of priests would be a remedy; and he calculated that, if all the priests had married from the time of Francis I., there would have been forty million more Catholics in the country. Maurice de Saxe saw the solution of the problem in "leasehold marriages." A third proposal was that the entire French Army should be compelled to marry.

RUSSIAN IRON WORKS

In consequence of the so-called iron famine, the Duma has passed a Government bill granting iron works the privilege of importing a quarter of their required quantities of pig-iron for the next twelve months free of duty, to the total extent of 160,000 tons.

GOOD-NIGHT

Professor (busy writing):—"What do you want now?"

Lucy:—"I only want to say 'good-night.'"

Professor:—"Never mind now; I'm busy. To-morrow morning will do just as well."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

LAND OF BABES IN THE WOODS

Tradition Has Always Given Wayland Wood as the Place Where the Babes Died

There is no nook or corner in England, however small or however far removed from the main currents of life, but contains relics of the past—some story or bit of folk lore which is full of interest. These memories of the past are buried away in old oaken chests in the vestries of the parish churches, or lie under the moss-grown stones of some ruined building. Sometimes they remain unheeded and unnoticed, and the story they have to tell is not brought to light.

But fortunately there are men in our country villages who have the leisure and the enthusiasm to grub about among these hidden stores and find for us the treasures they contain. One of these is the Rev. Charles Kent, the rector of Merton, in Norfolk, who lives in a quiet little corner of England which contains survivals reaching back to the time when palaeolithic man rambled over the heaths of South-West Norfolk in search of flints. Right across the district runs the Peddler's Way, which was an avenue of commerce before Cadmus was teaching Attica her letters, and before a little handful of peasants were struggling for existence on the Tiber. For in the Stone Age the Norfolk flints were as valuable as Bessemer steel is nowadays.

The story of all this, and much more, reaching to our own times, is told by Mr. Kent in his book, "The Land of the Babes in the Wood." The rector of Merton has soaked himself in the past. He has the art of making the old days and the old ways live again. He has caught the very spirit of the place, as well he may from the associations which surround him.

As for the old story of the Babes, the Wicked Uncle, and the Wood which was the scene of their death, tradition says that the whole took place in and around Merton. Mr. Kent has sifted over all that can be found about the story, which has been the delight of the children of three centuries, and which has formed the groundwork of many a pantomime. He is able to reconstruct the story for us, and to show that it has a basis of fact, which illustrates the condition of rural life at the time when great changes were passing over Norfolk and over England as well.

The first trace of the story is to be found in an old chap-book in the Roxburghe Collection, which bears the date of 1595:—"The Norfolk Gent, His Will and Testament and howe he committed the keepinge of his children to his owne brother, whoe delte most wickedlie with them, and howe God plagued him for it." The ballad is to be sung to the tune of "Rogero," and it begins by telling us:

A gentleman of good account
In Norfolk lived of late,
Whose wealth and riches did surmount
Most men of his estate

Who was the "gentleman of good account," who were the Babes, and which fits in with all the local circumstances of the case, and is supported by many documents. In 1562, there died at Merton a Norfolk squire named Thomas De Grey. His son and heir was seven years old at that time, and consequently was a ward of the Crown. Always anxious to turn an honest penny, Queen Bess married him at the age of eight to Elizabeth Drury, another ward. These two, the boy and girl bridegroom and bride, were the "Babes." At Griston Hall, very close to Merton, there lived Robert De Grey, brother to Thomas, who died, and uncle to the boy-bridegroom. Here is the "Wicked Uncle." As for the Wood, tradition has always given it as Wayland Wood, and the oak was long shown under which the hapless Babes lay down for their last sleep. Mr. Kent shows that it was the Hundred Oak, under which the sheriff held his court.

Between Thomas De Grey and his brother Robert there were no very friendly feelings. Mr. Kent quotes a copy of the will of the former to show that there had been disagreements and family jars:—"I will to my brother Robert, so that he confesseth that he hath offended me, &c., &c." This may be the foundation of the story in the ballad of the death-bed scene, where the dying father is evidently anxious about the coming relations between his son and the uncle. Soon after this, the boy went on a visit to his stepmother, who had married a second time. At her house at Baconsthorpe the young squire died suddenly or before he could reach home. It may be that he died when passing through Wayland Wood.

Robert De Grey succeeded to the estates. He was a Popish Recusant, and for that reason was very unpopular in a part where the Protestant cause was very strong. Robert tried to rob the girl-widow of her dower which had been settled on her by the boy-husband. This and other acts of the new squire led to a great trial at the assizes at Norwich, which developed into a battle royal between the Protestants and the Papists of the county. Robert was worsted, and afterwards was constantly imprisoned and fined for his recusancy. At his death $24,900 was due from him to the Crown for fines. This seems to be the basis of the story; a wicked uncle has his boy nephew put out of the way, seizes his possessions, as well as the dower of the poor girl widow. By and by it crystallized into the ballad as we now have it. Mr. Kent suggests that robins who want to cover up everything stand for the uncle, who desires to hide the evidence in the great trial.

Griston Old Hall, the residence of the "Wicked Uncle," is close to the beautiful old church of Tompson, which is one of the three collegiate churches of East Anglia. It formerly had a rector and six chaplains, and the old college in which they lived is now part of a farmhouse.

RUNS IN THE FAMILY

"Longevity? I should say longevity runs in the family," said Mrs [illegible]. "Why, John was six foot [illegible], and was six foot four, and George and more longevity than any man I ever see. He was six foot seven, if he was a foot."

DOING THE COOKING

Friend:—"Do you find it cheaper to do your own cooking?"

Young Wife:—"Oh, yes. My husband doesn't eat nearly so much now."

FROM THE TROPICS TO HEAL US

Cedron Seed Plant.

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article.

This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

AN UP-TO-DATE COSTUME

Fringe is destined to be run to death, this fall to be the most popular trimming for street and evening gowns. Even the tailored coat suits are fringe trimmed, and the above sketch illustrates its use on a coat and skirt costume of purple and green shot silk, which, in addition to the fringe, has trimming bands of black velvet put on as indicated. The modish collar is braided with black silk soutache.

Before Scraping new potatoes always soak them for half an hour in salt and water. The effect afterwards is wonderful; not only do the skins come off much more easily, but the hands will hardly be stained at all. A little pumice-stone or half a lemon rubbed on them will remove the stain.

When you are about to sweep a room, take a page of newspaper or other paper, wet in hot water, and squeeze until it ceases to drip. Tear into pieces the size of one's hand and cast all over the carpet; then sweep, and most of the dust in the room, if you use your broom judiciously, will be gathered in the paper.

To make Jam or marmalade look clear without skimming it, add a piece of butter the size of an egg about a quarter of an hour before removing the fruit from the fire. The jam will look quite clear, and will not stick to the jars when turned out for use.

It is Difficult sometimes when using essences for cakes, etc., to measure correctly the number of drops required. Try this: Dip the finger in water and wet the rim of the bottle in one place, and the essence will be found to drop quite easily.

Curtains that are starched with flour will last longer than if the ordinary starch is used, because flour does not rot them the same as the starch does. Three tablespoonfuls of flour mixed to a paste with cold water; then pour boiling water on as for proper starch. This will do two pairs of curtains besides a few smaller covers, etc.

Few insect Pests can withstand an application of hot alum water, and ants, beetles, and crickets can be destroyed by pouring into their holes the solution made by adding a pint of boiling water to half a pound of alum. Painting the crocks of bedsteads and bedrooms furniture with turpentine effectually keeps away unwelcome insect pests.

Woman Smoker Burned

A millworker, named Elizabeth Berry, or Welch, aged fifty, who left Springfield to walk to Newport, died in the Cottage Hospital, Cupar, from shock and other injuries. She was found by the roadside near the farm of Hayston in an unconscious state, with the upper part of her clothing in flames. It appears she had accidentally set fire to her dress with the match she had been using to light her pipe.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath, Newly furnished throughout, American and European plan.

RATES: European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO
H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odor, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c. per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c. " "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c. "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,
141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100. EASY TERMS
Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS
No 190 Simcoe Street
Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

30,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

C.P.R. ROADMASTER WEDS.

Marriage of Mr. D. J. McDonnell With Miss Emily Newton Nolan. When a Pretty Ceremony Was Enacted.

A marriage of local interest was celebrated at Dixie, Ont., on Wednesday when Mr. Daniel J. McDonnell, former roadmaster on the C.P.R., and well known in Peterborough was married to Emily Newton Nolan, of Toronto, the youngest daughter of the late Captain Nolan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Tracey of St. Patrick's church. Miss Zita Burns was bridesmaid, while Mr William J. Allen, of Vancouver assisted the groom. The bride wore a pretty costume of gray silk, trimmed with Brussels net and cream satin, with a picture hat to match, her travelling dress was a navy blue tailored suit. Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell left on a honeymoon trip to Chicago and on their return will reside in Toronto.

Produce Prices Cheaper at Keene.

Farmers are selling butter and eggs at Keene at about 30c a pound. One man who was in the village stated that 30c and 31c a pound had been paid for butter and the same price for eggs. It is understood that the buying was wholesale.

Business Principles in Lindsay.

Lindsay Council has decided not to pay any accounts that are not properly and fully vouched for. On motion at a meeting of the Council, the clerk was instructed to send back all accounts not properly vouched for.

Results of Local Elections.

The Ontario Government has just issued a Blue Book containing a "Return from the Records of the General Election." For West Peterborough this return gives Peck 2674 votes against Hall's vote of 2056, or a majority for Peck of 618. In East Peterborough the figures are Thompson 1579, Hawthorne 1076. Thompson's majority 503.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co
OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.
MONEY TO LOAN.
Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.
Phone 210. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.
Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough
MONEY TO LOAN
Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 368 Water Street. R. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MESS & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. R. R. Hall, S. T. Mesd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND
LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Also of Bermuda.
OFFICE—368 Water Street. Bell Phone: Office 463, House 136.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

Postmen Were Kept Busy.

The local letter carriers, a hard-working and faithful body of Government employees, state that their burden of work was doubled on account of St. Valentine's Day. They say that the old fashioned hearts pierced by arrows were not as numerous as postcards. Whilst St. Valentine's Day is almost exclusively a children's affair, the idea is broadening in extent.

A Pretty Kinmount Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sandiford Murray, Kinmount, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, when their third daughter Miss Jane Murray, and Mr. Wilbert H. Lyle, of Millbrook, were made man and wife by Rev. S. L. Lord, of Fenelon Falls. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bridesmaid was Miss Edna Lyle, sister of the groom, while Mr. John Murray, brother of the bride, was groomsman. After the wedding dinner the couple left on the G.T.R. train for Peterborough on their honeymoon, after which they will reside in Millbrook.

Church Union to Be Discussed.

An interesting debate is being arranged for Knox church on Monday, February 26, when the question of church union will be dealt with by representatives of the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations. The debaters are Messrs. McLaren, McKenzie, Cowan and Cunningham, for St. James, Knox, St. Paul's and Charlotte street churches respectively.

VARIOUS KINDS OF LIES TOLD BY SOCIETY PEOPLE

CHICAGO PROFESSOR GIVES AN ANALYSIS OF MENDACITY.

Of All Lies the Adulterative Lie is By Long Odds the Very Worst—Next Comes the Heroic Lie.

Chicago, Ills., Feb. 15.—Ten different kinds of lies have been discovered diagnosed, and analyzed by Dr. Allen Hoben, professor of sociology in the University of Chicago, after observation extending over many months.

The different kinds of lies he characterized on Sunday night last as follows:

The fantasy or fairy tale lie; the vain-glorious or boasting lie; the defensive lie; the heroic lie; the white or permissable lie; the society lie; the business lie; the adulterative lie.

"The fantasy or fairy tale lie," he said, is that which the very young child invents from his or her own imagination. There is practically no moral quality in very young children.

"The vainglorious or boasting falsehood, is that by which the child constantly exaggerates things he or she has done.

"The defensive lie among children is induced by fear.

WORST LIE OF ALL.

"The heroic lie, is that which is told by one who wishes to save another from punishment by avowing faults which he has not committed.

"The white lie is usually told by conscientious and even religious persons, and consists in hiding the truth while appearing to tell it.

"The society lie is the most frequent. We all know the society lie. It is on the increase I fear.

"The business lie has a thousand forms, and many business men know them to their sorrow.

"For a definition of the professional lie, I would refer to any high-minded lawyer or physician.

"The art lie is the best understood by those who know how many paintings and other works of newly manufactured near-art are palmed off on wealthy amateurs.

"The most injurious and one of the most common of all lies is the modern adulterative lie, which results in giving us oleomargarine for butter, cotton-seed oil for olive oil, red ink

...R DOING NOTHING

Some Fat Salaries That Were Easily Earned

Uncle Sam has been "getting a move" on him lately, and, as the result of exercising his lynx eyes, has been successful in saving $180,000 a year of the public money which has hitherto been paid to people in the way of salaries for doing nothing. For decades past there have been some snug little jobs connected with the House of Representatives. Apparently, however, some Paul Pry discovered these sinecures, a committee investigated them, and their report has provided one of the most interesting documents produced by the American Parliament for a long time.

One striking example of the "waste of public salary funds," as a chairman of the committee describes it, was the discovery that a thirteen-year-old girl, the daughter of the chief doorkeeper of the Congress, was on the pay-roll as "clerk of the doorkeeper" at a salary of $1,200 per annum, and an extra months' pay each year as a vacation gratuity. And although they made the closest investigations, the committee were quite unable to discover exactly what the functions of this minor official were.

Then there were thirty-eight extra policemen authorized when, during the Spanish-American War, it was reported that there was a plot to dynamite the Capitol, who were still on the pay-roll, costing annually $39,000. Two telegraph operators, drawing $1,400 each, and assigned to a wire long ago discontinued, were also still on the pay-sheet. By abolishing the salaries of employes of the "clerks' document room," which room was itself abolished sixteen years ago, $6,000 per annum has been saved, and an almost equal sum by stopping the pay of employes designated at "attendants in the library," the library having been removed many years ago from the Capitol.

MATRIMONY A LA MODE

Jack and Jill
Rushed up the hill
Of reckless matrimony.
Years expired,
Both grew tired—
Now Jill gets alimony!—Judge.

Belgian Heroes Fund

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has founded a Belgian Heroes Fund with an endowment of $240,000, the interest of which will be devoted each year to reward civic courage. Other hero funds have been founded by Mr. Carnegie in Great Britain, France, Germany, Denmark and Switzerland.

A Football Trainer

Mr. James Wilson, the trainer for Glasgow Rangers, once walked from Broxburn to Edinburgh and back, a distance of over twenty miles, to watch Queen's Park and Notts Forest play in an English Cup-tie.

Neglected Children

No fewer than 50,833 neglected or otherwise ill-treated children were dealt with in the past year in England.

Steamers and Sailing Vessels

Five hundred and eighty-three new vessels—617 steamers and 66 sailing vessels—were added to Lloyds' list last year.

FLYING MACHINES AND COTTAGE IN ONE

Clever Invention of H. G. Turner, an Englishman—To Stop Over Night

A flying machine which can be rapidly converted into a neat little two-story cottage has been invented by Mr. H. G. Turner, of Manchester.

The inventor asserts that this new departure in aviation will make the flying man independent of hotel accommodation, and enable him to guard his machine at night by sleeping, as it were, on the premises.

The aviator of the future, it is understood, will sweep a hawklike glance over the landscape for a healthy gravel site, direct his volplane so as to alight with a south view, and then, by an adjustment of the planes, convert the aeroplane into a neat little homestead. In the morning he will peer out to see if the weather holds good, and then make a quick change from hearth and home to planes and petrol.

Mr. Turner describes his machine as a tri-monoplane, and says that one or two minutes will suffice to convert the planes into a two-story structure, with a couple of cabins for sleeping and cooking. Oil stoves and bedding can be carried on the machine.

SIX-A-SIDE A FROST

The Ottawa Journal Hands Out Some Hockey Comment

If anyone can give a reason why the sentence of the hockey court shouldn't be passed on that six-man rule, it's just the time for them to come forward. Sometimes we see some pretty raw attempts at rule-making on the part of the sport directors around the country, but this one is the worst ever. The penalty system, made to bolster up the six-man junk, could very well stand on its own legs; but, as for the other stuff—out with it! When the six-man rule was made, someone suggested that there might come a time when the better part of the team might be on the sidelines. The new fine system, with three warnings, and the full team always on the ice, was the result. It worked out well, although last night's game was a clean one, and there wasn't much chance to get any idea how it would work if the teams decided to rough things up. The six-man rule does all that its enemies claim for it—it breaks up any kind of combination play, tires out the forwards, and makes the game fast in spots only. Russell Bowie, one of the best referees in the game, condemned it; the Quebec manager, M. J. Quinn has no use for it; the Ottawa players don't like it. In fact, the six-man rule seems to have no friend at all. The best thing to do is to get back to the last year's game, which seemed to be good enough for the hockey fans.—Ottawa Journal.

SAYINGS OF THE WISE

It is better to save lives than to save rates.—Alderman Fildes.

If ignorance were really bliss the world would be much happier.—Mansfield.

Moral sentiment, like cleanliness, should be practised in private.—A. R. Waite.

Some strand of our own weaving is involved in every quarrel.—R. L. Stevenson.

Of all wastes, the greatest waste that you can commit is the waste of labor.—Ruskin.

Making love is easier than making a fortune, but it involves great chances.—J. H. Ring.

There are innumerable methods of courting, but the best method is to be rich.—Frank Richardson

There is not the least use in preaching to anyone unless you chance to catch them ill.—Sidney Smith.

If a little knowledge is dangerous, where is the man who has so much as to be out of danger?—Huxley.

Gossip is a beast of prey that does not wait for the death of the creature it devours.—George Meredith.

It is always right to detect a fraud and perceive a folly; but it is often very wrong to expose either.—Chesterfield.

When your friend calls himself a fool it is better to disagree with him than to lose his friendship.—Walter Pulitzer.

TRAITS OF ANIMALS

Leading Traits of the Common Animals

Some one who was interested in animals studied their characters a short time ago, and read a great deal about them, says the Scrap Book.

His estimate of their leading traits was:

Ant, prudence.
Ass, stupidity.
Bear, ill temper.
Bee, industry.
Bull, strength.
Bulldog, pertinacity.
Cat, deceit.
Cock, vigilance.
Dog, fidelity.
Dove, innocence.
Eagle, majesty.
Elephant, sagacity.
Fox, cunning.
Goose, folly.
Hawk, rapacity.
Hen, maternal care.
Lamb, gentleness.
Lark, cheerfulness.
Lion, nobility.
Monkey, frivolity.
Mule, obstinacy.
Ostrich, stupidity.
Ox, patience.
Owl, wisdom.
Peacock, pride.
Pigeon, cowardice.
Pig, obstinacy.
Robin, truthfulness.
Serpent, wisdom.
Sheep, silliness.
Spider, willingness.
Swan, grace.
Tiger, ferocity.
Turkey, insolence.
Wolf, cruelty.

JOYS OF SKIING

Record Society Rush to Switzerland—Alpine Club's Warning to Visitors

The exodus from England for Switzerland for the winter sports which the Public Schools Alpine Sports Club has done so much to popularize, has already commenced, and will surpass all previous records.

No more enthusiastic skaters are found among the medley of nationalities congregated on the ice at Murren than the younger children of the Prime Minister. Mrs. Asquith, herself a skilful skater, accompanies them, and has secured a suite of rooms at the Hotel des Alpes. Murren is reputed to be the best centre for ski-ing. Ski factories have been established near by, as the demand for ski has increased to such an extent that Norway has not been able to cope with the orders received.

The Duchess of Westminster stays at Murren, concurrently with Mrs. Asquith, and obtained rooms at the same hotel. Lady Ursula Grosvenor accompanies her mother as well as Princess Pless's eldest son. Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill accompany Mrs. Asquith's party, and Mr. Cyril Asquith is accompanied by Miss Violet Asquith.

Other expert skaters are Lord and Lady Lytton, Lord Knebworth and Lady Margaret Lytton, all of whom spent part of last winter at Murren. Count and Countess Gleichen cross over from Belfast, and other well-known English people are found enjoying the exhilarating pastimes of skating and ski-ing are Lord Monkswell, Mr. and Mrs. John Collier, Lord and Lady Clanwilliam, Lord and Lady Leitrim, Lord and Lady Southesk, Lord Mawarden, Lord Carbery, Lady Frances Ryder, Lady Elliott, Lady Wharton and Miss Hemming.

According to the Swiss and Austrian Alpine Clubs, which have issued a notice to alpinists and skiers to be careful in the higher altitudes, this winter season is dangerous on account of the abnormal heat of the past summer having melted the snows to a great depth on the highest mountains and made the crevasses on the glaciers broader and deeper, making them very fragile and dangerous.

Hardly had this notice been issued when three workmen on the Jungfrau were killed by an avalanche and another slightly injured on a slope where avalanches are rare. Two members of the Swiss Alpine Club, Messrs. Ernst Cornu and Walter Bloch, were also swept down a ravine above Daves, and the former killed, being buried deep in the snow, while his comrade escaped unhurt and descended to Daves for help.

Toronto won the Capon-Waddell Curling Cup from Peterborough. Still the local wielders of broom and stone are not disheartened and hope for the future.

Some of the American labor leaders seem to be in serious difficulties with the court. The cause of labor is a noble one, but when labor and dynamite try to become bedfellows, honest sons of labor become ashamed of their parents.

WORLD'S SEVEN BIBLES

The Great Sacred Books That Are Known to the World

There are seven great sacred books known to the world. The word "bible" means simply "book," and is here used to denote a great standard moral work which has come to be regarded as sacred. The seven bibles are:

The Holy Scriptures, or Holy Bible of the Christians.
The Koran, of the Mohammedans.
The Tripitka, of the Buddhists.
The Five Kings, of the Chinese
The Zendavesta, of the Parsees
The Three Vedas, of the Hindus
The Eddas, of the Scandinavians.

The Koran is a comparatively modern work, dating from the seventh century. It contains many quotations from the Holy Scriptures, and, in common with most of the Sacred Books of the world, teaches much the same moral lessons as our own Bible, though differently expressed. The Five Kings, the Three Vedas, and the Zendavesta, all date from about the eleventh century before Christ, as nearly as can be ascertained, and so are of great antiquity. With regard to the Five Kings, the word "King" here signifies a warp, or piece of cloth with which a book is bound, and has no reference to monarchs.

"Zendavesta" means "Living Word written in the Zend language." It is the sacred book of the followers of Zoroaster, an ancient philosopher.

BITS FROM THE NEW BOOKS

Knowledge is the source of all goodness; ignorance the source of all evil. —"Britishers in Britain."

As long as the world is what it is, as long as men and girls are what they are, attractive women will receive attentions from men as of right. —"Laidlaw's Wife."

Proverbs have been termed the "nob-nailed truths of the people," and they certainly are merciless in treading on tender points which ordinary language is inclined to avoid.—"At the Back of Things."

The true genius can no more help exercising his special capacity than a bird can resist flying.—"Oh, for an Angel!"

It's always your sentimentalist who cuts the poorest figure in this life and then blames some outside agency. —"The Magic of the Hill."

When we envy a rich man we call him a financier; when we despise a poor one we call him a fool. It is as difficult to admire success heartily as it is to pity failure sincerely.—"A Kingdom of Dreams."

If the poor man falls it is never to hope again.—"The Open Window."

Fine Cup for Curling Competition.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: The handsome challenge shield donated by Dr. R. M. Mason, M.P.P., is now on exhibition in Mr. A. Northey's jewelry store window. The design is a wreath of gray-finished silver enclosing the figure of a curler, in the same metal, in the act of playing a stone. The shield will be completed for the local rinks and Bobcaygeon rinks, and will add a good deal of interest to the game.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

With a bow to Mona, he left them, and went out of the room humming an air. Val B Montague had passed through his crisis, and was his own man again.

Mona de la Mar turned to Scarborough with a smile.

"Well?" she asked.

"I want you to tell me what sort of person Mrs Carrington is."

She gave him a steady look, and answered:

"Tell me your reason for wanting to know. Please understand that Montague is right. I give no information on compulsion."

"I don't know whether my reason is one that will appeal to you. I am working for love to help the girl I love," said Scarborough simply. "Is the reason good?"

"To a woman, the one excellent reason!" said Mona, smiling. "And I think you a clever enough to know that, or you would not have begun like this. How will it help your love to know about Mrs. Carrington?"

"Anything that leads to a solution of the mystery that surrounds Richmond Carrington's death will help me," said Scarborough. "Or, at any rate, I think it will."

"Then, why don't you ask the daughter herself?"

"It would be no use."

"You have quarrelled? I'm sorry; because I like you, and I like Elsa Carrington. She treated me with a fair amount of scorn on the night when she rescued me from the Ring Rock, and I suppose I ought to hate her; but I don't, because she was defending her father. Is he the theme on which you and she have quarrelled, too?"

"We have not quarrelled," said Scarborough.

"But your idyll isn't working itself out smoothly? There is a jarring note?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll help you if I can. Mrs. Carrington is a thorough bad lot. I don't know her well, but I know that. Your future wife didn't make a lucky choice of parents."

"Can you give me details?" said Scarborough quietly.

Mona de la Mar shot a quick glance at him. His face looked almost haggard. He was suffering. She did not know how it would help him to hear what she could tell; but he said it would. So she told him what she knew.

"She is a woman of the world, in the worst sense of the word—heartless, extravagant, selfish. When I knew her, she was a woman of fashion, too, and [illegible] the dose she was made to swallow two years ago, was, to her, the necessity of ceasing to play that part. If Elsa Carrington's father was a thief—I don't know whether you consider that doubtful—I think it was because he had an expensive and worthless wife. He was a criminal, a clever criminal; but it was she who drove him to crime. Her craving for display ruined him, because he tried to satisfy it. I believe he loved her. At any rate he stole for her. His character was weaker than hers; for hers, though shallow, is forceful—strong in its very defects of glittering hardness and utter selfishness. There, that is the portrait of your future mother-in-law, as I saw her! How do you like it?"

Scarborough did not answer.

"There is one thing more," said Mona. "She was wonderfully beautiful. That is the one quality which her daughter seems to have inherited from her."

Still Scarborough was silent. Mona leaned forward and put her hand on his arm.

"I don't know whether I am right in telling you all this," she said. I don't believe in the doctrine of heredity much myself; but perhaps you do. Are you afraid?"

"Afraid?" he asked.

"Afraid that the daughter may have inherited more from her mother than beauty? I don't think you need be, and I believe I am rather a good judge of character."

"If you think that Elsa Carrington is the sweetest girl that ever lived, you are," said Scarborough gravely. "If you don't think so, I shall take the liberty of calling you, not a good judge, but the poorest."

"Ah, good! You are right-" said Mona with a smile of relief. "And the jarring note [illegible] will tune itself into harmony presently. Now tell me why you wished to know all this?"

Scarborough pointed to the harbor. A small steamer was coming in under a cloud of black smoke.

"That is the Funchal, from Lisbon," he said, "and Mrs. Carrington is on board. I wanted to know whether I should find in her a friend or an enemy. You have told me."

Mona laughed.

"I'll tell you another thing," she said. "If my twenty thousand pounds were, as we suppose, converted into diamonds, and if Richmond Carrington was robbed of them, and perhaps lost his life in defending them, I don't think the thief will succeed in getting away from San Miguel with them now."

"Who will?" Scarborough asked quickly. "You, their owner?"

"No. The woman who is advancing towards us under that pall of black smoke—Rachel Carrington."

CHAPTER XIV.

The Stone Jar

"I think," said Mrs. Carrington, "that you have been very imprudent. I don't in the least expect to find that jar in the place in which you say you put it. What induced you to choose such a ridiculous hiding-place?"

"Father said, 'The safest place you know.' That was the fissure in the Ring-Rock," said Elsa.

"Absurd!" said Mrs. Carrington. "Your father was a fool to trust you."

Elsa bit her lip and did not answer. Her mother had been in the island of San Miguel twenty-four hours, and already Elsa had grown tired of the useless endeavor to defend the dead against her sneers. A dull rage against this handsome, grumbling woman was burning in her heart, and it was only by an effort that she kept back her tears.

Mrs Carrington had landed on the quay at Ponta Delgada with a grumble. Why was her husband not there to meet her? Elsa, in the mistaken idea that the truth might be too great a shock, had told her first that he was ill, and had marvelled to see the announcement met with a shrug and a sneer. When at length she did summon up courage to say that he was dead, Mrs. Carrington had stared at her for a moment and then had broken into a hard laugh, saying:

"Why didn't you tell me that at first? Did you think I should faint or scream, or cause a scene in the custom-house? Do you think, child, that I care? I don't. He was a fool."

"He was my father," said Elsa.

"I don't see that that fact disproves my assertion," Mrs. Carrington had answered. "I expect you are a fool, too."

"He was your husband."

"And therefore he made me the wife of a notorious criminal. Do you know that my portrait, or what was said to be my portrait, was published in the Police News? Yes, he was my husband; do you think I have anything to thank him for in that?"

Those few sentences struck the key-note, and the motive never varied. The woman was selfish, callous, querulous; she thought herself ill-used, and was shameless in self-revelation. Elsa had never expected sympathy from her, had looked forward with no pleasure to the day of her mother's arrival in San Miguel; but she had looked for the news of a husband's death being received with sorrow. Instead it was received with a whine, a sneer, a grumble. There was not even the decency of pretence. The woman plainly did not care, and in the hearing of her daughter at least, did not think it worth while to seem to care.

Was it the tragedy of two years ago that had worked this change? For Elsa remembered her mother as a very different person from this. She remembered a gay, laughing woman, handsome in a hard glittering way, always faultlessly dressed, always busy in a whirl of social duties, sometimes fitfully indulgent to her daughter, petting her when the whim took her; but more often letting whole weeks pass without a word of tenderness, hardly with a glance of notice. The tender [illegible] mouth, hours [illegible] derness of words; there was no tenderness of thought, and Elsa knew that she had never held a place in her mother's heart. In Rachel Carrington's busy, pleasure-hunting life there had been no room for affection; the glitter of her social success was a hard glitter, out of keeping with the softer feelings of a mother, and likely to be dulled by and dangerous indulgence in them. Not, indeed, that she ever felt any temptation so to indulge; her shallow nature had room but for one great passion, and the passion that, filled it was the ambition of social success. She worked with single-minded purpose to win her place in the whirl; and when she lost that place, she lost all.

There was tragedy in this, and those lines of discontent about her mouth had their pathos, for the punishment of folly is tragic, and the sufferings of the wholly worthless are no less poignant because they are deserved.

But the generous heart of youth cannot know this. In witnessing a sorrow that is wholly centred in self, it notes and condemns the selfishness, and, in its horror of that, is apt to overlook the sorrow. Elsa did not sympathize with her mother, but she thought she understood her, and she knew that she despised her. And after a few hours of her company she came very near to hating her.

But as yet her anger had not blazed out into open defiance, her father's letter had bidden her be guided by her mother, and so long as it was possible, she would obey; but she had an instinctive feeling that soon it would not be possible.

Mrs. Carrington had demanded to be taken to the Ring-Rock at once, in order that she might get into her hands as soon as possible the packet which Elsa had hidden there. Elsa would have liked to have believed that this eagerness was prompted by anxiety to read the evidence which her husband had got together to prove his innocence; but she knew that it was not so. Her mother plainly expected to find something more than mere documents; and Elsa, thinking again of the story of the diamonds, dared not ask the question which rose to her lips. But when she saw the gleam of greed in her mother's eyes, her faith died; the faith in her father—for which she had fought, against evidence, against her own judgment, even against her own love—was killed in the end by her mother. Rachel Carrington did not know that. Had she known it, she would have laughed, perhaps even pitied, in a sneering scorn, a girl who could be such a credulous fool; but assuredly she would not have cared.

As Elsa's boat brought them nearer to the Ring-Rock, the girl's heart sank. She had looked forward to putting that packet into her mother's hands, in the belief that she would be taking the first step in the promised vindication; but she realized now in the last few hours that hope was dead.

Mrs. Carrington, on the other hand, grew more eager every moment, and by a somewhat natural mental process, more ready to discount as possible disappointment by blaming Elsa for what she had done.

"I tell you that I don't expect that jar will be there,' she repeated. "The place has been like a dockyard for the last week. Do you suppose that the people who refloated that schooner won't have explored every inch?"

"I don't see why they should," said Elsa wearily. "They had their work."

"Well, if they haven't, someone else probably has."

"Who?"

"I don't know who," Mrs. Carrington muttered irritably. "But I do know that your foolishness went the very best way about to excite suspicion. You couldn't help the Sea-Horse being wrecked I daresay, but you might have avoided letting yourself be seen. Anyone with a grain of intelligence would know at once that you had not gone there alone, on the day after your father's death, for nothing. The obvious inference would be that you were hiding something. The jar won't be there."

Elsa did not reply, but began to make ready to lower her sail. The [illegible] to the Ring-Rock was only a hundred yards away now.

Suddenly Mrs. Carrington gave a [illegible] and pointed forward.

(To be Continued)

The "Canadian Farm" of last issue, has a large picture of corn, eight feet high grown in the county of Kent, Ont. What's the use of bragging that way! A local young lady has a corn, not one-sixteenth of an inch high that caused her to miss two sessions at church, our hockey match and possibly an engagement of marriage.

SEALING-WAX LANGUAGE

The Very Latest for Lovers Comes From Paris

Lovers have enjoyed various "languages." There is the language of the postage-stamp, for instance, the manner in which the stamp is affixed to the envelope denoting the feelings of the writer.

The very latest "language" for lovers comes from Paris. It is known as the language of sealing-wax.

Edwin expresses his emotions by the color of the wax with which he seals his letters to "her." If the lover is happy, sure of his sweetheart's love, and enjoying all love's joys, then he must use a rose-colored wax. If, however, he is worried or melancholy, having quarrelled with Angelina, for instance, it is the correct thing for him to show his depression by using a dull grey sealing-wax.

One can foresee numerous embarrassing complications arising from the use of this "love wax." Supposing, for some reason unknown to Edwin, his sweetheart should be disagreeable and vexed. Then, when she writes to him her letters will be sealed with the dull grey wax. This will be worrying to Edwin. How can he reply? If he seals his letter with the rose wax it will seem heartless; if he uses the grey, in sympathy with her, she will think that he is also disagreeable and vexed.

When asking a favor in a letter the envelope should be sealed with pale green wax. When a favor is being granted or you wish to show that you agree with certain propositions, a bright blue sealing-wax should be used. When corresponding with a girl with whom you are not on very intimate terms, but whom you wish to know better, a violet wax is the correct color. If the girl is cold or formal, and not anxious to encourage you, she will reply in an envelope bearing brown sealing-wax.

This will probably make you turn red, send you into a brown study, and give you the blues. If she is writing to another fellow and using the rose sealing-wax to him, you will perhaps turn green with envy and wax wroth.

ELEGANCE OF MAN

A German Paper Hands Out Some Advice to the "Well Dressed"

An "Elegance of Man" appears in a German newspaper. It complains that men no longer trouble about their dress. They are content to be "clothed," and they don't care a bit whether they look "elegant" or not. But the most pitiful object of all, according to this critical sheet, is that man who, not knowing the rules of the game, tries to dress well. The worst offender, says the critic, is the Parisian with his narrow cut trousers, his pointed shoes, and his flowing cravat, and coat that is cut too close to the figure. He is all that a man should not be, with his little cylindrical hat set on the side of his head to crown his badly cut clothes.

The article states that the best dressed men are to be found in New York. The men in Vienna are accused of being too conservative, too fond of dreary colors. In Brussels you may occasionally meet a well-dressed man, whereas in Holland there are no "elegant" men. And the Germans do not look well in mufti, not even the Emperor. The Kaiser, we are told, wears his trousers too short; the Crown Prince is too much influenced by French fashions. As for the rest of the German royal family, they don't know the slightest thing about clothes! The rules laid down by this German newspaper are very simple, though not always followed by those who wish to appear smartly dressed. You must never wear false cuffs or shirt fronts, or a tie that is made up. Your tie must moreover completely cover the stud of your collar. Brown boots must never be worn with town clothes, and never be fastened with buttons. That is the unpardonable sin. Goloshes are anathema, so are boots with rubber heels and rubber tops. Sticks and umbrellas with ornamented handles must never be carried; they should be as simple as possible. And so should watch chains and tie pins, and we must be very careful about the size of our cigar and cigarette cases. Many a tailor has been driven to despair by the carelessness of his clients in carrying unwieldy things in the pockets. If we follow all these rules we may succeed in being "elegant."

A MAMMOTH UMBRELLA

In our own country we hear frequent grumblings about the absurd and unnecessary size of certain fashionable hats worn by ladies; but let us be thankful for the fact that ladies parasols remain a normal and sensible size, instead of following the awful example of the royal umbrella belonging to the king of a certain African tribe. This umbrella is so enormous that it will shelter scores, and actually requires two dozen bearers to transport it easily from place to place. The king walks under the umbrella whenever the sun becomes unpleasantly hot, and sometimes the royal guests are received under this Goliath among sunshades, which is as much an essential emblem of state as the Lord Mayor's coach.

PINEAPPLES FOR SORE THROAT

Of the fruits which enter so largely into the vegetarian diet, practically all possess a twofold value, for even the pineapple is credited with being an ideal fruit for those who cannot readily digest meat and the casine of milk, on account of the ferment bromeline contained in the juice; and it is also useful to sufferers from sore throat, and in breaking, softening, and then causing to disappear the membrane which forms at the back of the diphtheric throat.

Wheat in Australia

The total area under wheat in Australia this season will be 7,247,000 acres, an increase of more than half a million acres on last year's area.

A handful in a tin

WHEN YOU SWEEP

absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

"Fare" in Bible, 1 Bible. A Bible for use in stores offices and public bldgs

For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA

CANADIAN PACIFIC

TO WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER

Daily Transcontinental Service via the All Canadian Route Standard and Tourist Sleepers.

To CHICAGO

Three trains daily.

Excellent service.

Making connection at Detroit for

FLORIDA and at Chicago for CALIFORNIA and Pacific Coast Points.

For reservations and information apply—

W. McILROY : : : Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing, Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

360 Aylmer St. Phone 623

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd

QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 28

Dominion Feb. 17; Mar. 30

Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List.

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and S. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE STEAMSHIP CO., LTD

Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Havre, Paris.

WINTER SAILINGS.

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

CORSICAN,

Friday, Feb. 16. Saturday, Feb. 17.

HESPERIAN,

Saturday, Feb. 24.

TUNISIAN,

Fri., March 1. Sat., March 2.

GRAMPIAN,

Saturday, March 9th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class, $72.50 and upwards.

Second Class, $50.00, $52.50 and upwards.

Third Class, $31.25 to Liverpool, Glasgow, Derry, and London.

PORTLAND-BOSTON-GLASGOW.

"One Class" steamers sailing alternately from Portland and Boston give a weekly service to Glasgow.

SUMMER SAILINGS.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-LIVERPOOL.

Tunisian—May 3, May 31, June 28.

Virginian, May 10, June 7, July 5.

Corsican, May 17, June 14, July 12.

Victorian, May 24, June 21, July 19.

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-GLASGOW.

Ionian—May 4, June 1, June 29.

Hesperian—May 11, June 8, July 6.

Scotian—May 18, June 15, July 13.

Grampian—May 25, June 22, July 20.

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON.

"One Class" steamers. Weekly service. Rates moderate.

For full particulars of rates, descriptive pamphlets, etc., apply to

W. McILROY,

C.P.A. Can. Pass. Ry.

H. A. ROCK,

C.P.A. G. T. Ry.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00

RESERVE FUND..... 100,000.0

TOTAL ASSETS..... 2,580,549.3

Savings Department

3 1/2 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

A RAPID EDUCATION

Travellers Who Went Through School Very Quickly

When travelling some years ago in the Far West I met with an experience which happily does not fall to the lot of many people, says a correspondent. We were travelling on a special night train from Seattle to Tacoma. The train was going at high speed, when in the small hours of the morning the sleeping travellers were suddenly awakened by a terrific shock. Everyone believed that there had been a collision, and rose up to see what was the matter. A collision there certainly had been, but of a most unusual nature. The train had run through a wooden schoolhouse which some workmen, in moving, had stupidly left on the line. I doubt if many people have passed through school so quickly before or since.

HER LOVE STORY

The Queen of Roumania's Own Description of Meeting the Prince

Here is the Queen of Roumania's charming account of her own love story. The Prince of Roumania (as he then was) came to woo her, and, although "Carmen Sylva" hesitated at first, her mother talked to her of the Prince's good qualities, and, finally, in her own words, "As my mother went on talking, my hesitation seemed to fade away, and it was not long before I said to her, 'Let him come. He is the right one.' In a very short time the Prince had returned, I was summoned to the room, and I remember going towards him with my hand outstretched, which he raised to his lips, and I remember, too, the words he spoke, but my words to him I do not recall, though my mother treasured them in her heart, and had them inscribed below my portrait she sent to him."

Now, the Queen's granddaughter, Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, is about to become engaged to Prince George of Greece, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Greece, whom she will meet for the first time at the Coronation in London.

THE GAME OF GOH

It Represents a Struggle Between Light and Darkness

Did you ever play the game of goh? It is a sort of Japanese draughts, and an English enthusiast in Hastings, Mr. Horace F. Cheshire, is endeavoring to arrange a match between teams chosen from the Hastings Chess Club and the Japanese Club in London. Mr. Cheshire, who is a "gob" player of thirty years' standing, says that although the game admits all the finesse and strategy of chess, it is easier to learn than draughts. Goh was originally invented by the Chinese and spread to Japan in days before the Norman conquest. The game is supposed to represent a struggle between black and white men with no distinction of rank, on a board ruled into eighteen squares, or oblongs, each way. Goh is a popular game among the cultured classes in Japan, and it was the game of Chinese emperors centuries before the Christian era.

SOME SUPERSTITIONS

It means a disappointment to drop scissors.

It is bad luck to meet anyone on the stairs.

If you drop a dish-cloth or tea-towel, expect a visitor.

If you fall upstairs, you won't be married this year.

If you break a mirror it means seven years of bad luck.

Two spoons put in a cup and saucer by mistake means a marriage.

If you stub your toe on the sidewalk, walk around the spot and wish.

It is bad luck to go back after anything that has been forgotten.

If you sing before breakfast you will be disappointed before night.

If a picture falls it is the sign to some of a wedding, to others of a death.

If you see the new moon first over your left shoulder you will have a happy month.

Never enter into any important business transaction unless it is in the new of the moon.

Someone will come hungry if you take a second helping of food when you already have some.

If your right ear burns someone is speaking well of you; if your left ear burns, someone speaks ill of you.

If you drop gloves or an umbrella, let someone else pick them up. It would mean disappointment to do so yourself.

Never give anything sharp to a friend unless he gives some slight token (a cent) in return. Sharp points cut friendship.

Yesterday a flock of crows was seen, and incidentally heard, because you generally hear these birds in a field of corn-stooks to the east of the city. This, however, does not guarantee that the average householder may let his furnace out for the summer.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in Diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.
One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	...	8.20 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m. 5.30 p.m.	9.05 p.m. 11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Lindsay Local	10.15 p.m. 8.15 a.m.	5.35 p.m. 9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Bellville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m. 5.35 p.m.	8.30 a.m. 1.44 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m. 6.15 p.m.	1.00 p.m. 12.40 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m. 1.47 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.35 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	8.26 a.m. 6.31 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m. 6.35 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE TIMES REPORTS.

MACHINISTS WANTED.

Three machinists wanted. Apply at the office of the International Harvester Co., Peterborough.

WANTED.

Girls wanted at the [illegible] Electric Co. Apply at the Office. (D—2-17)

To Learn Printing Trade.

We have an opening for a bright young man to learn press work. Apply at Times Business Office.

Murray Street Church.

Rev. Mr. Webb will take for his subject to-morrow evening "The Servant in the House." All are welcome.

George St. Methodist Church.

Rev. I. Couch, Pastor.
11 a.m.—Public worship.
7 p.m.—The Pastor will preach.
All welcome. Seats free.

Millbrook Law Students Success.

Two Millbrook boys, George Walsh and Wellington Pickup, who topped the list at the Christmas exams in law at Toronto in a big second year class in the order above named.

Help Wanted.

Men and women. Make good money in spare time. No canvassing. Our profitable suggestions contain money-making ideas. Send stamp. WALLACE W. SMITH, LONDON, ONT. (D—3-17-24-m2)

Peterborough Folks at St. Helena.

Hastings Star: Miss Annie Reid, of Peterborough, is visiting her cousin, Miss Maggie Oakman. St. Helena.

Miss Alice Stenton, of Peterborough, has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Beavis. St. Helena.

House to Let.

That desirable residence at 453 Water street. All modern conveniences. Fronts on Victoria Park. One short block from George street, schools, churches. Immediate possession or could wait a month or two on signing a lease. Apply to C. H. Clementi, 451 Water street.

Hon. Sam. Hughes Presents Cup

Lindsay Post: Mr. A. M. Paton, president of the Town Hockey League, has received a communication from Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the effect that he will donate a handsome silver cup to be competed for annually at a tournament in Lindsay by teams from the counties of Victoria and Haliburton. The Minister's kindness will be appreciated by the teams of the two Counties.

Lindsay Press on the Game.

In its report of the Peterborough Midland game, the Lindsay Post says: "Harvey Sproule gave good satisfaction to everyone but the Peterborough fans who hooted and hissed some of his decisions. Harvey was idolized by the Electric City people all season, but that apparently had no effect on him last night in discharging his duty. Bearss was on his good behaviour last night, but Giroux was quite nasty, and was put out of the game for good about ten minutes before time was up."

Grand Concert and Open Meeting.

Under the auspices of Court Chemong, I.O.F., Conservatory of Music Hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 21st. Address by G. A. Mitchell, D.S.C.R. Maude M. Bigwood, soloist; Miss Lillian Dillon, contralto and pianist; Harvey S. Lloyd, entertainer. Mayor Bradburn will take the chair. The public invited. Admission free.

Mr. John Haggart's Funeral.

Mr. Robt. Pogue officiated yesterday afternoon at the funeral of the late Mr. John Haggart, at the residence of the deceased, 167 Brock street. The funeral cortege proceeded to Little Lake cemetery for interment.

There was a magnificent display of floral tributes. The pallbearers were Messrs. James Middleton, William Middleton, Fred Mitchell, W. Stocker, Alfred Johnson and John Nugent.

Bought Goods in Peterborough.

Norwood Register: Mr. John Baskin informs us that he intends erecting a new hotel in Norwood this spring. Mr. Baskin was in Peterborough yesterday purchasing brick and other material for the building and in a few days he expects to begin getting things together so as to be able to start building operations. The building, we understand, is to be of brick and will be erected on the south side of Peterborough street. The main building will be 32 by 52 feet, three stories high.

The Italian Was Remanded.

Nicholas Martino appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday morning charged with having attempted a criminal offence on his stepdaughter, Maria Vuria, who is under fourteen years of age. The alleged offence is said to have been committed on the 9th of August last.

Mr. Thos. Minicolo appeared as interpreter. As Crown Attorney Wood was not prepared to go on with the case a remand was granted until Tuesday next. The parties concerned in the case reside at 491 Elm street.

The Rob Roy is Sold.

Mr. Elijah Windover, Rockcroft, P.O., was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a friendly call. While in the city Mr. Windover purchased that smart little steam launch, the "Rob Roy," formerly owned by the late Mr. R. M. Roy. At present Mr. Windover considers running the Rob Roy from Buckhorn as a pleasure boat for tourists during the season. This boat will carry from twenty to thirty passengers, and, owing to her speed, Mr. Windover has certainly secured a bargain.

Red Mill Opens Auspiciously.

That always popular place of amusement, heretofore known as the "Crystal," but now re-christened the Red Mill reopened yesterday under new management. These words "new management," mean a whole lot and this was demonstrated by the crowd present yesterday. The adv. of this theatre appears in another column. During the afternoon fully five hundred people paid admission and saw a good, clean, interesting and instructive program. The new management is determined not to present anything that could possibly offend the most refined taste.

The Hog Behind the Gun.

Rod and Gun of last issue has a strong argument in favor of a stricter conservation of our wild ducks. This will appeal to all local sportsmen, that are true sportsmen. A gentleman well known in the city distinctly remembers how a gentleman from Cobourg, with the late Tom Wallis as guide, actually killed 96 ducks in one day from a blind on Sheep Island, Rice Lake. It is such bags as this that materially kill out the wild ducks of Canada. The gentleman referred to did not shoot ducks for sale, but simply to display how large a bag he could bring home. That is not sport.

Good News for Farmers.

Our farmers will be glad to note that the Dominion Government is bringing in a bill entitled "The Agricultural Aid Act." By this the Governor-in-Council, may in any year and upon such terms and subject to such conditions as are prescribed by order in council, grant to any province, for the encouragement of agriculture, a subsidy not exceeding such sum as may in such year be voted by Parliament for that purpose. The Minister of Agriculture, with the authority of the Governor in Council may enter into an agreement with the Government of any province setting forth the terms upon which such subsidy is granted.

LEAVING FOR THE WEST.

As Employee of The Times Accepts Responsible Position in Regina.

Mr. Edward Taylor, who has for three years been in charge of The Times press room, leaves this morning for Regina, Sask., where he will assume full control of the "Leader" press room. Mr. Taylor has been a faithful and capable employee of this office and leaves for the West with the best wishes of all with whom his business brought him in contact. The Times joins with many friends and acquaintances in extending to Mr. Taylor the heartiest best wishes for the properous future in Western Canada his energy and mechanical and executive skill deserves.

Local Man Writes From West.

We were yesterday shown a letter by Mr. Frank Montgomery, of the Montgomery House, received by him from his son, Mr. W. F. C. Montgomery. The latter has been visiting different parts of the West. Mr. Frank Montgomery owns considerable property in Vonda, Sask., and is naturally much interested in conditions there. His son writes to say that he has seen farmers bring wheat for a distance of over twenty-five miles, drawn by ox teams, for sale or shipment and then not be able to dispose of it. This caused partly by lack of cars and partly by the fact that all the graineries and elevators are absolutely full of wheat. Wheat is even stored in waggon boxes. However, we have reason to know that the railroads are carefully considering this shortage of cars and will soon arrange to eliminate this difficulty.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

BUT THE HEALING FUMES OF CATARRHOZONE, WHICH ARE BREATHED TO THE FURTHEST RECESSES OF THE BRONCHIAL TUBES, BRING QUICK RELIEF AND SURE CURE.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at the source, disperses the germs of disease and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only give temporary relief, but will always cure permanently.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) WILLIAM RAGAN,
Brockville, Ont."

For absolute, permanent cure use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

St. Luke's Church.

St. Luke's Sunday.

8.30 a.m.—Holy Communion, Corporate Communion of the Girls' Auxiliary.

10 a.m.—Holy Baptism.

11 a.m.—Morning prayer and sermon. Subject "Why we believe in Sabbath Observance."

3 p.m.—Sunday school and Bible classes. Rector's Bible class in the church.

7 p.m.—Evening prayer and sermon. Service on the Old Testament continued. Subject "The Call of Moses."

The rector will preach at both services. All seats free.

Confirmation classes on Monday at 4.30 and 8.

Services on Ash Wednesday at 10:30 and 8.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

[illegible] to consider Hydro-Electric. Full particulars in another column.

The Mission Band of Murray street Baptist Church held their annual tea and entertainment yesterday evening.

A Persian lamb collarette, a bunch of keys with chain attached, and a fur tail are awaiting claimants at the Police Station.

Quite a number of names have been added to the membership of the local Ad. Club as a result of the recent banquet.

Lieut.-Col. Sylvester's term as commanding officer of the 45th Regiment, Lindsay, has been extended another year by the Militia Department.

Rev. W. G. Riddiford has been invited to preach at the anniversary services of the Baptist Church at Norwood, on Sunday, March 3rd.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. will be held on Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. A large attendance of members is requested.

Flavelle's Lindsay curlers seem to be doing well at the big Winnipeg bonspiel. However, an unexpected thaw put the ice out of commission for several games.

The office of a Port Hope coal and wood merchant was burglarized this week. The burglars were evidently green as they blew open the safe and did not even take a paper bag full of coal away.

Mr. A. G. Morrison of the Lake Superior Power Co., was in the city yesterday and has engaged several men from Peterborough to work on the company's new dam at Helen Mine.

Master Cyril H. Devey, the young organist of All Saints' is in Toronto for the winter musical examinations, and Mr. R. J. Devey of St. John's, presided at the organ at the induction service held in All Saints' church last night.

When Fishery Inspector Watt seizes, through his acknowledged vigilance several hundred pounds of illicit bass and muskinonge. Why send them to the poor in Toronto. Surely there are enough fish-eaters right here in Peterborough to dispose of such seizures.

Lindsay's Children's Aid Society is asking for donations of second hand clothing. This reminds us that the local Society cannot live on wind or snowballs. They are deserving of assistance "at every stage of the game," as our sporting editor would say.

Georgie was repeating the Lord's prayer. When he got as far as "Give us this day our daily bread" he paused a moment, then added fervently, "and molasses."

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Experienced pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, discharges from the same, throat and urinary organs. Avoid substitutes. To expedite relief in acute cases, take Big G, 4 times a day, with hot water, and use as an injection. Big G, 4 times a day, with hot water, and use as an injection. Big G, 4 times a day, with hot water, and use as an injection.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some de'l at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your hild much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require keen sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX NO. 43 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

Some of The Largest Unions in Toronto Will Demand Wage Increase For May Day

STATISTICS OF PETERBORO COUNTY AGRICULTURAL WEALTH

The Ontario Government has just issued a Blue Book giving the annual report of the Bureau of Industries for the Province of Ontario. It is interesting to note a page which shows the farm values per acre of the various Counties. This report is for 1910. The average value in Peterborough for occupied farms is $20.90, and buildings $7.81. The implements are worth $2.21, live stock $5.15, total $36.07.

CHEESE FACTORIES.

There are 30 Cheese Factories in this County. They used 45,367,217 pounds of milk, which made 4,132,134 pounds of cheese, worth $451,305. There is one Peterborough Creamery which made 261,455 pounds of butter worth $61,387.

WOOL AND POULTRY.

The wool clip of this County amounted to 54,470, the turkeys to 12,674, geese 5860, ducks 4,867, other fowl 160,501. The total value of live stock sold or killed was $944,803.

SHEEP AND SWINE.

In the matter of sheep there were in hand 15,362, worth $74,916, swine on hand 22,186, worth $192,122; sold or slaughtered 29,096, worth $365,737. Poultry on hand 203,922, worth $65,110; sold or slaughtered 52,496, worth $26,248.

HOLDS UP A FAMILY BANDIT CAUGHT IN BUSH

Bandit Tied Up Father, Son and Daughter—Got Away With $300.

Pembina, N.D., Feb. 17.—A bandit, who says he is Dan Rice, of Texas, was arrested after an exciting manhunt along the border yesterday afternoon by United States and Canadian officials. He had held up three members of Alex. Copeland's family on the Marrias River in the forenoon and after shooting at them several times robbed the house of $300, tied up the father, son and daughter and escaped in a stolen rig. He was rounded up in the bush, and the Sheriff from Pembina fired at him repeatedly before the fugitive dropped his gun and surrendered. He waived extradition and was taken across the line and committed for trial at Emerson and sent to Winnipeg.

The thug used ropes to tie up the Copelands' hands, ate his dinner coolly, then untied the old man and forced him to hitch up a fast horse to a cutter, in which he escaped. It was only a few minutes before the son was untied and they gave the alarm to the neighbors and to the police constable at Emerson. The news was flashed to neighboring towns and a posse from Emerson and Pembina started out. They caught sight of the robber on the road between Pembina and Joliette, but seeing his pursuers he took to the bush where he was speedily surrounded and captured.

SAY THAT THE DYNAMITERS NOW WANT TO TELL ALL

Alleged That Some of the Labor Men Under Arrest Are Ready to Squeal--Ryan Makes a Denial

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 17.—Some of the defendants in the dynamite conspiracy cases are ready "to tell all they know."

The statements followed the Government's charges that 40,000 letters and telegrams taken from the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers showed that Frank M. Ryan, the President; Herbert S. Hoskin, the second Vice-President, and members of the executive board and business agents conducted the dynamite plots through the mails pointed out "jobs" to be blown up, and maintained a system of destruction against non-union iron and steel contractors.

Asked if any negotiations had been opened with defendants who wanted to confess, United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller, said: "I would not be surprised if it is shown soon that something like that had happened."

Concerning the letters quoted in the indictment, Mr. Ryan says. "It is unfair for the Government to draw conclusions that those letters were written to promote crime. If any person reads all of them he will see that they refer only to legitimate means of inducing contractors to unionize their work."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

THE BUCKHORN POSTMASTERSHIP.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—That's great stuff the Examiner has in about the dear good postmaster at Buckhorn, Mr. Shearer. Mr. Shearer was without doubt, the most active, although not the most vindicative, Liberal partizan in Peterborough County. He went out day after day canvassing for Stratton, with the mistaken idea that the Laurier Government was always going to be there, and while he is a decent chap in his way, no man can go on like that and remain in office unless the service is to be made a fool of altogether. North Smith will soon be served by a mail route. In the meantime let the howlers remember the time when they had no mercy whatever and quit howling.

One Who Knows.

COST OF PAVEMENTS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Now that the paving of George street is being considered by our City Fathers, and incidentally by those who would pay for it, I thought the following clipping from a Kingston, Ont., paper might be of interest. The extract says in part:

"The Board of Works has decided to recommend to Council that enough Bermudez asphalt be bought to build a mile of asphaltic macadam. The cost of the asphalt will be about $5,000. In addition to this amount there will be the cost of labor. It is estimated that the total cost will be from 72 to 75 cents a square yard. The city will be under the necessity of having to buy a melting kettle for the asphalt, which will cost upwards of $500."

I think, Mr. Editor, these prices give a fairly good idea of what it would cost to macadamize George street.

Tax Payer.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR FIRE SUFFERERS

That general sympathy is felt for the Sweeny and Smith families who were burned out of house and home a week ago, is shown by the generous contributions towards their support.

The following is a complete list of those who have contributed:

Auntie	$2.00
R. J. Munro	5.00
Fred Mitchell	5.00
Mrs. Dr. Burnham	5.00
A Friend	2.00
R. Harstone	5.00
Frank Solbit	1.00
A Friend	1.00
A Friend	2.00
Mrs. Hugh Waddell	5.00
A neighbour	2.00
	$35.00

Purchases of the following values were made of the places named, out of the cash contributions received:—

A quilt	$2.00
Peterboro Hardware Co.	4.40
C. B. Routley	2.00
M. T. Butcher	3.00
M. T. Butcher	2.20
J. C. Turnbull	8.00
M. T. Butcher	2.20
J. C. Turnbull	8.58
E. P. Jackson	2.00

Could Not Conceal His Sex.

A few days ago a young man of this city, over a chat between friends about disguises, made a bet. His bet was that he could dress up like a girl, enter the house of a mutual friend and not have himself suspected. His bet was taken. The young man who is employed in a George street store, arrayed himself in a way to make "Solomon in all his glory" look like a plugged 10c piece. He put on his sister's petticoat, her waist and skirt. Next he borrowed what she called a "rat," or something like that to supplement a wig. When fully arrayed he rang the bell. As his face had been changed by use of cosmetics and his sartorial garb was unusual he was not, at first, recognized. However, in a few minutes his host started . . . looked . . . and then grabbing the wig of his visitor, remarked, your a good actor, old man, but when you sat down and began to pull your skirts up, as though to prevent your trousers bagging at the knees, I got suspicious, I also recognized that mole under your ear." The young man lost his bet.

TEN THOUSAND TORONTO WORKERS FORMULATING MAY DAY DEMANDS

Ten Different Unions Show Signs of Unrest and Will Approach Employers on Question of Increased Wages

BARBERS MAY STRIKE

Union Labor on the whole will be very active this Spring. No fewer than ten trades or crafts are looking for a more or less decided improvement in conditions, whereas one year ago there was practically no activity, May Day passing off without a strike.

Ten thousand men are affected by the demands for higher wages or improved conditions to be made this year and the movement seems to be spreading, no less than ten unions being involved, as follows:

Carpenters, 1,500 members.
Metal Workers, 800.
Wiremen, 150.
Lathers, 100.
Painters, 600.
Street railway employees, 1,400.
Tailors, 1,000.
Garment Workers, 2,000.
Printers, 1,200.
Machinists, 900.
Barbers want shorter day.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—The barbers are [illegible] employers is the matter of hours. The men declare they must have an eight o'clock closing rule and if necessary they will walk out to get it.

"Yes; we intend to strike for an early closing by-law," declared Mr. Leon Worthall, of the International Journeymen Babers' Union this morning. "I have been made a general organizer of the union and I am now engaged in bolstering up the membership or our organization, in preparation of stirring times ahead. In a few weeks we shall make our formal demands."

BETTER CONDITIONS.

Better sanitary conditions in a number of shops will be urged, but the particular request of the union will be for a shorter day.

DEMAND AN INCREASE.

The carpenters' demands have already been aired. The woodworkers want a substantial increase in wages claiming that they are among the poorest paid craftsmen in the city, all things taken into consideration. They point out that their trade is not a steady one on account of weather conditions, and that they have to supply their own tools.

The tailors and other needleworkers are also agitating for better pay and cleaner shops. The members of the tailors' union has gone up by leaps and bounds during the past two weeks.

The new executive committee of the Machinists' Association will take up the present scale and long hours it is said.

The metal-workers, including polishers, pattern-makers, and platers, will hoist the banner for a nine hour day. They have a ten hour day at present.

ELECTRIC WORKERS, TOO.

The electric workers are having trouble with one or two large firms in this city. The men have been trying to negotiate, it is claimed, but they expect to have to "call" the jobs in order to secure redress.

The seventy-five slaters and tilers [illegible] conditions while the stone and metal lathers are also showing signs of unrest. The painters' union, 800 strong, are preparing to ask for improvements.

The memberships of the different unions are approximately.

KINGSTON FRONTENACS DEFEATED BY EATONS

Before an immense crowd of fans in the Excelsior Rink, Toronto, the Eatons of that city defeated the Kingston Frontenacs by a score of 13 to 4. This game was the first of the finals for the O.H.A. championship. Whilst a return match will be fought out, this great lead practically assures the Toronto bunch the championship.

MALAY NATIVES START A SERIOUS UPRISING

Lisbon, Feb. 17.—Advices from the Portuguese colony of Timor in the Malay archipelago, state that a serious revolution has broken out among the natives there. The rebels according to the despatches have attacked and seized the capital, Dilli, which they pillaged. They committed many murders and carried off a large quantity of valuables, foodstuffs and arms and ammunition. They also set fire to several factories and other buildings.

A band of the rebels seized and decapitated two Portuguese officers and several soldiers, whose heads they stuck on poles. They also abducted a number of women and held them for ransom, afterwards retiring into the country districts.

The Government has ordered the despatch of 300 troops, supported by a Portuguese gunboat to the Island.

THE WEATHER.

Snow or rain.

CHILDREN DEAD POISONED CANDY

Two Tots Dead From Eating Sweets Found at Door --Others Ill

MINNEAPOLIS TRAGEDY

Grown-Up Woman Who Also Ate Candy Feels No Injurious Effects —Police Baffled.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 19.—Victims of a poisoned candy plot, three-year-old Bonnie Reedy and Simon O'Malley, five years old, are dead from eating arsenic in sweets placed at the door of the O'Malley home, 1209 Washington avenue, S., Saturday night. Louis Spenser, five years old, who also ate of the candy, is at the hospital, while Clara Grates, 24 years old, who also ate of the candy, is unharmed.

The poisoning of the little children took place while Mrs. Mary Reedy, mother of the tiny victim, was down town buying the child a pair of shoes. Returning with the shoes, which the baby daughter had asked for, she learned that the child was dead.

Developments were rapid after the deaths of the two, but the clues only served to deepen the mystery. On the memory of Miss Frances Swanson, clerk in Voegel's drug store, Hennepin and Washington avenue, who is believed to be the only person [illegible] depends the chance of the police to capture the poisoner.

Miss Swanson will look at persons whom the police show her, and will try and pick out, if possible, the one to whom she sold the candy.

Clara Grates, housekeeper for O'Malley, who admitted that she took the box of candy from the O'Malley child's hands and passed it to all those in the place except five-year-old Lawrence, brother of the dead girl, who was in another room, was questioned, with the mother of the girl, who was absent when the tragedy took place, for two hours at police headquarters, but both denied any knowledge of a plot.

Sunday brought forth few new points. Poison was found in the bodies of the victims. The candy was analyzed to-day.

A BELLEVILLE WOMAN TAKES DOSE OF ACID

Mrs. Florence Mundville, of Belleville, was to have appeared before the police court there last Friday on the charge of conducting a disorderly house. Man may propose, but the gods dispose. She was unable to be present. Dr. Clinton had been hastily summoned to her home on Wharf street, where he found her to be suffering from burns in the throat, and caused by hydrochloric or muriatic acid, a large quantity of which she had swallowed from a bottle, whether purposely or not cannot be said. Fortunately it was diluted acid that was used. It is rumored that the woman took the dose thinking it to be carbolic acid.

THE BATTLE OF RENFREW.

GENERAL LOUDEN—"Hurrah! Graham is bombarding a school-house with six men and a boy in it."
—From the Toronto News.

SHOT BURGLAR DEAD, AND THEN WENT BACK TO SLEEP

Was Going to Him Dead Within Few Hours & Had Not Been Missed by Family

Sandusky, Ohio, Feb. 17.—F. F. Brightman, a manufacturer, shot and and instantly killed David Kimball, 36, a teamster, who was trying to enter Brightman's home early yesterday. Brightman, aroused from his sleep by the burglar, who was trying to raise a window, drew a revolver from under his pillow and fired. Kimball leaves a widow and child living here. Brightman did not know he had killed Kimball until the police found his body in the snow.

STOKES BLAMES THE JIU-JITSU FOR HURT

New York, Feb. 17.—W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire horseman who was shot by Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, the show girls, last June, has consulted an expert to determine if his present ill-health is due to his receiving what is known as the death blow in a jiu jitsu attack upon him by three Japanese. The Japanese attacked Mr. Stokes in the apartment of the young women, after he had been shot. To E. Marshall Allen, an expert in jiu jitsu, Mr. Stokes has written: "Would you kindly inform me if there is such a blow in jiu jitsu as the death blow, and whether it is over the kidney; whether it is the breaking of the left kidney, where the person does not die at once, but dies afterward from the bruising of the kidney."

Mr. Allen was ill, but Mrs. Allen declared her husband had written Mr. Stokes that there was such a blow. Stokes has long been ill of an abscess of the left kidney.

BOLD ROBBERY IN MONTREAL

Jeweler Was Assaulted and Robbed--Police Capture Suspect

Montreal, Feb. 17.—A desperate daylight robbery with violence took place here this morning, when a Notre Dame street jeweller named Cohen, was robbed of diamonds that were worth $390 and cash to the extent of $800, by two nervy thieves.

Cohen was unlocking his safe when he was told to put up his hands. Turning round he looked into the muzzles of two revolvers. He made a grab for one, and one of the burglars hit him over the head, knocking him unconscious.

They then grabbed all the loose diamonds around and rifled the safe.

Cohen soon recovered and staggered to the door of his store, called for assistance, his summons being answered by a policeman. The officer saw a man running away, and after a stern chase captured him.

The man under arrest gives his name was Feger, but it the police station denied all knowledge of the hold-up.

It is truly discouraging after we have taken the pains to learn a thing, to find out that it isn't so.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDER WAS EASILY SWINDLED

Was Robbed of $1,000, Which He Put Up as a Guarantee—Was 20 Years' Savings.

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—Louis Affonsekava, South Sea Islander, was swindled out of $1,000, his savings from twenty years of ranch work, yesterday, while he was waiting for a steamer to sail for his native land.

Strolling about town, he met two men, one of whom said he wished to give $20,000 to San Francisco's unemployed, but had to leave for the East at noon. He said he would have Affonsekava distribute the money, upon assurances of his honesty.

The Islander put up his $1,000 to show his good intentions. The philanthropic stranger stepped into a hotel lobby to call a taxi ab, taking the money with him. He has not been seen by Affonsekava since.

WEDDING BELLS

Ecclestone—Denison.

THE Manse of St. Paul's church was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Rev. Robt. Pogue, officiating, Miss Ethel Denison, a daughter of Mr. D. B. Denison, proprietor of the National Hotel, became the charming bride of Mr. Stanley Ecclestone, of the Canadian General Electric Co. The bride's wedding dress was of corded satin, trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a Juliete cape of white chiffon, ornamented with rose buds, and carried a bridal bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley. Her travelling costume was mauve velvet and toque to match. She also wore a beautiful Persian lamb and mink coat, a gift of her brother.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ecclestone, of St. Catherines, Ont. The bride was attended by Mrs. A. W. McCarthy, of Toronto, whilst the groom's brother, Mr. J. W. Ecclestone acted as best man. After the ceremony, the happy couple returned to the National where a private but recherche dejeuner was served. They left on the afternoon train for Toronto and U.S. points. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ecclestone will reside in Peterborough.

Watson—Preston.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at 478 Rubidge street, on Saturday morning about 10 o'clock, when Mr. Isaac Nelson Watson of the city and Miss Mabel Preston, of Lakefield were married by Rev. James Rollins, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Only immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Watson will reside at 478 Rubidge street.

Bohn—Kendal.

Saturday afternoon a merry chime of the bells of St. John's church announced to the world that Miss Alice E. Kendal had become the bride of Mr. Albert E. Bohn. Rev. Canon Davidson officiated whilst Mr. Dewey officiated at the organ and played the wedding march.

BANDITS FOILED SIGNAL IGNORED

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 17.—Robbers who last night held up train No. 11, a New York-St. Louis mail train on the Vandalia Railway at Liggett, Ind., failed to obtain any plunder, apparently through a mistake in signals among the bandits.

As the train approached Liggett, one of the band riding the tender, pulled the bell cord. The signal was wrong, and when the train did not stop the robber climbed over the tender and began firing at the engine crew. One shot knocked a cigar from the mouth of William Davis, the engineer. When the train was brought to a stop, it was near a telegraph tower.

FRIGHTENED AWAY.

The robbers evidently had planned to stop the train near a ravine where several men were in hiding. They attempted to open the mail cars, but were frightened away.

Davis, who had crawled from his cab, ran to the tower and sent word to the city. Just after his message had been forwarded the wires were cut.

A special train carrying police and Deputy Sheriffs was rushed to Liggett, but the robbers had escaped before the officers arrived. Bloodhounds have been given the trail.

After a delay of more than an hour the train proceeded to St. Louis.

PRINCESS THEATRE

SPECIAL
Big Feature Film
"ROMEO & JULIET"
SHAKESPEAR'S MASTERPIECE IN MOTION PICTURES.

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

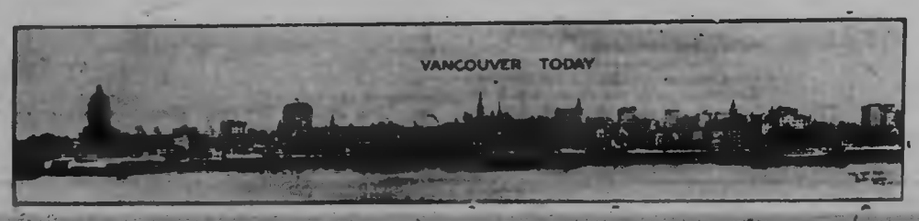
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business-men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jf L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B,C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited
432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid.. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms 1/10 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

GIANTISM A DISEASE

Few Giants Live Longer Than Twenty-Three Years

In a lecture on "Giants and Pygmies," at the Royal Institution, Professor Arthur Keith referred to the disease of giantism, called croamegaly, in which the forehead, nose, and jaws became larger, and the hands and feet became rough and larger. Very few giants lived longer than twenty-three years. There was no such thing as a giant race, and a man of over seven feet was a diseased product, and not a giant. He had heard recently of a Guardsman, only eighteen years of age, who was six feet eight inches, and growing rapidly. In that case, no doubt, they had a real giant. The problem of growth was most marvellous, and he held out hopes that science might not only add to our stature, but the time might come when a doctor would be able to make a nose grow to any desired shape.

MOST CLEVER OF DOGS

Poodles are Affectionate and Have Wonderful Reasoning Power

The Queen of Sweden is very fond of dogs. One of her pets is a small black poodle of the name of Gogo. Gogo is devoted to his mistress, and accompanies her everywhere.

The Queen of Sweden is not the only one who has discovered that poodles make the most attractive pets. They are amongst the most clever of dogs, having wonderful powers of reasoning, and being capable of the deepest affection.

Dogs of this kind can be taught to do all manner of tricks, and their alertness of brain places them apart from other animals. A story is told of a famous poodle, belonging to a shoeblack who plied his trade on the Pont Neuf, Paris.

The clever creature would in some way or other soil the boots of the passers-by, so that his master, halfway across the bridge might earn a few honest sous by cleaning them.

Treat a poodle with firmness, kindness and perseverance and you can do almost anything with him; but the great secret if you would train him well is first of all to gain his affection. The rest is then comparatively easy.

Most poodles are kept in the house, or in enclosed, carefully protected kennels, so they make splendid pets, and are easily taught cleanly habits. Small-sized poodles are now much in vogue.

Some folks award the palm for intelligence to the white poodle, and next to him the black, but, taken all round, poodles of any color are remarkably "cute."

ANTS' IRRESISTIBLE MARCH

As Straight, It Is Said, As a Roman Road

Eye-witnesses of the marches which ants make aver that when they come to an obstacle they go through it, or over it, or take it with them. They march as straight as a Roman road. Human occupants fly when an ant army takes its way through a house occurring on its line of march. The legions pass on and destroy nothing but such as will serve as food, but after they have gone not a beetle, a scorpion, a rat, or a mouse, or an insect or a reptile of any size, shape or name, remains. All have been eaten by the army. It is on record that one of these moving companies was obstructed in its passage by an elephant. It took the army eight hours to pass that spot, and then there remained nothing but the picked bones of the elephant.

INDESTRUCTIBLE STAIRS

No appreciable wear is noticeable on a stairway in a section of the Paris subway where carborundum crystals were mixed with the concrete of which the stairs were made. More than 14,000,000 people passed up and down the stairs during the time observations were taken.

It is better to save lives than to save rates.—Alderman Fildes.

If ignorance were really bliss the world would be much happier.—Mansfield.

Moral sentiment, like cleanliness, should be practised in private.—A. H. Waite.

Some strand of our own misdoing is involved in every quarrel.—R. L. Stevenson.

CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS

A Magic Lantern Showed a Drunkard in the Hands of the Devil

An interesting story telling of a novel cure for drunkenness comes from a village on the Bober. A newly-married Czech workman gave way to drink, and created unseemly disturbances in the house in which he lived. All efforts to induce him to give up the habit were in vain. Even corporal punishment administered by a person of whom he stood in awe had no effect. A little boy in the house in which he lived had a magic lantern given to him on his birthday, and it occurred to one of the tenants that the present might be utilised in curing the drunkard, who was known to be of a superstitious character.

Among the pictures shown by the lantern was one representing a drunkard in the hands of the devil. The drunkard was supposed to be on his way to the place of torment.

The man came home drunk as usual one night, and on reaching his door, was thrown into a state of consternation on seeing this awful picture. He immediately sank on his knees and began to pray to the apparition for forgiveness. He promised there and then that he would give up all connection "with the other devil." He has kept his word.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for any or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

The Hog Behind the Gun.

Rod and Gun of last issue has a strong argument in favor of a stricter conservation of our wild ducks: This will appeal to all local sportsmen, that are true sportsmen. A gentleman well known in the city distinctly remembers how a gentleman from Cobourg, with the late Tom Wallis as guide, actually killed 66 ducks in one day from a blind on Sheep Island, Rice Lake. It is such bags as this that materially kill out the wild ducks of Canada. The gentleman referred to did not shoot ducks for sale, but simply to display how large a bag he could bring home. That is not sport.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq' District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

BRITISH COLUMBIA TO SETTLE STRIKES

Victoria, Feb. 16.—Interesting suggestions in legislation, which in view of the Canadian Industrial Peace Association, are likely—if given place upon the statute book—to make for the diminution of strikes and similar disturbances of business conditions, were advanced before the Premier and his full cabinet by a deputation headed by Mr. F. C. Wade, K.C., of Vancouver, president of the local industrial Peace Association; Very Rev. Archbishop McNeil, of Vancouver; Rt. Rev. Bishop McDonald, of Victoria; Mr. P. H. Scullen, general organizer of the Canadian Industrial Peace Association, and others. Mr Wade acted as principal speaker for the committee, presenting and elaborating in a comprehensive address the major features of a draft bill.

The principal feature of the suggested law for the reduction of the number of and loss by industrial crisis is practically the constitution of a special commissioner, who is to be named by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, whose function it shall be to keep closely in touch with all industrial conditions throughout the province, and upon trouble developing in any industry, through which a strike is threatened, to go to the disaffected district, carefully investigate all matters in dispute and give fullest publicity to both sides of the dispute.

PORT HOPE OFFICE VISITED BY THIEVES

The coal and wood office of J. M. Rosevear & Co., Port Hope, was burglarised a few nights ago, entrance being gained by forcing open the rear door. The safe was soaped, a soap cup being constructed at the key hole. Here the nitro glycerine was poured in and the explosion which followed blew the large door into at least fifty fragments. A large portion of the counter was also smashed by the explosion. The perpetrators received little reward, however, for their trouble, only about five dollars in silver being in the safe at the time. None of the books were damaged.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

A boat shot out from the opening in the circle of the Ring-Rock—a small boat with one man in it, and the man was rowing as though he were in a hurry.

"Keep your sail up, Elsa! We can catch him!"

"Why should we try?" asked Elsa. "Besides, I don't think we can."

The man had stopped rowing, and was running up a sail.

"This boat is a heavy sailor," Elsa went on. "I doubt if we shall gain on him now. Do you want me to try?"

She spoke listlessly. Her mother's excitement seemed absurd. But even if it were not so—if the man had found the stone jar, and was carrying it off with him now—Elsa did not know whether she wished to stop him. Yesterday she would have fought fiercely to keep the contents of that jar safe; to-day it seemed that their safety did not matter.

"No," said her mother. "Take us in quickly. He may not have found the thing. Anyway, I must know at once."

She was trembling with excitement, but Elsa was quite calm. It seemed almost as though the hope, while it left the daughter dead, was pulsing with strong life in the mother. But it was not the same hope. The things they desired were not the same now—probably never had been, perhaps never would be the same.

"Quick!" cried Mrs. Carrington again. "If the jar is not there, we shall have to follow that man."

But the jar was where Elsa had put it.

At the first cast of her grapple, a coil of the picture wire round its neck was caught, and it came to the surface. Elsa chipped off the cap of sealing-wax with which she had covered its mouth, and then, having taken out the cork, drew from it the rolled packet. Mrs. Carrington snatched it from her hands, and tore it open.

"Wait!" cried Elsa.

There was something in her tone which made the elder woman pause.

"Well?" she asked irritably.

"Father gave me a message, which I was to deliver to you when I put that packet into your hands."

"Well?" said Mrs. Carrington again.

"He said that his last command to you, spoken through my lips, was that you were to respect the wish which you would find expressed in a letter to you which that packet contains. He said that you would understand, and that I should not."

With a frown Mrs. Carrington began to read the letter. It was a long letter, and as she read the frown deepened. When she came to the end she was silent for a moment, and then she said shortly:

"Take the boat out again."

Elsa began to scull towards the entrance. Before she had reached it, her mother gave a sudden laugh, and said:

"What do you think this packet contains, besides your father's letter to me?"

"I don't know," said Elsa. "Father spoke of proofs."

"Proofs of what? Of his innocence? You little fool!"

With something that was almost a sob, Elsa dropped her oar, and turned quickly to her mother, crying:

"Mother! was he guilty?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Carrington, and then, as Elsa buried her face in her hands, she added with a mocking laugh: "I will read you a bit of his last letter to me."

With a sneer on her lips this woman who had called Richmond Carrington husband, read to the girl who was his daughter:

"Elsa believes in me. If it is possible for that belief to live, I charge you, Rachel, not to kill it. She will look to you for guidance. I have told her that the decision rests with you whether the effort to clear my name is to be continued. Give her what reasons you will for ceasing to make the effort. Say that it is hopeless, that the difficulties are insurmountable, that our enemies are too strong—anything—except the truth, that I am guilty. You drove me into guilt; do this much by way of recompense. Perhaps—I know it is only perhaps, but I cling to the slenderest thread of hope in this—perhaps she will believe you."

Elsa sprang to her feet with a cry!

"Stop! That is his message to you? The last wish, which you were to respect?"

"It seems so," said Mrs. Carrington, smiling. "At any rate I can find no other."

"And this is how you respect it?"

"Yes," she said. "The whole thing is really too absurd."

Elsa gazed at her in trembling anger. For a moment she could not speak. Then with a low moan, she cried:

"You are my mother; but I hate you!"

CHAPTER XV.

A Message from "Croesus"

The same two men were again on duty in the Instrument Room at Ribeira Grande who had been on duty on the night when the cable message "Danger—Circus" came through. Scarborough again was sitting in front of the siphon recorder, and again Scott was lying in a cane chair, listlessly turning over the leaves of a novel. Specialization of function commonly took this form between these two.

No message were passing over the cables, and for the last half hour Scarborough had been deep in thought. The task which he had taken upon his shoulders, when he undertook to solve the mystery which surrounded Richmond Carrington's death, absorbed the thoughts of most of his waking hours now, but the solution did not come. That there had been no actual murder had been proved by the evidence of the Portuguese doctor, who had certified that death was due to the sudden bursting of an aortic aneurism of long standing. But the doctor said also that it was impossible that Carrington should not have known of the existence of this aneurism, and that it was very unlikely that he would be ignorant of the fact that any unusual exertion would almost of a certainty be fatal. So much Scarborough could understand; but what he could not understand was why Elsa's father had, by making this exertion, doomed himself to an almost inevitable death. He had little doubt that the risk had been known, and dared with full knowledge. But why? What was the motive which had been strong enough to make Richmond Carrington brave death as the price of a country walk?

Presently Scott, the man in the cane chair, yawned, and threw his book down in disgust.

"What awful rot manages to get into print nowadays," he remarked. "Sickening! I'll change places with you for a bit, Horace. A siphon-recorder that doesn't record anything is dull company, but the average modern novel is duller. Bet you half a crown you can't read through four chapters of this one. Have a look at it, and pitch it into the stove when you've done."

He came to the table and took Scarborough's place in front of the instrument. Scarborough went to the window from which he could see the white walls of the Chinelas in the distance. she knows!" he muttered.

she knows!" hem uttered.

Since the morning when she had declared passionately that she no longer desired his help Elsa had told him nothing. They had met frequently, and he had made a point of telling her everything. She knew, for instance, about the hooded woman, and she had in her possession the stone which had been found in the dead man's fingers, with the half obliterated scratches of his last message pencilled on it. But she had not met confidence with confidence. Scarborough knew nothing of the letter which her father had written to her, nothing of her reasons for going alone to the Ring-Rock. He would probably not have known even of the fact, had not the rescue of Mona de la Mar and the others from the stranded Sea-Horse made it impossible of concealment.

He had told Mona that there had been no quarrel between him and Elsa, and in their literal sense the words were true. They met as friends. But formerly they had met as something more.

Scarborough turned away from the window with a sigh. The jarring note in his love-idyll rang to-day as a very palpable discord, and he longed for the time to come when the harmony would reassert itself.

A message was coming over the cable. Scott began to take it down, and broke off with an exclamation.

"Hullo!" he said. "It's for you."

"For me? Can't be. I'm not important enough."

"Reads like it. Cable starting with 'Ambler' and ending with 'Ambler.' Ambler's the name, isn't it? Sounds like a private code. Here you are, then. Sentences arranged. Letter coming. Ambler!" Scott read the message from the flickering of the siphon, and proceeded in due form to write it down. "Why doesn't your friend use code?" he asked. "He's extravagant in words. Is this private, old man? Or may a fellow know what it refers to?"

"It is the answer to a letter I wrote some time ago," said Scarborough. "Ambler is my uncle."

"The one who, to encourage thrift in the young, puts three sovereigns on the top of every one you show him at the end of the year? That uncle?"

"Yes," said Scarborough.

Scott whistled. "Then 'Finances arranged' sounds as though it might mean something handsome", said he. "What does 'Go in and win' mean? Stop, I'll guess. The girl at the Chinelas? Right?"

"Yes, right," said Scarborough, quietly.

Scott jumped up with a laugh.

"Then off you go!" he cried; "and good luck to you! I'll get one of the other men to take your duty. Don't waste time. Croesus, in the form of Uncle Ambler, promises over the submarine cable—excellent institution, the submarine cable!—to pay for the fun when you're married. 'Finances arranged' can mean nothing else; and as for 'letter coming,' I shouldn't wait for it. 'Go in and win,' he says. Why don't you go?"

Scarborough had thrown himself into the cane chair, and showed no sign of wanting to go.

"Lucky beggars some fellows are!" Scott went on, enviously. "It gives a man a pull to be born with an uncle. I've got no relative nearer than a father, worse luck!—and he's as poor as I am. Look here, why don't you do as you're told, and go in and win?"

"Because I don't think I should win if I went in now," said Scarborough simply.

"Oh, that's it, is it?" said the other man with a laugh. "Did you hint as much to Croesus? His message doesn't suggest that you did?"

"I didn't." said Scarborough.

"But you've taken to doubting lately? Do you know, a countryman of mine once put the thing rather neatly: 'He either fears his fate too much, or his deserts are small.' You know the rest."

"Yes," said Scarborough. "The man who wrote that was hanged. I don't think Graham of Montrose is quite a safe guide, though he was your countryman. I'm not going."

"Then you fear your fate too much?" said Scott.

"Or my deserts are small. Have it which way you like. And suppose we drop the subject."

When Scarborough wrote the letter to which this cablegram was an answer, Richmond Carrington was still alive, and the note of discord had not yet sounded in the love idyll. He had told his uncle that he meant to ask Elsa to be his wife, and he had not suggested that there was any doubt. But a mere clerk in the Cable Company is not in a position to marry, and the reason of Scarborough's letter was that he wanted to know whether his uncle's former offer of a place in his city house was still open to him. He had stated his reasons frankly, saying that he had no newly-developed desire to spend his days on a stool in a City office, but that he had a very present need of the £300 a year which his uncle had offered as a commencing salary if he agreed to sit on that stool. If the offer was still open, he would close with it, because on £300 a year he thought that Elsa and he could manage, especially as his uncle had himself that, given good work, the salary need not long remain at that somewhat modest figure.

This, then, was the answer. And had other things not happened meanwhile, he would have looked forward with eager hope to the letter which was coming; for from past experience he knew that his uncle's generosity, at the least, was not likely to fall short of his promises. 'Finances arranged' would mean all that he had asked for, and probably more. It was a highly satisfactory answer. But then other things had happened meanwhile.

One of the Station servants came into the room with a note. Scarborough read it, and got quickly out of his chair.

"Who is next on duty?" he asked Scott.

Scarborough turned to the servant.

"See if you can find Mr. Mason or Mr. Davitt," he said. "Ask one of them to be good enough to relieve me at once. Say that it is important."

The man went out, and Scott looked up with a grin.

"That puts it not unto the touch, to win or lose it all,'" he quoted again. "Changed your mind, Horace? Going to put it to the touch, after all?"

Scarborough looked at him with a frown, which slowly changed into a smile.

"Really, I don't know," he said. "There's just a chance that I may. But I don't think so."

"I would if I were you," said Scott with decision. "Think of 'Finances arranged!' Why, man, it would almost be worth it if she were an ogress! And she isn't that."

"No," said Scarborough, "she isn't. She's a girl in trouble. Shout to me if either of those men turn up. I'm going to my room for a bat.'

The note which had caused this sudden commotion in the Instrument-room, and had driven away completely Scarborough's mood of despondency, was from Elsa. "I want your help. Can you meet me on the road to the Caldeira? I am bicycling." That was all, but the receipt of it had put new life and hope into him. For what did it mean?

In the first place it meant that some new trouble had come to the girl, or she would never have asked for his help. He knew how stubborn her pride was, and he felt that if her pride had had to bow to her necessity, the need must be serious. The thought hardly so much as damped his elation, for she had appealed to him—that was the important thing! They would fight in common henceforth, and between them he thought they had grit enough to conquer.

He found her waiting for him about half a mile from the Chinelas.

She received him with a curious shrinking, that was unlike her. He thought almost that she avoided looking in his face.

"What is the matter, Elsa?" he asked, tenderly.

She raised her head, and looked into his eyes. She was deathly pale, and she seemed to be struggling to keep back her tears.

"The matter is," she said, "that I have been a fool. I want to beg your pardon."

"You have nothing to beg my pardon for," he said.

"I have. You told me the truth that morning when we were waiting for the doctor, and I did not believe you. I know now that it was the truth."

She spoke calmly, but it was easy to see that she had suffered and was suffering now and the note of misery in her voice wrung a cry from him.

"Elsa!"

She drew back from him, for he had stepped close to her. Had she not moved, he would have taken her in his arms.

"Do you think I blamed you?" he asked. "I accused your father of a crime. You defended him. Do you think I blamed you for that?"

"Yes, I thought you did," she answered.

"I honored you for it."

She shook her head. "You honored me for my loyalty, and despised me for my blindness," she said. "No, don't deny it. I know you did. But my blindness has been taken away—my eyes have been opened, cruelly opened, and I know that you were right."

"About the diamonds?" he asked gently.

"About the twenty thousand pounds which my father stole from Margaret Ryan," she said steadily. "I know now that he did steal that money. He deceived me—but I hope—I think—it was because he loved me."

Her voice quivered a little, and Scarborough looked away. He understood that she had to say these things, but he would not watch her while she said them. She was quick to see the delicacy of thought which prompted him to avert his eyes, and she was grateful. Presently in a firmer voice she went on:

"I continued to force myself to believe in his innocence, to trick myself into a blind disregard of all proofs to the contrary—till yesterday. Yesterday it became impossible to do so any longer."

She paused and Scarborough helped her out.

"What made it impossible?" he asked.

"My eyes were opened," she repeated.

"Tell me how?"

Elsa looked up at him with a dreary little smile.

"They were opened by my mother," she said. "You knew that my mother had come, didn't you? Well, it was she who put the truth so plainly before me."

"What did she say?"

Elsa's eyes lighted up suddenly, and her next words were spoken with a cold bitterness. The tones were level, but anger rang in them.

"What did she say?" she repeated. "She said things that made me tell her that I hated her, though she was my mother. She was cruel; she said bitter things about my father whom I loved, and she sneered at the love which I know he had for me. Perhaps it was necessary that I should learn the truth about him. I hope for her conscience sake that it was. Perhaps it was right that she should be the one to make me see it; but she need not have done it with a sneer at him, and a mocking laugh for me! I have tried to forget her tones, to forget her laugh, and the sneer on her face; because I want to forget that I told my own mother that I hated her. But I can't forget. And there was one thing that she said, Horace, which made me send that note to you to-day. She says that my father had those diamonds, here, in San Miguel!"

Scarborough started, and asked eagerly.

"Does she know where they are?"

"She thinks she can find them. She believes that he met his death in the effort to secure their safety. She means to get them. I want you to help me to prevent her."

"I will," said Scarborough. "But, Elsa, remember they are neither hers nor yours. If you and I find them we shall have to restore them to the people we wrongly think injured."

(To be Continued)

A handful in a litre

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

Packed in 1/2 lb., 1 lb. & 2 lb. tins. For sale in stores, offices and public lodges.

For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Uaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

UNEXCELLED TRAIN SERVICE

FAST TIME AND ATTENTION

WINNIPEG	SASKATOON
EDMONTON	REGINA
BRANDON	CALGARY
BANFF	LAGGAN
NELSON	ROSSLAND
SPOKANE	VANCOUVER
VICTORIA	SEATTLE
TACOMA	PORTLAND

Standard and Tourists Sleeping Cars

Via Canada's Greatest Highway

W. McILROY, - - - Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Ross, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

Millbrook Law Students Success.

Two Millbrook boys, George Walsh and Wellington Pickup, who topped the list at the Christmas exams in law at Toronto in a big second year class in the order above named.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures $2.00 Wholesale to All

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. - Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

16-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic	Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion	Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada	Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1913 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL	$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND	700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS	2,100,540.00

Savings Department

3 1/2 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

SIMPLE MOP WRINGER

Pail Removable From Machine Moving About on Castors

A simple and effective mop wringer has been put on the market by a New York man, a feature of the apparatus being that the bucket and the wringing machine are separate and not one fastened to the other. The wringer proper is at the top of a malleable iron frame that has a stand at the bottom to hold the pail and can be easily moved about on its four casters. The pail is filled with water and placed on the stand and the entire room can be cleaned without removing or lifting the bucket. The wringer has no devices to catch dirt, and all back into the water. The machine is said to be easier to operate than the type which requires the carrying about of the bucket from place to place, and is also declared to keep the mop much cleaner than most wringers.

No Need to Lift Bucket

For Burns

The following mixture is excellent for burns, and should always find a place in the medicine cupboard.

Mix together equal parts of sweet oil and lime-water, and bottle it. It should be applied on soft rags or with a piece of cotton wool, and is most effective. Shake well before using.

MARRIAGE AFTER DEATH

Remarkable Ceremony Performed in a Japanese Village

The marriage is reported of two dead lovers from the Japanese village of Shizuoka. A young couple fell in love, and sought their parents' sanction to their union. For some reason this was withheld in the case of the girl, and the broken-hearted couple resolved to commit shinju rather than be separated. The two embarked on a fishing boat, and when some distance from the shore bound themselves together with cloth brought with them for the purpose, and threw themselves into the sea.

The following morning the couple were missed from their homes and the matter was communicated to the police. Later on the bodies of the young couple were washed ashore, and, after the official examination delivered to the parents. On hearing of the tragedy the mayor of the village was much affected, and, calling on the bereaved parents, proposed that the wedding ceremony be performed over the dead bodies, so that the lovers ceased might be united in the other world. The parents agreed, and the ceremony was carried out in due form, even to the exchange of presents between the two families.

Good News for Farmers.

Our farmers will be glad to note that the Dominion Government is bringing in a bill entitled "The Agricultural Aid Act." By this the Governor-in-Council, may in any year and upon such terms and subject to such conditions as are prescribed by order in council, grant to any province, for the encouragement of agriculture, a subsidy not exceeding such sum as may in such year be voted by Parliament for that purpose. The Minister of Agriculture, with the authority of the Governor in Council may enter into an agreement with the Government of any province setting forth the terms upon which such subsidy is granted.

The Rob Roy is Sold.

Mr. Elijah Windover, Rockcroft, P.O., was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a friendly call. While in the city Mr. Windover purchased that smart little steam launch, the "Rob Roy," formerly owned by the late Mr. R. M. Roy. At present Mr. Windover considers running the Rob Roy from Buckhorn as a pleasure boat for tourists during the season. This boat will carry from twenty to thirty passengers, and, owing to her well known good name for safety and speed, Mr. Windover has certainly secured a bargain.

Advertise In The Times

Bought Goods in Peterborough.

Norwood Register: Mr. John Baskin informs us that he intends erecting a new hotel in Norwood this spring. Mr. Baskin was in Peterborough yesterday purchasing brick and other material for the building and in a few days he expects to begin getting things together so as to be able to start building operations. The building, we understand, is to be of white brick and will be erected on the south side of Peterborough street. The main building will be 32 by 42 feet, three stories high.

Local Man Writes From West.

We were yesterday shown a letter by Mr. Frank Montgomery, of the Montgomery House, received by him from his son, Mr. W. F. C. Montgomery. The latter has been visiting different parts of the West. Mr. Frank Montgomery owns considerable property in Vonda, Sask., and is naturally much interested in conditions there. His son writes to say that he has seen farmers bring wheat for a distance of over twenty-five miles, drawn by ox teams, for sale or shipment and then not be able to dispose of it. This caused partly by lack of cars and partly by the fact that all the graineries and elevators are absolutely full of wheat. Wheat is even stored in waggon boxes. However, we have reason to know that the railroads are carefully considering this shortage of cars and will soon arrange to eliminate this difficulty.

Hon. Sam. Hughes Presents Cup

Lindsay Post: Mr. A. M. Paton, president of the Town Hockey League, has received a communication from Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the effect that he will donate a handsome silver cup to be competed for annually at a tournament in Lindsay by teams from the counties of Victoria and Haliburton. The Minister's kindness will be appreciated by the teams of the two Counties.

Peterborough Folks at St. Helens.

Hastings Star: Miss Annie Reid, of Peterborough, is visiting her cousin, Miss Maggie Oakman, St. Helens.

Miss Alice Stenton, of Peterborough, has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Beavis, St. Helens.

Does Your Back Ache?

IF YOU HAVE BLADDER OR URINARY TROUBLES AND WEAKNESS OF THE KIDNEYS —READ BELOW.

Your back aches and fairly groans with the distress of kidney trouble. You're discouraged, but you must not give up. The battle can be quickly won when Dr. Hamilton's Pills are set to work. These kidneys are bound to bring new health and vitality to young and old alike. Even one box proves their marvelous power. Continue this great healer, and your kidneys will become as strong, as vigorous, as able to work as new ones.

Remember this: Dr. Hamilton's Pills are purely vegetable; they do cure liver, bladder and kidney trouble. They will cure you, or your money back.

Mrs. W. U. Rossiter, wife of a well-known merchant in Kensington, writes as follows:

"Ten years ago my kidney trouble started. I suffered dreadful pains in my spine and around my waist, my back feeling as if hot irons were running through. I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, was pale, thin and very nervous. Cruel headaches, and despondency added to my burden. Not until I had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills did I get any relief. They proved capital and helped me immediately. Eight boxes made me well, and now I do my own housework, feel and look the picture of health."

Some samples restoration to health is certain with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Refuse substitutes. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1912.

PREMIER McBRIDE ON B. C.

Premier McBride of British Columbia, evidently has every faith in the future of Canada's far western Province. He says: "Two years ago this part of Canada could lay claim to about 70 miles of railways. If the plans that are at present under way mature I would venture the prediction that [illegible] able to claim upwards of 700 miles of railway. And if these 70 miles referred to were responsible for the great development that has resulted in the advancement that we see today particularly in the city of Victoria I put it to you, what will 700 miles mean for the city in three years from now?"

TRUSTING PRISONERS.

Faith in human nature is often severely tried. Yet the man or woman who believes and is deceived is more to be envied than he or she who never trusts in anyone.

One case of gratitude from an unexpected quarter will make amends for many disappointments. So Gov. West of Oregon may take heart of grace and trust to be pleasantly surprised by some of his "honor" prisoners, says the Rochester Post-Express. Instead of confining criminals in jail, Mr. West sent them to a construction camp near the state asylum. There they have remained under severer supervision than can be maintained by a single foreman. The men are put on their honor not to run away. Up to the present, however, it must be admitted that their honor has proved somewhat elastic. Several of the men have run away. Seeing that one man was under sentence of eighteen months' confinement in the penitentiary and another to undergo a term of two years [illegible] the temptation to be a fugitive from the camp may be [illegible] idealist, it can hardly be said to be contrary to human nature. Man loves liberty, and—even though he has given his word to stay—it is, perhaps, too much to expect a prisoner not to take his liberty, if an open road is before him and no one to say him nay.

Yet, there is something fine in Gov. West's belief in human nature. Colebridge says that the one hope of humanity lies in the corrigibility of his errors. To a certain extent the criminal has shown himself an enemy of society. His hope—and ours—is that he may be made to perceive, not only that it is best for all concerned that we should make up and be friends, but also—and this is probably what Gov. West had in mind when he hit upon his Quixotic expedient—that society is willing to give him a chance to be a self-respecting citizen. If his "honor" plan is successful in, say 50 per cent. of the cases to which it is applied the governor of Oregon will probably feel satisfied.

THE BIG POULTRY INDUSTRY.

Twenty-one years ago the total value of poultry on this continent was not much over $350,000,000, and that was considered a splendid showing. For ten years the business grew slowly: it was then regarded as a "pin-money" occupation for women and children. In 1900 the industry started upwards with leaps and bounds, keeping up such a fast pace that today only corn, hay and cotton surpass it in value of all farm products.

The year of the great growth in value of the poultry products was 1907, when a jump was made from $500,000,000 to $600,000,000. Again in 1908 the gain was nearly $100,000,000, and the three following years have showed gains of over half the amount annually. The day is not far distant when the poultry industry will be the billion-dollar industry, the leader among all the live stock and grain growing industries of the country.

One mighty factor has been the awakening of farmers to the possibilities of intelligent poultry culture. Until within recent years the average farmer paid very little attention to his poultry and his flock was made up of a heterogeneous conglomeration of nondescript fowls, inbred, emaciated, non-productive birds that, instead of paying a profit, were an absolute expense.

Instead of having warm quarters in which to roost, they were compelled to roost in the trees, on the fence, in the pig pen or the cow stable, or wherever they could find it, and to eat snow when they were thirsty in the winter time. They were exposed to all kinds of weather, and stood around on one foot half the time, hungry and cold and not caring whether they lived or died. Under such conditions winter eggs were out of the question, and in the spring the hens stole away under the barn or out in the weeds and laid a clutch of eggs in obedience to the maternal desire to bring forth their young, though it would seem that the treatment they had received would have annihilated all the maternal desire and instinct they ever possessed.

But to-day the farmer has awakened to the possibilities of poultry culture and is giving this branch of his business the same care and attention that he gives to other branches. He has discovered that instead of being a nuisance, as he formerly considered the chickens, they are a source of profit—in fact, the most profitable live stock on the farm when properly taken care of.

He has also learned that there is something in blood and breeding as well as in care and feeding; that there is all the difference in the world between the nondescript, emaciated hen and the pure-bred, vigorous hen that has by careful breeding been perfected as an egg-producer and the producer of strong, vigorous progeny. On the average farm nowadays we find flocks of purebred fowls, full of vigor and stamina and bred to the highest degree of productiveness, which means profit. And they are housed in warm, sanitary houses and properly fed and cared for. The natural result is an enormous increase in eggs and fowls for market.

The incubator, or modern artificial hatcher, has played a most important part in the development of the [illegible] industry. [illegible] in this country where from 5,000 to 100,000 chicks are hatched annually. The town lot poultryman and farmer are also using the artificial hatchers and brooders with the best of success.

A GREAT EVENT

Teacher:—"What great event occurred in the year 1888?"

Small Boy (after a pause):—"Please, ma'am, I was born then."

WHERE IS THE LIGHTHOUSE?

A lady advertised for a girl "To do light housework."

Among the replies she received a letter from an applicant who said her health needed sea air, and asked if the lady would kindly inform her "where the lighthouse was situated."

TIRED ALREADY

Mr. Jenkins was wearing a very woebegone look when his friend [illegible] met him the other day.

"You look tired. What's the matter?" [illegible] Robson.

"It's work!" replied Jorkins. "Work, work, work, from five in the morning till eight at night!"

"Poor chap!" sympathized Bobson. "No wonder you look tired. How long have you had the job?"

"I start to-morrow."

BLACK AND BLUE

"Your husband is not looking well to-night, Mrs. Rhymer."

"He isn't, and I'm not surprised at it."

"No? Has he been overworking?"

"It isn't that so much, it is his originality. Why, that man is struck by so many original ideas that his mind must be one mass of bruises."

WHAT A POSTMAN WALKS

An official walk of 200,000 miles has been accomplished by Mr. Leonard Wavell, a rural postman of Sandown, Isle of Wight, just retired from the service. For the past eighteen years he has daily walked from Sandown to Newchurch, via Apse Heath and Borthwood, and back, a distance of about twenty miles. During the previous thirteen years he covered the same district from Newport, the total distance covered being about the same. Thus for thirty-one years he has walked [illegible] miles.

BEARING THEM CHEERFULLY

They were in the train, and the solemn, sad-faced man was full of philosophy.

"Life," he remarked, heaving a soulful sigh, "is full of trials."

Everyone yawned—except the prosperous-looking man with the clean-shaven face and steely eyes. The remark seemed to cheer him up.

"It is!" he agreed quickly. "And I'm delighted it is so!"

"Delighted!" gasped the sad philosopher. "My dear sir! Why should you be glad?"

"Because," came the prompt and cheery answer, "I'm a lawyer!"

ECONOMICAL COMPLIMENTS

"Before you kiss me, Horace, let me tell you that Fred has given Kitty a diamond ring. You have never given me one."

"Dearest, it is only girls who are not precious in themselves who require the aid of precious stones."

"Oh, you may kiss me twice, Horace."

SEALING-WAX LANGUAGE

The Very Latest for Lovers Comes From Paris

Lovers have enjoyed various "languages." There is the language of the postage-stamp, for instance, the manner in which the stamp is affixed to the envelope denoting the feelings of the writer.

The very latest "language" for lovers comes from Paris. It is known as the language of sealing-wax.

Edwin expresses his emotions by the color of the wax with which he seals his letters to "her." If the lover is happy, sure of his sweetheart's love, and enjoying all love's joys, then he must use a rose-colored wax. If, however, he is worried or melancholy, having quarrelled with Angelina, for instance, it is the correct thing for him to show his depression by using a dull grey sealing-wax.

One can foresee numerous embarrassing complications arising from the use of this "love wax." Supposing, for some reason unknown to Edwin, his sweetheart should be disagreeable and vexed. Then, when she writes to him her letters will be sealed with the dull grey wax. This will be worrying to Edwin. How can he reply? If he seals his letter with the rose wax it will seem heartless; if he uses the grey, in sympathy with her, she will think that he is also disagreeable and vexed.

When asking a favor in a letter the envelope should be sealed with pale green wax. When a favor is being granted or you wish to show that you agree with certain propositions, a bright blue sealing-wax should be used. When corresponding with a girl with whom you are not on very intimate terms, but whom you wish to know better, a violet wax is the correct color. If the girl is cold or formal, and not anxious to encourage you, she will reply in an envelope bearing brown sealing-wax.

This will probably make you turn red, send you into a brown study, and give you the blues. If she is writing to another fellow and using the rose sealing-wax to him, you will perhaps turn green with envy and wax [illegible]

ELEGANCE OF MAN

A German Paper Hands Out Some Advice to the "Well Dressed"

An amusing article on "The Elegance of Man" appears in a German newspaper. It complains that men no longer trouble about their dress. They are content to be "clothed," and they don't care a bit whether they look "elegant" or not. But the most pitiful object of all, according to this critical sheet, is that man who, not knowing the rules of the game, tries to dress well. The worst offender, says the critic, is the Parisian with his narrow cut trousers, his pointed shoes, and his flowing cravat, and coat that is cut too close to the figure. He is all that a man should not be, with his little cylindrical hat set on the side of his head to crown his badly cut clothes.

The article states that the best [illegible] are [illegible] found of dreary colors. In Brussels you may occasionally meet a well-dressed man, whereas in Holland there are no "elegant" men. And the Germans do not look well in mufti, not even the Emperor. The Kaiser, we are told, wears his trousers too short; the Crown Prince is too much influenced by French fashions. As for the rest of the German royal family, they don't know the slightest thing about clothes! The rules laid down by this German newspaper are very simple, though not always followed by those who wish to appear smartly dressed. You must never wear false cuffs or shirt fronts, or a tie that is made up. Your tie must moreover completely cover the stud of your collar. Brown boots must never be worn with town clothes, and never be fastened with buttons. That is the unpardonable sin. Goloshes are anathema, so are boots with rubber heels and rubber tops. Sticks and umbrellas with ornamented handles must never be carried; they should be as simple as possible. And so should watch chains and tie pins, and we must be very careful about the size of our cigar and cigarette cases. Many a tailor has been driven to despair by the carelessness of his clients in carrying unwieldy things in the pockets. If we follow all these rules we may succeed in being "elegant."

A MAMMOTH UMBRELLA

In our own country we hear frequent grumblings about the absurd and unnecessary size of certain fashionable hats worn by ladies; but let us be thankful for the fact that ladies' parasols remain a normal and sensible size, instead of following the awful example of the royal umbrella belonging to the king of a certain African tribe. This umbrella is so enormous that it will shelter scores, and actually requires two dozen bearers to transport it easily from place to place. The king walks under the umbrella whenever the sun becomes unpleasantly hot, and sometimes the royal guests are received under this Goliath among sunshades, which is as much an essential emblem of state as the Lord Mayor's coach.

PINEAPPLES FOR SORE THROAT

Of the fruits which enter so largely into the vegetarian diet, practically all possess a twofold value, for even the pineapple is credited with being an ideal fruit for those who cannot readily digest meat and the casine of milk, on account of the ferment bromeline contained in the juice; and it is also useful to sufferers from sore throat, and in breaking, softening, and then causing to disappear the membrane which forms at the back of the diphtheric throat.

Wheat in Australia

The total area under wheat in Australia this season will be 7,307,000 acres, an increase of more than half a million acres on last year's area.

Population of Paris

According to the census returns just published, the population of Paris is now 2,846,986, an increase of 124,255 since 1906.

Decayed Teeth

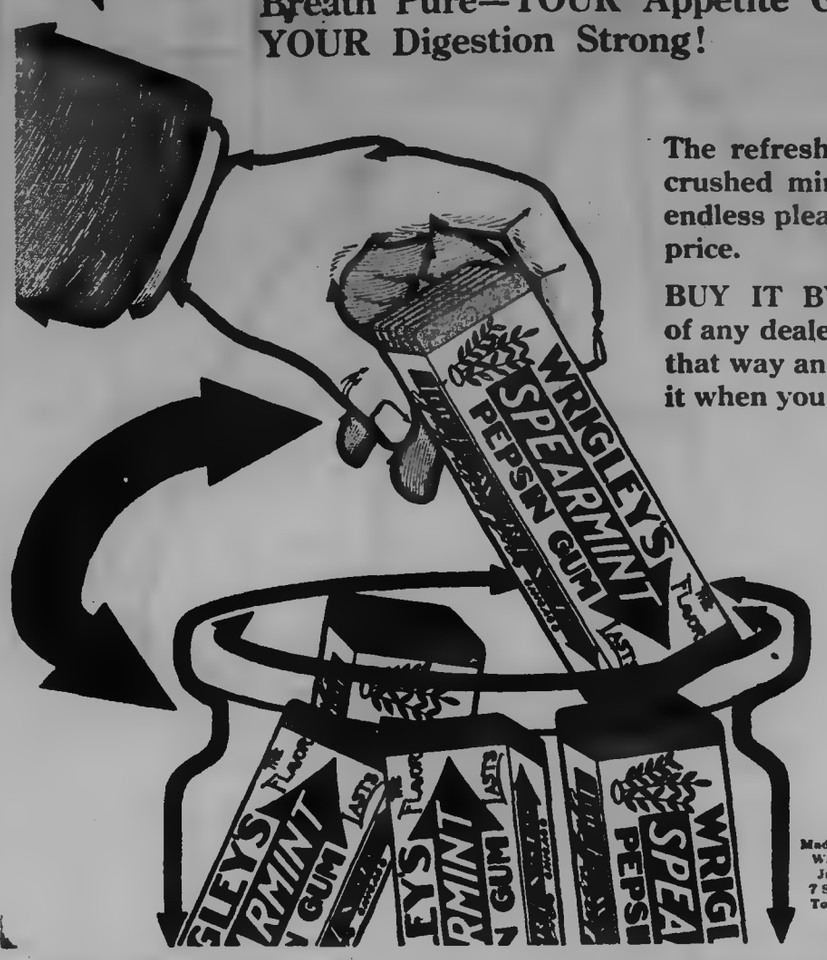
Following a medical examination, 78 per cent. of Surrey school children have been found to possess decayed teeth.

A World's Record

By making a flight in an aeroplane carrying twelve passengers, the French airman, Sommer, recently constituted a world's record.

The Familiar Confection

Will Make YOUR Teeth Bright—YOUR Breath Pure—YOUR Appetite Good—YOUR Digestion Strong!



The refreshing juice of the crushed mint leaves is an endless pleasure for a little price.

BUY IT BY THE BOX—of any dealer. It costs less that way and you will have it when you want it.

Look for the Spear

The Flavor Lasts

Made in Canada
Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Ltd.
7 Scott Street, Toronto, Ont.

BEST RACE COURSES

Located in the Neighborhood of the Capital of France

W. E. Snider, who has been touring the Mediterranean [illegible] in search of [illegible] racecourses. He says: "Marcuil is a pretty little place right in the park in the suburbs of Paris. They close off a part of the park while the racing is in progress. On the other side of the park is Longchamps, where racing is under the same conditions, and you talk about a race track and grounds, why Belmont Park or Sheepshead Bay is a huckster's garden in comparison, and the racing is conducted far more liberally than in the United States. Jockeys can stroll around the grounds with their colors on. They are presumed to be honest until proved to the contrary. But if they do get you—well, it's goodby.

"You don't hear of a purse of less than $1000, and thirty-two different tracks within a radius of twenty miles of Paris racing on one Sunday. Any kind of a horse can win, if you only pick the right place to start him.

"All the running in the winter is in the South of France, and don't you think it's like our winter racing. Plenty of stakes worth from $5000 to $12,000 to the winner. They start around Paris again on Feb. 15. It's all trotting now in this part of the country. I am anxious to see the trotters perform over here. They trot on the turf, the same as they run, and they go rain or shine; no postponements on account of weather in France. The trotting races are most all dashes or handicaps, and catch-weights."

HAWAIIAN FOR SWEDEN

Expert Confirms Reports of Marvelous Swimming by Kahanamoku

Jamison Handy, of the Chicago Athletic Association, former one-mile swimming champion and record holder of America, who recently returned from a trip around the world, confirmed the cabled news of the sensational sprinting performances of Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu, and expressed the opinion that the times credited to the Hawaiian are in no way exaggerated.

Handy describes Kahanamoku as a giant, ebony-skinned native about twenty years old, standing over six feet in stockings, weighing about 190 pounds, and a magnificent specimen of manhood, straight, well-muscled, and perfectly formed. He swims a smooth, rythmic crawl stroke very much resembling that of Harry Hebner of the Illinois Athletic Club, the National 50-yard champion and record holder, and goes through the water with shoulders high above the surface, moving at fast speed.

In last year's championship, Kahanamoku won both the 50 and 100 yards titles, covering the shorter distance in 24 1-5 seconds and the longer in 55 2-5 seconds, over a strightaway open-water course. The century mark established new world's figures which are likely to be recognized as a standard, for four watchs agreed on the time, and the local authorities intend to apply for the record.

Enthusiastic supporters of aquatic sports in the Hawaiian Islands are so anxious to see the new prodigy pitted against the world's best sprinters that they have subscribed to a purse in order to send him to the Olympic Games next summer in Sweden, where he would represent Uncle Sam in the 100-meter swim, and unless the cold water of the north breaks his form completely, they expect to see him win the event easily.

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN AND RANCH LANDS

The attention of Farmers and Stockraisers is invited to the following desirable lands in

NORTHERN SASKACTHEWAN

The lands are situate in the Port Pelly District, Northern Saskatchewan, long known as probably the richest farming district in the Province. The parcel, which contains approximately 3,681 ACRES in one compact block, is watered on the west and south sides by the Assiniboine River, and by a large creek on the east. It is well wooded, thus assuring as well as evidencing ample rainfall, and plentiful supply of cheap fuel. It is undulating and well drained, having an elevation above the river, and rising gradually from it to a height of about 60 feet, and provides many beautiful residential sites.

In the advantages it offers for mixed farming it is unique, there being some 2,400 acres clear and ready for the plow, while the balance consists of timber and excellent pasture land, admirably suited to stock-raising. The soil is a rich, black loam, from 8 to 10 inches in thickness, resting on a clay subsoil, except along the river, where it is a rich sandy loam. Crops produced on similar neighboring lands are phenomenal for their quantity and quality.

The location is within ten miles of Mikado Station, on the main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, of the Canadian Northern Railway, with good trails leading to it, and within a short distance of a school. While the settlement going on in the neighborhood is rapidly adding all the adjuncts of an up-to-date farming community.

This is an opportunity for a man with capital, business ability and practical experience. Such a man should clear his whole investment, including all improvements and equipment, in four or five years at the outside. And now is the time to purchase, as the price will shortly be advanced $5.00 per acre. Experienced men predict this land will be worth $50.00 per acre within ten years. Lands immediately adjoining, which last spring could have been bought for $14.00, are held to-day at $20.00 and $25.00 per acre.

We are also offering some 1,100 acres additional, in separate parcels of three half sections, and one quarter sections, situate in the same locality as above.

These lands were selected for the excellence of their location and the magnificent quality of their soil, which latter the official records of the Indian Agency demonstrate.

Prices, Terms and all Particulars may be had on application

F. J. BULLOCK & CO.

207 Colborne Street BRANTFORD, ONT.

HOUSEMAID'S TIDY.

Buy two margarine tubs at the grocer's—they will cost four cents each—fit one in the other, cut the inner tub two inches higher than the outside one; divide into two compartments with a piece of board; and cut a slot in the centre of the wood for lifting the tray. Take off the handle of an old bucket, and screw it on each side of the outer tub. The outer one is used for ashes, and the top one for keeping blackleads, brushes, stove polish, etc. At the shops these tidies usually cost fifty cents each; if made at home, eight cents, and they will last quite a long while.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505

Light Oil	94.00%	S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

RECORDS OF 1911

Fast Time Made by the Trotters and Pacers

The following list of records for the year just closed will be of interest to the admirers of the trotter and pacer, showing as it does the best time made on the half-mile as well as the mile tracks and also showing the world's records.

Only three of them, however, the half-mile track trotting performance of Uhlan (2.02¾), which displaced his own mark of 2.05¼ under like conditions; the 2.15 pacing mile by the yearling, Frank Perry, which removes that of Paul D. Kelly (2.20¾), and the 3-year-old pacing record of 2.05¼, made by Miss De Forrest, displacing the 2.05½ of Kiatawah and a like mark by Jim Logan, are new world's records.

It was confidently expected that Uhlan would reduce his 1910 mile of 1.58½, but the attempt was postponed front runner, and at the same time dethrone Lou Dillon, whose mark is 1.58½, butt he attempt was postponed until the Lexington meeting in October, by which time the weather was so unfavorable that after one losing mile the horse was not started again. There is no reasonable doubt, however, that had Uhlan's managers been fortunate in their choice of a day for the big trial the gelding would now hate had a mark of 1.58 or better.

Whether he ever will be able to lower his present record is doubtful, as the great trotter is to be shipped in April to Russia, and, as he goes direct from New York to Moscow and will pass the best part of two weeks making the journey, it will be necessary to condition him almost from the beginning for the miles he is to trot in other lands. In any event, he would not be up to much in April, even if his trotting was to be done in America.

	1911.	World.
Yearling trotter—Belwin McKinney	2.21¼	2.19¼
2-year-old trotter — Princess Todd	2.12¼	2.07¾
3-year-old trotter—Peter Thompson	2.07½	2.04¾
4-year-old trotter—Grace	2.05½	2.04¾
5-year-old trotter — Soprano	2.03¾	1.58½
5-yeara-ld Trotter—Billy Burk	2.03¾	1.58½
Aged trotter—Uhlan	1.59½	1.58½
Best half mile track heat—Uhlan	2.02¾	2.05¼
Yearling pacer — Frank Perry	2.15	2.20¾
2-year-old pacer—Pearly Ongale	2.15¾	2.07¾
3-year-old pacer — Miss De Forrest	2.05¼	2.05½
4-year-old pacer — Don Pronto	2.05½	2.04
5-year-old pacer — Don Densmore	2.03¼	2.02¾
Aged pacer—Minor Heir	2.00	1.55¼
Best half mile track heat —Geo. Gano	2.04½	2.01
Best half mile track heat —Alcyfras	2.04½	2.01

SPORT AND SPYING

Against a Recent Charge

London Daily Chronicle:—Sport has many enemies, we know, and among them there is a class of people who, if they had their way, would entirely sweep away every pastime, good or bad, healthy or the reverse, in the country. And now the faddists have had another opportunity presented them for decrying games, for a German contemporary gravely asserts that "England maintains an army of spies in the Fatherland," and that the organization chiefly comprises members of the best class of English society, who are so fond of sport—the more venturesome and daring the better—that spying has been taken up as one of our national pastimes! Spying certainly requires in the man who is fond of the "game" nerves of steel, and it is a well-known fact that the well-trained sportsman is the most suitable man for daring and dangerous exploits; but it is really too bad to state that sport and spying go hand in hand, and as sportsmen we protest against the imputation.

BUDD McLEAN
Centre of the Toronto Amateur Athletic Club team.

THE OLYMPIC FOR 1916

The space-killer is busy locating the Olympic Games of 1916 in Chicago, though the International Committee will not decide until 1913 or later. Germany has practically been given the option for the games to follow those at Stockholm. The International Committee deals with countries, not cities.

THE IMMORTAL WILLIAM

A motorist was stopped by a policeman, the light on his car being insufficient. He gave his card to the constable.

"G. B. Smith," read the man in blue. "Go on with you!" he exclaimed, "I want your proper name and address. We've too many Smiths about here. Now, look sharp!"

"Then," said the motorist, "if you must have it, it's William Shakespeare, Stratford-on-Avon."

"Thank you, sir," replied the policeman. "Sorry to have troubled you." And he carefully entered the particulars in his book.

RIDE SOME DAY IN GOLDEN TAXIS

A Few of the Amazing Things We May Do in the Magical Future, According to Edison

Will all the world be like a hundred years hence?

Now, but a "wizard" dare raise the curtain and disclose the secrets of the future, and what wizard can do it with as sure a hand as Thomas Alva Edison, who has wested as many secrets from jealous Nature. He alone of all men who live has the necessary courage and gift of foresight; and he has not shrunk from the venture.

Already, Edison tells us, the steam engine is emitting its last gasps. A century hence it will be as remote in antiquity as the lumbering coach of Tudor days, which took a week to travel from Yorkshire to London. By the year 2011 such railway-trains as survive will be driven at incredible speeds by electricity (which will also be the motive force of all the world's machinery), generated by "hydraulic" wheels.

But the traveller of the future will largely scorn such earth-crawling. He will fly through the air, swifter than any swallow, at a speed of two hundred miles an hour, in colossal machines which will enable him to breakfast in London; transact business in Paris, and eat his luncheon in Cheapside.

Steel Cradles for Babies

The house of the next century will be furnished from basement to attic with steel, at a sixth of the present cost—of steel so light that it will be as easy to move a sideboard as it is to-day to lift a drawing-room chair. The baby of the twenty-first century will be rocked in a steel cradle; his father will sit in a steel chair at a steel dining-table; and his mother's boudoir will be sumptuously equipped with steel furnishings, converted by cunning varnishes to the semblance of rosewood or mahogany, or any other wood her ladyship fancies.

Books of the coming century will all be printed on leaves of nickel, so light to hold that the reader can enjoy a small library in a single volume. A book two inches thick will contain forty thousand pages, the equivalent of a hundred substantial volumes of to-day; three such volumes, six inches in aggregate thickness, would suffice for all the contents of the "Encyclopaedia Britannica." And each volume would weigh less than a pound.

Already Mr. Edison can produce a pound-weight of these nickel leaves, more flexible than paper, and ten times as durable, at a cost of $1.25. In a hundred years' time the cost will probably be reduced to a tenth.

More amazing still, this American wizard sounds the death-knell of gold as a precious metal. "Gold," he says, "has even now but a few years to live; the day is near when bars of it will be as common and as cheap as bars of iron or blocks of steel." We are already on the verge of discovering the secret of transmuting metals, which [illegible] proportions." Before long it will be an easy matter to convert a truck-load of iron bars into as many bars of virgin gold.

We Shall Not be Here

In these magical days to come there is no reason why our great liners should not be of solid gold from stem to stern; why we should not ride in golden taxi-cabs; or substitute gold for steel in our drawing-room suites. Only, steel will be the more durable, and, thus the cheaper in the long run.

And in the world of manufacture the changes of the next hundred years will be just as revolutionary. Where we have now a score of machines, each responsible for a stage of manufacture, one will suffice.

"Before long," says Mr. Edison, without a twinkle in his eye, and certainly without his tongue in his cheek, "we shall have a machine into one end of which you will put cloth, thread, buttons, and so on, and from the other end draw suits complete to the last stitch, and ready folded for delivery."

All our present marvels of phonograph and telephone and aerial telegraphy are but blind gropings in the dark compared with the light that shall flood the next century.

The Briton of 2011 will be able to sit in his armchair and converse with his son at the Cape, or with a friend in Melbourne, as easily as across the hearthrug; and not merely to listen to his friend's or his son's voice, but to see each of them as clearly as if he were in the same room.

"WHERE'S THE MISSIS?"

During the tour round the world of the King and Queen as Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, one of the ceremonies was at the University of Melbourne in Australia.

The Duke was to receive an honorary degree, but the Duchess was also able to be present. There was a vast crowd. At last the solemn procession of the Council and Senate of the University emerged and made its way to the platform, the Chancellor escorting the Duke, gorgeous in his new hood and gown. In the hush of the moment, while the dignitaries were taking their places, a student of the University called out, in a disappointed tone:—

"Hello, George! Where's the missis?"

The shocked expression on the faces of some of the bigwigs only added to the audience's delight at the good-natured smile with which the Duke looked up in the direction of the voice.

Fifty-one Years Clerk

Mr. Elias Taylor, parish clerk of Felsted, has retired on reaching the age of ninety, after fifty-one years of service. During his term of office he daily ascended the church tower to wind the clock. He discharged that duty 18,500 times, and climbed 166 miles of stairs.

A Royal Brew!

A good many men say that "Gold Label" is the finest Ale that we have ever brewed.

It's all a matter of taste. If you prefer a rich, old, creamy ale—that proves its quality by its delightful flavor—just try "Gold Label."

Every bottle sealed with an easily opened "Crown" stopper.

O'Keefe's "Gold Label" Ale

"The Beer that is always O.K." 108

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS
416 WATER STREET. PHONE 61
PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

OVER 50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Royalty Pays Fares

Although, no doubt, every railway company would gladly convey His Majesty and the Queen free of charge, our rulers pay exactly the same price as anybody else for a special train, in addition to the first-class fare of every passenger by whom they may be accompanied in their respective suites.

The Queen's Jewels

Among the jewels the Queen most values is a chain of pearls presented to her as a wedding present by the women of twenty-three English counties. Thirty thousand dollars was subscribed, but only $25,000 was spent on the necklace, and the other $5,000 was divided amongst various charities chosen by Her Majesty.

BLUNDERS ON THE WIRE

Telegraphic Mistakes that Have Caused Much Annoyance

"Yes," said the telegraphic operator, "there is no doubt that the almost universal adoption of the Morse system of telegraphy has considerably diminished the number of mistakes made in the transmission of telegrams, but the telegraph is still a long way from being an unmitigated boon and blessing. Many of the symbols are so perilously alike that errors are sure to occur from time to time.

"For instance, 'bad' and 'dead' are composed of dots and dashes, the sole difference being that in 'dead' there is a very slight space or pause that does not occur in 'bad.' The difference is so slight, however, that one has to be listening very attentively to hear it. Now, it is a most unfortunate fact that many people are very fond of using the phrase 'he is bad' for 'he is ill,' so there are quite a number of telegrams which should read, say, 'Father is bad,' that get altered in transmission to 'Father is dead.

"Then, again, many people curtail their messages to such an extent as to invite errors. For instance, a certain lady telegraphed to a registry office for servants, 'Send them both thanks,' by which she meant 'Thank you, send both of them' (the 'both' referring to two servants). The telegram reached its destination as 'Send them both back.' This error was due to the fact that 'th' and 'b' are not unlike in the Morse alphabet, which, together with the fact that telegraphists totally ignore punctuation, fully explains the error."

ONE TO BRIDGET.

A lady had in her employ an excellent girl who had one fault—her face was always grimy. Mrs. X., wishing to tell her to wash her face without offending her, at last resorted to strategy.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "that if you wash your face every day in hot soap and water, it will make you beautiful."

"Will it?" answered the wily Bridget. "Well, it's a wonder ye never tried it, ma'am."

An artist who had painted a portrait of a gentleman who was fond of good living, summoned one of the household servants of his subject to see the picture before it was sent home. The canvas was displayed on an easel, and the servant came to view it.

For a long time he gazed upon it with evident admiration, but at last found words to express his approval.

"There's no doubt that the portrait represents my master," he said.

As he approached closer to the canvas to get a better view, the painter shouted "Take care, he's not dry."

The man turned with a comical look on his face and said, "Ah, then, I've made a mistake, and you've made a mistake. It can't be my master; he is always dry!"

A Hangman Resigns.

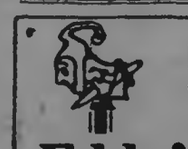
News come from Sydney that the hangman has resigned his position. It seems that seven death sentences have been commuted recently by the Labour Government, and as the executioner would have gained $56 in the case of each malefactor, as a special remuneration, he doubtless considers that his emoluments have been trifled with. His fixed wage was $16 a week, whether anybody was to be hanged or not. He may have suffered from monotony, for, in his three years' service, he had not operated in a single instance

THE DEPOPULATION OF FRANCE

Statistics have been published to show that in the year 1960, the population of Germany will probably reach the figure of 100,000,000, while that of France will be only 25,000,000. Time alone will show whether this forecast is right; but it is interesting to note that anxiety on the subject already prevailed in France in the eighteenth century. The Abbe Saint-Pierre then thought that the marriage of priests would be a remedy; and he calculated that, if all the priests had married from the time of Francis I., there would have been forty million more Catholics in the country. Maurice de Saxe saw the solution of the problem in "leasehold marriages." A third proposal was that the entire French Army should be compelled to marry.

RUSSIAN IRON WORKS

In consequence of the so-called iron famine, the Duma has passed a Government bill granting iron works the privilege of importing a quarter of their required quantities of pig-iron for the next twelve months free of duty, to the total extent of 160,000 tons.



Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use
Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Grimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO.

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout, American and European plan.

RATES—European plan, $1.50 per day and upward. American plan, $2.50 per day and upward

Samuel H Thomson, Proprietor

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO

H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c. per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c. " "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c. "

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times' Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment

Agency and

REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards Window

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 189 Simcoe Street

Next Kinghorn Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

THE WORRY OF KAISER WILHELM.

William of Germany is worried, and with good reason, for the newly elected Reichstag consists of 110 Socialists, 95 Progressives, 122 Clericals and 70 Conservatives. The Socialists have made great gains and they hope to be in control of the next Reichstag by means of a combination with some of the other groups. Their platform is short and simple.

It provides for the abolition of the monarchy. Abolition of the Bundesrath, or upper house. Abolition of the standing army and creation of a national guard. Responsibility of the cabinets to the parliaments. Election of all officers by popular vote. Initiative, referendum and per capita representation to all legislative bodies. Nationalization of all means of production. Manhood suffrage and votes for women.

By an alliance chiefly with the Progressives the Socialists hope to gain some of these things in part from the present Reichstag. As a matter of fact, the situation in Germany is such that some observers are saying that Emperor William has an opportunity to prove whether he is "a man or a mouse." But, putting aside the unflattering alternative, what is a man to do in the situation which confronts the ablest monarch in Europe?

A CHINESE REPUBLIC.

It speaks well for the character of the Chinese people that a Republic has been formed with so little loss of blood up to this time. If matters go on as smoothly hereafter, then China will have given to Christian countries an example of obedience to law and order seldom surpassed in the history of the world.

COSGRAVE'S Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co

OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 219. 879½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, E. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, REED & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Burnham & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. R. B. Hall, S. T. Reed, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, Roentgen Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Toronto.

SPECIALS—Roentgen Ray, Electricity and Diseases of the Stomach.

OFFICE—463 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1261.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

The Chinese are essentially a law-abiding, peace-loving people. They are also a business people with a high ideal of business integrity and with no aspirations towards militarism. If they are allowed to pursue the even tenor of their way without interference from outside powers—Christian powers at that who seem determined to exploit the country for their own selfish purposes—then China is destined to become one of the greatest republics of all time. Instead of looking to China as a country to be divided up among foreign powers all liberty loving people should do their utmost to maintain the integrity of the Chinese Republic.

AVIATION IN WAR.

Captain Montu and Lieutenant Rossi, two officers attached to the Italian army in Tripoli, recently gave a practical demonstration of the value of the aeroplane in war. These officers were successful in an effort to locate an Arabian encampment about which nothing was known except that it existed somewhere. They also ascertained the exact strength of the army and his equipment—information which it is said, the Italian commander could not have otherwise acquired except through a reconnaissance in force.

It appears that the Arabs were not thrown into a panic by the sight of the aeroplane flying above their camp, but, on the contrary, they opened a hot rifle fire on it, with the result that Captain Montu, who happened not to be steering the machine was slightly wounded. The bullets also cut a number of holes through the wings of the aeroplane, but this was due to the fact that some trouble with the motor occurred and caused the machine in a sudden gust of wind to swoop too near the earth.

The Italian commander was, however, convinced by the demonstration that if he had had a competent corps of aviators at the beginning of the war he would have made much greater progress in penetrating and pacifying the vast stretch of country lying back of the port of Tripoli, because the lack of such knowledge as the scouting expedition of Montu and Rossi revealed is responsible for some of the reverses that the Italian troops have suffered in the interior campaign.

FARMERS NOT WELL REPRESENTED.

It is time that the Canadian National Exhibition Association changed its plan for the election of its directors. The present plan of having eight represent the City Council of Toronto, eight the manufacturers and eight the agriculturists sounds well. Of the eight directors elected in the agricultural section, only two can be classed as really representing the farmer's interest. And this has been more or less the situation ever since this agricultural section was created. Never at any time have the agriculturists had half the representation they are credited with having according to the present division. There is no objection to those who control the Canadian National Exhibition electing whom they please, but there is cause for objecting to having a so-called agricultural section and making it the channel through which directors are elected who are not agriculturists. There is no objection to the men elected to represent this section on this year's board. They are all capable men who should render excellent service to the exhibition but, with the two exceptions cited above, agriculture cannot be said to be the business they are most interested in. The present arrangement creates a false impression in the country and places agriculture in a wrong light before the people. If the farmers' interests are so important to the exhibition as to be entitled to a representation on the board of directors, then let these representatives on the board be elected solely by the various live stock, dairy and other agricultural organizations entitled to a vote at the annual meeting.

FOR DOING NOTHING

Some Fat Salaries That Were Easily Earned

Uncle Sam has been "getting a move" on him lately, and, as the result of exercising his lynx eyes, has been successful in saving $180,000 a year of the public money which has hitherto been paid to people in the way of salaries for doing nothing. For decades past there have been some snug little jobs connected with the House of Representatives. Apparently, however, some Paul Pry discovered these sinecures, a committee investigated them, and their report has provided one of the most interesting documents produced by the American Parliament for a long time.

One striking example of the "waste of public salary funds," as a chairman of the committee describes it, was the discovery that a thirteen-year-old girl, the daughter of the chief doorkeeper of the Congress, was on the pay-roll as "clerk of the doorkeeper" at a salary of $1,300 per annum, and an extra months' pay each year as a vacation gratuity. And although they made the closest investigations, the committee were quite unable to discover exactly what the functions of this minor official were.

Then there were thirty-eight extra policemen authorized when, during the Spanish-American War, it was reported that there was a plot to dynamite the Capitol, who were still on the pay-roll, costing annually $39,000. Two telegraph operators, drawing $1,400 each, and assigned to a wire long ago discontinued, were also still on the pay-sheet. By abolishing the salaries of employes of the "clerks' document room," which room was itself abolished sixteen years ago, $6,000 per annum has been saved, and an almost equal sum by stopping the pay of employes designated at "attendants in the library," the library having been removed many years ago from the Capitol.

MATRIMONY A LA MODE

Jack and Jill
Rushed up the hill
Of reckless matrimony.
Years expired,
Both grew tired—
Now Jill gets alimony!—Judge.

Belgian Heroes Fund

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has founded a Belgian Heroes Fund with an endowment of $240,000, the interest of which will be devoted each year to reward civic courage. Other hero funds have been founded by Mr. Carnegie in Great Britain, France, Germany, Denmark and Switzerland.

A Football Trainer

Mr. James Wilson, the trainer for Glasgow Rangers, once walked from Broxburn to Edinburgh and back, a distance of over twenty miles, to watch Queen's Park and Notts Forest play in an English Cup-tie.

Neglected Children

No fewer than 50,838 neglected or otherwise ill-treated children were dealt with in the past year in England.

Steamers and Sailing Vessels

Five hundred and eighty-three new vessels—517 steamers and 66 sailing vessels—were added to Lloyds' list last year.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

GREAT BRITAIN'S UNCROWNED KINGS

Lords of the Calf of Man, Sacred Bardsey, Lambay Island and Inishmurray

It was only last autumn that Mr. William L. Cary disposed of his island kingdom, the Calf of Man, to a Huddersfield manufacturer for $100,000. Under a grant of the island from the Crown in the days of Queen Elizabeth, the Calf of Man was declared to be forever free from taxation. No one can land, and, above all, live, on the island without the consent of the owner. It is in every sense of the word a strictly private estate, and laid out as such. The only objection to this little kingdom in the Irish Sea is that but a small part of it is cultivated, and the whole of it is overrun with rabbits and rats, which, strange to relate, like Manx cats, are tailless. Mr. Cary's father lived there for many years, leading a very retired life. He was a man of most scholarly attainments, immersed in study, devoted to his books, and allowed years to go by without so much as visiting the neighboring kingdom, the Isle of Man. His son and successor emigrated as a boy to the United States, and, after serving behind the counter in some of the big stores, started a business of his own in California, which proved so successful that in a few years he amassed quite a fortune. He developed, however, a taste for American life which totally unfitted him for the quiet, secluded existence which his father had lived on the island, and it was for this reason that, after holding it for ten years, he sold it.

Bardsey Island

Out in the waters of Cardigan Bay, off the coast of Carnarvon, is Bardsey Island, a small slip of land two miles long, covering an area of 444 acres. Here reigns the Hon. Frederick G. Wynn, who is acknowledged chief by the inhabitants, numbering less than 300 all told. The island figured largely in the early religious history of the country. Tradition has it that no less than 20,000 "saints" were buried there. That the story has at least some substance of truth is proved by the immense number of human bones and antique remains which have been unearthed in every part of the isle. The name "Bardsey" was bestowed upon the island by the Saxons, probably on account of its having formed a refuge to the Bards. Thither fled a great number of these monks, who escaped the general massacre by the Saxons under the Northumbrian Prince Ethelfrith, the Bernician conqueror. Of the monastery built here, as early as the sixth century, only the shell of a ruined tower remains.

Island of Lambay

Just north of Howth, in Dublin Bay, lies the island of Lambay. Formerly it was the property of the Archbishops of Dublin, but a few years ago it was purchased by the Hon. Cecil Baring, heir to the Earldom of his childless brother, Lord Revelstoke. The island is a small one, barely three miles in circumference, and, although scarcely four miles from the coast, is curiously isolated when one considers its proximity to the capital of the Green Isle. It is only occasionally that any of the frequent excursion steamers from Dublin touch at Lambay. The cliffs which go to make up the greater part of the coastline are exceptionally fine, and rise to a considerable height.

Lambay Castle, the residence of the owner, is an interesting old building of some historic note, from the fact that Archbishop Usher, a staunch adherent to Charles I., took refuge in the house on one occasion when his life was endangered. Some declare that it was on Lambay that St. Patrick first landed in Ireland, and that he built his first church there; while others aver that the old church ruins on the island are those of a sacred edifice founded by St. Columba.

Inishmurray

Another island kingdom in Irish waters is Inishmurray, in Sligo Bay. It has been owned for two hundred years by a family of the name of Waters. The late Michael Waters, the father of the present proprietor, was a great character, and known throughout Ireland. Although his kingdom was small and his subjects few, he ruled without difficulty over a community which knew no law but his will, and who devoted themselves to farming, fishing, and to the manufacture of illicit but excellent whiskey. The island boasts of the most interesting remains of early monastic architecture to be found in Ireland. St. Mulaculs, a disciple of St. Patrick, having established a monastery there, his wooden representation being still preserved in the oratory. Among the oddities of the island is the fact that there is one graveyard for the women, and another, some distance off, for the men. The islanders firmly believe that no male could rest content in the female burying-ground, and that any attempt to inter him there would result in the unrest of his spirit and in ghostly wanderings.

ONE TO THE PRIME MINISTER

Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, is in these days regarded as such a particularly solemn gentleman that the following anecdote is interesting:

Long years ago he attended a small preparatory school for boys, the principal of which was a learned clergyman, and a strict grammarian.

One night, after ten o'clock, when all the boys should have been in bed, he was passing silently along the corridor when he heard sounds of revelry from a darkened dormitory.

He rapped on the door. Silence within. Then:

"Who's there?" called out the future Premier.

"It's me—the principal. Open the door!"

"Ha, ha, ha-a-a!" answered young Asquith. "If it were the principal he would say, 'It is I.'"

Seeing the force of this argument the schoolmaster passed on.

WOMEN AND THE PRESIDENCY.

This year women will vote for President in six States, namely, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Washington and California, and it is estimated that the number of votes cast by them will not be far short of a million. The women of Wyoming have voted for President in every national election since 1892; women of Colorado, Utah and Idaho voted in the last four elections, and the women of Washington and California will this year vote for President for the first time.

The candidate who is elected President this year must receive 168 electoral votes. The six woman suffrage States have, all told, thirty-seven electoral votes, of which California will cast thirteen, Washington seven, Colorado six, Idaho and Utah each four, and Wyoming three. While the total seems small, the result of the election may depend on the vote of any one of these six States. The vote of California is especially important, and there is a possibility that the women voters may decide the contest there.

PLENTY OF SOAP AND FRESH AIR

An English Borough Proposes to Make People Healthy — Suggestions Added by Correspondent

The Paddington Borough Council are considering the enactment of a new set of by-laws, to provide that every lodger in a tenement house shall, except in special circumstances, cause his bedroom windows to be opened for at least one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon; and to have the floor of his bedroom or bedrooms swept daily, and washed at least once a week.

"As one who is all for fresh air and plenty of soap and water, I welcome with joy this step on the part of the Paddington Fathers," says a correspondent, who thereupon proposes that the additional by-laws be adopted:—

Any person or persons doing anything prohibited by or otherwise offending against any of the following by-laws shall be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for a first offence, and not exceeding five pounds for any subsequent offence.

All plates, dishes, cups, glasses, knives, forks, spoons, saucepans, frying pans and other utensils, implements and instruments used in the preparation and consumption of supper shall be washed, scoured, dried, and otherwise made clean overnight, and not left to be washed up with the breakfast things in the morning.

All chimneys, flues, and other passages, holes, and recesses to which smoke has regular access shall be swept once in every three months, and the resultant soot preserved for the cultivation of Coronation Sweet Peas.

All grates, ranges, and stoves shall be blackleaded, and all stone and concrete hearths, whether cracked or sound, as well as all doorsteps and window-sills shall be whitened, once every seven days.

No cobwebs shall be allowed to hang suspended from any ceiling in any room, passage, closet, or cupboard for a longer period than one calendar month.

All beds that have been slept in overnight shall be stripped, and the mattress or mattresses turned back, immediately upon the occupant arising in the morning, and allowed thus to remain airing for a period of at least one hour from such time.

All beds shall be re-made by 10 o'clock a.m.

Once every seven days the bottom sheet of each bed in every bedroom in every house in the Borough shall be removed, and the top sheet substituted for it, and a clean sheet substituted for the top sheet thus transferred.

Every occupant of every house shall wash, or cause to be washed, his or her face, hands, and no less than three inches of neck, at least once every twenty-four hours.

Every male occupant of every house shall shave, or cause to be shaved, his chin, cheeks, neck, and top lip, at least once every three days; provided always that such male occupant does not grow a beard and moustache (which is to be deprecated), or has not reached such age as is favorable to the production or growth of same moss.

Every female occupant of every house shall have her hair out of curling pins or curl papers by midday at the latest each day (Saturdays excepted), and all hooks and eyes securely fastened.

Every child occupant of every house shall have his or her nose duly wiped by some qualified person at least three times a day, and four times on Sundays.

THE NEED OF MEN

Work in Every Field Not Only Remains But Increases

More men are needed in the world to-day than ever before, because there is more to do—more different things to make, more actual people to support. Fifteen years ago the bicycle makers would have been frightened into bankruptcy if you had told them that in 1910 their trade would have almost disappeared. But what do we see now? The coming of automobiles has given work to all the bicycle men and thousands more. And it is so in other businesses and professions. The point to remember is that, while the form of work changes, the work in every field remains, and even increases. The real claims are not all taken up. Alexander the Great was only a fool when he wept because there were no more worlds to conquer. He didn't use his eyes to see with, but only to weep with.

POPULAR THOUGH POOR

"Be forgetful of self; think, and think kindly, of others."

"Say a kind rather than a smart thing."

"Be ready to help whenever you can."

"Give others credit for doing and knowing something."

"Be courteous to all, in or out of business."

"Don't talk scandal."

"Pay what you owe, and never borrow money."

Old Age Pensions

Following the removal of the pauperism disqualification, 10,925 persons in London alone received old-age pensions.

New Streets

One hundred miles of new streets for the Metropolis are proposed by the London Traffic Branch of the Board of Trade.

Priests as Cab-Drivers

Since the disestablishment of the Church in France, many former priests have taken up the occupation of cab-drivers in Paris.

SECLUDED WOMEN

Curious Experiences in India—How Evidence is Given by Women in Court

Sir Andrew Fraser, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, tells some curious stories in his book, "Among Indian Rajahs and Ryots."

While hearing a civil case in which a lady of considerable property was required to give evidence, "a day was fixed, and she was brought to Court. She came in a palaki or palanquin, which, despite its name, was nothing else than a very small and uncomfortable box carried on a bamboo pole. One could hardly understand how it was possible for her to be in it without great discomfort. It had been carried into a room of the Zenana and laid down. After all the men had gone away, she had come, attended by her women, and had stepped into it. The thick curtain that covered one side of the box (all the rest being of wood) was then dropped and securely fastened. Her nearest male relative stood by while the box was removed from her room, and walked with it through the streets. When it was brought into the Court, it was laid down, but not opened. I asked the counsel on both sides whether they were satisfied that the lady inside the box was the witness whom it was desired to examine. After conversing with those who had accompanied her, and addressing a question or two to the lady, they replied that they were satisfied. I then put certain questions to her; and she answered them—clear, intelligent answers, in a sweet, low-toned voice. I never saw her; no one in the Court saw her. She returned through the streets to her seclusion in the Zenana, having seen nothing all the time during which she was out of it."

After narrating other official experiences with ladies in seclusion, Sir Andrew Fraser writes:—"I made it a practice as far as possible to take my wife with me to such interviews, so that she might sit on the other side of the purda with the Rani, as she was acquainted with her. This was at least a security that the right lady was conversing with me. To me there was always a feeling of dissatisfaction in that neither of us in the course of our conversation was able to look the other in the face, and receive that light upon our interchange of views which the human countenance so often gives. I recall one case in which that feeling was evidently shared by the lady herself. She turned to Lady Fraser and asked her in a whisper, which I did not hear, whether there was any objection to her slightly putting the curtain aside with her finger, just so far as to permit her to get a view of my face, so as to see whether I was giving kindly attention to the expression of her views. My wife, of course, said that there was no objection; and, although I was unaware of it, the old lady saw my face, and then expressed herself as more confident that I would give careful and [illegible]

DARING BRIDGE BUILDERS

The Construction of the Niagara Bridge Recalled

Notwithstanding the great height at which the men worked in replacing the Niagara Suspension Bridge above a maelstrom from which escape would have been impossible, most of them soon grew unconcerned, and some of them, indeed, vied with one another in reckless daring.

So many valuable tools were dropped from the bridge that some of the more careless were discharged. Consequently, one day, when a man dropped a wrench 200 feet to the water's edge, he foolishly started to recover it by climbing down hand over hand on a steeply inclined thin wire cable nearly 500 feet long. He had no sooner began his insane exploit than a rival, not to be outdone, started out of sheer bravado to descend an adjacent rope.

After going a few feet they tried in vain to return, and it seemed to their horrified companions on the bridge above that human muscles could not endure the increasing strain of their long journey. The foreman instructed them how to climb more easily and what to do at the bottom, accompanying his orders with violent abuse, wisely bestowed to divert them from the fright that added to their danger. By nothing less than a miracle both men held on until they had crossed over the water. Then one of them, watching his chance, dropped safely into a tree top. The other finally gave out and fell a considerable distance to the ground. But both escaped practically unhurt.

A FAMOUS MANUSCRIPT

Mr. H. F. Dickens, K.C., tells an interesting story concerning the original manuscripts of his father's famous "Carol." The novelist presented the MS. to Thomas Milton, an old schoolfellow. In 1875 Mr. Milton sold it to Mr. Francis Harvey, a bookseller, for $350. Then it passed into the hands of Mr. George Churchill, an enthusiastic autograph collector. Mr. Churchill treasured it until 1882, when circumstances compelled him to part with it. After photographing every page of it, it was sold to Mr. Bennett, a Birmingham bookseller and curio dealer, who eventually found a purchaser who readily signed a cheque for $1,000 for it. Finally it was bought by Mr. Stuart M. Samuel, of Kensington Palace Gardens, for $1,500, who is said to still retain the precious document.—Tit-Bits.

CHASED BY WOLVES

A story comes from Maple Leaf, a Saskatchewan village, to the effect that William Robinson, returning from a visit to a neighbor, was chased by a band of wolves and arrived home in an exhausted state. Only by throwing off his coat, which delayed the wolves for a few minutes while they tore it to pieces, did he manage to escape.

THE PERFECT WIFE

A Great Deal of Surprise that Such an One Exists

In some quarters the discovery that there is such a thing as a "perfect wife" seems to have created a great deal of surprise.

Directly as the result of a Western court's assertion, in deciding a divorce case, that there isn't any such thing as "perfection" in wives, we are assured by a loyal husband that the judge is egregiously wrong.

He has a "perfect wife," he declares, and to prove it he cites the facts that in 35 years she has never uttered a cross word to him nor provoked one from him. And, better than all, she has given to the world four splendid sons and four fine daughters.

What woman could do better? he proudly asks.

The fact of the matter is, the Western judge is very much mistaken.

There are "perfect wives" and plenty of them. The great trouble is that the world hears so little about them.

All around us are husbands who could, if they would, enlighten the erring court as to the whereabouts of other "perfect wives." If pinned right down to it they would admit, perhaps, that their own wives are not the most beautiful women in the world, not the cleverest or most brilliant, and than now and then they give reason for remembering that they are not yet angels. But they are "perfect wives," no matter what the court says.

AGE FOR MARRIAGE

Nonagenarian Advises Against "Kindergarten" Marriages

At the ninety-six of 96, Major Archelaus G. Warner, addressing the Englewood Old Settlers' Association, advised against what he called "kindergarten weddings." A girl, in his opinion, should be 21 and a man 25 before entering upon marriage, because "people of those ages make fewer mistakes."

Probably there are many foolishly contracted marriages of persons under the ages specified, but there are many happy ones also. With certain qualifications, however, the advice of Major Warner seems sound. When the man must make his way in the world unaided by relatives or inherited money, he is not likely to get a good start before he is 25. The young woman is likely to know her own mind better if she waits until she is 21.

From the theoretical point of view the right time to marry is when the right man or woman comes along and there are no serious obstacles of any sort. As civilization grows older in our northern climates the average age at which people marry becomes later, with necessity and wisdom back of the change.

PRACTICAL LONG COAT

There is a greater variety of long coats shown this season than ever before, and the majority of them are pretty and practical. One exceedingly good-looking model is cut on lines suggested in our sketch, and is made from a lovely shade of dark blue cloth, trimmed with a huge collar of sable. This would make an ideal evening coat for the woman living in the suburbs.

Soiled Paint

Finger marks on doors will quickly disappear if they are rubbed with a clean piece of flannel dipped in paraffin. Afterwards wipe with a clean cloth wrung out of hot water, in order to remove the smell of the oil.

FROM A SOUTH WINDOW IN CANADA

"Love, Laughter and Life"

WORDS TO WIVES AND OTHERS

Although written for wives, there is no reason why husbands and fathers and brothers and sisters should not read this too, says Budget and Journal, for by so doing they may, and probably will, escape some of the pitfalls that lie strewn indiscriminately along the path of matrimony, the path which some tread with much trepidation and fear, and which others walk along quite serenely while scenting the hidden dangers long before they come to them, and so avoiding them. Now, some girls marry their first loves. There are, however, exceptions to this rule—if rule it is—and it is no uncommon thing for a girl to become engaged two or three times before she eventually marries. Perhaps she is hard to please and is looking for her ideal. Each time she becomes engaged she may honestly think she has found him, only to discover after the engagement that her hero is very matter-of-fact and altogether unsuited to her temperament. It does not necessarily follow that because a girl has been engaged more than once she is hard to get on with; on the contrary, she may be affable, nice, and charming. But before marrying such a girl a young man would do well to find out why the other engagements were broken off. Having married, however, young couples should never lose their temper in public or when other persons are present. Indeed, it is much better not to lose your temper at all, but this is much easier said than done. Yet it is possible, as many married couples who have never spoken a cross word to each other can testify.

If you are slightly put out, and wish to say a few words to your husband, just wait until he is alone, and don't air your grievances from the house-tops. One great advantage of this system is that your temper will probably have cooled off by waiting, and instead of a family squabble you will have a nice common-sense chat, which will do both of you a little good and no harm.

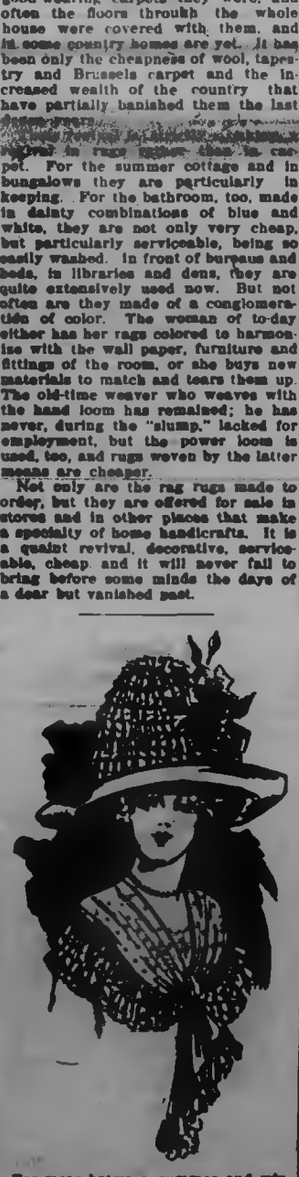
OLD AND NEW RAG CARPETS

There is this distinction between the old and the new rag carpet: the old was a matter solely of economy and utility; the new measures up to the old in utility, but fulfills also the modern requirement for grace and luxury.

In old times the housewife saved all suitable rags, and in her spare moments tore them into narrow strips, sewing the ends together and rolling into big balls, keeping on rolling up balls until she had sufficient to make the required carpet. Then she took them to a carpet weaver. Sometimes she dyed the rags first and gave orders for a certain pattern and a certain combination of color; sometimes they were woven "hit or miss." But solid, good-wearing carpets they were, and often the floors throughout the whole house were covered with them, and in some country homes are yet. It has been only the cheapness of wool, tapestry and Brussels carpet and the increased wealth of the country that have partially banished them the last [illegible]

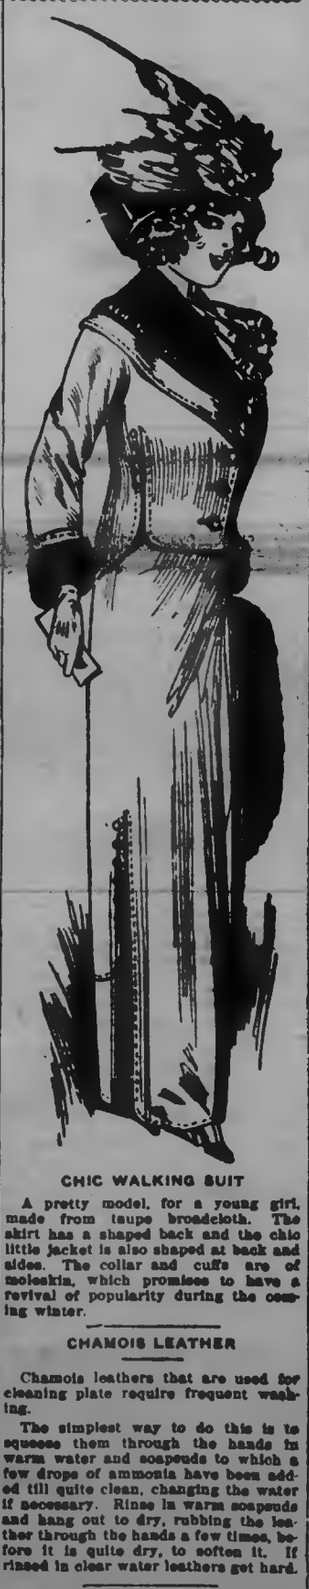
[illegible] in rugs rather than in carpet. For the summer cottage and in bungalows they are particularly in keeping. For the bathroom, too, made in dainty combinations of blue and white, they are not only very cheap, but particularly serviceable, being so easily washed. In front of bureaus and beds, in libraries and dens, they are quite extensively used now. But not often are they made of a conglomeration of color. The woman of to-day either has her rags colored to harmonize with the wall paper, furniture and fittings of the room, or she buys new materials to match and tears them up. The old-time weaver who weaves with the hand loom has remained; he has never, during the "slump," lacked for employment, but the power loom is used, too, and rugs woven by the latter means are cheaper.

Not only are the rag rugs made to order, but they are offered for sale in stores and in other places that make a specialty of home handicrafts. It is a quaint revival, decorative, serviceable, cheap and it will never fail to bring before some minds the days of a dear but vanished past.



For wear between summer and winter evening hats there is a delightful model shaped as shown in sketch. The crown is a succession of white lace frills and the brim white velvet. On the left side, in upright fashion, are two huge pink velvet roses, with natural one foliage. This makes a charming theatre or restaurant hat, and is appropriate for evening wear throughout the winter.

Paint should be more often swept than scrubbed, for too frequent washing causes it to decay. Use as little soap as possible, and wash it off with plenty of clean water to prevent discoloration.



CHIC WALKING SUIT

A pretty model, for a young girl, made from taupe broadcloth. The skirt has a shaped back and the chic little jacket is also shaped at back and sides. The collar and cuffs are of moleskin, which promises to have a revival of popularity during the coming winter.

CHAMOIS LEATHER

Chamois leathers that are used for cleaning plate require frequent washing.

The simplest way to do this is to squeeze them through the hands in warm water and soapsuds to which a few drops of ammonia have been added till quite clean, changing the water if necessary. Rinse in warm soapsuds and hang out to dry, rubbing the leather through the hands a few times, before it is quite dry, to soften it. If rinsed in clear water leathers get hard.

A New Wick may be easily put in a lamp if about an inch of one end is dipped in starch, either boiled or cold, and then ironed dry. The starch will make it stiff enough to go into the burner without trouble. Try the plan once and you will appreciate the advantage gained.

To Prevent lamp chimneys from cracking put them into a pan of cold water, gradually heat until it boils, and then let it as gradually cool.

A Chemist advises that preserved fruit be opened an hour or two before it is used. It becomes richer after the oxygen of the air has been restored to it.

A Persian lamb collarette, a bunch of keys with chain attached, and a fur tail are awaiting claimants at the Police Station.

Quite a number of names have been added to the membership of the local Ad. Club as a result of the recent banquet.

Lieut.-Col. Sylvester's term as commanding officer of the 45th Regiment, Lindsay, has been extended another year by the Militia Department.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford has been invited to preach at the anniversary services of the Baptist Church at Norwood, on Sunday, March 3rd.

Flavelle's Lindsay curlers seem to be doing well at the big Winnipeg bonspiel. However, an unexpected thaw put the ice out of commission for several games.

The office of a Port Hope coal and wood merchant, was burglarized this week. The burglars were evidently green as they blew open the safe and did not even take a paper bag full of coal away.

Mr. A. G. Morrison of the Lake Superior Power Co., was in the city yesterday and has engaged several men from Peterborough to work on the company's new dam at Helen Mine.

When Fishery Inspector Watt seized, through his acknowledged vigilance several hundred pounds of illicit bass and maskinonge. Why send them to the poor in Toronto. Surely there are enough fish-eaters right here in Peterborough to dispose of such seizures.

Georgie was repeating the Lord's prayer. When he got as far as "Give us this day our daily bread" he paused a moment, then added fervently, "and molasses."

Lindsay's Children's Aid Society is asking for donations of second hand clothing. This reminds us that the local Society cannot live on wind or snowballs. They are deserving of assistance "at every stage of the game," as our sporting editor would say.

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

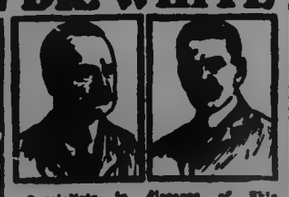
Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE



Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., at 7 to 8 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst North Bay, Sturgeon Falls and Toronto	11.34 a.m. 9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m. 5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	... 8.30 a.m. 5.30 a.m.	8.20 a.m. 9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m. 10.15 p.m.	8.25 a.m. 5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Meetings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m. 8.55 p.m.	8.36 a.m. 1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m. 6.15 p.m.	7.00 a.m. 12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Toronto, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m. 7.07 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.05 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	8.35 a.m. 6.51 a.m.
Carleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	1.07 a.m. 4.30 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE TIMES REPORTS.

Route Boys Wanted.

Two route boys wanted for The Times. Apply at Times' Bookstore.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-12-tf)

To Learn Printing Trade.

We have an opening for a bright young man to learn press work. Apply at Times Business Office.

Mr. Sharpe's Funeral To-day.

The funeral of the late Robert Harvey Sharpe, who was killed in Edmonton, will take place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from 489 Sherbrooke street.

All Quiet at Station.

Enquiries made last night at the Police Station elicited the fact that "everything was quiet along the Otonabee," not even a lonely booze-chaser occupied Castle Thompson.

Help Wanted.

Men and women. Make good money in spare time. No canvassing. Our profitable suggestions contain money-making ideas. Send stamp. WALLACE W. SMITH, LONDON, ONT. (D—3-f17-24-m2)

Mrs. Kendry Speaks To-morrow.

Mrs. James Kendry will give her postponed literary evening of two weeks ago at the Y.W.C.A. to-morrow evening, taking for her subject: "Between the Old and New Testament." All the friends of the Association are cordially invited to attend.

Lindsay Travellers' Challenge.

The "Lindsay Commercial Travellers" challenge the Peterborough "Drummers" to a game of hockey to be played in Lindsay on Saturday afternoon, March 2nd. The return match to be played in Peterborough the following Saturday.

Lawrence C. Blackwell, Secretary.

Will Return and Live Here.

Mr. Wm. Lundy, Detroit, a former local man who has been visiting here for some days, left Saturday evening for his home. Mr. Lundy expects to return shortly with his wife and take up his residence in Peterborough for a year or so, as he has some business in the city that he has to look after.

HOUSE TO LET.

That desirable residence at 453 Water street. All modern conveniences. Fronts on Victoria Park. One short block from George street, schools, churches. Immediate possession or could wait a month or two on signing a lease. Apply to C. H. Clementi, 451 Water street.

Cotton-Tails Out of Season.

Lindsay Warder: Local devotees of hunting should beware of shooting cottontails, as they are now out of season. Legally speaking they are woodland hares, though colloquially known as cottontails. One zealous Galt hunter had to pay $5 to get this information, he being told by the police magistrate.

Going Out of Business.

The Peterborough Lubricator Manufacturing Co., will hold their annual general shareholders meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 28th, at the Munro House. Whilst the election of officers will come before the meeting, its main object is for the consideration of accepting an offer for the assets of the company.

Won Prize in Lottery.

Millbrook Reporter: One of the surveyors of the C. P. R. surveying party now at Bewdley, Robert Lister, has just got word of his good luck in securing first prize in a Holland drawing contest. He bought a ticket on his way over just before Christmas, paying five shillings, and draws $11,000.

Many Immigrants Arrive Here.

A number of new arrivals passed through the local immigration office last week and indications point to several more this week. This looks as though the farmers and factories of Peterborough will have lots of raw material to draw from. Still some of the immigrants arriving seem over particular as to the class of work offered.

Subscriptions to Protestant Home.

In addition to subscriptions towards the Protestant Home Building Fund already acknowledged in The Times, are the following:

Prev. acknowledged	$10,708.50
Mrs. R. S. Davidson	10.00
Wm. Drummond	3.00
T. W. R.	2.00
	$10,723.50

Why a Local Vag Drank.

A local option supporter a few days ago met a man on Hunter street, whose knees were wobbly and whose general condition was about as far below par as the mercury has been below zero lately. The philanthropist asked "My poor man do you drink because you are poor or are you poor because you drink?" In response, the vagrant replied: "Neither. I drink because I'm dry."

Lakefield Fans for Peterborough.

Lakefield News: A sudden death game will be played in the Trent Valley League, in the Brock street Rink, Peterborough, on Wednesday night, February 21st, between Lakefield and Hastings hockey teams. The winner of this game will go into the semi-finals. Arrangements are being made for a special train to leave Lakefield and return immediately after the game.

Peterborough People in Lindsay.

Lindsay Post: Mrs. John Lynch, of Peterborough, who has been the guest of Mrs. W. E. Baker, has returned home. Mr. Mark Spencely and his son, Wilbert, of Peterborough are in town to-day attending the funeral of the late Joseph Spencely. Mrs. D. O'Leary, and Master Roland of Peterborough, are visiting Mrs. John Griffis. Mr. Harry Phelan, of Peterborough, Inland Revenue Officer, was in town to-day.

Temperance Meeting To-morrow.

On Tuesday night, to-morrow, a big meeting will be held in George street church of those interested in the temperance cause. It is not desired that any one shall be able to say afterwards, if a campaign is decided upon, that it is being forced upon the citizens against their will. The probable success of the campaign will be judged to some extent by the attendance and interest manifested at this meeting.

Lindsay For Public Abbatoir.

Lindsay's Board of Health is in favor of a public abbatoir. At the last meeting of that Board, it was moved that Dr. Wood and Medical Health Officer McAlpine act as a deputation to go to Toronto and co-operate with Berlin, in placing before the Provincial Board their desires of having a public abbatoir in Lindsay. Clerk Ray at once wired the Berlin Board that a deputation from Lindsay would meet their members in Toronto on Monday, Feb. 12.

Lindsay Firemen Want Increase.

At a recent council meeting in Lindsay, it developed just like here in Peterborough, that the firemen consider themselves underpaid. A deputation on their behalf appeared before the City Fathers asking for an increase in salary, believing they were deserving. They did not think it was right to dock the firemen for fires they did not attend. The firemen $925 a year salary, paid quarterly, while $25 was paid at Christmas time as a kind of a Christmas box.

Normal School Lit. At-home.

The At-Home of the Normal school was a bright and enjoyable event. The hall was tastefully decorated. The chairman of the evening was Mr. H. S. MacNaughton, president of the Society. On the program was a chorus by the Glee Club, violin selection by Miss Welsh, drill by young ladies, scenes from King Lear by the students, solo by Miss Steinhoff, and promenades, the music being provided by the Grand Opera House orchestra. Coleman Bros. had charge of the catering.

Look Out for Clothes Lines.

Here is a warning to the man who splits his own wood, and a good percentage of Peterborough daily daily with an axe in the back yard. Look out for the clothes lines as you swing your axe and with a grunt bring it down on the in offensive kindling. A man at Mount Hebron a few days ago forgot an overhead wire line. The axe caught the line and on the rebound caught the man. Mr. P. Howden. Several stitches were necessary in his scalp. Our older citizens will remember a local professional man who was knocked senseless from the same cause.

Made Money by Going Out.

A local merchant in conversation with The Times on Saturday, remarked "good advice does not always pay." In response to a look of enquiry he said, "Well, the day before yesterday one of our older citizens said to me, 'to succeed in business these days a merchant has to stay right in his store.' Now this afternoon business was slack and I went to a movine picture show. There I met a man who had owed me $15-16 for over three years. I tackled him about the account and got the full amount. If I had been in the store, it would probably have been three years more before I would have seen this man."

Former Local Lady Returning.

Mrs. Dr. Hunter, of this city, has received the following telegram from her daughter, Veva. Mrs. H. D. Robertson:

San Francisco, Feb. 15.

"Leave to-day; Chicago Monday morning. Will arrive Toronto Tuesday.

"Vieva"

It will be remembered that Mrs. Robertson, encountered much danger during the revolution in China where she was with her husband, who is a missionary.

Was the Lady's Program Full.

At a recent local dance, a young lady visiting here from Port Hope, whose first dance it was in public, began to cry shortly after supper. In response to sympathy expressed by friends she said "that man over there with the big mustache just a minute ago asked me if my program was full. Now I can assure you, I have only had nine sandwiches, two helpings of turkey, four pieces of jelly cake, a little trifle and three or four glasses of claret in cup; still that monster over there asks is 'My program full.'"

Mr. Fred E. Darcy Has Passed Away

One of Peterborough's well known citizens, in the person of Mr. Fred Egerton Darcy, passed away on Saturday morning at his residence, 160 Charlotte street. The late Mr. Darcy in later years was engaged in the automobile and billiard business. He has lived all his life in or near the City of Peterborough. He was originally a machinist. Then he took to the theatrical profession and had many bills in which his name appeared prominently as a performer on the stage. He was in religious belief a Presbyterian and a member of St. Paul's church.

The deceased is survived by a widow and one son, Aubrey, and two brothers, Warren, of Burleigh Falls, and Rollie, of Lakefield. The funeral which is private will be held this afternoon to Little Lake cemetery.

ST. JOHN'S NOTICES.

Monday, 4.15—Boys' practice. 7.30—Girl's Auxiliary.

Tuesday, 2.30—W.A. Sewing meeting. 4 p.m.—Mission Study class.

Ash Wednesday, 11 a.m.—Morning prayer and Communion service. 8 p.m.—Special Lenten services.

Thursday, 5 p.m.—Evening service. 8 p.m.—Choir practice. Boys' at 7.30 p.m.

Friday, 8 p.m.—Confirmation class.

Saturday—St. Mathias Day. 5 p.m.—Evening service.

Sunday—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.

The sermons at 11 and 7, will be preached by the Rev. Canon Gould, M.D., General Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada.

The Lord Bishop of Toronto will administer the rite of confirmation in St. John's on March 24th.

Wild Animals Nearly Loose.

On Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, a cart went up George street. This, in itself is not much to talk about, but this cart had a peculiar cargo. It was being used as an advertisement for a local wild west show. On it was an open cage containing a large wolf. On top of several boxes was a small animal, that in the subsequent excitement looked like a bear. There were also several men dressed in Indian garb with feather head-dresses. Just as the conveyance got opposite the grocery store managed by Mr. Fred Walker, under the title of R. A. Dutton & Co., the runners caught in the street car tracks. The cart slewed and ran for some distance on one runner at an angle of 45 degrees. The wolf howled, the animal on top growled and the men in Indian garb used language not heard every day in Parliamentary circles. However, the cart renewed its equilibrium before Little Red Riding Hood's wolf escaped.

Big Opening Tomorrow
RED MILL THEATRE
Peterboroughs Leading Place of Amusement
Under New Management

Under New Management.
This Theater will run only the best films that money can buy, including all special features in this line. Up-to-date, life-sized pictured songs. Open daily from 1 to 11 P.M. Nothing offensive allowed. Ladies and children cordially invited to this comfortable house.

5c - Admission - 5c.

This price never changes.

You Can't Cure Catarrh By Swallowing Drugs

COUGH SYRUP, TABLETS AND SPRAYS SICKEN THE STOMACH BUT DON'T REACH THE GERMS OF CATARRH—HENCE THEIR FAILURE TO HELP.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

Couldn't Breathe — "Catarrhozone" Cured.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Market prices still kept soaring on Saturday's market. Butter went to 40c.

Mr. James Byrne, of Ops, has according to reports sold his farm to Mr. John Hickey for $60 per acre.

The local undertakers last night reported having had no death calls since Saturday.

Last Saturday the thermometer registered 41 degrees below zero at Kinmount. Wough!

Col. Sam Hughes, Lindsay, has purchased twelve automobiles for use of the Militia Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton of Lindsay, were on the ice bridge at Niagara Falls the day before it collapse.

A Lindsay man claims that $276.00 a day are spent in the four bars of that town. Does the sight of the Scugog River drive men to drink?

The concert given by the Mission Band of the George street church was well attended. Mr. T. W. Robinson presided.

The throngs which crowded the pavement in front of the Red Mill and the Princess theatre was clear proof that moving pictures are not a dead-letter yet.

The town of Sudbury has been asked to assist in getting votes for married women. The Council kept it dark and would not have their opinion published.

A professor in Guelph Agricultural College a few days ago was lecturing on "soils" He asked the class, "Now what is mud?" Why that's easy. That is the name of the man who recently bet on the locals.

The "Great White Way," New York is to be cleared of boxes and other merchants' displays that hamper pedestrians. A similar movement along George street would give us "a great wide way" for walkers.

Toronto papers describe how wild ducks are being frozen on the ice covering the bay and the Humber River. It is getting near the limit when Hogtown grabs even the wild birds.

A Lindsay doctor has challenged a banker of that town to a game of curling for a bag of flour for charity. This is one case, where, even if the operation is successful, the patient will not die.

A visit to the Fire Hall last night by The Times, showed that Biddy could not have been lighting the kitchen stove with kerosene yesterday, as the Brigade received no alarms on Sunday.

C. M. Gordon, a New Orleans man, sentenced to penitentiary for forgery, is now claiming a pardon, stating that he was drunk when he did the deed. Whiskey certainly is responsible for many crimes but let the man, not the whiskey, take the blame when forgery is committed.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Rev. Mr. Burns, of Omemee, was in the city on Saturday.

Mr. Thos. Cunningham of Orillia, was in the city on Saturday. He left for home the same evening.

Mr. Robt. Gibbs has recovered from his recent illness and his genial face is once more seen at the livery stable.

Mrs. Wes. Johnston of Peterboro', was the guest of Mrs. Thos. Junkin, of Lakefield, a few days last week.

Miss Traill and Miss Mary Traill, Lakefield, spent a few days in Peterborough last week visiting friends.

Lakefield News: Miss Lauretta Northey was visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northey, in Peterborough, this week.

Mr. Frank Young of Young's Point, manager of the Stoney Lake Navigation Co., was in the city on Saturday and gave The Times a call.

Mr. D. L. Sarginson, accompanied by Mrs. Sarginson, left for Manitoba on Saturday, where they will reside in future.

Mrs. Harris Ardiel, Toronto, is in town for a few days and will receive with Mrs. Steatton at Strathormond to-morrow.

Mr. Tom Eastwood, the genial boniface of Buckhorn, was in the city last week, and as usual got "the glad hand" wherever he went.

Rev. Mr. Mingie and Rev. Mr. Pogue respectively occupied the pulpits of Charlotte street church yesterday in the absence of Rev. Mr. Henderson the regular pastor.

Mr. Arthur Johnston, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, who has been confined to his bed was able to come down stairs for a short time, for the first time for some weeks on Saturday.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

Present the First Offering of the Stock of

PORCUPINE - FORTUNA GOLD MINES LTD.

Incorporated under Ontario Compani

Capital Stock $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 Shares. Par Value $1.00 per Share. Treasury Shares 1,000,000 Shares. All Shares Common Shares, fully paid and non-assessable. The Company has no Bonds, Preferred Shares or Indebtedness of any kind.

The company owns 3 groups in all, 8 mining claims, 310 acres, in the Porcupine Mining District of Ontario, described as follows: The Reany Mining Claim in Tisdale, being the southwest quarter of the south half of Lot Number Two, Concession One, Tisdale; the Mapes Claim in Deloro T. R. P. 814 (Called H. R. 926), and six claims in Shaw Township, called the James claims, being officially known as Claims Nos. 13684, 13685, 13686, 13687, 13688 and 13689.

GROUP NO. 1

The well-known Reany lies east of the Martin and Dome. The famous Dunn and Steel properties adjoin the Reany on the east and the Rose-Van Cutser claims, owned by one of the largest mining, engineering and brokerage houses of London (owners of Town Site Mine at Cobalt), adjoin the Reany on the west side. The Dunn and Steel vein runs into the Reany and has been exposed by stripping for a distance of 600 feet on the Reany. This vein has an average width of 20 feet and is heavily mineralized. (See Engineer's Report).

GROUP NO. 2

The Mapes claim in Deloro lies two claims south of Tisdale on the south of the Powell claims. On the east of the Mapes are the now famous Dobie Maidens and McDonald properties. The Boston Development Company, on the west, have made their spectacular strike on this same vein, which is traced through the Mapes property from the Dobie. The Sachumacher property lies northwest. The entire property lies in the main Dome ore zone, whose principal trend is northeast by southwest, which is the trend of the Dobie, Maidens, Mapes and Boston Development veins. Two-thirds of the Mapes claim is exposed and easily prospected. The Mapes claim is considered one of the most promising in its neighborhood, and, like the Reany, should develop into a good-paying mine.

Groups 1 and 2 are in famous Dome Ore Zone.

GROUP NO. 3

The six James claims in Shaw are too well known to go into detail in describing. It is sufficient to say that these claims have a well-mineralized ore body 150 feet wide, that with proper development will more than likely prove one of the great ore bodies of the Porcupine District.

SOLICITORS

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

MINE MANAGEMENT.

There has been a great deal of unfavorable comment regarding poor management of many of the Porcupine properties, and in many cases we know this feeling is justified, but with our reputation established as Mine Operators, those who invest in Porcupine-Fortuna may rest assured that the management of this property will have the best advice obtainable.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT.

The Officers and Directors of this Company are well known bankers, business and mining men, who have proven successful in handling large financial institutions with profit to the shareholders and credit to themselves. Associated with the bankers and business men are mining men well known in the north mining country of Ontario. They have successfully prospected and operated in Cobalt, Gowganda and Porcupine, and have established reputations for progressiveness, reliability and intelligent operations.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

President: William T. Lyon (President Guardian Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.)
VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex. Gilles (Mine Owner, Cobalt and Porcupine.)
SECRETARY AND TREASURER: G. Heagen (of Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan, Toronto.)

DIRECTORS

Alex. Moore, (Vice-President First National Bank, Philipi, W. Va.)
William T. Lyon, Alex. Gillies.
David Reany (Mine Owner, Haileybury, Ont.)
F. L. Mapes (Mine Owner, Buffalo, N. Y., and Haileybury, Ont.)

STOCK REGISTRARS, TRANSFER AGENTS AND DEPOSITORY

Trusts & Guarantee Co., Ltd. (All certificates are countersigned by them and all transfers of stock are made through them.)

FIRST OFFERING OF SHARES

We take no little pleasure in being able to offer the first 100,000 shares of Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines Limited, at the extremely low price of 15c per share, and the next 100,000 at 20c per share.

OPENING

This allotment will be open for public subscription at our offices, Monday, February 19, 1912, at 10 a.m.

CLOSING

Subscriptions will be closed promptly at noon, Saturday, February 24th, 1912.

OVER-SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the first 100,000 will be filled at 15c. Over-subscriptions will be filled at 20c per share unless instructed to contrary with order. In case of over-subscription, our Subscription Books will be open for inspection of subscribers, so that no question can arise as to orders being filled as received. Copies of prospectus filed with the Government can be had from us. Place your orders through your brokers or direct with us.

Advance information and reservations may be had in person or by mail at above address without obligation.

Brokers who desire to co-operate on this allotment please notify us at once.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

Statutory Prospectus of PORCUPINE FORTUNA GOLD MINES, LIMITED, dated 13th January, 1912, and filed with the Provincial Secretary of Ontario.

Authorized capital, 2,000,000 shares of one dollar each, of which one share each was subscribed by the incorporators (who are also at the date of this Prospectus the directors) viz: James E. Day, John M. Ferguson, Edward V. O'Sullivan and James M. Adam (Barristers), and James F. Coughlin (Law Student), all of the office of Day, Ferguson & O'Sullivan, 59 Victoria-street, Toronto, the Solicitors for the Company.

The Directors are empowered to allot the balance of the stock, i.e., 1,900,000 shares, as agreed to be issued to E. L. Mapes of Haileybury, Ont., Miner, under two contracts, dated 5th of January and 9th of January, 1912, between him and the Company for the transfer to the Company of eight mining claims in Porcupine. All the stock having been issued, the Company has gone to allotment, but by a contract between F. L. Mapes and the Company, January, 1912, he has agreed to donate 1,000,000 shares to be used for treasury purposes. The above contracts may be inspected any day at the office of the above-named Solicitors.

Qualification required of the directors is one share. No provisions are made for attending meetings, nor for underwriting or payment of commission on sale of stock, but the directors have power to fix their own fees and salaries, and to pay a commission up to 25 per cent. on sale of stock, and to sell stock at a discount if any of the said 1,000,000 shares are sold the amount agreed to be paid for same will be payable in full in one instalment. The above directors have no interest in the promotion other than Solicitors, or in promoters' profit which is in the shares issued. The preliminary expenses being government, filing and legal fees, are estimated at under $1500.

Are You Going To Build?

If so, the undersigned, who is a practical stone mason, of long experience, is prepared to do your work in a first class manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

For full particulars, call or address

- J. Gemmell -

TIMES OFFICE, PETERBOROUGH

GOOD-NIGHT

Professor (busy writing):—"What do you want now?"

Lazy:—"I only want to say 'good-night.'"

Professor:—"Never mind now; I'm busy. To-morrow morning will do just as well."

INVOLUNTARY REST

A young lady entered a crowded car with a pair of skates hung over her arm. An elderly gentleman arose to give her his seat.

"Thank you, very much, sir," she said, "but I've been skating all afternoon, and I'm tired of sitting down."

A FLY ON YOUR NOSE

The Beedy One: — "Say, guv'nor, there's a fly on your nose."

Old Gent:— "What the dickens has that to do with you?"

The Beedy One: — "Nothin', nothin': only I thought it would get its wings scorched."

MADRID'S BEAUTIFUL PALACE

The Royal Palace at Madrid is one of the most beautiful structures in the world. It was built at a cost of $5,000,000, and was intended to rival the famous palace at Versailles. Of white marble, it is 470ft. each way, with a court 240ft. square, roofed with glass.

ALLAN LINE
ROYAL MAIL STEAMERS

- WINTER SERVICE -

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—
HESPERIAN
February 24th.
TUNISIAN
March 1st. March 2nd.
GRAMPIAN
March 9th.
VIRGINIAN
March 15th. March 16th.

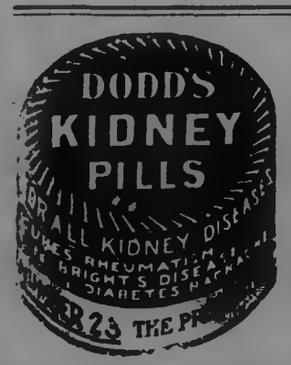
BOSTON-PORTLAND-GLASGOW.

Boston— Portland—
SICILIAN March 7th.
SCOTIAN
March 9th.
IONIAN March 21st.
LAKE ERIE
March 28th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class — Liverpool Service, $72.50, $82.50.
Second Class—$47.50, $50.00, and $52.50.
Third Class—$30.25, $31.35, and $32.50.
(According to steamer and service)

For full particulars of summer sailings and rates, apply to—
W. McILROY, C.P.R. Agent. B. A. ROSE, G.T.R. Agent.
THE ALLAN LINE, TORONTO.



NOTICE.

Monday, the 19th day of February next, will be the last day for presenting Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the 26th day of February next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Friday, the 8th day of March next, will be the last day for receiving Report of Committees on Private Bills.

ARTHUR H. SYDERE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 19th January, 1912.

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof, for an Act to amend the Acts relating to the City of Peterborough, to give the said City authority to expropriate the property, plant and appliances, situated within the Municipality, of any person, firm or Corporation engaged in the business of supplying light, heat or power for sale.

Dated the 14th day of February, A.D., 1912.

F. H. B. HALL,
City Solicitor.

(D—5-16t21-2)

- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1268.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Guaranteed absolutely will tell you Big G is the easiest, quickest and surest cure for discharges, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Prevents contagion. The only preventive of Stricture. Sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, or 6 bottles, $5.00. Circular sent on request.

The Bruno Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number o' school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some do'l at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your hild much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require both sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 44 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

MAN AND WOMAN DYING, WEDDED IN A HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19.—Despite the phantom of death, companion of their grim honeymoon, George Sicler, of Germantown, and his bride who was Miss Genevieve Laurente, of Pittsburg, are happy. On adjoining cots in the Dermady Cottage Sanatorium, at Morton, Pa., they are awaiting daily the final summons Both are in the last stages of tuberculosis.

They were married on Saturday, when their cots were pulled close together so that the dying man might place the ring on the finger of his dying bride as Rev. George Wilson read the words of the marriage ceremony.

CAUGHT CONSUMPTION FROM A PATIENT.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance began seven years ago, when Sicler was ordered to Mount Airy by the physicians. At Mount Airy Sicler met and fell in love with Genevieve Laurente, who engaged to nurse the man back to health. She contracted the deadly malady and her health failed apace with his.

Three years ago they decided it was a losing fight and both were removed to the sanatorium at Morton. For those three years they have occupied adjoining cots, constant companions each trying to cheer each other. Last Saturday they both had premonitions of the end, a matter, according to the physicians, of days. Then they decided to die as man and wife.

BOTH HAPPY AS END DRAWS NEAR.

Sicler called to his bedside Miss Margaret O'Hara, superintendent of the sanitarium, and told her of their wish. She arranged for the ceremony. She and Miss Lillian May, of Germantown, acted as witnesses.

The end draws near, but Mr. and Mrs. Sicler is happy.

The Thaw Saved Money

The past few days have taken about 17,000 pounds of pressure off the minds of the local citizens. The man who had been shovelling coal, during the preceding fortnight into stoves and furnaces as though he was Diabolo chuckling over the quantity of lost souls shoved into Gehennah, but groaning over his own particular expense, has left easier since Saturday. A local insurance agent yesterday said to a Times representative, "I tell you Mr. Blank, that the cold weather just, I hope, over, compelled me by actual count to put twelve to fifteen shovels of coal into my furnace. This means about 14 tons for this winter if the cold continued. However, the moderate weather of the past two days brought my daily shovelling down to about six or seven "spoons" a day. If the present weather keeps on, it will mean scores of dollars to many individual citizens of Peterborough.

West Peterborough Farmers Meet.

Among those present at the meeting of directors of West Peterborough Farmers' Institute were Messrs. Moore, Chambers, Graham, Deyell, Gordon, Mann, G. W. Mann, A. McGregor, Handbidge, Telford, Brown and the secretary. Mr. J. H. Garbutt ably filled the chair. The object was to select a time for the annual meeting, and to see if a speaker should be asked to come from the Department of Agriculture. The farm of Mr. G. W. Mann, Smith, was chosen as the place, and June 19th as the time. The speaker will not be asked to come.

FARMERS' EXCURSION TO BE TO GUELPH

The executive committees of East and West Peterborough and East Durham Farmers' Institutes, at a meeting held in the Munro House, completed arrangements for the annual Farmers' Institute excursion. Messrs. C. O'Reilly, A. J. Fallis, J. A. Vance, J. H. Garbutt, C. E. Moore and Wm. Collins were present. Mr. Vance was appointed chairman of the committee and Mr. Collins secretary. It was decided to run the excursion to Guelph by C.P.R. special train, on Thursday, June 13th, provided satisfactory arrangements could be made.

TO PROTEST THE NE TEMERE ROMAN LAW

Toronto, Feb. 19.—Friday, March 1st, is the probable date for the monster anti-ne temere decree demonstration at the Massey Music Hall.

Rev. E. D. Silcox, secretary of the Evangelical Alliance, stated that the petitions for action by the Dominion and Provincial Governments, continue to pour into his office. The petition movement will be continued until the end of the month. Another member of the Evangelical Alliance executive said that the campaign was in double but parallel lines.

HOW LOCAL CITIZEN PLAYED THE STOCKS

We note that the Toronto Stock Exchange is asking the Legislature for power to lease, improve or sell real estate. The simple word "stock" reminds one of a Stock Exchange (in no way whatever connected with the admirable Toronto Establishment of somewhat similar name, but very different purport) that some time ago operated in Peterborough. The local stock office was directly responsible for at least one local citizen mortgaging his home to pay money lost. Still in this gentleman's dealings with stocks, there is possibly a partial excuse for his losses. The citizen referred to, when in the local office, instead of acting on a studious ly made history of the various stocks boarded, would act thusly:

After sitting in the office for a while, watching the fluctuations (?) of the various stocks as recorded on the blackboard would turn to the manager and ask, "Say, Mr. —— that stock (let us say) D.L. & W. does not seem to be raising very fast in price. I guess it will jump soon. Now put up $200 on a two per cent. margin for me on that." The money was put up, the operator got busy and the deal was closed. After a while the purchaser of the stock asked the manager, "Mr. —— what does D.L. & W. mean?" This local investor found out that he was the owner, of two per cent. worth of Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railway stock. In this particular instance, the stock happened just then to rise and the citizen made a "killing." However, his system of buying or selling, just because the letters in the blackboard headline looked pretty, resulted in his using some trust funds, and a subsequent mortgage on his home. This story is based on actual facts, whilst having not the slightest bearing on the initial paragraph of this article.

JUDGE FOUND SOMEBODY TIPPING OFF MARRIAGE DECISION TO THE CHURCH

Montreal, Que., Feb. 19.—One more postponement was made to-day in the delivery of the anxiously-waited judgment in the famous Hebert marriage case. While it can be definitely stated that the judgment will be read to-morrow, the Montreal newspaper men are pessimistic, and some of them have even written for this afternoon's issue that it won't be delivered this week.

The reason why his Lordship is so reticent, it is said, is because he has been pestered to death by requests as to when he will make his pronouncement, and as a result he has decided to let them guess. It is also rumored in quite a definite way around the court house that there was a leak somewhere and that the Roman Catholic authorities in this city were being made aware of what the judgment contained, as his Lordship dictated it. Whether this is true or not can in no way be verified, but those who say they know what they are talking about tell of a stormy scene that took place recently in his Lordship's chamber in the court house.

Early this morning a score or more of newspapermen were gathered in the corridors outside the practice court, where the judgment will be delivered. None of them cared to go into ask his Lordship if the judgment was coming, so they abided his time till he opened the court at 10.30. Then one of them became bold, went up to the clerk of the court and asked him when they might expect the delivery.

"Not this week," the reporter announced when he joined his comrades.

Another didn't believe him, so another went up to the front of the court, where lawyers were gathered so thick around the dais that his Lordship was not visible. When he returned he stated that he had asked the judge, and that the judge replied "Not this week." At that the newspaper men filed out, leaving his Lordship to continue hearing arguments in French and English, and at times both together.

ONE COPY ONLY IN FRENCH.

It may be granted much time has before the judgment is delivered to-morrow, as it is understood that his Lordship will clear up the cases on the list of the Practice Court first. This may take him an hour or two. The judgment is a voluminous one, and the only copy is in French, in which language it will be read. A dozen newspapermen have tried to secure advance copies or even to have a copy handed out when his Lordship starts reading, but so far none of them have been able to make the necessary arrangements. In the meantime everyone is wondering what the judgment will contain, and quite a number argue from the fact that his Lordship has taken such a long time in preparing it that it is going to upset the usually accepted idea that the law of the Catholic church in Quebec is the law of the civil courts as regards marriage.

NE TEMERE NOT LAW.

The way they figure it out is that if Mr. Justice Charbonneau were to follow many of the previous judgments to that effect he would have made his mind up long ago.

"I think you will find that his Lordship will decide that the ne temere decree has no more to do with the marriage laws of Quebec than it has with those of Ontario," one who has followed the case closely stated this morning. "If that is his Lordship's ruling it will upset the judgment of Mr. Justice Laurendeau, who eleven months ago declared that the Hebert marriage invalid, following the decision of the Church, which set aside the ceremony performed by the Methodist clergyman, Rev. Mr. Timberlake. In that event it seems certain that the Church authorities will enter an appeal, while, if his Lordship decides the marriage is invalis, the lawyers for Mrs. Hebert are prepared to take the case to the Supreme Court if necessary."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

ACTIVE PARTIZANSHIP.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The Hansard reports of the House of Commons show that Hon. Mr. Lemieux asked about the dismissal of George T. Harbor, of Public Works employed at Gaspe since the last election. It seems that Harbor contrary to Government rules, acted as Deputy Returning Officer at the said election. Now right here in Peterborough is one Dominion Government employee, a rabid reformer, who was not only an active partiman but acted as Deputy Returning Officer. Does the axe of dismissal threaten his neck?

Conservative.

THE FARMERS' BANK.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—There was quite a lot of talk a while ago about the Government paying back the money invested in Farmers' Bank stock. Can you tell me whether this money has been paid or if it will be paid. I heard that the Hon. Mr. Crothers, Minister of Labor, before last election, promised that the Government would repay every dollar of this money.

Shareholder.

Reply—The Dominion Government has appointed Sir William Meredith, as special commissioner to investigate all matters in connection with the Farmers' Bank and until he makes his report, it is impossible to answer your question.

REVIVED AT GRAVE SIDE

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 19.—After being prepared for burial and apparently dead two days, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Maholechek, who live near Black Duck was discovered to be alive as the burial service was being held. Three days ago the child fell into a bucket of water and was nearly drowned.

It was noticed at the grave that moisture had gathered on the glass of the coffin, and the body was removed. By the use of stimulants the child was resuscitated.

POLICE COURT

At yesterday's police court, a local man appeared on a charge of D. and D. His right or left eye (our reporter forgot which), was not only in mourning, but the outlying and surrounding shades of that optic reminded him of one of those impressionist paintings, or a Turners' Sunset. The man with the eye, pleaded guilty and helped out the rate payers $5 worth.

Fifty people last Saturday in Hamilton chased an escaped pig through the streets. A few months ago a married man, of Gilmour street, let loose a secret his wife confided to him and she is chasing him yet!

JESUIT FAITH AIDS PERJURY

Condones False Oaths as Well as Dishonesty Says Rev. C. O. Jhonston

WHAT ITS WRITERS ADMIT

"For the mystery of iniquity doth already work; only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way."—II. Thessalonians 2-7.

YOUNG and old seem to have become intensely interested in the exposure of the Jesuits by Rev. C. O. Johnston, of the Queen Street Methodist Church, Toronto. In Peterborough, as well as throughout the country generally, interest has been awakened on this subject, not only amongst Protestants, but amongst Roman Catholics as well. Mr. Johnston's voice is not heard outside the four walls of his church, few newspapers being found brave enough to publish his remarks, otherwise his addresses would, we believe, arouse the country and bring about a change of policy in regard to admitting the Order into Canada. A Society that has been chased out of so many countries should hardly be regarded as desirable.

The Times gives below a summary of Mr. Johnston's address last Sunday evening. The church was crowded to its capacity and many were unable to gain admittance. The transparency of righteousness was the preacher's theme and several times his remarks were received with audible endorsation when he criticized astonishing quotations from great authors in the Jesuit body.

"When you find a man whose business transactions are not transparent beware of that man," warned Mr Johnston.

"When you find a woman whose social life is not transparent to not envy her acquaintances. When you find anything anywhere that refuses to be unveiled and let the light shine upon it, be sure there is a reason for the hiding. Something remains hidden because it needs to be hidden.

Sin Works in the Dark.

"Only sin works in the dark. Only sinners love the darkness. Mysteries do not belong to the ordinary life of humanity.

"There is nothing in true Christianity to hide, no back doors, no secret rooms, no heiroglphy that cannot be understood. God's religion is a religion of perfect clearness.

"It has been said to me in regard to my criticism of the Jesuit teachings 'You do not know what you are talking about—no one outside the circle can know.' I give you the words of those who do know, not the words of any Protestant at all, regarding the Jesuit order that has been turned out of country after country, and has come into Canada on the uqiet. If there are not Jesuits in Toronto there purpose is to be in Toronto, in this country and

Continued on Page 4.

RESOLVED TO CALL OFF THE DYNAMITE GANG

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 19.—To support it contention that many officials, national and local, of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron Workers were implicated in the dynamiting conspiracy against "open shop" employers, the Government is prepared to submit as evidence the original copy of a resolution alleged to have been introduced at the iron workers' international convention at Rochester, N.Y., in 1910, providing that no explosions should take place during the convention.

When a photograph of the document was shown to United States District Attorney Chas. W. Miller today, he said the resolution was an important piece of evidence in the Government's case, but he would not add what action was taken on the resolution by the convention, or through whose hands the manuscript had passed. The resolution reads:

"Resolved that no more bombs or explosions of any kind be exploded while this convention is in session."

A TROUBLE MAKER

Tea and Coffee Poison Breeds Variety of Ills.

A California woman who didn't know for twenty years what kept her ill, writes to tell how she won back her health by quitting coffee: (Tea contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee).

"I am 54 years old," she says, 'have used coffee all my life and for 20 years suffered from indigestion and insomnia. Life was a burden and a drag to me all the time, and about once a year my ailments got such hold upon me that I was regularly 'sick in bed' for several weeks each time.

"I was reluctant to conslude that coffee was the cause of my trouble, but I am thankful that I found out the truth.

"Then I determined to use Postum exclusively—for a week at first—for I doubted my ability to do without coffee for any length of time. I made the Postum carefully, as directed, and before the week expired had my reward in a perceptible increase in strength and spirits.

"Seeing the good that my short experiment had accomplished, I resolved to continue the use of Postum, cutting out the coffee entirely. This I did for nine months, finding, daily, increased cause for gratification at my steadily improving health. My indigestion gradually left me, my sleep returned, I gained 26 pounds in weight, my color changed from sallow to a fresh, rosy hue and life became a blessing.

"Then I thought I would try coffee again, and did so for a few weeks. The punishment for deserting my good friend Postum, was a return of my old troubles.

"That taught me wisdom, and I am now and shall be all my life hereafter using Postum exclusively and enjoying the benefits it brings me." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Mrs. McGrath's Funeral To-day.

The funeral of the late Margaret Sheehan, wife of Mr. John McGrath, 697 Harvey street, who died Saturday night, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery. The late Mrs. McGrath was 60 years of age, and had spent all her life in Peterborough. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, two sons and two daughters. The sons are Thomas McGrath, of New York City and Leo of Hartford, Conn., and the daughters, Misses Mabel and Kathleen, at home.

THE WEATHER.

Not much change in temperature.

FATHER CHOPS ENDS OFF SONS FINGERS

Montreal, Feb. 19.—Alfred Lapiere, aged 50, living at 12 Percheron street, appeared before Judge Leet to-day, charged with heinous offences against members of his family. The wife, a five and twelve year old daughter, and a ten year old son constitute the accused's family. All of them are alleged to have suffered from his brutality. On one occasion the father, is said to have picked up an axe and chopped off the ends of two of the boy's fingers. Sergeant Gagnon, who investigated the case at the direction of Chief Campeau, says that the Lapiere family were living in the utmost squalor and filth.

MAN GETS SIX MONTHS GIRL SENT TO MERCER

William James Shaw was sentenced yesterday afternoon in the County Court to six months in the Central Prison on a charge of vagrancy and seduction. The girl, Elsie Park, who was implicated in the case, received a sentence of two years in the Mercer Reformatory. The girl wept bitterly when sentenced to this Toronto Asylum for abandoned women.

CHANGES MAY AFFECT OUR LOCAL REGISTRAR

A pamphlet just received, entitled "An Act to Amend the Registry Act," will be of general interest. It seems that certain sections of that Act are repealed and the following substituted therefor: "The registrar or his deputy shall attend at his office on every Saturday in the year, not being a holiday, from the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon until one o'clock in the afternoon, and no longer, and instruments shall be registered or received for registration on that day, except within those hours."

LAUGHED ON THE GALLOWS

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 19.—J. Lawrence Odom, convicted of the murder of three persons, was hanged here to-day. He refused the ministrations of a clergyman, who labored with him all night, and those of his own son, a Catholic priest. He mounted the gallows stoically, and laughingly asked to see his wife.

Odomwas convicted of killing C. Galong, Joseph Stokes and David Gaetman, the latter a boy of 16. They had been witnesses against him in police Court on a charge of cruelty to a dog.

Thekilling took place March 18th, 1910, at Citronville, Ala. He shot the boy at the feet of his mother as she was pleading for his life.

Odomwas tried twice and declared guilty each time. He was wealthy.

Grand Concert and Open Meeting.

Court Chemong, I.O.F., will hold an entertainment in the Conservatory Hall on the evening of February 21 (to-morrow). Address by G. A. Mitchell, D.S.C.R., Supt. of Field Work assisted by Miss Maude M. Bigwood, soloist; Miss Lillian Dillon, contralto and pianiste; Harvey S. Lloyd, entertainer. Mayor Bradburn will take the chair. The public invited. Admission free.

Post Toasties

Convenience, Satisfaction and Economy

—all in a single package—make Post Toasties a favorite in the pantry and a delight to the palate. Housewives who know the goodness of this tempting, wholesome food, quickly appreciate its value.

Post Toasties

are bits of selected white corn, cooked, rolled and toasted to a golden brown.

They present the rich flavor of corn in dainty, appetizing form, and when served with cream are sure to be appreciated.

"The Memory Lingers"

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Post Food Factories, Windsor, Ontario, Canada

THEIR NEW HERO.

NEWTON WESLEY ROWELL—"Ah ha; At last, Sir James." (As described by the Liberal Press.)
—From The Toronto News.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a Complete Change of Programme Every Day

To-Day's Show

"THE PROFESSOR"
(A Drama)

"HIS ADVENTURE"
(A Colored Drama)

The Divided Ring Comedy.

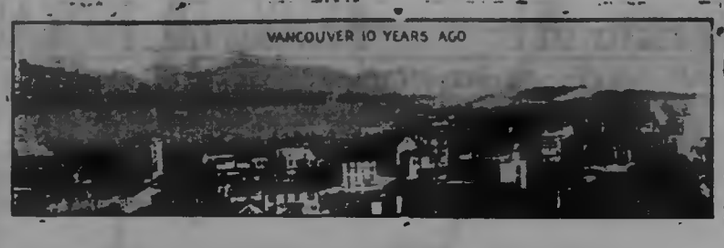
Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security



100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.

FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jf L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B,C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited
432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms 1/11 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
518 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

WAR AEROPLANES FOR THE BRITISH

The War Office Will Purchase a Large Number of Military Airships

Important plans are pending in connection with British military and naval airmanship. Colonel Seely's speech, in which he said that the Government proposed to make up for lost ground, foreshadowed early developments. It is understood that the War Office is arranging to purchase, almost immediately, a number of military aeroplanes, among them machines of British manufacture. A largely increased air-fleet will be necessary to provide machines for the Air Battalion when strengthened by the carrying out of the recently announced scheme of organizing a corps of 100 skilled airmen.

The Admiralty is now interesting itself in a practical way in airmanship. Another batch of naval officers is to be taught to fly at Eastchurch (Isle of Sheppey). The two Valkyrie machines recently presented to the Navy by Mr. H. Barber are to be used in experiments to gain data regarding the use of hydro-aeroplanes. Constructional experiments to determine the features of an exclusively naval aeroplane are to be carried out by Messrs. Short Brothers in their aircraft factory on the Isle of Sheppey.

Among the aeroplanes shown at the Grand Palais, Paris, is an English model, the Bristol military monoplane, which appears to combine all the qualities to be looked for in a military machine. Its skids are jointed in front so as to reduce the shock of landing on bad ground by means of special springs which project far to the rear so as to act as a brake. Its slip attachment, which will enable the pilot to start without assistance, is also a very attractive feature.

Among the tendencies of construction, apart from the use of metal instead of wood, the increased solidity of landing chassis, and the attempts made by the provision of mica windows and the like to give the pilot and passenger as good a view as possible, one notes the great attempt to avoid head resistance and to protect the airman from the pit of the motor and the weather. The necessary struts and wires are cut down to a minimum, and the body, including the engines and the aerial [illegible] metal, wood and fabric. In some cases, notably in monoplanes shown by the Paulhan-Tatin firm, the result is an object which looks like an exaggerated torpedo with wings. Even the control arrangements are doubled so as to enable either airman to take charge of the machine.

The attempt made in the Paulhan biplane which was acquired by the War Office, to obtain flexibility of wing, is repeated this year, though to a less extent, by the biplane shown by the German Albatroswerke, which, in addition to a wooden chassis of unusual construction, has very flexible edges to its birdlike wings. The fact that there are only fifteen biplanes to thirty-nine monoplanes in the show indicates the predominant position for military purposes at present held by the monoplane, but there is on view more than one biplane which possesses important merits from the military point of view. Among the latter machines, besides the Albatros, may be mentioned the Savary with its two big tractor screws and the Sloan, which follows in its lower plane the curving of a bird's wings, and has big ailerons which are said to give it an exceptional sliding angle. Ailerons (movable pegs attached to the edge of the wings), by the way, seem nearly extinct. Even the biplane makers who used to try them in all sorts of shapes appear to have dropped them this year and to rely on warping instead. It is noticeable, too, that the 50-h.p. Gnome engine is found powerful enough for a very large proportion of the machines. There are, however, several other well-tried motors on view. Several firms show the impressive engine-rooms of airships, and there is one complete airship, the Astra.

LOST THE TENNIS CUP

Americans Grieve Over the Victory of New Zealanders

Boston is in mourning. The Transcript announces that "the defeat of the American team for the Davis lawn tennis cup in New Zealand is the most surprising as well as the most overwhelming defeat that the American team has ever suffered. It would be difficult to get together three better tennis players in the United States than Larned, Wright, and McLoughlin, and the opinion given out by Mr. Larned on his way to Australia—namely, that if this team did not bring back the cup it would be difficult to find a team in the future that would—was certainly prophetic." That is just the sort of thing the English papers were wont to say when first the Americans and colonials began to beat the old country in cricket, and running, and rowing, and other outdoor sports. It is the remark that comes naturally to the middle-aged sport when the young fellows begin to teach him that he is out of training. New England is no longer young England. By-and-bye it will sit beside John Bull on the old sports' bench and watch the boys on its own West, and Canada, and Australia, and South Africa at play.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

643 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, ared at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivto be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets. Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered ot Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the [illegible]

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dam and Sluiceways at Lake Quinze Que., will be received until 4.00 P.M. on Thursday, February 15, 1912, for the construction of a Dam and Sluiceways below the outlet of Lake Quinze at the head of Maple Rapids, in the townships of Guerin and Baby, County of Pontiac, Que.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department, and at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq. District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont., J. L. Michaud, Esq' District Engineer, Merchants Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, and on application to the Postmaster at Haileybury, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 17, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for

HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS

Consignments Solicited

E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and illtreated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks,

Was the Lady's Program Full.

At a recent local dance, a young lady visiting here from Port Hope, whose first dance it was in public, began to cry shortly after supper. In response to sympathy expressed by friends she said "that man over there with the big mustache just a minute ago asked me if my program was full. Now I can assure you. I have only had nine sandwiches, two helpings of turkey, four pieces of jelly cake, a little trifle and three or four glasses of claret in cup; still that monster over there asks is 'My program full.'"

Lindsay For Public Abbatoir.

Lindsay's Board of Health is in favor of a public abbatoir. At the last meeting of that Board, it was moved that Dr. Wood and Medical Health Officer McAlpine act as a deputation to go to Toronto and cooperate with Berlin, in placing before the Provincial Board their desires of having a public abbatoir in Lindsay. Clerk Ray at once wired the Berlin Board that a deputation from Lindsay would meet their members in Toronto on Monday, Feb. 12.

Lindsay Firemen Want Increase.

At a recent council meeting in Lindsay, it developed just like here, in Peterborough, that the firemen consider themselves underpaid. A deputation on their behalf appeared before the City Fathers asking for an increase in salary, believing they were deserving. They did not think it was right to dock the firemen for fires they did not attend. The firemen $925 a year salary, paid quarterly, while $25 was paid at Christmas time as a kind of a Christmas box.

Normal School Lit. At-home.

The At-Home of the Normal school was a bright and enjoyable event. The hall was tastefully decorated. The chairman of the evening was Mr. H. S. MacNaughton, president of the Society. On the program was a chorus by the Glee Club, violin selection by Miss Welsh, drill by young ladies, scenes from King Lear by the students, solo by Miss Steinhoff, and promenades, the music being provided by the Grand Opera House orchestra. Coleman Bros. had charge of the catering.

Look Out for Clothes Lines.

Here is a warning to the man who splits his own wood, and a good percentage of Peterborough daily daily with an axe in the back yard. Look out for the clothes lines as you swing your axe and with a grunt bring it down on the inoffensive kindling. A man at Mount Horeb a few days ago forgot an overhead wire line. The axe caught the line and on the rebound caught the man, Mr. P. Howden. Several stitches were necessary in his scalp. Our older citizens will remember a local professional man who was knocked senseless from the agthe canoe.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

"Of course!" said Elsa, wonderingly. "Did you think I meant anything else? My mother means to get them for herself. I, too, mean to get them—for Margaret Ryan."

Scarborough looked at her in some surprise, then a smile of pleasure lighted his face.

"I am glad," he said, "because that hints that you and she have become friends at last."

"Does it?" asked Elsa, quietly. "Then it is a hint which I should advise you not to act upon. Margaret Ryan and I can never be friends."

"But you are going to work for her," Scarborough objected.

"My father stole from her. I want to make restitution to her—for my own sake, and for the sake of my father's memory, that is all. Afterwards, when I have discharged my debt to her, I shall count that my hands are free for other work."

Scarborough noted with wonder the hard, almost vindictive expression on the girl's face, and asked softly:

"What work, Elsa?"

"The work of bringing her guilt home to her, if she is guilty. She has yet to prove that her hands are not stained with blood."

CHAPTER XVI.

Whose Are the Diamonds?

"I mean to restore the diamonds to Margaret Ryan," said Elsa again. "They were bought with her money. They are hers."

Scarborough hesitated.

"I am not so sure that you can," he said.

"I can, if you and I can recover them. If my mother is before us, perhaps I can't. But we must prevent that from happening."

"That is not what I mean," said Scarborough. "What I doubt is whether we have the right to dispose of them so, if we do get them. I hope we can, but I'm afraid we can't. I don't know how the law stands exactly, but I think they will be counted to belong to your father's creditors as a whole, and not to any one creditor singly."

"But you told me yourself that it was proved that the girl's inheritance was stolen at the last moment, that it had nothing to do with the firm's bankruptcy. Your words were that it was taken after he became bankrupt, to swell his plunder."

"After he became bankrupt, but before he had been declared bankrupt," said Scarborough. "That is the point, I'm afraid."

Elsa made a gesture of impatience. "It may be the point later," she said. "But the point just now is that my mother means to repeat my father's theft, if she can. But she shan't! Horace, she shan't!"

"Where is she now?" asked Scarborough.

"No, at an hotel in Ponta Delgada. She went with me to the Ring-Rock yesterday, and afterwards she said that she was too tired to come back here. She went to an hotel, and I came back home alone."

"What were you doing at the Ring-Rock?"

Elsa handed him the last letter which her father had written to her, saying:

"Read that. It will explain."

Scarborough read the letter, and though he saw the falseness of it, he pitied the dead man who had written it. Moreover, he understood a little better why it was that Elsa had clung so firmly to her mistaken faith. To him the falseness in the letter was plain, but the love was plain too, for the wretched man had lied and struggled because of it; to his daughter's eyes, therefore, it was natural enough, since she too loved him, that the love alone should be visible.

He handed the letter back to her. "You hid the packet at the Ring-Rock," he said, "and recovered it yesterday? What did it contain?"

"Nothing that I had hoped it would contain," said Elsa, sadly.

He was silent. He knew what it was that she had hoped, and how impossible it had been that her hope should be realized.

"There was a long letter to my mother," said Elsa, "and a closely written roll of manuscript headed: 'Some Notes on the "Fallacies of Herbert Spencer."'"

"Was that all?"

"Yes, except a few lines directing that the manuscript was to be submitted to the judgment of Mr. Davis, and if he approved, was to be published. My mother tore it up and threw it into the sea."

"What? The note, you mean!" exclaimed Scarborough.

"The manuscript," said Elsa.

Scarborough smiled; but there was no amusement in his smile—only pity. The guilty man had spent two years over that manuscript, had made it his hobby, perhaps had dulled the gnawing of conscience by doing what he thought was useful work. His widow came, and she threw it all into the sea!

"She showed no more respect for his wishes in that than she did in another thing on which he had set his heart," said Elsa. "She read me some of his letter. It was an earnest appeal to her to keep me in ignorance of his guilt. Her answer to that appeal was a sneer and a jibe. She took away every shred of my ignorance, cared nothing that he had loved me, and laughed at me for having had the folly to believe in him. I think my mother is a wicked woman, Horace. In one part of my father's letter to her he said that she had driven him into crime. She read that to me, too, as though it were true and as though she did not care whether I knew it or not. Certainly she did not deny it. I must believe that it was true. But there was one part that she did not read. It was the part in which he told her where the diamonds were. I think she did not read that, because she knew that I would prevent her from getting them, if I could."

"One moment," said Scarborough, quickly. "How do you know that the part which she did not read contained that information? Did she tell you so?"

"No."

"Then how do you know?"

"I don't know. But she blamed me for having left the stone jar where I did. She said that if anyone else had found it, she and I might make up our minds to be paupers, and that it would be my fault. She said so more than once. The last time was when we found that someone had been watching us all the time that we spent at the Ring-Rock."

Then Elsa went on to explain that when they were drawing near to the Ring-Rock a small boat with a man in it had shot out from the opening, and that her mother had said that if the stone jar was not where Elsa had hidden it, the man must be pursued. Afterwards, in the excitement of what followed, they had both forgotten about this man, and they sailed away from the Rock without thinking of him again. However, when they were about half a mile away from it, they saw him climb down its outer flanks and get into his boat. He had evidently waited till they were inside, and had then returned, landed on the outside, and climbed up to a point from which he could watch them. The day was calm, and the movement of water against the flanks of the rock was less than usual; but even so there was a constant noise of breaking water. It was hardly likely that he could hear as well as see.

"Do you know who he was?" asked Scarborough.

"No. I thought that most probably he was a chance visitor, who was impelled by no motive more unexplainable than a simple curiosity to know what we were going to do there."

Scarborough shook his head, saying:

"Did Mrs. Carrington think so?"

"No," said Elsa. "Mother seemed to be afraid of him. I don't know why."

"I think I can see why," said Scarborough. "She had a document in her possession which was valuable, and she was nervous about losing it. Also it looks as though she had some reason to think that there was someone in the island who knew enough to be dangerous. Had she read that letter which you showed me just now?"

"Yes," said Elsa.

"Then she probably interpreted it as I do. There is someone who knows about the diamonds, and has already made attempts to get hold of them."

"Do you mean [illegible]" Elsa asked.

"Perhaps [illegible] hooded woman will turn out to be someone I [illegible]," said Scarborough. "I don't know. But I am sure that there was someone who was threatening your father. In his letter to you he speaks of himself as going to meet a known danger for your sake:—'I shall be engaged in a contest with an enemy who is well known to me; an enemy who of late has taken to using threats.' Those are his words. 'What do you suppose they mean?'"

"I took them to refer to his physical weakness—the aneurism which killed him," said Elsa.

"I don't think so," the young man replied. "He speaks of that afterwards, in a different connection. I don't think the two things are the same. Besides, he hints that he is being shadowed."

"By somebody in the circus company Margaret Ryan," said Elsa.

"The circus company had only just arrived, and there is no reason to suppose that he knew anything of its members. The 'Danger' circus' cablegram came only the day before, and gave only a vague warning. I think that it is obvious that there had already been some attempt to take the diamonds from him, and the expedition he speaks of was rendered necessary by that attempt. The thing which we have as yet no clue to is the object of that expedition."

"Surely to hide the diamonds," said Elsa.

"He might have done that near home, without endangering his life by making a tremendous physical effort. It seems to me that he went to meet someone. For what reason, we don't know; but it may have been to arrange a compromise, or even to pay blackmail for immunity in the future. The key to the riddle may, as you suggest, be the identity of the hooded woman."

Elsa said nothing for a moment. Then she looked gravely at the young man, and said:

"I believe the hooded woman was Margaret Ryan."

Scarborough turned to her with a stare of genuine surprise. So this was why she said that Margaret Ryan had still to prove that her hands were clean of blood!

"You believe that?" he asked.

"Yes," said Elsa.

"I think I can prove to you that you are wrong," said Scarborough, quietly. "I know that the place where she met your father—met him accidentally, I believe—was ten miles from the place where Mr. Davis saw the hooded woman following him."

"You have only her word for that," said Elsa. "And you think that because she says she was bicycling in the Furnas district, it is impossible that she should, a couple of hours later, be masquerading in capote and capello near the Casa Davis and the Caldeair de Morte. Why is it impossible? I believe that it is a fact. I think that she was the last person who spoke to my father in life, and I do not acquit her of responsibility in his death. He died of over-excitement or over-exertion. How do we know that it was not the excitement of his interview with her which killed him? If the diamonds can be found, I mean that she shall have them; but that does not mean that I believe for a moment what she says."

"Will you tell me what it does mean?"

"Merely, as I told you before, that since I cannot prove that my father was innocent, I will do all that I can to atone for his guilt, by giving back where I can. I used to take pride in the thought that one day I should help him to clear his name from every stain. I cannot do that now,—but I loved him—perhaps because I loved him—I shall take pride in trying to reverse the evil that he did."

She said this with an earnestness which was almost fierce in its intensity, and Scarborough recognised that she meant every word of it. Her determination to restore her property to the girl whom her father had robbed was due to a simple pride in doing the thing which she thought to be right. Presently she asked:

"Has Margaret Ryan ever explained what the mysterious business was which kept her from performing in the circus the night my father died? It must have been something more important than a simple bicycle ride, else she said what it was?"

"She refuses to do so."

"Well, then?" said Elsa.

Scarborough shook his head. "You are wrong," he said. "Will you come with me to see her? I am off duty for the rest of the day. Will you ride to Ponta Delgada with me now?"

"What shall we gain by seeing her?"

"Perhaps she will tell us what we want to know."

"Very well. I will come."

Scarborough had a double motive in making this suggestion. In the first place he thought that if Margaret Ryan knew that they were working in her interests, she might be more ready to help them. She had refused before, but that was because she resented the implied suspicion which she thought that her questioner felt. Differently approached, she might be willing to say what she knew; and Scarborough had seen signs, in the last interview he had had with her, that her attitude towards himself had changed. He remembered too that she had said that she liked Elsa, in spite of the scorn with which Elsa had treated her; and she had even wished him God speed in his wooing.

His second reason was that he remembered that, when in the beginning he had himself felt inclined to suspect, Varney had angrily declared that the best cure for that folly was to know the girl herself. Varney had introduced him, and the cure had been complete. Perhaps in Elsa's case too, a fuller acquaintance with the girl whom she suspected would be the best means of killing the suspicion.

Val B. Montague had taken a house in Ponta Delgada for the use of his troupe until the Sea-Horse should be ready for them again. Scarborough and Elsa went there, and asked for Mona de la Mar.

She received them graciously, and though Elsa responded to her advances coldly, she refused to see that she was snubbed. Scarborough told her shortly what had happened, explained that they were now working for her, and again put his question about her business on that night.

"I have given up all thought of recovering what was stolen from me," she told him. "Even if you could offer me those diamonds to-day, I am not sure that I would take them."

Elsa smiled faintly, and Scarborough said:

"Then you still refuse to help us?"

"No. If it will help you to know what my business was, I will tell you. I would have told you at first, if I hadn't thought that you suspected me of complicity in Mr. Carrington's death. My business was with a man who had written to me that he could recover my property for me, and would do so if I agreed to the terms [illegible]"

"You gave it him?" cried Elsa.

"And afterwards."

"Afterwards I went for a bicycle ride, and met your father."

CHAPTER XVII.

The Senhor Manoel Bernardo

Elsa turned to Scarborough. "You were right," she said. "The enemy whom my father feared was not one of the circus troupe, if"—she turned swiftly to the other girl, and added:—"if Miss Ryan is speaking the truth."

Mona flushed angrily, and then broke into a little laugh.

"Mona de la Mar, Equestrienne of the haute ecole in Val B. Montague's American Touring Circus Combination, can only refer you to her employer for her character," said she, with a mocking little curtsey. "Miss Ryan has merged her identity in that of Mademoiselle Mona. Shall I ring for Val B. Montague to come and give me a testimonial of veracity?"

"I think we shall get on faster if we take it for granted," said Scarborough, quietly. Why, he wondered, did Elsa go out of her way to say such things?

"No doubt," said Mona. "Still—?"

She went to the bell rope, and put her hand on it, turning to Elsa with a smile of questioning.

"I beg your pardon," said Elsa. "I think you are speaking the truth."

Mona waited a moment, with the smile, half mocking, half angry, playing around her lips. Then, with a sudden movement she let the rope drop, went to Elsa and took her hands.

"Why can't we be friends?" she asked, gravely. "I like you, and I think I can make you like me, if you will let me. I want to be your friend. Won't you let me?"

Elsa drew her hand away; but Scarborough, watching the pair, thought that Mona's impulsive action had in a few seconds done more to make Elsa believe in her than argument would have done in an hour.

"I don't think friendship is possible between us," she said; but she said it as though she were sorry.

"Why not?" said Mona. "There is only one thing that can make it impossible. It is impossible if you still believe that I had anything to do with your father's death. But I don't think that you can really believe that."

"I told Mr. Scarborough this morning that I still believed it," said Elsa relentlessly.

Mona drew back.

"You are honest!" she said, and there was resentment in her tone.

"But if he asked me the same question now," Elsa went on, "I should give him a different answer. I believe now that you had nothing to do with it. But I don't think we can be friends."

Mona laughed.

"If you won't, of course we can't," she said. "But I shall try to make you. I liked the way you defended your father against me, the other night in the fog. I think you are brave, and I know you are loyal. I think I even know why you say it is impossible that we should be friends. May I guess? It isn't because I am a common circus girl, earning a monthly wage."

She paused, waiting for Elsa to answer.

"Of course it is not," said Elsa.

"Because, after all, I don't think I am very common! Is it because you have got into the way of regarding me as your enemy, and don't feel that you can change round all at once?"

"Yes."

(To be Continued)

Advertise In The Times

Lakefield Fans for Peterborough.

Lakefield News: A sudden death game will be played in the Trent Valley League, in the Brock street Rink, Peterborough, on Wednesday night, February 21st, between Lakefield and Hastings hockey teams. The winner of this game will go into the semi-finals. Arrangements are being made for a special train to leave Lakefield and return immediately after the game.

DUSTBANE

DUST KILLER

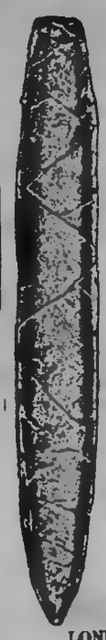
A handful in a bag

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

"Packed in Bibs., ½ Bibs. & ¼ Bibs. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs. For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co."



10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

UNEXCELLED TRAIN SERVICE

FAST TIME AND ATTENTION

WINNIPEG	SASKATOON
EDMONTON	REGINA
BRANDON	CALGARY
BANFF	LAGGAN
NELSON	ROSSLAND
SPOKANE	VANCOUVER
VICTORIA	SEATTLE
TACOMA	PORTLAND

Standard and Tourists Sleeping Cars

Via Canada's Greatest Highway

W. McILROY, - - - Agent

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Rose, City Agent.
F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures $2.00 Wholesale to All

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,
16-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing, Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 623

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the finest and purest in the market

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a specialty

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co Ltd.

QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic	Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion	Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada	Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1913 Now Ready. Send for Lists

Local Agents W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Rose G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY
Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMERS

WINTER SERVICE

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

HESPERIAN
February 24th.

TUNISIAN
March 1st. March 2nd.

GRAMPIAN
March 9th.

VIRGINIAN
March 15th. March 16th.

BOSTON-PORTLAND-GLASGOW.

Boston— Portland—

SICILIAN
March 7th.

SCOTIAN
March 9th.

IONIAN
March 21st.

LAKE ERIE
March 28th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class — Liverpool Service, $72.50, $82.50.

Second Class—$47.50, $50.00, and $52.50.

Third Class—$30.25, $31.25, and $32.50.

(According to steamer and service)

For full particulars of summer sailings and rates, apply to—

W. McILROY, C.P.R. Agent. B. A. ROSE, G.T.R. Agent.

THE ALLAN LINE, TORONTO.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,580,549.11

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:
437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO
W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

HOME-SICK COLLIE

Emerson said: "In dealing with children, as much soul as you have avails." This is true in treating with domestic animals, especially the dogs. Here is an example which tells me so:

I saw a traveller at a railroad station leading a beautiful Scotch collie with a chain around his neck. He told me the dog was eleven months of age, was born and raised on a farm in Southern Indiana, and that he had bought it and was taking it to Eastern Pennsylvania.

"But," said he, "I am worried about him. We have been on the road a day and a night, and I can't make him eat."

He bought at the lunch-counter a few slices of bread with milk poured over them, and took them on a wooden picnic plate outside to see if he could coax "John" to eat. But the dog turned his head away and looked wistfully out of the station shed down the shining steel rails. Then it was that I thought of Emerson's remark, and I asked if I could try and induce the animal to eat. The privilege was granted, and I squatted down and called, "John, come here, I want to talk to you."

John came over and put his head up near my face, and I said:—

"Poor boy! I know your trouble. You are so homesick. You want to see the cows and the children, don't you?"

He put his head on one side and seemed to be drinking in every word. His eyes were deep and soulful.

"I know just how you feel, for there have been times when I wanted to see the cows, the green fields, and the children. And then the sights and sounds are all so strange to you, John. You feel so far away and lost as a little puppy will and been taken away from home, don't you? But, dear, you must eat, for you have a long, long journey before you. Come on over here with me and I'll feed you."

And so he followed me and ate the whole supper from my hands. As I looked up, I saw there were men around us with tears on their faces.—Edgar Illiff, in "Our Dumb Animals."

ANNOUNCED THE PREACHER

It is related of a preacher in a small town, who was to be absent from his pulpit a fortnight, that he recently announced after the sermon:—

"The preacher for next Sunday will be Mr. Firstly, and the one for the Sunday after you'll find hanging up behind the door on the other side of the vestry."

POLICY TO OPTICIANS

The latest insurance novelty is a policy issued to opticians, covering them for a small premium against actions-at-law, damages, and costs connected with errors or asserted errors in the adjustment of spectacles.

Wild Animals Nearly Loose.

On Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, a cart went up George street. This, in itself is not much to talk about, but this cart had a peculiar cargo. It was being used as an advertisement for a local wild west show. On it was an open cage containing a large wolf. On top of several boxes was a small animal, that in the subsequent excitement looked like a bear. There were also several men dressed in Indian garb with feather head-dresses. Just as the conveyance got opposite the grocery store managed by Mr. Fred Walker, under the title of R. A. Dutton & Co., the runners caught in the street car tracks. The cart slewed and ran for some distance on one runner at an angle of 45 degrees. The wolf howled, the animal on top growled and the men in Indian garb used language not heard every day in Parliamentary circles. However, the cart renewed its equilibrium before Little Red Riding Hood's wolf escaped.

Market prices still kept soaring on Saturday's market. Butter went to 40c.

Subscriptions to Protestant Home.

In addition to subscriptions towards the Protestant Home Building Fund already acknowledged in The Times, are the following:

Prev. acknowledged	$10,708.50
Mrs. R. S. Davidson	10.00
Wm. Drummond	3.00
T. W. R.	2.00

Why a Local Vag Drank.

A local option supporter a few days ago met a man 'on Hunter street, whose knees were wobbly and whose general condition was about as far below par as the mercury has been below zero lately. The philanthropist asked "My poor man do you drink because you are poor or are you poor because you drink?" In response, the vagrant replied: "Neither. I drink because I'm dry."

THIN, FRAIL WOMEN WITA PALE CHEEKS

NOW RAPIDLY LEARNING THE WAY TO HEALTH AND VIGOR BY THE USE OF DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

Thousands of half-dead, emaciated, worn-out women are dragging out their weary lives simply because they don't know what ails them. Nine times in ten it's indigestion, which directly leads to anaemia, poor circulation, and eventually invalidism.

The first step towards relief is to flush out all wastes and unhealthy matter. Loosen the bowels—stir up the liver—stimulate the kidneys. Once this is done, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will quickly manifest their health-restoring qualities.

"The best way to correct impaired digestion, to cure constipation, headache, liver trouble, and other ailments of the stomach and bowels," writes Mrs. Uriah A. Dempsey, from Woodstock, "is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I didn't know what it was to enjoy a good meal for months. My stomach was sour, I belched gas, was thin, tired, pale, and nervous. I simply housecleaned my system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and have been robust and vigorous ever since."

To keep the machinery of the body in active working order, no remedy is so efficient, so mild, so curative as Dr. Hamilton's Pills—good for men, women and children, 25c. per box, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1912

WELSH DISESTABLISHMENT.

Bitterness seems to mark the British campaign over Welsh disestablishment. The Asquith government has pledged itself to introduce a measure at the approaching session, and to push it with all the forces at the government's command. As those forces are now irresistible, it may be inferred that the privileges of the Church of England in Wales are in danger. The danger is fully recognized. Already, in the somewhat disrespectful language of Home Secretary McKenna, the drum ecclesiastics, bishops and militant bishops have taken the field.

One point made by the church party is that the church in Wales is not distinct from the Church of England. The four Welsh dioceses are part of the ecclesiastical province of Canterbury. Welsh disestablishment, Lord Hugh Cecil remarks, will be like cutting a steak from a living body.

THE WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY.

In commercial spots the world has been quivering for weeks with expectation that there would not be a normal food supply during the winter and the spring. Speculators in American cities and abroad have been keeping an eye upon the cable offices. Word has been coming that the great wheat-growing country of Argentina—now just completing the harvest—would have a heavy shortage. Therefore boom prices for the barely normal crop of the northern hemisphere! A higher price per bushel! A barrel of flour would cost more in Minneapolis; before the hard, cold months are over a loaf of bread might cost more in Boston.

Hardly. That was only the dream—and the hope—of men who are long on the chiefest of life-sustaining cereals. Now it is known not alone that there is no Argentine shortage, but that the second largest wheat crop in the history of this planet was garnered in the year of grace 1911. The department of agriculture is the authority. They have taken into account the damage from rain and sleet in this country, and the damage from the heavy downpour in Argentina. Canada's bumper contribution and the 17,000,000 additional wheat acres, mostly in the Pampa—an Argentine province that emissaries of northern speculators did not figure upon have brought the 1911 total of wheat up to 3,572,000,000 bushels!

All the Russian crop failure accordingly goes a glimmering. There is an enormous current supply. Furthermore granaries on both sides of the Atlantic hold large surpluses from former years for feeding the hungry. There is bread and meat—for all the world and to spare.

Yes, there is a great potato shortage. Germany raised 300,000,000 bushels less than usual. The great corn-producing countries of the globe are 650,000,000 bushels below the average.

Another Local Mail Route.

It will be interesting to many of our readers and local advertisers to know that another rural mail route is to be inaugurgted at an early date. It will serve the district from Peterborough down to Norwood Rd by way of what is known as Block Road in Otonabee. This new route will serve a large, wealthy and populous part of the county.. Advertisers are reminded that The Times is the only paper published that will reach the people on local rural routes on day of publication. Probably ninety per cent. of those on the route mentioned and others are served by The Times. Here is a point well worth serious consideration by the merchant who does not want to keep stock on his shelves until out of date or moth-eaten.

QUEBEC FARMER TELLS GOOD NEWS

FOUND COMPLETE CURE FOR CRAMPS AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

Suffered for Six Years, but Found Health and New Life in Dodd's Kidney Pills — Warm Praise for Old Reliable Remedy.

Marie East, Bonaventure Co., Quebec, Feb. 19.—(Special)—Mr. Peter Bernard, a prosperous young farmer living near here, is spreading the good news that he has found a complete cure for his kidney troubles.

"I suffered for six years from cramps in the muscles and kidney disease," Mr. Bernard says, "but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely. Yes, I am feeling so well that I want other sufferers to know just how easy it is to be cured."

It is a good old saying that it is easy to do anything if you just know how. And Mr. Bernard and hundreds of others are telling you just how to cure kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it. And as kidney disease is the direct cause of rheumatism, lumbago, Bright's disease, heart disease, pain in the back and urinary troubles Dodd's Kidney Pills cure them by removing the cause. If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills yourself ask your neighbors about them.

JESUIT FAITH AIDS PERJURY

Continued from Page 1.

in the United States and all over the world.

Speak for the Church.

"I shall not speak of them of my own knowledge, but give the words of those who do know."

Mr. Johnston quoted the newspaper Le Canada, to the effect that the Jesuits were responsible for a semi-religious quarrel, and that there interference was not wanted. "That paper speaks for the Church alone—it does not speak for the Protestant community," he said.

"Why am I cursed for standing on a Protestant platform and speaking on this question? Why not pitch into Le Canada and other papers that reproach them?

"I hold in my hand a work of one of the most consciencious men ever in Jesuitism, who says: "Do not think that I have turned away from my mother and the church that brought me up, but I am only writing against an order existing within the church that is destroying the [illegible]

Not to the Point.

The reference, Mr. Johnston pointed out, was to the Jesuit order. "I am not saying these things. They are said by men still living. I am prepared to answer direct for every word I say."

Mr. Johnston then quoted the Jesuit author, Herman Busembaum, who wrote: "When the ends are lawful the means also are lawful."

"This removes all law and conscience, and leaves the individual free to choose his object and adopt what means he likes to attain it," thundered the preacher.

Again he quoted Busembaum: "There is no harm on swearing without equivocation where there is just cause and the equivocation itself is lawful because where one has aright to conceal the truth it may be done without falsehood. Even if it be done without just cause it will still not be perjury when what one swears is true in some sense of the words at least.

"Now what do your think of that?" asked Mr. Johnston. "They are the words of a great Jesuit order. Why, that simply chloroforms conscience—destroys all conscience.

Courts and the Jesuits.

"What are courts worth to a Jesuit? What is a Jesuit's testimony worth? What is his oath worth? Why should I be called upon to answer one whose theology permits him to swear to a lie?" (Applause.)

Mr. Johnston quoted further to the effect that if a servant did not obtain what he considered was just wages he was permitted to pay himself from his employer's belongings.

"How many business men would employ men who believe that?" he asked. "Why it would absolutely destroy business and put us to mid-African conditions where every man carries a sword at his side and trusts no one, not even his wife." (Laughter.)

Has Many Catholic Friends.

"You do not suppose for a moment however, that these are the connections your Catholic friends have," said Mr. Johnston. "I have many Catholic friends whose words to me are the truth. Inside the Roman Catholic churches to-night there are more people protesting against Jesuitism than there are outside. I do not stand alone in denouncing the abominable teaching that would rob us of all our civilization."

He quoted from Father Gury observations in a case where a woman had broken her marriage vows, and said that he was not often dumb, but he was before anything like that.

"If you can find anything in Methodism any way akin to that I will step out of the ministry to-morrow and never reenter it. But all that Jesuit sophistry is as abhorrent to all true Catholics as it is to you and me.

"Thank God the Jesuits do not marry," he added and the congregation laughed.

Montreal Incident.

"A mistaken man has challenged me to a $100 forfeit to prove my statements," he said and then he referred to an incident in Montreal a few years ago when the Jesuits were challenged by their own people. The Jesuits said there was no such teaching in their order and they would give $1,000 to anyone who could prove it in their theology. Two professors, Rev. Dr. McVicar and Rev. Dr. Ettinger, and two Jesuits were chosen, but the order insisted that they have the fifth representative in the committee of judges. They would not have a minister of any denomination, Christian Scientist, a Salvation Army man, a soldier, a policeman or a politician and the challenge was dropped.

"Father Horsey, a noble big hearted priest, had said that Jesuitical literature spoiled respect for truth and justice, but it took a mighty amount of evil to crush out all the good. Like a lamb the order had crept into power, like wolves they had used the power, and like dogs they would be turned out.

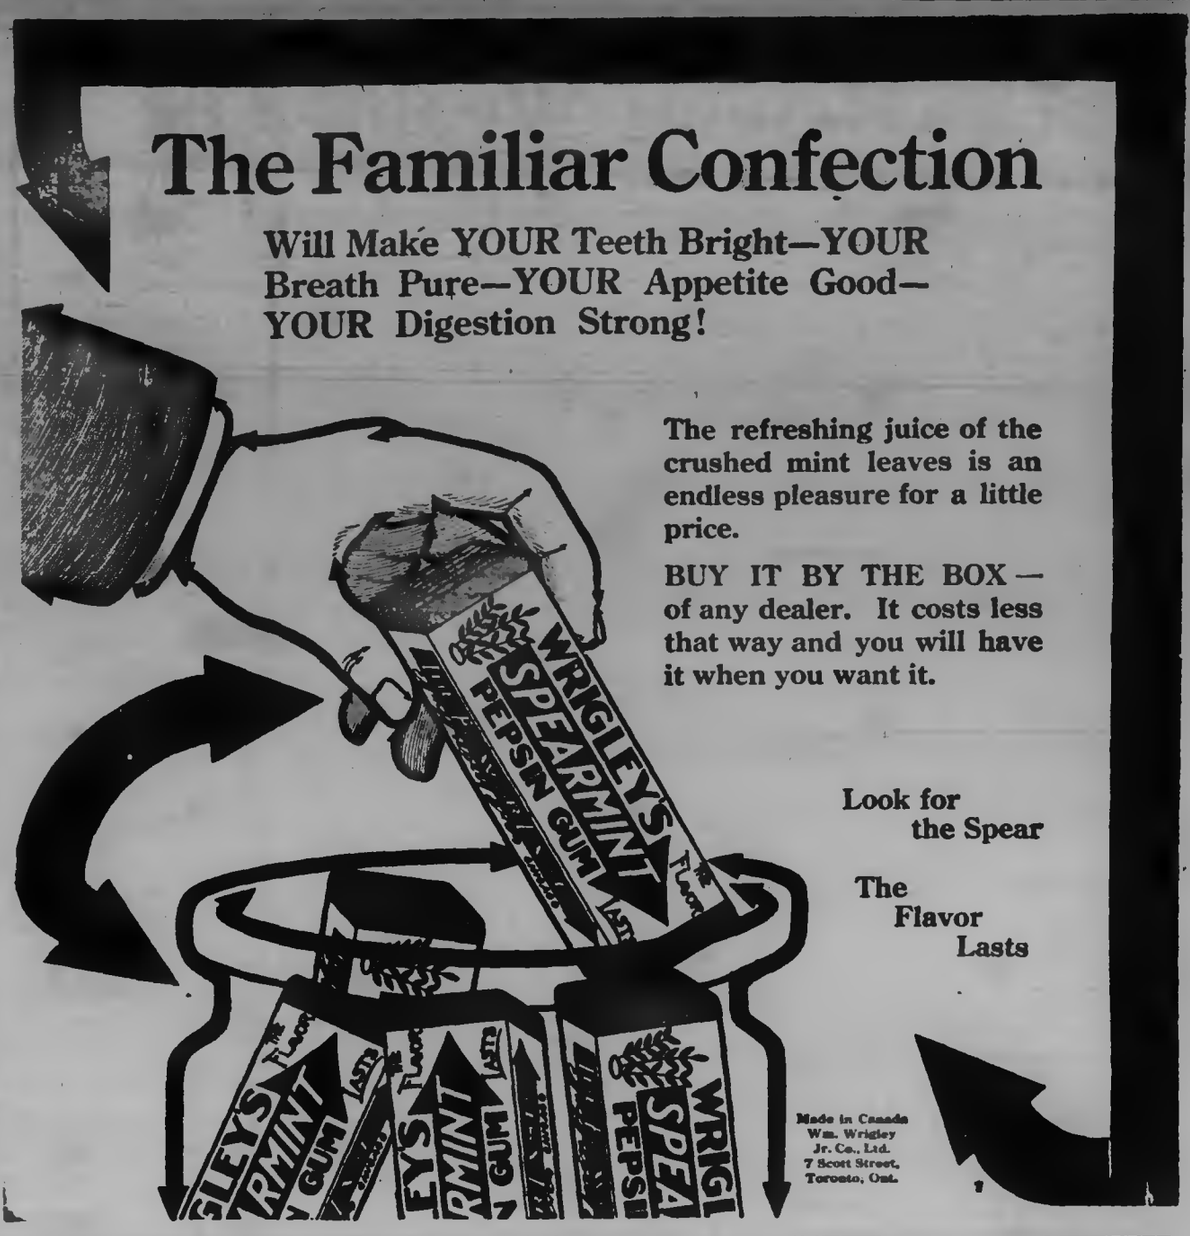
Does Not Think It Fair.

"I do not think it fair that a body of priests, always an evil cause of disruption and anarchy, turned out of eighty-five countries and states should be dumped onto this young country of ours at this period of our history." (Applause.)

"Do you lie?" asked Mr. Johnston "If you do you are worse than a Jesuit, because a Jesuit's religion allows him to lie, but yours does not.

"Are you cunning, grasping and grabbing and trying to pay yourself out of your master's goods?" If you are, you are worse than a Jesuit."

Mr. Johnston announced that he would deal with Jesuitism and politics next Sunday evening.



The Familiar Confection

Will Make YOUR Teeth Bright—YOUR Breath Pure—YOUR Appetite Good—YOUR Digestion Strong!

The refreshing juice of the crushed mint leaves is an endless pleasure for a little price.

BUY IT BY THE BOX — of any dealer. It costs less that way and you will have it when you want it.

Look for the Spear

The Flavor Lasts

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN AND RANCH LANDS

The attention of Farmers and Stockraisers is invited to the following desirable lands in

NORTHERN SASKACTHEWAN

The lands are situate in the Port Pelly District, Northern Saskatchewan, long known as probably the richest farming district in the Province. The parcel, which contains approximately 3,681 ACRES in one compact block, is watered on the west and south sides by the Assiniboine River, and by a large creek on the east. It is well wooded, thus assuring as well as evidencing ample rainfall, and plentiful supply of cheap fuel. It is undulating and well drained, having an elevation above the river, and rising gradually from it to a height of about 60 feet, and provides many beautiful residential sites.

In the advantages it offers for mixed farming it is unique, there being some 2,400 acres clear and ready for the plow, while the balance consists of timber and excellent pasture land, admirably suited to stock-raising. The soil is a rich, black loam, from 8 to 10 inches in thickness, resting on a clay subsoil, except along the river, where it is arich sandy loam. Crops produced on similar neighboring lands are phenomenal for their quantity and quality.

The location is within ten miles of Mikado Station, on the main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, of the Canadian Northern Railway, with good trails leading to it, and within a short distance of a school. While the settlement going on in the neighborhood is rapidly adding all the adjuncts of an up-to-date farming community.

This is an opportunity for a man with capital, business ability and practical experience. Such a man should clear his whole investment, including all improvements and equipment, in four or five years at the outside. And now is the time to purchase, as the price will shortly be advanced $5.00 per acre. Experienced men predict this land will be worth $50.00 per acre within ten years. Lands immediately adjoining, which last spring could have been bought for $14.00, are held to-day at $20.00 and $25.00 per acre.

We are also offering some 1,100 acres additional, in separate parcels of three half sections, and one quarter sections, situate in the same locality as above.

These lands were selected for the excellence of their location and the magnificent quality of their soil, which latter the official records of the Indian Agency demonstrate.

Prices, Terms and all Particulars may be had on application

F. J. BULLOCK & CO.

207 Colborne Street — BRANTFORD, ONT.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

Present the First Offering of the Stock of

PORCUPINE - FORTUNA GOLD MINES LTD.

Incorporated under Ontario Companies Act.

Capital Stock $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 Shares. Par Value $1.00 per Share. Treasury Shares 1,000,000 Shares. All Shares Common Shares, fully paid and non-assessable. The Company has no Bonds, Preferred Shares or Indebtedness of any kind.

The company owns 3 groups in all, 8 mining claims, 310 acres, in the Porcupine Mining District of Ontario, described as follows: The Reany Mining Claim in Tisdale, being the southwest quarter of the south half of Lot Number Two, Concession One, Tisdale; the Mapes Claim in Deloro T. R. P. 814 (Called H. R. 26), and six claims in Shaw Township, called the James claims, being officially known as Claims Nos. 13884, 13885, 13886, 13887, 13888 and 13889.

GROUP NO. 1

The well-known Reany lies east of the Martin and Dome. The famous Dunn and Steel properties adjoin the Reany on the east and the Rose-Van Cutser claims, owned by one of the largest mining, engineering and brokerage houses of London (owners of Town Site Mine at Cobalt), adjoin the Reany on the west side. The Dunn and Steel vein runs into the Reany and has been exposed by stripping for a distance of 600 feet on the Reany. This vein has an average width of 20 feet and is heavily mineralized. (See Engineer's Report).

GROUP NO. 2

The Mapes claim in Deloro lies two claims south of Tisdale on the south of the Powell claims. On the east of the Mapes are the now famous Dobie Maidens and McDonald properties. The Boston Development Company, on the west, have made their spectacular strike on this same vein, which is traced through the Mapes property from the Dobie. The Sachumacher property lies northwest. The entire property lies in the main Dome ore zone, whose principal trend is northeast by southwest, which is the trend of the Dobie, Maidens, Mapes and Boston Development veins. Two-thirds of the Mapes claim is exposed and easily prospected. The Mapes claim is considered one of the most promising in its neighborhood, and, like the Reany, should develop into a good-paying mine.

Groups 1 and 2 are in famous Dome Ore Zone.

GROUP NO. 3

The six James claims in Shaw are too well known to go into detail in describing. It is sufficient to say that these claims have a well-mineralized ore body 150 feet wide, that with proper development will more than likely prove one of the great ore bodies of the Porcupine District.

SOLICITORS

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

MINE MANAGEMENT.

There has been a great deal of unfavorable comment regarding poor management of many of the Porcupine properties, and in many cases we know this feeling is justified, but with our reputation established as Mine Operators, those who invest in Porcupine-Fortuna may rest assured that the management of this property will have the best advice obtainable.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT.

The Officers and Directors of this Company are well known bankers, business and mining men, who have proven successful in handling large financial institutions with profit to the shareholders and credit to themselves. Associated with the bankers and business men are mining men well known in the north mining country of Ontario. They have successfully prospected and operated in Cobalt, Gowganda and Porcupine, and have established reputations for progressiveness, reliability and intelligent operations.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

President: William T. Lyon (President Guardian Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.)
VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex. Gillies (Mine Owner, Cobalt and Porcupine.)
SECRETARY AND TREASURER: G. Heagen (of Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan, Toronto.)

DIRECTORS

Alex. Moore, (Vice-President First National Bank, Philipi, W. Va.)
William T. Lyon, Alex. Gillies.
David Reany (Mine Owner, Haileybury, Ont.)
F. L. Mapes (Mine Owner, Buffalo, N. Y., and Haileybury, Ont.)

STOCK REGISTRARS, TRANSFER AGENTS AND DEPOSITORY

TRUSTS & GUARANTEE CO., LTD., TORONTO, ONT. All certificates are countersigned and transferred by Trusts & Guarantee Co., Ltd.

FIRST OFFERING OF SHARES

We take no little pleasure in being able to offer the first 100,000 shares of Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, at the extremely low price of 15c per share, and the next 100,000 at 20c per share.

OPENING

This allotment will be open for public subscription at our offices, Monday, February 19, 1912, at 10 a.m.

CLOSING

Subscriptions will be closed promptly at noon, Saturday, February 24th, 1912.

OVER-SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the first 100,000 will be filled at 15c. Over-subscriptions will be filled at 20c per share, unless instructed to contrary with order. In case of over-subscription, our Subscription Books will be open for inspection of subscribers, so that no question can arise as to orders being filled as received. Copies of prospectus filed with the Government can be had from us. Place your orders through your brokers or direct with us.

For advance information and reservations without obligation call or write above address. Make all checks payable to James Gallagher & Co.

Brokers who desire to co-operate on this allotment please notify us at once.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, MANNING ARCADE, 24 KING ST. W.

TORONTO, ONTARIO.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

The Ontario Government is considering a bill to enable municipalities by petition of specified numbers of the various electors to inaugurate and buy parks. Fortunately Peterborough with her splendid system of parks, will hardly be directly affected by the Act.

"All peace and quietness," was the report given to a Times representative at the police station last night. This looks either (or both) that the population of this city have become boisterious, or that the excellent work of the local force has impelled such conditions.

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.	0.8505
Light Oil	94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

SOWING HIS WILD OATS

REAPING A HARVEST OF SORROW

How many young men can look back on their early life and regret their misdeeds. "Sowing their wild oats" in various ways. Excesses, violation of nature's laws, "wine, women and song"—all have their victims. You have reformed but what about the seed you have sown—what about the harvest? Don't trust to luck. If you are at present within the clutches of any secret habit which is sapping your life by degrees; if you are suffering from the results of past indiscretions; if your blood has been tainted from any private disease and you dare not marry; if you are married and live in dread of symptoms breaking out and exposing your past; if you are suffering as the result of a misspent life—DRS. K. & K. ARE YOUR REFUGE. Lay your case before them confidentially and they will tell you honestly if you are curable.

YOU CAN PAY WHEN CURED

We Treat and Cure VARICOSE VEINS, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD and URINARY COMPLAINTS, KIDNEY and BLADDER Diseases and all Diseases Peculiar to Men.

CONSULTATION FREE. Books Free on Diseases of Men. If unable to call, write for a Question Blank for HOME TREATMENT.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are used for correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.
Write for our private address.

OLD-TIME BETTING, THAT OF TO-DAY

How the Systems Differ—Kentucky Racing Free From Scandal

Pari Mutuel betting is just now having its first try-out in Canada. Strange, perhaps, for book-making has been in vogue for 40 years.

It is believed that an Englishman by the name of Stanton began booking on the New York tracks. He made money so quickly that many others were induced to follow. It became so popular that it monopolized speculation on the running turf, the pool selling and the mutuels falling by the wayside.

With its growth and popularity, operations in bookmaking became so extensive as to overshadow the sport of racing itself. This aroused antagonism, that led to hostile legislation threatening the very existence of racing.

Within the past two years the real friends of racing set about restoring old-time methods of betting as a substitute for bookmaking. The pioneer horse breeding State of Kentucky, [illegible] bookmaking from its tracks substituting auction pools and mutuels in its stead. The result has been that Kentucky racing is free from scandal. The experiment has been extensively tried, and it is now more than probable that this method of betting will restore the sport to its old-time standing throughout the entire continent.

The distinct feature of this betting is that the public make their own odds. Another feature is the absolute fairness of the system. It is not difficult for one to understand its methods.

It is a method in which each backer invests what he pleases on the horse of his choice. The whole amount bet on all of the horses is aggregated on a pari mutuel after the race to those who have backed the winning horse. Betting is done by purchasing tickets representing the buyers' selection. These tickets are sold generally at $2, $5 and $10 each, according to the amount the purchaser wishes to invest. The total amount invested on all of the horses, less the percentage charged by the association, is then divided among the holders of the winning tickets.

The machine registers each and every ticket sold as soon as it is sold. These machines show plainly the number of tickets sold on each horse and also the number of tickets sold on all of the horses. The system gives tickets by the purchase of which the bettor can back a horse to win, run second or third. The three machines are known by "straight," "place," and "show," thus any purchaser buying a ticket on any horse can tell at the time of his purchase how many tickets have been sold on his horse, as well as the total number of tickets sold on all of the horses.

At the start of each race an electric button is touched on the judges' stand which locks each machine. Consequently when the barrier is sprung it is impossible to purchase any more tickets. It will be seen that no one could have any object in view to alter the result of any particular race or bring about what one termed "fixed" races, as there is no division of money other than what the public invest themselves.

Enormous Traffic

People to the number of 86,236, on foot or in vehicles, crossed Blackfriars, London, and Tower Bridges into the city between 8.30 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. when a "rehearsal" census was taken recently.

Record Crowd at Cricket

The record attendance for any cricket match is 95,000, the number present at the England v. Australia Test Match of March, 1895.

A GOOD JUDGE OF MEN

When Carnegie had just begun to lay the foundations of prosperity, an overseer came to him with a very long face.

"The smartest man in my department says he's going to quit," he said. "I wish you'd see him, sir, and raise his salary. We simply can't do without him!"

"If he died to-morrow, then," snorted Carnegie, "the works would be held up, would they? You couldn't fill the gap yourself?"

"No, sir; he's a very skilled workman."

"H'm! Send him to me!"

Always a judge of men, Andrew cast a quick look at the indispensable one, and said:

"Say, supposing my overseer here died suddenly to-day, would you be able to fill his shoes?"

Without hesitation the man replied: "Easy!"

"Well, then," said Carnegie, "you needn't wait until he dies. Take his job now. He's fired!"

Mr. Chambers, of Creston, B.C., had three deer visiting his ranch on one day and persuaded two of them to remain with him.

THE DEPOPULATION OF FRANCE

Statistics have been published to show that in the year 1960, the population of Germany will probably reach [illegible] while that of France will be only 26,000,000. Time alone will show whether this forecast is right; but it is interesting to note that anxiety on the subject already prevailed in France in the eighteenth century. The Abbe Saint-Pierre then thought that the marriage of priests would be a remedy; and he calculated that, if all the priests had married from the time of Francis I., there would have been forty millions more Catholics in the country. Maurice de Saxe saw the solution of the problem in "leasehold marriages." A third proposal was that the entire French Army should be compelled to marry.

RUSSIAN IRON WORKS

In consequence of the so-called iron famine, the Duma has passed a Government bill granting iron works the privilege of importing a quarter of their required quantities of pig-iron for the next twelve months free of duty, to the total extent of 160,000 tons.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Wednesday, March 6, 1912, for the construction of a Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Plans, specifications and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained on application at the office of Messrs. Power & Son, Architects, Kingston, Ont., and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, February 15, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

George Hotel
ONTARIO

[illegible] with private bath, [illegible] throughout, and European plan.

[illegible] European plan, $1.50 per day [illegible] American plan, $2.50 per

[illegible] Proprietor

O'K

Extra Mild, Remember

Many people would drink ale, in preference to all other malt beverages, if ale did not make them bilious.

This O'K brew is brewed especially for these people. It is extra mild and extra light, and lets you enjoy the creamy deliciousness of real old English ale without the heaviness and excessive bitterness. In easily—opened and stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's Special ALE

"The Beer that is always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS
416 WATER STREET. PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

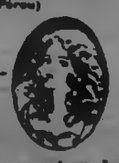
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wilson's Invalids' Port
(A la Quina du Pérou)



is unique in the treatment of

Faulty and Imperfect Nutrition

when the digestion of heavy foods is weak or even absent.

It is an appetiser before meals, and after meals it renders digestion easy and assimilation certain. It is a delicious tonic at all times.

Big Bottle. Ask YOUR Doctor.

A BISHOP IN A DONKEY CART

When he was Suffragan Bishop of West and North West London, England, the Bishop of Marlborough was one day seen riding in a costermonger's barrow through a London district. He was due to hold a confirmation, but on arriving at the railway-station he found that no conveyance to the church could be obtained. To walk the distance was impossible. The perplexed Bishop was about to abandon the appointment, when the humble costermonger's cart appeared. With sudden decision the matter was arranged, the Bishop scrambled on to the cart, the costermonger whipped up his donkey, and the episcopal chariot rattled through the High Street to its destination.

WATER FOR PRINCE RUPERT

City Engineer Thompson, of Seattle has been engaged to consult with Engineer Davis regarding a new waterworks for Prince Rupert, to cost $400,000. He believes enough water is in Woodworth Lake to supply at least 700,000 people, and if the water from the Shawatlan River is drawn from, there is enough water to supply a million people.

CARIBOU IN THE WEST

Caribou are stated to have haunted Lake Athabaska in greater numbers than for some years. It is believed the excessive cold led them to take shelter in the thick timber fringing the northern shore of the lake.

FINDS GOUT MICROBE

Chickens with the gout form a novel exhibit of the Pasteur Institute. The chickens so afflicted are believed to mark a distinct forward step in the study of the germ theory, because Professor Metchnikoff believes he has succeeded in isolating a microbe responsible for this most painful ailment. The chickens were fed on a diet of horseflesh, and this found caused the increased growth of certain microbes in the intestines, and produced swelling of the joints just as occurs in gout in the human being. Prof. Metchnikoff is also convinced that the absorption of poisons from these same microbes of the intestines is the cause of degeneration of the organs of the body, usually ascribed to old

THE CHARGE OF THE WELCOME BRIGADE

"Bills to the right of us,
Bills to the left of us,
Bills that are ruinous!?
Papa dear thundered.
"Frightful, the charge they made!
Senseless the price you paid!"
Then on the table laid,
Cheque for six hundred!

CHAUFFEURS AND CHARITY

"I wish some time, Mr. Speeder," said the doctor, "that you would bear our hospital in mind, and, if it appeals to you, do something for it."

"Great Scot! Squills," retorted Speeder, "why can't you be satisfied? That new chauffeur of mine has contributed at least two patients a day to your old charity. What more do you want?"

HE WAS TOO LATE

The reporter from the local paper called at the home of the bride's parents the day after the wedding. The bride's mother met him at the door.

"Good morning, Mrs. Brown," said the journalist. "I have called to get some details of the wedding."

"Oh, goodness! that's too bad!" replied the matron, in dismay. "They're all gone. You ought to have come last night. They ate up every scrap!"

GONE TO SALISBURY.

A lady had in her employ a [illegible] girl who had only [illegible] was always grimy. Mrs. [illegible] to tell her to wash her face [illegible] offending body at last resorted to strategy.

"Do you [illegible] Bridget," she remarked [illegible] "if you wash your face every day in hot soap and water, it will make you beautiful."

"Well, sir, [illegible] got. [illegible] tried it, [illegible]"

WHAT A POSTMAN WALKS

An official walk of 200,000 miles has been accomplished by Mr. Leonard Wavell, a rural postman of Sandown, Isle of Wight, just retired from the service. For the past eighteen years he has daily walked from Sandown to Newchurch, via Apse Heath and Borthwood, and back, a distance of about twenty miles. During the previous thirteen years he covered the same district from Newport, the total distance covered being about the same. Thus in thirty-one years he has walked [illegible]

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use
Eddy's Washboards
They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.
POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S
Always, Everywhere in Canada Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ" LAGER

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St., PETERBORO — H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent, LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odor, try our

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards in Window

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 189 Simcoe Street
Next Niagara Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

Could Not Conceal His Sex.

A few days ago a young man of this city, over a chat between friends about disguises, made a bet. His bet was that he could dress up like a girl, enter the house of a mutual friend and not have himself suspected His bet was taken. The young man who is employed in a George street store, arrayed himself in a way to make "Solomon in all his glory" look like a plugged 10c piece. He put on his sister's petticoat, her waist and skirt. Next he borrowed what she called a "rat," or something like that to supplement a wig. When fully arrayed he rang the bell. As his face had been changed by use of cosmetics and his sartorial garb was unusual he was not, at first, recognized. However, in a few minutes his host started . . . looked . . . and then grabbing the wig of his visitor, remarked, your a good actor, old man, but when you sat down and began to pull your skirts up, as though to prevent your trousers bagging at the knees, I got suspicious, I also recognized that mole under your ear." The young man lost his bet.

STOKES BLAMES THE JIU-JITSU FOR HURT

New York, Feb. 17.—W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire horseman who was shot by Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, the show girls, last June, has consulted an expert to determine if his present ill-health is due to his receiving what is known as the death blow in a jiu jitsu attack upon him by three Japanese. The Japanese attacked Mr. Stokes in the apartment of the young women, after he had been shot. To E. Marshall Allen, an expert in jiu jitsu, Mr. Stokes has written: "Would you kindly inform me if there is such a blow in jiu jitsu as the death blow, and whether it is ever the kidney; whether it is the breaking of the left kidney, where the person does not die at once, but dies afterward from the bruising of the kidney."

Mr. Allen was ill, but Mrs. Allen declared her husband had written Mr. Stokes that there was such a blow. Stokes has long been ill of an abscess of the left kidney.

That general sympathy is felt for the Sweeny and Smith families who were burned out of house and home a week ago, is shown by the generous contributions towards their support. The following is a complete list of those who have contributed:

Auntie	$2.00
R. J. Munro	5.00
Fred Mitchell	5.00
Mrs. Dr. Burnham	5.00
A Friend	2.00
R. Harstone	5.00
Frank Sollit	1.00
A Friend	1.00
A Friend	2.00
Mrs. Hugh Waddell	5.00
A neighbour	2.00
	$35.00

Purchases of the following values were made of the places named, out of the cash contributions received:—

A quilt	$2.00
Peterboro Hardware Co.	4.40
C. B. Routley	2.00
M. T. Butcher	3.00
M. T. Butcher	2.20
J. C. Turnbull	6.00
M. T. Butcher	2.20
J. C. Turnbull	8.56
E. P. Jackson	2.00

The town of Sudbury has been asked to assist in getting votes for married women. The Council kept it dark and would not have their opinion published.

A professor in Guelph Agricultural College a few days ago was lecturing on "soils" He asked the class, "Now what is mud?" Why that's easy. That is the name of the man who recently bet on the locals.

The "Great White Way," New York is to be cleared of boxes and other merchants' displays that hamper pedestrians. A similar movement along George street would give us "a great wide way" for walkers.

Toronto papers describe how wild ducks are being frozen on the ice covering the bay and the Humber River. It is getting near the limit when Hogtown grabs even the wild birds.

COSGRAVES Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 219. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc. Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 416 Water Street, H. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSors to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. M. E. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSpital, Brompton Hospital, National Heart Hospital, St. John's Skin Hospital, London, Eng. Also of Bermuda.

SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.

OFFICE—443 Water Street. Bell Phone: Office 443, House 1301.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machine y..... .....bearings .... The Canada Metal Co., Limited Fraser Avenue, Toronto

AERIAL STABILITY

Englishman Demonstrates Value of Invention to Maintain Equilibrium

What appears to be a most important invention in connection with the navigation of the air has been announced in London. The entire future of aviation, it is admitted, is centered in the one word—stability. Among all the modes of locomotion aerial navigation alone is deeply affected by the problem of stability, which is the life and soul of the aeroplane. The final solution of this intricate problem has been made, says the Daily Telegraph, and it is subject for gratification here that the success is wholly due to the efforts and ingenuity of an Englishman, whereas hitherto the development of the aeroplane has practically been confined to France.

Briefly, the facts are these: On a recent Friday J. W. Dunne rose from the grounds at Eastchurch, in the Isle of Sheppy, on his "automatic stability" monoplane, with the object of carrying out a test that should conclusively demonstrate the natural stability possessed by his machine. The flight was witnessed by two competent observers—Alec Ogilvie, one of the most experienced of British aeroplane pilots, and T. O'B. Hubbard, Secretary of the Aeronautical Society.

Mr. Dunne made a flight of six and a half minutes, including two turns, and landed safely at the starting point. Before starting there was handed to Mr. Dunne a blank sheet of paper, previously initialled by the observers; on this sheet of paper he wrote, while the monoplane was flying at over sixty miles an hour, a long message in clear script.

While the message was being written Mr. Dunne had both hands off the control levers, thus freely abandoning his machine to the air. Only those who have made an aeroplane flight can fully realize the true nature of this achievement. In an ordinary aeroplane the pilot can never abandon his control, but has to exercise constant watchfulness, has to correct incessantly by slight, almost imperceptible touches the ever-varying equilibrium of his aeroplane. A moment's inattention may prove disastrous, may suffice to cause the machine to lose its equilibrium to such an extent that it cannot be regained. A slight gust may be enough to upset the delicate balance of the forces that constitute equilibrium.

A GREAT BATSMAN

In His Day Was the Best Cricketer in South Africa

Augustus Bernard Tancred, the oldest of the South African brotherhood of cricketers, died at Capetown after an operation. He was in his forty-seventh year at the time of his death, having been born in 1865, at Port Elizabeth. At his best—about twenty years ago—he was the finest batsman in South Africa. Perhaps his best feat was to make 89 and 62 for Kimberley against Transvaal, at Johannesburg, in 1891. His highest innings was 226 in a military match, and he was one of the first cricketers to make two separate hundreds in a game in South Africa.

Mr. Tancred was a brilliant batsman with a splendid defence, but his profession as a solicitor prevented him from going to England as member of a team, for his practice was a large one.

GIVING HER A TIP

"I think 'Lohengrin' is just splendid!" murmured the lady in the large hat, as she handed the conductor her fare.

"Do you?" asked her friend in the purple velvet, with a superior smile. "I think it's not bad; but I just love Carmen."

The conductor blushed all over his plain features.

"Sorry, miss," he murmured apologetically; "I'm married. You might try the driver, though; he's a single man!"

A Lindsay doctor has challenged a banker of that town to a game of curling for a bag of flour for charity. This is one case, where, even if the operation is successful, the patient will not die.

A visit to the Fire Hall last night by The Times, showed that Biddy could not have been lighting the kitchen stove with kerosene yesterday, as the Brigade received no alarms on Sunday.

PLENTY OF SOAP AND FRESH AIR

An English Borough Proposes to Make People Healthy — Suggestions Added by Correspondent

The Paddington Borough Council are considering the enactment of a new set of by-laws, to provide that every lodger in a tenement house shall, except in special circumstances, cause his bedroom windows to be opened for at least one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon; and to have the floor of his bedroom or bedrooms swept daily, and washed at least once a week.

"As one who is all for fresh air and plenty of soap and water, I welcome with joy this step on the part of the Paddington Fathers," says a correspondent, who thereupon proposes that the additional by-laws be adopted:—

Any person or persons doing anything prohibited by or otherwise offending against any of the following by-laws shall be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for a first offence, and not exceeding five pounds for any subsequent offence.

All plates, dishes, cups, glasses, knives, forks, spoons, saucepans, frying pans and other utensils, implements and instruments used in the preparation and consumption of supper shall be washed, scoured, dried, and otherwise made clean overnight, and not left to be washed up with the breakfast things in the morning.

All chimneys, flues, and other passages, holes, and recesses to which smoke has regular access shall be swept once in every three months, and the resultant soot preserved for the cultivation of Coronation Sweet Peas.

All grates, ranges, and stoves shall be blackleaded, and all stone and concrete hearths, whether cracked or sound, as well as all doorsteps and window-sills shall be whitened, once every seven days.

No cobwebs shall be allowed to hang suspended from any ceiling in any room, passage, closet, or cupboard for a longer period than one calendar month.

All beds that have been slept in overnight shall be stripped, and the mattress or mattresses turned back, immediately upon the occupant arising in the morning, and allowed thus to remain airing for a period of at least one hour from such time.

All beds shall be re-made by 10 o'clock a.m.

Once every seven days the bottom sheet of each bed in every bedroom in every house in the Borough shall be removed, and the top sheet substituted for it, and a clean sheet substituted for the top sheet thus transferred.

Every occupant of every house shall wash, or cause to be washed, his or her face, hands, and no less than three inches of neck, at least once every twenty-four hours.

Every male occupant of every house shall shave, or cause to be shaved, his chin, cheeks, neck, and top lip, at least once every three days; provided always that such male occupant does not grow a beard and moustache (which is, to be deprecated), or has not received such advice as is favorable to the production or growth of face moss.

Every female occupant of every house shall have her hair out of curling pins or curl papers by midday at the latest each day (Saturdays excepted), and all hooks and eyes securely fastened.

Every child occupant of every house shall have his or her nose duly wiped by some qualified person at least three times a day, and four times on Sundays.

THE NEED OF MEN

Work in Every Field Not Only Remains But Increases

More men are needed in the world to-day than ever before, because there is more to do—more different things to make, more actual people to support. Fifteen years ago the bicycle makers would have been frightened into bankruptcy if you had told them that in 1910 their trade would have almost disappeared. But what do we see now? The coming of automobiles has given work to all the bicycle men and thousands more. And it is so in other businesses and professions. The point to remember is that, while the form of work changes, the work in every field remains, and even increases. The real claims are not all taken up. Alexander the Great was only a fool when he wept because there were no more worlds to conquer. He didn't use his eyes to see with, but only to weep with.

POPULAR THOUGH POOR

"Be forgetful of self; think, and think kindly, of others."

"Say a kind rather than a smart thing."

"Be ready to help whenever you can."

"Give others credit for doing and knowing something."

"Be courteous to all, in or out of business."

"Don't talk scandal."

"Pay what you owe, and never borrow money."

Old Age Pensions

Following the removal of the pauperism disqualification, 16,988 persons in London alone received old-age pensions.

New Streets

One hundred miles of new streets for the Metropolis are proposed by the London Traffic Branch of the Board of Trade.

Priests as Cab-Drivers

Since the disestablishment of the Church in France, many former priests have taken up the occupation of cab-drivers in Paris.

LITTLE PARISENNE

Helene Avril draws a charming picture of a day in the life of the little Parisienne. It is a cold morning in February, dull and chilly. Out of doors passers-by hurry along wrapped and miserable looking. Simonne, wakens early in her warm little bed, and as soon as she opens her eyes she smiles at the thought of the happiness that is in store for her. This is the day on which she has been invited to a children's party at the home of her little friend Jeanne, and they are going to have such fun. The night before the dressmaker sent her the dress specially made for the part. It is a "robe fourreau," in dark green velvet, which makes her look ever so tall. In a few hours everybody will be admiring her at Jeanne's house; her little friends first, but perhaps also their big brothers. In Simonne's heart is already awakened the desire to please "ces messieurs," the oldest of whom is not yet sixteen years of age.

While her little brain is still excited at the thought of what the day is destined to bring her, Simonne's mother enters to give her the usual good-morning kiss. She bends over the bed, puts her ar munder the frail body, which clings to her with affection, and mother and daughter pass a delightful moment.

But eight o'clock strikes. "Vite, Monette, levons nous." You will amuse yourself this afternoon, but this morning we must work hard. The French teacher will be hear shortly. Are you quite ready with your lessons? Simonne hesitates to reply. Trying on her new dress last night kept her behind with her lessons, and she has not had time to go over her grammar again. She hurries, however, and dressing does not take her long this morning. Five minutes to swallow her chocolate—then there is a ring at the bell. It is mademoiselle. Already? And Simonne has not even looked at the second page, which she does not know at all. She runs to meet her teacher, throws her arms around her neck, and kisses her. "Oh, ma petite mademoiselle," she exclaims. "If you knew how delighted I am. This afternoon I am invited ches Jeanne. Mamma has had a new dress made for me, and we are going to have lots of fun."

Mademoiselle is used to these effusions. With both hands she takes the girl's head between hers and gives her a long maternal kiss on the forehead. Her pupils are almost as dear to her as if they were her own children. Simonne knows it well, the sly little minx. Now she feels is the moment to admit that she does not know her lessons very well. Mademoiselle does not scold her, but improves the occasion to give her some wise council.

Mademoiselle does not like vain and coquettish little girls, and their beautiful dresses leave her absolutly indifferent, but she draws a pleasing portrait of simple good-hearted children, and makes it so attractive that little Simonne feels a wee bit ashamed of the sentiments that agitated her shortly before.

Two o'clock. If anything were needed to add to Simonne's happiness, it is provided in the auto that whisks her to Jeanne's house, where nearly all the other children have arrived and are gathered in the hall. In a corner, seated at a little table, they are turning over the leaves of a picture book, are a little boy and his sister who seem out of place in these surroundings. The boy is thirteen years of age, his sister eleven or twelve. No one takes any notice of them. Simonne asks Jeanne who they are.

"Oh," replied Jeanne, "they are the children of a post-mistress maman knows. She invited them so that they might have an opportunity of amusing themselves—a thing that does not happen often. But I am sure they will be rather bored here, for no one knows them. Have you noticed the girl's dress. It must have been her mother who made it; it is not elegant. And anyone can see that the boy's suit is ready-made."

Simonne stood thinking for a while. These little ones "whom no one knew" interested her. She remembered what mademoiselle had told her in the morning, and found that they resembled in an astonishing manner the portrait of the little ones whose greatest charm was their simplicity. Her heart was stirred. It was true that they were not very fashionably dressed, but a generous movement sent her to their side. Might she sit by them and look at the pictures. In a few moments all three were chattering away as if they had known each other for years. Their laughter soon brought the other children around them. They joined in the games they organized and during the whole afternoon they amused themselves with a heartiness that made Simonne very pleased. She forgot all about her beautiful dress. Besides, other girls were as well dressed as she, so it was not really worth while to make any fuss about her dress, even if it was a "robe fourreau." What a delightful afternoon she had had, making two other children happy, who, but for her, would have been left out in the cold. She would be sure to tell mademoiselle how she had carried her lesson into practice.

STRANGERS

Day Constable (relieving night man):—"How's the missus?"

Night Constable:—"I don't know. I haven't seen her this seven years."

Day Constable:—"But you and she live together, don't you?"

Night Constable:—"Yes; but she's a charwoman and is out all day, and I'm out on duty all night, so we haven't met since we settled after our honeymoon."

MUST BE CLEVER

"She will be a clever woman that I marry" declared a confirmed bachelor, who was being chaffed on the subject.

"Thought you didn't like these clever women," said a friend.

"I don't," rejoined the bachelor. "But if ever I marry, it'll be a clever woman who does it."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES, IT WILL PAY

OLYMPIC STADIUM

The Swedish Committee Has Officially Described the Structure

The Stadium is described by the officials of the Swedish committee as follows:—The building, which will be of a thoroughly permanent character, is erected in hand-made purple brick and granite. The plan shows a perfect amphitheatre, all under cover, at the foot of a hill which forms the northern side of the complex. Inside this permanent building, extra rows of temporary seats will be arranged for use during the games. The Stadium will then hold about 25,000 spectators. It contains a running track, four laps to the mile, and a grass football ground which, in the winter time, will be transformed into a skating rink.

The entrances to the athletes' special dressing rooms, to which long corridors lead, are situated at the foot of the hill.

The gates and arcades are valued in the old mediaeval Swedish style. On the brick walls there are blocks of granite inlaid, in which a series of Swedish heroes will be sculptured, and the gates to the entrance stairs will likewise be decorated by eighteen heathen gods and goddesses.

Two massive brick towers will stand at the side of the Eastern and Western gates, and behind them two side buildings, each containing a hall and a number of administration rooms. At the centre of the northern arcade, which connects the side buildings, is the gate through which all the competitors will march down to the ground on the opening day.

In front of the southern elliptical arcade, outside the Stadium proper, but within the enclosure, is a fine garden of oaks and birches, with paths for the spectators. The paths run the whole way round the building. At the foot of the two big towers, two granite water fountains are to be arranged. From the balconies of the towers, trumpet signals for the various races will be given. Above the Southern gateway, which forms the main entrance for the spectators and beside which two octagonal brick towers will be erected, is the band stand, which will be used for the distribution of the prizes. The flags, to be hoisted in honor of the winners, will be placed on the top of the northern entrance. The Royal box is situated alongside the finishing straight, under the golden yellow baldachin, and the press representatives will have their seats at the finishing post.

The whole of the building will be completed during 1911.

The money towards the expenses has been granted by the Swedish Government, who will ultimately become the owner of the building and grounds.

The site is situated close to the fashionable part of Stockholm.

MR. TOM. RENNIE,
of the Granites (Toronto) whose rink won the Canada Life Curling Trophy.

WILL BE CHAMPION

That is What Marcel Moreau Says of Carpentier

Marcel Moreau, the French middleweight champion, who came here under the management of Mr. Millage, has trained Carpentier, and he asserts that his protege will, in time, be the world's champion heavyweight. This assertion coming from Moreau should also carry weight, for Moreau has a great record in his own country. He has fought 45 battles and won 35 of them, on a knockout. He is said to be clever, and yet he rushes and mixes it whenever the opportunity offers, just like Bat Nelson. Although unscarred, Moreau looks like a fighter. His face is the face of the fighter, with high cheek bones, heavy jaw, quick watchful eye and a general air of quiet determination and aggressiveness. When stripped you see a man built for fighting. His legs are light below the knee, strong but light above. His waist is strong and muscular, his shoulders big and broad, and the muscles of his arms, back and shoulders unusually heavy in proportion. His muscles are not knotty, but large and smooth. He does not carry an ounce of superfluous flesh.

McFARLAND'S GOOD RECORD

In the past year Packey McFarland engaged in fourteen battles winning all but one, and that resulted in a draw. Five of the bouts ended in knockouts, his principal victims being Billy Ryan of Syracuse and Jack Goodman of New York. He won the decision in twenty rounds over Tommy Murphy on Thanksgiving Day, and also outpointed Young Erne, who defeated Mike Gibbons. The clever little English boxer, Owen Moran, was also beaten by the stockyard champion, as McFarland is dubbed in Chicago.

TIT FOR TAT!

(By Ada Thomas).

(Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

Arriving home, after spending an evening with a married friend, Jack Merriman felt the loneliness of bachelorhood for the first time.

Jack had reached fifty, and only now had the desire for companionship come upon him in one fell swoop. His friend's wife was fluffy haired, tinkled the piano agreeably, liaped plaintive songs in a minor key, and set him thinking of the romantic side of life.

"I'll advertise," said he, being strictly a business man. "Must be musical," he wrote, "of cheerful disposition. Means not necessary, but desirable." Then he signed himself "Lonely," directed it to a matrimonial paper, and posted it with his own hands.

There were many aspirants—and some painfully eager—but it was the one signed "Blushing" that impressed him most.

Jack liked the tone. It sounded fresh and girlish, with a dash of straightforwardness that others lacked. He arranged an interview, still signing his nom de plume, "Lonely," in a railway waiting room.

Shortly after eight a lady answering to the description given peered in at the open door, but, seeing Jack, fled hastily, yet not before he had caught sight of her tell-tale vollets. He pursued and caught up to her just as she was making a rapid exit into Raleigh avenue.

"I beg your pardon," he said, touching her on the shoulder, "but are you 'Blushing'?"

"Yes," she answered, timidly; and, indeed, she was for her dimpled cheeks betrayed it.

"I am lonely," he explained, "or rather, I was until you came." Then they both laughed and felt more at ease. That evening was a revelation to Jack. Before the night was over she had confided to him her history.

A pretty little wedding at a church in Parmington consummated their happiness, but before the ceremony took place Ettie made a request. "I want to hold my position a few weeks longer. May I?" she pleaded.

Open in all her dealings, on one point she had remained obdurate—that was withholding the name and address of her employer. "You will know one day," she constantly assured Jack, and one day, sure enough, he did.

In her little square cage in an office, perched on a high stool, sat Ettie one hot afternoon. There was a temporary lull, and the tired, white faced assistants were listlessly moving to and fro re-arranging their departments, whilst the suave shop walker strutted round like an irate turkey cock.

"Now, Miss Morse, hurry up and put that dress material away. You seem to be half asleep." He turned to another. "Why did you let that lady go without a purchase?"

"We had nothing in stock to match her ribbon, sir," answered the girl, penitently.

Ettie's eyes rudely, then stopped to whisper something to a lady upon whom with gallantry he leaned over the counter. It was an unwholesome scene, and one that Ettie had witnessed from her point of vantage many times.

Cranford, the shop walker, was one of that low type that uses his authority for a base end, so girls came and went in quick succession, and it was an open secret why so many proved unsatisfactory.

Ettie had turned in loathing from the man's advances, so he had bided his time for revenge. Now it had come, and seizing this slack moment, he marched up to her desk with a triumphant leer.

"You know the rules, and you've been late two mornings this week. Instantly dismissed by rights, but I'll give you till Saturday to clear out." Ettie slid on to the floor from her perch, and, opening the office door, turned to face him.

"You will give me till Saturday." Then let me tell you, coward, bully and libertine, that you are, it is you who will go, not I, but instead of waiting till Saturday you go now."

Rage held him speechless for a moment, then he advanced threateningly towards her just as a newcomer arrived on the scene.

Ettie gave a start of glad surprise, and went to meet—her husband. He started back in bewilderment, then a light broke in—he understood.

"I have had to discharge that man for his insolence, Jack," she said, pointing at the crestfallen shop walker. "My husband or I will pay the salary due to you as soon as your luggage is packed and you are ready to go," she concluded, walking past him to her office with the air of a queen. The man slunk away as Jack clinched her peremptory order with a decisive nod.

That same evening, as Ettie sat at her piano playing a soothing melody, and Jack was desecrating the atmosphere with a fat cigar, she stopped to say: "Do you remember how I ran away from you at the station?"

"Perfectly well. I imagine you recognised me."

"Yes, dear." A slight pause. "But you don't know how glad I am you ran after me."

"So am I, darling."

"I suppose you think it was silly of me to go on working in your shop, hiding my identity and all that sort of thing?"

"Rather."

"But it wasn't." She rose and sat down on the rug by his knee. "It was just lovely to go each day, knowing it was my darling old bubby's shop, and that no earthly power could suck me—to see that silly beast of a shop walker watching his opportunity to discharge me, and know all the time that I could afford to laugh at him. I felt so safe, so deliciously safe."

"Ettie, you're crying." He drew her face towards him and looked anxiously into her glittering eyes.

"Yes, dear, but not for myself—only for those I have left behind."

FROM A SOUTH WINDOW IN CANADA

"Love, Laughter and Life"

HOW THE MOTHER CAN KEEP YOUNG

The greatest cause of the mother's worn look is the want of sleep. Insomnia is the greatest enemy of the face, as well as the entire health and nervous system. If you want to look healthy, with a clear skin, bright eyes, and an elastic step, put away all the daily troubles and worrying thoughts at bedtime. It is perhaps difficult to put away the worries of the day, but it is a matter entirely of self-control, and a simple motto should be remembered: "Sleeping time must not be thinking time." Fresh air is an important rule, and never work, sit, or sew, in a room that has not fresh air coming into it. The bath is one of the essentials for the complexion. A warm plunge bath at the end of the day, and a stimulant will be given to the circulation and skin if a plentiful supply of cold water is used each morning. Don't worry. Remember there are no ills so hard to bear as those which never materialise. Keep sunny; not merely when fortune smiles, but when the dark clouds gather. There is nothing like inner sunshine as a life brightener and health maker. If you do not believe that cheerfulness makes for health and happiness, try living up to these rules. Perhaps they cannot all be kept at once, but make a beginning now.

SILVER AND BLUE EVENING GOWN

One of the daintiest evening gowns is a combination of silver and blue patterned on lines set forth in the above cut. The skirt foundation is a lovely shade of pale blue satin, over which is artistically draped a tunic of silvery morquisette. The marquisette is also used for the bodice and sleeves, the latter finishing with a double frill of fine white lace. The clever handling of a silver chiffon fichu makes it the most attractive feature of the gown, falling as it does to the bottom of tunic. A wide band of lace heads the deep hem on each end, and a garland of tiny pink chiffon roses encircles the bodice in the manner shown. The coiffure ornament is a band of silver gauze ribbon, edged with crystal bead fringe, finished on the right side with a wreath of roses matching those on the bodice.

FIFTEEN MILLION ROSES

The rose gardens at the White City, Shepherd's Bush, this year, will, it is claimed, be the finest in the world. Messrs. Paul are laying them out on an elaborate plan. One design represents a coronet with a white crown, salmon pink and scarlet base, and centres of a brilliant orange scarlet. Large stars will be made of the scarlet American rose "Richmond," and some trees of "Juliet" roses, fiery scarlet and yellow, gloriously scented, have been planted. It is estimated that the rose gardens will show at least fifteen million blooms.

WAS SHE FORTY-FOUR?

A young man had just chaffingly declared that a woman could not keep a secret.

"Oh, I don't know!" said the lady. "I've kept my age secret ever since I was twenty-four."

"Yes," he replied; "but one of these days you will give it away. I am as sure of it as that I am standing here."

"Well," she said, with confidence, "I think that when a woman has kept a secret for twenty years, she comes pretty near knowing how to keep it."

HINTS ON CLEANING

Some Information of Value to the Good Housekeeper

A Piece of Camphor kept with the silver which is not in constant use will keep it from tarnishing.

Coffee is a Good Disinfectant. A little burned on hot coals will purify a sick room and abolish bad smells.

Kettles may be thoroughly cleaned by boiling a few potato peelings in them. They should be afterwards thoroughly rinsed.

When Washing valuable china or cut glass it is a good plan to place a heavy Turkish towel at the bottom of the basin. This prevents all danger of the china and glass getting chipped.

Wipe all Knives in paper before washing them, and they should be cleaned as soon as washed by rubbing them with a cork dipped in very slightly moistened knife-powder, and then dusted.

Marble Mantelpieces will look like new after this treatment: Dissolve an ounce of soda in a quarter of a pint of water and add to it enough whiting to make a paste. Rub this well into the marble, and when dry wash it off with clean water.

It is not Generally Known that a slice of lemon put into the copper when boiling clothes will make them beautifully white and take all the stains out of pocket handkerchiefs and children's pinafores. Cut the lemon with the rind into slices, and let it remain in the boiler till the clothes are ready to come out.

Marks on Kitchen Walls which have been caused by carelessly striking matches on them will disappear if rubbed first with the cut surface of a lemon, then with a clean cloth dipped in whiting. Afterwards wash the surface with warm water and soap, and then quickly wipe with a clean cloth wrung out of clear water.

If you Want your sewing machine to do satisfactory work, remember that it requires to be kept clean. After every ten hours' work it needs oil, but the surplus oil should be carefully wiped off, or the work will be stained. Always work it steadily, and never start or stop with a jerk. The best way to finish off a machine seam is to turn the material round and stitch back for about an inch. This saves tying the threads, which takes up a lot of time, especially if there be many seams.

CUTS PIE FAIRLY

Machine Divides It Into Six Equal Pieces at One Stroke

No more will the restaurant Romeos wrangle because Florence, the belle of pie jugglers, shows partiality. A heartless machine has been invented that insures peace in the lunch counters of America by dividing every pie into six equal parts with a mathematical precision that admits of no dispute. The machine consists of a plate with a jointed handle carving over it. Depending from the handle are six knives, arranged like the spokes of a wheel, on a spring device, which gives resiliency to the stroke. The pie is placed on the plate of the machine and the handle pressed down. The knives divide the pie into six pieces at one blow, and not only cute each piece exactly the same size, but saves the time required to divide the pie with an ordinary knife. Hotels and restaurants will find one of these implements indispensable.

The fairest of to-day's brides may be the mother-in-law of the future.

TRUSTING PRISONERS.

Faith in human nature is often severely tried. Yet the man or woman who believes and is deceived is more to be envied than he or she who never trusts in anyone.

One case of gratitude from an unexpected quarter will make amends for many disappointments. So Gov. West of Oregon may take heart of grace and trust to go pleasantly surprised by some of his "honor" prisoners, says the Rochester Post-Express. Instead of confining criminals in jail, Mr. West sent them to a construction camp near the state asylum. There they have remained under severer supervision than can be maintained by a single foreman. The men are put on their honor not to run away. Up to the present, however, it must be admitted that their honor has proved somewhat elastic. Several of the men have run away. Seeing that one man was under sentence of eighteen months' confinement in the penitentiary and another to undergo a term of two years, riding may thought their flight many be to an idealist, it can hardly be said to be contrary to human nature. Man loves liberty, and—even though he has given his word to stay—it is, perhaps, too much to expect a prisoner not to take his liberty, if an open road is before him and no one to say him nay.

Yet, there is something fine in Gov. West's belief in human nature. Coleridge says that the one hope of humanity lies in the corrigibility of his errors. To a certain extent the criminal has shown himself an enemy of society. His hope—and ours—is that he may be made to perceive, not only that it is best for all concerned that we should make up and be friends, but also—and this is probably what Gov. West had in mind when he hit upon his Quixotic expedient—that society is willing to give him a chance to be a self-respecting citizen. If his "honor" plan is successful in, say 50 per cent. of the cases to which it is applied, the governor of Oregon will probably feel satisfied.

The concert given by the Mission Band of the George street church was well attended. Mr. T. W. Robinson presided.

The throngs which crowded the pavement in front of the Red Mill and the Princess theatre was clear proof that moving pictures are not a dead-letter yet.

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

DR. SOPER DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

26 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	6.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	5.30 a.m.	9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m.
	6.36 p.m.	8.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
	10.15 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m.	8.20 a.m.
	8.55 p.m.	1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m.	7.00 a.m.
	8.15 p.m.	12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m.
	1.47 p.m.
	12.10 a.m.
	1.35 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	5.35 a.m.
	5.35 a.m.
Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	1.47 a.m.
	4.35 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE TIMES REPORTS.

Route Boys Wanted.

Two route boys wanted for The Times. Apply at Times' Bookstore.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-13-12)

To Learn Printing Trade.

We have an opening for a bright young man to learn press work. Apply at Times Business Office.

Help Wanted.

Men and women. Make good money in spare time. No canvassing. Our profitable suggestions contain money-making ideas. Send stamp. WALLACE W. SMITH, LONDON, ONT. (D—3-f17-24-m2)

HOUSE TO LET.

That desirable residence at 453 Water street. All modern conveniences. Fronts on Victoria Park. One short block from George street, schools, churches. Immediate possession or could wait a month or two on signing a lease. Apply to C. H. Clementi, 451 Water street.

Local Waterworks Surplus.

A surplus of $2,209.24 by the financial statement of the Waterworks Department for 1911. Of this amount, a revenue of $1,500 is forthcoming from the Canadian General Electric Company for water power rights.

Local Basket-Ballers Did Well.

Lindsay Post: The basket ball and hockey teams of Peterborough Collegiate Institute landed in town this morning to play off a friendly game with the L.C.I. boys. They trimmed our boys in basketball to the score of 17—4. The Peterborough boys showed better practice.

Death of Mrs. W. Walker.

A sad death occurred yesterday morning at 587 Patterson street, when a married lady recently arrived here from Scotland, passed away. The deceased was Jane Walker, wife of Mr. Wm. Walker, 587 Patterson street. Mr. and Mrs. Walker have only been in the city a few months. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Good Concert by the Army.

Once more the magnificent band of the local Salvation Army, assisted by the Songsters' Brigade, have given another of their winter musical Festivals. The temple was filled comfortably. A splendid programme of music, including selections by the band, with instrumental quartettes and solos and vocal music by the Songsters, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Visitors to City Noticed.

Lindsay Post: The Electric Club of Varsity ran an excursion to Peterborough, passing through Lindsay yesterday. The Club visited the Canadian General Electric Co., who provided street cars to accommodate the visitors. The company entertained the club at the Oriental Hotel. Some of the excursionists stopped over until Monday.

Why Not Get Strangers?

Without spending too much space, over the Lindsay carnival, let us say it was a success, a great success. The point for consideration is, once more, to ask "Why not this city?" Why cannot a live place like Peterborough inaugurate something to interest our citizens and bring in outside strangers and their cash for three or four consecutive days?

Greatest Invention of age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered is so Beneficial to Public Speakers, Ministers, Singers and Teachers as CATARRHOZONE.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhozone, and credit is no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhozone.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH.

"Being a professional singer, you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill.

"One year ago I read in the 'Progress' a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhozone.

"Believing in the merit of Catarrhozone, I tried it.

"Catarrhozone cured me and has been the means of my success.

"You are at liberty to use my name if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain.

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.S."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him and his testimonial for Catarrhozone is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhozone is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., or Kingston, Ont.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. S. T. Medd was in Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. Wm. Pilling has gone to Souris Man.

Mrs. J. H. Renwick, 571 Aylmer street, will receive this afternoon.

Miss Estella Hayton has returned home after a month's visit with her friends in Belleville and Madoc.

Mr. A. Longo, the well known local fruit merchant, was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mr. Harry Rae, of Edmonton, is visiting his parents, Sherbrooke street.

Miss Violet Housinger, of St. Thomas, is the guest of Miss May Lees, Gilmour street.

The Rev. W. S. Major, of St. George's church, Montreal, was the guest of Mr. F. H. Dawson, 483 Dongal street, while in the city.

Mrs. W. H. Grills, of Campbellford and Mrs. J. A. Regan, Chicago, are visiting Mrs. T. J. Sargison, Charlotte street.

Mr. A. H. A. Robinson, C.E., of the Engineering Department of Public Works, Ottawa, spent the week-end at his home, 497 Gilmour street.

Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald, ledger keeper in the local Bank of Toronto, leaves to-day for British Columbia and it is expected he will locate in Vancouver.

Mrs. J. B. Hunter, Gilmour street, left for Toronto yesterday to meet Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, who are expected to arrive in Toronto to-day from China.

Master Stanley Degen has recovered sufficiently from the operation which he underwent recently at Nicholls Hospital, to enable him to be removed to his home.

Miss Maud Reycraft and Miss Beulah Milton, of Ridgetown, who have been the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Neal, returned to Toronto yesterday en route.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The Bell Telephone team put it over the Lock Works' players 4—1. It was a close call, however.

The Bell Telephone Co. are stringing another new cable along Water street.

Although Winnipeg has had a thaw during the big bonspiel, the Flavelle curlers are steadily climbing towards the prizes. Good little Lindsay!

If the American Government places a heavy toll on English and Canadian ships that will pass through the Panama Canal how about American launches on the Trent Canal?

The Ontario Government is going after the loan sharks. There is at least one man in Peterborough who will follow this bill with keen interest.

The county auditors, W. H. Casement and J. Calder, were busy yesterday in the office of the county clerk, making their annual inspection of the county accounts.

The staff of the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway gave a banquet last week in the Benson House, Lindsay. Representatives from Toronto and Orillia were present.

A Times representative called at the Fire Hall last night and asked Chief Howard "anything new to-day. Any fires?" "Nothing doing," replied the head of the local brigade.

A Lindsay contemporary says that a Peterborough report of the recent hockey games says there "is a dying yelp from Peterborough." We often yell over victory but are always booming.

Once more the splendid band of the local Salvation Army band has been heard on the streets. This is owing to the comparatively mild weather. May both the mildness and the Army's music go on!

We note that Lindsay is getting an Act put through the Legislature to enable that town to borrow money. What! After the big winter carnival must such sordid matters as borrowing be considered?

Eggs are going down. Thank the Providence that watches over our human affairs. "Going down," refers not only to the route to human stomachs, but to prices. The latter is what "cuts ice."

New York is to publish a newspaper by women for women. If such were printed in Peterborough half the ladies would not be on speaking terms with the rest and the editress would be called "a mean old cat whose hat is at least five years old."

A local grocer says that eggs are going "to fall in price." Good Mr. Grocer; It is time the city rose in revolt and refused to pay some of the prices asked on our market. This remark is not confined to Peterborough market.

Big Opening Tomorrow

RED MILL THEATRE

Peterboroughs Leading Place of Amusement

Under New Management

Under New Management. This Theater will run only the best films that money can buy, including all special features in this line. Up-to-date, life-sized pictured songs. Open daily from 1 to 11 P.M. Nothing offensive allowed. Ladies and children cordially invited to this comfortable house.

5c - Admission - 5c.

This price never changes.

327th Bargain Annex Event The CRESSMAN Wednesday, February 21, 1912

ANNEX LEADER No. 1

Embroidery Sale at 5c yd.

Our "Annex" customers all know the meaning of a 5c EMBROIDERY SALE. If you are not an "Annex" customer attend this sale and you will always be one. We won't stop to talk values—we don't need to, but you'll find EDGINGS, INSERTIONS and even CORSET COVERINGS in a tremendous assortment of qualities and widths, at a price which means a whole season's buying. See the window display and join in the early morning rush for the best selection. It's a great Annex Leader Wednesday for only, a yard..... 5c

See Window.

ANNEX LEADER No. 2

40 inch Factory Cotton 8½c

REGULAR VALUE 11¼c YARD

An "Annex Snap" of extra merit that should draw a great crowd of anxious buyers on Wednesday. 600 yards of BENGAL FACTORY—a clean, firm cloth that measures 40 inches in width; the quality is equal to or better than the regular stock line at 11¼c. On Wednesday you cannot buy more than ONE end of either 5, 10, 15 or 20 yards. Positively only one length to a customer. Annex Leader only yd.. 8½c

See Window.

TWEED "MILL ENDS" 79c EACH END

All Wool Tweeds and Worsteds, in grey and brown shadings; 30 to 54 inches wide, and 1 to 2 yards in length; bought direct from the mill at a fraction of their real worth. In the Annex, EACH END..... 79c

50c FANCY PLAID DRESS GOODS 36c

3 pieces of Campbell's fancy Plaid DRESS GOODS in the Annex Wednesday; color combinations of blue and red, and green and blue; full 40 inches wide. A special stock line at 50c. Annex Price, a yard..... 36c

GIRLS' WRAPPERETTE DRESSES 47c

A stock line of Girls' 75c WRAPPERETTE DRESSES in navy blue only, with polka dot patterns, trimmed with finishing braid; sizes up to 12 years. An excellent dress for school wear. Buy these early Wednesday only..... 47c

12½c HEMMED TEA TOWELS 9½c

35 dozen of special "Cressman" Tea Towels—hemmed ready for use; size 20-x27 inches. Regular stock price is 12½c. In the Annex Wednesday only, each..... 9½c

36-INCH STRIPE FLANNELETTE 11c YARD

An excellent quality cloth in a very wide width; heavy weight Canadian make; blue or pink stripes; soft combed finish. An unusual Annex Snap at only, a yard..... 11c

Bargain Annex Registered

BALDWIN'S BEST GRADE 4-PLY FINGERING 81c SKEIN

There is only one "BEST GRADE" 4-ply Fingering, and that's BALDWIN'S — About 300 skeins to be sold in the Annex Wednesday at the very low price of a skein..... 8½c

SECOND SALE OF MEN'S SHIRTS AT 55c
REGULAR $1.00 AND $1.25 VALUES. 2 FOR $1.55

The immense success of last week's Shirt Sale prompts THIS ITEM. There is still a splendid assortment of nobby spring patterns, on light, medium and dark grounds; sizes 14 to 16½. All are particularly well-made, and all are soft front Shirts. We do not exaggerate when we say that all are worth regularly from $1.00 to $1.25. Second time in the Annex, each..... 55c

2 FOR $1.55

ANNEX LEADER NO. 3

Turkish BATH TOWELS 26c

per pair

An "Annex" Leader of exceptional value is this new line of TURKISH BATH TOWELS; cream color, with red and white centre and border; fringed ends; extra large size, 16 x 44 inches. Extra special in the Annex Wednesday, per pair..... 26c

SECOND ANNEX SALE OF WOMEN'S CLOTH SKIRTS 99c

Another great SKIRT SALE in the Annex on Wednesday. Secured by a very fortunate purchase, we have marked the price at less than the actual cost of making. Procurable in black and navy blue—all sizes—made with front panel and fits perfectly over the hips. Worth many times the price we ask in the Annex. One day only, Wednesday, each..... 99c

CHILDREN'S LITTLE DARLING HOSE

A final "clean-up" of LITTLE DARLING HOSE—the standard of Cashmere Hose for children; fine ribbed with silk heel and toe, and seamless feet. Colors of tan, pink, sky, red, cream, and black. Annex Special—

Sizes 4 to 6. Regular 25c, for..... 19c

Sizes 6½ and 7. Regular 30c, for..... 24c

12½c AND 15c KINGCOT CANADIAN GINGHAM 10½c

One of the new spring lines that made its first appearance in the Annex last Wednesday and found instant favor. An excellent choice of advance spring patterns from which to make selection. Buy these early to insure best choice. Regular 15 and 12½c values. Annex Price. 10½c

15c MOREEN SKIRTING IN THE ANNEX 7½c

Just HALF PRICE for this Moreen Skirting on Wednesday. Good quality cloth, in colors of navy and brown. Full 29 inches wide. A regular stock 15c line. To clear completely in the Annex Wednesday only, a yard..... 7½c

ANNEX LEADER

WOMEN'S LONG COAT SWEATERS 99c

It's hard to believe such COAT SWEATER value possible as this week's Annex Leader. These garments are all 3-4 (or knee) length, in a heavy, firm, honey-comb weave—grey bodies with self or red trimmings. Made in the popular 5-button style with side pockets. You needn't worry about the regular price of these garments, but come early on Wednesday. Annex Price only..... 99c

See Window.

AN UNUSUAL ANNEX SALE OF FLANNELETTE BLANKETS WEDNESDAY FOR $1.19

One of the greatest "Blanket Values" the Annex ever offered; the very best quality Flannelette procurable, in either white or grey. The size is exceptionally large (70x80 inches), made to our special measure. A great Blanket Snap in the Annex, pair..... $1.19

36-INCH BLEACHED COTTON 9c YARD

Seven pieces, of 36-inch pure Bleached Cotton; good firm weave; a quality and weight better than the regular 10c lines. In the Annex Wednesday only at, per yard..... 9c

BUY FLANNELETTE GOWNS WEDNESDAY FOR ONLY 38c

Made of a very fair quality of Flannelette in blue or pink stripes; button fronts. To clear completely out we have marked the price unusually low. See these Wednesday. In the Annex, each..... 38c

$1.00 COLORED BED SPREADS 73c

Our first spring shipment of this big, double-bed size SPREAD; measures 62 x 86 inches, fringed all around; colors of blue and pink. Regular $1.00 value. In the Annex, at..... 73c

2 O'CLOCK LEADER SAMPLE BLOUSES 39c

The lot includes White MUSLINS, Stripe CHAMBRAYS and PRINTS, and a few WRAPPERETTES. Qualities if in stock would sell at 75c and up; mostly all sizes. Some are slightly soiled, but a "tub visit" will make them look fresh and new. 2 O'Clock Sharp—positively not before. Not more than three Blouses to any one customer, each..... 39c

LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING 6½c

A great Annex Snap that will be bought at sight; LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING; full 17 inches wide; red stripe border. A quality you will recognize as being less than mill price. In the Annex, a yard... 6½c

FEATHER FILLED BED PILLOWS 89c PAIR

50 pair of regular size BED PILLOWS to sell in this week's Annex; filled with pure feathers; covering of strong ticking. A great Annex Bargain at, pair. 89c

75c BLACK SATEEN UNDERSKIRTS 49c

Cheaper than the cost of making is this lot of Annex Underskirts; made of soft, mercerized Sateen, with deep flounce. Splendid stock value at 75c. Annex Price..... 49c

It pays to do your WALL PAPERING EARLY

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

Store opens 8.15 ⋮⋮ ANNEX CLOSES 5.30 ⋮⋮ Closes 5.45

Snaps in "Room Lots" of Wall Paper.

3rd Floor

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Recommended by physicians and sold by druggists. Big G is the accepted standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, such as those causing unnatural discharges, inflammation, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Prevents contagion. Big G is sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by prepaid express, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75, or 6 bottles, $5.00. Circular sent on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Violet: By all means let face powder alone, if you want a beautiful complexion. Powder clogs up the skin pores, causing enlarged pores, wrinkles and rough discolored complexions. The only safe and satisfactory complexion beautifier I know of is made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in a half a pint of hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion will take away that shiny, sallow, greasy look and make your skin smooth, soft and velvety. It does not rub off so easily as powder does, and gives that much-desired, delicate, refined tone to the skin without an artificial, powdered look.

A.B.C.: Stop worrying over such a trivial thing and get an ounce of delatone. Mix enough with water to cover the hair not wanted, and after two or three minutes rub off, then wash the skin. You will find delatone the most satisfactory thing to use for removing superfluous hair; and even if it does cost a dollar an ounce, it is worth several times its price to have a smooth, hairless skin.

Rena: Your sallow, muddy, pimply complexion is due to impurities in the blood. To rid your system of these marks of ill health, you can find nothing better than this old-fashioned, home-made tonic: Dissolve a half a cup of sugar and one ounce kardine in a half pint of alcohol, then add hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal, and you will be surprised at the the wonderful health restoring qualities of this tonic. It will give you energy, a good appetite and bring back the glow of perfect health to your cheeks.

Ellen: For your weak, tired, dull eyes, you need a good strengthening tonic. If you will get from your druggist an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water, then put a few drops in each eye once or twice a day, your eyes will soon be clear of all inflammation, feel strong and be bright and sparkling. This tonic is splendid for granulated eyelids and will be found very soothing. The use of this simple tonic has enabled many to dispense with wearing glasses.

J.S.: You are only one of the millions who have wasted many dollars on nicely perfumed hair tonics which did no good except to enrich the manufacturer. For your dandruff-laden, itchy scalp, and thin falling hair, get a half pint of alcohol and one ounce of quinzoin at any drug store; mix these together, then add a half pint of cold water. Two applications of this tonic a week to the scalp will do more good than all the "sure-cure remedies" on the market. It will put your hair and scalp in a healthy condition and you will then be praising this simple, inexpensive tonic to your friends.

Marjorie: To reduce your weight quickly and at small cost, without resorting to a restricted diet and fatiguing exercises, dissolve four ounces of parnotis in a pint and a half of hot water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. I find this simple, harmless remedy generally takes off fat rapidly, and those who have tried it tell me it is a marvellous fat-reducer, as it leaves the skin smooth and unwrinkled. You can get parnotis at any drug store.

Nora: To have beautiful hair and a healthy scalp, you must keep your scalp clean. All the hair tonics under the sun will not keep your hair and scalp in a healthy condition, unless you shampoo frequently and thoroughly. When washing your hair never use soap in any form, as the alkali in it streaks and dulls the hair, causing it to split and become brittle. No shampoo preparation I have ever seen gives the hair such a clean, fluffy and healthy appearance as a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This makes the finest shampoo imaginable and is inexpensive. It removes all dirt and dandruff, rinses easily, dries quickly and adds a beautiful lustre to the hair that you can't get with any other shampoo. I consider it the only perfect shampoo.

P.T.W.: You can get rid of those blackheads, freckles and large, dirt-collecting pores in your face, by using this cream-jelly: Stir together and let stand over night one ounce of almozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and a half pint of cold water. This makes a greaseless cream that will not promote a growth of hair on the face. Use it for massaging to clear and soften your skin, and you will soon have just as fine and smooth a complexion as most women many years your junior. For removing freckles, tan and other skin discolorations, it has no equal.

Read Mrs. Martyn's book "Beauty," $5—Adv.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Let Us Poison Wolves, Too.

The Quebec Government is determined to inaugurate a crusade against the wolves of that Province, which have been steadily increasing during recent years. Local hunters from Gold, Ketchesum and Eagle and other lakes back of Peterborough complain after the last fall hunt that the deer of this county are being killed out more by wolves than bullets.

Are You Going To Build?

If so, the undersigned, who is a practical stone mason, of long experience, is prepared to do your work in a first class manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

For full particulars, call or address

- J. Gemmell -

TIMES OFFICE, PETERBOROUGH

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof, for an Act to amend the Acts relating to the City of Peterborough, to give the said City authority to expropriate the property, plant and appliances, situated within the Municipality, of any person, firm or Corporation engaged in the business of supplying light, heat or power for sale.

Dated the 14th day of February, A.D., 1912.

F. H. D. HALL,
City Solicitor.

(D—6-10-21-2)

- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 126.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were very sighted, some did'l a school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require both sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 45 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS

Five Ministers to Visit Western Canada---Desperate Battle at Puebla State Penitentiary

LOCAL OPTION WILL BE TRIED HERE IN JANUARY

Last night a meeting was called by the Temperance and Moral Reform League in George Street Church. Mr. Richard Lees was chairman for the evening. By eight o'clock about 90 people assembled in that edifice. Mr. Lees very kindly explained to a Times representative, prior to the meeting, that it was mainly called by the Temperance and Moral Reform League to decide whether the local temperance people would proceed with a campaign for Local Option or not.

Rev. Isaac Couch, pastor of the church, occupied a chair beside Mr. Lees. The organist played a voluntary, whilst the meeting awaited attendance.

Mr. Lees opened the meeting by asking those present, as many seats were vacant to come to the front as that would make it easier for the speakers. "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung.

Rev. Mr. Couch opened the meeting with prayer. He asked God to help all mankind. He wanted mankind built up. The speaker, in his prayer said, Peterborough is a beautiful spot. He wanted to abolish the bar. "We need to be cautious as the serpent and cautious as the dove." "We want divine help in so great an undertaking."

Chairman Lees said the purport of the meeting had been fully explained in the press.

Mr. Cunningham gave a brief outline of what the Alliance did last week in Toronto. There were no politics mentioned at that convention. Neither public ownership of the bars nor a third party were mentioned. The Toronto newspapers would leave before the meeting was over and guess at results. The temperance people care neither for the smiles nor frowns of any premier or leader of the opposition. The speaker then referred to an illuminated chart on the platform showing how over half Ontario is under prohibition, a large part with bars on account of the three-fifth clause and one part still with bars. Local option will depend largely on local committee. As far as he could see, Mr. Rowell was likely to back up the Alliance. It is a matter of future consideration whether or when the Temperance people put up a candidate. This would be a last resort. The temperance cause has never had proper political organization to make itself felt. In the county 500 or more men ought to be found who would pledge themselves to vote for prohibition.

The chairman said it was better to come to the business for which the meeting was called. At the last election, whilst temperance carried in Peterborough by a large majority, the three-fifths clause lost local option. There had been considerable discussion whether it was wise to take up local option again or not. On this account the present meeting was held. Invitations had been sent out through the press and the churches to come to the meeting.

The result of the meeting was that local option will be tried in January.

MILLBROOK CITIZEN BREAKS ANKLE BONE

Chief Howard Comes to the Rescue When Bystanders Think it a Case of Booze.

There was a bad case, not of mistaken identity, but of mistaken conditions. It seems that Mr. McKnight an elderly gentleman of Millbrook, was on his way to the G.T.R. Station along Simcoe street, on route home. The icy pavement caused him to lose his footing. He fell and broke a small bone in his ankle. A crowd quickly gathered. The usual fool in such gatherings spread the report that Mr. McKnight was drunk whilst the unknown libellist caused the police to be sent for, Chief Howard, of the Fire Brigade, seeing the crowd, and going to ascertain the nearby trouble, recognized a mutual friend. The Chief, as soon as he arrived at the scene of the accident quickly advised the croakers of their mistake, and securing a conveyance took charge of his friend

DELUSIONS ABOUT THE LIFE OF A FARMER

A well dressed gentleman was in The Times office yesterday. During his talk with the city editor he unloaded about two car loads of slush about living close to nature and the serenity of mind that must be enjoyed by a farmer. Now the farmer is all right and making money, if he has average brains. Still its all rot to talk about serenity of mind. One may wax very poetic and slushy when paying a spasmodic visit into the country where the scenery happens to be striking, but, believe us, the farmer doesn't give a blank for scenery. His mind and his work are in the chores, the cattle, the soil, and the crops. If you don't believe this, hire out as a farm hand for two months.

Above All Things Keep Health

No matter how much hard luck one may have he can always "come back" if he has the snap and ginger of good health.

Right food is the most essential factor of health.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

is made of wheat and barley and furnishes in the right proportions the elements Nature needs for keeping the body and brain at their best.

Look for "The Road to Wellville" in packages of Grape-Nuts. The famous little book and GRAPE-NUTS have helped thousands—and may help you.

Grape-Nuts food is made of Canadian Grain, in a Canadian Factory, by Canadian Labor.

"THERE'S A REASON"

Grape-Nuts is made of Canadian Grain, in a Canadian Factory, by Canadian Labor

Canadian Postum Cereal Company Ltd. Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

ITALIAN PRISONER IS ACQUITTED BY CADI

At yesterday's police court Nicolas Martino was charged with attempted indecent assault, said charge being [illegible] committed between the 15th and 20th of August last. Crown Attorney Wood appeared for the prosecution and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the defence. The Court was surrounded by a crowd anxious to hear startling details of evidence. Maria Antonia Vuira, the principal witness in the case, and the party upon whom the attempted assault was alleged to have been committed, was first called to the stand. She gave her age as ten years and five months. Her evidence as far as can be given is that she had known the prisoner for a long time and looked upon him as a stepfather. Her mother and he were now married, although they lived for years as man and wife. During that time three children were born to them, not including the witness. She described the details leading up to and concerning the alleged offence. Prisoner had used insulting language towards her, and when she had resisted him he had threatened to kill her. The mother corroborated her evidence. The prisoner had once threatened to use a knife on the mother. The girl is a pupil of St. Mary's convent.

The mother, next witness, admitted living with the prisoner for the past nine years, while not legally married. She told of the prisoner going into the bedroom where the two children were sleeping, presumably to give one of them a drink of water. When questioned on his return why he had stayed so long, he replied that he was killing bedbugs. This practically closed the evidence for the Crown.

The Magistrate did not consider the evidence offered of sufficient weight to warrant him making a conviction. He therefore acquitted the prisoner on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

SEYMOUR POWER CO'Y TO ERECT BUILDING

We understand that the Seymour Power Co. intends to erect a substation for the transmission of power into Lindsay, on a site near the old Victoria Railway junction north of that town. This station will be erected in connection with the company's line from Peterborough to Lindsay on which preliminary work has been under way since last fall. It is understood that the Seymour company will bring the power from Peterborough up to 12,000 voltage, with a step-down at the substation to 4,000 voltage. Mr. J. S. Denik, of Trenton, is in charge of the work at Lindsay.

BOY CADETS WILL GO TO CAMP THIS YEAR

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Col. the Hon Sam. Hughes has worked out many of the details for this summer's cadet training. The lads are to be given six days in camp under conditions designed to safeguard their physical and moral well being. Lads from a group of schools will be formed into a company, and the companies combined as county regiments.

The camps will be regimental ones; the boys will be trained in their own counties, in carefully selected sites. The cadets' instructors, clergymen, etc., accompanying them will be transported, clothed and fed free. No pay, however, will be given.

MR. JAMES EDGAR IS NOW PETERBORO'S POSTMASTER

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—At a session of the Cabinet this morning, an order in council was passed appointing Mr. James Edgar Postmaster of Peterborough. The above, while not actually confirmed, is believed to be correct. Mr. A. H. Stratton, who has held the position for the past 18 months or so will probably be officially notified of the change to-day. It is expected the Inspector for the Kingston District will instal Mr. Edgar this week.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents

SEND AND GET IDEAS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—It is no secret that some of our aldermen do not object to taking a trip at the city's expense. The further the better seems to be the hope of those selected to represent Peterborough abroad. The town of Lindsay holds a "made in Lindsay" exhibition on the 14th, 15th and 16th of this month. Now why not have at least one representative of this city go to Lindsay and at the city's expense get after ideas. There is no doubt but what a correspondent said in your paper a few days ago is true, that Peterborough could put up a similar exhibition on a larger scale. Such a show here would bring hundreds of outside people whose money would benefit the city and whose orders would benefit our manufacturers.

Progress.

FAVORS VACCINATION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—There is some considerable discussion in the contemporary press of Ontario, especially that of Ottawa in which compulsory vaccination is severely condemned. I am neither a doctor nor an authority on health matters. I do not know what the [illegible] looks like under the microscope. Those microbes, whilst they may be musical and educated, certainly have wrought havoc wherever they get a fair reception. I am of a hospitable nature, and where it does not cost me too much, of a charitable disposition. Still I firmly believe in shutting the human door against visitation by small pox germs. Mr. Editor, just walk along the streets of Quebec, or any town in that Province, look at the large percentage of faces, both male and female, disfigured for life by the pits dug really by these microbes. But above all, if possible, find how many tombstones in the Parish church yards are a direct result of small-pox. Any man of common sense, will if not unduly prejudiced admit the immense saving that vaccination has made directly in Ontario. Is it not better by a few temporary sore arms to stamp out this dreadful and loathsome disease, than by pandering to a few cranks, have small-pox a continual menace to the community.

Vaccination.

BANKER SHOT BY HIS SON

Grand Forks, N.D., Feb. 20.—Rex. Wallace, of St. Paul, last night shot and killed his father, H. W. Wallace, a prominent banker of Drayton, N.D. seriously wounding his brother-in-law and then killed himself. The tragedy occurred in the bank of the elder Wallace.

It is alleged that young Wallace had written a letter some weeks ago to his father, threatening to kill him unless he fulfilled a promise alleged to have been made some time ago to give him $25,000.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN OTTAWA

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The news that a petition has been forwarded to the Government from Peterborough, signed by R. Sheehy, J. Lynch, L. Hayes, F. McNulty, T. Lane, Paddy Carroll and others demanding that the postmaster at Peterborough be retained was received by the Cabinet with dismay. Borden had a fit. The general alarm was increased by the report that the petition contained charges of unfairness against the government. The crisis, however, was brought to an inspiring close by Dr. Sproule singing "Rule Britannia" in French.

MINISTERS TO GO TO WEST

Postmaster-General Will Lead Way Followed by Messrs. White, Cochrane, Hazen and F. D. Monk

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—There will be a regular exodus of the Ministers westward as soon as the session is over in the Spring. The Ministers appreciate the seriousness of the Western problems. Western questions have been monopolizing the attention of the House this session and promise to be all important during the next few years. For this reason the new Ministers are anxious to study them at first hand.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General will leave for the West as soon as the session is over. Other Ministers who are planning to go West this spring or summer are Hon. W. T. White, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. J. D. Hazen and Hon F. D. Monk.

Notice to Water Consumers

The Board of Water Commissioners have authorized a General Inspection of all buildings and premises, taking water from their mains, and hereby ask the public to kindly give every assistance to the Inspectors in the discharge of their duties.

BY ORDER.

BD. WATER COMMISSIONERS.

THE WEATHER.

Northwesterly winds and a little colder.

ONCE AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT

School Section No. 8, Otonabee, Has More Trouble

NEW SEPARATE SCHOOL

Protestants and Roman Catholics do Not Appear to Live in Harmony in This District—The Proposed Separate School Way Wreck Three Public Schools.

AGAIN Public School Section No. 8, Otonabee, is in the limelight. Our readers will remember the trouble that took place about a year ago in connection with that school. At the annual meeting of the ratepayers, two Roman Catholics and one Protestant were returned as trustees. The Board thus constituted engaged the services of a Roman Catholic teacher. Complaints were made that the teacher instructed the pupils in tenets of the church. As a result a strong deputation was sent to Toronto to interview the Ontario Government in connection with the matter. The deputation suggested to the Minister of Education that the Public School regulations be amended in such a way as would prevent the use of public schools, during or after school hours, for the teaching of religious matters. The Minister acceded to the wishes of the deputation and abolished the clause in regard to permitting religious instruction, except once a week after school hours, and then only by a priest or minister. This regulation does not seem to be satisfactory to the Roman Catholics of that section, who therefore, we learn, propose to establish a separate school. It is understood they are taking active steps in this direction. They have already had a meeting and, it is reported have elected their trustees, and it is said have secured a site for the proposed separate school.

The objectionable part of this is, that, by their action, several school sections will be depleted of a considerable number of their rate payers. This will prove a great handicap to the Protestant section of the community, who intend to protect themselves as far as the law permits.

This is only another evidence of the palpable fact that separate schools are anything but a blessing to the community, especially in rural districts. As this is a matter of both general and local interest, The Times will endeavor to keep its readers acquainted with the results, as the efforts progress.

FORMER LOCAL MAN'S GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. John Elder, who was married in Toronto in 1862 and afterwards was a member of the dry goods firm of Macdonald & Elder, Peterborough, where Messrs. Merrill & Meredith carry on the business, afterwards moved to Alameda, Cal. Those of our older citizens who remember Mr. Elder, will congratulate him on the celebration in Alameda, of his golden wedding on February 12th.

An encouragingly large increase in business has decided the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to enlarge its Fort William elevators at a cost of $500,000. Construction is to be started at once, and according to present estimates, the work should be finished by August 15th. There will be built altogether 116 bins, giving an extra capacity of 2,532,500 bushels of grain, and this, bringing the total up to 6,000,000 bushels, will make them the largest elevators in the world.

"BOMB" RESOLUTION WAS JUST A JOKE SAYS RYAN

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—Fire crackers in the hall, not dynamite under non-union steel "jobs," were referred to in a resolution submitted to the conference of International Brisge and Structural Iron Workers, at Rochester, N.Y., in September, 1910, according to a statement by Frank M. Ryan, president of the Association to-day. Ryan had denied the authenticity of the resolution, the original copy which the federal officials investigating the dynamiting conspiracy gesert they have, but to-day he recalled, he said, that the measure proposing that no more "bombs or explosives of any kind be exploded while this convention is in session," was introduced.

JUST A JOKE, SAYS RYAN.

"It was just a joke," said Ryan, "and it came about because P. J. Morin of St. Louis had put a bunch of fire crackers under the chairs of the delegates and set them off. The explosives startled all of us. The resolution went to the Resolutions Committee and never was reported out. I suppose John McNamara kept it. We did not discuss because we knew nothing of the dynamiting plot."

The document came into the hands of the Government with other records of the iron workers association in raids on its offices.

Twenty-five explosions destroyed or damaged property of employers of non-union iron and steel workers in the year preceding the convention and according to McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, he was kept particularly busy just before the national meeting.

DISCUSSION OF SNEED CASE ENDED IN MURDER

Forth Worth, Texas, Feb. 20.—While S. S. Morris, a real estate dealer, was in the midst of an animated discussion, aboard a crowded street car last night, of incidents in connection with the trial of J. B. Sneed, Chief of Detectives Bell interrupted to suggest that women were aboard the car, and that he modify his language. Morris resented the remonstration, attacked the officer with a knife, it is alleged that Bell opened fire with a revolver, killing Morris.

27 WERE KILLED IN A FIGHT AT THE PEUBLO PENITENTIARY

Mexico City, Feb. 20.—Twenty-seven prisoners and prison guards were killed yesterday at Peublo in the state of Puebla, in a fight which followed an attempt by the prisoners to escape from jail, according to a special despatch received by the Mexican Herald from that city. Twenty of the men succeeded in escaping.

A force of cavalry which was hurriedly despatched to the assistance of the prison guards had a severe fight with the escaping prisoners.

MR. DAWSON KENNEDY'S GOLDEN WEDDING

Yesterday two of Peterborough's best known citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy, celebrated their golden wedding, at their home, 600 Water street. The couple were summoned by their sons and daughters and their families, the only children being absent were two sons, Mr. H. D. and Mr. S. Kennedy. One grandson, Mr. Clifton Kidd, of Regina was also unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy were the recipients not only of heart felt congratulations, but of many substantial tokens of regard. Mr. Kennedy and Miss Rebecca Sherin, daughter of the late Mr. Henry Sherin, of Emily, were married in 1862 in this city. They went at once to Mr. Kennedy's farm in Otonabee. There they lived happily for over forty years. Mr. Kennedy always took an active part in public affairs, assisted by his wife.

A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy disposed of the farm and moved to this city.

Yesterday afternoon about twenty-five relatives and immediate friends of the couple enjoyed a dinner which was presided over by Mr. H. P. Kennedy.

The daughters present were Mrs. R. J. Kidd, of this city, together with her husband and four children. Mrs. R. A. Ward and husband and five children, all of Toronto. The sons present were Mr. H. P. Kennedy and wife and one child, of Toronto; Mr. F. W. Kennedy and wife and two children, of Lindsay. Twelve grand children were also present.

Among the congratulations received were those from Prime Minister Borden, and from friends in Chicago, New Orleans, Toronto, Sarnia and other points.

TAXATION

By J. H. Burnham, M.P.

The following article appeared in the Ottawa Citizen of 15th inst.:

Some people array themselves against the land tax, because they say that is unfair. They declare that to take the tax wholly off improvements and put it wholly on land is unjust. In answer to this declaration it may be said that the taxing off improvements and putting them on land is not the point at issue. The true point at issue is whether it is right and proper to appropriate the value of property given by the community back to the community again. Keep all the rest of the taxes on if the objectors wish it, but let us in the meantime see to it that some people shall no longer get that which belongs to the people as a whole. If after this point is settled there is still a need of taxes, then proceed as at present and levy the further sum required in the usual way. But do not oppose the appropriation of the community to the community of what is wholly the property of the community. This suggestion may remove the slight anchorage at present enjoyed by objectors, an anchorage that as we see, looms up out of all proportion to its importance.

NEW REGULATIONS AS TO LOAN SHARKS

In the act now under consideration by the Ontario Government, referred to in The Times yesterday, concerning loan sharks, a copy of which has since been received, there is news of interest to more than one man in Peterborough. The act provides that where, in respect of money lent, the Court finds that having regard to the risk and to all the circumstances the cost of the loan is excessive and that the transaction is harsh and unconscionable, the Court may:—

Re-open the transaction and take an account between the creditor and the debtor. Notwithstanding any settlement of account or any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, re-open any account already taken and relieve the debtor from payment of any sum in excess as adjudged by the Court; order the creditor to repay any excess if the same has been paid or allowed on account by the debtor; and may set aside either wholly or in part or revise or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of the money lent, and, if the creditor has parted with the security order him to indemnify the debtor.

PRINCESS THEATRE

We Give You a Complete Change of Programme Every Day

To-Day's Show

"THE PROFESSOR" (A Drama)

"HIS ADVENTURE" (A Colored Drama)

The Divided Ring Comedy.

Admission, Every Day 5c

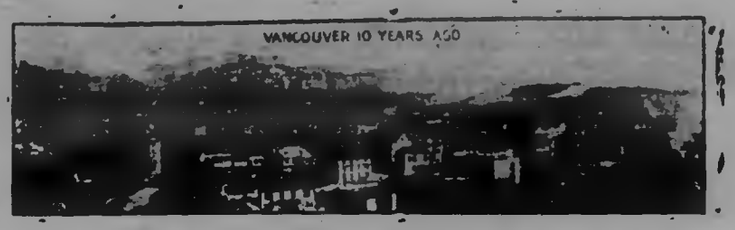
Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop. 415 George St

PATTERSON AND FIELDING—"See here, boy; you stop casting reflections on our proceedings at Washington."—From The Toronto News.

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security



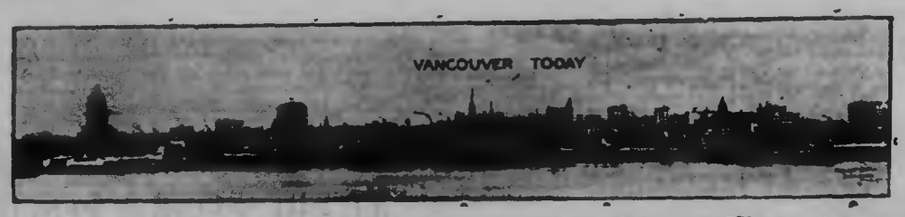
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorised capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Shares offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been reserved. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares. Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
Jt L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON. Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C,
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited

432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

∴ RED DEER, ALBERTA ∴

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $135 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,

41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.

VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 66x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms 1/12 Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Part Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

THE ORIGIN OF MAN

Recent Research is Held to Support Theory that the Human Race had Tail-Less Ape Ancestors.

Since Darwin first suggested the theory of evolution, scientists galore have been studying along the same lines, and man's origin is being gradually pushed further and further into the remote ages. Reviewing the remarkable discoveries of the last ten years in Western Europe, Professor McCurdy shows that it is being gradually proved that the human race is as old as any of the tailless apes, and probably had the same ancestors. The oldest undisputed flint implements date from the Upper Miocene period of geology; the oldest human bone, the jaw of "Homo heidelbergens" from near the beginning of the Quarternary. Primitive man, therefore, must have lived in Western Europe during the entire Glacial period, and developed into "Homo primigenius," low in stature and robust, with short, stout arms and legs — much like the Eskimo of today. A more intellectual race, probably from the East, appeared in the Upper Quarternary, or at least 30,000 years ago. This people, "Homo aurignacensis," sculptured and frescoed the walls of the caverns and their own implements, and their descendants, who must have flourished more than 10,000 years ago, introduced the rudiments of writing. The negroid people probably came into Western Europe soon after. Professor Klaatsch finds "Homo primigenius" to be closely related to the gorilla of Africa, and "Homo aurignacensis" to resemble more nearly the chimpanzee of Asia.

Concrete Fence Posts

The increasing cost of timber has resulted in more spirited search for efficient substitutes. One inventor, realising the growing popularity of ferro-concrete, has turned his endeavours into this channel with a view to effecting the desired result, and has achieved distinct success. The posts made from this material are stated to be extremely durable and far superior to those of wood. The cost averages about forty cents per yard; but in this connection it is as well to point out that the cost is governed by geographical situation, inasmuch as the transportation charges for posts of this description, or for manufacturing them on the spot after the materials have been brought in, are heavier than for those of wood under certain conditions. At the same time, if the materials are obtainable on the spot the fence can be built exceedingly cheaply; and when it is pointed out that the durability of a ferro-concrete post is from five to ten times that of timber, according as the wood is preserved with creosote or otherwise, it will be seen that the [illegible] in those districts where wood is not readily obtainable. Three of the great British railway companies have erected fence-posts of this material, and are stated to be eminently satisfied with the same; while it has also been used for gradient-posts and gate-posts to crossings.

Telotypographing

Great activity is being evinced by numerous inventors in the field of telegraphic science for the purpose of increasing the advantages of this system of communication, a result no doubt due to the powerful competition that has been offered by the widespread use of the telephone. A Continental inventor has perfected an appliance which he describes as the 'telotypograph.' The idea is to enable messages to be telegraphed to an addressee and immediately written down, a kind of typewriter being employed for the purpose. The inventor has submitted his apparatus to the French Government postal officials, who have expressed a desire to see the invention in actual operation, and who propose to introduce it on lines of lesser importance at first where the telegraph operators are not very expert in handling the Morse code. Should the system prove commercially successful under these conditions its application will be extended to first-class lines, and possibly adopted throughout the whole French telegraphic system.

THE COLOR OF ANIMALS

The Influence of Surroundings on the Coloring of Animals and Birds.

That colour may be influenced in some cases by the taking of special kinds of food is well known, but little is understood as yet of the extent to which pigmentary colour in animals is related to the particular kind of food they eat. Writing upon the subject of this question in his work upon "The Colour-Sense," Mr. Grant Allen draws attention to the fact, as of probable significance, that the two most beautiful classes of animals in the world, as far as colour is concerned — butterflies and humming-birds — are, perhaps, the most exclusively flower-hauting of all invertebrate or vertebrate creatures respectively, and the parrots and their allies, which possess equally beautiful colouring, are fruit-eaters. Indeed, a correspondence with, if not a direct relationship to, the colour and nature of food, as well as of habitual surroundings, may be traced, with few contradictions, and many of these but seeming; and the general rule emerges that animals that possess conspicuous colouring themselves are those, also, which live upon the essence of flowers, or fruits, and are guided, in the search for food, by their "eye for colour." The inverse of this rule is found equally to correspond, on the whole, with facts, for the raptorial birds, which live mostly in the air, and whose senses are more attuned to discriminate sound and movement, are generally, themselves wanting in bright colours. The whiter-plumaged birds in a flock of pigeons, for instance, are nearly always the first to be destroyed by hawks on land, and on the coast where there are sea-eagles, black pigeons are at an equal disadvantage.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

543 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender or Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above paragraphs.

Specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompanying unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON.
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-12-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and ill-treated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 13 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks.

Are You Going To Build?

If so, the undersigned, who is a practical stone mason, of long experience, is prepared to do your work in a first class manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

For full particulars, call or address

- J. Gemmell -

TIMES OFFICE, PETERBOROUGH

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof, for an Act to amend the Acts relating to the City of Peterborough, to give the said City authority to expropriate the property, plant and appliances, situated within the Municipality, of any person, firm or Corporation engaged in the business of supplying light, heat or power for sale.

Dated the 14th day of February, A.D., 1912.

F. H. D. HALL,
City Solicitor.

(D—5-16t21-2)

THE CULINARY ART

A NEW RICE PUDDING

Wash a cupful of rice, and put it [illegible] then pour in a pint of milk and let it cook for half an hour without stirring. Take the saucepan from the fire, stir in a heaping tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of marmalade and two eggs, well-beaten. Turn the pudding into a buttered dish, and bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

TO COOK TROUT.

If you would like to serve trout in perfect condition, proceed as follows: Place the fish on a dish, pour over some melted butter, and let it soak for a few minutes; then dust with pepper, and cook slowly on a gridiron over a clear fire from ten to fifteen minutes, according to the size of the fish.

A CHEAP DINNER.

Wash half a pound of rice in several waters; put it in a saucepan with plenty of boiling salted water, allowing it to boil up; simmer for five minutes, then drain it. Put it back into the saucepan with a cupful of new milk, the same quantity of boiling water, and cook until tender. Stir in a heaped tablespoonful of grated cheese, add salt and pepper to taste. Grease a pie-dish, sprinkle with breadcrumbs, and put in the cooked rice. Scatter another tablespoonful of grated cheese over the top, dot with bits of butter, and bake in hot oven for twenty minutes.

THE BOILING OF A HAM.

If a ham is boiled according to the directions given as under the result should be found quite satisfactory:—Wash and scrape the ham well, and put it on with cold water, 1 teaspoonful of vinegar, and half a dozen of cloves. Allow half an hour to each pound of ham. When ready allow the ham to cool in its own stock, which improves the flavour very much. Next skim over it a good quantity of browned bread crumbs, or if prefered glaze it.

NATIONS AT TEA

Methods Followed by Tea-Drinkers in Various Countries

In England, France, and Germany tea is made in much the same plebeian way; but in other countries the method of enjoying the cup which cheers is a more picturesque ceremony.

In China, for example, a large, artistic cup is set in a brass or silver holder, and in this cup the tea is placed and covered with boiling water. A little saucer which just fits it is placed inside the cup to keep in the steam and flavor of the tea. When it is drawn it is poured from the big cup into dainty little ones no bigger than an eggshell. The method followed in Japan is almost similar.

Tea-making in Russia is a simple process, involving merely the use of a samovar and a slice of lemon or of lime.

In Java tea is served in broad, flat cups, and flavored with Batavia arrack; and in Formosa it is steeped with tea-flowers and one or two orange-flowers.

For their tea-drinking the Uruguayans employ silver tubes, each of which has at the end a ball-like strainer known as a bomba or bombilla.

In Martinique an aromatic tea is used, and a peculiar liqueur made by the monks and by the old French housewives is added.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

Mona nodded, and laughed again.

"I didn't think it was that either," she said. "Now I am going to tell you what I do think it is. It is because your father did me an injury."

There was a moment's silence, and then Elsa said quietly,

"Yes."

That was the difficulty that stood in the way, and Scarborough marvelled at the quickness with which the girl had seen it. An elemental law of human nature was involved, for if you have done an injury to anyone, you can never afterwards stand in the relation of perfect friendship with that person. The injury may be forgiven, even forgotten, by the one who has suffered it, but the one who has inflicted it does not forget. Elsa was not guilty of the injury, but her father was, and loving him as she had done, she could not wholly disassociate herself from what he had done. Scarborough had not thought of this, but Mona de la Mar's sensibility was more acute, and she had been able to enter into the other girl's feelings with a perfect understanding.

"I think I know what you feel," she said. "I see the barrier which you have set up between us. I will go on trying to break it down. Meanwhile, if we can't be friends, we can be allies. To prove that I will tell you what I know."

She went on at once to say that on the morning after the arrival of the Sea-Horse at Ponta Delgada she had received through the post the letter of which she had told them. The writer asked her to meet him at the last house on the road which led out of town to the north. She was told to inquire for Senhor Manoel Bernardo, and the hour of the appointment was a quarter to five. Immediately after the afternoon performance, at which Elsa had seen her ride the big hunter in the circus ring, she took a bicycle, which she had hired, and went to meet the man.

The house to which she was directed was a "venta" of the common type, an open-fronted wine-shop, with no windows, but, to compensate for their lack, a doorway that took up the whole breadth of the shops frontage. Above this door hung a bunch of bog myrtle, the sign to the illiterate thirsty that wine might be had there, and a bough of box added the additional announcement that if the wine were not enough there were spirits also. The legend in white letters "Tobaco e Vinho Habilitado," was meant for the further information, to those who could read, that the venta was duly licensed to minister to their necessities. Having supplied which generous information, the proprietor evidently thought that he had pandered sufficiently to public curiosity, for he was not in the habit of doing more than was absolutely necessary, but in this he was not peculiar, for few Azorean tradesmen do so.

Mona admitted that she did not like the appearance of the place, and almost came away without pursuing the adventure further. But she plucked up her courage, and went in and asked for Senhor Manoel Bernardo.

She was received with exaggerated politeness, and it was evident that she was expected. She was taken to a room upstairs, over the shop, and something was said to her in Portuguese, which she guessed to be that the Senhor Bernardo was at hand, and would be told of her arrival.

It was a small room, with a carpetless floor and two or three dilapidated chairs. Papers and books were littered about on the table, and Mona noticed that the papers were English, and the books were mostly works of controversial theology. While she was wondering, with a certain amount of nervousness, what sort of a man he was who read theology in a small room over an Azorean wine-shop, the man himself came in.

He was dressed in the fashion of an Azorean of the middle class, and looked the part to perfection, until he began to speak. Then his tongue betrayed him, and he stood confessed an Aberdonian Scot.

"He apologised for having put me to the trouble of coming to see him," said Mona; "but explained that there were reasons why he thought it more prudent that he should do so, rather than risk comment by himself asking for me at the circus. Then he apologised for his room, which was, however, the best he could afford just now. He said next that it was not very pleasant weather, was it?—and seemed to wonder whether he ought to apologise for that, too. I had come into the room feeling rather frightened, you know; but the feeling didn't last. You can't be frightened at a five-foot-five Scotchman who does nothing but apologise."

"What was he like?" asked Elsa suddenly.

"In appearance? I've described him, haven't I? A five-foot-five Azorean with a vile Scotch accent. I think he squinted a little, but I'm not sure. It may have been only that he couldn't look anyone straight in the face. Anyway I never caught a full glance from him."

"Had he a slight, a very slight, lisp?" Elsa asked next.

Scarborough turned to her with an exclamation of surprise.

"Do you think you know him?" he asked.

"I don't know," said Elsa, hurriedly. "Yes, I think so. Had he?"

"It didn't strike me at the time," said Mona, "but now that you speak of it, I seem to remember that there was something funny about his 'S's'. Miss Carrington, you know him! Who is he?"

"I think," said Elsa, "that he is the man who was my father's confidential clerk. What was the proposition which you say he made to you?"

"He offered to recover my fortune for me, at a commission of fifty per cent.," said Mona. "He seemed surprised, and rather pained, when I refused. I suppose there is no doubt that he is a scoundrel. Is he a fool, too?"

"It's a sensible enough commission," said Scarborough, laughing, "if you can secure it. But if he thought he could get the diamonds, why did he offer you a partnership? It seems to me it would have been just as easy to keep the lot himself, and make cent. per cent."

"He mentioned his conscience," said Mona, smiling.

Scarborough frowned. "He's that sort, is he?" he remarked. "The canting type, who sins on religious grounds! Then he's probably more dangerous than you thought him. Go on. How did he propose to work his coup? But of course he didn't tell you that!"

"No," said Mona, "but I understood that he was under no doubt as to his being able to do so. He said that he had already spoken to Mr. Carrington on the subject."

"On the subject of restoring the diamonds to you?" asked Elsa quickly.

"No, on the subject of paying blackmail to the Senhor Manoel Bernardo. What's his real name, by the way?"

"Andrew Gillies," said Elsa. "Did he admit that it was blackmail?"

"Oh, no! Commission was his word. He said that he had worked faithfully and well for your father, and complained that his services had not been adequately rewarded. He quoted a text or two, and I got the impression that he did so with a very definite purpose. He saw that he couldn't do business with me, and he was trying to make me think that he was a mere harmless crank. He rather overdid the thing, though, and I came away thinking him a dangerous, and probably rather clever scoundrel. Just at the end, he dropped the mask a little, and said that since I would not accept half, I should probably get nothing. He would be satisfied with the thirty per cent. which he meant to get from Richmond Carrington."

"Was that the last you saw of him? You didn't meet him again on the road?" asked Scarborough.

"No. Why do you ask that?"

Scarborough turned to Elsa.

"I shouldn't be surprised," he said, "if Mr. Andrew Gillies turned out to be the hooded woman. And if so, it is possible that both he and the diamonds are by this time far away. He wouldn't be likely to prolong his stay in the islands with them in his pocket."

"What about the man who watched us at the Ring-Rock yesterday?" said Elsa.

"Yes; he, too, may have been Gillies," said Scarborough. "I hope he was; because if he was, he hasn't got the stones yet, and we may get them first. We shall have to find out where he is, and watch him. Unfortunately I can only do it between duty spells, but I'll get some of the other cable gun who has plenty of spare time—haven't you, Phil?"

Phil Varney had come into the room while Scarborough was speaking. He shook hands with Elsa and said:

"I was riding back from the Casa Davis just now, Miss Carrington, and I met your mother. She was driving home to the Chinelas in a hurry. She says she has been robbed of a valuable document."

Scarborough jumped to his feet with an exclamation.

"The letter from the stone jar!" he cried.

Mona laughed.

"Andrew Gillies, the hooded woman, the man in the small boat, or whom?" she said, excitedly. "This is becoming interesting."

CHAPTER XVIII.

Suspended Courtships

Phil Varney gave a quick glance round the group. His news that Mrs. Carrington had lost a document would appear to be momentous; for they were all showing strong excitement.

"I seem to have dropped a bombshell unawares," he said, with a laugh. "What plot are you people hatching?"

Scarborough turned to Elsa.

"Did you show your mother the scratched stone?" he asked—"or tell her about it?"

"Neither," said Elsa. "I probably should have done both, but her comments on my father's last letter to me—which I did show her—made me determine to tell her, for the future, no more than I had to."

Scarborough looked relieved. "That may turn out to be a lucky determination," he said. "It puts us more on a level with her."

"How?" asked the girl.

"Well, if your father's last act in life was to make these scratches on the stone, they are probably important. We know about them, and she doesn't. On the other hand, she knows what was in the stolen letter, and we don't; but perhaps the information that has been stolen from her wasn't complete. Don't you see? I'm inclined to think that it wasn't, and that the scratched stone was meant to supply what was lacking. Where, by the way, is the stone?"

"In my desk at home."

"Locked?"

"Yes," said Elsa, and then added, meaningly, "but it's a common little lock. Any key that—"

"That an inquisitive person—shall we say Andrew Gillies?—tried, would open it?" said Scarborough. "Or it might not be Andrew Gillies?"

"It might be my mother," said Elsa. "I think she is capable of it."

"Quite so. Then will you ride back to the Chinelas at once, and see that she doesn't?"

"Yes," said Elsa.

"May I go with you?" asked Mona, suddenly. "We are not performing this week, you know."

Elsa hesitated, and then, seeing the almost pleading look of friendliness on the other girl's face, she said:

"Yes, come if you like. Your interest in the thing is as great as mine."

It was not perhaps a very gracious response to the overture of friendship, but apparently Mona meant to be satisfied with it.

"I won't be a minute," she said, as she hurried from the room. "I've only got to fetch my hat and gloves, and pump up the front tire of my hireling, and then we can start."

"What are you going to do?" Elsa asked Scarborough.

"Oh, Phil and I will see you safely off, and then we are going to the venta where the apologetic Aberdonian spends his time in studying controversial theology. I hope we shall find him at home."

"If you don't?" Elsa asked.

"We shall look for some clue to his whereabouts. He must be found."

Elsa nodded. "But if you do find him at home?" she went on—"I don't think that you will—but if you do, what then?"

Scarborough laughed. "Really, I can't tell you," he said gaily. "I fancy it will depend a good deal upon him. If he's in a theological mood, we may discuss John Knox; if he's combative, we may fight. I'm not going to the venta with any formed and definite plan of action; partly because there isn't time to make one, and partly because he would probably upset it in any case. Phil and I are neither of us good schemers; but we've been in scrapes together before, and worried through all right. We must trust to the spur of the moment to jog our wits."

Scarborough was in high spirits. The misunderstanding between him and the girl he loved was at an end. The days of inaction were over, and there was something definite to be done; an adversary—two adversaries, if one counted Mrs. Carrington—to be fought. He had fretted sorely at his inability hitherto to do anything but spin theories, a task at which he knew he did not shine. Now, at length, he could act, and be gloried at the prospect. He would have liked to begin by telling Elsa again that he loved her, and that he wanted her for his wife, but he had made up his mind that he would say nothing about that until he had read the letter that was coming from his uncle, whom Scott had christened Croesus. There was in this decision something of the pride which forbids a man to ask a girl to share his lot in life, and make a home for him, until he knows exactly what he has to offer, and what sort of home it will be in his power to give her; but there was more of the prudence which comes from having already suffered one rebuff. He had meant once before, on the night when the "Danger—Circus" cablegram passed through his hands in the Riviera Grande instrument room, to ask her to marry him; and she had not allowed him to say the words. He did not think that she was yet ready to hear them. The return to understanding between them was a little bit too recent perhaps, and her mind was too full of other matters for the present.

He had said nothing to her therefore, on the ride from the Chinelas to Ponta Delgada, of the one thing about which he thought the most; and now he was ready to let her ride home without him, with his question still unasked. But the question should be asked by and by, and meanwhile hope and the happier turn in his relations with her kept his spirits high. Also he was not a little pleased with his own wisdom in recognizing the diplomacy of delay. And a comforting self-approbation had its usual joyous effect upon him as upon every healthy man of his years.

Elsa saw, of course, that he was excited, and happy; but she misunderstood the cause. She knew that he was by nature energetic, and she guessed how he had fretted at the inactivity which her own resentment had, by keeping him in ignorance of facts which she knew, partly been responsible for forcing upon him. She thought that he was happy because at last he had something to do, and incidentally, perhaps, because that something was to be done for her. Also she suspected that he was looking forward to the excitement of a possible fight with the Scotchman.

"Be careful," she said anxiously, "He is dangerous."

"He is five-foot-five," said Scarborough lightly. "Phil and I should be able to manage him."

But Elsa's nervousness was not to be calmed by a boast.

"If he was, as you suggested just now, the man whom my father went to meet," she answered earnestly, "I think that he is to be feared. Father's letter hints that he, at least, feared him. Be careful, Horace. If the man was dangerous then, when it was only a case of blackmail, he is likely to be more dangerous now, if he thinks he is fighting for twenty thousand pounds. Besides, we don't know what it was that killed my father."

"You think that Andrew Gillies may have murder on his conscience already?" asked Scarborough.

"If my father died in the midst of a contest with him at the Caldeira de Morte, he has," said Elsa; "even if he did not lift a finger against him in actual violence."

"Well, I won't let him hurt me," said Scarborough lightly. "Probably you overestimate the tenderness of his conscience. Don't be nervous about me, little girl."

"I am. I can't help it," said Elsa simply, and Scarborough's heart leapt at the thought of all that the confession implied. A tender answer came to his lips; he wished Phil Varney anywhere but in the room listening to them; but before he had decided whether to speak the words which were trembling on his tongue, Mona came in to say that she was ready, and the opportunity was lost.

A few minutes later the two girls had started, and Scarborough and Varney were on their way to the venta on the north road.

"As it appears that I am to be pressed into the service," said Varney, "I'd like to know what the service is. I've been rather out of things lately, you know, and I'm very much in the dark."

Scarborough gave him a brief outline of the facts, and at the end Varney remarked:

"I see. There are three parties in the field—Gillies, the Carrington woman, and you. Gillies and the Carrington woman work alone, and you others seem to be a sort of syndicate. Like to know which I would bet on?"

"Yes."

"The Carrington woman. I knew her in the old days, and she has a pernicious habit of getting her own way."

Scarborough laughed. "Are you free to help us in disappointing her?" he asked.

"So far as professional engagements go, yes, until next week."

"But you have other engagements?" Scarborough hinted.

"I'm trying to enter upon one," said Varney coolly. "I expect you can guess where. She's a dear little girl, Horace, and a jolly sight too good for me. She doesn't in the least mind letting it be seen that she knows it, too," he added ruefully. "I wish you could have heard some of the lectures she has treated me to!"

"I have the pleasure of knowing Muriel Davis rather well," said Scarborough laughing, "so I can easily imagine them. I warned you she wouldn't approve of you, remember."

"So you did, old man. But she has taken infinite trouble in pointing out the error of my ways, you see, and I'm rather hoping that in denouncing the sin, she may have grown more tolerant of the sinner. She says I ought to give up the circus business and settle down to something serious. Now's right, of course."

(To be Continued)

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP

absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Yours for health,

DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

"Packed in Bbls., ½ Bbls. & ¼ Bbls. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs."

For sale by Peterboro Hardware Co.

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

CANADIAN PACIFIC

UNEXCELLED TRAIN SERVICE

FAST TIME AND ATTENTION

WINNIPEG	SASKATOON
EDMONTON	REGINA
BRANDON	CALGARY
BANFF	LAGGAN
NELSON	ROSSLAND
SPOKANE	VANCOUVER
VICTORIA	SEATTLE
TACOMA	PORTLAND

Standard and Tourists Sleeping Cars

Via Canada's Greatest Highway

W. McILROY, - - - Agent

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts Including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Rose, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, - fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 $8.00

OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co.

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England!

New and Second Hand

Clothing. Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd

QUEBEC

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic	Feb. 24; Mar. 23
Dominion	Feb. 17; Mar. 30
Canada	Mar. 9; April 6

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Sailings of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Rose G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

GOOD-NIGHT

Professor (busy writing):—"What do you want now?"

Lucy:—"I only want to say 'good-night.'"

Professor:—"Never mind now; I'm busy. To-morrow morning will do just as well."

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMERS

WINTER SERVICE

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

HESPERIAN

February 24th.

TUNISIAN

March 1st. March 2nd.

GRAMPIAN

March 9th.

VIRGINIAN

March 15th. March 16th.

BOSTON-PORTLAND-GLASGOW.

Boston— Portland—

SICILIAN

March 7th.

SCOTIAN

March 9th.

IONIAN

March 21st.

LAKE ERIE

March 28th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class — Liverpool Service, $72.50, $82.50.

Second Class—$47.50, $50.00, and $52.50.

Third Class—$30.25, $31.25, and $32.50.

(According to steamer and service)

For full particulars of summer sailings and rates, apply to—

W. McILROY, C.P.R. Agent.

B. A. ROSE, G.T.R. Agent.

THE ALLAN LINE, TORONTO.

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL	$1,000,000.00
RESERVE FUND	150,000.00
TOTAL ASSETS	3,580,549.00

Savings Department

3½ PER CENT. paid Quarterly on Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices.

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

Good Form

Little Social Calling.

The interest taken by the woman of today in athletics, in the world, in affairs of public tenor, has brought about at least one welcome social change—the abolition of the social call.

No longer are upper blinds seen to flutter suspiciously while maid or butler utters the solemn "Not at home" to relieved callers. The allotted twenty minutes of platitudes, during which hostess and guest conversed about such vital topics as the weather or the servant situation, is reckoned as so much wasted time by the busy woman of society.

The gradual disappearance of the calling custom does not mean a consequent damper upon social activity. What it does signify is a more sincere and a more natural phase of sociability. Today a woman rings up the friend she wishes to see on the telephone and arranges for a friendly little visit. The stiff rose and gilt of the front parlor have yielded to the cosy depths of the living room easy chairs and the staid conversation of the reception room to the easy chatter of the tea table.

What a vacuum the "Thursdays" or "Thursdays" of the society leader, from which continued absence spelled social oblivion. Many a [illegible] existed in these drawing rooms of the dictator, where [illegible] dealt right and left and arrows sent out by a satirical tongue which caused a sting which lasted for weeks. A vise of stiff silk, burning patent leathers and other insignia of correct dress are not conducive of kindness and good cheer. For these very obvious reasons we hail with joy the passing of an era of silly formality, hastening to welcome in its stead the custom of "just dropping in for a chat" or an afternoon visit.

Telephone Courtesy.

Many otherwise polite persons feel that they can be rude when engaged in a telephone conversation. With the first "Hello" many a man and woman drop their courtesy as if it were a garment that did not fit them.

If the "central" were to record all that she hears and all that is said to her it would make some of us blush for shame. While men frequently swear over the telephone, there are many women who, while they do not give vent to profanity, so far copy the manners of the male sex that they scream like shrews at "central" if she happens to give them the wrong number or interrupts them before they have finished talking.

That the ways of telephones and the persons who operate them are trying to one's temper no one can deny, but the irritability that manifests itself in outward speech is not a requisite of the proper appreciation and use of the telephone. It is nothing less than a pernicious habit which most people acquire unconsciously. Let us remember that consideration and kindness pay better than rudeness and discourtesy. If not, then let us have poorer telephone service and preserve our self respect.

Make it a rule never to be rude to the telephone assistants. It is like shooting from an ambush—at an unseen foe. It is true, but it hurts just as much.

Advertise In The Times

A Mother's Cares Destructive to Health

ANAEMIA, BAD BLOOD, HEADACHES, AND LANGUITUDE VERY COMMON.

Mrs. Wilkinson's Letter Gives Advice That Every Mother Can Well Follow.

From her home in Newton where she resides with her large family, Mrs. Wilkinson writes: "For years I was pale, anaemic and lacking in vitality. I was a constant sufferer from indigestion, and the distress and pain it caused me, coupled with ever-increasing anaemia, made me weaker day by day. Constant headaches, specks before the eyes and attacks of dizziness made me feel as if life were not worth living. My constitution was completely undermined and the constant pallor and dullness in my eyes showed what a sick woman I was. I began to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the improvement, although slow, was sure.

"I gradually got back my strength and my appetite grew much stronger, and I enjoyed my meals thoroughly. I felt happier and more contented and the sickly pallor of my face was replaced by a bright, rosy color, which proved that a strong medicine was at work. In a few months Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought me from a condition of deathly pallor to robust health."

You can obtain the same results by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the substitutor that offers you anything except Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1912

WOMEN FOR GERMAN ARMY.

German woman are discussing a project launched at Dusseldorf for the establishment of feminine conscription. The proposal is that women shall be compelled to fo military service the same as men, particularly as nurses in war time and as helpers in the commissariat, transport and uniform departments of the army, both in peace and war. Such expressions as have been obtained from well known feminist leaders indicate only moderate enthusiasm for the scheme.

ENGLAND AS SEEN IN QUEBEC.

As a sample of the kind of stuff dished up for their readers by the press of Quebec, see the appended editorial taken from a paper printed at Cowansville, Que.:

"Great Britain is in a fighting mood. Germany wants peace. This may seem to be a strange statement. We are so apt to look upon the motherland as all that is good that we do not see things in their true respective.

"In my younger days I went to a French boarding school and studied the history of England from a French text book. The author gave the facts about the opium wars that Britain waged against China and declared that they were wars only for profits and that it was the desire for gain that made England force opium on China.

"I was indignant and said the author lied. The history master only smiled indulgently upon my youthful enthusiasm. Since then I have learned that Great Britain is as crooked as the rest of them.

"England wants to fight for the same reason that the capitalists will want to fight when Socialism gets too powerful to suit them. She is falling behind in the race.

"The war danger is not from growing Germany. It comes from ageing England. The Socialists of Canada have their duty to perform in keeping Canada from being used as a pawn in the murderous plans of English capitalists."

ROCKDALE.

Miss Annie and Mr. Germyn McCutcheon entertained about seventy-five of their friends at a dance on Friday night in their new home at Rockdale.

Miss Mabel Youmans, of Havelock, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Sophs, at Cordova.

Miss Edmonds spent Wednesday of last week at her home in Lindsay.

Miss Chara Outwaters is the guest of friends at Rockdale.

Mr. and Wrs. Geo. Barrons, and Mrs. Thompson, of Cordova, were guests at the home of Mr. William Steenbourgh on Sunday.

Mr. Neil and Miss Katie Quinlan were the guests of Miss Annie McCutcheon on Sunday.

Mr. Alderman of the Belmont Iron Mine Co., is at his home in Buffalo, N.Y.

Miss Martha Lamb of Marmora, spent the week-end with her friend Miss Gladys McConnell.

The county auditors, W. H. Casement and J. Calder, were busy yesterday in the office of the county clerk, making their annual inspection of the county accounts.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Violet: By all means let face powder alone, if you want a beautiful complexion. Powder clogs up the skin pores, causing enlarged pores, wrinkles and rough discolored complexions. The only safe and satisfactory complexion beautifier I know of is made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in a half a pint of hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion will take away that shiny, sallow, greasy look and make your skin smooth, soft and velvety. It does not rub off so easily as powder does, and gives that much-desired, delicate, refined tone to the skin without an artificial, powdered look.

A.B.C.: Stop worrying over such a trivial thing and get an ounce of delatone. Mix enough with water to cover the hair not wanted, and after two or three minutes rub off, then wash the skin. You will find delatone the most satisfactory thing to use for removing superfluous hair, and even if it does cost a dollar an ounce, it is worth several times its price to have a smooth, hairless skin.

Rena: Your sallow, muddy, pimply complexion is due to impurities in the blood. To rid your system of these marks of ill health, you can find nothing better than this old-fashioned, home-made tonic: Dissolve a half a cup of sugar and one ounce kardine in a half pint of alcohol, then add hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal, and you will be surprised at the the wonderful health restoring qualities of this tonic. It will give you energy, a good appetite and bring back the glow of perfect health to your cheeks.

Ellen: For your weak, tired, dull eyes, you need a good strengthening tonic. If you will get from your druggist an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water, then put a few drops in each eye once or twice a day, your eyes will soon be clear of all inflammation, feel strong and be bright and sparkling. This tonic is splendid for granulated eyelids and will be found very soothing. The use of this simple tonic has enabled many to dispense with wearing glasses.

J.S.: You are only one of the millions who have wasted many dollars on nicely perfumed hair tonics which did no good except to enrich the manufacturer. For your dandruff-laden, itchy scalp, and thin falling hair, get a half pint of alcohol and one ounce of quinzoin at any drug store; mix these together, then add a half pint of cold water. Two applications of this tonic a week to the scalp will do more good than all the "sure-cure remedies" on the market. It will put your hair and scalp in a healthy condition and you will then be praising this simple, inexpensive tonic to your friends.

Marjorie: To reduce your weight quickly and at small cost, without resorting to a restricted diet and fatiguing exercises, dissolve four ounces of parnotis in a pint and a half of hot water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. I find this simple, harmless remedy generally takes off fat rapidly, and those who have tried it tell me it is a marvellous fat-reducer, as it leaves the skin smooth and unwrinkled. You can get parnotis at any drug store.

Nora: To have beautiful hair and a healthy scalp, you must keep your scalp clean. All the hair tonics under the sun will not keep your hair and scalp in a healthy condition, unless you shampoo frequently and thoroughly. When washing your hair never use soap in any form, as the alkali in it streaks and dulls the hair, causing it to split and become brittle. No shampoo preparation I have ever seen gives the hair such a clean, fluffy and healthy appearance as a teaspoonful of eanthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This makes the finest shampoo imaginable and is inexpensive. It removes all dirt and dandruff, rinses easily, dries quickly and adds a beautiful lustre to the hair that you can't get with any other shampoo. I consider it the only perfect shampoo.

P.T.W.: You can get rid of those blackheads, freckles and large, dirt-collecting pores in your face, by using this cream-jelly: Stir together and let stand over night one ounce of almozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and a half pint of cold water. This makes a greaseless cream that will not promote a growth of hair on the face. Use it for massaging to clear and soften your skin, and you will soon have just as fine and smooth a complexion as most women many years your junior. For removing freckles, tan and other skin discolorations, it has no equal.

Read Mrs. Martyn's book "Beauty," $5—Adv.

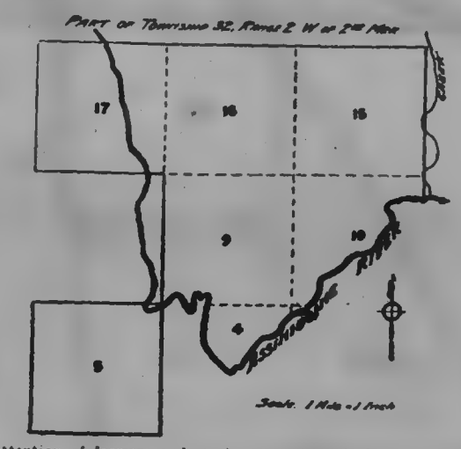
VERY ABSENT-MINDED

On the stage Sir Herbert Tree can be alert enough on occasion. Off it he is absent-minded. Sir Herbert took a taxi, and gave the driver the address. Throughout the journey he was reading letters, and when the house he was going to was reached the cab stopped and the driver came and opened the door. Still reading, Sir Herbert looked up abstractedly and said to the amazed chauffeur: "Come in! Come in!"

DEMAND FOR LIGHT HORSES

The demand for all light horses of approved style and breeding is keen in the Old Country, and prices rule very high at the London sales. Among the sales at Tattersall's were twenty horses which brought prices ranging from $500 to $1,070 each, and in a list of forty in the same sale, the lowest price was $365.

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN AND RANCH LANDS



The attention of farmers and stock raisers is invited to the lands shown in the above plan.

The lands are situate in the Port Pelly District, Northern Saskatchewan, long known as probably the richest farming district in the Province. The parcel, which contains approximately 3,681 ACRES in one compact block, is watered on the west and south sides by the Assiniboine River, and by a large creek on the east. It is well wooded, thus assuring as well as evidencing ample rainfall, and plentiful supply of cheap fuel. It is undulating and well drained, having an elevation above the river, and rising gradually from it to a height of about 60 feet, and provides many beautiful residential sites.

In the advantages it offers for mixed farming it is unique, there being some 2,400 acres clear and ready for the plow, while the balance consists of timber and excellent pasture land, admirably suited to stock-raising. The soil is a rich, black loam, from 8 to 10 inches in thickness, resting on a clay subsoil, except along the river, where it is arich sandy loam. Crops produced on similar neighboring lands are phenomenal for their quantity and quality.

The location is within ten miles of Mikado Station, on the main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, of the Canadian Northern Railway, with good trails leading to it, and within a short distance of a school. While the settlement going on in the neighborhood is rapidly adding all the adjuncts of an up-to-date farming community.

This is an opportunity for a man with capital, business ability and practical experience. Such a man should clear his whole investment, including all improvements and equipment, in four or five years at the outside. And now is the time to purchase, as the price will shortly be advanced $5.00 per acre. Experienced men predict this land will be worth $50.00 per acre within ten years. Lands immediately adjoining, which last spring could have been bought for $14.00, are held to-day at $20.00 and $25.00 per acre.

We are also offering some 1,100 acres additional, in separate parcels of three half sections, and one quarter sections, situate in the same locality as above.

These lands were selected for the excellence of their location and the magnificent quality of their soil, which latter the official records of the Indian Agency demonstrate.

Prices, Terms and all Particulars may be had on application

F. J. BULLOCK & CO.

207 Colborne Street BRANTFORD, ONT.

Every Home Needs Zam-Buk

Use it for eczema, ulcers, cold sores, chapped hands, poisoned wounds, piles, scalp sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. Best balm for baby. Purely herbal. All druggists and stores 50c box.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

Present the First Offering of the Stock of

PORCUPINE - FORTUNA GOLD MINES LTD.

Incorporated under Ontario Companies Act.

15c—100,000 SHARES at 15c PER SHARE—15c

Capital Stock $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 Shares. Par Value $1.00 per Share. Treasury Shares 1,000,000 Shares. All Shares Common Shares, fully paid and non-assessable. The Company has no Bonds, Preferred Shares or indebtedness of any kind.

The company owns 3 groups, 8 mining claims in all, 310 acres, in the Porcupine Mining District of Ontario, described as follows: The Reany Mining Claim in Tisdale, being the southwest quarter of the south half of Lot Number Two, Concession One, Tisdale; the Mapes Claim in Deloro T. R. P. 614 (Called H. R. 286), and the 6 James Claims in Shaw, Nos. 13884 to 13889 inclusive.

GROUP NO. 1

The well-known Reany lies east of the Martin and Dome. The famous Dunn and Steel properties adjoin the Reany on the east and the Rose-Van Cutsar claims, owned by one of the largest mining, engineering and brokerage houses of London (owners of Town Site Mine at Cobalt), adjoin the Reany on the west side. The Dunn and Steel vein runs into the Reany and has been exposed by stripping for a distance of 600 feet on the Reany. This vein has an average width of 20 feet and is heavily mineralized. (See Engineer's Report).

GROUP NO. 2

The Mapes claim in Deloro lies two claims south of Tisdale on the south of the Powell claims. On the east of the Mapes are the now famous Dobie Maidens and McDonald properties. The Boston Development Company, on the west, have made their spectacular strike on this same vein, which is traced through the Mapes property from the Dobie. The Schumacher property lies northwest. The entire property lies in the main Dome ore zone, whose principal trend is northeast by southwest, which is the trend of the Dobie, Maidens, Mapes and Boston Development veins. Two-thirds of the Mapes claim is exposed and easily prospected. The Mapes claim is considered one of the most promising in its neighborhood, and, like the Reany, should develop into a good-paying mine.

Groups 1 and 2 are in famous Dome Ore Zone.

GROUP NO. 3

The six James claims in Shaw are too well known to go into detail in describing. It is sufficient to say that these claims have a well-mineralized ore body 150 feet wide, that with proper development will more than likely prove one of the great ore bodies of the Porcupine District.

SOLICITORS

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

MINE MANAGEMENT.

There has been a great deal of unfavorable comment regarding poor management of many of the Porcupine properties, and in many cases we know this feeling is justified, but with our reputation established as Mine Operators, those who invest in Porcupine-Fortuna may rest assured that the management of this property will have the best advice obtainable.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT.

The Officers and Directors of this Company are well known bankers, business and mining men, who have proven successful in handling large financial institutions with profit to the shareholders and credit to themselves. Associated with the bankers and business men are mining men well known in the north mining country of Ontario. They have successfully prospected and operated in Cobalt, Gowganda and Porcupine, and have established reputations for progressiveness, reliability and intelligent operations.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

President: William T. Lyon (President Guardian Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.)
VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex. Gillies (Mine Owner, Cobalt and Porcupine.)
SECRETARY AND TREASURER: G. Heagen (of Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan, Toronto.)

DIRECTORS

Alex. Moore, (Vice-President First National Bank, Philipi, W. Va.)
William T. Lyon, Alex. Gillies.
David Reany (Mine Owner, Haileybury, Ont.)
F. L. Mapes (Mine Owner, Buffalo, N. Y., and Haileybury, Ont.)

STOCK REGISTRARS, TRANSFER AGENTS AND DEPOSITORY

TRUSTS & GUARANTEE CO., LTD., TORONTO, ONT. All certificates are countersigned and transferred by Trusts & Guarantee Co., Ltd.

FIRST OFFERING OF SHARES

We take no little pleasure in being able to offer the first 100,000 shares of Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, at the extremely low price of 15c per share, and the next 100,000 at 20c per share.

OPENING

This allotment will be open for public subscription at our offices, Monday, February 19, 1912, at 10 a.m.

CLOSING

Subscriptions will be closed promptly at noon, Saturday, February 24th, 1912.

OVER-SUBSCRIPTIONS

Subscriptions for the first 100,000 will be filled at 15c. Over-subscriptions will be filled at 20c per share, unless instructed to contrary with order. In case of over-subscription, our Subscription Books will be open for inspection of subscribers, so that no question can arise as to orders being filled as received. Copies of prospectus filed with the Government can be had from us. Place your orders through your brokers or direct with us.

For advance information and reservations without obligation call or write above address. Make all checks payable to James Gallagher & Co.

Brokers who desire to co-operate on this allotment please notify us at once.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

MANNING ARCADE, TORONTO, ONTARIO.

HOW IT HAPPENED

"Cook has only broken one plate to-day."

"Hooray! How did it happen?"

"It was the last one in the house."

SPENT HIS FORTUNE

"Jinks would have spent his fortune on himself in a year if it hadn't been for his wife."

"How did she stop him?"

"Spent it on herself."

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape, says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings neatly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot but be attracted to such a section. The business man sees the value

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

ALWAYS CURES

And is Pleasant and Safe.

NEW WIVES FOR OLD

Viscount Wolseley has completed his seventy-eighth year. During his long military career he has met with many experiences, amusing and otherwise. One of the most comical was after Cetewayo, the conquered leader of the Zulus, had been sent by him into exile.

Cetewayo had wives by the hundred, but the British general set most of them at liberty, permitting the native to take only three with him. Again and again Cetewayo pleaded to be allowed to take all; but in vain.

The climax came when Lord Wolseley's departure for England was announced. Cetewayo sent a last despairing message to ask that, if the general would not send him more wives, he would at least exchange those he had for three others!

ALL GROW BEARDS

Among the many suggestions made for the commemorating the reign of King Edward VII., the quaintest is that now put forward by Captain MacIlwaine, R.N. Captain MacIlwaine's suggestion is that the men of the British Empire, following the example of the late King, should put their razors aside and proceed to grow beards. Our present King, sharing the views of his father, grows a beard, and makes his staff do the same. The beard is the exception, not the rule, among men of the present day.

TO STOP HAT-LIFTING

To put a stop of hat-lifting as a form of salutation a league has been formed at Zurich which seeks to introduce the military form of salute. The league states that the uncovering of heads is the cause of many colds affecting mainly the older men. In Germany, Austria, and German Switzerland it is the custom for a man to hold his hat in his hand until the lady asks him to "cover" himself. A nod is generally sufficient, but some wait for a formal request.

CAST-OFF UNIFORMS

Much money is made out of cast-off police uniforms. Quantities are bought by African traders and expert ed to various parts of the "Dark Continent," where they are exchanged for palm-oil, ivory, skins, and other merchandise. It is by no means an uncommon sight to see a swarthy savage dressed in the uniform of a London policeman, and wearing the regulation helmet of the force.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of these the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty-three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Woman as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

THE PERFECTION OF - PROFIT -

is found in an investment that gives large and quick returns.

STOCKS AND BONDS pay dividends at stated intervals.

PROVIDING YOU HAVE MADE a wise selection, your real estate will pay you a profit at any time. AND THE AMOUNT of that profit will be in proportion to your wisdom.

BOULEVARD HEIGHTS, the well known residential subdivision of MOOSG JAW, Saskatchewan, is already paying large returns to the careful investors who investigated the property and acted quickly on their information.

THE PURCHASER OF LOT 12 BLOCK 29 invested $80. He has resold at a profit of $190.

THE PURCHASER OF LOT 12 BLOCK 41 has realized $120 on an outlay of $90.

LOT 17 BLOCK 132 PAID THE OWNER $140 on an investment of $90 in 35 days.

THE CITY ASSESSOR OF MOOSE JAW has paid the owner of lots 5, 6, 7, block 34 a bonus of $180 in order to secure his property. The amount invested being $270.

THESE FEW EXAMPLES are sufficient to prove the large and quick returns being made in BOULEVARD HEIGHTS.

AND THE MOVEMENT IS BUT JUST BEGUN. MANY FIRST CLASS SITES still remain for sale. See us at once and make your selection.

Canadian City & Town Properties Ltd

284 PORTAGE AVENUE - - WINNIPEG

TORONTO, 130 Bay Street. MOOSE JAW, 15 Main Street.

RELIABLE REPRESENTATIVE WANTED.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St., Montreal

Advertise in the Times

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F. 0.8505
Light Oil 94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil 0.50%
Coke 3.00
Loss 2.50
100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Sole Agents for
Galloway & Garman OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.
134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C,

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

ESTABLISHED 1874.

Capital Authorized $5,000,000
Capital Paid Up $4,800,000
Rest and Undivided Profits . . . $4,017,988

Money may be remitted cheaply and safely by

BANK MONEY ORDERS

Payable at par at any Chartered Bank in Canada (Yukon excepted).

Peterborough Branch, George Street
G. C. WAINWRIGHT, Manager

TRUTH IN BRIEF

A Few Select Sayings of To-day and Yesterday

Perseverance is the root of all money.—Julian Ettinge.

A long head and a long face rarely go together.—J. W. Babcock.

Science tells us How; Philosophy answers Why.—Dr. Rabagliati.

Post-impressionism is the influenza of the art world.—Wake Cook.

I do not know a more exact person than the angler.—Mr. C. T. Stanford.

We can live without our relations, but we can't live without our friends.—Howard McDonald.

Very few men, properly speaking, live at present, but are providing to live another time.—Swift.

Some men can only get respect as a highwayman gets money—by demanding it.—William Shenstone.

The rolling stone may gather no moss, but it gets to be a pretty smooth article.—Greenwood Lake.

The friend that flattereth, weakeneth at length. It is the foe that calleth forth our strength.—George Meredith.

The fact that truth lies at the bottom of a well is probably the reason why truth is often so fearfully watered.—H. D. Gastit.

The trouble with whisky is that the bad kind is too bad to drink and the good kind is too good to keep.—Pulitzer.

In my conceit, he understood it right that said a good marriage might be made between a blind woman and a deaf man.—Montaigne.

To combat an opinion is as often as not to strengthen it; if you would really destroy it, do homage to it and then interpret skilfully.—A. E. Waite.

VENTILATING THE FOWL HOUSE

An Important Matter Which Must Not Be Overlooked

If you do not keep your fowls under thoroughly healthy conditions you cannot hope to be successful.

If you bear in mind that in a natural state birds roost in trees—and on many farms fowls do actually spend the night in this way—you will realise how important plenty of fresh air is. Imagine, for instance, thirty birds cooped up in a tiny house 6ft. by 7ft., without ventilation, and you will realise how stuffy the quarters must be by the time the slide is raised in the morning.

As a matter of fact, the night apartment of a hygienic fowl-house should have an entry for fresh air near the base, and an exit at the roof. In this way there will be a continual passage of air without draughts. In some pens there are sliding shutters; they run up and down grooved frames, and at the top of each is a hook. From the eaves of the roof chains depend, and the hook adjusted to a link in the chain. On warm nights the shutters are left well open, whilst when cold threatens they are tightly closed. Keep the sleeping-place draught-proof, yet ventilated; have it rain-proof and whitewashed inside.

AN ANCIENT BRITISH CANOE

An ancient canoe, the third found within a few weeks at Lochmaben, has been discovered at the Kirk Loch. It is of hollowed oak. One of the sides and part of the other are gone, but the bottom and the ends make it recognizable as one of the ancient hollowed out canoes used by the prehistoric Britons. When unearthed, it was partially filled with stones, as if it had been sunk with them. The canoe probably dated back 2,000 years. It is 16ft. in length, and at the broadest part is 2ft. 3in. It is about 15in. in height.

HIS BALANCE

"Who is he?" said a passer-by to a policeman who was endeavoring to raise an intoxicated person.

"Can't say," replied the policeman. "He cannot give an account of himself."

"Of course not," said the other; "how can you expect an account from a man who has lost his balance."

TOO BAD.

Mrs. Duck:—"Is Mrs. Cochin so very poor?"

Mr. Rooster:—"Yes, she has to scratch for a living."

A STRONG RESEMBLANCE

Lady:—"What have you got in the shape of cucumbers this morning?"

Greengrocer:—"Nothing but bananas, ma'am!"

HOME-SICK COLLIE

Emerson said: "In dealing with children, as much soul as you have availe." This is true in treating with domestic animals, e specially the dogs. Here is an example which tells me so:

I saw a traveller at a railroad station leading a beautiful Scotch collie with a chain around his neck. He told me the dog was eleven months of age, was born and raised on a farm in Southern Indiana, and that he had bought it and was taking it to Eastern Pennsylvania.

"But," said he "I am worried about him. We have been on the road a day and a night, and I can't make him eat.

He bought at the lunch-counter a few slices of bread with milk poured over them, and took them on a wooden picnic plate outside to see if he could coax "John" to eat. But the dog turned his head away and looked wistfully out of the station shed down the shining steel rails. Then it was that I thought of Emerson's remark, and I asked if I could try and induce the animal to eat. The privilege was granted, and I squatted down and called, "John, come here, I want to talk to you."

John came over and put his head up near my face, and I said:—

"Poor boy! I know your trouble. You are so homesick. You want to see the cows and the children, don't you?"

He put his head on one side and seemed to be drinking in every word. His eyes were deep and soulful.

"I know just how you feel, for there have been times when I wanted to see the cows, the green fields, and the children. And then the sights and sounds are all so strange to you, John. You feel as queer and lost as a child would who had been taken away form home, don't you? But, dear, you must eat, for you have a long, long journey before you. Come on over here with me and I'll feed you!"

And so he followed me and ate the [illegible] from my hands. As I looked up, I saw there were men around us with tears on their faces.—Edgar Iliff, in "Our Dumb Animals."

ANNOUNCED THE PREACHER

It is related of a preacher in a small town, who was to be absent from his pulpit a fortnight, that he recently announced after the sermon:—

"The preacher for next Sunday will be Mr. Firstly, and the one for the Sunday after you'll find hanging up behind the door on the other side of the vestry."

POLICY TO OPTICIANS

The latest insurance novelty is a policy issued to opticians, covering them for a small premium against action-at-law, damages, and costs connected with errors or asserted errors in the adjustment of spectacles.

A USEFUL DOUBLE

Only recently, Mr. Birchington discovered that his office-boy was one of twins, and it came about in this way. One Monday he absented himself from his duties, and was naturally called upon for an explanation on Tuesday.

"Went to another job," was his terse reply.

"Oh! So you'll be leaving us, I presume?" said his employer.

"No; don't think I'd be so hard on you as that. But, you see, it's like this. My brother Dick, he got a job last week, to start yesterday, where he was to get paid by the hour. Well, come yesterday he was so sick he couldn't go; and so, of course, I put on his clothes and went. We're twins, and I get paid here whether I work or not, and he don't. See?"

Mr. Birchington saw

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Wednesday, March 6, 1912, for the construction of a Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Plans, specifications and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained on application at the office of Messrs. Power & Son, Architects, Kingston, Ont., and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

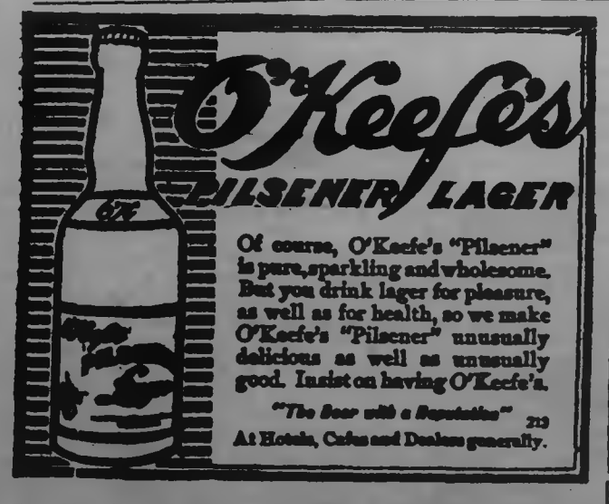
Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, February 15, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.



Of course, O'Keefe's "Pilsener" is pure, sparkling and wholesome. But you drink lager for pleasure, as well as for health, so we make O'Keefe's "Pilsener" unusually delicious as well as unusually good. Insist on having O'Keefe's.

"The Beer with a Reputation" 219

At Hotels, Cafes and Dealers generally.

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS

416 WATER STREET. PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 81

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

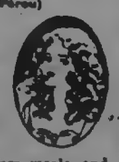
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wilson's Invalids' Port
(A la Quina du Pérou)



is unique in the treatment of

Faulty and Imperfect Nutrition

when the digestion of heavy foods is weak or even absent.

It is an appetizer before meals, and after meals it renders digestion easy and assimilation certain. It is a delicious tonic at all times.

Big Bottle. Ask YOUR Doctor.

A BISHOP IN A DONKEY CART

When he was Suffragan Bishop of West and North-West London, England, the Bishop of Marlborough was one day seen riding in a costermonger's barrow through a London district. He was due to hold a confirmation, but on arriving at the railway-station he found that no conveyance to the church could be obtained. To walk the distance was impossible. The perplexed Bishop was about to abandon the appointment, when the humble costermonger's cart appeared. With sudden decision the matter was arranged, the Bishop scrambled on to the cart, the costermonger whipped up his donkey, and the episcopal chariot rattled through the High Street to its destination.

WATER FOR PRINCE RUPERT

City Engineer Thompson, of Seattle has been engaged to consult with Engineer Davis regarding a new waterworks for Prince Rupert, to cost $400,000. He believes enough water is in Woodworth Lake to supply at least 700,000 people, and if the water from the Shawatlan River is drawn from, there is enough water to supply a million people.

CARIBOU IN THE WEST

Caribou are stated to have haunted Lake Athabaska in greater numbers than for some years. It is believed the excessive cold led them to take shelter in the thick timber fringing the northern shore of the lake.

FINDS GOUT MICROBE

Chickens with the gout form a novel exhibit of the Pasteur Institute. The chickens so afflicted are believed to mark a distinct forward step in the study of the germ theory, because Professor Metchnikoff believes he has succeeded in isolating a microbe responsible for this most painful ailment. The chickens were fed on a diet of horseflesh, and this food caused the increased growth of certain microbes in the intestines, and produced swelling of the joints just as occurs in gout in the human being. Prof. Metchnikoff is also convinced that the absorption of poisons from these same microbes of the intestines is the cause of degeneration of the organs of the body, usually ascribed to old

THE CHARGE OF THE WELCOME BRIGADE

"Bills to the right of us,
Bills to the left of us,
Bills that are ruinous!"
Papa dear thundered.
"Frightful, the charge they made!
Senseless the price you paid!"
Then on the table laid.
Cheque for six hundred!

CHAUFFEURS AND CHARITY

"I wish some time, Mr. Speeder," said the doctor, "that you would bear our hospital in mind, and, if it appeals to you, do something for it."

"Great Scot! Squills," retorted Speeder, "why can't you be satisfied? That new chauffeur of mine has contributed at least two patients a day to your old charity. What more do you want?"

HE WAS TOO LATE

The reporter from the local paper called at the home of the bride's parents the day after the wedding. The bride's mother met him at the door.

"Good morning, Mrs. Brown," smiled the journalist. "I have called to get some details of the wedding."

"Oh, pshaw! that's too bad!" replied the matron, in dismay. "They're all gone. You ought to have come last night. They ate up every scrap!"

HAD COMPASSION

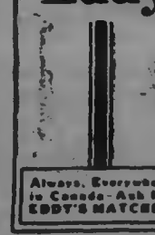
"No, I won't fight you because my mother would find it out and punish me."

"Coward! Find it out from your bruises you mean."

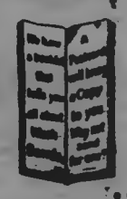
"No, I don't. She'd know you'd been fighting me when she saw the doctor calling at your house."

Don't look the other way when your Grocer tries to Show you Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards



They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.



POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada—Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

F. J. R. MITCHELL, George St. PETERBORO

H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try o

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Enter by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards in Windows

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 190 Simcoe Street

Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

WELSH DISESTABLISHMENT.

Bitterness seems to mark the British campaign over Welsh disestablishment. The Asquith government has pledged itself to introduce a measure at the approaching session, and to push it with all the forces at the government's command. As these forces are now irresistible, it may be inferred that the privileges of the Church of England in Wales are in danger. The danger is fully recognized. Already, in the somewhat disrespectful language of Home Secretary McKenna, the drum ecclesiastic is beating to arms, and militant bishops have taken the field.

One point made by the church party is that the church in Wales is not distinct from the Church of England. The four Welsh dioceses are part of the ecclesiastical province of Canterbury. Welsh disestablishment, Lord Hugh Cecil remarks, will be like cutting a steak from a living body.

Visitors to City Noticed.

Lindsay Post: The Electric Club of Varsity ran an excursion to Peterborough, passing through Lindsay yesterday. The Club visited the Canadian General Electric Co., who provided street cars to accommodate the visitors. The company entertained the club at the Oriental Hotel. Some of the excursionists stopped over until Monday.

Fifty people last Saturday in Hamilton chased an escaped pig through the streets. A few months ago a married man, of Gilmour street, let loose a secret his wife confided to him and she is chasing him yet!

Why Not Get Strangers?

Without spending too much space, over the Lindsay carnival, let us say it was a success, a great success. The point for consideration is, once more, to ask "Why not this city?" Why cannot a live place like Peterborough inaugurate something to interest our citizens and bring in outside strangers and their cash for three or four consecutive days?

COSTGRAVES Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co

OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 210. 879½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C. J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, PECK & KERR, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 415 Water Street, H. A. Peck, K. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, Successors to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. R. B. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, LONDON, ENGLAND

Stomach.

OFFICE—642 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1361.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machine y..... .....bearings ....

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

THE WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY.

In commercial spots the world has been quivering for weeks with expectation that there would not be a normal food supply during the winter and the spring. Speculators in American cities—and abroad—have been keeping an eye upon the cable offices. Word has been coming that the great wheat-growing country of Argentina—now just completing the harvest—would have a heavy shortage. Therefore boom prices for the barely normal crop of the northern hemisphere! A higher price per bushel! A barrel of flour would cost more in Minneapolis; before the hard, cold months are over a loaf of bread might cost more in Boston.

Hardly. That was only the dream—and the hope—of men who are long on the chicest of life-sustaining cereals. Now it is known not alone that there is no Argentine shortage, but that the second largest wheat crop in the history of this planet was garnered in the year of grace 1911. The department of agriculture is the authority. They have taken into account the damage from rain and sleet in this country, and the damage from the heavy downpour in Argentina. Canada's bumper contribution and the 17,000,000 additional wheat acres, mostly in the Pampa—an Argentine province that emissaries of northern speculators did not figure upon—have brought the 1911 total of wheat up to 3,572,000,000 bushels!

All the Russian crop failure accordingly goes a glimmering. There is an enormous current supply. Furthermore granaries on both sides of the Atlantic hold large surpluses from former years for feeding the hungry. There is bread—and meat—for all the world and to spare.

Yes, there is a great potato shortage. Germany raised 300,000,000 bushels less than usual. The great corn-producing countries of the globe are 650,000,000 bushels below the average.

TRADING IN NIGERIA

Though Christianized the Natives of Nigeria Are Always in Fear of the Fetish Ju-Ju and Offer Sacrifices.

Life on a trading station would not suit everyone, as it is a very quiet one. I am stationed at a place about 50 miles from the coast on an island in the centre of a creek, entirely isolated, and it requires a very optimistic disposition to keep cheerful under some of the circumstances which go to make up the life of a trading station.

The natives on this part of the coast are a fighting, semi-savage lot, and the white man's safety is not at all secure, as the natives are nearly always having tribal differences, and whatever state of civilisation they may have attained during the term of peace is entirely forgotten, and they return to their natural state of cannibalism.

When any person of importance dies, there is what is called a "play," in which all the surrounding chiefs take part. They dress up in all the fantastic and grotesque attires conceivable, and dance for hours on end, after which a great feast is prepared and drinkables consumed to no small extent. This may last for a day or two, and perhaps a week, when the next of kin takes possession of the household.

Ju-Juism is very much in evidence out here, and although Christianity is preached in every town, the native, irrespective of what he professes to be, has a superstitious nature, and [illegible] his fear of the fetish Ju-Ju to which he makes sacrifices of fruit and flesh of animals.

For instance, a native convert had just loaded his canoe with merchandise, of which he had a large amount, when he came into one of the stores where I was and stole a trifling article. I chased him to his canoe, but he got there first, and in my anger I told him that the Ju-Ju would get him. Coincidental though this may seem, his canoe sank in the middle of the creek, and needless to say he never would come back again to our station, although he sent a native witch doctor and some natives hence round it, to drive away the evil and build a fire near the factory and Ju-Ju.

"FIRST AID"

Canadian Railroad Now Introducing First Aid Classes All Over Its System.

Of such value does at least one railway consider its "First Aid to the Injured" work that it is now extending its sphere of activities in this connection. Formerly the railway's "First Aid" work was largely confined to the employees of its operating departments, but now the work is being extended to all classes of employees, classes being formed among the clerks and office staffs. This is being done not so much for the advantage of the railway itself, but from a feeling which those at the head of the railway have that everybody should have at least a rudimentary knowledge of "First Aid". Altogether on the C. P. R. system there are now about between 1800 and 2000 men enrolled in the classes, among the cities and towns in which these classes are situated being, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Brandon, Carleton Place, Fort William, Port Arthur, Kenora, Nelson, North Bay, Ottawa, Outremont, Smiths Falls, St. John, Havelock, London, Farnham, McAdam Junction, Windsor, Goderich, Fort Berry, Chapleau, Scriber, White River, Webbwood, Sault Ste Marie, Sudbury and Bing Inlet. Altogether there are over 100 classes, Montreal city heading the list with ten classes.

The Bell Telephone team put it over the Lock Works' players 4—1. It was a close call, however.

Eggs are going down. Thank the Providence that watches over our human affairs. "Going down," refers not only to the route to human stomachs, but to prices. The latter is what "cuts ice."

Another Local Mail Route.

It will be interesting to many of our readers and local advertisers to know that another rural mail route is to be inaugurated at an early date. It will serve the district from Peterborough down to Norwood Rd by way of what is known as Block Road in Otonabee. This new route will serve a large, wealthy and populous part of the county. Advertisers are reminded that The Times is the only paper published that will reach the people on local rural routes on day of publication. Probably ninety per cent. of those on the route mentioned and others are served by The Times. Here is a point well worth serious consideration by the merchant who does not want to keep stock on his shelves until out of date or moth-eaten.

LITTLE NELL

"God bless dadda, mamma, George, Elsie, an'—an' the wee dog ablow the bed," and then there was a long pause.

The little boy raised his head from his mother's lap and showed a very red face.

"What wee dog, John?" asked mamma Fulton.

John looked round, but Elsie and George had left the kitchen. He tried to speak, but instead of words came tears.

Mamma Fulton took his hand, raised him up, and led him to the room. A moment later she called, "Dadda, come here a minute."

Dadda Fulton laid down his paper, and walked to the room.

"Just see what's under the bed," said Mamma Fulton.

He went down on his knees and looked under the boy's bed. There was a little black heap near the wall. He crawled under the bed, took hold of it, and dragged it into the light.

"Who brought this here?" he asked, somewhat sternly.

All the children were now crying. George was the eldest—he was a plump little fellow of nine—and the others looked to him to reply.

"Oh, dad, it was lyin' doon in the close; it couldna walk, and some big boys were tormentin' it, so we were glein' it a wee rest—jist till the mornin'."

Dadda looked closely at the little terrier, with its coat and legs all splashed with mud, and saw that one of its paws was stained with blood. He lifted up the dog tenderly, carried it to the kitchen, and placed it on the rug before the fire. He gave it some food, and then it lay down as if it could keep awake no longer.

The children were satisfied, and went to bed happy.

The little dog was very lame, and was allowed to stay with the Fultons until it could run about with comfort.

Nell, as the children named her, was given a good bath in the washhouse. She lost her torn and tattered look, and became trim and smart. She and the children were soon fast friends. They loved to gather round the fire and play on the hearthrug.

As the days passed Dadda and Mamma Fulton began to look seriously at Nell. They were very poor, and had no money for a dog licence, so they had to make up their minds to send Nell away. They often talked of the matter when the children were asleep without being able to decide what to do.

"I hate tae disappoint the weans," said Dadda Fulton, "but Nell must go."

It was Saturday afternoon. The dinner dishes had been washed and put away. George, Elsie, and John were given their weekly halfpennies and sent out to spend them. Nell was not allowed to go with them, so she curled herself up in front of the fire and blinked at the dancing flames.

Dadda Fulton put on his cap, took her in his arms, and went out. When he reached the closemouth he looked about to see if the children were near. Ah, there they were on the other side of the street looking at the good things in the window of a sweet-shop and wanting to buy the lot.

He hurried down the street and was [illegible] He walked on for [illegible] Then he put Nell down near King William's Statue and ran away.

Nell did not waste a minute, but followed him at once. Dadda Fulton tried to slip into the underground railway station, but Nell was too sharp for him. She soon caught up to him and trotted by his side.

The Cross was very busy. Men and women were standing about or jostling each other on the pavement. Cars, vans, lorries, and barrows were passing from every corner.

Dadda Fulton tried to get away from Nell in the crowd, but she kept too close to him. At last, feeling like one who has done something very wrong, he jumped on a car going east and hurried upstairs. When he reached the top he turned and saw poor Nell standing at the Cross and gazing after the car as if she did not know what to do. She was such a forlorn-looking little creature that Dadda Fulton felt very miserable at having deserted her.

He was very quiet that afternoon as he sat in his wooden armchair with his feet on the fender and a newspaper in his hand.

Mamma Fulton had gone out to buy the Sunday dinner.

Suddenly there was a great noise on the stair. He rose and opened the door. In rushed the three children—Elsie crying, John spluttering with excitement, and George carrying Nell—poor, dirty, battered Nell.

"What's this?" asked Dadda Fulton.

"Oh, dadda," began Elsie—

"Elsie was nearly rin ower," cried John.

"Ay, but Nell saved her," said George, with a smile and a pat for the little dog.

When the children were quieted, the whole story was told.

Elsi had been crossing the street, careless of the horse and van coming rapidly towards her. She would have been knocked down had not a little dog given a bark and jumped at the horse's nose. The horse had turned aside and Elsie was saved, but Nell's forelegs were badly crushed.

Brave little Nell! Her glistening eyes showed the terrible pain she was suffering.

It took a long time to put her right again. At first Dadda Fulton had little hope of being able to save her. But she was saved, although she was never as sound in her limbs as before the accident. However, though lame and not beautiful, to Elsie, George, and John she was the dearest little doggie in all Glasgow.

As a decoration for her bravery, a nice blue ribbon was tied around her neck, and this she wore to the end of her days.

There was now no thought of putting her away. A license was bought, and Nell became one of the family.

An English judge has expressed surprise that political clubs provide facilities for playing cards!

New York is to publish a newspaper by women for women. If such were printed in Peterborough half the ladies would not be on speaking terms with the rest and the editress would be called "a mean old cat whose hat is at least five years old."

A local grocer says that eggs are going "to fall in price." Good Mr. Grocer; It is time the city rose in revolt and refused to pay some of the prices asked on our market. This remark is not confined to Peterborough market.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

THOMAS GRIGG
Qu'Appelle

For nineteen years Thomas Grigg has farmed near Qu'Appelle, meeting set-backs, but prospering. Although a Canadian, he and his wife came to the Springbrook district from South Dakota. Generally speaking, wheat-growing has been the mainstay. Horse-raising, also, has received attention to an extent sufficient to lead Mr. Grigg to pass opinion that a man can make as much money on a half section of rough land raising colts as he can on a real good quarter of wheat-growing. Pigs, also, are kept, and on different occasions have helped him "put of a tight place." He finds that, as a rule, there is enough feed around to fatten a bunch. The farm comprises 640 acres of which about one-qaurter is summerfallowed annually. Wheat is grown for two years, and then oats or barley. Recently, Mr. Grigg has rented his farm for a year in order that he and his good wife may spend the winter in California and take a well-earned rest.

HON. HUGH J. MACDONALD
Police Magistrate
Winnipeg

Mr. Hugh Macdonald who was lately appointed Police magistrate of the Gateway city was formerly premier of Manitoba. Probably the importance of his magistracy lies principally in the fact that the man he succeeded was the famous late T. Mayne Daly, and though Mr. Macdonald is not in his famous father's rank he is big hearted enough to make the attempt to fill a big man's shoes. Nothing attempted, nothing done is certainly not in his make up.

Squire Macdonald is a son of the late John A. Macdonald, and might have been premier of Canada today, if he had remained in Dominion politics, and followed closely in the footsteps of his dad. But he chose the nearer honors offered by a provincial premiership and got out of the running for the post of prime minister of Canada.

DR. A. BEVERLEY WELFORD
Woodstock.

It is well for this country that the doctors take such a large and disinterested part in its public life. True they cannot take an active interest in the larger problems because it would mean their giving up their professional duties, but in every community you will find at least one medical man taking an active interest in teh local affairs.

Dr. A. B. WELFORD
President of Canadian Club, Woodstock.

Such a one is Dr. A. Beverley Welford of Woodstock Ont. who is one of the pioneers of the Canadian Club movement in his district, though the doctor's energies are not confined to this laudable work. He is practically connected with every movement that has for its object—the raising of the standard of life.

NELLIE L. McCLUNG
Canadian writer

Mrs. McClung has lived in Manitoba for the last thirty years, having come from Owen Sound with her parents in the very early days of this province. However, she is always very careful to explain that she was only a "mere child" at that time, and yet her stories of some of the happenings of the long journey by ox-train from Winnipeg to the point on the Souris river where her parents located, are so vividly told that we are forced to believe that she must have been a very bright child for her years.

Mrs. McClung, who before her marriage was Nellie L. Mooney, received her education at a country school and afterwards at the Central Collegiate in Winnipeg. She taught school for five years and then married Mr. R. W. McClung, who was engaged in the drug business in Manitoba, Man. They lived in Manitou until last summer, when they removed to Winnipeg, and have taken up their residence on Chestnut street. Mrs. McClung was elected president of the local branch of the Canadian Woman's Press club, for this year.

Mrs. McClung has written two books, "Sowing Seeds in Danny," and "The Second Chance;" also many short stories. Last year she gave a series of recitals, from her own books, in Manitoba, and also in Ontario.

At the present time she is engaged in writing another book.

Mrs. McClung chooses for her characters the plain people of every day life, when we all know. The keen fidelity of her writing makes a strong appeal to the discriminating reader.

Let Us Poison Wolves, Too.

The Quebec Government is determined to inaugurate a crusade against the wolves of that Province, which have been steadily increasing during recent years. Local hunters from Gold, Ketchecum and Eagle and other lakes back of Peterborough complain after the last fall hunt that the deer of this county are being killed out more by wolves than bullets.

Although Winnipeg has had a thaw during the big bonspiel, the Flavelle curlers are steadily climbing towards the prizes. Good little Lindsay!

ROYAL SALUTES

The Much-Esteemed Greetings of Royalty—Interesting Side Lights on Court Etiquette

Of the various salutations that pass between Sovereign and people, the most popular is undoubtedly the hand-shake. It is pleasant to have felt the grip of a king an experience to remember and make much of.

A North-country miner, whom the King had decorated and shaken hands with for some deed of heroism, was welcomed on returning home by a crowd of his friends. They were surprised, however, when he persistently ignored their hands, proffered in congratulation, and kept his own at the bottom of his trouser-pocket.

"How's this, mate?" said a friend. "Hast turned proud?"

The miner cautiously drew his right hand from his pocket, regarded it a moment in admiration, and then returned it decisively to the depths it came from.

"Na, na, lads!" he exclaimed, with a sly twinkle in his eye. "Ye canna expect it; I've shaken hands with the King!"

The value of the "big man's hand-shake" is thoroughly understood in America. A political "captain" will stand for hours shaking hands with the endless file of his supporters. The President himself is not exempt. On the occasion of the Inauguration Ball at Washington, Mr. Taft went through the ceremony, it was calculated, just 4,500 times.

To those unversed in Court Etiquette, another form of salutation, that of kissing the Royal hand, sometimes proves a veritable trap. The poet Longfellow, describing his presentation to Queen Victoria, tells how he unwittingly grasped the hand which the Queen held out to him. He noticed a look of surprise on her face, but did not realise till afterwards that her Majesty intended her hand to be kissed.

This rather formal mode of salutation, though it enters into many Court ceremonies, is not in this country carried to such an extreme as at Madrid, one of the most conservative Courts in Europe. When the second of the young Spanish princes was born, the little Prince of the Asturias was just twelve months old. But already he seems to have been instructed in Court etiquette, for on his baby brother being shown to him, he immediately held out his hand for the infant to kiss!

When king meets king, the usual greeting is a kiss on both cheeks. The two monarchs embrace by lightly holding each other's shoulders, and saluting first on one cheek and then immediately afterwards the other.

The raising of the hat and bowing, which are the only forms of salutation that the ordinary mortal can expect to receive from Royalty, are most fatiguing operations, if long continued.

Queen Victoria never spared herself in this respect. Even in the Diamond Jubilee procession, when seventy-eight years of age, she bowed almost continuously for by far the greater part of the route.

That the youngest members of the Royal Family are brought up in the same tradition is shown by an incident which occurred later on that very day. At the moment when the crowd round Buckingham Palace was thickest, the two eldest children of the present King appeared at the open nursery window. Prince Eddy, the elder, who was three years old within a day, in response to the cheers of the spectators, gravely raised his hand to his forehead and saluted.

This action wrought the enthusiasm of the crowd to a high pitch, and the acclamations were so long continued that the little Prince concluded that something more was expected of him. Straightening himself, therefore, he again saluted, but this time with both hands at once!

BRAHMS AND THE SARDINES

Mme. Lisa Lehmann is one of the world's leading composers, although she first achieved fame and popularity as a singer. Randegger was her teacher, but she received many useful hints from Jenny Lind in her earlier days. After her marriage in 1894 she devoted herself entirely to composition. Mme. Lehmann tells a quaint story of Brahms. She was staying with Mme. Schumann at the time at Frankfort, and while she was there Brahms came for a short visit. Naturally her excitement at the prospect of meeting one of the world's most famous masters was great. On the morning of the first day of his visit the breakfast menu included sardines, which were served in the tin containing them. Brahms devoured a number with gusto, and then, to his youthful worshipper's amazement and horror, coolly took up the tin and drank the oil!

THE GENTLE CYNIC

Hope springs as eternally as a woman from a mouse.

A man is apt to feel that his hands are tied if he hasn't a free foot.

Man wants but little here below, but he frequently wants a fresh supply of it.

Laurels that are rested upon soon wilt.

Silence is the sauce that softens the spice of life.

One good turn is apt to make us expect another.

THE SUPREMACY OF BRIDGE

Reviewers of the social "season" just closed agree that its outstanding feature is the conquest of German society by the seductive game of bridge. From a monopoly in the hands of a few privileged folk, who knew it from English visits, bridge has now become the property of German society generally. It has invaded all branches of the smart set, including royalty, the army, and the aristocracy. The theatres reveal unmistakable evidence of the bridge plague. Several of the season's plays introduce games, and the dialogues of a dozen others tell of it conspicuously. Henceforth the national game of "Skat" seems likely to have to fight for its existence with all-conquering bridge.

IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE

ELECTRICITY AND PLANT-LIFE

An Electrician Has Built a Machine by Which Two Crops Can Be Secured.

The study of economic biology is gaining a good deal of attention at the present time, and those engaged in research work have been able to secure results which suggest that there are enormous possibilities in the application of electricity to agriculture and horticulture. The investigators claim that the growth of almost all cereals, fruit, and vegetables can be increased and stimulated by the application of electricity, and, what is equally important, that the products can be gathered earlier. Their statistics go to show that the increase in quantity in certain cases is very high — strawberries 26 per cent., tomatoes 20 per cent., beets 30 per cent., cucumbers 17 per cent., wheat 29 per cent., and barley 9 per cent. more grain and 12 per cent. more straw. In the case of barley, the germinating process which is used by brewers occupies about 27 days; but this period is reduced to 12 days with the assistance of electricity, while it is also claimed that the percentage of germination is greater. These results have been obtained as the result of most carefully conducted experiments, and the question naturally arises as to the possibility of a general co-operation between science and agriculture on these lines. In other words, is it possible to secure apparatus in such a simple form, and at such a reasonable figure, that ordinary nurserymen and farmers will feel tempted to call the great power to their aid? That is a question to which a Bristol electrician, Mr. Thomas Clark, claims to have an affirmative answer. He has built and patented, a machine which is really an influence machine, and by the application of high-tension electricity a continuous current from insulated overhead wires can be discharged. The machine which Mr. Clark has just built, is shortly to be put to a practical test in one of the largest nurseries in the South. The purchasers have evidently realised that there is a chance of obtaining early crops, and in order to secure the best results they have erected a greenhouse on the lines desired by the patentee.

How to Stain Wood in Your Growing Trees

The interesting experiment of dyeing the wood in living trees, says a writer, has been successfully carried out by making a fine groove around the trunk deep enough to expose the wood just inside the bark

A string having a diameter slightly greater than the groove is wound around the trunk completely filling the groove and thus protecting the wood from the action of the air. If now the ends of the string dip into a solution of coloring matter, the latter is absorbed by the tree. The solution is renewed until the wood is dyed to the desired intensity. Observations are made from time to time by boring small holes into the tree.

The length of time necessary to dye the wood depends upon the species of tree, the temperature and the season of the year. The best results are obtained just before the leaves fall in the Autumn. The absorption of the coloring matter is selective; that is to say, all coloring matter is not absorbed by every tree, and in general decided preference is shown for the colored extracts of other trees.

The wood is not stained uniformly, and the mottled effects are very beautiful. The color in the heart of the tree is not perceptibly changed.

Strength of Human Bone.

Fortunately the human skull, although composed of bones is elastic — much more so than one would think. The average male adult skull, in fact, is so elastic that it may be compressed laterally in diameter by a blow or by pressure, applied at the center of area, at right angles to the surface at that point, by 1½ centimeter or about six-tenths of an inch; recovering its original diameter and form, without breakage. The material of which our bones are made is so highly resistant that a cylindrical piece thereof only one square millimeter or 0.00155 square inch in area (i. e. only 1,128 millimeter or 0.044 inch in diameter) has a tensile strength of 15 kilograms or 33 pounds avoirdupois, figuring out at about 21,340 pounds per square inch. A similar sample of hard wood tested in the same manner held only 10 kilograms — that is, bone has 50 per cent more tensile strength than wood.

Electrified Pupils the Cutest

Electrified and ozonised houses are likely to be an improvement of the near future. On the recommendation of Prof. Svante Arrhenius, 25 children in a Stockholm school are placed in a class room that is kept charged with electricity, and 25 other children of the same health, height, weight, etc., are placed in another room of identical size and conditions. Although complete results have not yet been reached, it has been already affirmed that physical and mental development have been greater among the electrified pupils than among the others.

A Narcotic Cartridge

Karl Burgamuller, of Krefeldcrefeld, Germany, has devised a means for temporarily narcotising animals, i.e., rendering them insensible. He fills a cartridge with a mixture composed of substances containing capsicine in an immediately gasifiable form, and of easily inflammable substances to accelerate the gasification. This is combined with a small quantity of an explosive agent between the mixture and an explosive cap with which the cartridge is provided. Possibly this is the explosive of the pistols sold for rendering burglars insensible.

LAND OF BABES IN THE WOODS

Tradition Has Always Given Wayland Wood as the Place Where the Babes Died

There is no nook or corner in England, however small or however far removed from the main currents of life, but contains relics of the past—some story or bit of folk lore which is full of interest. These memories of the past are buried away in old oaken chests in the vestries of the parish churches, or lie under the moss-grown stones of some ruined building. Sometimes they remain unheeded and unnoticed, and the story they have to tell is not brought to light.

But fortunately there are men in our country villages who have the leisure and the enthusiasm to grub about among these hidden stores and find for us the treasures they contain. One of these is the Rev. Charles Kent, the rector of Merton, in Norfolk, who lives in a quiet little corner of England which contains survivals reaching back to the time when palaeolithic man rambled over the heaths of South-West Norfolk in search of flints. Right across the district runs the Peddler's Way, which was an avenue of commerce before Cadmus was teaching Attica her letters, and before a little handful of peasants were struggling for existence on the Tiber. For in the Stone Age the Norfolk flints were as valuable as Bessemer steel is nowadays.

The story of all this, and much more, reaching to our own times, is told by Mr. Kent in his book, "The Land of the Babes in the Wood." The rector of Merton has soaked himself in the past. He has the art of making the old days and the old ways live again. He has caught the very spirit of the place, as well he may from the associations which surround him.

As for the old story of the Babes, the Wicked Uncle, and the Wood which was the scene of their death, tradition says that the whole took place in and around Merton. Mr. Kent has sifted over all that can be found about the story, which has been the delight of the children of three centuries, and which has formed the groundwork of many a pantomime. He is able to reconstruct the story for us, and to show that it has a basis of fact, which illustrates the condition of rural life at the time when great changes were passing over Norfolk and over England as well.

The first trace of the story is to be found in an old chap-book in the Roxburghe Collection, which bears the date of 1595:—"The Norfolk Gent, His Will and Testament and howe he committed the keepinge of his children to his owne brother, whoe delte most wickedlie with them, and howe God plagued him for it." The ballad is to be sung to the tune of "Rogero," and it begins by telling us:

A gentleman of good account
In Norfolk lived of late,
Whose wealth and riches did surmount
Most men of his estate.

Who was "the gentleman of good account," who were the Babes, and who was the Wicked Uncle? Mr. Kent supplies an answer to these questions which fits in with all the local circumstances of the case, and is supported by many documents. In 1462, there died at Merton a Norfolk squire named Thomas De Grey. His son and heir was seven years old at that time, and consequently was a ward of the Crown. Always anxious to turn an honest penny, Queen Bess married him at the age of eight to Elizabeth Drury, another ward. These two, the boy and girl bridegroom and bride, were the "Babes." At Griston Hall, very close to Merton, there lived Robert De Grey, brother to Thomas, who died, and uncle to the boy-bridegroom. Here is the "Wicked Uncle." As for the Wood, tradition has always given it as Wayland Wood, and the oak was long shown under which the hapless Babes lay down for their last sleep. Mr. Kent shows that it was the Hundred Oak, under which the sheriff held his court.

Between Thomas De Grey and his brother Robert there were no very friendly feelings. Mr. Kent quotes a copy of the will of the former to show that there had been disagreements and family jars:—"I will to my brother Robert, so that he confesseth that he hath offended me, &c., &c." This may be the foundation of the story in the ballad of the death-bed scene, where the dying father is evidently anxious about the coming relations between his son and the uncle. Soon after this, the boy went on a visit to his stepmother, who had married a second time. At her house at Baconsthorpe the young squire died suddenly or before he could reach home. It may be that he died when passing through Wayland Wood.

Robert De Grey succeeded to the estates. He was a Popish Recusant, and for that reason was very unpopular in a part where the Protestant cause was very strong. Robert tried to rob the girl-widow of her dower which had been settled on her by the boy-husband. This and other acts of the new squire led to a great trial at the assizes at Norwich, which developed into a battle royal between the Protestants and the Papists of the county. Robert was worsted, and afterwards was constantly imprisoned and fined for his recusancy. At his death $24,900 was due from him to the Crown for fines. This seems to be the basis of the story; a wicked uncle has his boy nephew put out of the way, seizes his possessions, as well as the dower of the poor girl widow. By and by it crystallised into the ballad as we now have it. Mr. Kent suggests that robins who want to cover up everything stand for the uncle, who desires to hide the evidence in the great trial.

Griston Old Hall, the residence of the "Wicked Uncle," is close to the beautiful old church of Tompson, which is one of the three collegiate churches of East Anglia. It formerly had a rector and six chaplains, and the old college in which they lived is now part of a farmhouse.

THE FIVE-FINGERED ORANGE

Grows Exactly the Shape of a Half-Opened Hand

A most weird-looking fruit is the five-fingered orange. It grows exactly the shape of a half-open hand. Even the nails are identical, hard-pointed and clawlike, tipping the orange flowers with a length equal, in some cases, to three inches.

It is not a freak, but a proper kind of orange, belonging to a special variety. The tree itself is a rugged little shrub that does not average more than five or six feet in height in its native home—Japan. It does not grow straight, as the ordinary orange-tree should, but is curved in all directions.

Even the branches grow in spiral or twisted forms, so that the width of the tree is often greater than the height. The fruit itself is of a pale yellow color, of a pure lemon hue, growing greenish toward the stem. The size is immense, considering the smallness of the tree, the largest ones measuring when mature fully ten inches from the wrist to the point of the middle finger, including the nail.

But the fruit is not good to eat, though what it lacks in flavor it more than makes good in perfume. Perhaps the strangest thing about this perfume is that it is the fruit and not the flower that is odorous.

THOSE BRAINY SCOTS!

A noted Scot is Viscount Haldane, lately plain Mister. He was partly educated at the University of Gottingen. Discussing the German Universities the other day his lordship remarked:—

"Scottish students have quite a reputation at Gottingen. A great German professor said to me!—

"'I think we shall have to exclude young Scotsmen from our schools. They no sooner come here than they begin to cheat.'

"'Cheat?' said I, alarmed. 'How so?'

"'Why,' said the professor, 'they only pay for tuition for one, but they learn enough for three or four!'"

THE BACHELOR'S WISDOM

We must all try to stand erect, not be kept erect by others.

Whether you be men or women you will never do anything without courage.

Prefer diligence before idleness, unless you esteem rust before brightness.

Victories attained by right thought can only be maintained by watchfulness.

God does not look to see if the hands are full. He looks to see if they are clean.

An opportunity is like a pin in the sweeping: you catch sight of it just as it flies away from you, and gets buried again.

WITH A ROYAL ACCOMPLICE

The Queen, like so many members of our Royal Family, is blessed with much tact. On one occasion she was present at a banquet in a large provincial city, when her Majesty sat next to the Lord Mayor.

Soon he confessed that he was greatly worried about the printed address he had presently to read, and that he could never say a few words" that he really felt.

"Very well, then," replied her Majesty sympathetically; "let us hide that printed speech behind this flower-pot!"

This they did, and the Lord Mayor made a little speech that rang true instead of reading his address.

CARUSO'S BIG LOSS

It is announced that Signor Caruso hopes to benefit by a complete rest and change of air, the physicians having forbidden him to sing this season. The loss sustained by the great tenor through what was in the first place regarded as an ordinary slight cold is estimated at about $60,000, as he has been compelled to refrain from singing for a period of twelve weeks.

PROFITS ON "GLADSTONE"

Morley's "Gladstone" has beaten all records in biographies. The cheque sent by the publishers to the proprietors of the book—that is, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting, was greater by several thousand pounds than Longman's famous $100,000 cheque to Macaulay for the profits on the third and fourth volumes of his History of England.

THE ELEPHANT'S TRUNK

Naturalists consider the elephant's trunk the most marvellous miracle of Nature. It contains over 4,000 muscles—a great many more than are found in the entire human body. By aid of these muscles the trunk will uproot trees or gather grass, lift a cannon or a nut, kill a man or brush off a fly. It is as useful as a hand with all its fingers to supply the elephant with food, and, being hollow, is used as a suction pump. No other animal has a single member or organ so perfect and so useful.

TREMENDOUS WHALE

The largest whale of its type of which there is scientific record was captured recently off Port Arthur, Texas. He measured 63 feet in length, and was estimated to be about 300 years old. Capt. Ceb Plummer, mate of a United States pilot boat, sighted the monster in the shoals off the jetties, and the crew of his vessel captured the mammal. The huge body was towed ashore, exhibited and much photographed before being cut up.

PROTECTION OF SMALL BIRDS

The Agricultural Society of the Gironde, France, is convinced that the continually increasing numbers of enemies of crops, and especially of the insects so harmful to vines, Cockylis and Eudemis, is due to a great extent to the disappearance of small birds. The society, therefore, has invited all the agricultural associations of France to unite and insist upon the protection of these valuable auxiliaries of the farmer.

Madame, This Advertisement Is Addressed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

Once more the splendid band of the local Salvation Army band has been heard on the streets. This is owing to the comparatively mild weather. May both the mildness and the Army's music go on!

We note that Lindsay is getting an Act put through the Legislature to enable that town to borrow money. What! After the big winter carnival must such sordid matters as borrowing be considered?

Local Waterworks Surplus.

A surplus of $2,200.24 by the financial statement of the Waterworks Department for 1911. Of this amount, a revenue of $1,500 is forthcoming from the Canadian General Electric Company for water power rights.

Good Concert by the Army.

Once more the magnificent band of the local Salvation Army, assisted by the Songsters' Brigade, have given another of their winter musical Festivals. The temple was filled comfortably. A splendid programme of music, including selections by the band, with instrumental quartettes and solos and vocal music by the Songsters, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

If the American Government places a heavy toll on English and Canadian ships that will pass through the Panama Canal, how about American launches on the Trent Canal?

The Ontario Government is going after the loan sharks. There is at least one man in Peterborough who will follow this bill with keen interest.

The county auditors, W. H. Cassmest and J. Calder, were busy yesterday in the office of the county clerk, making their annual inspection of the county accounts.

The staff of the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway gave a banquet last week in the Benson House, Lindsay. Representatives from Toronto and Orillia were present.

A Lindsay contemporary says that a Peterborough report of the recent hockey games says there "is a dying yelp from Peterborough." We often yell over victory but are always boosting.

The Bell Telephone Co. are stringing another new cable along Water street.

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE

Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.
One visit advisable; if impossible, send history for free opinion and advice. Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Stouffville and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	5.30 a.m.	3.20 a.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west. Niagara Falls, Buffalo	5.30 a.m. 12.10 p.m. 3.30 p.m.	9.05 p.m. 11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	3.30 p.m.	1.20 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Stouffville, Uxbridge & Markham	9.00 p.m. 10.15 p.m.	5.35 a.m. 5.35 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	5.35 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	5.10 a.m. 3.75 p.m.	8.20 a.m. 1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m. 6.15 p.m.	7.00 a.m. 12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.35 a.m. 7.47 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto, Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	5.36 a.m. 5.51 a.m.
Burketon, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m. 4.20 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE TIMES REPORTS.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-13-19)

To Learn Printing Trade.

We have an opening for a bright young man to learn press work. Apply at Times Business Office.

Help Wanted.

Men and women. Make good money in spare time. No canvassing. Our profitable suggestions contain money-making ideas. Send stamp. WALLACE W. SMITH, LONDON, ONT. (D-3-07-24-m2)

HOUSE TO LET.

That desirable residence at 453 Water street. All modern conveniences. Fronts on Victoria Park. One short block from George street, schools, churches. Immediate possession or could wait a month or two on signing a lease. Apply to C. H. Clementi, 451 Water street.

Lindsay Curlers on Way Home.

A despatch has been received from J. D. Flavelle to the effect that he had won out against Morrison, of Winnipeg, 16—6. This insures Lindsay's rink third or fourth place in the Tetley competition. The rink left for home yesterday.

Lindsay Pastor on Church Union.

Rev. J. W. Wallace is the pulpit of St. Andrew's church, Lindsay, delivered strong sermons in favor of church union. In the morning he spoke on the theoretical and practical sides of the question, emphasizing particularly the practical reasons for support, and the inspiration received from a large body.

Eloquent Sermon at Springville.

Members of the church at Springville, speak highly of the sermon preached there last Sunday by Rev. H. J. Keith. This eloquent divine spoke on Christian service. The young people of Springville congregation are visiting Knox Church Young People on February 22, and are providing the programme for a successful evening.

Local Man Got the Cores.

A few nights ago a local citizen went into a restaurant on George street, operated by a man born far from Peterborough. He ordered baked apples. After concluding his meal he happened to meet a Times representative. To the latter he remarked "I've just had baked apples in there—I got the cores, but some former customer must have got the rest."

RED MILL THEATRE

BIG ATTRACTIONS ALL THIS WEEK DON'T MISS IT.

Special Matinee For Ladies and Children every afternoon. Doors open at 1 p.m. till 6 p.m., and 7 till 11 p.m.

All High Class up to date Motion Pictures and Songs

ADMISSION 5C

Watch for the Big Special Friday.

Robe Worn for Fifty Years.

Toronto Saturday Night notes that the official robe worn by the Warden of Victoria County has been used by successive occupants of that office for 50 years. The robe originally cost $50, so that the ratepayers of Victoria County have paid just $1 a year for official grandeur. Men have come and men have gone, wars have been fought and countries have won and lost territory since that robe was first bought.

Are Women Deceptive?

A local citizen who looked on the wine when it was red, or the extract de Gooderham when it was yellow, a few nights ago told, in the hearing of several, how his wife had "called him down." He told how she sometimes loved and sometimes scolded him. His peroration was the laughter and tears of a woman are equally deceptive. A hack was then telephoned for.

Grand Concert and Open Meeting.

Court Chemong, I.O.F., will hold an entertainment in the Conservatory Hall on the evening of February 21, (to-night). Address by G. A. Mitchell, D.S.C.R., Supt. of Field Work assisted by Miss Maud Bigwood, soloist; Miss Lillian Dillon, contralto and pianiste; Harvey S. Lloyd, entertainer. Mayor Bradburn will take the chair. The public invited. Admission free.

Why Not Peterborough?

Lindsay exhilerated over the success of its water carnival is now arranging for a hog, or as the Post says, MONSTER celebration on Victoria Day May 24th. Why let these little towns get all the glory and attention, whilst Peterborough is content with buying railroad tickets to spend her money and have her fun abroad. Why not get the other fellow's cash and save the R.R. tickets?

When Nostrils Are Plugged Your Catarrh is Bad

BY ACTING TO-DAY YOU CAN QUICKLY CURE CATARRH AND AVOID BRONCHITIS, PERHAPS CONSUMPTION.

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure is Catarrhozone, Which Cures Every Curable Case.

Catarrhozone proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucous drops down the throat, sickens the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are stuffed, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhozone act almost as magic.

Once you stop taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhozone at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, croup, lagrippe, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

10 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED.

"As Catarrhozone has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that tested thirteen years, I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhozone was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always occasionally use 'Catarrhozone.' I prize it so highly.

'Mrs. E. L. Osgood,
Johnson P.O., Ont.

The complete $1.00 Outfit of Catarrhozone is sufficient for 2 months' treatment, and is guaranteed. Smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Poor Excuse for Intemperance.

Last night a local citizen, given to excessive drinking, was heard to say, "92 per cent. of the drinking in Peterborough is caused by bad cooking in our homes." If that Peterborough man would hand over his wife one half of 92 per cent. that he spends in booze, he would probably get better supplied and better cooked meals. The Lord must hate a kicker who tries to cover up his shortcomings like the above.

No. 6 Company Dance Off.

The annual dance of No. 6 Company, 57th Regiment was slated for last night. A Times representative went to the Armouries here for information regarding the festivities. Our reporter met several members of the regiment. All of them but one denied all knowledge of any such dance, whilst one member said that the dance was to have been held, but had been postponed on account of the absence of the Captain of the company.

Oddfellows Honor Members.

At the last regular meeting of the Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F., veteran's jewels were presented to Bro. Walter J. Patterson, of Otterville, and Bro. John E. Emmerson, of Peterborough. The presentation was made in the Lodge Room by Grand Secretary Brooks, of Toronto. This being his first visit to Peterborough since assuming the office of Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. At the conclusion of the regular business an enjoyable luncheon was provided by the "Daughters of Rebecca."

Passengers Eat Soda Crackers?

A Belleville dispatch, a few days ago referred to a train being stalled at or near Madoc for thirty-six hours. The dispatch complained that the passengers were fed only on soda crackers. It was afterwards amended by stating that those passengers in addition to the above light diet, received "every courtesy and consideration from officials of the road." Even this combination steady diet for a hungry man. Still one must take this Belleville report with caution as the railroad in question looks after its patrons carefully. In fact several passengers on the delayed train have written the authories, thanking them for courtesy received.

Government Employe Home.

Mr. Tuffield Delaire, one of Peterborough's veterans of the lumber camps, who has been engaged on the Government dam on Squaw River, returned to the city yesterday. Mr. Delaire told a Times representative that the work on that particular dam was well done and that it will be completed in a few weeks time. Mr. Delaire expects to soon return to work on either this or some other dam in the North country. His long experience in such work and his practical knowledge of lumbering conditions makes him a well recommended applicant for such work.

English Methods of Newspaperdom.

As a sample of the up-to-date newspaper methods pursued in England, it might be noted that the Times yesterday received a big three-colored bill describing the meeting held by Winston Churchill, in Ireland a few weeks ago. This bill was supposed to have been hung out in front of the office, but quickly was swallowed by the hungry jaws of the waste paper basket. We may expect next week to get a bill to advertise the fact that William the Conqueror landed in England in the year 1066, or that Julius Caesar conquered the Gauls a few years ago.

Mrs. Kendry at the Y.W.C.A.

As noted in a former issue of The Times, Mrs. Rollins was to have addressed the Y.W.C.A. last night. As that lady was unfortunately ill, Mrs. Jas. Kendry stepped into the oratorical breach and delivered a most interesting and instructive address upon "The Period Between the Old and New Testament." Mrs. Kendry at all times a pleasing and favorable speaker, was heard to great advantage at the meeting referred to. Miss Knight, with her beautiful and far-reaching soprano voice assisted in making the gathering a perfect success. The Y.W.C.A. are to be congratulated on the splendid series of meetings they have been holding.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Druggists will tell you Big G is the original standard remedy for diseases of mucous membranes, discharges from the mucous membranes, unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes, painful or unnatural discharges associated with mucous membranes, and is prescribed and recommended by physicians generally. It is not a secret remedy. Its composition is printed on the label. It is sold by druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for 50 cents, or 3 bottles for $1.25, or 6 bottles for $2.50. Circular sent on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

A New Gasoline Launch.

Mr. Thos. Palmer, of the Munro House, is building one of the smartest, and he expects, one of the swiftest gasoline launches for its relative horse power on the Trent Waters. This particular launch is 20 feet long by 3 foot 8 inch beam. As Mr. Palmer is an expert engineer on this style of craft and knows a gasoline boat from stern to gudgeon, his boat will undoubtedly fulfill all expectations of its owner. It has been whispered that Mr. Palmer may possibly be nominee for the position of Government Inspector of gasoline launches on the Trent waters. Whilst not advocating any possible claim, he may make for the position, there is no doubt but what his long experience with and knowledge of such craft would materially count if such application were made.

Used Slipper on a Bad Boy.

Last night at about 9.10, a boy passed along Brock street. He noticed that there was a thaw and that the snow was moist. He gathered up a big handful and patted it into a compact ball. That snowball quickly wended its way through the front window of a local merchant's store. Alas! and alack! the merchant's wife is somewhat of a sprinter, saw the boy, the act and heard the crash of broken glass. Within three minutes, skirts held high, she had captured this snowball marksman. She dragged him into the house and (so report reached us) there came the steady and loud patter of a slipper, and the slipper was no fancy creation, such as credited to Cinderella. This was for all concerned and easier solution of the trouble than a case in the police court.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Ald. Gillespie was in Brockville yesterday on business.

Mrs. A. E. Micks, 425 Stewart street will not receive again this season.

Miss Viola Housinger of St. Thomas, is the guest of Miss May Lees, Gilmour street.

General Secretary Brooks, of the I.O.O.F., left Peterborough for Norwood yesterday.

The Misses Margaret and Janet Ross are visiting Mrs. Kimberley, of 488 Bolivar street.

Mrs. Parsons, Osaca, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Hickey, Peterborough.—Port Hope Guide.

Miss Margaret Fox of Lindsay, is spending her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, 353 Burnham street, East City.

Miss Fanny C. Brandon, Fenelon Falls, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Robertson, Water street, returned home yesterday.

Lindsay has received the bad news that Mrs. (Judge) O'Leary had died suddenly at Port Arthur last Sunday.

Mrs. Conway returned to her home in Brantford yesterday, having been called to Peterborough on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. W. J. Mason.

Rev. Henry Cullen, D.D., of Midland, South Dakota, is visiting Mr. George McKee, Murray street. Rev. Dr. Cullen is a former resident of Smith township.

The Rev. Dr. Symonds, vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, who has been away from the city in quest of health for four months, returned on Saturday and occupied his own pulpit on Sunday last.—Montreal Witness.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive Cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires as constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

How many of our local men, married, for say, sixteen years, enjoy the Romeo and Juliet balcony scene?

How many Peterborough people, who jumped on the water wagon on January 1st, are still riding there?

Keene did up Campbellford. And while it was a keen competition it took place at Campbellford.

John Frost, Esq., one of the most extravagant revenue raisers in Canada, gave Peterborough another visit yesterday.

A Peterborough man coming out of a local bank yesterday remarked, "Who invented interest? I'll bet his forefathers lived in Jerusalem."

Calgary Eye Opener says the reason why farmers are so ignored by the Government is that they carry no united weight behind them. Here is a tip for local agriculturists.

A commercial traveller yesterday remarked about a local hotel "Their Scotch contains just a trifle too much sulphuric acid and not enough bluestone!"

Those reading advertisements in The Times are adv. of reputable firms. We have likely declined ads. from people whom we suspected of being shady.

As our type is being set up and before the returns reach us, one of our printers offered to bet that Campbellford wins over the T.A.S. You can see this morning whether he would have won or not.

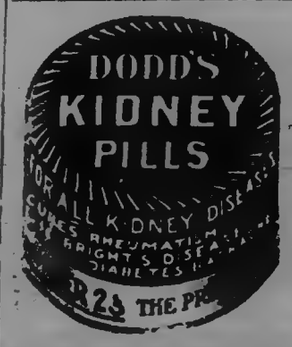
It begins to look as though the robins might meet again. A sign of spring was in evidence yesterday when a gang of civic employees were engaged in digging drain-ditches along the west side of Water street.

If you happen to have had a bad night or the bank is pressing you on that infernal note you discounted don't knock the city. Cheer up! Peterborough is all right, and so you will be, if you only think so.

To "regular subscriber," he would say that the name of the Emperor of China was Shang-hai or Shampoo, or something like that. For corroboration apply to the Collegiate Institute.

The Toronto Star says Hon. Geo. Foster's "whiskers have been trimmed." Still, whilst the wind blew through those whiskers, a few reformers felt a cold blast that resulted in a political frost. At least, so said a Conservative subscriber yesterday to The Times.

Last night a George street merchant while crossing that thoroughfare slipped and fell. As he got up, and the sulphury atmosphere surrounding his remarks cleared away, he was heard to say "Did you see me fall? Did you hear the thud? It sounded like the explosion of dynamite in a crockery shop.



- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

327th Bargain Annex Event — The CRESSMAN — Wednesday, February 21, 1912

ANNEX LEADER No. 1

Embroidery Sale at 5c yd.

Our "Annex" customers all know the meaning of a 5c EMBROIDERY SALE. If you are not an "Annex" customer attend this sale and you will always be one. We won't stop to talk values—we don't need to, but you'll find EDGINGS, INSERTIONS and even CORSET COVERINGS in a tremendous assortment of qualities and widths, at a price which means a whole season's buying. See the window display and join in the early morning rush for the best selection. It's a great Annex Leader Wednesday for only, a yard..... 5c

See Window.

ANNEX LEADER No. 2

40 inch Factory Cotton 8½c

REGULAR VALUE 11¼c YARD

An "Annex Snap" of extra merit that should draw a great crowd of anxious buyers on Wednesday. 600 yards of BENGAL FACTORY—a clean, firm cloth that measures 40 inches in width; the quality is equal to or better than the regular stock line at 11¼c. On Wednesday you cannot buy more than ONE end of either 5, 10, 15 or 20 yards. Positively only one length to a customer. Annex Leader only yd.. 8½c

See Window.

TWEED "MILL ENDS" 79c EACH END

All Wool Tweeds and Worsteds, in grey and brown shadings; 30 to 54 inches wide, and 1 to 2 yards in length; bought direct from the mill at a fraction of their real worth. In the Annex, EACH END..... 79c

50c FANCY PLAID DRESS GOODS 36c

3 pieces of Campbell's fancy Plaid DRESS GOODS in the Annex Wednesday; color combinations of blue and red, and green and blue; full 40 inches wide. A special stock line at 50c. Annex Price, a yard..... 36c

GIRLS' WRAPPERETTE DRESSES 47c

A stock line of Girls' 75c WRAPPERETTE DRESSES in navy blue only, with polka dot patterns, trimmed with finishing braid; sizes up to 12 years. An excellent dress for school wear. Buy these early Wednesday only 47c

12½c HEMMED TEA TOWELS 9½c

35 dozen of special "Cressman" Tea Towels—hemmed ready for use; size 20-x27 inches. Regular stock price is 12½c. In the Annex Wednesday only, each..... 9½c

36-INCH STRIPE FLANNELETTE 11c YARD

An excellent quality cloth in a very wide width; heavy weight Canadian make; blue or pink stripes; soft combed finish. An unusual Annex Snap at only, a yard..... 11c

Bargain Annex

Registered

BALDWIN'S BEST GRADE 4-PLY FINGERING 8½c SKEIN

There is only one "BEST GRADE" 4-ply Fingering, and that's BALDWIN'S — About 800 skeins to be sold in the Annex Wednesday at the very low price of 8½c a skein.....

SECOND SALE OF MEN'S SHIRTS AT 55c
REGULAR $1.00 AND $1.25 VALUES. 2 FOR $1.55

The immense success of last week's Shirt Sale prompts THIS ITEM. There is still a splendid assortment of nobby spring patterns, on light, medium and dark grounds; sizes 14 to 16½. All are particularly well-made, and all are soft front Shirts. We do not exaggerate when we say that all are worth regularly from $1.00 to $1.25. Second time in the Annex, each..... 55c

2 FOR $1.55

ANNEX LEADER NO. 3

Turkish BATH TOWELS 26c per pair

An "Annex" Leader of exceptional value is this new line of TURKISH BATH TOWELS; cream color, with red and white centre and border; fringed ends; extra large size, 16 x 44 inches. Extra special in the Annex Wednesday, per pair..... 26c

SECOND ANNEX SALE OF WOMEN'S CLOTH SKIRTS 99c

Another great SKIRT SALE in the Annex on Wednesday. Secured by a very fortunate purchase, we have marked the price at less than the actual cost of making. Procurable in black and navy blue—all sizes—made with front panel and fits perfectly over the hips. Worth many times the price we ask in the Annex. One day only, Wednesday, each..... 99c

CHILDREN'S LITTLE DARLING HOSE

A final "clean-up" of LITTLE DARLING HOSE—the standard of Cashmere Hose for children; fine ribbed with silk heel and toe, and seamless feet. Colors of tan, pink, sky, red, cream, and black. Annex Special—

Sizes 4 to 6. Regular 25c, for..... 19c
Sizes 6½ and 7. Regular 30c, for..... 24c

12½c AND 15c KINGCOT CANADIAN GINGHAM 10½c

One of the new spring lines that made its first appearance in the Annex last Wednesday and found instant favor. An excellent choice of advance spring patterns from which to make selection. Buy these early to insure best choice. Regular 15 and 12½c values. Annex Price. 10½c

15c MOREEN SKIRTING IN THE ANNEX 7½c

Just HALF PRICE for this Moreen Skirting on Wednesday. Good quality cloth, in colors of navy and brown. Full 29 inches wide. A regular stock 15c line. To clear completely in the Annex Wednesday only, a yard..... 7½c

ANNEX LEADER

WOMEN'S LONG COAT SWEATERS 99c

It's hard to believe such COAT SWEATER value possible as this week's Annex Leader. These garments are all 3-4 (or knee) length, in a heavy, firm, honey-comb weave—grey bodies with self or red trimmings. Made in the popular 5-button style with side pockets. You needn't worry about the regular price of these garments, but come early on Wednesday. Annex Price only..... 99c

See Window.

AN UNUSUAL ANNEX SALE OF FLANNELETTE BLANKETS WEDNESDAY FOR $1.19

One of the greatest "Blanket Values" the Annex ever offered; the very best quality Flannelette procurable, in either white or grey. The size is exceptionally large (70x80 inches), made to our special measure. A great Blanket Snap in the Annex, pair..... $1.19

YARD WIDE HEAVY WHITE COTTON 7c YARD

Seven pieces of 36-inch pure Bleached Cotton; good firm weave; a quality and weight better than the regular 10c lines. In the Annex Wednesday only at, per yard..... 9c

BUY FLANNELETTE GOWNS WEDNESDAY FOR ONLY 38c

Made of a very fair quality of Flannelette in blue or pink stripes; button fronts. To clear completely out we have marked the price unusually low. See these Wednesday. In the Annex, each..... 38c

$1.00 COLORED BED SPREADS 73c

Our first spring shipment of this big, double-bed size SPREAD; measures 62 x 86 inches, fringed all around; colors of blue and pink. Regular $1.00 value. In the Annex, at..... 73c

2 O'CLOCK LEADER

SAMPLE BLOUSES 39c

The lot includes White MUSLINS, Stripe CHAMBRAYS and PRINTS, and a few WRAPPERETTES. Qualities if in stock would sell at 75c and up; mostly all sizes. Some are slightly soiled, but a "tub visit" will make them look fresh and new. 2 O'Clock Sharp—positively not before. Not more than three Blouses to any one customer, each..... 39c

LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING 6½c

A great Annex Snap that will be bought at sight; LINEN CRASH ROLLER TOWELLING; full 17 inches wide; red stripe border. A quality you will recognize as being less than mill price. In the Annex, a yard... 6½c

FEATHER FILLED BED PILLOWS 89c PAIR

50 pair of regular size BED PILLOWS to sell in this week's Annex; filled with pure feathers; covering of strong ticking. A great Annex Bargain at, pair. 89c

75c BLACK SATEEN UNDERSKIRTS 49c

Cheaper than the cost of making is this lot of Annex Underskirts; made of soft, mercerized Sateen, with deep flounce. Splendid stock value at 75c. Annex Price 49c

It pays to do your WALL PAPERING EARLY

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

Store opens 8.15 ANNEX CLOSES 5.30 Closes 5.45

Snaps in "Room Lots" of Wall Paper. 3rd Floor

It Will Pay

To get our prices for your next Catalogue. We make a specialty of this class of printing.

Blank Books, an ruling, made to order at prices that defy competition.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

The Morning Times

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW

During the past week or two we have had a larger number of school children than usual brought to us to have their eyes examined for Glasses. Some were near sighted, some didn't at school because of eye strain. Some did not require Glasses. It is well that parents should know whether or not the child's eyes are both doing service equally and well. Immediate, timely attention saves your child much misery and yourself future regrets. Children require home sight and easy eyes to compete with their companions in school life.

It is usually advisable to arrange appointment for examination a day or two in advance.

J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist. Peterborough Optical Institute, Market Building.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 46 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1912 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

A SPLENDID PROGRAM AT THE I. O. F. CONCERT

As noted in another column of this issue, Mr. W. J. Wilson, Perth, the Organizer of the Independent Order of Foresters was in the city yesterday, in connection with that great body of sturdy Canadian citizens. Last night, the Order held a concert in the hall of the Conservatory of Music. Of course, owing to the existing blizzard and the terrible conditions of the local pavements, there was a comparatively small audience present. This was not the fault of the Order or the Organizer, but of old Father "Probs."

Mr. V. Eastwood, the local bank manager, very ably filled the chair. Shortly after 8 o'clock, Mr. Eastwood called the audience to the front, explaining that in so terrible a night, few would face such a storm.

Miss Bigwood gave a soprano solo resulted in an insistent demand for an encore. Now this dainty little singer is worth more than a line of praise. Her control of voice is excellent and her acting on the stage, illustrating her songs was good.

Mr. Harvey Lloyd, entertainer, was next on the programme, and received a double encore. This Toronto vocalist would put four out of five of the vaudeville artists out of business by comparison.

The chairman then explained that Mayor Bradburn was to have been present, but, owing to the Mayor's illness he was not able to be present.

Mr. G. A. Mitchell, D.S.C.R., and Supt. of Field Work for the Order, was then called to say a few words to those present.

Mr. Mitchell opened his remarks with a few funny stories. He did not blame those who did not come out in such a night and the Independent Order of Foresters works along the line that there is no failure. The Order is going ahead. The speaker before being asked by Bro Wilson to come to Peterborough had arranged to go to New York, but his heart is in THIS district. He asked the people to come on Friday. There would be no silver collection. The Order buried 2,400 people last year and paid benefits to many members.

The meeting was then adjourned until Friday night.

GASOLINE LAUNCHES MUST HAVE MUFFLERS

As there are hundreds of gasoline and steam launches on the waters of the Trent Canal, the new law covering such craft will be of local interest. The Dominion Government is introducing an Act whereby, it shall be unlawful to operate a boat propelled wholly or partly, by gas, gasoline, or naptha, unless the boat is provided with an underwater exhaust or with a muffler, and such exhaust or muffler is so constructed and used as to muffle in a reasonable manner the noise of the explosion and to prevent such noise being a nuisance. Every one who operates a boat in violation of the provisions of the preceding section is guilty of an offence and liable, on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

CHANGE IN KINGSTON STEAMBOAT MEN

Kingston, Feb. 21.—A dispatch states that B. W. Folger, Jr., has been appointed manager of the combined Niagara and Hamilton Steamboat interests. Mr. Folger is the second son of the late Henry Folger and brother of Howard S. Folger of this city. From his earliest youth he showed his ability in steamboat matters and for many years was connected with the St. Lawrence River and Thousand Island Steamboat Co.

About eight years ago he moved to Toronto and became manager of the Niagara Navigation Company. Mr. Folger's many Kingston friends will be pleased to hear of his appointment and wish him continued success.

FAMILY TROUBLES ARE AIRED IN THE COURT

At yesterday's Police Court, Chas. Bradden, was charged with having abused his wife. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared, while the defendant, who pleaded not guilty, appeared on his own behalf.

Mrs. Bradley the first witness told of the abuse she had received during the past ten years. Her husband had struck her and threatened her with violence on different occasions, and several years ago while living in Rochester she was forced to appeal to the courts for protection. She was broken down in health.

Ethel Bradley and James Bradley, corroborated the evidence given by the mother. The boy works at the C.G.E. works, and is compelled to hand over the weekly wages to the father.

Dr. Marshall testified as to the health of Mrs. Bradley, which he considered to be serious.

Samuel Conway, a boarder at the Bradley home described the fracas.

Five witnesses gave evidence to the effect that Conway had on several occasions been a witness to the a buse that passed between Bradley and his wife.

In summing up the evidence, his Worship was disposed to dismiss the case and let the parties concerned battle their family troubles among themselves.

POLICE BREAK DOORS TO ARREST WOMAN

Boston, Mass., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Georgia M. Stewart, for love of whom Arthur Willis Shaw, the absconding Freeport, Me., shoe manufacturer, deserted his wife and children, was taken into custody by the Boston police yesterday at her Back Bay apartment in the Albemarle Chambers. She was arrested on a warrant charging her with the larceny of $10,000 from the now widely known shoe firm, the A. W. Shaw Company, and with being an accessory before and after the fact to the defalcations of Shaw from the same company, of which he was president.

The scenes attendant upon her arrest were most dramatic, and the Boston inspectors and the Pinkerton men had to force the door of her suite. She refused them admittance when they demanded entrance in the law and defied them from behind the stout wooden partition.

Booked and measured at police headquarters she was committed to the house of detention in the city prison. Up to an early hour this morning she had not obtained bail. She will be arraigned in court to answer the charges against her today.

Coincident with the swearing out of the warrant against Mrs. Stewart by Inspector Gaddis one was obtained for Shaw. All last night the police inspector and Pinkerton men were working in the Back Bay upon the belief that Shaw may be in this city.

TELLER DIED IN THE HILLS

Fernie, B.C., Feb. 20.—P. Thompson, teller in the Bank of Hamilton here, and recently transferred from Winnipeg, perished alone in the hills across the river yesterday.

His body was found yesterday afternoon above Ferry Falls. He had started for a tramp at ten o'clock on Sunday, taking with him a camera and snowshoes.

COL. SAM HUGHES HAS FINE DINNER PARTY

Referring to a Lindsay citizen, well known in Peterborough, the Ottawa Citizen says:

Hon. Sam and Mrs. Hughes entertained at a perfectly appointed dinner party on Saturday evening when the guests included Lord John Hamilton, Mr. A. de Witte Foster, M.P., and Mrs. Foster, Mr. John J. Carrick, M.P., and Mrs. Carrick, Col. and Mrs. G. S. Maunsell, Captain and Mrs. H. W. Bowie, Hon. F. D. and Miss Monk, Mrs. Cooper, of Toronto, Hon. Dr. W. J. Roche, Mrs W. J. Brown, of Lindsay, Mr. Geo. H. Baker, M.P.

MILLS AND HUNDREDS OF HOUSES DESTROYED, LOSS OF EIGHT MILLIONS

Houston Fire Burned Over Twenty-Five Blocks in Residential Districts, Beside Factories and Much Cotton—No Lack of Shelter or Food for the Homeless

Houston, Texas, Feb. 21.—Fire, which started about 1 a.m., in a one-storey building adjoining the Southern Pacific tracks, swept the populated section of the Fifth Ward of Houston, early this morning. Thousands of persons are homeless and the property loss will probably run from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000.

At least twenty-five squares in the residence district have been destroyed. There have been no casualties, so far as it is known. The weather is cool and there is but little suffering among the homeless.

Most of the burned homes, however are not of great value as the fire burned through a large district that comprised cottages of workmen. Many manufacturing plants have been destroyed.

The heaviest single classification of loss is involved in cotton. The estimate of the loss at 9 o'clock on cotton compresses and the stored staple reaches two milhon dollars.

The total loss, which is in excess of $5,000,000, is uncovered by insurance. There is no lack of food or shelter for the homeless.

A high wind swept the flames far and wide. The plant of the Houston Co.Operative Manufacturing Company covering a block of ground, has been destroyed. The plant of the Ed. H. Farrell Lumber Company, including mills and yards, covering three blocks, is in ruins. St. Patrick's Catholic Church and buildings adjoining, including the Catholic school are destroyed. The Cleveland Compress, filled with cotton, is now burning. The McFadden Compress, also filled with cotton, has been destroyed.

WOMEN CARRIED BABES.

Women, carrying babes; women at whose skirts small children clung, gathered in homes of nearby neighbors for refuge, only to be driven out a few minutes later by the further progress of the fire. Firemen organized leaders among the men of the burned area, and these marshalling the refugees led them to the rear of the flames.

GOVERNMENT TO BUILD FINE NEW ASYLUM

The Ontario Government is arranging to build a new asylum between the west part of the town of Whitby and the Lake shore. Nearly 624 acres of land have been secured for the purpose, and the asylum will it is said, be the most up-to-date on the continent.

THE LOCAL POSTMASTERSHIP

Ex-Ald. James Edgar is now Peterborough's Postmaster, succeeding Mr. A. H. Stratton. A few lines concerning the former's connection with the affairs of the city will be of interest. Mr. Edgar has been a resident of Peterborough for the past 25 years. During that time he has [illegible] affairs.

To begin with, Mr. Edgar was born in County Down, Ireland. He is possibly best known among the merchants of the city as a hustling and successful wholesale dealer in groceteria supplies. His headquarters were in the Grand Central Block. In Church matters, Mr. Edgar always takes an active part. For eight years he was churchwarden of All Saints' church, that is, from the inception of the fine new structure until its completion. In the construction work of this church, Mr. Edgar took an active part and had a large share in the financing of the undertaking. This was so much appreciated that his successors in the church work have written letters acknowledging the debt of gratitude the church owed him. The new postmaster has, as Alderman, displayed the great interest he takes in local civic affairs. In politics, Mr. Edgar is an ardent Conservative and was one of the organizers of the Young Conservative Club and held the office of treasurer of that live institution for some years. He was also chairman of the West Ward Conservative Association. Whilst there were naturally many applicants for the postmastership, Mr. Edgar from the standpoint of efficiency and business training was chosen by his Conservative colleagues for the office. Though other applicants for the position have many personal and business qualifications to recommend them, there is no doubt but what the Government has made no mistake in the selection of Mr. Edgar. It seems that Mr. Stratton's retirement from the position is based on offensive partizanship at election time. Should that gentleman demand an investigation of the charges made against him, there is no doubt but such a hearing will be given him.

LINDSAY MANS GREAT SUCCESS IN THE LAW

Another young Canadian, whose career reads like a romance, is Mr John A. Chisholm, elected Mayor of Cornwall, Ont., the other day. He was born in Lindsay, Ont., and there his fight with the world began. He determined to be a lawyer, but had no money of his own. He won a scholarship of fifty dollars at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute. He determined with this money to earn more. He resolved with his limited capital to set up a store of his own, and earn enough that way to take his college and law course. But being under age he could not get credit so he formed a company, "John Chisholm (his father) & Co." At this time his father was an invalid. The boy carried the venture along successfully. People say Canada lost a Wanamaker when the law captured him. Emerging from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, a full-fledged lawyer, Mr. Chisholm, though 22, had many tempting offers in the leading law firms of Toronto and elsewhere. But his choice was Cornwall. When he arrived in that town in October, 1889, he did not know a soul in the town. He looked around for an office, found a little one to start with, and began to practice law. Since then, Mr. Chisholm's legal career has been an open book.

KILLED IN COLLAPSE OF A U. S. BUILDING

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20.—One man was killed and four injured in the collapse of a three and a half storey concrete and steel office building of the Spang, Chalfant & Company steel plant at Etna this morning. The building was nearing completion, was a thousand feet long, and without warning, from a cause yet unknown, about 50 feet of it crumbled up like an egg shell, and fell into the cellar, a mass of debris and twisted steel work. The five workmen, employees of the building contractor, were all that were known to have been in the building at the time. Four of these were sent to a hospital where it was reported they will recover. The body of the dead man has not yet been recovered. The wreckage crushed several small stores across the street.

THE WEATHER.

Not much change in temperature.

MR. JAMES EDGAR
Peterborough's New Postmaster.

JUDGMENT BY NOVEMBER NEXT

Wallace Nesbitt, K. C., Will Take Marriage Case For Government

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., of Toronto, has been chosen to present the Government's case on the Lancaster Bill and the General Law of Church and State. Everything is now ready. It is expected the argument will proceed before supreme Court at once, then before English Privy Council in June, with judgment before November.

LOCAL PRIZE WINNERS

Names of Peterborough Students Who Wrote for Prize Given by Local Canadian Club.

To encourage and stimulate the study of Canadian History, the Canadian Club of Peterborough recently offered special prizes to the Public, Separate and Collegiate Schools of this city for the best essays on Canadian History.

The Secretary of the Canadian Club has received from Public School Inspector Mowat and Principal Kenner, the names of the successful pupils in the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute. The special prizes will be presented to the successful scholars by E. L. Goodwill, President of the Canadian Club at an early date. Practically all the senior pupils in the schools wrote on these examinations.

Following is a list of those successful:

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

—Form 2.—
First—Rose Drennan.
Second—Margaret Stevenson.
Honorable Mention—Olive Marshall

—Form 1.—
First—Cecil Brown.
Second—Alma Dobbin.
Honorable Mention—Wilfred Tranter.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

—Form 4.—
First—Harold Couche.
Second—E. Grechen Gladman.
Third—Ada Norris.
Fourth—Marjory Evans.

—Form 3.—
First—Bernard Park.
Second—Louise Adamson.
Third—Claire Mason.
Fourth—Rosamond Huycke.

The results of the examinations in the Separate School will be published later.

ADMIRALTY BUYS COAL IN U. S. FOR GIBRALTAR

New York, Feb. 21.—The threatened coal strike in England, has caused numerous inquiries to be made here from English companies relative to the possibility of obtaining American coal. Four large steamers have been chartered by the British Government to load coal at Norfolk for Gibraltar.

Should the English coal strike materialize soft coal rates in this country will rule high, coal trade men say. This situation is futher complicated by the pending negotiations between the bituminous coal operators here and the miners' union. The present agreement comes to an end on March 31, and the miners have given notice that they will demand an increase in wages. At the moment the negotiations are said to be progressing favorably.

MAY LOSE FRENCH TRADE.

Paris, Feb. 21. A grave warning to the British coal trade was uttered yesterday by M. Cauville, secretary of the executive committee of the French Mine Owners' Association.

In an interview he said that a strike would gravely damage the British export trade to France. "Most of the great consumers here," M. Cauville said, "have made preparations. Like prudent men they have searched for new markets, and are not disturbed. One of the great French railway companies has placed an order for 60,000 tons of coal in America, not because coal is cheaper or better there, but merely to open up a new market in case the English supply should fail."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

CHANGE TIME OF ELECTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Do you not think it would be wise to change the date of our municipal elections? The choice of those who will control the destiny and finances of Peterborough is a most important one. It is especially important to the man who has put all his hard earned savings into a little house. Now having our Municipal elections on January 1st, right in the heart of the holiday season, in my mind is wrong. The merchants, to whom the prosperity of the city is of vital interest and the city whose interests is largely dependent upon the merchants' success are both too much occupied between Christmas and New Years to give proper attention to The election of Mayor and Aldermen and to any money by-law that may be voted on. Let us have the municipal elections some time in the Autumn or later on in the spring months.

Freeholder.

WHO SHOULD VOTE?

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I happened the night before last to drop into George St. Methodist church and listened to the speakers on that inaugural meeting of the Local Option campaign. Mr. Lees, the chairman, very plainly and beyond proof of contradiction displayed the evils of intemperance as did Mr. Cunningham. The arguments brought forward by every speaker, whether, as judging by the individual speaker, eloquent or otherwise, all proved that the young men should be saved from drink. Now, Mr. Editor, I'm not going to argue for or against the good that local option may or may not do. Still as a property owner of this city and a comparatively heavy tax payer, I think, from a business standpoint, there is another matter to consider. I am often out in Lakefield. In that village several young men may, in fact probably have been saved from drink by local option. But,—Mr. Editor, look at the business conditions there. Can any fair-minded man deny that property has depreciated from the carrying of that law. What I would suggest is that the Ontario Government amend the law so that only property owners or freeholders have the right to vote on local option. At the church meeting the other night, I counted the audience present. There were 87 by actual count; of these 77 were ladies and ten men the latter almost to a man in declining years. The thought struck me then, "How many of those ladies present own a foot of ground or pay taxes in Peterborough?" Still a fair majority of them will vote or influence voters in the coming contest. Is it square or British fair play, that people paying comparatively no taxes shall decide a question which involves property? In many cases property gained by the hard work and savings of men who never taste liquor again, I say, Mr. Editor, only owners of property should vote on such a question as local option. If property owners vote on it and pass the act, let it be enforced to the utmost. There is no use in speakers on the platform shouting that "human souls, etc., etc." Let the property of those very individuals be threatened and you will see them squirm.

Fair Play.

BEAVERTON HOTELMAN MUST PAY THE COSTS

News: Chief Justice Mass of the High Court of Appeal has refused the application of Alexander Hamilton, of Beaverton for leave to appeal to that court from the decision of the Divisional Court, which assessed him $384, the excess of the taxed costs of fighting the original issue beyond the $300 paid into the Court as security. The style of the original action, which was instituted in an attempt to quash the local option by-law in Beaverton, was Sturmer v. The Town of Beaverton, but the Divisional Court levied the costs on Hamilton, as being the real plaintiff.

DARK OPTICS IN RENFREW

Renfrew, Ont., Feb. 21.—Election excitement runs high throughout the riding. During the burial service at a funeral at Mount St. Patrick yesterday one of the mourners shouted out in church: "To h——with Maloney; vote for Graham!"

Many other incidents are reported. A well known Renfrew business man who went out to Shamrock to canvas for Mr. Graham, fell among Maloney men who are now nursing him. "He's getting along as well as can be expected," was the word received here regarding him to-day.

The fierce battle which has been waged has not been without casualties. Events of the past few days are responsible for the numerous disfigured optics. Around Arnprior and Eganville, and there are some right here in Renfrew due to visits to those places. One very serious accident is placed at the door of election activity.

Father Yanaski, parish priest at Wilno, has appealed to both candidates to have liquor kept away from the polling places. Much liquor has been brought into local option portions of the riding during the campaign.

Conservatives are making arrangements to-day to bring in many voters of the lumber camps.

Mr. Graham stated to a reporter this morning that he expected 500 majority. Dr. Maloney's forces also look for at least three hundred.

Money talk is still in the air it is said that one worker who went to a small district known as Black Donald came back with the report that it would cost $1,500 to guarantee the vote there. "Why it ain't worth more than $150" a rural political remarked when he heard of it.

Receipts of the best cooks in hotels noted for the best biscuits, cakes and pastry say, always

Cleveland's SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Made from a Superior grade of pure Grape Cream of Tartar.

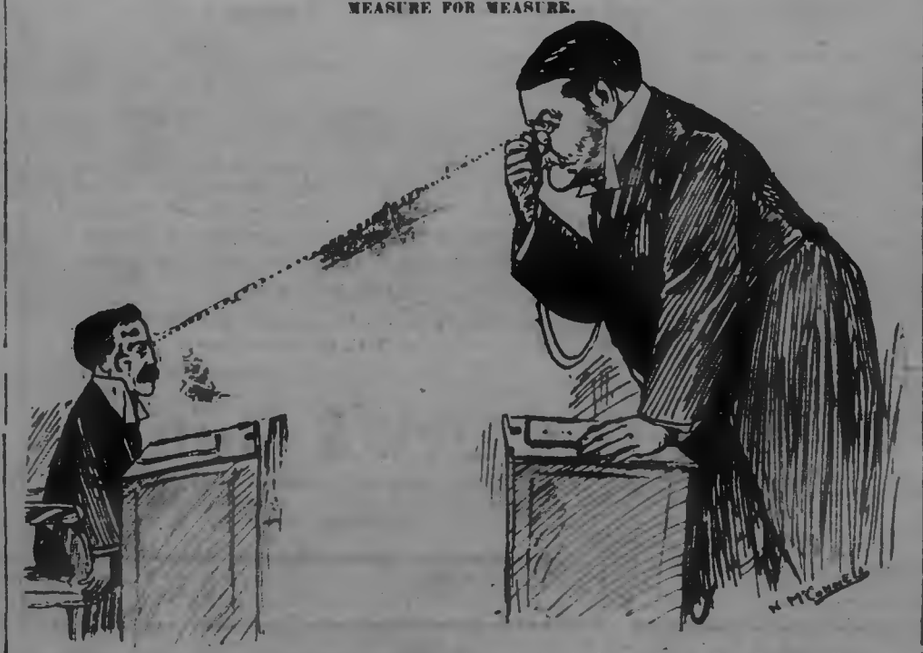
Make Light, Flaky PURITY STRENGTH PERFECTION Biscuits, Cake and Pastry

MEASURE FOR MEASURE.



After the usual preliminaries, the Ontario Legislature is ready for business.—From The Toronto News.

PRINCESS THEATRE

Don't Miss the Big Two Reel Ferture Film entitled

THE TRUST

MUTT and JEFF
THE OLDEN DAYS
(A Western Drama)
THE MEXICAN
A Big Picture of the War in the West

Admission, Every Day 5c

Open Afternoon and Evenings

E. J. KING, Prop.
415 George St

Finance, Mining and Industrial Investments---Eastern and Western Real Estate

BUILDERS' PROFITS with Bankers' Security

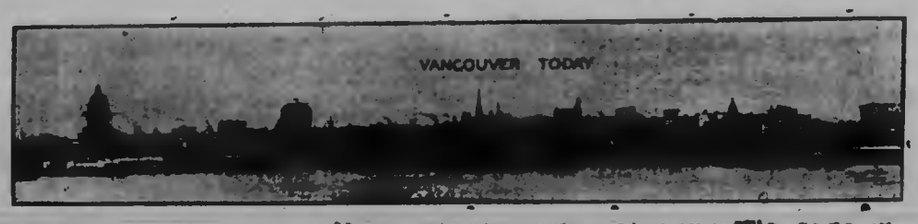
100,000 SHARES AT $1.00

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has been organized recently with an authorized capital of $500,000, to do a general building, real estate, and insurance business, and is actively engaged in Vancouver and Victoria—two most promising fields. The profits from building houses for cash and selling on instalments is well known, and will be one of the principal channels from which profits will be derived. BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its own building department and architect, and does its own construction. In addition to building houses, BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS, LIMITED, has its real estate department, where it carries on a general real estate business, discounting agreements of Sale, subdividing and transacting a general insurance business.

BRITISH CANADIAN HOME BUILDERS LIMITED, is a new concern, having been in business less than two months in Vancouver, but is becoming well known as the Company without any promotion shares and with a strong board of directors, made up of well known Vancouver and Victoria business men.

Shareholders may conservatively look for a 10 per cent dividend the first year, increasing thereafter and a steady advance in the value of their shares caused by the substantial reserve it will always be the policy of the directors to build up.

Companies run on similar lines, notably the Los Angeles Investment Company' and "Home Builders," both of Los Angeles, have proved phenominally successful, the former, which has been in business some sixteen years, having accumulated assets of over $6,000,000, and paying 28 per cent. dividends; and the latter, which started business three years ago, with only $1,250 capital, has assets to-day of over $1,089,000, a surplus of over $308,000, is paying 17 per cent. dividends, and its $1.00 shares are selling at $2.30.



FIRST ISSUE OF SHARES

100,000 Thousand Shares are offered at $1.00 per share, 44,500 of which have been subscribed. These shares may be purchased for cash or on the instalment plan. $10.00 cash and $5.00 per month handles 100 shares Mail your subscription To-day.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JOHN ARMSTRONG, President, Vancouver, B.C.
C. H. TOPP, Vice-President, Victoria, B. C.
J. L. G. ABBOTT, Director, Vancouver, B.C.
C. GARDINER JOHNSON, Director, Vancouver.
W. R. FINLAY, Director, Victoria, B.C.
ERNEST KENNEDY, Man. Director, Victoria, B.C.

SECRETARY

R. G. H. TAIT, Victoria, B.C.

SOLICITORS

ROBERTSON & HEISTERMAN, Victoria, B.C.
ABBOTT & HART McHARG, Vancouver, B.C.

TREASURER

GODFREY W. BOOTH, Manager Northern Crown Bank, Victoria, B.C.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY

432 Pender Street West, Vancouver, B.C.
312-315 Sayward Building, Victoria, B.C.

Send for Prospectus

British Canadian Home Builders Limited
432 Pender St. W., VANCOUVER, B.C.

The Times Bookstore for High Grade Goods

RED DEER, ALBERTA

OFFERS THE SMALL INVESTOR THE BEST OPPORTUNITY AT THE PRESENT TIME OF A RAPID ADVANCE IN PRICES

Greater activity is being displayed at this point in railroad construction, than at any other point in the whole of the North West. When construction is completed, railroads will be operating in nine directions from the town, which will become one of the greatest divisional points in the whole of Canada. Persons buying at present prices can look for a quick turnover at double what they paid. We are offering lots in our sub-division of "RIVER VIEW HEIGHTS" at the following low prices: $100 each for inside lots, and $125 for corners, and on the very easy terms of $10 cash and the balance in payments of $5 per month. No interest on balance if deferred payments are made regularly.

For further particulars and information write

AUBIN & PERCY,
41 Exchange Bld, 142 Hasting St. W.
VANCOUVER, B. C.

We also have some good farm lands in Alberta for disposal. Write us about these.

TRANSCONA

The Future Industrial & Railroad Centre of Greater Winnipeg.

Transcona Park forms the Western boundary of this new manufacturing City which is about to be incorporated at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature Assembly.

The President of the Transcona Board of Trade informs the Public through the columns of the "Montreal Standard" of January 20th, "WITHIN THE NEXT THREE OR FOUR YEARS TRANSCONA IS PRACTICALLY GUARANTEED A POPULATION OF 30,000 TO 35,000."

Lots $150.00, size 30x100 to a 16 ft. lane, Terms Ttl Cash, balance 6, 12, 18, and 24 months.

This property is bound to increase very rapidly.

Clark & Munro

Selling Agents for Transcona Park Subdivision
513 SOMERSET BLOCK, - PORTAGE AVENUE
WINNIPEG, MANITOBA

A STRANGE PETITION

By Agnes Thomas

Once upon a time there lived, in Denmark, a little boy whose name was Hans. His father, who was dead, had been one of the King's foresters, and his mother still lived in the cottage on the edge of the forest where Hans and his two little sisters had been born. They were very poor, for their mother could only make a little money by knitting stockings, which were sold in the town of Z——, about four miles off. Hans, who was 10 years old, was glad to get odd jobs to do for a neighbouring farmer, such as leading the cows to and from the pasture, carrying water from the spring to the house, or frightening the birds from the farmer's grain. He was a bright, industrious little fellow who loved to be useful, but his great desire was to go to school, so as to become a schoolmaster when he was grown up.

In the winter his mother fell ill, and for several weeks could earn no money. Hans did what he could, but if it had not been for the kindness of the farmer's wife the little family in the forest but would well-nigh have starved to death. Many a time the boy asked the good woman what he could do to earn more money, but she seemed to think he was too young to leave home, and told him to wait till he was older.

One day the farmer brought home great news from Z——. A fine new bridge was to be finished next month, and the King himself was coming to open it. There were no railways in those days, and the King would drive from Copenhagen to Z—— in his own carriage. The road ran through the farm, and all the people, the farmer said, must be prepared to salute His Majesty as he passed.

Hans ran off at once to tell the great news to his mother, and just as he came in sight of the hut a sudden thought jumped into his mind, and it was such a great and surprising thought that he gave a little leap in the air, and burst out laughing. The thought was this, "Why should I not ask the King to help mother?"

Now, Hans had never seen the King but he had often heard that he was a very kind and good man. He was always thinking of what he could do to make his people better and happier, and he was very charitable to the poor. So our little boy, as he skipped along the forest path, was quite sure that if His Majesty knew his troubles he would help him.

He took a week to think it over, for he felt it would be wiser not to tell his plan to anyone, lest he should be forbidden to carry it out. He decided that the proper thing to do was to present a petition to the King as he drove past the farm. And, as he was a very small boy, he thought it would be wise to make the petition as large as possible. He had neither paper, [illegible] he knew that he could not borrow any without saying why he wanted them. After a great deal of thought he slipped into his mother's room one day when she was asleep, and, opening the chest where the house linen was kept, he took out a pillowslip. It was of coarse linen, but very white from many bleachings in the sun. Upon this Hans wrote in large letters with a piece of burned wood — "Please, Your Majesty, Help Mother."

Carrying it very carefully on the morning of the great day, he ran across the fields to a part of the road where he knew no one else would be, and, sitting down under the hedge, he waited.

By-and-by he heard a sound of cheering, and knew that the cavalcade was passing the farm. Then he heard the tramping of horses' feet and the rumbling of wheels, and suddenly round the bend of the road came the gleam of bright harness and the colours of brilliant uniforms. A company of soldiers came first, and behind them the King's carriage drawn by four horses, with officers riding on each side. Hans waited till the soldiers had passed, then he sprang up and running into the road, held up his petition with both hands, in full sight of the King, quite hiding himself from view.

His Majesty stared for a moment, and then cried—"Halt! What's this?" An officer with a long grey moustache pulled up his horse, and saluted.

"May it please Your Majesty, I think it's a pillow-slip."

The King lay back in his carriage and laughed heartily.

"A pillow-slip, General? But what's on it?"

Now, the General was a kind old gentleman who had grandchildren of his own, and he had caught sight of little Hans's face. The tears were running down it from pure excitement. So the General said:—

"May it please Your Majesty, there's a boy behind it, and I think he's in distress."

"Dear, dear!" said the King; "that is serious. Let me see him."

So the General took the petition from Hans, and the little fellow clasped his hands and gazed anxiously at the King.

"What's your name, boy?" said the latter.

"Hans Petersen, Your Majesty."

"I had a forester of that name," said the King, "who was killed by the fall of a tree."

"It was my father, sire," said Hans, "and my mother's ill and we've no money, and I want to go to school, and the farmer's wife is very kind to us."

"This should have been seen to before," said the King, "but I'll attend to it when I pass this way to-morrow, boy."

And, as you may believe, he saw to it very well, for he gave the poor woman a pension and a house in Z—— to live in, so that Hans and his sisters, could go to school. The boy grew up good and clever, and in time became a learned professor in the great University of Copenhagen.

"If it wasn't for me my class in school would not have any standing at all," said Hubert.

"Nonsense," said his aunt. "Your mother says you are at the foot of it."

"I am," said Hubert. "How could it stand if it didn't have a foot?"

It begins to look as though the robins might meet again. A sign of spring was in evidence yesterday when a gang of civic employees were engaged in digging drain-ditches along the west side of Water street.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INVESTMENTS

We are completing arrangements for the formation of a company to handle and develop from 100,000 to 150,000 acres of the best farming land on the Pacific Coast.

We invite you to investigate and, if satisfied, to join us in one of the most conservative investments to be made in this Province.

To Investigate Will Cost You Nothing

and investment will mean profits. To think should be to act.

TAKE ACTION NOW.

MERRILL & MERRILL

542 GRANVILLE STREET, VANCOUVER, B.C.

TENDERS.

SEPARATE TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, at Ottawa, and endorsed on the envelope either "Tender for Bucket Dredgers", "Tender for Hopper Barge", "Tender for Compound Engines", or "Tender for Dredge Buckets, &c.," will be received up to noon of the Twenty-sixth day of February, 1912, for the following:—

1. The construction of one or two Steel Single Screw Bucket Dredgers, to be delivered at Sorel.
2. The construction of a Steel Single Screw Hopper Barge, to be delivered at Sorel.
3. The construction of one set of Compound Steam Engines to develop 450 indicated horse power for dredge No. 37, to be delivered at Sorel.
4. The furnishing of fifty Steel Rock Digging Buckets, Cast Steel Links and Manganese Bucket Pins, to be delivered at Sorel.

Tenders may be submitted for one or all of the four items but in any case, a separate tender must be submitted for each item indicated in the above programme.

Full information and specifications in connection with the above can be procured on application from the Purchasing and Contract Agent, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa.

There are no special tender forms in connection with this work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque in favor of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the value of the item or items tendered on, which cheque will be forfeited if the successful tenderer declines to enter into a contract with the Department or fails to complete the work contracted for in accordance with the contract to be prepared by the Department. Cheques accompany the unsuccessful tenders will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority will not be paid for same.

ALEXANDER JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
20-19-11

Highest Prices and Promp Returns for
HIDES, CALFSKINS, & SHEEPSKINS
Consignments Solicited
E. LEADLAY & CO. Toronto

Children's Aid Society

For the care of neglected and illtreated children. Incorporated by Act of Legislature, 1893. Information required. Informants' names kept strictly private. Office hours, 10 to 12 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. George Cochrane, Agent and Assistant Secretary.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con. 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris Office, Saturday P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks.

Are You Going To Build?

If so, the undersigned, who is a practical stone mason, of long experience, is prepared to do your work in a first class manner, and on the most reasonable terms.

For full particulars, call or address

J. Gemmell

TIMES OFFICE, PETERBOROUGH

Application To Parliament

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof, for an Act to amend the Acts relating to the City of Peterborough, to give the said City authority to expropriate the property, plant and appliances, situated within the Municipality, of any person, firm or Corporation engaged in the business of supplying light, heat or power for sale.

Dated the 14th day of February, A.D., 1912.

F. H. D. HALL,
City Solicitor.

(D—5-16t21-2)

SEALED TENDERS, to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Wednesday, March 6, 1912, for the construction of a Dormitory Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Plans, specifications and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained on application at the office of Messrs. Power & Son, Architects, Kingston, Ont., and at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
E. C. DESBOCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, February 15, 1912.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

Government Employe Home.

Mr. Tuffield Delaire, one of Peterborough's veterans of the lumber camps, who has been engaged on the Government dam on Squaw River, returned to the city yesterday. Mr Delaire told a Times representative that the work on that particular dam was well done and that it will be completed in a few weeks time. Mr. Delaire expects to soon return to work on either this or some other dam in the North country. His long experience in such work and his practical knowledge of lumbering conditions makes him a well recommended auplicant for such work.

Eloquent Sermon at Springville.

Members of the church at Springville, speak highly of the sermon preached there last Sunday by Rev. H. J. Keith. This eloquent divine spoke on Christian service. The young people of Springville congregation are visiting Knox Church Young People on February 22, and are providing the programme for a successful evening.

A New Gasoline Launch.

Mr. Thos. Palmer, of the Munro House, is building one of the smartest, and he expects, one of the swiftest gasoline launches for its relative horse power on the Trent Waters This particular launch is 20 feet long by 3 foot 8 inch beam. As Mr. Palmer is an expert engineer on this style of craft and knows a gasoline boat from stern to gudgeon, his boat will undoubtedly fulfill all expectations of its owner. It has been whispered that Mr. Palmer may possibly be nominee for the position of Government Inspector of gasoline launches on the Trent waters. Whilst not advocating any possible claim, he may make for the position, there is no doubt but what his long experience with and knowledge of craft would materially count if application were made.

The Cableman

AN EXCITING PRESENT-DAY ROMANCE

—BY—

WEATHERBY CHESNEY

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

[illegible] at fruit farming in the Azores" [illegible] Scarborough with a smile.

"No, but Mr. Davis does."

"What! You've got round the father, Phil! Your gift of making people like you is positively impudent! What right have you to hang up your hat in the Casa Davis? That's what you're going to do, I suppose."

"Well, something like that."

"It's monstrous."

"Not at all," said Varney, unblushingly—he knew that his friend was chaffing him—"I've got a little capital, you know; my mother's money didn't go in the smash. Mr. Davis says that with a few more glass-houses for the pines, and an energetic manager to look after them, the trade with the Covent Garden can be worked up in a few years to something pretty big. I'm going to supply the glass-houses, and fill the billet of energetic manager, on a partnership basis. There's nothing monstrous about that; it's a mere business arrangement, and the suggestion came from him. What do you think of it?"

"When is the wedding?" was Scarborough's answer.

Varney laughed. "You've put your finger on the weak spot," he said. "We haven't settled that yet, because we didn't feel justified in doing so without consulting Muriel on the subject first. I'm pretty sure she likes me, but she's got to swallow a lot of prejudices, which she thinks are principles before she can be expected to marry a fellow like me. I haven't dared to ask her yet, and Davis thinks I had better wait a bit."

"He has swallowed his prejudices, it seems."

"Oh, he hadn't any. Curiously enough, I'm rather a favorite with him. Anyway, he's keen on the scheme; but of course if Muriel says no, it won't come off. That's down in our agreement."

"You've got an agreement already!"

"Yes, in black and white. Now, about you, old man? When's your wedding coming off?"

"I don't know," said Scarborough. "Like you, I haven't dared to ask yet. That's our vonta, I think."

They had arrived at the wine-shop which Mona had described. Through the open front they saw a long counter running across the breadth of the shop; behind it were half a dozen great barrels, and leaning in picturesque attitudes against the counter were three or four men, drinking the red wine of the district and smoking maize-husk cigarettes.

"Walk on a bit," said Varney. "Don't go in yet."

They went on a few yards, and then Varney [illegible]

"I fancy I have met your Scotchman. Can you describe him?"

Scarborough gave him the description which Mona had given before Varney came in, and added:

"You came across him during the time he was Carrington's clerk, I suppose?"

"No, I've met him in the island. It was your speaking of John Knox a while ago that made me think of it. I won't waste time in telling you about it now, but if we don't find our friend upstairs studying theology, I think I can give a guess where we can put a hand on his shoulder. Let's go back and ask for him. Got anything in your pocket, in case there's a row?"

"My fists," said Scarborough.

"I'm pretty handy with mine, too," said Varney, "but if Miss Carrington is right, he's the sort of chap who might carry a gun for emergencies. She was anxious that you shouldn't get hurt, and I feel absurdly responsible for seeing that you don't. Nothing to do with me, of course; but I do."

"I don't believe there's the slightest risk," said Scarborough.

"And if there is, we've got to take it? Right you are! Come on."

CHAPTER XX.

Varney Volunteers for Sentry-Go

The two young men went into the venta. An animated discussion, which was in progress between the proprietor and three men, who were leaning over the counter, was broken off suddenly at their entrance. Varney stayed near the door, to watch the street, in case the inn had some other exit, which the man they were seeking might think it prudent to make use of suddenly. Scarborough went to the counter and asked in Portuguese for the Senhor Manoel Bernardo, the name which Mona had been told to use.

One of the loafers laughed, and the landlord frowned heavily.

"The Senor Manoel Bernardo," he repeated, sullenly. "What do you know of him, Senhor?"

"Very little," said Scarborough, smiling. "But I have come to improve my acquaintance. Will you tell me where I can find him?"

"No, Senhor."

Scarborough shrugged his shoulders. "Doubtless you have a reason for refusing," he said quietly.

"I have. A good one," said the Portuguese, and the loafer who had laughed before did so again.

"Then," said Scarborough, "I and my friend will go upstairs to the room which he hires from you. I shall be pleased, and it may save us all some trouble, if you will show us the way."

As he spoke, he moved towards a small door in the side wall, and signed to Varney to close up.

This time it was the landlord who laughed, and said:

"You can go up if you like, but he isn't there. Are you friends of his?"

"I don't think we can claim that honor," said Scarborough. "But we are very anxious to meet him."

"So am I, Senhor."

Scarborough looked at him sharply. "He owes you money?" he asked at a venture.

"Him, senhor—a month's rent of my room and other things. He left me suddenly three days ago, without paying his bill, and I have not seen him since. We were talking of him when you entered, as possibly the senhores may have gathered from the fact that Pedro"—he indicated the loafer who had laughed—"was amused when you mentioned the name of Manoel Bernardo. I said I had a good reason for not telling you where you could find him; the senhor sees that I had, I do not know myself."

Scarborough stepped back from the little door, and came nearer to the pedrao.

"It would be to your profit to know?" he asked meaningly.

"Certainly, senhor. I should present my bill. The few things he left in his room will not repay me for what I spent on his meals. He had a dainty stomach, and would not dine on bacalhao and beans as we do. I had to buy chickens and fresh meat for him daily," complained the padrao, indignantly.

Scarborough repressed a smile. It amused him to learn that the theological Scotchman was something of an epicure, and refused odorous salt cod and lupin beans; he hated them both himself. Also it gave him an added respect for him as an antagonist; for to insist on getting his daily chicken or steak in a place like this must have meant a struggle, Scarborough knew. Moreover, he had not even paid for them. It was a small thing, but it indicated that Andrew Gillies was a man of some force of character.

"We also are anxious to find him," he said to the defrauded and indignant padrao. "Take us upstairs and show us his room."

"Certainly, Senhor. It is just as he left it."

The room was almost exactly as Mona had described it, bare save for a litter of books on the table, and a pile of English newspapers on a chair by the window. But almost as soon as they entered, Varney smothered an exclamation and pointed to a thing that was hanging on a hook behind the door. It was a long blue cloak, and near it on another chair was a large stiff hood.

Scarborough turned to the padrao.

"Did these things belong to Senhor Bernardo?" he asked.

"No, senhor, they are my wife's."

"How do they come to be here?"

"Senhor Bernardo was interested in the national costume, and the padrona brought these for him to see. I do not know why they have not been removed."

"How many days is it since he asked for them?"

"Seven or eight, senhor."

Scarborough turned to Varney, and in a low tone of excitement, said in English: "We've found our hooded woman, Phil!" And then again in Portuguese to the innkeeper: "Did Senhor Bernardo ever wear these?"

"The capote and capello?" said the man, laughing. "No, senhor; he would have been mocked by the children in the streets if he had."

"Nevertheless he did," said Scarborough to himself, and then added aloud: "There is one thing more. Does Senhor Bernardo speak Portuguese well?"

"Well enough to be mistaken for a native of the islands?"

"No, senhor, not well enough for that. When he came to my house first he knew only his own English tongue, and Spanish, which he said he had learned to help him in his business in London. But a Portuguese can understand Spanish if it is spoken slowly, and can make himself understood in return; so we were able to converse. The Senhor Bernardo is clever, however, and very soon he was able to speak Portuguese without making it sound like Spanish; but no, not as well as a native of the islands."

Scarborough nodded, and then held out his hand.

"Many thanks for your courtesy, Senhor padrao," he said. "You have helped me more than you know, and I hope you will get your money."

The man bowed, with the natural politeness which is instinctive with the islanders of the Azores in all ranks of life.

"I am happy to have been of service," he said. "If the senhor finds Senhor Bernardo, perhaps, in the course of conversation on more important things, he will remind him that my bill is still unpaid."

"I will if I get the chance," said Scarborough, laughing.

When they were in the street again and on their way back to Montagu's house, Scarborough said to Varney:

"Now, Phil, you don't understand the lingo, so I shall have to tell you what the padrao and I were talking about. But first—where did you see Gillies?"

"In the geyser country, near Furnas," said Varney.

"How and when?"

"The day before yesterday. I was there with Muriel and her father."

He went on to explain that Davis and his daughter had taken him to see the geysers of Furnas, which make one of the show places of the island of San Miguel. They had taken food with them, and made a day of it, and it was while they were lunching under a tree by the roadside that Gillies had passed. He was riding a donkey in the universal fashion of the islands, perched sideways, and holding on to the cross bars of a great wooden framed saddle, which rested on two straw pads. He was dressed like a peasant of the country, in a blue blouse and tight trousers; and, with a maize husk cigarette between his lips, and a pillow covered with a piece of bright carpet under him for a seat, he looked the part to perfection. Davis hailed him with a "Viva!" as he passed, and was answered with a surly "Bonas dias, senhor."

But there was something in the accent with which the words were spoken that made the pine grower say suddenly:

"That man isn't what he pretends to be. I'm going to speak to him. I'm interested in human curiosities."

He got up and followed the man, and was away for about half an hour. When he returned he told them with great glee that he had met a real original.

"I thought the fellow wasn't an Azorean," he said. "He's a Scotchman, though what he's doing masquerading in that get-up, I can't imagine. If he were an American or a journalist I should say he was studying the habits of the people with a view to writing a book, and had adopted native costume and ways so as to get a closer view; but I don't think he's either. What do you think he and I have been talking about?"

(To be Continued)

If you happen to have had a bad night or the bank is pressing you on that infernal note you discounted, don't knock the city. Cheer up! Peterborough is all right, and so you will be, if you only think so.

VALUE OF ATHLETICS

Dr. Barton, University Physical Director Defends Good Sport

Writing of the value of athletics in the last issue of Varsity, Dr. J. W. Barton, physical director of the University of Toronto, says:—

It may be news to many of the staff and students to learn that at the University of Toronto we have more students engaged in interfaculty contests than any other university on the continent. One has only to think of the Jennings Cup series, track, soccer and tennis competitions to at once realize that while we are still far from our ideal—that is, that every student shall be engaged in some form of athletics—yet we are far away from allowing a few men to do our athletics for us.

But the main point I wish to emphasize is, that many might gather that athletics are simply recreation, and should be treated as such. If this were all they might still be worth while, but your humble servant would be engaged in some other occupation. But to those who really know their value, this "recreation" pales into insignificance beside those other things of tremendous import to the life of the man engaged in athletics.

I know this from an experience of eighteen years as a teacher of athletics, and as a physician who secures his knowledge, subjective and objective, in the examining-room as the students stand stripped before me. It is this knowledge that makes one realize what an integral part of a university course are the athletics. And this knowledge is shared by men of affairs.

At the risk of repeating myself, I have only to quote William Michaels, in Moody's Magazine. In describing the different classes of men accepted as risk by bonding and surety companies, he makes this statement:—

"You are a college man? Or you are not? Well it makes little difference, speaking broadly, with the surety people, so far as your honesty is concerned. But you were an athlete at college? A point in your favor."

Now, think of that a moment. A college man, with a surety company is not considered a better risk than a man who never attended college. But the college man who has engaged in athletics has proven to be a better risk.

If I were a professor I believe I would ponder over this late statement and give athletics a place in he curriculum as an integral part of a student's training.

IMAGINES HE IS AT GAME COACHES AND ROOTS

Edward Ashenbach, last year manager of the Syracuse baseball team of the New York State League, and at one time manager of the St. Paul, Minn. Association team, was committed to a detention hospital by Probate Judge Lozers of Cincinnati. Ascenbach returned to Cincinnati at the end of last season and acted as scout for the Cincinnati Club of the National League. He suffers the hallucination that he is constantly at a ball game, and continually cheers for the home tem and coaches the players.

A WONDERFUL LEAP

Remarkable Performance of Lars Haughen on Skis

Lars Haughen of the North Star Ski Club of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and brother of Anders Haughen, formerly champion professional ski runner of America, won the professional championship of the National Ski Tournament at the closing day of the meet at Gary, Ill. He made two jumps of 121 and 123 feet and scored .262 on form.

Haughen's leaps were negotiated beautifully. Sailing high he cleared all of the rough portion of the hill on both jumps and finished with pretty slides on the flat ground at the foot of the slope.

THE BLACKS BY THEMSELVES

All men are equal on the turf, except in South Carolina, if they are black men. The colored brother is not allowed to speculate in company with whites at the Charleston meeting, and the bookmaking arrangements provide a separate enclosure for him.

ABE ATTELL,

who has been barred from boxing in New York for six months for stalling in his bout with "Knockout" Brown. Jim Corbett is of the opinion that Attell was not in shape, and did his best under the circumstances.

An encouragingly large increase in business has decided the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to enlarge its Fort William elevators at a cost of $500,000. Construction is to be started at once, and according to present estimates, the work should be finished by August 15th. There will be built altogether 116 bins, giving an extra capacity of 2,592,500 bushels of grain, and this, bringing the total up to 6,000,000 bushels, will make them the largest elevators in the world.

DUSTBANE THE DUST KILLER

A handful in a line

WHEN YOU SWEEP absorbs the dust, brightens the floor and cleans the carpet.

One week free trial. Years for health, DUSTBANE.

ALL GROCERS

"Packed in Bbls., ½ Bbls. & ¼ Bbls. For use in stores offices and public Bldgs

For sale by, Peterboro Hardware Co

10c, 3 for 25

—THE—

FAMOUS BALED

HAVANA CIGARS

A Breatiful Pure Havana in Every Puff

Sold Everywhere

TRY THEM AND BE CONVINCED

Jose Gaste Co.

MNGRS. AND SOLE DISTRIBUTORS

LONDON, CANADA.

Grand Trunk Railway System — Canada's Double Track Line

WINTER RESORTS

Round Trip Tourist Tickets Now on Sale to All Principal Winter Resorts including

CALIFORNIA, MEXICO, FLORIDA, Etc.

The Attractive Route to

WESTERN CANADA

Is Via Chicago.

STEAMSHIP TICKETS ON SALE BY ALL LINES.

B. A. Rose, City Agent.

F. Sandy, Depot Agent.

The Home Bank of Canada

Head Office: TORONTO Seven Branches in Toronto

Branches and connections throughout Canada

British and Foreign Correspondents in all principal cities throughout the world.

WOMEN FOR GERMAN ARMY.

German woman are discussing a project launched at Dusseldorf for the establishment of feminine conscription. The proposal is that women shall be compelled to fo military service the same as men, particularly as nurses in war time and as helpers in the commissariat, transport and uniform departments of the army, both in peace and war. Such expressions as have been obtained from well known feminist leaders indicate only moderate enthusiasm for the scheme.

Lindsay Pastor on Church Union.

Rev. J. W. Wallace in the pulpit of St. Andrew's church, Lindsay, delivered strong sermons in favor of church union. In the morning he spoke on the theoretical and practical sides of the question, emphasizing particularly the practical reasons for support, and the inspiration received from a large body.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and Wiring

Your residence wired for Electric Light concealing all wires and not even marking your decorations, fully in accordance with the Canada Fire Underwriters rules.

Fixtures Wholesale to All

$2.00 OUR OWN FACTORY

Electrical Wiring & Fixture Co. $8.00

261 COLLEGE ST., TORONTO COR. SPADINA AVE.

PHONE COLLEGE 1878

The Original and only Genuine

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

English-French Capital

Capital furnished for sound American, Canadian and Mexican enterprises. Mining, Industrial, Timber and Manufacturing. Steam and Electric Railroads financed. Irrigation projects promoted. Substantial Stock, Bond or Debenture issues bought, sold or underwritten. Collections and Clearances made for Banks, Bankers and Trust Companies. Head Office London, Branch Paris. Correspondence invited.

DENT & BYRNE,

14-16-18 Bloomsbury Street, London England

New and Second Hand

Clothing, Boots, Rubbers Furniture, Stoves, Etc.

JAY'S STORE

390 Aylmer St. Phone 823

ASK FOR THE

ALES AND PORTER

OF

The DOMINION BREWERY CO., Limited

They are the home and present in the race here

The WHITE LABEL BRAND is a speciality

CHEW KING GEORGE'S

NAVY PLUG TOBACCO

KING QUALITY

MAJESTIC SIZE

VICTORIOUS PRICE

POPULAR EVERYWHERE

The Rock City Tobacco Co. Ltd.

WHITE STAR DOMINION

LARGEST STEAMERS FROM CANADA

WINTER SAILINGS

PORTLAND, ME. & LIVERPOOL

Via Halifax, Westbound

Teutonic Feb. 24; Mar. 30

Canada Mar. 9; April 6

Dominion Mar. 30

Rates, One Class Cabin (II), $47.50 and up; Third Class, British Points, $31.25 and up.

According to Steamer and Accommodation

Prepaid Tickets

If you are sending for friends to come out in the Spring, send them White Star Dominion Prepaid Tickets

Summer Sailings Season of 1912 Now Ready. Send for List

Local Agents—W. McIlroy, C.P.R. and B. A. Ross G. T. R.

Main Office, Montreal, P.Q.

KINGSTON & PEMBROKE RAILWAY

The best Route between Peterboro and Kingston

is via C.P.R., Sharbot Lake and K. & P. Ry.

Leave Peterboro at 11.26 a.m., arriving at Kingston at 3.55 p.m.

Leave Kingston at 12.01 noon, arriving at Peterboro 4.38 p.m.

F. CONWAY

Gen. Pass. Agent

TORONTO SAVINGS AND LOAN CO.

437 GEORGE ST., PETERBORO

PAID UP CAPITAL.....$1,000,000.00

RESERVE FUND..... 700,000.00

TOTAL ASSETS..... 3,500,549.00

Savings Department

3 1 PER CENT. paid Quarterly on 2 Deposits of One Dollar and upwards.

Interest accrues from date of deposit to date of withdrawal.

All Savings Accounts are subject to cheque withdrawal.

Debenture Department

4 PER CENT. per annum allowed on sums of $100.00 and upwards.

Debentures issued in terms of from one to five years with Half-yearly Coupons attached, representing interest at the above rate.

These Debentures are transferable by endorsement.

Money To Loan

Head Offices:

437 GEORGE ST., - PETERBORO

W. G. MORROW, Managing Director

PARLIAMENTARY PERQUISITES

Members of U. S. Congress Usually Travel Cheaply and Consequently Save Many Cents Per Mile on Allowances.

For each session of the U. S. Congress each member is allowed twenty cents a mile for each mile going and coming between his home and Washington. As railroad fares these times run about two cents a mile, and as the Hon. Jasper on his first trip generally spurns the Pullman, as being fit only for the predatory and plutocratic rich and rides in the day coach with the great common people, it will be seen that on this mileage item alone he cleans up to a considerable extent, especially if he chances to live a long distance from Washington. He gets twenty cents a mile. Every time eight telegraph poles go flittering by there are twenty cents coming in and only about two and a half cents going out. Here, of course, distance counts.

Mileage amounts to a most impressive sum in the case of Prince Cupid, the chubby delegate from the Hawaiian Islands, who comes all the way from Honolulu, and to practically nothing at all in the lamentable case of Representative Charles Creighton Carlin, who resides in Alexandria, right across the river from the district. One or two of the Maryland members, who live only a short distance away, also suffer distressingly in this regard, and are objects of commiseration among their fellows.

Hardly Encouraging.

He was fresh up from the country, and if there was a ruling passion in his life it was politeness. If such a [illegible] a passion.

All the days of his two-and-twenty years had been spent in imbibing the lesson that politeness is irresistible, that as a business asset its value is incalculable. He'd had politeness for breakfast, politeness for dinner, for tea, and for supper. Spring, summer, autumn, and winter it had been the same.

And now he was in London, looking for a job.

But, alas! he could find no job. Tired and despondent he tramped along.

Then suddenly he smiled. Surely if they only knew how polite he was he would be given a job at once.

The idea was immediately acted upon.

An affluent-looking old gentleman drew near. Up went a hand, and off into the gutter flew the old gent's hat.

Then began an exposition of the art of politeness. Picking up the hat he had so unceremoniously knocked off, the "polite" one carefully dusted and replaced it, and in a thousand different ways sought to render himself agreeable not forgetting to throw out hints that he desired a job.

And he succeeded. He got a job, [illegible] at it still. He is an [illegible]

Last night a George street merchant while crossing that thoroughfare slipped and fell. As he got up, and the sulphury atmosphere surrounding his remarks cleared away, he was heard to say "Did you see me fall? Did you hear the thud? It sounded like the explosion of dynamite in a crockery shop.

A commercial traveller yesterday remarked about a local hotel "Their Scotch contains just a trifle too much sulphuric acid and not enough bluestone!"

A Peterborough man coming out of a local bank yesterday remarked, "Who invented interest? I'll bet his forefathers lived in Jerusalem."

How many of our local men, married, for say, sixteen years, enjoy the Romeo and Juliet balcony scene?

GOOD-NIGHT

Professor (busy writing):—"What do you want now?"

Lazy:—"I only want to say 'good-night.'"

Professor:—"Never mind now; I'm busy. To-morrow morning will do just as well."

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMERS

WINTER SERVICE

ST. JOHN-HALIFAX-LIVERPOOL.

St. John— Halifax—

HESPERIAN

February 24th.

TUNISIAN

March 1st. March 2nd.

GRAMPIAN

March 9th.

VIRGINIAN

March 15th. March 16th.

BOSTON-PORTLAND-GLASGOW.

Boston— Portland—

SICILIAN

March 7th.

SCOTIAN

March 9th.

IONIAN

March 21st.

LAKE ERIE

March 28th.

RATES OF PASSAGE.

First Class — Liverpool Service, $72.50, $82.50.

Second Class—$47.50, $50.00, and $52.50.

Third Class—$30.25, $31.25, and $32.50.

(According to steamer and service)

For full particulars of summer sailings and rates, apply to—

W. McILROY, C.P.R. Agent. R. A. ROSE, G.T.R. Agent.

THE ALLAN LINE, TORONTO.

Back Full of Aches Headaches and Depression

MUCH OF WOMEN'S SUFFERIN IS NEEDLESS AND CAN BE PREVENTED BY THE USE OF DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

That Stab-like Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my hmbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys, and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me.

Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver bladder and kidney trouble. Refuse substitutes for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE MORNING TIMES

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY, 22, 1912

WHY HINDUS ARE HATED.

Now that the far Western Provinces are making such atremendous "todo" about the importation of Hindus to Canada. In the eastern provinces we are naturally not so much excited over the subject. Of course should the Sikhs enter this part of the Dominion in large numbers and compete with local labor, the east will wake up and object to the Hindu.

The sympathy to the movement of Hindus in Canada as has been manifested in this part of the country is the outcome of sympathy with our fellow-Canadians in British Columbia. We realize that it is in a very important sense a British Columbia question, a question in the settlement of which British Columbia sentiment and British Columbian interests ought to be the main consideration. And the evidence so far has been that in British Columbia the Hindu is persona non grata. Still a well known British Columbia editor represents the Sikhs as very worthy people, who have been sadly misrepresented, and their claim to be treated in all respects as British subjects is held to be sound and just. He declares that "the meaning of all this objection" is that the Sikhs have come to Canada, not like the Chinese and the Japanese, to make money and then go back home, but they have come to Canada to stay.

THE ROOSEVELT MEETING.

A few days ago eight Governors and representatives from twenty or more States met in Chicago and decided that they must have Roosevelt as their candidate to save the Republican party and the country from dire calamities. A memorial setting forth the views of the conference was sent to the busy man of Oyster Bay and asking for some expression from him. The conference also adopted a platform which declared that "all who desire prosperity with progress" ought to join in the demand for the nomination and election of Theodore Roosevelt. An overwhelming majority of the people desire prosperity and are firm believers in progress, but there are about seven millions of Democrats in the United States who will not consent to disband their party in order that they may unite with the Republicans who attended the Chicago conference in the demand for the nomination and election of Roosevelt.

"One word," remarks the Indianapolis News, "should be said about the composition of the conference. There were about seventy men in attendance, including the eight Governors. Thirteen delegates came from Illinois. New York and Pennsylvania were represented by one delegate each. Wisconsin and Iowa had no delegates. One, we believe came from Indiana. There was one man from Kansas in addition to Governor Stubbs. Ohio and Michigan were fairly well represented. The rest were 'scattering.'"

MOLESKIN AND LYNX.

Moleskin occupies a favored place in the fur world this season, and some charming models have been made with trimmings of other skins. For example, above coat is trimed with bands of [illegible] on sleeve ends.

WHEN TO WED

There is a little verse which instructs lovers as to when they should wed:—

Marry when the year is new,
Always loving, kind and true;
When February birds do mate,
You may wed, nor dread your fate;
If you wed when March winds blow,
Joy and sorrow both you'll know;
Marry in April when you can,
You will surely rue the day:
Marry when June roses blow,
Over land and sea you'll go;
They who in July do wed,
Must labor always for their bread;
Whoever wed in August be,
Many changes are sure to see;
Marry in September's shine,
Your living will be rich and fine;
If in October you do marry,
Love will come, but riches tarry;
If you wed in bleak November,
Only joy will come, remember;
When December's snows fall fast,
Marry and true love will last.

MADRID'S BEAUTIFUL PALACE

The Royal Palace at Madrid is one of the most beautiful structures in the world. It was built at a cost of $5,000,000, and was intended to rival the famous palace at Versailles. Of white marble, it is 470ft. each way with a court 240ft. square, roofed with glass.

ATHLETICS SPOIL WOMEN'S FIGURES

A Declaration of Artists Who Have Excited Hot Discussion in England

The deterioration in the beauty of woman's figure, consequent upon the present craze for athletics, is exciting a hot controversy in England, while medical men are condemning in strong terms the modern girl's overindulgence in hockey.

The discussion has arisen out of the declaration of Louis Potter, the well-known American sculptor, that the changes in the female form have been so great that woman does not now in any way resemble the Greek type. Consequently English artists are finding it more and more difficult to find suitable models. "The new figure," says a well-known associate of the Royal Academy, "is full of knotty bunches of muscles instead of soft, fleshy curves, and though this muscular development is beautiful in man it is not so in woman. To the artist the over-developed woman is an atrocity in the aesthetic sense."

The result is that artists and sculptors now have to rely more on her creative ability than ever before. As Frank Brangwyn points out, it is still possible to get models who are perfectly developed, but the supply is running short.

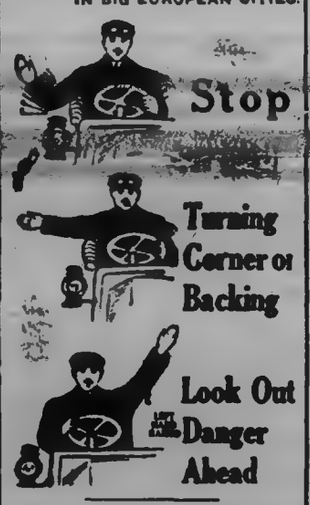
A far more serious objection to the growing athleticism of woman comes from physicians and women presidents of girl's colleges.

"Hockey is neither healthy nor graceful," said the head of a great London girls' school. "A growing girl who plays this game for an hour, four or five days a week, is almost bound to show curvature of the spine after a year or so."

One of the best medical experts also declares that "the tendency at hockey is to put strain on the muscles that ought not to be trained in young girls and women." But such games as cricket, lacrosse, and tennis are favored by most authorities when played in moderation.

The outcry in England is not against physical exercise for women, but against the undue indulgence in it. Keen observers of present-day tendencies interpret woman's too hearty indulgence in mannish sports as tending to produce a sexless girl, flat footed, and ungraceful. This, say the critics, is due to the craving of "the gentler sex" for complete equality with men, and accounts for the growing indifference to household duties noticeable in certain sections of modern Englishwomen.

SUGGESTIONS FOR MOTORISTS IN BIG EUROPEAN CITIES.



TRAINING LESS STRENUOUS

So Says Lawson Robertson, Famous Trainer and Coach

At a recent gathering of certain members of the athletic fraternity of New York, Lawson Robertson, trainer and coach of the Irish-American Club, started the gathering by making the statement that sprinters do not have to train as diligently for indoor running as they do when they are preparing to compete in the open

"There is a very logical reason for making this statement," he said, "but first it must be understood that when I say sprinters I do not include any who run more than 150 yards. Above that distance it is largely a test of endurance as well as speed, and therefore those runners must train just as diligently for running on the board floors as if they were conditioning themselves for races on cinder paths.

"In the first place, one of the most serious things sprinters have to combat is the wind. Indoors, of course, there is no wind, and, since speed is not impaired by any outside force, so much energy is not required. Then, too, there is more elasticity to board floors than there is to cinder paths. Another reason is the fact that the runner does not have to take into consideration weather conditions. While preparing for dashes in the pen an athlete is compelled to be ready to use every ounce of energy that he can gather at any time, for he can never tell when the track may be heavy."

$125,000 FOR A HORSE

Mr. August Belmont's Flint Rock, the winner of the Dominion Handicap at Fort Erie last summer, will be sent to France to head his breeding establishment in Normandy. Flint Rock is a son of the Two Thousand, Derby and St. Leger winner Rock Sand. For this horse Mr. Belmont paid $125,000. And English breeders were very anxious for his return to that country to take the place of Isinglass

ONE TO BRIDGET

A lady had in her employ an [illegible] girl who had one fault—[illegible] was always grimy. Mrs. [illegible] to tell her to wash her face [illegible] attending her, at last [illegible] expostulated.

"Do you know, Bridget," she remarked in a confidential manner, "that if you wish your face every day in hot soap and water, it will make you beautiful."

"Will it, mum?" [illegible] "I'll get it. [illegible] tried it, mum."

ATTRACTIVE DRESS BODICE

Crepe de chine or any of the soft materials makes up beautifully in a bodice of this sort. Yoke and stock are of all-over lace and the buttons are velvet-covered, to match the girdle, which is trimmed with pointed satin bands. Despite the fact that one sees numerous trimmed skirts, most of the best makers advise plain skirts, and after all they are more stylish and stay in fashion longer longer than those with decorations.

ELECTRIC HEATER

It took three Michigan men to design the electric heater here shown. But when they were through they had an apparatus that can be put up in any room of the house in a few minutes. A circular stand with four legs forms the bottom part. On this rests a steel plate of horseshoe shape with two projections on the ends upon which the electric wires are plugged to provide the current. The third part of the apparatus consists of a cylindrical chamber with a top and closed at the bottom, that forms the heater proper. This chamber fits on the stand, and a centre rod runs through the centre of the stand and is clamped in place, holding the affair together. This device can be used not only to take the chill off the bathroom or any other room before the heater is started in the cellar, or it can be used as a stove to heat food that does not require a very hot fire.

Can be Used as a Stove

OYSTER PATTIES.

Open a quart of oysters, strain the liquor into a basin, and add to it half a pint of milk and two well-beaten eggs; stir in by degrees flour enough to make a smooth, but rather thin, batter; when perfectly free from lumps put the oysters in it. Have some beef dripping or butter made hot in a very clean frying-pan, and season with a little salt, and when it is boiling drop in the batter with a large spoon, putting one or more oysters in each spoonful. Hold the pan over a gentle fire until one side of the batter is a delicate brown; turn each fritter separately, and when both sides are done place them on a hot dish, and serve.

FOR THE STOVE.

Always keep a small whisk broom for cleaning the gas-stove. It removes all the dirt and dust from the cracks and crevices, and makes it much easier to keep clean. The whisk should be thoroughly washed every day in warm soapy water.

When choosing new wallpaper for a room remember that large patterns and dark colors will make the room appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light color, will make the room appear much larger than it really is.

If the pockets in suits of clothes are made of chamois leather the life of them will be twice as long as when made in the ordinary way, more especially when keys have to be carried in them.

THE IMMORTAL WILLIAM

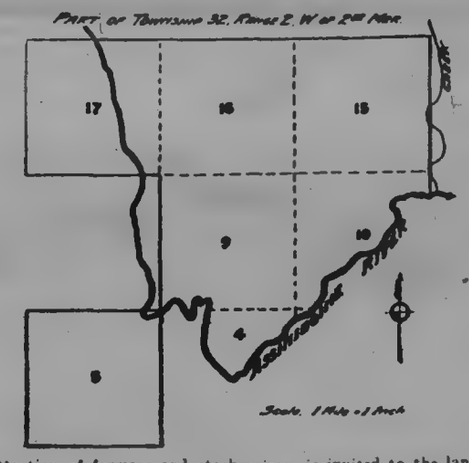
A motorist was stopped by a policeman, the light on his car being insufficient. He gave his card to the constable.

"G. B. Smith," read the man in blue. "Go on with you!" he exclaimed, "I want your proper name and address. We've too many Smiths about here. Now, look sharp!"

"Then," said the motorist, "if you must have it, it's William Shakespeare, Stratford-on-Avon."

"Thank you, sir," replied the policeman. "Sorry to have troubled you." And he carefully entered the particulars in his book.

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN AND RANCH LANDS



The attention of farmers and stock raisers is invited to the lands shown in the above plan.

The lands are situate in the Port Pelly District, Northern Saskatchewan, long known as probably the richest farming district in the Province. The parcel, which contains approximately 3,681 ACRES in one compact block, is watered on the west and south sides by the Assiniboine River, and by a large creek on the east. It is well wooded, thus assuring as well as evidencing ample rainfall, and plentiful supply of cheap fuel. It is undulating and well drained, having an elevation above the river, and rising gradually from it to a height of about 60 feet, and provides many beautiful residential sites.

In the advantages it offers for mixed farming it is unique, there being some 2,400 acres clear and ready for the plow, while the balance consists of timber and excellent pasture land, admirably suited to stock-raising. The soil is a rich, black loam, from 8 to 10 inches in thickness, resting on a clay subsoil, except along the river, where it is arich sandy loam. Crops produced on similar neighboring lands are phenomenal for their quantity and quality.

The location is within ten miles of Mikado Station, on the main line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, of the Canadian Northern Railway, with good trails leading to it, and within a short distance of a school. While the settlement going on in the neighborhood is rapidly adding all the adjuncts of an up-to-date farming community.

This is an opportunity for a man with capital, business ability and practical experience. Such a man should clear his whole investment, including all improvements and equipment, in four or five years at the outside. And now is the time to purchase, as the price will shortly be advanced $5.00 per acre. Experienced men predict this land will be worth $50.00 per acre within ten years. Lands immediately adjoining, which last spring could have been bought for $14.00, are held to-day at $20.00 and $25.00 per acre.

We are also offering some 1,100 acres additional, in separate parcels of three half sections, and one quarter sections, situate in the same locality as above.

These lands were selected for the excellence of their location and the magnificent quality of their soil, which latter the official records of the Indian Agency demonstrate.

Prices, Terms and all Particulars may be had on application

F. J. BULLOCK & CO.

207 Colborne Street BRANTFORD, ONT.

VERY PRACTICAL ARITHMETIC

Mental arithmetic on a melting day—and while the cool river gleamed tantalizingly from the [illegible] window! No wonder that small minds grew confused under the strain, and small calculators calculated with even smaller success.

"Now, boys," said the jovial dominie, who was himself aching for a swim, "here's your last problem today. See if any of you can get it right. Suppose I have a piece of beefsteak."

The boys supposed it obediently.

"And suppose I cut it into sixteen parts. What would you call those pieces?"

"Sixteenths!" piped a dozen voices.

"Right!" exclaimed the dominie. "And suppose each of these pieces were cut again into four pieces, what would they be?"

A dead, awful silence reigned, while the small brains worked desperately. Suddenly a hand was held up, and one of the lightning calculators cried:

"Hash!"

VARIETY

Seaside Visitor:—"What do you do here in the summer?"

Shoreman:—"We loaf and fish."

Seaside Visitor:—"And what do you do in the winter?"

Shoreman:—"We don't fish."

APPLICANTS' REFERENCES

Prospective Employer (perusing references):—"Have you any knowledge of the silk and satin department?"

Applicant:—"Spent all my life among 'em, sir."

Prospective Employer:—"And sheets and blankets?"

Applicant (forcibly):—"Born among 'em, sir."

RAILWAY MANNERS

First Passenger (irritably):—"Where are your eyes?"

Second Passenger (pleasantly):—"In my head."

First Passenger:—"Well, can't you see my feet?"

Second Passenger (more pleasantly):—"No, you have shoes on."

WASTED ENERGY

Flushed and breathless, the well-dressed young man picked up the hat he had been chasing down the street, and leaned against a lamp-post to rest.

Another, also breathing heavily, came running up and took the hat out of his hand.

"I'm much obliged," he said.

"For what?"

"This is my hat."

"Where's mine, then?"

"Hanging behind you at the end of a string."

THE PERFECTION OF - PROFIT -

is found in an investment that gives large and quick returns.

STOCKS AND BONDS pay dividends at stated intervals.

PROVIDING YOU HAVE MADE a wise selection, your real estate will pay you a profit at any time. AND THE AMOUNT of that profit will be in proportion to your wisdom.

BOULEVARD HEIGHTS, the well known residential subdivision of MOOSG JAW, Saskatchewan, is already paying large returns to the careful investors who investigated the property and acted quickly on their information.

THE PURCHASER OF LOT 12 BLOCK 29 invested $80. He has resold at a profit of $180.

THE PURCHASER OF LOT 12 BLOCK 41 has realized $120 on an outlay of $90.

LOT 17 BLOCK 132 PAID THE OWNER $140 on an investment of $90 in 35 days.

THE CITY ASSESSOR OF MOOSE JAW has paid the owner of lots 5, 6, 7, block 34 a bonus of $180 in order to secure his property. The amount invested being $270.

THESE FEW EXAMPLES are sufficient to prove the large and quick returns being made in BOULEVARD HEIGHTS.

AND THE MOVEMENT IS BUT JUST BEGUN. MANY FIRST CLASS SITES still remain for sale. See us at once and make your selection.

Canadian City & Town Properties Ltd

284 PORTAGE AVENUE - - WINNIPEG

TORONTO, 130 Bay Street. MOOSE JAW, 15 Main Street.

RELIABLE REPRESENTATIVE WANTED.

MacDougal Bros.

Stock and Bond Brokers. Members Montreal Stock Exchange

9 St Sacrament St. Montreal

Advertise in the Times

YOUR BLOOD IS TAINTED

ULCERS, BOILS, SWOLLEN GLANDS, BLOTCHES, PIMPLES, AND ALL SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES ARE COMPLETELY CURED BY THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT

We desire to call the attention of all those afflicted with any Blood or Skin Disease to our New Method Treatment as a guaranteed cure for these complaints. There is no excuse for any person having a disfigured face from eruptions and blotches. No matter whether hereditary or acquired, our specific remedies and treatment neutralize all poisons in the blood and expel them from the system. Our vast experience in the treatment of thousands of the most serious and complicated cases enables us to perfect a cure without experimenting. We do business on the plan—Pay Only for the Benefit You Derive. If you have any blood disease consult us Free of Charge and let us prove to you how quickly our remedies will remove a [illegible] case. Under the influence of the New Method Treatment the skin becomes clear, ulcers, pimples and blotches heal up, enlarged glands are reduced, fallen out hair grows in again, the eyes become bright, ambition and energy return, and the victim realizes a new life has opened up to him

YOU CAN ARRANGE TO PAY AFTER YOU ARE CURED

CONSULTATION FREE

Send for Booklet on Diseases of Men "THE GOLDEN MONITOR" FREE

If unable to call, write for a Question List for Home Treatment

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY

Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows: DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.

Write for our private address.

The Natural Wealth Of The West

Get a Share of the Good Things on the Ground Floor Basis

In bringing before the public of Eastern Canada an idea of the natural wealth of the West we are only carrying out a business proposition, and in doing so are animated solely by the desire of offering you a share of the good things on a ground floor basis. With the assurance of a little of your money we can make some for ourselves and a great deal or you because we have the unexploited natural wealth.

The man who staked our oil land is a pioneer of British Columbia, and for some years past has been living with his family on Graham Island, the most northerly of Queen Charlotte Group, and was in a position to select with care and under experienced advice, the richest oil bearing land, as well as being on a deep water harbor.

The mining of petroleum has for the past forty years been the direct cause and means of making more multi-millionaires on this continent than any other industry into which the same amount of money has been invested. We own 3200 acres of land on which the surface's indications (oil seepages) and geologic conditions are such that it is as near as possible certain that at a comparatively shallow depth there is unlimited quantities of oil of a high grade, as is evidenced by the analysis of the samples collected from the seepage.

WEST ASSAY WORKS,
Office, 615 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C., August 1st, 1911.

Assay Sample Seepage Oil Received from F. G. Raney

Specific Gravity at 60° F.	0.8505
Light Oil	94.00% S.G. 0.7844 at 60° F.
Heavy Oil	0.50%
Coke	3.00
Loss	2.50
	100.00

Assayed by
(Signed) G. WEST,
Provincial Assayer.

Are you satisfied with Three Per Cent. or will you trust your judgment to grasp a chance and make more money?
Will you merely exist or will you risk a little and live in luxury?
No man grows rich from Savings Bank Interest or the income from Government Bonds.

No man grows rich unless he saves something and invests it wisely

A new use is found for oil almost every day. The older fields are being superseded by the new. Of the old fields none are more promising than Graham Island.

Otard Bay Oil & Coal Company

Authorized Capital, $1,000,000

Right in the best of the Oil Territory, close to the excellent harbor of Otard Bay this Company has five sections, (3,200 acres). You see the nearby field of California as an example of the wealth that oil yields, $40,000,000 in dividends last year. Look into this opportunity. Get all the information you can, and get it at once. It is our business to help you get information. We leave it to you to come into the Company or not, as you please.

Galloway & Garman Sole Agents for OTARD BAY OIL CO. Ltd.

134 Hastings Street, W., Vancouver, B.C.

Cut out and mail this coupon:

MESSRS. GALLOWAY & GARMAN,
134 Hastings Street, West,
Vancouver, B. C.

GENTLEMEN:

I want the details so that I may judge whether Otard Bay Oil and Coal Co. Ltd., is a good investment. Will you kindly submit this information, understanding that I obligate myself to you in no way.

Name .....

Address .....

INTERNATIONAL BOXING

Bombardier Wells Beats Storbeck at the London Club

At the National Sporting Club, London, England, Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight champion, met Fred Storbeck, the South African heavyweight, and defeated him in the eleventh round, the stakes and purse money amounting to more than $5,000. A marked contrast was presented by the men when they entered the ring. Wells bearing himself in his usual upright position, and apparently towering above his opponent by reason of Storbeck adopting the style of Will Papke—that is to say, Storbeck would walk up to Wells, with his (Storbeck's) body at right angles to his legs. By this means Storbeck made it very difficult for so tall a man as Wells to land a punch with anything like severity.

Wells's Clever Tactics

It was much like Wells trying to punch an eight-year-old boy. Crude as these tactics seemed to appear to some loud-voiced onlookers, they were very wise, for it was obvious in the first round that Storbeck could not have lived with Wells if the contest had been boxed out on orthodox lines.

Storbeck, from his stooping position, slung up all sorts of blows that looked ridiculous when Wells, agile as a featherweight, withdrew out of distance, and there could be no two opinions as to the result when Wells, with fine, straight hits, sent Storbeck's head back with smart blows on the nose and mouth. When Storbeck stood upright Wells hit the South African every time that he (the English champion) punched.

No one realised this more completely than Storbeck, who, with splendid daring, dropped his head down and bored in on Wells's fists. People looked and wondered why Wells did not hit harder, but those who wondered failed to realise that the closer Storbeck's head got to Wells the less severe was the blow. By pushing his head forward Storbeck converted the blows of Wells into pushes rather than punches.

Storbeck Severely Punished

The number of times that Wells hit Storbeck was almost uncountable, but the Englishman could not hit with sufficient force to be completely effective until the ninth round. That ninth round was the keynote to the contest. By that time Wells had discovered that by jab-jab-jabbing with the left he could force Storbeck to drop guard, leaving an opening for a severe, stinging upper-cut. Thus, when Storbeck's low-lying head had been prodded by Wells's left three times, the South African thought a move would be wise. When the move came, and Storbeck's head was lifted, Wells sent a ripping, tearing right upper-cut to the face.

This move was repeated on five occasions in the ninth round, and those upper-cuts were the settling of the bout. At the end of that round Storbeck was very weary, for he had tired himself by punching very frequently at Wells's and landing on nothing, and he was bothered with the painful frequency of Wells's left-hand hits.

A Beaten Man

While people shouted to Wells to hit, [illegible] tenth round he tried the left prods and the right upper-cut, with the result that Storbeck was sent to the floor, and took nine seconds' rest, and was much relieved to hear the bell go at the end of that time.

In the eleventh Wells repeated his winning tactics, and Storbeck, one of the most plucky men who ever boxed, was forced to take the count. Even when the timekeeper declared the contest over Storbeck got on to his feet, and looked as if he would like to continue, but he was helped back into his seat, and had to submit to a superior boxer.

Wells's victory was received with great enthusiasm.

Headaches Over the Eyes Mean Frontal Catarrh

APT TO GET INTO EARS, CAUSING DEAFNESS, OR TO REACH THE LUNGS AND END IN CONSUMPTION.

You Can Cure Catarrh in Any Stage by Breathing the Healing, Balsamic Fumes of Catarrhozone, and Here is Proof.

Mr. Uric Berault, a young gentleman who has lived for years in Sweetsburg, Que., inherited catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected, and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

"Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Everyone in town knows I was just about dead with catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

Two months' treatment, large size, price $1, and guaranteed. Small size, 50c., all reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont. Beware of dangerous substitutes and imitations for "Catarrhozone."

BREAD CRUMBS FOR HAIR.

Bake some stale bread (crusts will do) in the oven until hard and of a nice golden colour. Afterwards, roll the bread into fine crumbs. They should be kept in a closely fitting tin or bottle, ready for use.

WHEN TO MARRY

January's brides are likely to become widows early.

February brides will have very happy married lives.

March brides will probably make their homes abroad.

April's brides will have lives of change, and experience many ups and downs.

May brides will entertain many strangers.

June brides will find life a long honeymoon.

July brides have bitter sweet memories.

August brides are lucky in finding a real friend in their husbands.

September brings a smooth and serene future to its brides.

[illegible] gives a future of [illegible]

November brides will be happy, and those who, according to the rhyme, marry "in December's cheer," will find that "Love's star burns brighter from year to year."

CHIC THEATRE CAP FOR YOUNG GIRL

Theatre caps will be popular as ever, and even more, 'tis said, for young girls, and a charming model is shown in above sketch. The design is extremely simple and may be readily followed by the clever girl. White lace and large pink velvet roses, with natural foliage, is a pretty and youthful combination.

USES FOR SALT

A pinch of salt on the tongue, followed by a drink of cold water, will cure sick headache.

It hardens the gums and makes the teeth white.

By adding a little salt to the water, cut flowers may be kept fresh much longer.

By using very fine, dry salt as one would snuff for colds, hay fever may be relieved.

A shallow teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a cupful of hot water will revive an unconscious person quicker than brandy or whiskey.

Salt and pineapple juice will cure mild cases of gastritis.

Salt added to water in which coloured glasses are washed will prevent fading.

Smooth flatirons by rubbing over dry salt.

Prince George Hotel
TORONTO, ONTARIO

250 rooms, 100 with private bath. Newly furnished throughout. American and European plan.

RATES—European plan, $1.50 per day and upwards. American plan, $2.50 per day and upwards.

Samuel H. Thomson, Proprietor

O'K

The Food Drink

Many people drink O'Keefe's "Special Extra Mild" Ale solely for its food properties. Being brewed of finest hops and malt, it contains all the body and brain building elements of these grains. It is because we use the best, that is so rich and creamy—so thoroughly enjoyable—as well as so nutritious and wholesome. It's "extra mild" remember, and never makes you bilious. In Crown stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

O'Keefe's

Special Extra Mild ALE

"The Beer that is 22B always O.K."

J. M. BROOKS & CO DISTRIBUTORS

416 WATER STREET, PETERBOROUGH, ONT. PHONE 61

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, for Canada, $3.75 a year, postage prepaid. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Wilson's Invalids' Port

(A la Quina du Perou)

is unique in the treatment of

Faulty and Imperfect Nutrition

when the digestion of heavy foods is weak or even absent.

It is an appetizer before meals, and after meals it renders digestion easy and assimilation certain. It is a delicious tonic at all times.

Big Bottle. Ask YOUR Doctor.

A BISHOP IN A DONKEY CART

When he was Suffragan Bishop [illegible] and North-West London, England, the Bishop of Marlborough was one day seen riding in a costermonger's barrow through a London district. He was due to hold a confirmation, but on arriving at the railway-station he found that no conveyance to the church could be obtained. To walk the distance was impossible. The perplexed Bishop was about to abandon the appointment, when the humble costermonger's cart appeared. With sudden decision the matter was arranged, the Bishop scrambled on to the cart, the costermonger whipped up his donkey, and the episcopal chariot rattled through the High Street to its destination.

WATER FOR PRINCE RUPERT

City Engineer Thompson, of Seattle has been engaged to consult with Engineer Davis regarding a new waterworks for Prince Rupert, to cost $400,000. He believes enough water is in Woodworth Lake to supply at least 700,000 people, and if the water from the Shawatlan River is drawn from, there is enough water to supply a million people.

CARIBOU IN THE WEST

Caribou are stated to have haunted Lake Athabaska in greater numbers than for some years. It is believed the excessive cold led them to take shelter in the thick timber fringing the northern shore of the lake.

FINDS GOUT MICROBE

Chickens with the gout form a novel exhibit of the Pasteur Institute. The chickens so afflicted are believed to mark a distinct forward step in the study of the germ theory, because Professor Metchnikoff believes he has succeeded in isolating a microbe responsible for this most painful ailment. The chickens were fed on a diet of hot stuff, and this food caused the decreased growth of certain microbes in the intestines, and produced swelling of the joints just as occurs in gout in the human being. Prof. Metchnikoff is also convinced that the absorption of poisons from these same microbes of the intestines is the cause of degeneration of the organs of the body, usually ascribed to old

THE CHARGE OF THE WELCOME BRIGADE

"Bills to the right of us,
Bills to the left of us,
Bills that are ruinous!"
Papa dear thundered.
"Frightful, the charge they made!
Senseless the price you paid!"
Then on the table laid,
Cheque for six hundred!

CHAUFFEURS AND CHARITY

"I wish some time, Mr. Speeder," said the doctor, "that you would bear our hospital in mind, and, if it appeals to you, do something for it."

"Great Scot! Squills," retorted Speeder, "why can't you be satisfied? That new chauffeur of mine has contributed at least two patients a day to your old charity. What more do you want?"

HE WAS TOO LATE

The reporter from the local paper called at the home of the bride's parents the day after the wedding. The bride's mother met him at the door.

"Good morning, Mrs. Brown," smiled the journalist. "I have called to get some details of the wedding."

"Oh, goodness! that's too bad!" replied the matron, in dismay. "They're all gone. You ought to have come last night. They ate up every scrap!"

STRAINING HIMSELF

Percy:—"What do you think about your doctor's advice to take physical exercise, dear boy?"

Cholly:—"I'm cawwying a heavier walking stick, and I wear a larger button-hole bouquet."

Don't look the other way
when your Grocer tries to Show you
Why you should use

Eddy's Washboards

They are Not the Ordinary Washboards with the "Rough-on-clothes-and-you" kind of Crimp. They are Something Better.

POSITIVELY PERSIST IN GETTING EDDY'S

Always, Everywhere in Canada Ask for EDDY'S MATCHES

JIMMY PRESTON,

a well-known Toronto hockey player who will be kept out of the game all season because of injuries received in a basketball game at London.

A Hangman Resigns.

News come from Sydney that the hangman has resigned his position. It seems that seven death sentences have been commuted recently by the Labour Government, and as the executioner would have gained $50 in the case of each malefactor, as a special remuneration, he doubtless considers that his emoluments have been trifled with. His fixed wage was $10 a week, whether anybody was to be hanged or not. He may have suffered from monotony, for, in his three years' service, he had not operated in a single instance

A LOCKED NEST

One usually thinks of a bird's nest as an open, cup-shaped contrivance, or a mere platform of bare twigs, or a cushion of grass and moss; but there are many forms of nest almost completely covered in. Perhaps the most extraordinary of all nests is that of the hornbill, which is a complete fortress in itself. As a rule, the hornbills build their nests in holes in tree-trunks. As soon as the eggs are laid and the mother bird commences to sit, the male hornbill locks his whole family securely in the home by plastering up the front of the nest, with a thick herd wall of mud, leaving only a very small opening through which food may be passed. Thus he protects them from danger.

More clothes are rubbed out than worn out. GOLD DUST saves rubbing and saves your clothes

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form. The GOLD DUST TWINS need no outside help.

GOLD DUST lathers instantly in hot or cold, hard or soft water—converts itself instantly into thick, vigorous suds that remove grease, grime and settled stains and clear out germs and impurities. It leaves only cleanliness and wholesomeness in their wake.

GOLD DUST spares you and protects your clothes from washboard wear.

Save yourself long hours of weary, dreary toil, and double the life of your clothes by buying and trying a package of GOLD DUST next wash-day.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5¢ size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

"KUNTZ LAGER"

Bottled at the Brewery

For health's sake have it in your Home

"Always the Same"

"GOOD OLD KUNTZ"

P. J. R. MITCHELL, George St. PETERBORO

H. A. MIDDLETON, Agent LINDSAY.

Smokeless Coal Oil

If you want a clear white light, entirely free from smoke and odour, try o

American Smokeless Oil at 18c. per gallon

Superior to anything on the market at any price.

ORDINARY AMERICAN OIL,	15c.	per gallon
CANADIAN COAL OIL -	12½c.	" "
GASOLINE - - - -	20c.

Delivered free in any quantity to any part of the city.

CHINA CEMENT CO.

163 CHARLOTTE ST.

MACFARLANE WILSON, Manager.

Oils, Soaps and Cements Wholesale and Retail.

IF ITS PRINTING YOU WANT

THEN THE TIMES JOB ROOMS IS THE PLACE TO HAVE IT DONE

Any kind of a job won't suit the 20th Century business man—it must be set up and printed in such a manner that it possesses an individuality that cannot fail to make an impression on the person who reads it.

In the Times Job Rooms the general appearance of the finished job is carefully studied, for it is that which counts when it comes to satisfying the customer.

Phone 164 and ask for our representative to call on you.

It pays the purchaser to get perfect printing.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY

Times Building,

141 Hunter St. - - Peterborough, Ont.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Enter by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate 50 acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Employment Agency and REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to employ all kind of labor—any position filled either for women or men. My experience with lumber "Jacks" and others entitle me to first place.

REAL ESTATE HANDLED

Come and see me if you want a good house and own it yourself.

$1100, EASY TERMS

Watch for Cards in Window

GEO. J CHALMERS

No 189 Simcoe Street
Next Kingan Hardware Company

THE FLAVOR

and purity of our beer wins many friends. No expense is spared in the brewing and bottling.

Calcutt's Lager Beer Ale and Porter

costs you no more than you have often paid for inferior kinds. If you would get the best results drink Calcutt's.

20,000 Bushels Barley Wanted. Highest price paid at Brewery for well cleaned Barley.

CALCUTT BREWING AND MALTING CO

VERY ABSENT-MINDED

On the stage Sir Herbert Tree can be alert enough on occasion. Off it he is absent-minded. Sir Herbert took a taxi, and gave the driver the address. Throughout the journey he was reading letters, and when the house he was going to was reached the cab stopped and the driver came and opened the door. Still reading, Sir Herbert looked up abstractedly and said to the amazed chauffeur: "Come in! Come in!"

DEMAND FOR LIGHT HORSES

The demand for all light horses of approved style and breeding is keen in the Old Country, and prices rule very high at the London sales. Among the sales at Tattersall's were twenty horses which brought prices ranging from $590 to $1,070 each and in a list of forty in the same sale, the lowest price was $265.

English Methods of Newspaperdom.

As a sample of the up-to-date newspaper methods pursued in England, it might be noted that the Times yesterday received a big three-colored bill describing the meeting held by Winston Churchill, in Ireland a few weeks ago. This bill was supposed to have been hung out in front of the office, but quickly was swallowed by the hungry jaws of the waste paper basket. We may expect next week to get a bill to advertise the fact that William the Conqueror landed in England in the year 1066, or that Julius Caesar conquered the Gauls a few years ago.

Rev. Henry Cullen, D.D., of Midland, South Dakota, is visiting Mr. George McKee, Murray street. Rev. Dr. Cullen is a former resident of Smith township.

The Rev. Dr. Symonds, vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, who has been away from the city in quest of health for four months, returned on Saturday and occupied his own pulpit on Sunday last.—Montreal Witness.

COSTGRAVES Pale Ale

produces health, appetite and vigor. If you are used to the best COSGRAVES is the only Ale that will satisfy you.

At all Hotels and Dealers.

Cosgrave's Brewery Co OF TORONTO, CANADA

LEGAL

G. N. GORDON

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary Public and Conveyancer.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Offices upstairs, 1st door south of Madill's Drug Store.

Phone 819. 379½ GEORGE ST.

RUDDY & BURNHAM

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc.

Offices 379 Water St., Peterborough

MONEY TO LOAN

Robt. Ruddy, K. C.
J. H. Burnham, M. A.

DENNISTOUN, FROST & KERR, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries, Etc., 115 Water Street. R. A. Frost, R. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr.

A. E. DIXON, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR etc., Office corner Hunter and George Streets. Entrance next to Madill's Drug Store.

HALL, MEDD & DAVIDSON, SUCCESSORS to Stratton & Hall, Barristers, Solicitors, etc., Peterborough, Ont., Office, corner of Hunter and Water Streets, over Canadian Bank of Commerce. R. S. Hall, S. T. Medd, W. S. Davidson

MEDICAL SPECIALISTS.

DR. E. A. HAMMOND

LATE ASSISTANT WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, London, England; National Hospital, St. John's Hall, Montreal, Etc. Also of Hamilton.

SPECIAL—Disease of Heart, Skin and Stomach.

OFFICE—343 Water Street. Bell Phones: Office 463, House 1301.

HARRIS is true to its reputation as the HEAVY BEST BABBITT METAL PRESSURE For all general machinery bearings

The Canada Metal Co., Limited

Fraser Avenue, Toronto

A FAIR OFFER

It was a political meeting in the East during the last recess, and the M. P., an exceptionally peculiar man, was addressing his constituents. The politician in question rejoices in a luxuriant crop of hair. The audience was sympathetic for the most part; but there was one man in the front row of the audience who made numerous interruptions. He was a coal-heaver, apparently, and had but recently been handling coals.

"Get your hair cut!" he shouted during a most pathetic passage in the candidate's speech. The well-known catch phrase seemed particularly applicable, so a good many of the audience laughed.

But the M.P. was equal to the occasion.

"I will make a bargain with that gentleman," he said. "I will get my hair cut if he will get his face washed."

There were no more interruptions.

Brannigan: "What's the matter, Conkin?"

Conkin: "Matter enough. You owe some time ago I assigned all my property to my wife to keep it out of the hands of some of people I owe money, you know?"

"Yes."

"Well, she's taken the money and gone off — says she won't live with me because I swindled my creditors."

Used Slipper on a Bad Boy.

Last night at about 9.10, a boy passed along Brock street. He noticed that there was a thaw and that the snow was moist. He gathered up a big handful and patted it into a compact ball. That snowball quickly wended its way through the front window of a local merchant's store. Alas! and alack! the merchant's wife is somewhat of a sprinter, saw the boy, the act and heard the crash of broken glass. Within three minutes, skirts held high, she had captured this snowball marksman. She dragged him into the house and (so report reached us) there came the steady and loud patter of a slipper, and the slipper was no fancy creation, such as credited to Cinderella. This was for all concerned and easier solution of the trouble than a case in the police court.

MADE A JOURNAL

A Merry "Ad." That Set All Australia Laughing at a Premier and Made a Mission Ridiculous.

Although the affair happened over thirty years ago, Australia still chuckles when the name of Henderson Africanus is mentioned; for it calls to mind the biggest joke ever perpetrated 'down under' — a joke which made all Australia laugh, covered a Premier with ridicule, and firmly established the reputation of the 'Melbourne Punch.'

The joke arose through Premier Berry, of Victoria, being defeated by the Upper House in his effort to change its constitution. He thereupon conceived the idea of sending an embassy to England to persuade the Imperial Government towards his scheme of reforming. The 'Melbourne Punch,' however, announced that, as there was to be an embassy, both sides should be represented, and promptly proceeded to appoint a "mock embassy" on its own account.

As Proud as a Peacock.

After due deliberation (says the 'Newspaper Owner'), the rival "ambassador" was chosen in Henderson Africanus, a full-blooded West Indian negro, who could talk politics by the league.

He was hired at $1.50 a day, and dressed in the worst-fitting and blackest suit that could be obtained in Melbourne. On his head was a fantastical top-hat half a yard high. In his pocket was a huge brass watch, and across his aldermanic stomach swung a brass chain large enough to tether a steam-engine. Dressed in this absurd raiment, and as proud as a peacock, Henderson paraded Melbourne, a delighted crowd following him wherever he went. The whole thing was a most extravagant travesty. Of course the nigger took himself seriously as the chief figure in the political pantomime.

A Splendid Circulat on-Raiser.

"That Mr. Berry, sah, he have his private secretary, sah. Henderson Africanus want a private secretary, too," was his request to 'Punch's' delighted management, and a secretary he was given. The biggest, dirtiest, ugliest nigger in Melbourne was hired and dutifully he followed at the "ambassador's" heels as he perambulated the streets. To all and sundry Africanus introduced him gravely, "My secretary, sah."

Everybody in the country was talking about Africanus, while the circulation of the 'Melbourne Punch' went up by leaps and bounds. As the Premier's departure drew near the paper further elaborated the joke. Public meetings were held to support the black "ambassador." A banquet was given him, to which sixty prominent citizens came and Henderson was brought to the hotel worthy of the magnificence and the importance of his mission. Brass bands blared "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and the populace cheered madly as he drove up to the hotel steps.

Kicked Out.

The joke assumed such proportions that the Premier became quite alarmed, and he and many of his supporters really believed that their opponents intended to keep up the joke in London, and thus cover the whole mission with ridicule. A quiet hint, therefore, was given to the shipping company that, if Henderson was given a passage on the vessel in which the Premier and his friends intended to embark, they would not travel.

Africanus was sent to the shipping office to demand passages for himself and his secretary. He was promptly kicked out. This provoked an outburst of simulated fury. Indignation meetings were held to protest against the outrage put upon a Victorian citizen at the instance of the provoked Ministers, and signatures

Why Not Peterborough?

Lindsay exhilerated over the success of its winter carnival, is now arranging for a big, or as the Post says, MONSTER celebration on Victoria Day, May 24th. Why let these little towns get all the glory and the coin, while Peterborough is content with buying railroad tickets to spend her money and have her fun abroad. Why not get the other fellow's cash and save the R.R. tickets?

Local Man Got the Cores.

A few nights ago a local citizen went into a restaurant on George street, operated by a man born far from Peterborough. He ordered baked apples. After concluding his meal he happened to meet a Times representative. To the latter he remarked "I've just had baked apples in there—I got the cores, but some former customer must have got the rest."

Lindsay has received the bad news that Mrs. (Judge) O'Leary had died suddenly at Port Arthur last Sunday.

Miss Margaret Fox of Lindsay, is spending her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, 253 Burnham street, East City.

HIS WATERLOO

Kind Lady:—"Poor fellow, and how did you lose your fortune?"

Tramp:—"I opened a livery stable in Venice."

NOT THE BABY'S FAULT

"How much the baby looks like its father," said the visitor, who meant to be agreeable.

"It's only the warm weather," replied Mrs. Rasper; "the child is usually quite cheerful and handsome."

TRY HYPNOTISM

"Yes," the young medico sighed, "the healing profession is full of difficulties. The other day, for instance, I had a patient who ought to have gone to a warmer climate. Couldn't afford it. I decided to try hypnotism. I painted a large sun on the ceiling, and by suggestion induced him to think it was the sun."

"And how did it work?" inquired the listener.

The doctor passed a hand wearily over his brow. "He's down with sunstroke," he said sadly.

HE KNEW

She:—"It is when a man is in trouble that he realizes the value of a wife."

He:—"Yes, then he can put all his property in his wife's name."

STRICTLY CORRECT

Reporter (to self-made man):—"Is it true, sir, that you started life as a farm-boy?"

Self-made Man:—"No, sir! I started life as a small, red-faced, yelling baby! Good-day."

SCARING THE WOLF

Bertie and Alice were sitting alone together in the moonlight uttering tender nonsense.

"And," said the girl, bravely, "if poverty comes, we will face it together."

"Ah, dearest," he replied, "the mere sight of your face would scare the wolf away!"

And ever since he has been wondering why she returned his ring.

THOUGHTFUL WIFIE

"Jinks would have spent his fortune on himself in a year if it hadn't been for his wife."

"How did she stop him?"

"Spent it on herself."

A MISUNDERSTANDING

"John, did you run round and ask how old Mrs. Jones was this morning, as I asked you?"

"Yes sir, and she said it was like your impudence, but she had no objection to letting you know that she was seventy-eight."

NO NEED TO HURRY

A countryman who had been henpecked all his life was about to die. His wife felt it her duty to offer him such consolation as she might, and said:

"John, you are about to go, but I will follow you."

"I suppose so, Manda," said the old man, weakly; "but so far as I am concerned you don't need to be in a hurry about it."

Grand Concert and Open Meeting.

Court Chemong, I.O.F., will hold an entertainment in the Conservatory Hall on the evening of February 21, (to-night). Address by G. A. Mitchell, D.S.C.R., Supt. of Field Work assisted by Miss Maud Bigwood, soloist; Miss Jillian Dillon, contralto and pianiste; Harvey S. Lloyd, entertainer. Mayor Bradburn will take the chair. The public invited. Admission free.

RANGER, THE WOLVERENE

By Stanley Waterloo

Author of the Story of "Ab, the Night Hawk", etc.

How few there are who know the wolverene! It is a wild animal apart, defiant, wisest among the crafty and, above all, proudest among the proud. Read but the curious story of one of the stern race. This particular wolverene, as befitted his high lineage was born in a castle. The castle was the dead, leaning stub of a buttonwood tree, at least four feet across and had in it a great hollow some ten feet from the ground. There was an entrance to this hollow and at its bottom was a soft bed of all sorts of leaves which had blown in throughout the autumns.

It was warm and rudely homelike in the castle of the wolverenes. In this excellent retreat was born the cub who, for the sake of individuality, may be called Ranger, for a ranger of importance he certainly became.

And the cub flourished and became a brawny though agile creature and then the law of the woods exerted itself. He was forced from the protecting hollow and taught by his resolute parents all the secrets of the chase and ways of his daring, guileful kind. Next came the parting.

Had the mother been a human being she would doubtless have advised her son thus on this occasion:

"Remember, always, who you are! Our blood is bluer than that of 'all the Howards' or the Hapsburgs or of any other living animal.

But who can foretell any sort of future! The Ranger, though strong and brave, was young. Within a month he had invaded a clearing, where he was assailed by two huge dogs, driven in self defense to shelter in the log barn and there finally overcome when beaten into insensibility by the settler and his hired man. A brass dog's collar studded with nails — placed there "to make the beast look civilized," the laughing settler said — was about his neck when he fully recovered consciousness and he found himself in a stout pen of logs.

The settler's buxom wife, always bearing a laughing baby in her arms, fed the prisoner regularly and, strangely enough the child seemed to attract him.

The fondness of the wolverene for the child was a puzzle to them for many weeks, and then they thought no longer! Tearing his way through a rotten log one night, the Ranger made his escape.

He was a gentleman adventurer at large again. He rioted among the rabbits. He found an admirable mate and lived altogether a gallant and daring liege. It was months later when he was somehow, attracted to the clearing again. Could the memory of the child have drawn him?

It was late in the afternoon when the Ranger and his mate glided silently across the clearing and by the house and reached the sheltering bushes between the house and barn. Then, by one of the strangest of strange happenings, they came upon a scene which checked them stiffly in their tracks! Toward a thicket at the side of the yard a child — the child, a little older, of the Ranger's memory — was toddling [illegible] and brought the wolverene to such a sudden halt.

Crouched in the thicket was a great Canada lynx, and its glaring eyes were upon the approaching little one. The child came nearer; the lynx gathered itself for the spring, and then — the Ranger did not himself know why — the wolverene launched himself forward in leap after leap and was upon the savage beast — one heavier and as fierce as he.

There was a bloody grapple, the lynx seeking the Ranger's throat, but the collar and steep spikes withstood it and the Ranger found his enemy's throat in turn. There was a rending of skin and flesh, a jugular vein was torn open and the great lynx weakened suddenly and sank downward, with the wolverene attempting to struggle from underneath.

Summoned by the wild clamor of snarls and growls the settler and his wife came rushing from the house, the man grasping his rifle. It was unraised in an instant and leveled upon the gasping wolverene, when the woman, who had seized the shrieking baby in her arms, cried out in protesting wonderment:

"Don't shoot, John! It's our own wolverene — and he has saved the baby!"

Suddenly revived, the Ranger leaped away, rejoining his alarmed mate, who has fled to the nearest wood. He could not understand nor explain at all to himself the cause of his late action, but he knew that he'd had a fight quite worthy of his kind. Then fast and far he went with his companion.

Such is the story of the Ranger of the Canadian valley. He had ways of his own. What better description could be given of the wolverene than that which a great authority has applied: "The animal is noted for its voracity, ferocity and sagacity." Could any one pay to a splendid race a greater compliment than that!

A New Use for Old Pianos

A Labrador tribe, it is said, made the barrels stolen from a wrecked whaler serve as chimney-tops; the West Indians utilized Timothy Dexter's warming pans for sugar ladles; and the Shans find no worse use for English beer-bottles than to stick them up as household gods to keep away evil spirits. But says a writer the drollest instance of converted usage occurred when that adventurous Frenchman, De Tounaut, while in Patagonia, gave an old chief a worn out grand piano which he had bought for eighty francs. A few days after making this generous present, De Tounaut went one morning to pay an early visit to the Patagonian. He found him sleeping peacefully with his wife inside the piano, from which he had carefully removed sounding board, strings, etc., and which, thus transformed, constituted a not uncomfortable bed.

Are Women Deceptive?

A local citizen who looked on the wine when it was red, or the extract de Gooderham when it was yellow, a few nights ago, told, in the hearing of several, how his wife had "called him down." He told how she sometimes loved and sometimes scolded him. His peroration was the laughter and tears of a woman are equally deceptive. A hack was then telephoned for.

THE CLIMBING ROSE

Points to be Observed in the Cultivation of This Flower

There are climbing roses that will bloom continuously from June until the end of October. But it is just the past score years that have witnessed this remarkable development of climbing roses. Before that, the varieties most common were not at all hardy, their flowers were not nearly so large nor so beautiful as those of to-day. But twenty years ago someone introduced the memorial rose, and about the same time the crimson rambler, a hardy, showy, climbing rose, with flowers in clusters, came over from China and aroused great interest among horticulturists. The question arose whether it could not be combined with the memorial, for the crimson rambler, though strong and bearing beautiful flowers, had nevertheless many defects which were absent in the memorial. The grafting was done and successfully. New hybrids were produced, which combined hardiness, abundance of bloom, rapid growth and grace of form, with great resistance to disease and insects. It was the beginning of a new era in climbing roses. The new roses spread everywhere, and rose-growers were enthusiastic over the results of the experiment. Other combinations were attempted with success, and we have the results to-day in the multiplicity of lovely climbing rose vines that make beautiful so many gardens.

There are three groups of the climbing roses: the multiflora, which bloom early in June only; the prairie roses, heavy in flower and with grey-green foliage, and, most important of all, the memorial group, which flowers all summer and often until the frost has come. Nearly everyone knows one variety of the memorial group, the Dorothy Perkins. It is much like the crimson rambler, save that its flowers are pink: its foliage is thick and glossy, and it is altogether a very desirable variety to cultivate.

In growing climbing roses the secret of success is simply good soil. The earth can hardly be too rich nor the trench too deep. If strong plants are bought at the outset, and they are planted in good soil and well watered, success is almost absolutely certain. The only harm possible might come from insects, but these may be guarded against by judicious spraying.

NOTABLE SENTENCES

Some of the Wisdom of the World in Few Words

The fool and the coward carry no weight when they speak for peace.—Mr. Roosevelt.

Denominationalism is beginning to show signs of senility.—Canon Henson.

No able-bodied man seems to care to walk two miles nowadays.—Judge Roberts.

Englishmen are given to being [illegible]-[illegible]-to pessimistic.—Lord [illegible].

There are people on whom metaphysical sermons inflict a headache.—Rev. A. C. Hill.

"Love at first sight" is merely fitting on to a lay figure one's former ideals and desires.—Dr Slaughter.

At times there are far more effective ways of reaching truth than by pure logic.—Dr. I. K. Funk.

The question of the relation of good food to strong bodies and healthy minds is a very large one.—Lord Guthrie.

The peace movement is passing out of the ecclesiastical circle and taking hold of the civic and national conscience.—Prof. Grieve.

The jerry-built houses of to-day play an unimportant part in the encouragement and dissemination of disease.—Mr. W. H. Collings.

Scotland is so covered with masters of arts that when you want a teacher you can get one round the next corner.—Prof. McGregor.

That many good Samaritans remain outside the churches is perhaps due to the numbers of priests and Levites within.—Rev. E. R. Hayton.

The world is improving, because each generation in its turn deals with and solves the problems which are presented to it.—A. J. Balfour.

London has a special attraction for foolish people; and people who are not foolish at home may become foolish while in London.—E. R. Dibdin.

At the back of men's unjust judgments lie two evil tendencies—a readiness to believe the worst and an eagerness to hear the worst.—Rev. H. J. R. Mackay.

BABYLONIAN SURGEON'S FEES

The French newspapers contain interesting references to the discovery of a Babylonian stone which shows the fees that were paid to surgeons some four thousand centuries ago. The fees, considering the risk, were extremely moderate; and they were fees literally with a vengeance, and not honorariums, in those far-away days. An operation to the neck, we learn, cost about five francs. Setting a broken leg is, we are informed, put down at $3. Dentistry was paid for at a better rate, seeing that the tariff for removing a tooth was $1.25. This seems a very stiff sum relatively, but there is a reverse to this beautiful medal. If the operation turned out badly, and the patient died, then the unfortunate practitioner had both his hands cut off.

London Pensioners

Of the 69,300 odd in receipt of old-age pensions in London, 61,214 receive the full amount of $1.25; 3,675, 91; 2,961, 75c.; 1,412, 50c., and 340, 25c.

The Youngest Member

Only twenty-two years old, Mr. W. A. Redmond, M.P., son of Mr. John Redmond, M.P., is the youngest member of the present Parliament of Great Britain.

Poor Excuse for Intemperance.

Last night a local citizen, given to excessive drinking, was heard to say, "92 per cent. of the drinking in Peterborough is caused by bad cooking in our homes." If that Peterborough man would hand over his wife one half of 92 per cent, that he spends in booze, he would probably get better supplied and better cooked meals. The Lord must hate a hister who tries to cover up his shortcomings like the above.

FOR ASSISTANCE OF EMIGRANTS

British Society That Will Advance Part of Necessary Funds—Matrimonial Bureau

New impetus to emigration from Britain to her overseas dominions has been provided by the Empire Emigration Society, an undertaking organized to assist those who wish to emigrate but are unable to do so for lack of funds. Lord Ridley and Lord Stanhurst are actively interested in this society and act as trustees of its funds. Not the ill nourished and poverty stricken but the able bodied with some savings to their credit are the class of emigrant to whom chances are being offered. Soon after it was established, the Empire Emigration Society had over 1,500 people on its books with $10,000 at their disposal, who were anxious to save the balance in order to win through to hoped for prosperity in Canada, Australia or New Zealand.

The intending emigrants have to open an account with the Society with a minimum deposit of four dollars. Each subsequent payment must not be less than one dollar. As soon as the depositor has paid in half the necessary amount his passage is booked and arrangements made to supply him with employment when he arrives at his destination. Every class of worker is dealt with, and steps are taken to help emigrants to follow their own callings overseas. Typical of the variety of applicants in touch with the Society are four cases the secretary selected at random. A nurse, who desires to go to British Columbia has enough money to pay her passage, but is in need of advice as to the best means of going; a stonemason, who means to emigrate as soon as he can raise sufficient funds and who has paid a first instalment of seven dollars; a widow, who is an expert dressmaker, and hopes to have saved enough by the end of June to go out to Canada; a doctor with some capital who wants to know of a colony where he may practice his profession and at the same time give his two sons a start in farming.

The Duke of Marlborough recently gave a broad hint to the surplus women of England to go to the dominions beyond the seas where men were waiting for wives. Said the Duke: "There are a million more women than men in England, and there are a million more men than there are women in the dominions." So, indirectly, the Empire Emigration Society is playing the part of marriage bureau for Canadian bachelors, and domestic helps all over the country are becoming infected with the travel fever after dreaming of more congenial careers in new lands.

FAMOUS FOLKS

Sir Charles Wyndham practised as a doctor before going on the stage.

The Empress Charlotte [illegible] baths are boating and piano-playing.

Violets have always been the favorite flowers of the ex-Empress Eugenie.

Stamp-collecting is one of the pastimes of Mr. Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate.

Lord Charles Beresford collects ball programmes as a hobby, especially favoring those painted by lady artists.

Mme. Patti possesses an old doll called Henriette, which was given to her when she was seven years old for singing nicely.

Mr. Hall Caine makes a practice of visiting every place he intends to describe in a novel. When engaged on a story he writes on an average 1,500 words a day.

Mr. Louis N. Parker, the dramatist, was born in France, his father was an American, his mother an Englishwoman, his first language was Italian, and he was educated in Germany.

A GROTESQUE OFFERTORY

Mengo Cathedral, in Uganda, which was recently destroyed by lightning, was probably the largest edifice in Central Africa, being capable of containing nearly 5,000 people. It was consecrated about six years ago, and an offertory of grotesquely varied gifts was collected on the occasion. This consisted of 13 cows, four goats, 135 eggs, 130 fowls, 75,000 cowrie shells, and a number of coins. The cows, for lack of room, were not taken inside the Cathedral, but the goats were led up to the altar and presented to the bishop, while the fowls were brought in big bamboo crates.

MELANCHOLY IN FLOWERS

Curious, indeed, the doom assigned to two of the fairest of the spring flowers, for if primroses are forsaken the violet is a nun. Perhaps this atmosphere of gentle melancholy increases the affection inspired by these favorite flowers which seem dearer far to human kind than such rivals as the brilliant marsh marigold and the dangerous aconite.—Black and White.

On the Wrong Side

Of the goals obtained in the three chief English leagues this season, over thirty have been registered by players scoring against their own sides.

Tunes for Motor Horns

"Let's All Go Down the Strang," and other topical melodies, can now be given on motor horns by means of brass cylindrical records.

Wood vs. Iron Ships

A ship built of iron weighs about one-fifth less than a wooden vessel of the same dimensions.

Gum From Starch

The gum used on postage-stamps is made from potato starch.

Students' Fees

Last year the Carnegie Trust paid students' fees amounting to $249,000.

Oddfellows Honor Members.

At the last regular meeting of the Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F., veteran's jewels were presented to Bro. Walter J. Patterson, of Otterville, and Bro. John E. Emmerson, of Peterborough. The presentation was made in the Lodge Room by Grand Secretary Brooks, of Toronto This being his first visit to Peterborough since assuming the office of Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. At the conclusion of the regular business an enjoyable luncheon was provided by the "Daughters of Rebecca."

FUR-TRIMMED COAT

Black velour delaine, the popular new material used so much by importers, was employed in the making of a stunning tailored suit built on lines shown above. The skirt is quite plain; the unusual coat is of waist length only in front, but has quite long tails in back. Braid frogs and cloth-covered buttons trim and black lynx is used for the fur collar and cuffs.

COMBINATION SWEATER

In Two Parts and Can Be Used Also as Scarf or Shawl

A combination scarf, shawl and sweater has been devised by a New

Hooks Hold Parts Together

York woman in that for the price of one garment the owner can have three—if they can all properly be called garments. The article is sleeveless and is of knitted material and in two parts. One part consists of a wide girdle that fits around the waist to a point just below the bust. The other part consists of a portion that extends down the back to meet the top of the girdle and has two flaps that come over the shoulders to meet the girdle in front. Along the upper edge of the girdle and the lower edges of the scarf are strips of other material to which hooks and eyes are sewed so that the whole hooks up together into a single garment. The inside edges of the scarf are equipped likewise to close the latter across the chest, either when it is used as a sweater or a scarf. When used as a shawl it can remain open.

COLORS OF BRIDES' DRESSES

White so Common Now, is of Comparatively Modern Origin.

The majority of brides choose white, when selecting their wedding-dress, because it is the conventional color, and many persons are of the opinion that it has always been favored. As a matter of fact, it is of comparatively modern origin, and in most Eastern countries pink is the bridal colour.

During the Middle Ages and in the Renaissance period brides wore crimson to the exclusion of all other colors. Most of the Plantagenet and Tudor Queens were married in that vivid hue, which is still popular in parts of Brittany, where the bride is usually dressed in crimson brocade.

It was Mary Stuart who first changed the color of the bridal garments. At her marriage with Francis II. of France, in 1558, which took place not before the altar, but before the great doors of Notre Dame, she was gowned in white brocade, with a train of pale blue Persian velvet six yards in length.

This innovation caused a great stir in the fashionable world at that time. It was not, however, until the end of the seventeenth century that pure white—the color worn by Royal widows—became popular for bridal garments.

BUSINESS AT PRINCE RUPERT.

Prince Rupert, British Columbia, the Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is going a pace, and for a young city the business that is now done there is remarkable. In one month 50 steamers called at the port and 31 departed.

TARNISHED BRASS.

To prevent brass from tarnishing clean it in the usual way, and then rub on a little methylated spirit. Next apply some powdered chalk, rubbing it on with a dry rag. This preserves the brass, and makes it look clean and bright.

Robe Worn for Fifty Years.

Toronto Saturday Night notes that the official robe worn by the Warden of Victoria County has been used by successive occupants of that office for 50 years. The robe originally cost $50, so that the ratepayers of Victoria County have paid just $1 a year for official grandeur. Men have come and men have gone, wars have been fought and countries have won and lost territory since that robe was first bought.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD

TALKING BY SUN RAYS

Heliograph, It Is Claimed, Was Operated in a Rude Way by the Red Man Ages Ago.

A recent writer on the subject of talking by sun rays concludes that the civilized world is probably indebted to the North American Indian for the idea of making use of sun rays, reflected from a looking glass, as a means of transmitting messages or signals.

Science has taken the idea, modified and improved upon it, and the now almost perfect means used by all prominent nations to transmit messages by means of a mirror and sun rays are but the outgrowth of the idea of the "untutored savage," who many, many years ago conceived the idea of making the flashes of sun rays from a small piece of glass held in the hand the medium of conveying signals and messages from point to point. Some authorities maintain that the idea came from a period as far back as the time of Alexander, as some histories record the fact that he piloted his fleets by signals made by the rays of the sun reflected from some bright surface.

The Indian with his small piece of shining material could send signal flashes a distance of over twenty-five miles. Today the civilized world, with the idea improved upon, and with fine instruments made for the purpose, is able to transmit long messages over seven times as far. The instrument used is called a heliograph or sun writer.

SENATOR CASGRAIN,
Surveyor and Engineer, Montreal

The heliograph may be described as an instrument by which rays of light are reflected from a highly polished mirror, mounted on a tripod so as to throw the resulting flash on any desired point within the field of vision. The signals are produced by causing the reflected rays to appear and disappear or be obscured, the intervals of appearance and obscuration being varied in length so as to produce the combinations of long and short flashes.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY ON TRAINS.

A phase of human activity which has occupied the attention of many inventors is the devising of a simple system for maintaining wireless telegraphic and telephonic communication with moving trains. Numerous experiments have been made in the United States, Belgium, and Germany, as well as in Britain; but the success hitherto achieved has not been sufficiently convincing to warrant commercial exploitation. An inventor in the Midlands, however, appears to have solved the difficulty, judging from the eminently satisfactory results of tests made. In this invention the method is adopted of encircling a railway carriage with two frames of wires for sending and receiving messages. Along the side of the track is carried a continuous wire, similar to that used for telegraphing purposes, which may be buried or carried on low posts, and which links up with stations and signal-boxes, as well as with the trunk telephone and telegraph systems of the country. In the carriage an ordinary telephonic instrument is installed, and the electric oscillations are transmitted or received by either of the above-mentioned wire frames carried beneath the coach. The system is described as wireless inductive, so that the pulsations produced in the sending wire frame are reproduced by induction in the wire running parallel with the track, and vice versa for inward messages.

Boat in a Suit-Case.

A Parisian inventor has devised a craft for getting over the water, which is still so light and compact that it can be folded up and packed into a box no bigger than an ordinary suit case. The case part unfolds and joins together to form the main framework or hull of the boat, which is of the catamaran order. The two cigar-shaped floats are made of waterproof canvas. When packed up they occupy little space, and when in use they are blown up with a bicycle pump. The framework is fastened between them by means of ribs and straps, and when you have fixed a three-jointed, double-bladed paddle together and put a folding seat in place you are all ready to set out on your marine travels.

Overcrowded Ant-Hills

A marvel of scientific research has been accomplished by Professor Yemg, who has been investigating the interior condition of anthills. By dint of patient observation, Professor Yemg discovered that an anthill two feet in height was inhabited by 93,780 ants. Other anthills of almost the same size were found to contain 67,500 83,000 and 48,000 ants respectively. These observations and the counting of the tiny insects occupied two years.

Passengers Eat Soda Crackers!

A Belleville dispatch, a few days ago referred to a train being stalled at or near Madoc for thirty-six hours The dispatch complained that the passengers were fed only on soda crackers. It was afterwards amended by stating that those passengers in addition to the above light diet, received "every courtesy and consideration from officials of the road." Even this combination steady diet for a hungry man. Still one must take this Belleville report with caution as the railroad in question looks after its patrons carefully. In fact several passengers on the delayed train have written the authorities, thanking them for courtesy received.

Madame, This Advertisement IsAddress ed To You

To you as the purchaser of the home's supplies

To you, whose duty it is to stretch the family income as far as you can To you, who must keep the children neat, the home comfortable, the table well supplied

To you, who wish to keep in touch with the varying demands of a capricious Fashion

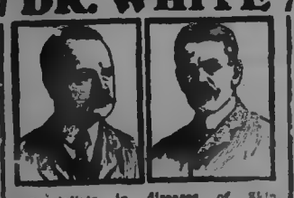
Read carefully "THE TIMES" store advertisements to-day --- and every day

You will find the store ads. among the most interesting and profitable of the days news.

If you are not a Regular Reader of The Times, Phone your Subscription Immediately to Bell 164

You will be better posted, get all the news while it is news and profit thereby

DR. SOPER
DR. WHITE



Specialists in diseases of Skin, Blood, Nerves, Bladder and Special Ailments of men.

One visit advisable; if impossible send history for free opinion and the Question blank and book on diseases of men free. Consultation free. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
35 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK

	Arrive.	Depart.
Lindsay, Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst	11.34 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
North Bay, Sturgeon Falls and Toronto	9.00 p.m.	5.35 p.m.
Port Hope and points east of Montreal and Boston	... 5.30 a.m.	8.30 a.m. 9.05 p.m.
Port Hope, Toronto, London, Detroit, Chicago and west, Niagara Falls, Buffalo	12.10 p.m. 5.30 p.m.	11.40 a.m.
Cobourg, Montreal and East	5.30 p.m.	8.30 a.m.
Toronto, Lindsay	11.34 a.m.	7.10 a.m.
Bloomfield, Trenton & Marlbank	9.00 p.m. 10.15 p.m.	8.25 a.m. 5.55 p.m.
Lindsay Local	8.15 a.m.	9.10 p.m.
Hastings, Campbellford, Madoc, Belleville, Kingston, Montreal and East	8.10 a.m. 8.05 p.m.	8.30 a.m. 1.40 p.m.
Lakefield	8.15 a.m. 5.15 p.m.	7.00 a.m. 12.20 p.m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Going East.	Leave Peterboro'
Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Indian River, Norwood, Havelock, Tweed, Norwood, Havelock, Ottawa, Montreal	11.36 a.m. 7.47 p.m. 12.10 a.m. 1.01 a.m.
Going West.	Leave Peterboro'
Toronto; Galt, London, Detroit, Chicago,	8.36 a.m. 5.51 a.m.
Burleton, Bobcaygeon, Myrtle, Toronto, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Northwest Points	7.47 a.m. 4.30 p.m.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE TIMES REPORTS.

GIRLS WANTED.

Girls wanted at the Canadian General Electric Co. Apply at the office. (D-6-13-12)

To Learn Printing Trade.

We have an opening for a bright young man to learn press work. Apply at Times Business Office.

Help Wanted.

Men and women. Make good money in spare time. No canvassing. Our profitable suggestions contain money-making ideas. Send stamp. WALLACE W. SMITH, LONDON, ONT. (D—3-17-24-m2)

HOUSE TO LET.

That desirable residence at 453 Water street. All modern conveniences. Fronts on Victoria Park. One short block from George street, schools, churches. Immediate possession or could wait a month or two on signing a lease. Apply to C. H. Clementi, 451 Water street.

Lakefield Train Service.

Commencing February 19th, a new train will leave Peterborough at 5.40 p.m., for Lakefield, returning leaves Lakefield 6.30 p.m., arriving in Peterborough at 7.00 p.m.

York Loan Dividend Deferred.

A Toronto dispatch says that the third and final dividend to the York Loan shareholders will probably not be paid for several years, so the liquidators has said.

Teachers Wanted.

Two teachers wanted for School Section No. 2, Anstruther, duties to commence April the 1st. State salaries and qualifications.

WM. TUCKER,
Sec'y-Treas., Apsley.

Lindsay Curlers Win Diamonds.

As local curlers are taking general interest in the big Winnipeg bonspiel, they will be interested to know that the Flavelle rink of Lindsay, won the Black-Girvin diamonds for Patriarchs over 60 years of age.

Died in Toronto.

Word was received yesterday of the death of Mr. Bartlett, brother of Mr. E. H. Bartlett, of the Trent Canal office. The deceased had undergone an operation at the General Hospital in Toronto, from which he did not recover. Further particulars to-morrow.

RED MILL THEATRE

BIG ATTRACTIONS ALL THIS WEEK DON'T MISS IT.

Special Matinee For Ladies and Children every afternoon. Doors open at 1 p.m. till 6 p.m., and 7 till 11 p.m.

All High Class up to date Motion Pictures and Songs

ADMISSION 5C

Watch for the Big Special Friday.

New Keene Dairy.

Notice is given in the Ontario Gazette of the incorporation of the Keene Dairy Company, with a capitotal of $10,000.

The provisional directors are Peter Drummond, Michael David Wallace, Morley Smithson, Herbert Doris and Charles Hunter, all of Otonabee. The head office will be in Keene.

City Post Office Clerks' Salaries.

It will be of interest to our readers to learn that the Dominion Government is considering an Act to arrange for salaries of employes of city post offices. The schedule of pay for such clerks, by the coming act will be: Grade B, on appointment, $500, with annual increases of $100 to $800; Grade A, on appointment, $800, with annual increases of $50 to $1,000. Second-class clerks, Grade B, on appointment, $1,000, with annual increases of $50 to $1,200; Grade A, on appointment, $1,200, with annual increases of $50 to $1,400.

Good Show at the Princess.

That the Princess Theatre is doing a big business was proven yesterday. In spite of the terrible weather that place of amusement had a large audience during both afternoon and evening. Those present yesterday saw a splendid Western drama and also a well told tale of the oil fields. From the moving pictures one gets a more comprehensive idea of the scenery of the continent than a thousand pages of reading matter could tell. Patrons of the Princess are assured of courteous treatment and good films.

A Wedding in the City.

A quietly celebrated wedding was solemnized on Tuesday at the rectory of the Sacred Heart parish. Those united in matrimony were Miss Georgina Laplante and Ira Masters, both residents of Peterborough. Father McCauley tied the nuptial knot. The young couple were attended by Miss Maud Masters, as bridesmaid, and Mr. LaPlante, brother of the bride as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters left on a wedding trip, following which they will reside in Peterborough.

Blacksmiths to Increase Prices.

On and after March 1st, a new schedule of prices will go into force in the blacksmith shops of Peterborough and the surrounding country. The reason of the advance is due to the increased price of material, of living and of higher wages that assistants demand. Advances have been made on all sides, but the rates received for horse shoeing and general work have remained stationary. Coal horse shoes, and general materials have been steadily increasing in price and it is felt that a schedule of higher prices must obtain if the blacksmiths are to make a fair living.

Fire Brigade Have Trouble.

The Peterborough fire laddies had a run yesterday morning to 122 Dunsmuir Road. The house, from which the alarm came is occupied by Mr. William Thompson, and is owned by Mr. C. Brewer. No damage was done to the building. A funny incident was that the hook and ladder waggon was engulfed in a snowbank and the services of a passing team had to be engaged to get it free. Trouble never comes singly. On the way home the runner of the hose waggon broke down. A quick call to the station was sent in and a set of wheels sent out to relieve the situation.

Yesterday's Very Cold Weather.

It was no spring zephyr that wafted through Peterborough yesterday. This was one of those old-time, snow laden blizzards that the older generation loves to tell of. The kind that the elderly man, with white whiskers and frazzled trouser legs loves to tell of. The kind that ancient citizens recalls that blew in 1867 when a party of people drove from Cobourg to this city and were snow bound at a farmer's house on the wayside. If the good book did not describe Genoma as being a place of fire and brimstone, one might say that yesterday's weather was . . . Well! It was cold enough.

Another Bad Case of Rabies.

Once more the dogs! Much anxiety is being felt by the citizens of Barrie, Ont. over a case of rabies which developed at Thornton, a village about 11 miles from that town. Last week a dog went mad in the village. It is known to have bitten a large number of canines and finally attacked Mr. Joseph Sproule, aged 70 years. The head of the animal was sent to Toronto and it was found that the dog had been suffering from a most virulent type of rabies. Mr. Sproule left for Toronto to enter the Pasteur Institute. How about the hundreds of useless curs that are a nuisance and a menace to the safety of Peterborough?

An Oddfellows' Recollection.

The Canadian Order of Oddfellows of Lindsay held a very enjoyable banquet in that town on Monday night. A Times representative, a member of the triple linked fraternity, but of the Independent Order, was yesterday speaking of this banquet to a brother Oddfellow of this city. The latter remarked, "Do I know Lindsay? I guess yes! Do you remember the day the Uniform Degree of Peterborough (now defunct) went to that town and marched to the cemetery about 20 years ago? Say, Mr. Reporter, do you know I sometimes wake up at night trying to spit out some of the Lindsay dust I absorbed that day!"

Local Barrister a Benedict.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Laura Elston, daughter of the late Abraham Elston, was married to Vincent J. Elderry, of the law firm of Peck, Kerr & McElderry, of Peterborough, Ont. was celebrated on Wednesday morning at St. Catharine's Church, Somerville. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. James O'Brien. The bride's sister, Miss Grace, was the maid of honour, Miss Rose McElderry, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, Leon V. Aboraall of New York City was the best man.

The happy couple will be at home after Wednesday, May 1st, at 417 Stewart street, Peterborough, Ontario. Somerville Journal, Somerville Mass.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John W. Mein.

There passed away yesterday afternoon a well known and highly respected citizen in the person of Mr. John W. Mein, at the age of 49 years. The deceased, who was a contractor by occupation, had been in poor health for about three years. He was unmarried, and lived with his mother and sister. The deceased was an esteemed member of the Masonic order and also of Peterborough Lodge Oddfellows. He leaves to mourn his demise his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Mather, Hamilton, and Mrs. McCrea, Peterborough, and two brothers, Robert and William of this city.

The funeral will take place from the family residence 423 Mark street, East City, to-morrow (Friday) afternoon, at 2.30 to the Little Lake cemetery. Services will be conducted at the residence by Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's church.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Well, Campbellford Hockeyists put it over the T.A.S.

The stores selling such goods, reported a big demand for fish to-day.

Rev. Dr. Marsh will lecture in Hamilton to-morrow night before the Scientific Association.

Lord Strathcona is ill in London. Not one of our readers but will be sorry to hear this news.

The local intermediates will play an exhibition game here to-night with the T.A.A.C. seniors.

The Belleville Y.M.C.A.'s new building was opened this week for inspection.

It looks as though the English coal strike had been settled. If there is ever a coal strike in Peterborough it will be on the part of the public.

The Canadian Order of Foresters' concert in the S.O.E. Hall last night was a corker. Full particulars elsewhere in this issue.

Yesterday was Ash Wednesday, one day in the year when the average man suffers indigestion from eating pan cakes on Shrove Tuesday.

Well, Lent has begun! This is the season that many a man mortifies the flesh by fasting. He buys oysters turtle steak, lobsters and such like articles of fasting diet.

The small attendance at the opening meeting of the Local Option campaign augurs badly for the coming vote. Still it is ballots not hot air that settle an election.

On Monday afternoon a horse was drowned in the Scugog River. Any horse falling into that beautiful stream and not having brains enough to climb on a few of the stumps, should drown.

The press of Montreal is kicking over the price of living there. Just let some of those newspaper men (see what the cost of living really is).

The local Chinese kept their New Years' Day very quietly. In the big cities the Chinks spent hundreds of dollars on fire-crackers. Here it must have been soda crackers they bought.

A St. Catherines, Ont., dispatch denies that Lake Ontario is frozen over from Niagara to Toronto. The worst frost about Niagara is that which strikes the pocket book of a newly married man at the Falls.

The Dominion Government has provided for an Act whereby Railway Mail Clerks may be employed for one year without passing the Civil Service exams. Here is a hint for local men looking for Government pap.

These are the days that some girls when talking together say, "I've given up candy for Lent." "So have I" says another. The two then go to Hooper's and buy 60 cents worth of Charlotte Russe, high grade biscuits, etc.

By reports received, it seems that the Rochester Convention of Iron Workers knew of the recent dynamite outrages. What a pity, that men belonging to so honorable a craft should lend their aid to so contemptible an affair.

A Boston dispatch tells a long story of how horses attached to a brewery waggon, loaded with beer, ran away. An accident resulted. Now the driver of a rig loaded with products of the local brewery would stick right with the beer and consequently no such accident could occur here.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Lillian Hill, Union street, is visiting friends in Orillia.

Miss Ella McIntosh of Cobourg, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. R. Fleming, 529 Gilmour street.

Mr. Ernest Smith of Berlin, Germany, arrived in Peterborough and is associated with Mr. Louis Mendel.

Mr. Wilson, of Perth, Ont., organizer of the Independent Order of Foresters was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a friendly call.

Mrs. Frank MaGee, 361 Burnham street, East City, will receive on Friday, Feb. 23, from 4 to 6 p.m., accompanied by Mrs. Edward Grose, and not again this season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bartlett, 216 London street, are in Brampton, where they have been called by the sudden illness and death of Mr. Bartlett's brother, Mr. Russell Bartlett.

Mr. and Mrs. George Forgan Clark came up from Peterborough and were the guests of the Misses Clark at "Glenifer" Lodge, over Sunday, where Mrs. Clark will remain for some time.—Toronto Star.

Mr. H. C. Clendenning, representing Thos. M. Harris wholesale tobacconist, 81 York street, Toronto, was in the city yesterday and was introduced to the Times staff by Mr. James Lewis, the Hunter street tonsorial artist.

Big G For 30 Years the Standard Remedy for

Diseases of Mucous Membranes

Registered pharmacists will tell you Big G is the accepted standard remedy the diseases of mucous membranes, other than those caused by specific poison. Avoid substitutes. 50 cents per bottle, or sent in plain wrapper, postpaid, for 75 cents, or two bottles on receipt of $1.00. Full particulars enclosed with each bottle or mailed sealed in plain envelope on request.

The Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD

THE COMBINATION OF EVENTS.

Most Important Events Transpiring in the Northern Village.

Lakefield, Feb. 20.—Rev. H. A. Ben Olie, conducted the services at All Saints' church, Peterborough, on Sunday.

Miss May Lynn, of Hastings, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. Waldon for a few days last week.

The ratepayers of Douro township will vote on a by-law to authorize the purchase of a stone-crusher.

Mr. Fred Waldon spent a few days at Rice Lake last week visiting his daughter, Mrs. Thos. Clancy.

Mr. B. Christie spent a few days in Midland and Otillia last week.

The services in St. John the Baptist Church on Sunday were conducted by the Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, in the absence of the rector.

Mrs. Wes. Johnson of Peterborough was the guest of Mrs. Thos. Junkin a few days last week.

Miss Traill and Miss Mary Traill are spending a few days in Peterborough this week, visiting friends.

Miss Lauretta Northey was visiting her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northey, in Peterborough this week.

Messrs. B. Dairs and Thos. Isbister were in Norwood on Wednesday attending the opening of the Oddfellows in that place.

Miss Montgomery and Miss Eudora and Ruth Junkin have returned home after spending a few weeks visiting in Lindsay and Bobcaygeon.

Messrs. J. Mahood, A. Northey and J. Northey returned last week from Campers' Lake, where they had been engaged in building a large slide for the Government. The slide will be used in lumbering operations.

Miss Ethel Watson is at present in Peterborough visiting friends.

Mr. Walter Bate spent a few days in Toronto this week on business.

Rev. Canon Morley, of Toronto, was the guest of Rev. H. A. Ben Oliel on Tuesday.

Miss Bertha White entertained a number of her friends to a Valentine party on Wednesday evening. A bus load drove up from Peterborough and all present spent a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stewart and children who have been residing in the village during the past three years, left last week for Toronto. Mr. Stewart has received the appointment of private secretary to speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

APSLEY.

Mrs. B. F. Coons was visiting friends in Harcourt last week, and returned home Sunday evening, and reports having a good time.

Mr. Jas. McIlvena went down to the city Saturday on business, and intends visiting friends in Warsaw on his way home.

Mr. D. Brown, our genial postmaster, also went down to the city on Saturday, accompanied by Bert McIlmoyle.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Monday at the residence of Mr. W. Gallon. The contracting parties were Mr. John Pattison, of Wallaston, and Mrs. S. Finch, of Michigan. Rev. Mr. Prosser officiated.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Geo. A. Bullied, is recovering from his late illness and is able to be around again.

Miss Myrtle Hales has returned from her visit to friends at Coe Hill and Trenton.

Mr. Robt. Weir, of Otonabee, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Apsley.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive Cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires as constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Enormous Traffic

People to the number of 36,786, on foot or in vehicles, crossed Black Friars, London, and Tower Bridges into the city between 8.30 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. when a "rehearsal" census was taken recently.

Record Crowd at Cricket

The record attendance for any cricket match is 95,000, the number present at The England v. Australia Test Match of March, 1895.

MILES OF OFFENDERS

If all the people convicted last year of offences, great and small, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, were placed side by side, they would form a rank more than 300 miles long, or from London to some distance beyond Paris.

Of these the people guilty of really serious crimes—indictable offences—are nearly one-tenth, and they would cover thirty miles.

There would be seven miles of men and women who committed assaults, eleven miles of beggars, thirty-three miles of thieves and robbers, forty-three miles of drunkards.

The offenders sent to prison would extend to eighty-three miles, and those sentenced to pay a fine would form a rank about two hundred and thirty miles long.

Warren as Sexton

A woman has been appointed as sexton of Crowland Abbey, the office having been held by the family to which she belongs since 1792.

PORCUPINE OUTPUT THIS YEAR WILL RUN INTO MILLIONS

Says Toronto Sunday World, February 18th, 1912.

PORCUPINE - FORCUNA GOLD MINES, LIMITED.

Incorporated under Ontario Companies Act.

CAPITAL $2,000,000. SHARES PAR VALUE $1.00 EACH, FULLY PAID AND NON-ASSESSABLE. TREASURY SHARES, 1,000,000.

The Company owns 8 valuable Mining Claims (310 acres), free and clear of debt. These claims are located in Tisdale, Delora and Shaw Townships, and are known as the Reany, Mapes and James Claims. The development work done on each group of these claims has been most satisfactory and warrants the belief that further development will prove them to be very valuable mining properties. In fact, the Tisdale and Delora Claims have been proven by neighboring properties, while the James Claims in Shaw have one of the widest sulphide veins in that Township.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY.

PRESIDENT: William T. Lyon (President Guardian Trust Co., Pittsburg, Pa.)
VICE-PRESIDENT: Alex. Gillies (Mine Owner, Cobalt, and Porcupine).
SECRETARY AND TREASURER: G. Heagen (of Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

SOLICITORS.

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan.

DIRECTORS.

Alex. Moore (Vice-President, First National Bank, Philipi, W. Va.)
William T. Lyon, Alex. Gillies.
David Reany (Mine Owner, Haileybury, Ont.)
F. L. Mapes (Mine Owner, Buffalo, N.Y., and Haileybury, Ont.)

REGISTRAR, S, TRANSFER AGENTS AND DEPOSITORY.

TRUSTS & GUARANTEE CO., LTD. TORONTO, ONT.

All certificates are registered and countersigned and transferred by Trusts & Guarantee Co. Ltd.

James F. Gallagher & Company made the first offering of the stock of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, through twenty of the leading newspapers in Ontario and the western part of New York State, the first "ads." appearing four days before opening the subscription books for the sale of this stock at 15c per share, and if the sales and reservations received by telephone, telegraph and letters the first two days are any criterion of the sales for the balance of the week, the first offering will be over-subscribed.

We offer the first 100,000 shares of Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, at the extremely low price of 15c per share.

15c--100,000 SHARES at 15c PER SHARE—15c

Considering the capitalization and the fairness of the Directors in placing one-half the capital in the Treasury to be sold for the development of the properties and building mills, and the value of the 8 claims owned by the Company, we believe this stock the best value, at 15c per share, ever offered the public in Porcupine company. That being true, is it not also true that the second 100,000 shares at 20c per share are equally as good a purchase, as the Company will have sufficient funds in its Treasury to continue developing its valuable properties? Get your orders in at once, at 15c per share, and if the first allotment is sold before we receive them, we will give you the option of having your orders filled at 20c per share. Our subscription books close promptly at noon Saturday, February 24, 1912. Make all cheques or money orders payable to

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

SUITES 8 and 9, 24 KING STREET WEST.

Telephone Main 8667. 24 TORONTO, ONTARIO.

HOW IT HAPPENED

"Cook has only broken one plate to-day."

"Hooray! How did it happen?"

"It was the last one in the house."

SPENT HIS FORTUNE

"Jinks would have spent his fortune on himself in a year if it hadn't been for his wife."

"How did she stop him?"

"Spent it on herself."

PAINT THE BARN

It Adds Substantially to the Value of the Farm

The prosperity of the farmer is generally reflected in his farm buildings. These can and should be attractive to the eye. It must be confessed, however, that in most cases barns and outbuildings are a blot on the landscape says The Central Citizen. This is not as it should be. Paint would right matters. Farm buildings nearly painted are a source of pride to their owner. And this extra touch adds substantially to the value of the farm. All agree that buildings look much better when painted. The question we want answered is "Does it pay?" Let us look at it in this way: Consider two communities in close proximity to each other. They are equal in every respect save that in one community the buildings are all painted, while in the other they are not. Farms in the former instance will invariably command more money. Prospective buyers cannot but be attracted to such a section. The business man knows the value of attractive surroundings.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

COLONIST RATES

From PETERBORO MARCH 1st to APRIL 15th.

Vancouver, B.C.
Victoria, B.C.
Seattle, Wash.
Spokane, Wash.
Portland, Ore.
Nelson, B.C. $42.60

Los Angeles, Cal.
San Diego, Cal.
San Francisco, Cal. $45.20

Proportionate rates from other points in Ontario.

SETTLERS TRAINS

—to—

WESTERN CANADA

Will Leave TORONTO
10.30 p.m. EACH TUESDAY.
During MARCH and APRIL.

W. McILROY, - - - Agent

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Maude S.: A "made" complexion never looks real, and if you continue using cosmetics the skin will grow rough and unsightly. Try spurmax lotion and I'm sure you will be delighted with results. Stir two teaspoonfuls glycerine in one-half pint hot water, then add four ounces of spurmax. When cool apply sparingly to face, neck and arms and rub lightly until it dries. The spurmax lotion is soothing and healing, and cleanses the skin of all impurities and banishes the oily, sallow look. Use this lotion and you will have a complexion rivalling any made by artificial means.

Mrs. Geo.: It is dangerous to disregard the laws of nature, and unless you employ a system-tonic you may have a run of sickness. I would suggest making up the following old-time blood-cleanser and taking a tablespoonful three times daily: In a half-pint alcohol dissolve one half cupful sugar, then add one ounce kardene and hot water to make a quart. This tonic will expel impurities from the body, repair waste tissues and restore lost appetite as well as give you renewed strength and vigor.

M.O.: The only quick and sure way to remove fuzz from the cheek is to apply delatone paste. Let it remain two or three minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. Only in rare instances is it necessary to use the second application. Delatone costs a dollar for an original ounce-package, but it is worth it to rid the skin of superfluous hair.

Mrs. O.: Glasses at your age, I presume, are quite necessary. However, if you will get an ounce of orystos and dissolve it in a pint of cold water and put two or three drops in each eye every day, you can overcome the soreness and redness. Keep up this simple treatment and before long your eyes will take on a youthful sparkle and brilliancy and you will no longer be troubled with weak eyes.

Hope: Don't wreck your nervous system by dieting, because by taking ordinary parnotis, found in all drug stores, you can reduce your weight to where you want it and not suffer any inconveniences or ill-after-effects. Four ounces parnotis should be dissolved in a pint-and-a-half hot water and when it cools, take a tablespoonful before each meal. This parnotis treatment you will find reduces weight rapidly without leaving the skin flabby or wrinkled or marring the forms symmetrical lines.

Miss X.: No, canthrox will not injure the most sensitive scalp. It contains no free alkali and makes a white, clear, fluffy mass, and heals a tender scalp. Ribsfac removes every bit of dust, dandruff and excess oil, and promotes a healthy condition. After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries quickly, evenly and is soft and glossy. Any druggist can supply canthrox in an original package, and a teaspoonful dissolved in hot water is ample for a first-class shampoo.

Rose B.: (1) I never advise using powders or cosmetics because of their tendency to clog the skin's pores and cause roughness of the skin, pimples, blackheads and other complexion upsets. (2) You will find a plain almozoin cream-jelly splendid for reducing large pores and cleansing the skin of impurities as well as imparting a delightful softness and freshness to any complexion. To make this greaseless cream-jelly, stir two teaspoonfuls glycerine in half-pint cold water, then add one ounce almozoin. Let stand several hours before using, then apply generously and massage in well. No matter how unlovely the complexion may be this simple almozoin cream-jelly will make it radiantly beautiful.

Anxious: Baldness among women is nothing short of a calamity, and really suggests carelessness or indifference in care of the hair. You can restore the natural color and silkiness to your hair and make it grow thick and beautiful, if you make and use this simple tonic: Into a half-pint of alcohol pour half-pint water, then add one ounce of quinzoin. Frequently massaging a little of this at a time into the scalp overcomes dandruff and itchiness, and so invigorates the hair follicles that an abundance of fine glossy hair results.

Read Mrs. Martyn's book, "Beauty" $5.—Adv.

A FAIR OFFER

It was a political meeting on the eve during the last [illegible] and the M.P., an exceptionally popular [illegible] was addressing his constituents. The politician in question [illegible] a luxuriant crop of hair. The audience was sympathetic for the most part, but there was [illegible] in the front row of the audience who made numerous interruptions. He was a red-haired man, apparently, and had just recently been [illegible].

Get your hair cut!" he shouted during a most pathetic passage in the candidate's speech. The well-known catch phrase seemed particularly applicable, so a good many of the audience laughed.

But the M.P. was equal to the occasion.

"I will make a bargain with the gentleman, he said. "I will get my hair cut if he will get his face washed."

There were no more interruptions.

"What's the matter, Wodkins?"

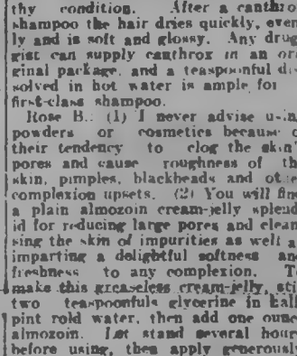
"Matter enough. I owed some time ago I mortgaged my property to my wife to keep it out of the hands of some of people I owe money, you know."

"Yes."

"Well, she's taken the money and gone off — says she won't live with me because I swindled my creditors."

Advertise In The Times

The Calgary Eye Opener, a bright sheet, but debarred from the mails, roasts the real estate dealers of his own city over the way they have done up the public. One need not go as far as Calgary to find men in that business who will sacrifice their clients interest to gain the coming percentage.



- J. W. EDWARDS -

The Leading Butcher.

Only young steers and heifers purchased. We guarantee our meat. Prompt delivery. Call at 421 George Street, or phone No. 1282.